FOIA 2008-088

This letter responds to your Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA") request received by the Federal Communications Commission (the "FCC" or "Commission") and assigned to the Consumer & Governmental Affairs Bureau ("CGB") and the Enforcement Bureau (EB) by the Commission's FOIA Office on November 29, 2007. Your request seeks any and all records identifiable as complaints regarding the television program "The Simpsons" contained in one CGB and one EB data base named in your request.

Sharon Jenkins contacted you on December 6, 2007, to discuss your request. She informed you that we could provide only informal complaints received at the Commission from January 2003 to the present and that the fee to process your FOIA request could exceed the $30.00 maximum fee indicated in your request. As a result of this discussion, you agreed to increase your maximum fee amount from $30.00 to $60.00 for the legitimate search and duplication costs associated with the processing of the FOIA request. Ms. Jenkins further informed you that consultation about your request was underway among divisions of the Commission and that the FCC would extend the time period for responding for an additional 10 working days as permitted by the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. § 552(6)(B)(iii)(III), and Section 0.461(g)(3) of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.461(g)(3).

Sharon Jenkins subsequently contacted you on December 27, 2007, to inform you that fees for EB's search time to identify complaints could exceed the $60.00 maximum fee limit, and might not produce any complaints that would be substantially different from CGB's complaints. In response, you narrowed the scope of your request by eliminating EB from the request as of December 27, 2007. Specifically, you requested that EB stop its search and provide any documents already identified. You agreed to receive and review the documents that we are enclosing with this response and submit a separate FOIA request at a later date if there is any additional information you wish to obtain from EB.

As Ms. Jenkins advised you, CGB and EB have coordinated to provide a response to your request. CGB conducted a search of the database in which we maintain the records of informal complaints filed by, or on behalf of, consumers. The complaints identified by our search that are responsive to your request are enclosed. EB has informed CGB that a search of its records conducted up to December 27, 2007, revealed seven responsive complaints, which are also enclosed.

All personal, identifying information relating to the individuals who submitted or are named in the complaints has been redacted pursuant to FOIA Exemption 6, 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6), and Section 0.457(f) of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.457(f). A release of this information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy under the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. § 552a(b). In addition, certain FCC employee names have been redacted pursuant to FOIA Exemption 2, 5 U.S.C. § 552 (b)(2), and Section 0.457(b) of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.457(b).

Please be advised that the Commission receives many complaints and comments that do not involve violations of the Communications Act or any FCC rule or order. Thus, the existence of a complaint filed against a particular company does not necessarily indicate wrongdoing by the company.

We are required by the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(A)(i), and Section 0.470 of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.470, to charge FOIA requesters certain fees, depending on the classification of requesters into one of three categories as defined in Section 0.466 of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.466. The categories are: (1) commercial use requesters; (2) educational and noncommercial scientific institution requesters and requesters who are representatives of the news media; and (3) all other requesters. Your request was categorized as "all other requester" by the FCC's FOIA Office. Section 0.470(a)(3) of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.470(a)(3), provides that all other requesters are not charged for the first two hours of search time and the first 100 pages of reproduction. Because your request falls within these guidelines, there are no charges associated with processing it.

If you consider this response to be a denial of your FOIA request, you may file an application for review with the Commission's Office of General Counsel within 30 days, in accordance with Section 0.461(j) of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.461(j).

Sincerely,

Complaint Summary:

My husband and I could not believe the Simpsons were showing two men kissing at 6.30pm. We do not feel this is appropriate for children to see. Lately we have had to change the channel often on our TV due to something in appropriate on. We should not have to do that especially during the day. If something in appropriate is on at 9 or 10pm I can at least say well my kids should be in bed. Or if its on cable that is different too. Well we would appreciate it if you could take this into consideration and help make TV safe for all children. Thank you so much.

Complaint Summary:

The trailer for this movie - which aired during The Simpsons - features women screaming in agony while power tools buzz and male tormentors laugh. At the end, one of the torturers is about to pull the black hood from the head of a human figure whimpering in misery, while the announcer promises the "most shocking" ending in movie history. The radio commercial, which I heard yesterday on an Atlanta station, is the audio version of same.; Where is the FCC? How on earth can commercials like this be allowed on BROADCAST media?; I can't believe producers can use OUR public airwaves to make a fortune off this smut.; STOP THEM, PLEASE.

Complaint Summary:

During the annual Simpson Halloween Episode, there was a scene where 4 simpson characters, Bart and Lisa Simpson, Nelson, and Millhouse are playing Halloween tricks. One of these "Tricks" was to blow up the hotel where a major political event was taking place "Republican National Convention". I have accepted that this show will take pot shots at the President on occasion however I believe that this crosses the line. The image of the hotel crashing was a mirror image of the Trade Centers from 9/11.; Thank you for looking into this matter.; [REDACTED]

Homer was asking Marge, his wife, why they took in this really annoying older mooch named Gil. She responded nicely saying, "Christian charity, I guess."; And Homer whined and yelled back, "What does a porn star have to do with anything?!?!?"; Extremely offensive to Christians, disgusting actually, combining the two complete opposite worlds in one sentence. I am appalled by that show anyway, but now I'm even more anti-Simpsons.

Complaint Summary:

FOX has gotten to where they show those animated shows like Family Guy and The Simpsons. They think that parents are not listening to these programs just because they are animated. They are not the old time cartoons and I don't like the language...it is really disgusting. These programs show disrespect to parents from their children, so in turn, my child tries to disrespect me. There are others that I just don't know the names of right now. I try to put on parental restrictions, but it doesn't always work. I would like to see these shows either changed up to show respect to parents and cut the filthy language or just taken off the air totally. My child hears enough foul language at school and outside of home, he doesn't need to hear it from TV, radio, etc. too!!!!!!

This is only one instance of many. Bart Simpson uses sexual innuendos and similarly degrading talk throughout his 'skits' to further destroy what's left of our American culture! I'm sure you realize that our culture is what we use to pass on our values and traditions and heritage, all of which literally keep us going - surviving! You I contend are letting us down by allowing this precious culture to be degraded and destroyed. Please do your job or we all will suffer. Thank you!

Although I do enjoy raunchy humor on occasions, I was somewhat taken aback by the topic discussed on The Simpson's television show last night. Homer was discussing "masturbation." ; I didn't think this was a subject for a cartoon character. I would have expected to hear this on a nighttime, adult theme television series or on a talk show, but not as a general discussion for a cartoon character. ; I enjoy watching the Simpson's. I find it is very funny. As I am typing, I'm beginning to realize that just because it is presented as a cartoon does not lessen the importance of the message or the impact it may have on those listening. ; It is adult entertainment where topics involving our everyday lives are played out in a satirical view point to minimize, maximize, or simply bring to the forefront issues which are not always addressed in a open, non-hostile manner. Just a thought. Maybe it isn't really a "cartoon" after all.

I am an adult age 50+ and have an open mind but anyone watching the Simpsons show about brothers Cain and Abel showing an reenactment of one brother killing the other brother on TV with knives, Blood and violent language appaled me. It seems that Hollywood has a very strong lobby and the code system they set up is just window dressing. I am sad to say that America is showing major violence, obscene language and BJ sex acts to kids and adults before 9:00 in all US markets. Once I saw the Simpsons episode I started to look at other examples of such indecent acts - On 12/19/06 a female body part was described on 2 and a half men at 8:00 cst (CBS channel 11). Tonight 12/20/06 I turn on the Sundance channel at 6:30 cst and a young male college student is getting a BJ. The excuse is we have parental controls - well there are no kids in my house and I am appaled. Your agency needs to take the bull by the horns and get rid of this type of entertainment before 10:00 pm - otherwise we will continue to see violent acts on kids and women. First amendment free speech on Sex and Profanity can be broadcast after 10:00 to adults not to kids. In most cases we need to protect the kids from the adults that are to lazy to set up a parental control programs - so who do we turn to when these kids get pregent and kill 14 kids in school. Ameriaca makes it to easy to see such trash. Do something - or get out of the job -

 ██████████ Federal Communications Commission; 445 12th St, S.W.; Complaints and Political Programming Branch; Enforcement Division, Mass Media Bureau; Washington, DC 20554; This is a formal COMPLAINT of indecency on broadcast television. My complaint concerns the PROGRAM ON:; Network: FOX;
 Program Name: The Simpsons; Broadcast Date: 09-05-2006; Broadcast Time: 6:30pm ET; My Affiliate: WOFL;
 Description of Indecency:; My family and I tuned into, The Simpsons, television show on this Tuesday afternoon, ;
 (09-05-2006) at 6:30 P.M. and found in our opinions that this show really should be rated for a mature audience only. Mainly due to the graphic violence and the proposal of drug usage within the cartoon. More than one person and even the animals were being stabbed in the heart accompanied with "blood showers", deaths, cruel and unusual violence. Also, the character, Crusty the Clown" was imitating smoking out of a drug pipe, telling the kid characters,
 "these moon-rocks" is the only thing that makes me feel normal." Etc...; COMPLAINANT RESPECTFULLY
 REQUESTS THAT THE FCC ACKNOWLEDGE RECEIPT OF THIS COMPLAINT, AND THAT THE FCC KEEP ME INFORMED OF THE PROGRESS AND RESULTS OF YOUR INVESTIGATION INTO THIS MATTER.; Sincerely,;

This is a complaint regarding a claim of False Advertising on the part of the FOX television network. In ads that have been airing for the past 30-60 days they have been advertising a preview of the upcoming "Simpsons" movie during there 2006-2007 season premier of "the Simpsons" television show, to be aired on November 5th, 2006. During the broadcast they placed a commercial stating the the World Premier of the trailer for the "Simpsons" movie would air the following week, November 12th, 2006, during that episode of "Simpsons". This is false advertising on their part. They led viewers to believe that during the season premier that there was going to be a preview of the movie stated above. They did not, nor did they intend to, they simply advertised it to get viewers to watch the episode. I hope that I am not the only one taking the time to file this complaint because this is not a business practice that should be allowed. your agency MUST take action to stop companies from doing this.

In this episode, the students of Springfield Elementary School have revolted against the teachers and administrators, taking 'control' of the school. The students eventually catch Principal Skinner in the gym. As they begin to overtake and subdue Principal Skinner, one of the students empties out a large brown-colored drawstring bag that is filled with various sports balls (soccerballs/basketballs/volleyballs etc). Mr Skinner is then placed inside the empty sack and the drawstring was pulled snug around his neck, leaving only his neck and head outside of the bag. My concern, and the basis for this complaint, is in the manner of how the image of Principal Skinner was depicted after he had been placed into this bag and the drawstring pulled. The image of the large drawstring bag very clearly, and undeniably, resembled a non-circumcised penis (flaccid state). Mr Skinner's height was the reason for the length of the brown sack, depicted the 'shaft' and where the sack tapered from Mr Skinner's shoulders up to his neck where the drawstring had been pulled into a 'pucker' depicted the foreskin.; Principal Skinner appears in this depiction several more times during the episode.; Toward the end of the episode, Principal Skinner has managed to hop around while still inside this sack and escape from the gym. Alone in the schoolyard, he encounters a squirrel who just happened to be holding a knife or scissors (some type of cutting device). Principal Skinner, still inside of a sack drawn to resemble an intact penis, then said to the squirrel: "Mr. Nibbles, would you please come here and cut my ball sack."; The secondary intention of Principal Skinner's statement should be obvious, but since description is key to an effective complaint, I will briefly elaborate.... ; -Principal Skinner's use of the word 'cut' was an inferred reference to the procedure of circumcision, whereas a circumcised penis is commonly referred to as being 'cut' and a non-circumcised penis is commonly referred to as being 'uncut'.; -Principal Skinner's use of the term "ball sack" would have been a 'double entendre' intended to refer to the male anatomical part of 'scrotum', which is commonly referred to as "ball sac".; I believe the above described content from "The Simpsons" that was broadcast on June 02, 2006, from 7:30pm to 8:00pm, on KBVU channel 29 (Eureka, CA) was indecent. I hope I have provided sufficient information to assist you in reviewing this complaint. I look forward to your response.

Dear sir or madam:

I'm sure you are incorrect in blocking 'The Simpsons' at 6:00pm. On Channel 44 KBHK weekdays in the Monterey Bay area when Channel 35 KCBA is showing sports. I'll bet you've just permanently blocked the 6:00pm slot because usually Channel 35 is showing 'The Simpsons.' I believe your staff is derelict in keeping tabs on when there is non-competitive programming.

I would like you to forward me the FCC regulations that require you to block your programming even when sports is shown during the usual cartoon 1/2 hour. I'd also like you to send me an official complaint form to be sent to the FCC.

Please have your staff research this problem in programming. Please do not block the KBHK Channel 44 signal of 'The Simpsons' when there are no competing episodes on Channel 35 KCBA due to sports programming.

Sincerely,

Sir:

I would like to voice my objections to the September 30th (7:00 pm CST) broadcast of "The Simpsons", in which a female character does the following:

- * The character dis-robes (no frontal nudity) in a very suggestive manner
- * The character is wearing a scanty chains and leather outfit, and is being led around like a dog by a male character.

While The Simpsons have always pushed the boundaries of good taste, I feel that they went over the line with this episode. I will no longer allow my children, aged 12 and 14, to watch the program. Please take a look at the program to gain your own opinion. If you're in concurance with me, please take the appropriate action to limit this type of content on the public airwaves.

Thank you,

Dear Mr. Powell,

I feel that the simpson TV show has gone over its restricted limit when they had showed a series filmed on Simpson gone wild. I don't know if you had a daughter or perhaps know someone who do, but the show does overdo itself when it displays numerous unintelligent remarks about anything. Perhaps by talking to the host of the show, you may reduce its content or limit its unintelligent remarks about other cultural. I thought the United States was supposed to show patriotism or kindness to other countries, in order to gain a respect in our global community. I don't know if you ever served in the military or not, but people who served the military fought war and died to preserve the country dignity. By showing disrespect to other cultures, perhaps it would be better for the country. As a citizen of the country, I ask you to address the issue to the host. Thank you!

Re: Appalling Simpson's episode
Sunday November 14, 2004 at 8:00pm

Can this "comic" really be left to run, unchecked, reaching an audience at 8:00 pm on a Sunday night, and no one notices the ridiculous and violent episode? There are CHILDREN watching this show, impressionable CHILDREN. Many without an adult. And really, what adult could shield their child against the sudden and gratuitous violence that pops up at the very end of the show?

Marge decided to give up the competition after Maggie helps her to see she is wrong to cheat in the contest. The victory goes to the default competitor, and she leaves her hill billy husband for a movie star, James Con I think they said. The hill billy friends (about 10) of the husband ambush the two as they run out of town at a toll booth, shooting James Con with machine guns. After he fall out of the car, bullet holes in his back and blood running out all over, one of the hill billies comes up and kicks the dying man in the head.

I was totally shocked. What is this? How can we as with any shred of decency allow this to be sprung on anyone, let alone children?

I highly protest this program! It is rude, violent and extremely damaging to our children.

And people wonder WHY we have situations like Columbine. Time to wake up and be responsible adults, people.

I have a complaint about the Simpsons' episodes that were on TV last night (2/20/04).

My complaint is NOT regarding the same-sex marriage episode...which for reasons I can't understand had the 'parent's watch out warning' at the beginning of it. I realize that was probably for religious reasons.

My complaint is regarding the end of the following episode which did not have the warning before it. At the end of that episode a man was shot to death by armed gunmen...and didn't die. After he was shot he still was able to talk.

Personally I feel it is more important for children to learn that when you shoot someone they DO DIE....rather than trying to protect everybody for gay-marriage which isn't going to kill anybody.

I live in Denver....I guess the Columbine tragedy is what's gotten me upset.

Personally I'd be more comfortable with my children watching the same-sex marriage episode where they might be confused about marriage and sex rather than them learning that when you shoot somebody they don't die....and having them instead be confused about what happens when you shoot somebody with a gun.

Hi!

Earlier tonight, I saw an episode of "The Simpsons" on Fox dealing with gay marriage. I want to state, plainly and firmly, that I did NOT consider it obscene in any form or fasion. In fact, I was more offended by the fact they had to have a disclaimer at the beginning of the program than the program itself. Please consider this with respect to this program.

Thanks,

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing to file a complaint in re to: the Sunday, February 20th, 2005 episode of "The Simpsons" as aired on FOX affiliates. My complaint is not in regards to the content of the episode, but rather the advisory that ran before it.

The Simpsons has had multiple episodes in which heavy emphasis was put on murder, prostitution, infidelity, pre-marital sex, kidnapping, suicide, and a vast array of other actions either considered by the majority to be sinful or which are outright illegal in all fifty united states. In the nearly two-decade run of the show, nearly every taboo has been broken, every ethnic group insulted, every scatological joke made. For years it was a running gag for the character Hans Moleman to die in horrible ways. One episode had Homer being traumatized as a child by finding a decayed, radiation-poisoned corpse lodged in a drainpipe. Both Homer and Marge have almost had affairs, on multiple occasions, and Apu the Kwik-E-Mart clerk did have an affair, after siring eight children with his wife. Bart's antics are progressively violent.

Yet no episode has aired an advisory beforehand.

The Simpsons has always been a show for slamming cultural norms and mocking what is considered sacred. It is a show that thrives on shock value; one need look no further than the annual Halloween episodes to see this. Each Halloween special is more brutal than the last, featuring horror-movie grade methods of death, including decapitation, scalping, ripping someone's still-beating heart out with a corkscrew, shotgunning, bludgeoning, being thrown into the blades of a giant blender and shredded, people having their skin flayed off and their muscle tissue exposed...

Yet no episode has aired an advisory beforehand.

Tonight, that changed. Tonight, FOX bent over and showed itself for the coward that it is. The Simpsons has brought it nearly an infinite amount of marketing opportunities and a seemingly unlimited cashflow. It's the longest running show in how many categories? Sitcom? Animated show? But still, FOX bent to the will of the so-called "moral majority" and felt it necessary to insult my intelligence, along with the intelligence of all the other long-time-viewers, but telling us how "mature" the upcoming episode was, and how it condoned same-sex-marriage. As if half the people watching the show give a damn? As I've already stated, and as I'm sure you all know already, the Simpsons has had far, far worse. But same-sex marriage is apparently so horrible, so evil, so vile, so much worse than murder, prostitution, adultery, robbery, and the bloodbaths that are the Halloween specials, that a parental advisory has to be run beforehand.

The furor over the Janet Jackson boob incident was bad enough; but apparently now in this age of the religious reign, we must all be treated like children and have once beloved shows have their edge diluted with warnings and disclaimers in order to protect the easily offended and outraged.

I watched the last few minites of the Simpsons on Feb. 20, 2005. It showed Homer marring two Lesbians on prime time. This has gone far enough! The show desensitises the concept of homosexuality that the Bible says is an abomination. Children are watching this, and if one is on the verge of being gay, it is saying it is OK. You better monitter what is being broadcast better than this. They could not have gotten away with this 10 years ago.

Hello

I am very concerned about the upcoming episode of "The Simpsons" scheduled for February 20, 2005 at 8 pm. It is regarding same sex marriage/relationships and I and my family strongly feel that this is an obscene subject that should not be aired on television at ANY time, much less at 8 pm on a show that children are drawn to.

Please do what you can to shut this down. Thank you!

Problem Description

[REDACTED] on 2/18/2005 10:49:50 PM :

Dear Members of the FCC:

I wrote the below letter to FOX-TV complaining about the upcoming broadcast of The Simpson's TV show this Sunday at 8PM. I hope you will consider it's content.

To Whom It May Concern:

I do my best to monitor and guide what my 8- and 11-year-olds see on TV. I do manage to filter out a good portion of things that I do not want my children to learn from the media. Obviously in today's world, that is a difficult thing to do, considering the number of channels available and the type of material that is available at all hours of the day.

I am no homophobe, but I am a parent. I cannot believe that the writers, producers and network executives have decided to air the episode about homosexuals getting married on Sunday at 8PM! (A time when most children are awake and watching TV!) And my children saw the promo for this show at 8:50PM on a Friday night. My eight-year-old asked, "Mommy, why are those two men kissing?" I HAVE HAD IT! I may be able to control them not watching the actual show, but I can't predict when these commercials are going to air.

True, I can turn the TV off during any show I find objectionable, or choose to watch a show more geared toward children. But you know what? I am so sick and tired of the media telling my kids that it is great to be gay. If one of my kids grows up and discovers that they are homosexual, that is one thing. They will be adults who know their feelings and preferences. But to constantly offer homosexuality to children as an "option" or a "choice" really makes me angry; I certainly do not need either a homosexual writer/TV producer/TV executive encouraging homosexuality as a "cool" way to be. I am not asking you to say that the lifestyle is wrong, but please, during the hours of family TV viewing, can you not encourage it -- or any sexual activity -- either? Children do not need to learn how to be gay or how to have sex from TV, period. They will eventually discover their sexuality on their own, and will learn about sex and values from their parents.

If you had this show on after the hours of normal family viewing, I would object a bit less. But then my concern would be that it will end up in re-runs, typically airing at an even EARLIER time than 8PM.

You do not have the right to teach my children about sex. It is my choice what and when they will learn about sex. And I resent the Hollywood community for constantly bringing sexual topics into my household during family viewing hours, forcing me to have conversations with my children that, frankly, I do not think they are yet ready for. Can't we let children -- particularly children under 13 -- remain as children?

I plan on boycotting any advertiser I see running commercials during this show. I am not protesting homosexuality, but I am protesting against FOX and the creative team behind the production of The Simpson's for deciding be a sex education teacher during hours when children can tune in andd LEARN. And make no mistake -- they do LEARN from what they see on TV.

I hope you will reconsider the hour that you air this program, and please do not allow it to become a re-run where it will be shown on FOX at 5PM for all children to see.

Sincerely,

P.S.: If your argument is that no graphic sex is shown during the show, I would argue that long French kisses between hetero-, or homo-, sexuals implies more than just friends. I DO NOT kiss my friends - male or female - in that way. And it clearly caught my 8-year-old's attention and caused her to ask questions. Questions she wouldn't have even thought about had she not seen that commercial. Additionally, I have seen other episodes of The Simpson's when my son has come across them on re-runs in the late afternoon/early evening. And in my opinion, this CARTOON (a type of show typically geared toward children) should never be shown before 9PM

Hello! I am writing concerning the very violent Simpsons show that aired after the Superbowl. I have two children. Our family watched the Superbowl together on Fox television. Fox advertized the Simpsons Halftime Show to air right after the Superbowl, many times during the football game. My children begged to watch the Simpsons after seeing the commercials the and it looked like it would be funny and tame. We occasional have watched the Simpsons and sometimes let the kids watch. However this episode was so violent. I was appalled! I couldn't believe that this episode was allowed to air at 7:00 at night and that its advertising was aimed at kids. It showed two brothers. One brother stabbed the other with a knife, with blood spewing everywhere. It also showed a man kill a baby. These were only two of the extremely violent scenes. Aren't these things regulated? I was so caught off guard by this. I wish my children would have never seen this Simpsons. They will never be allowed to watch another Simpsons again. But I wish that Fox wouldn't have been able to air it in the first place, or at least not advertise it for kids.

Thanks for you time.

This is a formal COMPLAINT of indecency on broadcast television. My complaint concerns the PROGRAM ON:

Network: FOX
Program Name: The Simpsons
Broadcast Date: 09-05-2006
Broadcast Time: 6:30pm ET
My Affiliate: WOFL

Description of Indecency:

My family and I tuned into, The Simpsons, television show on this Tuesday afternoon, (09-05-2006) at 6:30 P.M. and found in our opinions that this show really should be rated for a mature audience only.

Mainly due to the graphic violence and the proposal of drug usage within the cartoon. More than one person and even the animals were being stabbed in the heart accompanied with "blood showers", deaths, cruel and unusual violence. Also, the character, Crusty the Clown" was imitating smoking out of a drug pipe, telling the kid characters, "these moon-rocks" is the only thing that makes me feel normal." Etc...

COMPLAINANT RESPECTFULLY REQUESTS THAT THE FCC ACKNOWLEDGE RECEIPT OF THIS COMPLAINT, AND THAT THE FCC KEEP ME INFORMED OF THE PROGRESS AND RESULTS OF YOUR INVESTIGATION INTO THIS MATTER.

Sincerely,

This letter responds to your complaint in which you allege that Fox Television Stations, Inc., licensee of Station WTTG(TV), Washington, D.C., aired indecent programming on December 7, 2003, at 8:00 p.m. during "The Simpsons" program. Specifically, you complain that a segment of the show involving the Simpsons' dog contained inappropriate sexual innuendo. Although we appreciate your concern, the information that you have submitted to us concerning this broadcast does not provide us with a legal basis to take action. Accordingly, for the following reasons, we deny your complaint.

The Federal Communications Commission is authorized to license radio and television broadcast stations and is responsible for enforcing the Commission's rules and applicable statutory provisions restricting obscene or indecent broadcasts. Specifically, title 18 of the United States Code, section 1464, prohibits the utterance of "any obscene, indecent or profane language by means of radio communications." 18 U.S.C. §1464.

Because the standard for proving that programming is indecent is less rigorous than that for proving obscenity, when considering broadcast complaints, the Commission generally focuses its analysis on indecency. In this regard, consistent with a subsequent statute and court case, section 73.3999 of the Commission's rules provides that no radio or television station shall broadcast indecent material during the period 6 a.m. through 10 p.m. See 47 C.F.R. § 73.3999. We note that the Commission's role in overseeing program content is limited, however, by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution and section 326 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (the "Act"), which prohibit the Commission from censoring program material and from interfering with broadcasters' freedom of expression. See 47 U.S.C. § 326. Therefore, consistent with relevant court decisions, the Commission must exercise great care when evaluating programming for possible indecent material.

The Commission defines indecent speech as language or material that, in context, depicts or describes, in terms patently offensive as measured by contemporary community standards for the broadcast medium, sexual or excretory activities or organs. In determining whether the complained-of material is patently offensive, three factors are particularly relevant: (1) the explicitness or graphic nature of the description or images; (2) whether the material dwells on or repeats at length descriptions of sexual or excretory organs or activities; and (3) whether the material appears to pander or is used to titillate or shock. The Commission applies these three factors as part of a balancing test to determine if the material is indecent. See In the Matter of Industry Guidance On the Commission's Case Law Interpreting 18 U.S.C. § 1464 and Enforcement Policies Regarding Broadcast Indecency, 16 FCC Rcd 7999 (2001).

We recognize that the material that you have cited may well be offensive to you, and we have analyzed your complaint carefully. However, your complaint does not provide us with the basis by which we may take action. Specifically, the material in your complaint, in context, is not sufficiently graphic and/or sustained to meet the Commission's standard for indecency. Accordingly, we deny your complaint.

We appreciate and recognize your concern. To assist you further, we include an information sheet that discusses the law with respect to indecent and obscene broadcasts and our enforcement procedures. In addition, there is a way that one can avoid objectionable programming. Most television and cable networks voluntarily rate much of their programming to alert viewers if a show contains language or other material that a viewer may find inappropriate. The Act requires that all televisions 13 inches or larger manufactured after 1999 be equipped with a V-chip, which can use these ratings to block individual programs or channels. (Set-top boxes are available to allow consumers with older sets that lack this capability to use V-chip technology.) For further information on how to restrict access to objectionable programming, as well as other useful facts, see <http://www.fcc.gov/parents/>. We also encourage you to convey your concerns directly to station management, because this can be an effective method to influence a station's programming decisions.

Thank you for your interest.

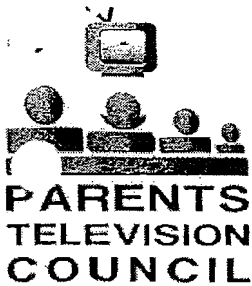

Sincerely,

On behalf of the Parents Television Council and its over 850,000 members, I am filing an indecency complaint against the Fox network television program, The Simpsons. The episode that contained the indecent material originally aired at 8:00 p.m. Eastern and Pacific and 7:00 Central on December 7, 2003. This program was seen in homes across the country on Fox, and in Washington DC, the program aired on WTTG-TV.

If the content is found to be indecent, then a Notice of Apparent Liability should be levied against each Fox affiliate that aired the program.

A transcript of the indecent segment follows. I would be happy to provide you with a videotape of this episode to further demonstrate the indecency of this episode.

I look forward to your timely judgment and response.

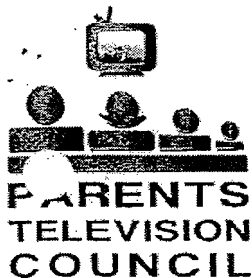

Sincerely,

- Dr. Hibbard accuses the Simpsons' dog, Santa's Little Helper, of having sex with his dog, Rosa Barks.

Dr. Hibbard: "Two months ago, Santa's Little Helper paid a booty call to my pure-bread poodle, Rosa Barks. And he had his eyes on her prize."

- Homer remembers that on the night he was supposed to take Santa's Little Helper to get neutered, he instead took the dog for a night on the town.

Homer: "On our way to the clinic I decided to give him a night his wang would never forget."

- Homer and Santa's Little Helper drive by a XXX movie theater for dogs whose sign advertises movies titled: "Behind the Doggie Door," "Long Dog Silver," and "On Golden Retriever."
- Homer buys Santa's Little Helper a prostitute dog, which it has sex with in a bush.
- Homer takes Santa's Little Helper to "Nuts Landing Dog Neutering," but decides not to neuter the dog and warns it:

Homer: "You better save all your loving for the couch cushions."

This letter responds to your complaint in which you allege that unlawful programming was broadcast over an undisclosed station, in Seguin, Texas, during its airing of "The Simpson's" on November 21, 2005, at approximately 6:00 p.m. Although we appreciate your concern, the information that you have submitted to us concerning this broadcast does not allow us to determine whether the material about which you complain is actionable.

As you may know, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is responsible for enforcing its rules and applicable statutory provisions restricting obscene, indecent or profane broadcasts. Because the standard for proving that programming is indecent or profane is less rigorous than that for proving obscenity, when considering broadcast complaints, the FCC generally focuses its analysis on indecency and profanity.

We are unable to make a determination that the material about which you complain is actionably indecent or profane because: (1) you have not specified the call sign of the station over which the material aired; (2) you have not provided us with sufficient information regarding the details of what the station broadcast and its context. As a result, we dismiss your complaint.

Please note that you may refile your complaint with additional information if you so choose. Should you refile, to expedite our consideration of your complaint, we recommend that you submit it on FCC Form 475B, which you can access utilizing the Commission's web site on Regulation of Obscenity, Indecency and Profanity, at <http://www.fcc.gov/eb/oip/Welcome.html>. This site also contains information that details the nature of the Commission's regulation of such material and its complaint processes. The web site contains instructions that will allow you to submit the form via the Internet. You may also mail your complaint, to the Federal Communications Commission, Enforcement Bureau, Investigations and Hearings Division, 445 12th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20554.

If you choose to refile your complaint by means other than our Form 475B, please ensure that you provide: (1) your name and address; (2) information that allows us to identify the station that broadcast the material in question, such as the station's call sign or channel number (television) or frequency (radio); (3) the location of the station on which you viewed or heard the material in question; and (4) the date and time of the broadcast. In addition, please include information as to the nature of the complained-of material. This can be in the form of a significant excerpt of the material, a full or partial recording or transcript of the broadcast, or a description of what was aired. In whatever form you supply this information, it must be sufficiently detailed to allow us to ascertain the actual words and language used during the broadcast and to evaluate whether the material, as broadcast, was obscene, indecent or profane. If you include electronic media with your complaint, such as video or audio tape or a CD or DVD, please mail the complaint and such media, to Federal Communications Commission, Enforcement Bureau, Investigations and Hearings Division, 9300 East Hampton Drive, Capitol Heights, Maryland 20743, rather than the address noted in the preceding paragraph. Please note that any material you send to the FCC becomes part of the record of the case and cannot be returned.

While we dismiss your complaint, we appreciate and recognize your concern. To assist you further, we include an information sheet that discusses the law with respect to indecent, profane and obscene broadcasts and our enforcement procedures. If you have not done so already, we encourage you to convey your concerns directly to station management, because this can be an effective method to influence a licensee's programming decisions.

Thank you for your interest.

Sincerely,

This is only one instance of many. Bart Simpson uses sexual innuendos and similarly degrading talk throughout his 'skits' to further destroy what's left of our American culture! I'm sure you realize that our culture is what we use to pass on our values and traditions and heritage, all of which literally keep us going - surviving! You I contend are letting us down by allowing this precious culture to be degraded and destroyed. Please do your job or we all will suffer. Thank you!

This letter responds to your complaint in which you allege that unlawful programming was broadcast over Station WLFL(TV), Raleigh, North Carolina, during the airing of the program, "The Simpsons" on March 24, 2006, at approximately 8:00 p.m. Although we appreciate your concern, the information that you have submitted to us concerning this broadcast does not allow us to determine whether the material about which you complain is actionable.

As you may know, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is responsible for enforcing its rules and applicable statutory provisions restricting obscene, indecent or profane broadcasts. Because the standard for proving that programming is indecent or profane is less rigorous than that for proving obscenity, when considering broadcast complaints, the FCC generally focuses its analysis on indecency and profanity.

We are unable to make a determination that the material about which you complain is actionably indecent or profane because: (1) you either have not alleged that the station broadcast the material during 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., the only time period within which the FCC enforces the prohibitions on indecent or profane broadcasts, or (2) you have not provided us with sufficient information regarding the details of what the station broadcast and its context. As a result, we dismiss your complaint.

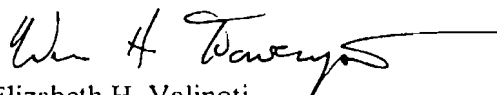

Please note that you may refile your complaint with additional information if you so choose. You may provide such information in the form of a significant excerpt of the broadcast or a full or partial tape or transcript of the broadcast, but these are not required. Please note that any material you send to the FCC becomes part of the record of the case and cannot be returned. In whatever form the information is provided, it is important that it is sufficiently detailed to allow us to ascertain the actual words and language used during the broadcast. Please also provide (1) information that allows us to identify the station that broadcast the material in question, such as the station's call sign, channel number or network affiliation, (2) the location where you viewed or heard the material in question, and (3) the date and time of the broadcast. You should send your complaint to the Federal Communications Commission, Enforcement Bureau, Investigations and Hearings Division, 445 12th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20554. If you include electronic media, such as video or audio tape or a CD or DVD, with your complaint, please send the complaint and such media to Federal Communications Commission, Enforcement Bureau, Investigations and Hearings Division, 9300 East Hampton Drive, Capitol Heights, Maryland 20743.

While we dismiss your complaint, we appreciate and recognize your concern. To assist you further, we include an information sheet that discusses the law with respect to indecent, profane and obscene broadcasts and our enforcement procedures. This letter denies your complaint against Station KDFW(TV), Dallas, Texas, for airing allegedly indecent material on February 16, 2003, at 7:00 p.m., during the program "The Simpsons." Specifically, you are concerned that the program broadcast the word "penis."

The Federal Communications Commission is authorized to license radio and television broadcast stations and is responsible for enforcing the Commission's rules and applicable statutory provisions. However, the Commission's role in overseeing program content is very limited. The First Amendment to the United States Constitution and section 326 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, prohibit the Commission from censoring program material and from interfering with broadcasters' freedom of expression. See 47 U.S.C. § 326. The Commission does, however, have the authority to enforce statutory and regulatory provisions restricting indecency and obscenity. See 47 C.F.R. § 73.3999. The Commission defines indecent speech as language or material that, in context, depicts or describes, in terms patently offensive as measured by contemporary community standards for the broadcast medium, sexual or excretory activities or organs. In making indecency determinations we also consider the graphic nature or explicitness of the material, whether there is a repetitive or persistent focus on sexual or excretory material and whether the material is pandering or titillating or has shock value. The use of specific words, although offensive, is not in and of itself indecent.

Applying this standard, we cannot conclude, based on the information you provided, that the material is indecent. Although we understand that you may have been offended by the broadcast, the single use of the word penis does not constitute a repetitive or persistent focus on sexual or excretory material, and the Commission has previously found that fleeting and isolated remarks of this nature do not warrant Commission sanction. See, e.g., L.M. Communications of South Carolina, Inc. (WYBB(FM)), 7 FCC Rcd 1595 (MMB 1992). Thus, although we appreciate your concern, we do not have an appropriate basis for action. As a result, we are denying your complaint.

To assist you further, we include an information sheet which discusses the law with respect to indecency and our enforcement procedures. We also encourage you to express your concerns directly to the management of Station KDFW(TV), because viewers' opinions will often effect a change in programming.

Sincerely,

Dear sir or madam:

I am writing to file an indecency complaint against the Fox Television Network for an episode of The Simpsons that ran in primetime on Sunday, February 16, 2003, at 7:00 pm Central Time (watched on KDFW in Dallas). The episode was the highly-advertised 300th episode of The Simpsons., watched by 21 million viewers, according to Hollywoodreporter.com.

At the end of that episode, several characters, including Homer Simpson, are filming a commercial for a drug that is a combination of Viagra and Rogaine, and the announcer for that commercial says the sentence: "May result in the loss of hair and/or penis."

I believe that Fox used the opportunity of a high-volume audience for The Simpsons to push the envelope on decency. I believe that this attitude of the networks (not just Fox) of having willful disregard for decency needs to be arrested.

I request that you consider action on this incident. Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

This letter responds to your complaint in which you allege that Fox Television Stations, Inc., licensee of Station WTTG(TV), Washington, D.C., aired indecent programming on December 7, 2003, at 8:00 p.m. during "The Simpsons" program. Specifically, you complain that a segment of the show involving the Simpsons' dog contained inappropriate sexual innuendo. Although we appreciate your concern, the information that you have submitted to us concerning this broadcast does not provide us with a legal basis to take action. Accordingly, for the following reasons, we deny your complaint.

The Federal Communications Commission is authorized to license radio and television broadcast stations and is responsible for enforcing the Commission's rules and applicable statutory provisions restricting obscene or indecent broadcasts. Specifically, title 18 of the United States Code, section 1464, prohibits the utterance of "any obscene, indecent or profane language by means of radio communications." 18 U.S.C. §1464.

Because the standard for proving that programming is indecent is less rigorous than that for proving obscenity, when considering broadcast complaints, the Commission generally focuses its analysis on indecency. In this regard, consistent with a subsequent statute and court case, section 73.3999 of the Commission's rules provides that no radio or television station shall broadcast indecent material during the period 6 a.m. through 10 p.m. See 47 C.F.R. § 73.3999. We note that the Commission's role in overseeing program content is limited, however, by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution and section 326 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (the "Act"), which prohibit the Commission from censoring program material and from interfering with broadcasters' freedom of expression. See 47 U.S.C. § 326. Therefore, consistent with relevant court decisions, the Commission must exercise great care when evaluating programming for possible indecent material.

The Commission defines indecent speech as language or material that, in context, depicts or describes, in terms patently offensive as measured by contemporary community standards for the broadcast medium, sexual or excretory activities or organs. In determining whether the complained-of material is patently offensive, three factors are particularly relevant: (1) the explicitness or graphic nature of the description or images; (2) whether the material dwells on or repeats at length descriptions of sexual or excretory organs or activities; and (3) whether the material appears to pander or is used to titillate or shock. The Commission applies these three factors as part of a balancing test to determine if the material is indecent. See In the Matter of Industry Guidance On the Commission's Case Law Interpreting 18 U.S.C. § 1464 and Enforcement Policies Regarding Broadcast Indecency, 16 FCC Rcd 7999 (2001).

We recognize that the material that you have cited may well be offensive to you, and we have analyzed your complaint carefully. However, your complaint does not provide us with the basis by which we may take action. Specifically, the material in your complaint, in context, is not sufficiently graphic and/or sustained to meet the Commission's standard for indecency. Accordingly, we deny your complaint.

We appreciate and recognize your concern. To assist you further, we include an information sheet that discusses the law with respect to indecent and obscene broadcasts and our enforcement procedures. In addition, there is a way that one can avoid objectionable programming. Most television and cable networks voluntarily rate much of their programming to alert viewers if a show contains language or other material that a viewer may find inappropriate. The Act requires that all televisions 13 inches or larger manufactured after 1999 be equipped with a V-chip, which can use these ratings to block individual programs or channels. (Set-top boxes are available to allow consumers with older sets that lack this capability to use V-chip technology.) For further information on how to restrict access to objectionable programming, as well as other useful facts, see <http://www.fcc.gov/parents/>. We also encourage you to convey your concerns directly to station management, because this can be an effective method to influence a station's programming decisions.

Thank you for your interest.

Sincerely,
