Certification instructions. You must cross out item 2 above if you have been notified by the IRS that you are currently subject to backup withholding because you have failed to report all interest and dividends on your tax return. For real estate transactions, item 2 does not apply. For mortgage interest paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, contributions to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA), and generally, payments other than interest and dividends, you are not required to sign the Certification, but you must provide your correct TIN. See the instructions on page 4.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,

NEW JERSEY BOARD OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Commissioner Asselta was born on August 17, 1951, and raised in Vineland, New Jersey. As the son of a Vineland Police Officer, he graduated from Vineland High School, Cumberland County College and the Frederick Military Academy. He also attended Rider College and the Glassboro State College Management Institute.

After college, he worked for 23 years as Marketing and Production Manager for Times Graphic, Inc., a Gannett Company subsidiary. From 1978 until 1981, he dedicated his energy as head basketball coach at Atlantic County Community College. He continued coaching at Vineland High School until 1987. In 1980 he married Nancy Small. The couple make their home in Vineland where Nancy owns and operates an interior design company.
As an educator and coach, he entered public service with his 1993 election to the Vineland Board of Education. Less than two years later in January 1995, he was sworn into the General Assembly to fill an unexpired term. In November 1995 he won his first of four terms representing New Jersey's First District in the General Assembly. He then became one of New Jersey's few full-time legislators, dedicating his career to public service and the constituents he represented. In 2003 he won election to the New Jersey Senate and served as State Senator until 2008.

During his time in the Legislature, he fought to create a better life for the residents of New Jersey, not by creating more laws, but by improving the laws and services that exist in New Jersey. Nicholas Asselta is most known for his advocacy of New Jersey's veterans. In honor of his late brother who lost his life in the line of duty, Asselta dedicated his entire public service career to fighting for veterans benefits in the State of New Jersey. Those in Trenton regarded Asselta as a Senator who put his constituents first, often working across party lines to ensure the interests of the residents of the First District.

MARYBETH BRENNER
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT & ENERGY POLICY
NEW JERSEY BOARD OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Marybeth Brenner joined the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities (BPU) in October, 2010. BPU regulates all public utilities including water, telephone, cable, energy and is responsible for the state energy policy and clean energy programs.

Prior to this position Ms. Brenner held a variety of positions with the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). Most recently she served as Director of Constituent Services for the agency. Additionally, Ms. Brenner was a Special Assistant to four Commissioners, the Program Manager for the Office of Innovative Technology & Market Development, and also held positions in the Division of Solid Waste Management and Office of Legislative and Regulatory Affairs. Ms. Brenner was with DEP for 20 years prior to joining the BPU.

Ms. Brenner holds a B.S. from Cook College, Rutgers University and a Masters of Public Affairs and Politics from the Edward J. Bloustein School of Public Policy, Rutgers University.

AMALIA VAZQUEZ BZDYRA
CONNECTICUT PUBLIC UTILITY CONTROL AUTHORITY

Amalia Vazquez Bzdyra was appointed Commissioner of the Connecticut Public Utility Control Authority by Governor Rell on December 16, 2008 and confirmed by both houses of the General Assembly in February 2009. As commissioner, she focuses on natural gas and electric issues, taking the lead on natural gas issues for the Department. Commissioner Bzdyra serves on the National Association Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) Committee on Gas. Commissioner Bzdyra is also the Co-Chair of Connecticut's Low-Income Advisory Board (LIEAB) and a member of Connecticut's Criminal Justice Policy Advisory Commission.

Commissioner Bzdyra has extensive public and private sector experience and has served in all three branches of Connecticut government. From February of 2007 to January 2009, she served as Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Social Services. In 2005, Bzdyra, an attorney with over 20 years of experience, was appointed by Governor Rell as Chairperson of the new Contracting Standards Board.

From 1998 to 2004, Bzdyra served as Chairperson of the state's Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (CHRO). From 2000 to 2004, she was Vice President of Government Relations for the Connecticut Hospital Association (CHA). As Vice President at CHA, she developed health care policy initiatives to improve Connecticut's system of health care and collaborated with state agencies to develop and implement legislative and executive branch policies, procedures and legislative enactments affecting all 31 hospitals statewide.

From 1993 to 2000, Bzdyra was Director of Legal, Legislative and Policy Affairs for the state's Office of Policy and Management (OPM). In that post, she advised the Secretary of OPM and the Office of the Governor on state policy, legal and budgetary matters. Commissioner Bzdyra also served as Chief Legal Counsel to the state agency and supervised OPM's legal staff. She was also Legislative Counsel to the Chief Court Administrator from 1990 to 1993.

Commissioner Bzdyra was born in Havana, Cuba and possesses native fluency in Spanish. She received a Juris Doctor degree from Western New England College School of Law and a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science from Southern Connecticut State University.

ROBERT E. CURRY, JR.
NEW YORK STATE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Robert E. Curry, Jr. was appointed Commissioner of the New York State Public Service Commission on June 22, 2006. His term runs through February 1, 2012. A member of the Committee on Energy Resources and the Environment of the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC), he is also Vice-Chair of the Department of Energy/NARUC LNG Partnership.

Immediately prior to his appointment, Mr. Curry was a lawyer in private practice, with an emphasis on corporate governance and transactional work. During his legal career, Mr. Curry has been a partner at several law firms, including Heller Ehrman, Sonnenschein, and Dickstein Shapiro. In addition to his law firm experience, he served as Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Covanta Holding Corporation (formerly Odgen Corporation) during its transformation from a Fortune 150 industrial company to a Fortune 50 services company.

At Covanta and thereafter, Mr. Curry had extensive involvement with PURPA projects in renewable generation, both in hydro-electric and refuse-to-energy, and with the transportation of LNG and other petroleum products. Mr. Curry has also worked in the field of offshore exploration and production of hydro-carbons in the Gulf of Mexico. In addition, while in private practice, he represented for a number of years a thrift subject to regulatory scrutiny, as well as one of the 'Big Four' accounting and consulting firms.

A member of the Board of Advisors of the Columbia Law School Center on Corporate Governance since 2004, Mr. Curry has spoken at the ALI – ABA Corporate Governance Institute and the annual meeting of the National Association of Corporate Directors, as well as numerous programs at NARUC and in the industry. Mr. Curry has served on the New York State Bar Association's Special Committee on Preserving the Core Values of the Legal Profession and as General Counsel of The Foundation for Early Lung Cancer Detection. Mr. Curry also was a Co-Founder, and thereafter President, of the Metropolitan New York Chapter of the Association of Corporate Counsel.

Mr. Curry received his law degree from Columbia University School of Law and his Bachelor of Arts degree, with honors, from Georgetown University. He and his wife Margaret have a daughter, Bevin and a son, Rob.

PHILLIP L. DUKES
CHIEF LEGAL COUNSEL
CONNECTICUT DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC UTILITY CONTROL

Mr. Dukes is Chief Counsel of the Connecticut Department of Public Utility Control (DPUC), as well as its Communications Director. Mr. Dukes supervises the team of lawyers that assist the five DPUC Commissioners in execution of their duties for the regulation of Connecticut utilities in the areas of electricity, natural gas, water, cable and telecommunications. The legal unit is also responsible for assisting in conducting dockets, drafting legal opinions, assisting in the development of state energy policy, implementation of renewable technology and generation development programs, regulation of electric suppliers and aggregators, implementation and enforcement for the gas pipeline safety program.

Prior to joining the DPUC, Mr. Dukes served as Counsel for Policy and Legislative Affairs to Connecticut Governor M. Jodi Rell, where he served as the head of the Governor's legislative team, responsible for passing the Governor's initiatives and managing legislative relationships, as well as serving as the senior policy advisor and policy implementer for the Governor. He graduated with a BA from the University of Connecticut, received his Juris Doctor degree after attending both the University of Akron School of Law in Ohio and Western New England College of Law in Massachusetts and received his Masters of Business Administration in Finance from the University of Connecticut. Mr. Dukes is a member of the bar in Connecticut, New York and Washington, D.C.

Mr. Dukes has also served as Associate Legal Counsel to Connecticut Governor John G. Rowland. Before that he served for six years as an Administrative Attorney for the Connecticut Department of Banking, acting as the primary prosecutor in the area of securities enforcement. Prior to working for the Department of Banking, Mr. Dukes served for three years as Deputy Legal Counsel to House Minority Leader Robert M. Ward in the Connecticut General Assembly. He also served as Senior Legislative Aide to State Senator William H. Nickerson of Greenwich, then Chairman of the Finance Committee and, previous to that, was an associate with the Law Offices of Carron, Grace & Fink of Westport, Connecticut, where he practiced in the areas of securities, corporate law, mergers and acquisitions, bankruptcy, and estate and financial planning.

JEANNE FOX
NEW JERSEY BOARD OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Ms. Fox is currently in her second term as Commissioner of the BPU. Ms. Fox served as President of the Board from 2002-2010. Over the past six years, the BPU has facilitated the exponential growth of New Jersey's solar photovoltaic market, growing from 6 installation in 2001 to over 3100 installations currently, through the simultaneous implementation of the solar rebate program, model net metering and interconnection standards, and the nation's first Solar Renewable Energy Certificates (SRECs) trading program.

Ms. Fox has also been an integral member of the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) Board of Directors since its inception in 2003. This ten-state northeastern coalition negotiated a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) for reducing carbon emissions from stationary power sources using trading certificates, the first plan of its kind in the United States that will help reduce carbon emissions.

Ms. Fox is the chair of the state Energy Master Plan Committee, the interagency committee tasked by the Governor to work on the Energy Master Plan. Ms. Fox is active with the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) as a member of the Board of Directors, the Committee on Energy Resources and the Environment, the Committee on Critical Infrastructure, Subcommittee on Education and Research, and the Utility Market Access Partnership. Ms. Fox is a member of the Executive Committee and served as President of the Mid-Atlantic Conference of Regulatory Utilities Commissioner. She is Chair of the National Council on Electricity Policy (NCEP), a consortium of the National Governors Association, National Conference of State Legislatures, National Association of State Energy Officials, the Department of Energy and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Ms. Fox serves as a member of the National Academy of Science Panel on Public Participation in Environmental Assessment and Decision Making; National Leadership Group on Energy Efficiency; Harvard Electricity Policy Group; Consumer Energy Council of America's Public Policy Initiative Fuels and Technologies Forum; and the Advisory Council to the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of the Electric Power Research Institute.

Ms. Fox is a member of the U.S. Department of Energy's Electricity Advisory Committee that provides senior-level counsel to the DOE's Office of Electricity Delivery and Energy Reliability. The Committee advises the Office on the deployment of smart grid technologies, research and development on energy storage technologies, renewable energy resource system integration, and new transmission infrastructure to ensure efficient delivery of electricity.

Ms. Fox previously served as Regional Administrator of the United States Environmental Protection Agency where she had jurisdiction over New Jersey, New York, Puerto Rico and the US Virgin Islands. She also has serves as Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Energy.

Ms. Fox received a Bachelor's Degree from Douglass College, Rutgers and a Juris Doctor from the Rutgers University School of Law.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Richard Jackson is the Executive Director of the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities (BPU). Mr. Jackson oversees the Divisions of Audits, Energy, Reliability & Security, Telecommunications and Water, as well as the Office of Cable Television.

Prior to his employment at the BPU, Mr. Jackson served as Senior Vice President, Operations at Louisiana Offshore Oil Port in Covington, LA., where he was responsible for all operations at the off-shore Marine Terminal and on-shore pipeline, tank and cavern storage and control facilities.

Mr. Jackson was also employed by South Jersey Gas Company in Folsom, NJ for over twenty years in various management positions including Executive Vice President & Chief Operating Officer.

STEVE L. KLICK
EXECUTIVE POLICY MANAGER FOR CHAIRMAN POWELSON
PENNSYLVANIA PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION

Steve L. Klick is executive policy manager for Pennsylvania Public Utility Chairman Robert F. Powelson, serving as an advisor on financial and rate matters with a focus on energy and water issues. He is also vice chair of NARUC's Subcommittee on Water, coordinator of NARUC's Rate School, and advisor to Water Committee Chairman Butch Howard. Previously he worked as senior manager of rates and assistant treasurer for Pennsylvania American Water Company. From 2004 to 2006, he was director of regulatory planning for United Water, where he was responsible for regulatory strategy. Prior to joining United Water, he worked in various positions of increasing responsibility for Allegheny Energy. Mr. Klick has testified on a wide range of regulatory issues, both energy and water, in five states and before FERC and has worked in detail on over 50 rate cases

STEVEN D. LESSER
PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF OHIO

Steven D. Lesser was appointed commissioner of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio by Gov. Ted Strickland in 2010.

Commissioner Lesser has been very involved in utility regulation over the past 30 years, beginning his career at the PUCO in 1979. Prior to his appointment as commissioner, he served the PUCO as chief of staff, assistant director of the legal department, deputy director of the transportation department and administrative law judge/attorney examiner in the legal department. In his role as chief of staff, Lesser was instrumental in developing policy positions on legal and regulatory issues and was responsible for overseeing the daily operations of the agency. In addition, he played a critical role in the implementation of the new electric regulation bill and the "green" rules which encourage the development of alternative energy and energy efficiency in Ohio.

Commissioner Lesser has served on numerous state and federal committees, including the Alliance for Uniform Hazardous Materials Transportation Procedures and the Intelligent Transportation Advisory Committee. Additionally, he established the transportation civil forfeiture and enforcement section at the PUCO. Lesser also worked on consumer protection and safety legislation in the transportation division, developed national standards for hazardous material safety, created natural gas conservation programs, and established minimum standards for the water industry. He has had numerous materials published in law review and industry publications.

Early in his career, Commissioner Lesser served as legal counsel to Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation and was law director for the Village of Hanover in Licking County, Ohio. He received his Juris Doctorate from Capital University Law School and his bachelor's degree from State University of New York at Binghamton.

ARNETTA MCRAE
CHAIR
DELAWARE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Arnetta McRae was appointed to the Delaware Public Service Commission in July 1996 and assumed her current position as Chair in July 2001. Previously, she was employed for 18 years as counsel with the DuPont Company, where she provided legal services for domestic and international business units. She also has held positions in commercial banking and human services organizations.

Over the course of her career in utilities regulation, Chair McRae has served in a number of capacities at regional and national levels. She is a former president of the Mid Atlantic Conference of Regulatory Utilities Commissioners. She also has served on the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Regulatory Utilities Commissioners (NARUC). Recently, she ended a two year term as Chair of NARUC's International Relations Committee. She currently is a member of NARUC's newly established Subcommittee on Utility Marketplace Access Partnership, Board of Directors of the National Regulatory Research Institute and the Advisory Council of the New Mexico State Center for Public Utilities. Additionally, Arnetta and her colleagues at the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control are Delaware's representatives for the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative and Eastern Interconnect State Planning Council.

Arnetta is a member of the Board of Education of New Castle County Vocational Technical School District, a past president of the Delaware School Boards Association and a past member of the Board of Directors and Northeast Region Director of the National Black Caucus of School Board Members. She also serves on the Chief Executive Officer's Advisory Council of the Girl Scouts of Chesapeake Bay Council. Previously, she served on the Board of Directors of the Grand Opera House and the YWCA and has held leadership positions in a number of other community organizations. Arnetta holds a BS in Business Administration from Morgan State University in Baltimore, MD and a JD from Case Western Reserve University School of Law in Cleveland, Ohio.

JED M. NOSAL
MASSACHUSETTS ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE
CHIEF, BUSINESS & LABOR BUREAU

Jed M. Nosal is the Chief of Massachusetts Attorney General Martha Coakley's Business and Labor Bureau. Mr. Nosal is responsible for overseeing the Divisions in the Bureau, which include Business, Technology and Economic Development; Energy and Telecommunications; Fair Labor; Medicaid Fraud; and Non-Profit Organizations/Public Charities.

Prior to serving as Chief of the Business & Labor Bureau, Mr. Nosal also served as Chief of the Energy and Telecommunications Division in the Attorney General's Office. Mr. Nosal was responsible for advising Attorney General Coakley for carrying out her common law and statutory duties to represent the public interest and to enforce public rights in utility matters as well represent Massachusetts consumers before state and federal energy and telecommunication regulators, including related appellate litigation in state and federal courts.

Mr. Nosal previously served as the General Counsel to the Massachusetts Department of Telecommunications and Energy and prior to that served as a Senior Administrator and Policy Advisor in the Office of Consumer Affairs and Business Regulation as the Deputy Director and Chief of Staff. Mr. Nosal has held other positions in state and municipal government including Deputy Legal Counsel to Governor Jane Swift and staff counsel to both the State and Boston Police Departments.

Mr. Nosal is a graduate of Union College in Schenectady, New York and received his law degree

ROBERT F. POWELSON
CHAIRMAN
PENNSYLVANIA PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION

Robert F. Powelson serves as Chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission (PUC). Chairman Powelson was first nominated to the PUC on June 19, 2008, by Governor Edward G. Rendell to fill the remainder of an unexpired term. The Pennsylvania Senate unanimously confirmed Chairman Powelson to serve as Commissioner on June 30, 2008. Commissioner Powelson was renominated by Governor Rendell for a full five-year term on February 12, 2009, and once again unanimously confirmed by the Pennsylvania Senate on April 22, 2009. On February 24, 2011, Governor Tom Corbett appointed Powelson Chairman of the PUC. Chairman Powelson's term expires on April 1, 2014.

On March 8, 2011, Governor Corbett invited Chairman Powelson to serve as a member of the Marcellus Shale Advisory Commission. The Commission will undergo a comprehensive review of the Commonwealth's existing statutes, regulations and policies and provide recommendations to ensure that Pennsylvania maximizes the opportunity that Marcellus Shale presents in the most responsible manner possible.

Chairman Powelson was appointed to the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) Board of Directors on March 16, 2011. In addition, Chairman Powelson is Co-Vice Chair of NARUC's Committee on Water. Chairman Powelson has been appointed to represent the Water Committee on NARUC's Task Force on Climate Policy. He is also a member of the NARUC Committee on Critical Infrastructure and a member of the NARUC Subcommittee on Nuclear Issues-Waste Disposal.

Under Chairman Powelson's leadership, Pennsylvania ratepayers have had an active voice on issues such as nuclear power production, renewable investment, broadband deployment, infrastructure development, unaccounted-for water, and reliable electric service at rates that have been capped for 12 plus years. In a relatively short period, Chairman Powelson has been a leading voice on competitive markets and a staunch advocate for the nuclear power industry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Previously, Chairman Powelson served as the President of the Chester County Chamber of Business & Industry, a 1,600- member business organization that he joined in 1994. During his tenure as President and CEO, the Accrediting Board of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce awarded the Chester County Chamber a Three Star Accreditation standard of excellence. In 2005, he was selected by the Eisenhower Presidential Fellows to be a U.S. fellow in Singapore and Australia.

Prior to joining the Chester County Chamber, Chairman Powelson was the Director of Government Relations for the Delaware County Chamber, where he helped to develop the county's economic development strategy. From 1990-91, Powelson served as a Staff Assistant to Congressman Curt Weldon.

Chairman Powelson holds a Bachelor of Administration degree from St. Joseph's University and a Master of Governmental Administration degree from the University of Pennsylvania with a concentration in public finance.

TIMOTHY ALAN SIMON
CALIFORNIA PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION

Timothy Alan Simon was appointed to the California Public Utilities Commission by Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger on February 15, 2007. As a former securities and banking attorney, Commissioner Simon firmly supports investment in utility infrastructure as being critical to California's economic future, and encourages a balanced public policy in areas of utility regulation. He actively promotes and encourages diversity in utility procurement, educational opportunities, and the workplace.

Commissioner Simon serves as Chair of the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) Committee on Gas, NARUC's Board of Directors, Critical Infrastructure and Consumer Affairs Committees, and Utility Marketplace Access Sub-committee. Commissioner Simon also serves on the Department of Energy's National Petroleum Council, and is the former Chair of the Liquified Natural Gas Partnership between NARUC and Department of Energy. Commissioner Simon was recently appointed to the Department of Transportation Pipeline Safety Task Force by Secretary Ray LaHood due to his experience and expertise on natural gas and public safety matters.

CPUC05921

Commissioner Simon is on the Advisory Board of the Berkeley Energy & Resources Collaborative at U.C. Berkeley, and the California Green Collar Jobs Council. Commissioner Simon is the assigned Commissioner to the Low Income Oversight Board, which advises the Commission on its energy, water, and telecommunications public purpose programs. Prior to joining the CPUC, Commissioner Simon served as the Appointments Secretary to Governor Schwarzenegger, the first African American in California history to hold that post.

Commissioner Simon received a Bachelor's Degree in Economics from the University of San Francisco, and a Juris Doctorate from Hastings College of the Law, University of California. He currently is an adjunct professor of Securities Regulations at the Golden Gate University School of Law in San Francisco, and acts as an advisor on international securities in Golden Gate's U.S. Legal Studies Program.

As an active member of the Bay Area community, Commissioner Simon serves on several non-profit boards, including Catholic Charities/CYO of the San Francisco Bay Area, as Audit Committee Chair, and the Megan Furth Catholic Academy. He is engaged to Kimberly Brandon and is the proud father of three children.

JEFFREY STOCKHOLM
ADVISOR TO THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE
NEW YORK PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Jeffrey E. Stockholm is serving as an Advisor to the Executive Office at the NYS Public Service Commission. He was an Administrative Law Judge with the Commission's Office of Hearings and Alternative Dispute Resolution for 18 years, and has presided over electric, telephone, gas, and water rate cases, utility prudence investigations, environmental siting cases, and energy and telecommunications competitive restructuring proceedings. He has also devoted considerable efforts to institutionalizing the use of the spectrum of ADR processes in Commission proceedings.

Judge Stockholm previously served as Staff Counsel and Senior Siting Counsel for the Commission and was the managing partner in a general practice law firm. He graduated from the University of Rochester with a BA degree in chemistry (minors in math, physics, and biology) in 1970, received a Juris Doctor cum laude from Albany Law School in 1975, a certification in Dispute Management from the Cornell School of Industrial and Labor Relations in 1996, and a MA in Theology from St. Bernard's School of Theology and Ministry in 2004. He has also served as a volunteer mediator and arbiter in local Community DR Centers, a volunteer arbiter in the Attorney General's fee dispute and Lemon Law programs, and an arbiter with FINRA Dispute Resolution.

BETSY WERGIN
MINNESOTA PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION

Betsy Wergin grew up in a family of 11 children on a dairy farm in Minnesota. After completing high school, Betsy took accounting courses at St. Cloud State College as well as other courses at various Technical Colleges. Betsy and her husband Richard live in rural Princeton and have two adult children.

At the age of 20, she purchased her first business, a drycleaners. After selling the business, Betsy worked as a Cost Accountant for a manufacturing company and then a benefits and payroll manager and later assistant to the Chief Financial Officer of a group of nursing homes. She opened a second retail business which she owned and operated for 20 years. Part of the business was also speaking and teaching at many national seminars. Betsy and her husband Richard provided a home for about 100 foster children, primarily teen age girls, over a period of 17 years.

Betsy currently serves as a member of the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) Committee on Consumer Affairs, Committee on Critical Infrastructure, Committee on Washington Action and Committee on International Relations.

Betsy enjoys public service and has served five years as a Township officer, eight years as a County Commissioner and five and one-half years as a Minnesota State Senator. Appointed Commissioner August 1, 2008; reappointed December 16, 2009, term expires January 4, 2016.

HUMPHREY WIREKO
POLICY ASSISTANT TO COMMISSIONER LESSER
PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF OHIO

Humphrey Wireko is Policy Assistant to Commissioner Steven Lesser of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO). As Policy Assistant he advises the Commissioner on a wide variety of regulatory issues, specializing in natural gas, electricity and alternative energy. Humphrey has been with the Commission since 2009 and has served in a number of areas including the Public Affairs and Docketing divisions. Before working at the Commission he served as an assistant to State Senator Eric Kearney. He received his B.A. in Political Science from The Ohio State University.

Robert Curry, Commissioner – New York Public Service Commission

Overview and Ground Rules
Robert W. Gee, President, Gee Strategies Group, LLC

8:15 a.m. – 10:00 a.m. Chief Executive Officers' Perspectives on the Current Business Environment for Utilities under Challenging Conditions

Introduction: Investor-owned electric utilities today confront a host of challenges ranging from evolving market models to anticipated environmental compliance costs, compounded by the need to increase capital expenditures for system maintenance and upgrades. How will these multiple challenges looming on the horizon be met? This panel will address these subjects, with an emphasis on how regulation can facilitate or impede the current operating environment.

Moderator: Robert Curry, Commissioner – New York Public Service Commission

Panelists: Alan Hodnik, President and CEO, Allete
Ralph Izzo, Chairman, President and CEO, Public Service Enterprise Group, Inc.
James Torgerson, President and CEO – UIL Holdings Corporation

David K. Owens, Executive Vice President – Edison Electric Institute

11:45 a.m. – 1:15 p.m. Lunch
Hilton Room

1:15 p.m. -- 2:45 p.m. What "Wall Street" Does, Part I: The Credit Rating Agencies and Debt Analysts

Introduction: Who are the principal players in the financial sector, and how do their roles influence the cost of and access to capital by electric utilities? What is the capital markets' outlook given the need for utilities to access capital to fund their capital expenditure plans? This first panel will explore the role of credit rating agencies, and how their opinions influence the cost of and access to capital, augmented by the viewpoint of a debt analyst.

Moderator/Lead Panelist: Timothy Simon, Commissioner – Califomia: Public Utilities Commission

Panelists: Barbara Chapman, Director, Credit Trading-Sector Specialist, BNP Paribas Securities Corp.
Karen Choi, Investment Analyst – Capital Research Company
Richard Cortright, Managing Director – Standard & Poor's Corporation

8:00 a. m.--12:00 p.m. General Session

8:00 a.m. -- 9:30 a.m. "Running the Environmental Gauntlet": Air Emission Controls, and the Impact on Financial Markets

Introduction: Whether or when climate change legislation will ever be adopted into law remains highly uncertain, but little doubt remains that electric utilities will be required to shoulder compliance costs for heightening emission limits for traditional pollutants by the Environmental Protection Agency. How are the financial markets reacting to this, and what opinions do the experts share regarding potential winners and losers under various scenarios?

Moderator: Jeanne Fox, Commissioner – New Jersey Board of Public Utilities

Panelists: Daniel Chartier, Director, Environmental Markets and Air Quality Programs – Edison Electric Institute
James Hempstead, Senior Vice President – Moody's Investors Service
Hugh Wynne, Senior Research Analyst - Sanford C. Bernstein & Co.

9:45 a.m. – 10:00 a.m. Prelude to "Game Changing" Panel: Current Developments at Fukushima-Daiishi Nuclear Plant in Japan
Richard Myers, Vice President, Policy Development – Nuclear Energy Institute

10:00 a.m.-11:30 a.m. "Game Changing" Regulatory Issues on the Horizon: The Role of Shale Gas and Nuclear Power in the Utility's Generation Mix of the Future

Introduction: The utility industry's generation mix has always involved complicated questions of markets, technology risk, and financial viability, among other factors. Recent developments affecting two traditional fuel sources for generation have opened significant questions regarding their future role in the country's energy future. Because of tightening air emission regulatory requirements, natural gas is poised to play an even greater role for power generation. The surge in production of shale gas also holds open the possibility of creating enormous potential for domestic supply, provided environmental issues can be adequately addressed. Nuclear currently constitutes 20 percent of the mix, and had been viewed as a potentially viable option because of its nonemitting character in meeting environmental goals. However, safety issues have been raised owing to the recent developments in Japan following the earthquake and tsunami. How will that event affect the near and long-term outlook for nuclear power development in the United States? What is the opinion of the financial sector?

Moderator: Robert Powelson, Chairman – Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission

Panelists: Richard Myers, Vice President, Policy Development – Nuclear Energy Institute
James A. Slutz, President & Managing Director, Global Energy Strategies, LLC
Charles Trabandt, Vice President – Charles River Associates
Peter Kind, Senior Managing Director – Macquarie Capital (USA), Inc.

Lead Respondent: Steven Lesser, Commissioner – Public Utilities Commission of Ohio

11:30 a.m. --12:00 p.m. Final Thoughts on the Dialogue: The Commissioners Get the Last Word

Moderator: Jeanne Fox, Commissioner – New Jersey Board of Public Utilities

12:00 p.m. Adjournment (Box lunches will be available starting at 11:15 a.m. for departure)

5:00 p.m. Adjourn for the Day

6:00 – 8:30 p.m. Reception & Dinner with Securities Analysts Hosted by Gee Strategies Group, LLC

WEDNESDAY, MAY 18, 2011
Hilton Room

7:00 a.m.--8:00 a.m. Registration & Breakfast

8:00 a. m.--12:00 p.m. General Session

8:00 a.m. -- 9:30 a.m. "Running the Environmental Gauntlet": Air Emission Controls, and the Impact on Financial Markets

Introduction: Whether or when climate change legislation will ever be adopted into law remains highly uncertain, but little doubt remains that electric utilities will be required to shoulder compliance costs for heightening emission limits for traditional pollutants by the Environmental Protection Agency. How are the financial markets reacting to this, and what opinions do the experts share regarding potential winners and losers under various scenarios?

James Hempstead, Senior Vice President – Moody's Investors Service
Hugh Wynne, Senior Research Analyst - Sanford C. Bernstein & Co.

Lead Respondent: Ric Campbell, Commissioner – Utah Public Service Commission

9:30 a.m. -- 9:45 a.m. Refreshment Break

9:45 a.m. – 10:00 a.m. Prelude to "Game Changing" Panel: Current Developments at Fukushima-Daiishi Nuclear Plant in Japan
Richard Myers, Vice President, Policy Development – Nuclear Energy Institute

10:00 a.m.-11:30 a.m. "Game Changing" Regulatory Issues on the Horizon: The Role of Shale Gas and Nuclear Power in the Utility's Generation Mix of the Future

Introduction: The utility industry's generation mix has always involved complicated questions of markets, technology risk, and financial viability, among other factors. Recent developments affecting two traditional fuel sources for generation have opened significant questions regarding their future role in the country's energy future. Because of tightening air emission regulatory requirements, natural gas is poised to play an even greater role for power generation. The surge in production of shale gas also holds open the possibility of creating enormous potential for domestic supply, provided environmental issues can be adequately addressed. Nuclear currently constitutes 20 percent of the mix, and had been viewed as a potentially viable option because of its nonemitting character in meeting environmental goals. However, safety issues have been raised owing to the recent developments in Japan following the earthquake and tsunami. How will that event affect the near and long-term outlook for nuclear power development in the United States? What is the opinion of the financial sector?

Moderator: Robert Powelson, Chairman – Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission

Panelists: Richard Myers, Vice President, Policy Development – Nuclear Energy Institute
James A. Slutz, President & Managing Director, Global Energy Strategies, LLC
Charles Trabandt, Vice President – Charles River Associates
Peter Kind, Senior Managing Director – Macquarie Capital (USA), Inc.

Lead Respondent: Steven Lesser, Commissioner – Public Utilities Commission of Ohio

11:30 a.m. --12:00 p.m. Final Thoughts on the Dialogue: The Commissioners Get the Last Word

Moderator: Jeanne Fox, Commissioner – New Jersey Board of Public Utilities

12:00 p.m. Adjournment (Box lunches will be available starting at 11:15 a.m. for departure)

Dear Commissioners, Staff and Panelists: After sending out the Roster on Wednesday, and having it printed as hardcopy, we have received some corrections. The New Jersey Board of Control now has staff and commissioners in two locations, some in Newark and some in Trenton, NJ. This Roster incorporates those corrections, and supersedes what you have already received, as well as the Roster in the booklet of program materials you will receive at the Dialogue.

Subject:	FI Presentation to CPUC Commissioners - Draft
Attachments:	FIEG Presentation to CPUC Rev04.ppt

Matthew and Michael,

Attached is the draft of the presentations for our meeting on Tue, May 17 (10:30 – 12 noon).
As discussed, feel free to comment and review. The draft is written as a high level document. Most of the details will be presented as verbal or during ensuing discussions.
I am expected to receive few more comments from other members of Financial Institution Energy Group (FIEG) by tomorrow am. Not expecting anything major input as folks have already reviewed and commented in previous version.
I have kept my Monday morning free for any potential discussion/clarification with you. Please call me or email if you would like to talk regarding the presentation. I am open upto 1 pm Monday, May 16 (PST). My cell no is 281 475 9107.

Practical questions:
We will bring our own projector as back up. All we need is a screen. If the meeting room has provision for overhead projection, that is fine as well. I also will be carrying this presentation on a thumb-drive in case we need to run it on a CPUC computer.

Thank you and look forward to seeing you.

Best regards,

FIEG Presentation to CPUC

Comm. Florio and Comm. Ferron

May 17, 2011

Disclaimer

- Information presented here is meant to be informational and not necessarily accurate for all FIEG members.

FIEG

- Financial Institution Energy Group (FIEG) is comprised of investment and commercial banks
- Its members and their affiliates play a number of roles in California's wholesale power, natural gas, and renewable markets
- Members act as marketers, lenders, underwriters of debt and equity securities, and proprietary investors
- FERC has authorized FIEG's power-marketer members to sell energy, capacity, and AS at market based rates

FIEG Expertise

- FIEG members bring financial, physical, and risk management expertise to energy and environmental markets
- Active participants in global & national energy, renewable, and emissions markets
- Manage risk for clients in a dynamically changing regulatory and market environment
- Offerings with integrated energy, emissions, and financial products to clients

California's energy/environmental landscape

- Inherently complex with multiple regulatory institutions
- Markets are sensitive to respective regulatory policies, e.g.
  - CPUC's TREC decision
  - ARB Cap & Trade and Reporting regulations
  - CEC and REC eligibility
  - Legislative: RPS SB SBx1_2
- Regulatory policies have direct impact on investments, market prices, costs, and risk perception
- California markets remain a work in progress

Regulatory developments and risk assessment

- FIEG members monitor and manage regulatory and market risks
- Perceived high risk adds premium to deal prices with implications on liquidity, volatility, and potential investments
- On the contrary, reduced regulatory risk increases market liquidity and improves investment environment
- California's renewable energy markets are nascent and changing rapidly
  - High regulatory risk impedes both instate and out of state project financing
  - Creates reluctance for long term deal structures required for financing new infrastructure
  - Introduces uncertainties in grid operation planning, and market outcomes

Managing policy and regulatory risks

- Structured deals
- Project financing
  - Debt and equity
- Project development
- Regulatory advocacy and advisory
- Market liquidity
  - Trading and flow sales
  - Odd-lot liquidity

Typical examples of structured transactions

- Firming and shaping
- REC deals
- Carbon hedging
- Prepays
- Credit sleeves
- Tolling agreements
- PPAs
- Exhaustive/Dynamic contracts

Potential impact of regulatory policies

- Long term
  - Investments, risk, and returns in energy and environmental infrastructure
  - Long term hedging for both producers and consumers
- Medium term
  - Operational planning and policies
  - Impact on three to five year market environment
    - On most liquid term
  - Drives political and legislative initiatives
- Short term
  - Prices in regulatory driven markets (GHG allowances)
  - Impact on future price curves
  - Hedging costs and premiums

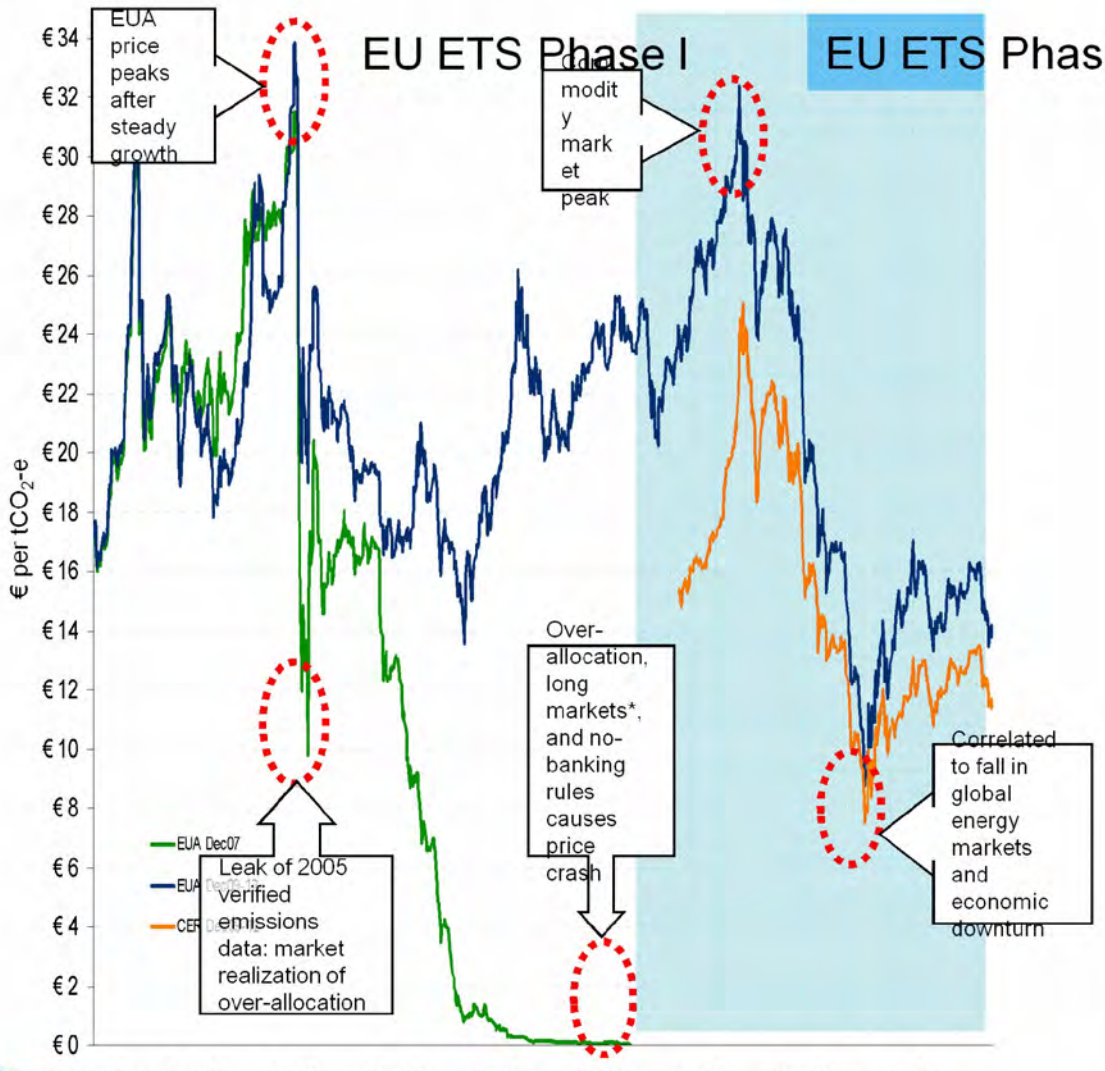
How regulatory policies impact markets?:
Forward Settled HR SP15 ONPEAK

Source: Intercontinental Exchange

Contd.. Impact of Allowance allocation on European Carbon ETS allowances

THE PRICE OF EUAs EXPERIENCED SIGNIFICANT VOLATILITY

Price evolution during the EU ETS has represented the market's view about the level of the carbon constraint, and the effort required to comply with it. It has interacted dynamically with fuel and weather markets, as well as expectations about economic growth.



Sources: ECX, Bloomberg

* Program created more allowances than there were actual emission

Recommendations

- Recommendations for nurturing renewables and environmental markets with manageable risk
  - Stable policies and rules
  - Non discriminatory regulations
  - Standardization of products and services
  - Market oriented regulatory environment
  - Integrated view of conventional power, renewables, and environmental markets
  - Effective end-user protection

FIEG members continue to add value

- FIEG members reduce risk, manage volatility, stabilize markets, and reduce costs for long terms benefits to ratepayers and consumers (e.g. providing quotes on large, small, or long-dated obligation hedges.)
- FIEG members bring national and international best industry practices to California's energy and environment industries
- In short, FIEG members manage risks in the renewable markets benefiting producers and consumers in the energy and environment value chain.

Commissioner Florio,
Thank you for your time yesterday to discuss Risk management and California's renewable energy markets.
FIEG appreciates the opportunity and look forward to working with you and your team on some of the regulatory policy proceedings.
Attached is the final presentation for your records. Feel free to contact us for any questions.

Best regards,

FIEG Presentation to CPUC

Comm. Florio and Comm. Ferron

May 17, 2011

Disclaimer

- Information presented here is meant to be informational and not necessarily accurate for all FIEG members.

FIEG

- Financial Institution Energy Group (FIEG) is comprised of investment and commercial banks
- Its members and their affiliates play a number of roles in California's wholesale power, natural gas, and renewable markets
- Members act as marketers, lenders, underwriters of debt and equity securities, and proprietary investors
- FERC has authorized FIEG's power-marketer members to sell energy, capacity, and AS at market based rates

FIEG Expertise

- FIEG members bring financial, physical, and risk management expertise to energy and environmental markets
- Active participants in global & national energy, renewable, and emissions markets
- Manage risk for clients in a dynamically changing regulatory and market environment
- Offerings with integrated energy, emissions, and financial products to clients

California's energy/environmental landscape

- Inherently complex with multiple regulatory institutions
- Markets are sensitive to respective regulatory policies, e.g.
  - CPUC's TREC decision
  - ARB Cap & Trade and Reporting regulations
  - CEC and REC eligibility
  - Legislative: RPS SB SBx1_2
- Regulatory policies have direct impact on investments, market prices, costs, and risk perception
- California markets remain a work in progress

Regulatory developments and risk assessment

- FIEG members monitor and manage regulatory and market risks
- Perceived high risk adds premium to deal prices with implications on liquidity, volatility, and potential investments
- On the contrary, reduced regulatory risk increases market liquidity and improves investment environment
- California's renewable energy markets are nascent and changing rapidly
  - High regulatory risk impedes both instate and out of state project financing
  - Creates reluctance for long term deal structures required for financing new infrastructure
  - Introduces uncertainties in grid operation planning, and market outcomes

Managing policy and regulatory risks

- Structured deals
- Project financing
  - Debt and equity
- Project development
- Regulatory advocacy and advisory
- Market liquidity
  - Trading and flow sales
  - Odd-lot liquidity

Typical examples of structured transactions

- Firming and shaping
- REC deals
- Carbon hedging
- Prepays
- Credit sleeves
- Tolling agreements
- PPAs
- Exhaustive/Dynamic contracts

Potential impact of regulatory policies

- Long term
  - Investments, risk, and returns in energy and environmental infrastructure
  - Long term hedging for both producers and consumers
- Medium term
  - Operational planning and policies
  - Impact on three to five year market environment
    - On most liquid term
  - Drives political and legislative initiatives
- Short term
  - Prices in regulatory driven markets (GHG allowances)
  - Impact on future price curves
  - Hedging costs and premiums

How regulatory policies impact markets?:

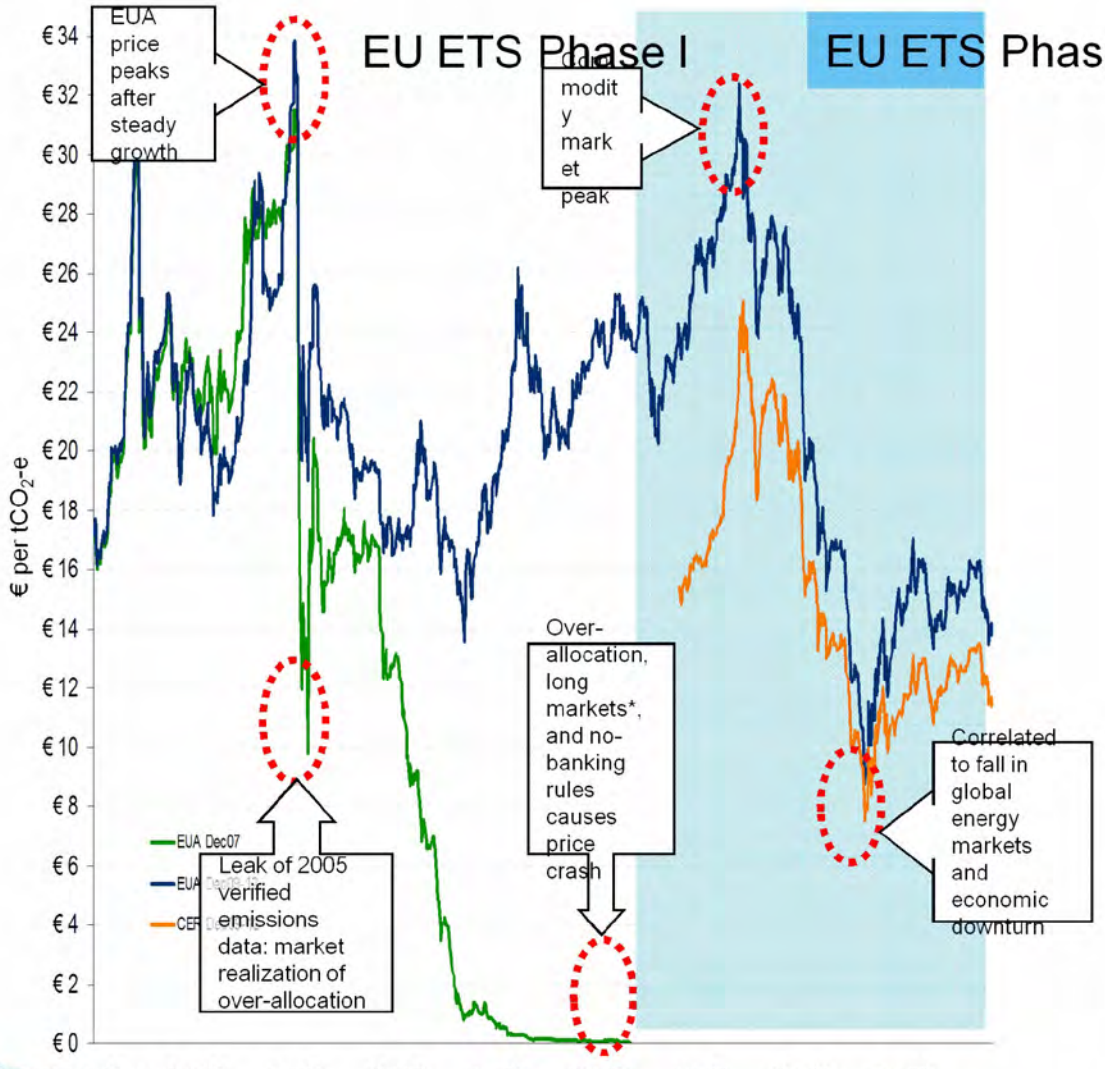
THE PRICE OF EUAs EXPERIENCED SIGNIFICANT VOLATILITY

Price evolution during the EU ETS has represented the market's view about the level of the carbon constraint, and the effort required to comply with it. It has interacted dynamically with fuel and weather markets, as well as expectations about economic growth.



Sources: ECX, Bloomberg

* Program created more allowances than there were actual emission

Recommendations

- Recommendations for nurturing renewables and environmental markets with manageable risk
  - Stable policies and rules
  - Non discriminatory regulations
  - Standardization of products and services
  - Market oriented regulatory environment
  - Integrated view of conventional power, renewables, and environmental markets
  - Effective end-user protection

FIEG members continue to add value

- FIEG members reduce risk, manage volatility, stabilize markets, and reduce costs for long terms benefits to ratepayers and consumers (e.g. providing quotes on large, small, or long-dated obligation hedges.)
- FIEG members bring national and international best industry practices to California's energy and environment industries
- In short, FIEG members manage risks in the renewable markets benefiting producers and consumers in the energy and environment value chain.

Commissioner Ferron,

Thank you for your time yesterday to discuss Risk management in California's renewable energy markets.

FIEG appreciates the opportunity and look forward to working with you and your team on some of the regulatory policy proceedings.

Attached is the final presentation for your records. Feel free to contact us for any questions.

Best regards,

Ishwar Saini

FIEG Presentation to CPUC

Comm. Florio and Comm. Ferron

May 17, 2011

Disclaimer

- Information presented here is meant to be informational and not necessarily accurate for all FIEG members.

FIEG

- Financial Institution Energy Group (FIEG) is comprised of investment and commercial banks
- Its members and their affiliates play a number of roles in California's wholesale power, natural gas, and renewable markets
- Members act as marketers, lenders, underwriters of debt and equity securities, and proprietary investors
- FERC has authorized FIEG's power-marketer members to sell energy, capacity, and AS at market based rates

FIEG Expertise

- FIEG members bring financial, physical, and risk management expertise to energy and environmental markets
- Active participants in global & national energy, renewable, and emissions markets
- Manage risk for clients in a dynamically changing regulatory and market environment
- Offerings with integrated energy, emissions, and financial products to clients

California's energy/environmental landscape

- Inherently complex with multiple regulatory institutions
- Markets are sensitive to respective regulatory policies, e.g.
  - CPUC's TREC decision
  - ARB Cap & Trade and Reporting regulations
  - CEC and REC eligibility
  - Legislative: RPS SB SBx1_2
- Regulatory policies have direct impact on investments, market prices, costs, and risk perception
- California markets remain a work in progress

Regulatory developments and risk assessment

- FIEG members monitor and manage regulatory and market risks
- Perceived high risk adds premium to deal prices with implications on liquidity, volatility, and potential investments
- On the contrary, reduced regulatory risk increases market liquidity and improves investment environment
- California's renewable energy markets are nascent and changing rapidly
  - High regulatory risk impedes both instate and out of state project financing
  - Creates reluctance for long term deal structures required for financing new infrastructure
  - Introduces uncertainties in grid operation planning, and market outcomes

Managing policy and regulatory risks

- Structured deals
- Project financing
  - Debt and equity
- Project development
- Regulatory advocacy and advisory
- Market liquidity
  - Trading and flow sales
  - Odd-lot liquidity

Typical examples of structured transactions

- Firming and shaping
- REC deals
- Carbon hedging
- Prepays
- Credit sleeves
- Tolling agreements
- PPAs
- Exhaustive/Dynamic contracts

Potential impact of regulatory policies

- Long term
  - Investments, risk, and returns in energy and environmental infrastructure
  - Long term hedging for both producers and consumers
- Medium term
  - Operational planning and policies
  - Impact on three to five year market environment
    - On most liquid term
  - Drives political and legislative initiatives
- Short term
  - Prices in regulatory driven markets (GHG allowances)
  - Impact on future price curves
  - Hedging costs and premiums

THE PRICE OF EUAs EXPERIENCED SIGNIFICANT VOLATILITY

Price evolution during the EU ETS has represented the market's view about the level of the carbon constraint, and the effort required to comply with it. It has interacted dynamically with fuel and weather markets, as well as expectations about economic growth.

* Program created more allowances than there were actual emission

Recommendations

- Recommendations for nurturing renewables and environmental markets with manageable risk
  - Stable policies and rules
  - Non discriminatory regulations
  - Standardization of products and services
  - Market oriented regulatory environment
  - Integrated view of conventional power, renewables, and environmental markets
  - Effective end-user protection

FIEG members continue to add value

- FIEG members reduce risk, manage volatility, stabilize markets, and reduce costs for long terms benefits to ratepayers and consumers (e.g. providing quotes on large, small, or long-dated obligation hedges.)
- FIEG members bring national and international best industry practices to California's energy and environment industries
- In short, FIEG members manage risks in the renewable markets benefiting producers and consumers in the energy and environment value chain.

Matt,

Thank you for your time yesterday to discuss Risk management in California's renewable energy markets.

FIEG appreciates the opportunity and look forward to working with you and Comm. Florio's team on some of the regulatory policy proceedings.

Attached is the final presentation for your records. Feel free to contact us for any questions.

Best regards,

FIEG Presentation to CPUC

Comm. Florio and Comm. Ferron

Disclaimer

- Information presented here is meant to be informational and not necessarily accurate for all FIEG members.

FIEG

- Financial Institution Energy Group (FIEG) is comprised of investment and commercial banks
- Its members and their affiliates play a number of roles in California's wholesale power, natural gas, and renewable markets
- Members act as marketers, lenders, underwriters of debt and equity securities, and proprietary investors
- FERC has authorized FIEG's power-marketer members to sell energy, capacity, and AS at market based rates

FIEG Expertise

- FIEG members bring financial, physical, and risk management expertise to energy and environmental markets
- Active participants in global & national energy, renewable, and emissions markets
- Manage risk for clients in a dynamically changing regulatory and market environment
- Offerings with integrated energy, emissions, and financial products to clients

California's energy/environmental landscape

- Inherently complex with multiple regulatory institutions
- Markets are sensitive to respective regulatory policies, e.g.
  - CPUC's TREC decision
  - ARB Cap & Trade and Reporting regulations
  - CEC and REC eligibility
  - Legislative: RPS SB SBx1_2
- Regulatory policies have direct impact on investments, market prices, costs, and risk perception
- California markets remain a work in progress

Regulatory developments and risk assessment

- FIEG members monitor and manage regulatory and market risks
- Perceived high risk adds premium to deal prices with implications on liquidity, volatility, and potential investments
- On the contrary, reduced regulatory risk increases market liquidity and improves investment environment
- California's renewable energy markets are nascent and changing rapidly
  - High regulatory risk impedes both instate and out of state project financing
  - Creates reluctance for long term deal structures required for financing new infrastructure
  - Introduces uncertainties in grid operation planning, and market outcomes

Managing policy and regulatory risks

- Structured deals
- Project financing
  - Debt and equity
- Project development
- Regulatory advocacy and advisory
- Market liquidity
  - Trading and flow sales
  - Odd-lot liquidity

Typical examples of structured transactions

- Firming and shaping
- REC deals
- Carbon hedging
- Prepays
- Credit sleeves
- Tolling agreements
- PPAs
- Exhaustive/Dynamic contracts

Potential impact of regulatory policies

- Long term
  - Investments, risk, and returns in energy and environmental infrastructure
  - Long term hedging for both producers and consumers
- Medium term
  - Operational planning and policies
  - Impact on three to five year market environment
    - On most liquid term
  - Drives political and legislative initiatives
- Short term
  - Prices in regulatory driven markets (GHG allowances)
  - Impact on future price curves
  - Hedging costs and premiums

THE PRICE OF EUAs EXPERIENCED SIGNIFICANT VOLATILITY

Price evolution during the EU ETS has represented the market's view about the level of the carbon constraint, and the effort required to comply with it. It has interacted dynamically with fuel and weather markets, as well as expectations about economic growth.

* Program created more allowances than there were actual emission

Recommendations

- Recommendations for nurturing renewables and environmental markets with manageable risk
  - Stable policies and rules
  - Non discriminatory regulations
  - Standardization of products and services
  - Market oriented regulatory environment
  - Integrated view of conventional power, renewables, and environmental markets
  - Effective end-user protection

FIEG members continue to add value

- FIEG members reduce risk, manage volatility, stabilize markets, and reduce costs for long terms benefits to ratepayers and consumers (e.g. providing quotes on large, small, or long-dated obligation hedges.)
- FIEG members bring national and international best industry practices to California's energy and environment industries
- In short, FIEG members manage risks in the renewable markets benefiting producers and consumers in the energy and environment value chain.

Commissioner Ferron,

Thank you for your time on Tuesday, May 17, 2011 to discuss Risk management in California's renewable energy markets.

FIEG appreciates the opportunity and look forward to working with you and your team on some of the regulatory policy proceedings.

Attached is the final presentation for your records. Feel free to contact us for any questions.

Best regards,

Ishwar Saini

FIEG Presentation to CPUC

Comm. Florio and Comm. Ferron

May 17, 2011

Disclaimer

- Information presented here is meant to be informational and not necessarily accurate for all FIEG members.

FIEG

- Financial Institution Energy Group (FIEG) is comprised of investment and commercial banks
- Its members and their affiliates play a number of roles in California's wholesale power, natural gas, and renewable markets
- Members act as marketers, lenders, underwriters of debt and equity securities, and proprietary investors
- FERC has authorized FIEG's power-marketer members to sell energy, capacity, and AS at market based rates

FIEG Expertise

- FIEG members bring financial, physical, and risk management expertise to energy and environmental markets
- Active participants in global & national energy, renewable, and emissions markets
- Manage risk for clients in a dynamically changing regulatory and market environment
- Offerings with integrated energy, emissions, and financial products to clients

California's energy/environmental landscape

- Inherently complex with multiple regulatory institutions
- Markets are sensitive to respective regulatory policies, e.g.
  - CPUC's TREC decision
  - ARB Cap & Trade and Reporting regulations
  - CEC and REC eligibility
  - Legislative: RPS SB SBx1_2
- Regulatory policies have direct impact on investments, market prices, costs, and risk perception
- California markets remain a work in progress

Regulatory developments and risk assessment

- FIEG members monitor and manage regulatory and market risks
- Perceived high risk adds premium to deal prices with implications on liquidity, volatility, and potential investments
- On the contrary, reduced regulatory risk increases market liquidity and improves investment environment
- California's renewable energy markets are nascent and changing rapidly
  - High regulatory risk impedes both instate and out of state project financing
  - Creates reluctance for long term deal structures required for financing new infrastructure
  - Introduces uncertainties in grid operation planning, and market outcomes

Managing policy and regulatory risks

- Structured deals
- Project financing
  - Debt and equity
- Project development
- Regulatory advocacy and advisory
- Market liquidity
  - Trading and flow sales
  - Odd-lot liquidity

Typical examples of structured transactions

- Firming and shaping
- REC deals
- Carbon hedging
- Prepays
- Credit sleeves
- Tolling agreements
- PPAs
- Exhaustive/Dynamic contracts

Potential impact of regulatory policies

- Long term
  - Investments, risk, and returns in energy and environmental infrastructure
  - Long term hedging for both producers and consumers
- Medium term
  - Operational planning and policies
  - Impact on three to five year market environment
    - On most liquid term
  - Drives political and legislative initiatives
- Short term
  - Prices in regulatory driven markets (GHG allowances)
  - Impact on future price curves
  - Hedging costs and premiums

How regulatory policies impact markets?:

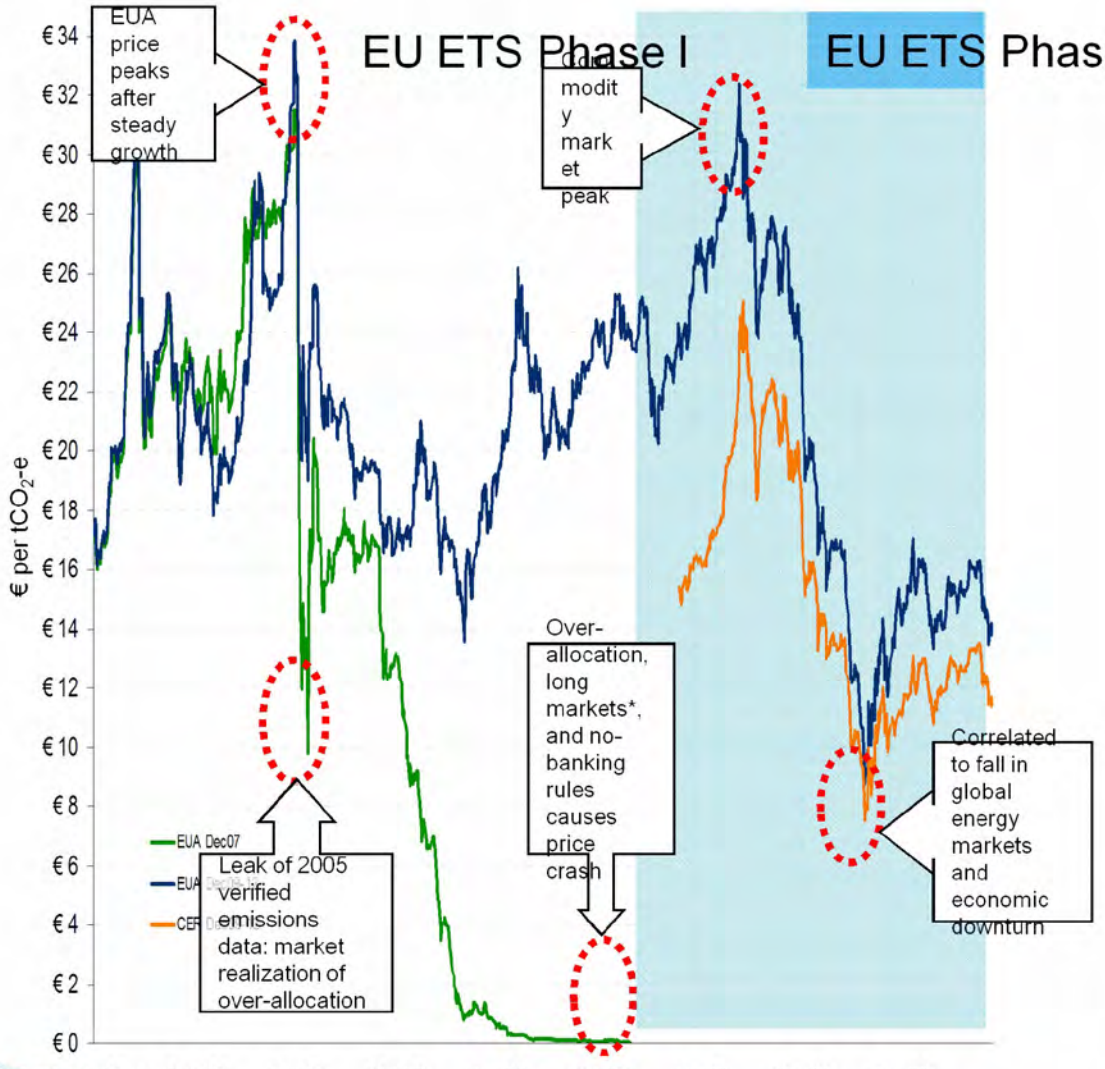
THE PRICE OF EUAs EXPERIENCED SIGNIFICANT VOLATILITY

Price evolution during the EU ETS has represented the market's view about the level of the carbon constraint, and the effort required to comply with it. It has interacted dynamically with fuel and weather markets, as well as expectations about economic growth.



Sources: ECX, Bloomberg

* Program created more allowances than there were actual emission

Recommendations

- Recommendations for nurturing renewables and environmental markets with manageable risk
  - Stable policies and rules
  - Non discriminatory regulations
  - Standardization of products and services
  - Market oriented regulatory environment
  - Integrated view of conventional power, renewables, and environmental markets
  - Effective end-user protection

FIEG members continue to add value

- FIEG members reduce risk, manage volatility, stabilize markets, and reduce costs for long terms benefits to ratepayers and consumers (e.g. providing quotes on large, small, or long-dated obligation hedges.)
- FIEG members bring national and international best industry practices to California's energy and environment industries
- In short, FIEG members manage risks in the renewable markets benefiting producers and consumers in the energy and environment value chain.

Commissioner Florio,

Thank you for your time on Tuesday, May 17, 2011 to discuss Risk management in California's renewable energy markets.

FIEG appreciates the opportunity and look forward to working with you and your team on some of the regulatory policy proceedings.

Attached is the final presentation for your records. Feel free to contact us for any questions.

Best regards,

Ishwar Saini

FIEG Presentation to CPUC

Comm. Florio and Comm. Ferron

Disclaimer

- Information presented here is meant to be informational and not necessarily accurate for all FIEG members.

FIEG

- Financial Institution Energy Group (FIEG) is comprised of investment and commercial banks
- Its members and their affiliates play a number of roles in California's wholesale power, natural gas, and renewable markets
- Members act as marketers, lenders, underwriters of debt and equity securities, and proprietary investors
- FERC has authorized FIEG's power-marketer members to sell energy, capacity, and AS at market based rates

FIEG Expertise

- FIEG members bring financial, physical, and risk management expertise to energy and environmental markets
- Active participants in global & national energy, renewable, and emissions markets
- Manage risk for clients in a dynamically changing regulatory and market environment
- Offerings with integrated energy, emissions, and financial products to clients

California's energy/environmental landscape

- Inherently complex with multiple regulatory institutions
- Markets are sensitive to respective regulatory policies, e.g.
  - CPUC's TREC decision
  - ARB Cap & Trade and Reporting regulations
  - CEC and REC eligibility
  - Legislative: RPS SB SBx1_2
- Regulatory policies have direct impact on investments, market prices, costs, and risk perception
- California markets remain a work in progress

Regulatory developments and risk assessment

- FIEG members monitor and manage regulatory and market risks
- Perceived high risk adds premium to deal prices with implications on liquidity, volatility, and potential investments
- On the contrary, reduced regulatory risk increases market liquidity and improves investment environment
- California's renewable energy markets are nascent and changing rapidly
  - High regulatory risk impedes both instate and out of state project financing
  - Creates reluctance for long term deal structures required for financing new infrastructure
  - Introduces uncertainties in grid operation planning, and market outcomes

Managing policy and regulatory risks

- Structured deals
- Project financing
  - Debt and equity
- Project development
- Regulatory advocacy and advisory
- Market liquidity
  - Trading and flow sales
  - Odd-lot liquidity

Typical examples of structured transactions

- Firming and shaping
- REC deals
- Carbon hedging
- Prepays
- Credit sleeves
- Tolling agreements
- PPAs
- Exhaustive/Dynamic contracts

Potential impact of regulatory policies

- Long term
  - Investments, risk, and returns in energy and environmental infrastructure
  - Long term hedging for both producers and consumers
- Medium term
  - Operational planning and policies
  - Impact on three to five year market environment
    - On most liquid term
  - Drives political and legislative initiatives
- Short term
  - Prices in regulatory driven markets (GHG allowances)
  - Impact on future price curves
  - Hedging costs and premiums

THE PRICE OF EUAs EXPERIENCED SIGNIFICANT VOLATILITY

Price evolution during the EU ETS has represented the market's view about the level of the carbon constraint, and the effort required to comply with it. It has interacted dynamically with fuel and weather markets, as well as expectations about economic growth.

* Program created more allowances than there were actual emission

Recommendations

- Recommendations for nurturing renewables and environmental markets with manageable risk
  - Stable policies and rules
  - Non discriminatory regulations
  - Standardization of products and services
  - Market oriented regulatory environment
  - Integrated view of conventional power, renewables, and environmental markets
  - Effective end-user protection

FIEG members continue to add value

- FIEG members reduce risk, manage volatility, stabilize markets, and reduce costs for long terms benefits to ratepayers and consumers (e.g. providing quotes on large, small, or long-dated obligation hedges.)
- FIEG members bring national and international best industry practices to California's energy and environment industries
- In short, FIEG members manage risks in the renewable markets benefiting producers and consumers in the energy and environment value chain.

Mathew,
Thank you for the advise. We will certainly participate in CPUC proceeding given the several ongoing issues which are impacting us.

Andre is delighted to know that you may ask him to work on intellectual/analytical support.

Please feel free to ask for any specific questions you may have from the presentations. Look forward to staying in touch with you and your team. Thank you again.

Best regards,

Ishwar Saini

Thank you, Ishwar. Commissioner Florio will be glad to have FIEG's engagement in PUC proceedings going forward. I plan to take Andre up on his offer of intellectual/analytic support. We'll certainly be in touch.

Matthew and Michael,

How are you doing?

Me and Andre Templeman are planning to be San Francisco on June 21st and 22nd. Wondering if you are available for a meeting over lunch or dinner either of these days. Alternatively, we can meet for B'fast during one of the days.

The intent is to discuss general regulatory developments in the California energy and environment markets. In addition, it may be an opportunity for you to initiate with Andre his offer on intellectual/analytical support.

Will appreciate your response. Thank you.

Best regards,

I could do breakfast or a 5pm cocktail on the 21st or breakfast on the 22nd. The 5pm option is my preference.

Thank you again for your willingness to share thoughts on finance in renewable markets. A couple questions have come to mind:

First, of the renewable plants that have been successfully developed in California, are there any discernable trends in the financing structure? Are projects financed off the parent company's balance sheet performing better than those financed in the market? Any trends among debt/equity ratios or sources that can be used in forecasting a project's success?

Second: for biomass and biogas, how do potential investors quantify risk in a project's fuel supply? Is this a driving consideration for such investors?

A call on Monday won't work for me. How about Thursday, June 9 after 2?

Alisa,

I also need to know the payee on the check. From notes I see in my file, it looks like the payee was the CPUC and not Comr. Simon. Can you confirm this as well as letting me know that the check was (or was not) cashed?

Subject: Schedule for PG&E/San Bruno case

Cleo,

Sorry I didn't get a chance to take your call. In view of the time difference I'm sending this e-mail in lieu of calling back. The current schedule (that I adopted at the February 14 pre-hearing conference) provides for the following:

Consumer Protection and Safety Division (CPSD) testimony served 3/16/12
Intervenor testimony served 4/16/12
PG&E testimony served 6/15/12
CPSD rebuttal testimony served 8/10/12
Discovery cut-off 9/7/12
Evidentiary hearings begin 9/17/12 and continuing for up to 4 weeks

Since the prehearing conference was held I learned of a scheduling conflict that requires the hearings to start a week later (i.e. 9/24). As I mentioned in my voice mail, a formal ruling will be issued in the very near future that addresses the schedule and related procedural matters.

Subject:	Please Register Now - Macquarie Utilities, Power and Gas Conference, Vail, Colorado March 17 to 19, 2013

Hello,

We have yet to receive registration from a large number of those who indicated they plan to attend. So, in order to confirm your attendance please register as soon as possible at www.macquarie.com/vailconference. We have room for an additional 50 participants.

We currently have approximately 70 attendees registered including senior executives from NRG (CEO), Oncor (CEO), Tenaska, (CEO), NorthWestern (Director) Nipsco, Solar Reserve (CFO), Spectra (CEO), PSEG (Snr VP Renewables), Excel Energy, DTE Energy, First Wind (CEO), HECO, Puget Energy (CFO), Atlantic Power (EVP), Edison International (SVP), Opower (President and Founder), Freeport LNG, Calpine, EFH, Sempra; and senior Partners from various energy/infrastructure/pension funds active in our industry including GIC, Hudson Clean Energy, Madison Dearborn, EIF, John Hancock, AIG, Ontario Teachers, Borealis, Covanta, DFJ, etc as well as FERC (Commissioner) and selected State utility regulatory Commissioners from eight States, MISO (CEO), and other policy and interest groups such as the Nuclear Energy Institute and the Clean Air Task Force. We are also waiting to hear back from AES, Dynegy, PG+E and a number of other utility and technology CEO/CFO's.

Below is some background on this conference which may be helpful to provide some context on the format and participants.

This year the Sunday night dinner Keynote speaker will be Senator Alan Simpson who will be talking at a crucial time around the US Budget. Additional speakers include Chairman Barry Smitherman (Texas Railroad Commission) and one of the key Natural Gas Regulators on the ripple effect from abundant natural gas, Christopher Smith (Department of Energy, LGN), Dan Reicher (formerly of Google, DOE and now at Stanford's Centre for Energy Policy), Robert Bryce (author and commentator on the role of renewable energy in the generation mix – see http://www.youtube.com/watch?feature=player_embedded&v=aQcvdhFyW9s) who will debate with Bill Green (formerly of Vantage Point) on the benefits of thermal versus renewable energy over dinner on Monday evening March 18, in a picturesque alpine chalet setting.

This is not a financial conference; rather it is dialogue or discussion around contemporary industry issues. It is structured to be truly interactive where, by using a moderate the discussion flows between the panel and the audience. All discussions are conducted under Chatham House Rule and are confidential to those participating "in the room". In many ways there will be as many experts on a given topic in the audience as on the panels. Over the 2 ½ days the discussions will revolve around five panels and keynote speeches; *The Economy, Capital, Climate and Growth; Natural Gas; Regulation and Industry Structure; Renewables, Technology and Transmission as well as a Regulators Round Table Discussion.

As with previous conferences we will have a broad cross section of attendees, points of view and companies, a real mixing pot in our industry. The format is designed to allow a free flowing debate of the serious industry issues around a theme (this year's theme is "Navigating the New Normal" which we will stick to in each panel/audience discussion) and high quality speakers with very strong audience participation – no "talking heads allowed" coupled with afternoons for networking/skiing (we have arranged for Olympians Phil and Steve Mahre to ski with guests) /back country horse riding or riding skidoo's, and speakers over dinner etc.

Once in Vail, you will be provided with:

- Accommodation at the Vail Cascade Resort and Spa in Vail
- All transfers to and from Vail Eagle Airport
- Formal dinners (and lunch) including Key Note Speakers
- A choice of alpine activities from skiing, snowmobiling and horse riding, including all equipment rentals, lift tickets, guides and lift tickets.

Feel free to call me on 212 231 1735 or Britni Seaholm on 212 231 1387 with any questions. Again the registration web site is www.macquarie.com/vailconference.

I hope you can find the time to join us in Vail. As always partners are welcome to join.

With best regards,

Alan

Subject:	Invitation to attend and participate on Regulatory Panel - Macquarie 8th Annual Utilities, Power and Gas Dialogue - March 17 to 19, Vail, CO
Attachments:	Vail Agenda.docx

Commissioner Sandoval,

I hope this email finds you well.

Unfortunately I missed catching up with you at NARUC in D.C. earlier last week. I also understand that Bob Gee has, or will over the coming days, spoken to you regarding participating in Macquarie's upcoming Utilities, Power and Gas Conference in Vail, Colorado from March 17 to 19. We would be delighted if you would consider joining us and I have attached a draft conference agenda for your information.

So, I would like to formally invite you to attend this year's conference and participate in a regulatory panel discussion entitled "Regulators Round Table – What's on your Mind". Other participants on this panel will include Commissioner John Norris (FERC), Commissioner Eric Castillo (Wisconsin), Chairman Joshua Epel (Colorado), Chairman Rob Powelson (Pennsylvania), Commissioner Jeanne Fox (New Jersey) and likely a Commissioner from New York.

As with previous conferences we will have a broad cross section of approximately 100 participants (including a group of around 8 state utility regulators, as well as senior industry company representatives – largely CEO/CFO's and a group of Pension Fund/Infrastructure Fund representatives active in the utility industry - a real mixing pot. The format is designed to allow a free flowing debate of the serious industry issues around a theme (this year's theme is "Navigating the New Normal" which we will stick to in each panel/audience discussion) and high quality speakers with very strong audience participation – no "talking heads allowed" coupled with afternoons for networking/skiing (we have arranged for Olympians Phil and Steve Mahre to ski with guests) /back country horse riding or riding skidoo's, and speakers over dinner etc. We would also be pleased to cover your travel and related costs to and from Vail, Colorado should this be appropriate.

This is not a financial conference; rather it is dialogue or discussion around contemporary industry issues. It is structured to be truly interactive where, by using a moderate the discussion flows between the panel and the audience. All discussions are conducted under Chatham House Rule and are confidential to those participating "in the room" . Over the 2 ½ days the discussions will revolve around five panels and keynote speeches; The Economy, Capital, Climate and Growth; Natural Gas; Regulation and Industry Structure; Renewables, Technology and Transmission as well as a Regulators Round Table Discussion.

The registrants to date (in addition to the speakers and panellists) include senior executives from NRG (CEO), Oncor (CEO), Tenaska, (CEO), NorthWestern (Director) Nipsco, Solar Reserve (CFO), Spectra (CEO), PSEG (Snr VP Renewables), Excel Energy, DTE Energy, First Wind (CEO), HECO, Puget Energy (CFO), Atlantic Power (EVP), Edison International (SVP), Opower (President and Founder), Freeport LNG, Calpine, EFH, Sempra; and senior Partners from various energy/infrastructure/pension funds active in our industry including GIC, Hudson Clean Energy, Madison Dearborn, EIF, John Hancock, AIG, Ontario Teachers, Borealis, Covanta, DFJ, etc as well as FERC (Commissioner) and selected State utility regulatory Commissioners (including to date from New Jersey, Wisconsin, Texas, California, Pennsylvania, Colorado), MISO (CEO), and other policy and interest groups such as the Nuclear Energy Institute and the Clean Air Task Force. We are also waiting to hear back from AES, Dynegy, PG+E and a number of other utility and technology CEO/CFO's.

If appropriate I will also provide our views on the panel discussion talking points later next week, although again we are looking to develop a conversational dialogue on current issues between the audience and panelists. We ask that panelists not prepare slides or speeches – this event is a truly interactive dialogue format under Chatham House Rule where by use of a moderator the panel discussions are merge with those of the audience; as in many ways there will be as many experts on a given topic in the audience as on the panels. I am confident you will enjoy the experience, find it somewhat unique and professionally rewarding.

We are confident that you will find the attendees, key note speakers; format and content of real interest (not to mention the surroundings and activities!); so we hope you can join us in Vail.

Below is some background on this conference which may be helpful.

Initiating coverage with an outperform, $46 PT; LT turnaround story
We are initiating coverage of PCG with an Outperform rating and a $46 price target. San Bruno (SB) and remain a big overhang on PCG stock. However, long-term we believe PCG is fundamentally sound an opportunity to buy a regulated utility at a sizeable discount to the group. We see the major issues with Sa resolution this year and believe PCG is well positioned for the long-term with above-average rate base growth continue to view favorably California regulation.

Nearing resolution on major San Bruno issues; 4/26 key date
After a few years of investigations, there is one big decision left on fines. Based on the failed settlement disc and our discussions at the California PUC we believe a $500 million fine assumption is a reasonable estima briefs on the proposed fine will be filed 4/26. We believe the CPUC is working towards a decision on the fine the third anniversary of San Bruno. In our view, certainty on the fine will be an inflection point and will al expansion.

Equity needs sizeable; rate cases up next
We project sizeable equity needs of $1.5B in 2013, $1.2B in 2014, $1B in 2015 and $800M in 2016. Near-te used to fund one-time costs, penalties and capex. Longer-term the equity is used to fund growth capex. We $5.1-$5.2B of capex annually. PCG has two major rate cases upcoming, the 2014 GRC and the 2015 gas tr which will include the PSEP Phase 2. Cody,

I just spoke to Carol and she said you would be the best person to contact to book a meeting with her on April 2. We are investors/analysts in the utilities space and we were hoping to speak to her on CA regulatory matters for PCG and EIX (I gave her details as well). We are not parties to the case, so this is not an ex-parte meeting.

We are available from 9am-12pm on April 2nd.

Cody,

I just spoke to Carol and she said you would be the best person to contact to book a meeting with her on April 2. We are investors/analysts in the utilities space and we were hoping to speak to her on CA regulatory matters for PCG and EIX (I gave her details as well). We are not parties to the case, so this is not an ex-parte meeting.

We are available from 9am-12pm on April 2nd.

Thanks!

Hi Folks,

I just spoke with Naz Khumawala at Wolfe Trahan. She is bringing in a group of analysts on April 2 to meet with various Commissioners and staff. She expects to have 20 people in her meeting and so requests that, if possible, we use Room 5305 to be sure there is adequate space and to limit the number of moves the large group has to make.

I know you're all managing your respective meetings. I suggest we coordinate to see whether it is possible to accommodate Naz's request.

Thank you,

Matthew

Hi Folks,

I just spoke with Naz Khumawala at Wolfe Trahan. She is bringing in a group of analysts on April 2 to meet with various Commissioners and staff. She expects to have 20 people in her meeting and so requests that, if possible, we use Room 5305 to be sure there is adequate space and to limit the number of moves the large group has to make.

I know you're all managing your respective meetings. I suggest we coordinate to see whether it is possible to accommodate Naz's request.

Thank you,

Matthew

He will continue in that role in addition to his new responsibilit has been ranked the #1 Accounting & Tax Policy Analyst in Institutional Investor magazine's All-America for the past four consecutive years.

"Chris has distinguished himself as a gifted analyst whose sharp mind and unyielding standards have ear of his clients and colleagues alike," said Wolfe. "Chris will launch on both Strategy and an expanded Q mid-May. He is well known to the senior decision makers of our client firms and his macro work alre beyond the traditional confines of his current research area. His promotion to these additional positions i and recognizes both the contributions he's already made to our franchise and clientele and those he will b make in his new role."

Mr. Senyek noted, "I am thrilled by the opportunity to branch out from my Accounting and Tax Polic broader macro sectors of Portfolio Strategy and Quant. A great deal of my product already touches these excited to have direct responsibility for them. My team and I have developed Quant screens over the ye such as earnings quality, cash flow returns and dividend policy. These screens lead directly to portfc recommendations which would typically be in the Strategy domain. I am looking forward to launching my framework, which will seek to combine the best of both macro-economic and micro-economic inputs."

"The recent addition to the team of Chip Miller, formerly Small Cap Strategist at UBS, will also augm market strategy and sector weighting products," Senyek commented. Chris and his team will provide b sector views while continuing to publish and refine their well-developed Quant tools.

Mr. Wolfe added that the firm has reverted to its original name, Wolfe Research, and expects to complete over the coming weeks. "Wolfe Research is already recognized as a brand which stands for thorou differentiated research and for its dedication to the superior service of its institutional client base. Quiet quarter, but San Bruno fine recommendation approaching
PCG held a relatively quiet earnings call with no new costs or cost increases on San Bruno. Following a stı call with cost increases, we view this positively. On Monday (May 6) intervenors are expected to file fine recommendations in PG&E's San Bruno investigations. We believe the fine recommendation will be substa However, we believe investors will view it as an inflection point in the stock after which the biggest uncer is known and resolution on San Bruno is visible. Reiterate outperform, but stock will be noisy near-term.

Assume $500M in estimates; sensitivity: every $500M fine is ~$0.06/sh
The Safety and Enforcement Staff (SED) and other intervenors will file a recommendation in PCG's San Br investigations. We assume $500M of fines ($300M incremental) in our estimates. That said, these recomr could be higher. The recommendations may be predicated on assuming that PCG is found guilty of each o violations; ultimately we do not expect this to be the case. Every $500M in fine is about $0.06/sh of earni Our 2015 estimate is $3.23/sh. A recommendation of $1B would bring our estimate down to $3.17/sh.

Fine recommendation may trigger reserve, equity
The fine recommendation may trigger PCG taking a bigger reserve for fines/penalties which will likely trig issuance to refill the equity layer. Currently PCG has reserved $200M for the fine. Timing is uncertain as t could come next earnings season. However, one of the side benefits of the multiple expansion in utilities dilution for equity issuers. As PCG has the biggest equity needs in our coverage, it is benefitting from a hi price at which it can issue stock and lower the dilution impact to earnings. We are raising our estimates $ higher share price assumption for equity issuances. Our new 2013-2016 estimates are $2.58, $3.07, $3.2 $3.29/sh. On these estimates, PCG is trading about a 5% discount to the regulated group.

DRA recommendation on 2014 rate case due Friday, May 3rd
In PCG's 2014 electric general rate case, the Division of Ratepayer Advocates (DRA), advocacy Staff, will tomorrow. DRA has historically been very negative on any rate increases and we do not expect this to be As a reminder, final decisions in rate cases tend to be better than what the DRA recommends.

Subject: CPSD recommendation

Paul! Do you have a rough estimate of what the CPSD allows them to consider spent on PSEP Phase 1. Please??

Fine recommendations released for San Bruno

Fine recommendations recommend total fine of $2B+, includes PSEP
CPSD (Safety staff) and other intervenors filed fine/penalties recommendations in the PCG San Bruno investig fine/penalties recommendations in total ranged from $2.25B-$2.5B, but include some of the disallowed costs a by PCG shareholders in the Pipeline Safety Plan (PSEP). We believe the fine recommendation is substantial. H believe investors will view it as an inflection point in the stock after which the biggest uncertainty for PG&E is resolution on San Bruno is visible. Reiterate outperform.

CPSD recommends $2.25B penalty applied to PSEP Phases 1 and 2
CPSD recommends PCG bear $2.25B in costs on the PSEP. The CPSD alleges over 900 violations in aggregate The CPSD has not quantified how much PCG shareholders have already absorbed. We estimate around $1.3B. estimate includes shareholder PSEP costs to date (~$675M), capex write-offs (additional $300M) and PCG's es disallowed costs for the remainder of 2013 and 2014 ($300-$400M). Thus we estimate the incremental hi be roughly $900M or so pre-tax or $600M after-tax, which is relatively close to our current $500M e

DRA, TURN, City of San Bruno have bigger fine recommendations
DRA recommends a penalty of $2.5B including a $550M fine. DRA believes PSEP Phase 1 disallowances total $ incremental $1.169B go toward the PSEP Phase 1. TURN recommends a fine of $2.25B, and estimates PSEP di to date of $785M. The City of San Bruno recommends a fine of $1.25B, plus PCG spend an additional $250M c endowments and consortiums.

Timing of equity, reserve uncertain
We are currently not changing our estimates until we have more clarity on expense and timing of the addition PSEP disallowances. Our 2015 estimate is $3.23/sh and includes $500M of total fines. Each additional $500M $0.07/sh. It is not clear to us whether these penalties will be against Phase 1 or Phase 2 or both. A write-off c could trigger additional equity needs for PCG in 2013, above the ~$1.2B it already forecasts.

Next steps: PCG to file reply testimony May 24; can recs go beyond fines?
PCG will file reply testimony on May 24, rebuttal testimony is due June 5. We expect a litigated resolution by Importantly, an issue to watch is whether the CPUC can legally implement remedies and penalties as opposed

San Bruno updates continue; resolution ultimate goal
Earlier this evening the City of San Bruno released a press release stating that four lawyers that were working Bruno case for the CPUC have been reassigned to other cases. We believe this press release highlights how se Bruno process remains. We are not sure what impact this reassignment will ultimately have. That said, there to be a slowdown in the process of the cases as the CPSD filed its reply brief on the San Bruno penalties today pushes for the penalty to be toward safety spending and pipeline improvements, potentially including rights of continue to view the $2.25B fine recommendation as substantial. However, we believe investors will view resc Bruno as constructive. Reiterate outperform.

Continued changes at CPUC; San Bruno remains very political
A press release put out by the City of San Bruno states that four lawyers at the CPUC that had been working Bruno case for the past three years have recently all been reassigned to other cases. It is unclear why these l reassigned though the City of San Bruno believes this is concerning and should be investigated. We believe th highlights the ongoing scrutiny on the CPUC since the San Bruno incident and how every aspect is politicized. wary of negative headline risk.

CPSD files reply briefs on fines and remediations for San Bruno
The CPSD filed its reply brief on its penalty recommendations. Reply briefs for the San Bruno penalties are du we can expect the other intervenors to file in the next few days. In the filing, Gen. Hagan, director of the CPS against many of PG&E's assertions saying that the penalty is not excessive, and that the penalty funds be use gas system more safe. Moreover, CPSD supports a flexible apportionment of the penalty (towards Phase I or P PSEP) or towards the Gas Accord V. CPSD also supports penalties be applied toward gas pipeline right-of-way is estimated around $500M by PG&E. Finally the CPSD states that according to the Overland report, penalizing $2.25B could impact the financial health of the utility and jeopardize safety.

Estimates unchanged for now
We are currently not changing our estimates until we have more clarity on expense and timing of the addition PSEP disallowances. Our 2015 estimate is $3.23/sh and includes $500M of total fines. Each additional $500M $0.07/sh. It is not clear to us whether these penalties will be against Phase 1 or Phase 2 or both. A write-off c could trigger additional equity needs for PCG in 2013, above the ~$1.2B it already forecasts.

CPSD asks to re-file reply testimony on San Bruno penalty cases; concerning Yesterday, the CPSD (Consumer Protection and Safety Division ((enforcement Staff) filed a motion to file an a brief in the penalty cases for San Bruno. CPSD says that due to the multiple lawyer and staff changes on its e correct certain inaccuracies in statements in its briefs. As a reminder, CPSD originally filed its reply briefs on J and pushed for the penalty to be toward safety spending and pipeline improvements, potentially including righ spend. It is not clear what the new reply testimony (due July 15) will include. We find the recent development are watchful to see how it impacts recommendations and the schedule.

Bracketing a best case and a worst case
The CPSD's new reply testimony could keep its original recommendations the same, but write a more fulsome correct technical language—we would view this positively. Conversely, the CPSD could change its entire recor move towards a $2.25B fine that does not give PCG any credit for past expenditures towards safety. We believ briefs will be somewhere in between. Last week the City of San Bruno filed a motion to strike "credits" from th that the CPSD proposal is wholly unsupported by evidence and violates due process. In its request to file an ar brief, the CPSD mentions that it will make some of the City of San Bruno motion moot.

CPSD likely to keep view that penalty go to safety spend, in our view
We believe the CPSD and the CPUC would prefer that penalties for San Bruno go towards safety spend and im pipeline system. However, it is not clear if the City of San Bruno will be successful in getting the concept of "c PCG spend stricken in the record. We believe PCG should be allowed to count safety improvements towards th note that in the hearings on the Overland report, the penalty number recommended ($2.25B) was supposed t all-inclusive.

Could delay timeline for ALJ decision and resolution
Ultimately, we believe the amended CPSD reply brief raises uncertainty not only on the ultimate penalty reco also on timing of a decision, which has dragged on for awhile. An ALJ decision is due 60 days after reply briefs possible that the clock could start again if the CPSD amends its reply briefs. That said, we believe the CPUC is a decision in the San Bruno case and could stick to the original 8/7 timeline for an ALJ decision. Next steps ne to the CPSD motion due 7/10. ALJ ruling due 7/12. CPSD amended reply filed 7/15. ALJ ruling on City of San 7/16.

San Bruno recommendation much worse; seems extreme

CPSD amendments add another $600M hit to shareholders plus lost rate base
With its lawyers back in the driver seat, the California Public Safety Division staff issued a meaningfully worse recommendation on PCG's San Bruno fines/penalties than its initial recommendation. Even though the $2.25I is the same, the new CPSD take is much more prescriptive and allows very little credit for costs that shareholc already absorbed. The CPSD would force shareholders to cover $1.515B of PSEP 1 and 2 pipeline investment expected to be put in rate base. This $900m after-tax expense together with a new $300M fine would increas shareholder hit to $1.2B after-tax versus the $600m or less we estimated in CPSD's initial testimony.

2015E drops to $2.99 from $3.23 on more equity and lower rate base
We are lowering our 2015E to $2.99 from $3.23 reflecting this new recommendation. This estimate cut reflect of equity issuance (as we now expense $1.4B in capex) as well as lost earnings from about $1.4B of PSEP capi no longer be recovered in rate base. Earnings growth from rate base growth in 2016 is largely offset by diluti already assumed an incremental $300M fine ($500M total) in our estimates.

Stock rally seemed misplaced
PCG stock rallied after the news came out in late trading. From our discussions, investors seemed to think the was the $300m fine and that the amendments were less burdensome than feared. We believe the combinatio the large loss of PSEP rate base and the lack of any credit for the billions that shareholders have already abso disappointing and expect some negative reaction as this sinks in.

CPSD seems extreme for final outcome; ALJ next and then PUC order
We maintain our Outperform rating as we see limited downside if the CPSD recommendation holds and believe chance for some improvement in the ALJ and final order given how extreme the CPSD view is. We note shareh already incurred $1.4B pre-tax, and these additional fines would increase total shareholder spend to over $3B potentially another $700M or so to come for rights of way spend, etc). At the current average P/E of 15x 201 downside of about $1 to $45 if the CPSD views becomes final. An ALJ decision should come at the latest by mi with a final order in October. Removal of San Bruno overhang is a key turning point for PCG stock and we wa long as the 2015 starting point is not too low. We are lowering our price target to $48 from $51 on our targe multiple of 16x 2015.

ALJ seeks more info on San Bruno penalty; more penalty
On 7/30, the CPUC ALJ asked for comments from PCG and parties related to financing, taxes and accounting o fines/penalties. The comments and replies are not due until 9/13 and 9/23, respectively. This implies an ALJ p will not be issued until at least October/November and a final order around year end, with some risk the proce early 2014.

PCG argues recommendations are excessive and have lost all perspective
On its earnings call, PCG management voiced their displeasure with the large penalties/fines in the CPSD reco their view, all the focus of CPSD and the ALJ questions seem to focus on how much PCG shareholders could af opposed to what penalties are deserved. Also, there seems to be little recognition for the $2B shareholders ha absorbed as well as the changes in management and operations that have occurred. On a separate note, PCG the San Bruno criminal investigation activity has heated up.

Earnings, financing, right of way spend all on track; positive news on transmission
Aside the negative San Bruno tone, the rest of the news was good. Q2 was a beat at $0.79 vs consensus of $0 guidance was affirmed. The $500m right of way clearance estimate is still in line and there were no new write issued $575m of new equity YTD, about half its annual target. Finally, PCG filed a new transmission rate case ROE, well above the last allowed of 9.1%, and could put this in place by October benefitting transmission earn

Delays disappointing, but still a good value
The San Bruno case continues to move further into extra innings. However, PCG is trading at a discount to the our 2015E of $3.00 which assumes the new CPSD recommendation is approved. We remain hopeful that this i position and that the final PUC order will be more balanced. We reiterate our Outperform rating and $48 PT.

Risk/reward not worth waiting for San Bruno order
A number of recent developments make us concerned that the final San Bruno outcome is more likely to be or end of the spectrum for shareholders. It is possible that the CPUC surprises to the upside in a final order, but huge political pressure. PCG stock is trading at an average utility multiple on our 2015E of $2.99, which assu staff recommendation is adopted. We think the stock is fairly valued at this level given a lack of conviction th be much better and the need for large amounts of equity without regulatory support and at a time when rates utility stocks are under pressure. Our new price target is $45 from $48.

What's new that worries us - are the tax benefits lost too?
While we thought the CPSD staff rec was extreme, the ALJ questions that came a few weeks after seemed to i more issues, including a question of whether tax benefits from the billions of unrecovered costs should be pass customers. PCG will respond to the ALJ today, but in our discussions PCG indicated it has been saying all alon fully clear that a penalty recommendation will be considered tax deductible by the IRS. We had not thought t question, but could possibly make the CPSD and other recommendations even worse than we assumed.

Calendar delayed with risk of more negative surprises
The ALJ filing made us more concerned that they could be just as bad as or worse than CPSD. Additionally, th delayed the process to the point that a final order is now likely at the end of 2013 at best and possibly into 20 meantime, PCG highlighted the ongoing criminal investigation on their Q2 call and the CA statute of limitation September, which means a decision on criminal charges is likely coming soon with implications hard to predict cause filed by the PUC on PCG related to pipeline testing data changes indicates a continued high pressure en

Still like rest of PCG, but San Bruno overwhelms all Outside of SB we see constructive fundamentals, with strong rate base growth and favorable CA regulation. Bu lack of certainty, both on timing of resolution and magnitude, make PCG tough to own. In addition, PCG is cur dealing with an electric rate case and will file a gas rate case next year. We expect a reasonable outcome, but overhang. Our $45 PT is based on 15x P/E for 2015E earnings. Our 2013-2016 estimates are unchanged at $2 $2.99 and $3.06 per share. We assume the CPSD rec in our estimates ($300M incremental fine, $1.5B disallo

PCG files reply testimony to CPSD rec; answers ALJ tax questions
As we highlighted in our downgrade note, PCG filed reply testimony to the CPSD rec and submitted responses questions on taxes. Overall neither filing came as a surprise. PCG views the CPSD rec as extreme and points c proposed fine is well above anything in CA history and well above any penalty levied in a natural gas pipeline tax filing PCG indicates that depending on the IRS treatment, the disallowed capital expense may or may not l deductible. PCG also indicates that it will have very large equity issuance through 2016, which is consistent w forecasts. We continue to believe PCG stock will trade sideways until clarity is reached on a reasonable and ra resolution. We believe there is a decent likelihood San Bruno penalty cases drag into 2014.

PCG reply testimony says CPSD rec is extreme; total costs could exceed $4B
PCG's reply brief sets forth a number of arguments. PCG says that if the CPSD believes that the only valid pen to the California General Fund, then the only penalty that is valid is the $300M fine, and the rest ($1.5B of ac is not valid. PCG also says that the Overland report is flawed, using PCG's P/B and dividend payout ratio as a much additional equity PCG can issue. PCG again lays out that using a $2.25B penalty would take the total PG costs to more than $4B. Finally PCG contends that this violates the excessive fines clause of the California cor well above any other penalty ever imposed for a natural gas pipeline accident. Overall, this is similar to the st filed after the CPSD rec came out.

Tax treatment unclear; very large equity steady through 2016
PCG's response to the tax questions addressed some forward looking financing possibilities. PCG says it will be "$1B-$1.2B of equity in 2013 and very large additional equity issuances each year through 2016." We forecas equity in 2013 (including CPSD recommendation for fines and penalties), $1.4B in 2014, $1.2B in 2015 and $ PCG also said that it will file to expense some disallowed capital and non-capital items, but it ultimately may n if it falls under the definition of a penalty at the IRS. The company also says that the penalties will raise its co capital—both debt and equity, and could lead to credit downgrades.

Hope your computer issues get resolved soon! Wanted to confirm our meeting on 10/2 at 10am PST. Also, understanding that Commissioner Sandoval is very busy, but if she is able to stop by for a few minutes, we would be really appreciative.

As we discussed, we are equity research analysts at Wolfe Research, and we follow the California Regulatory environment as it pertains to the utilities and merchant generation companies that do business in California.

Topics of interest include:

- Discussion around renewables, safety
- Regulatory environment in California

We are also meeting with Commissioner Peterman and Ferron, as well as advisors for Commissioners Florio and President Peevey. Our attendees are below:

Commissioner Ferron,

Thanks for your time this week. It was nice to see you.

On the double leverage, we will look for some examples. There are some states that have imputed debt that is above the utility into the utility capital structure. Most just look at the utility and do not get concerned by what the parent is doing.

Hi guys,

It was great to see you again today.

Following on the point concerning the "double leverage" problem for utility holding companies, I was wondering if you have any background material which explains how this is determined and in what circumstance it is seen as a problem, possibly involving utilities outside of California.

Cheers

Still haunted by San Bruno; waiting for the ALJ

PCG stock a binary call on upcoming San Bruno decision
It's the fourth Halloween since the San Bruno explosion and investors are still waiting to see the penalty PCG record in the case is finally closed and an ALJ decision is expected by year end with a final PUC order likely in continues to underperform into the ruling and is now trading at a 4% discount to the sector on our new 2015E which assumes the adverse CPSD staff recommendation is adopted ($1.8B net fine/penalty). While the risk/re becoming more compelling, the ALJ decision is highly unpredictable. We remain Peer Perform awaiting either a valuation or more clarity on the San Bruno penalty and equity needs.

Q3 solid, but another unexpected write-off
PCG's operating earnings came in at $0.88, above our $0.82E and the $0.78 consensus. However, PCG record unexpected write-off of $196M to reflect a change in the PSEP 1 work; less miles of pipe to replace but at a m This adds slightly to our equity needsand lowers ratebase resulting in a $0.03/share reduction to our estimate issued $740M of its planned $1-$1.2B of equity issuance this year. We continue to project $1B+ of additional issuance annually to cover both unrecovered spending and ratebase growth.

Electric and gas rate cases also key for PCG recovery
We assume rate relief will allow PCG to resume earning its allowed returns in electric in 2014 and gas in 2015 the electric GRC is scheduled for Nov 19 (though we believe it could come later) with a final order likely in Q1 case will be filed in late 2013 with a decision likely in early 2015. PCG management went out of their way on highlight that the gas GRC will be a large rate need and will likely face stiff opposition.

Lowering estimates modestly
We once again lower our PCG estimates. Two things are pressuring our estimates: 1) additional $100M of equ fund the $196M capital write-off ($0.01-$0.02/sh hit) and 2) lowering our share price at which we issue equit $42 given the decline in the stock ($0.02/sh hit). Since we project PCG issuing a significant amount of equity, makes a difference. We continue to let PCG keep tax benefits, if the CPSD penalty proves to be after-tax vs pr another $0.05/sh hit. Our new 2013-2016 estimates are $2.55, $2.88, $2.96 and $3.02/sh. Our prior 2013-2 were $2.51, $2.91, $2.99 and $3.06/sh.

More fines hit PCG; Alternate PD in Show Cause and a citation
On Monday evening, Comm. Ferron released an alternate Alt PD in the show cause investigation raising the pr $17.25M vs the $6.75M proposed in the ALJ PD. More concerning to us, the Alt PD was very critical of current in particular saying management deliberately misled and tried to conceal facts on important matters. Last nigh asked the PCG Board Audit Committee to review management actions that led to Comm. Ferron's proposed fin Bruno decisions nearing an end game, this case has been very bothersome to us as it questions current PCG n not the prior one. Moreover, the CPSD recently fined PCG another $8.1M for contractor violation. We do not b have been paying enough attention to these recent events. This is not a good sign right ahead of the San Brui

Show cause case is separate, but could be signal for San Bruno
The show cause order was issued for Lines 101 and 147 and relates to PCG's documentation of pipeline inspec order to show cause has gotten much attention in a state that is wary of pipeline disasters; typically show cau result in substantial fines, and this continues to be a sizeable enforcement on PCG. However, what is more cor that investors expect the CPUC to be more constructive towards PCG than the last staff proposal in San Bruno by this recent Alternate PD, it is difficult to tell how the CPUC will act. We continue to view the ALJ decision as Bruno case—expected by YE13.

More fines to come, another show cause still outstanding
PCG released an 8-K today with updates on these matters. In the 8-K PCG mentioned that it has other self-re that may still be addressed and fined by the SED. In addition, there is another show cause order still out to de whether or not the CPUC should suspend PCG's operating pressures until records are determined reliable. We that most of these fines are seemingly small, particularly compared to the ultimate San Bruno penalty. Rather that "this doesn't end" that concerns us. Also, it is possible that some of the directives laid out by the CPUC St more unrecoverable spend by PCG.

Next steps; look for more from management at EEI
Next steps in the Show Cause Order: comments by parties on the proposed deicion are due November 19. Cor Alt PD are due November 25. A final decision is scheduled for December 5. For the SED citation (issued on 11/ days to pay or contest the citation.

Scenario analysis ahead of an ALJ decision

Risk-reward in stock not big enough yet
We have run some scenarios of potential outcomes and earnings impact ahead of the ALJ decision in the San E Based on our analysis, the stock is reflecting the revised SED recommendation. We see modest downside risk recommendation is worse, but the stock requires a substantial improvement closer to the initial SED recomme attractive. We stay on the sidelines with a Peer Perform rating awaiting either a wider discount valuation or m the final SB penalty.

Considering various outcomes
We consider three scenarios: 1) base case of second SED recommendation; 2) low case of a $2.25B after-tax p credit for work done; 3) upside case of the original SED recommendation. Our base case results in 2015 and 2 $2.96 and $3.02/sh. In a downside case we see 2015-2016 earnings of $2.89 and $2.84/sh. In an upside case earnings are $3.30 and $3.38/sh – the only case in which we see meaningful upside. We think it will be tough improve from the second SED recommendation, though we also do not expect it to get materially worse. While offers 4% upside combined with a yield of 4.5%, post a final SB decision, PCG will still have significant equity two rate cases (electric and gas), meaning overhangs on the stock will persist.

What is the appropriate multiple for PCG?
Aside from the earnings impact, we also consider what relative multiple the stock deserves. This is a bit tough final decision will determine the multiple – a better than expected decision will have the stock trading in-line c to the group. A worse than expected decision will result in a below average multiple. While we like the strong growth in PCG, for the next several years we see meaningful equity needs, no dividend growth until 2015 at t ongoing electric and gas rate cases. Moreover, we expect the CPUC citation program to likely result in more, s PCG. Thus, we think the multiple for the stock will likely be at an average (14x P/E on 2016E) or around a hal (13.5x P/E).

Valuation; moving to 2016 – lowering PT to $42/sh
Given the meaningful equity needs and likely ongoing impact of a final outcome in the San Bruno case, we thi appropriate to value PCG on 2016E. We move from a slight discount valuation (14.75x P/E) on our 2015E to a valuation of 14x P/E on our 2016E of $3.02/sh. This results in our new price target of $42/sh. We continue to SED recommendation in our estimates and model. Our current 2013-2016 estimates are $2.55, $2.88, $2.96

Subject: RE: Request for meeting

Hi David,

At this time Commissioner Peterman is not available as she will be out of the office on March 25th. However, we are only about 80% sure she will be out. We won't know with absolute certainty until late February. If you'd like I'll keep your email handy and as soon as we know for certain I'll let you know.

No news, no guidance
PCG did not provide 2014 earnings guidance on its year end call. With the San Bruno penalty case and electri in process, management decided it was best to hold off on a 2014 outlook. We are expecting ALJs in both case but will not be holding our breath.

Equity issuance update
PCG plans to issue $800m-$1b of equity in 2014, before any San Bruno penalties. This is roughly in line with expectations. A new $500m dribble program will be filed today. We continue to assume as much as $1b or mo equity based on the staff San Bruno recommendation.

Other earnings tidbits
Underearnings in the gas utility (net of efficiency incentives) are expected to be a $0.10/share hit in 2014, bu eliminate this drag by 2015 through the gas rate case. Transmission ROEs are in the same 10.4% range as th uptick from last year. Ratebase forecasts through 2016 are unchanged. PCG does not expect to pay cash taxes Unrecovered gas spending is expected to be $350-$450m, but this should start to ramp down in 2015. PCG fir of-way clearance estimate at $500m – a small victory since it did not go up.

Stock still a binary call on San Bruno outcome
PCG stock trades at a slight discount to be sector, but the earnings remain very dependent on the ultimate Sa outcome. We continue to view the shares as a binary call on this case with a little more upside than downside unpredictable ALJ decision. Our price target remains $42 based on 14x our 2016E of $3.02 – reflecting the las recommendation.

Risk/reward improves into San Bruno ALJ on our higher estimates
While PCG did not give earnings guidance on its year end call last month, the company provided modelling dat led us to do a thorough review. The punch line is that our estimates are as much as 8% higher than our prior now see a skewed positive risk/reward into the San Bruno ALJ whereas we previously viewed it as too binary t Importantly, we do not have any new insights into what the ALJ will do and this recommendation is targeted f investors.

11% total return upside on SED scenario; limited downside
On our new numbers and industry average multiples, we now see upside to the $46 area based on the punitiv updated recommendation ($300M fine; $1.5B pre-tax disallowances). We see further upside to the $47 area o SED ($1B pre-tax). Our downside scenario of a $2.5B after-tax hit shows some risk to the stock but limited. G shareholders are already absorbing $2.7B of unrecovered costs before any of these hits, we are hopeful that t improve on the SED recommendation. An ALJ is long overdue and could come any time now.

Lower share issuance key driver of higher estimates
A number of factors support our higher estimates but the key one is we had too much share issuance to suppo Bruno fine/penalties and growth capex. We now see about $800-900M incremental equity based on the SED r Core share issuance of $800M-$1B planned for 2014 should decline in 2015/16 as 2014 still has $840M of un spending (excluding fines/penalties) that shrinks to only about $150M in 2015 and 2016. Higher transmission another positive as PCG expects transmission to earn in line with the 10.4% allowed in CA based on updated f been as low as 9.1% a year ago. We are assuming that PCG is fully earning its allowed ROEs by 2015.

PCG expecting federal criminal charges related to San Bruno

Late yesterday, PCG disclosed that it expects the US Attorney's Office to file criminal charges against the company in the near future for violations of the Pipeline Safety Act in the aftermath of San Bruno. Discussions broke down and the company disagrees that it knowingly and willfully violated the Act. The state statute of limitations expired last fall (3 years post San Bruno) so we thought PCG had already dodged this bullet. However, the federal statute lasts for five years and it appears they will take action.

More of the same – risk of overhang and another pound of flesh

This news is disappointing as it creates another overhang and fine risk on top of the billions shareholders have already absorbed and the proposed $1.8B San Bruno fine/penalty at the CPUC. Investors may also worry this could further delay the ALJ decision on San Bruno.

Criminal charges sound scary – precedents not so bad

While PCG and San Bruno are arguably unprecedented, we thought it would be helpful to highlight related criminal cases in the energy area as a guide. El Paso killed 12 people in a pipeline accident in 2000 and settled civil charges for $15.5M plus another $87M of spending. Xcel faced criminal charges for a hydro plant fire in 2007 that killed 5 people but won the case in court. Kinder Morgan Energy Partners was convicted in a 2004 petroleum pipeline fire in CA that killed 5 people and paid a $15M fine. BP was criminally charged for the 2005 Texas City refinery fire that killed 15 workers and OSHA sought an $87M fine. Finally, Olympic pipeline was charged for 1999 explosion that killed 3 people and led to a $112M settlement. Given this case history, we would be buyers on weakness.

Subject: RE: Request for meeting

Hi Scott,

Thanks for the prompt reply. Yes, please keep my request in mind if Commissioner Peterman's schedule opens up, or if her advisors are available. We will be in the area that week, regardless.

Thanks again,
David

Hi David,

At this time Commissioner Peterman is not available as she will be out of the office on March 25th. However, we are only about 80% sure she will be out. We won't know with absolute certainty until late February. If you'd like I'll keep your email handy and as soon as we know for certain I'll let you know.

Federal criminal charges filed

Criminal charges filed on 12 counts, $500k/count penalty
On 4/1, the US Attorney's Office filed criminal charges against PG&E on twelve counts under the Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act related to past operations that precipitated the 2010 San Bruno pipeline explosion. Although a penalty was not expressly stated in the filing with the US District Court, the Pipeline Safety Act allows a $500 thousand penalty per violation. The implied total penalty of $6 million is on the low end of the range of that associated with prior federal charges against energy companies in civil proceedings: $15m-115m. We detailed these precedents in our note last week (link).

Overhang of criminal charges remains but manageable; CPUC still key
Since last Thursday, when the company warned federal criminal charges were imminent, PCG stock has been the worst performing regulated utility, as investors saw the charges as another overhang on top of the San Bruno penalty proceedings at the CPUC. Although the criminal charges overhang remains, we believe it is manageable, given the potential size of the associated penalty, which would be incremental to that levied by the CPUC. We continue to assume the CPUC penalty/fine will be $1.8 billion, which would be on top of the $2.7 billion shareholders have spent or committed to spend. An ALJ recommendation is expected this spring, and we believe the risk/reward for PCG stock is skewed to the upside.

Criminal charges related to past practices, San Bruno
Yesterday's federal 12 count indictment against PCG claims the company's past operating practices violated the federal Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act, specifically related to record keeping, pipeline integrity management and identification of pipeline threats related to San Bruno. The criminal charges carry a higher burden of proof than civil, namely the government must prove the

INDICTMENT

The Grand Jury charges:

At all times relevant to this Indictment unless otherwise indicated:

INTRODUCTORY ALLEGATIONS

1. PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY ("PG&E") was a California corporation headquartered in San Francisco, California, that provided natural gas and electric services to approximately 15 million customers in Northern and Central California.

2. PG&E was a pipeline operator that provided natural gas to customers through the use of over 6,000 miles of natural gas transmission pipelines and over 40,000 miles of distribution pipelines. Gas transmission pipelines are highly-pressurized, large-diameter lines that carry natural gas to smaller, less pressurized distribution pipelines that bring natural gas into homes, commercial buildings, and other facilities.

3. Line 132 was a high-pressure gas transmission pipeline owned and operated by PG&E in the Northern District of California. Line 132 ran underground from Milpitas, California, to San Francisco, California, passing through the City of San Bruno, California.

4. Line 132 was originally installed in or about and between 1944 and 1948 and consisted of hundreds of individual segments, the majority of which were in suburban or urban areas.

5. On September 9, 2010, at approximately 6:11 p.m., a portion of Line 132 (Segment 180) ruptured in a residential neighborhood of the City of San Bruno (the "San Bruno explosion"). Gas escaping from the rupture ignited, causing a fire that killed eight people and injured 58 others. The fire also damaged 108 homes, 38 of which were completely destroyed.

The Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act of 1968

6. The Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act of 1968 ("PSA") established minimum safety standards for pipeline transportation and for pipeline facilities. The purpose of the PSA was to protect against risks to life or property posed by pipeline transportation and pipeline facilities by improving the regulatory and enforcement authority of the Secretary of Transportation.

CPUC06610

7. In 1970, pursuant to Chapter 601 of the PSA, the Secretary of Transportation issued regulations codified in Section 192 of Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Subparts A through M ("Section 192").

8. In 1979, Congress amended the PSA to add criminal penalties for knowing and willful violations of any regulation or order issued pursuant to Chapter 601 of the PSA. 49 U.S.C. § 60123.

The Gas Transmission Integrity Management Rule and Relevant Regulations

9. Congress amended the PSA by enacting the Pipeline Safety Improvement Act of 2002 ("PSIA"). The Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration ("PHMSA") issued the Gas Transmission Integrity Management regulations ("IM regulations"), 49 C.F.R. Part 192, referred to as Subpart O, to implement the requirements of the PSIA. The IM regulations specified how pipeline operators were required to identify, prioritize, assess, evaluate, remediate, and validate the integrity of segments of gas transmission pipelines that could, in the event of leak or failure, affect high-consequence areas ("HCAs"). 49 C.F.R. §§ 192.901-192.949. An HCA is a locale where a release of gas could pose a significant risk of injury or death.

10. The IM regulations required pipeline operators to identify threats on segments of their gas transmission pipelines that operated in HCAs (hereinafter "covered segments"), rank the risk levels of these identified threats, select an assessment method or technology with a proven application capable of assessing the known or potential threats, create deadlines for both the initial and future assessments of these covered segments, and address the threats identified and evaluated through mitigation, remediation, and prevention. 49 C.F.R. §§ 192.907 and 192.921.

Regulations Regarding the Identification of Potential Threats

11. Under the IM regulations, pipeline operators had to identify and evaluate all potential threats to a covered segment. 49 C.F.R. § 192.917(a). The nine major threats to gas transmission pipelines were: third party damage, external corrosion, internal corrosion, stress corrosion cracking, manufacturing threats, construction threats, equipment threats, external factors such as weather and earthquakes, and incorrect operation. 49 C.F.R. § 192.7 (incorporating by reference American Society of Mechanical Engineers ("ASME") B31.8S, 2004).

12. To identify and evaluate all potential threats to each covered segment, pipeline operators were required to gather and integrate existing data and information on the entire pipeline that could be relevant to the covered segment. 49 C.F.R. § 192.917(b). Section 192.917(b) required pipeline operators to follow a specific industry standard - ASME B31.8S, section 4 - and, at a minimum, gather and evaluate data for each covered segment and any similar, non-covered segments found in the entire pipeline system, including, but not limited to:

- Past incident history and the root cause analysis of previous threats on the segment, including leak and failure history.
- Records regarding past and ongoing corrosion of the segment.
- Continuous surveillance records regarding any changes along the segment including failures, leaks, and earth movement as well as changes along the segment that might affect its class location.
- Patrolling records regarding third party damage and encroachment threats to the segment.
- Maintenance history including repairs on the segment (pursuant to Section 192.709(a) of Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations, each pipeline operator was required to maintain the date, location, and description of each repair made to pipe so long as the pipeline remained in service).
- Records of internal inspections for issues such as internal corrosion, seam welding faults or repairs, and the existence of liquids being trapped or transported in the segment.
- The thickness of the walls of the segment.
- The diameter of the segment.
- The type of seams used along the segment and the corresponding "joint factor" that was used to calculate the initial pressure-carrying capacity of the pipe.
- The manufacturer and date of manufacture of the segment.
- The "depth of cover" or the amount of clearance between the top of the segment and the surface of the ground.
- Construction techniques, including bending or joining methods.
- Material properties, such as specified minimum yield strength ("SMYS").
- The results of any pressure tests conducted on the pipeline containing the segment (pursuant to Section 192.517 of Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations, each pipeline operator was required to retain for the useful life of a pipeline a record of each strength pressure test performed under Section 192.505 of Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations for each segment of a steel pipeline that was to operate at a hoop stress of 30 percent or more of the SMYS).

- Any pressure fluctuations or records of "cyclic fatigue" or the weakening of a pipeline due to pressure fluctuations on the pipeline containing the segment.
- Normal maximum and minimum operating pressures for the segment.
- Any audits or reviews that identified issues for the segment or made recommendations for mitigation or prevention of those issues.

Baseline Assessment Plan and Assessment Method Regulations

13. The IM regulations required pipeline operators to prepare, no later than December 17, 2004, a Baseline Assessment Plan ("BAP") that identified all of the pipeline operator's covered segments, the known or potential threats to each covered segment, the methods selected to assess the integrity of the pipeline for each covered segment, and deadlines for conducting an initial assessment and re-assessment. 49 C.F.R. § 192.919.

14. Once the known and potential threats were identified on a covered segment, the IM regulations required pipeline operators to assess the integrity of the pipeline in each covered segment by using an assessment method that was capable of addressing the specific identified threats. 49 C.F.R. § 192.921(a). The four assessment methods available to assess whether a covered segment was susceptible to the identified threats were:

(1) Subpart J pressure testing: a method of testing the strength of a pipeline by pressurizing a portion of the pipeline to a specified test pressure and monitoring that portion of the pipeline for leaks or ruptures. The test had to comply with the requirements of Subpart J of Section 192. When the test was performed with a liquid, this method was also known as a "hydrotest" or a "Subpart J hydrotest." 49 C.F.R. § 192.921(a)(2).

i. Starting in 1970, all new gas transmission pipelines had to be pressure tested or hydrotested before being placed into service in order to ensure the pipeline's integrity. Pursuant to Section 192.619 of Title 49 of the Code of Federal Regulations, gas transmission pipelines installed before 1970 that were found to be in "satisfactory condition" were grandfathered in and did not have to be pressure tested or hydrotested unless otherwise required by law.

ii. A pressure test or hydrotest was the only assessment method that could test the strength of a pipeline. Performing a pressure test or hydrotest on a gas transmission pipeline necessitated the expense and inconvenience of taking the pipeline out of service temporarily.

iii. Pressure testing or hydrotesting assessed the integrity of a pipeline for such potential threats as external damage, external corrosion, internal corrosion, stress corrosion cracking, and manufacturing and construction threats, such as seam defects and seam corrosion.

(2) In-line inspection ("ILI"): a method of examining the internal characteristics of a pipeline by sending a computerized inspection tool, often called a "pig," through the inside of the pipeline. 49 C.F.R. § 192.921(a)(1).

i. Like pressure testing or hydrotesting, ILI assessed the integrity of the pipeline for such potential threats as external damage, external corrosion, internal corrosion, stress corrosion cracking, and manufacturing and construction threats. ILI, however, could not test the actual strength of a pipeline.

(3) Direct assessment ("DA"): a process used to detect the presence of corrosion and assess the potential threat to the integrity of the pipeline. 49 C.F.R. § 192.921(a)(3). The three methods of DA were:

i. External corrosion direct assessment or "ECDA," which tested the outside of pipelines for external corrosion and third party damage using an electrical or magnetic technology above ground and then following up with interspersed excavations to uncover the portions of the pipelines most likely to have external corrosion. Because ECDA only assessed the outside of pipelines, it could not assess the integrity of pipelines for potential internal threats such as manufacturing or construction defects;

ii. Internal corrosion direct assessment ("ICDA"), which tested for corrosion inside the pipeline; and

iii. Stress crack corrosion direct assessment ("SCCDA"), which was only applicable to pipelines operating over 60% of SMYS and thus not applicable in most HCAs.

(4) New Technology: any technology that a pipeline operator demonstrated could provide an understanding of a pipe's condition that was equivalent to the understanding that could be gained using pressure tests or hydrotests, ILI, or DA. Operators could only use a new technology if PHMSA approved its use. 49 C.F.R. § 192.921(a)(4).

Regulations Related to the Prioritization of Manufacturing Threats

15. The IM regulations required operators to prioritize the risk level of covered segments in the BAP. 49 C.F.R. § 192.917(e)(3)(i)-(iii). Operators were required to prioritize covered segments with unstable manufacturing threats as "high risk." Covered segments with manufacturing threats were considered unstable if the operating pressure of the pipeline containing that segment increased above the maximum operating pressure experienced by that segment in the five years before the segment was identified as being in an HCA (the "5-year MOP"), the maximum allowable operating pressure ("MAOP") increased, or the stresses leading to cyclic fatigue increased. 49 C.F.R. § 192.917(e)(3)(i)-(iii).

16. For pipelines with unstable manufacturing threats, operators had to use an assessment method that was capable of evaluating manufacturing threats, such as a hydrotest. 49 C.F.R. § 192.917(e)(3) and (4). ECDA could not be used because ECDA does not assess manufacturing threats. 49 C.F.R. § 192.923(a).

17. Pipeline operators also had to prioritize as high risk and select an assessment method capable of assessing seam integrity and seam corrosion anomalies for covered pipeline segments that contained:

a) low-frequency electric resistance welded ("ERW") pipe;

b) lap welded pipe; or

c) other pipe that satisfies the conditions specified in ASME/ANSI B31.8S, Appxs. A4.3 & A4.4; and had experienced either:

d) a seam failure; or

e) an increase in operating pressure over the 5-year MOP.

49 C.F.R. § 192.917(e)(4).

Regulations Related to Continuous Evaluation of Covered Pipeline Segments

18. Pipeline operators were required to periodically evaluate the integrity of each covered segment. The periodic evaluation included considering and integrating past and present integrity assessment results, integrating data and assessing risk of the entire pipeline, and reviewing decisions regarding remediation, additional prevention, and mitigation actions. Operators were required to use the results from these periodic evaluations to identify the threats specific to each covered segment and the risk represented by these threats. 49 C.F.R. § 192.937.

19. After an initial assessment, pipeline operators had to re-assess their lines using an assessment method capable of assessing a particular threat or combination of threats including new threats, and within a certain time period depending on the results the periodic evaluations, but not to exceed seven years. 49 C.F.R. §§ 192.937 and 192.939.

PG&E's Practices Relating to Gas Transmission Pipelines

A. General Recordkeeping

20. Starting at a time unknown to the grand jury, and continuing until the San Bruno explosion, PG&E learned that it did not have complete data for its gas transmission pipelines due to missing records and errors and omissions in existing records.

21. PG&E received notice of recordkeeping problems through employees, through regulatory agencies including the National Transportation Safety Board and the California Public Utilities Commission, and from third party auditors and consultants.

22. Despite knowledge of these deficiencies, PG&E did not create a recordkeeping system for gas operations that would ensure that pipeline records were accessible, traceable, verifiable, accurate, and complete. PG&E's recordkeeping deficiencies included:

- PG&E did not maintain accurate and complete leak records for its gas transmission pipelines.
- PG&E did not maintain accurate and complete records regarding encroachment of population along gas transmission pipelines.
- PG&E did not maintain repair records for its gas transmission pipelines in a traceable and accessible manner.
- PG&E did not retain or maintain weld maps and weld inspection records for its gas transmission pipelines.
- PG&E did not maintain complete records of the manufacturer of its gas transmission pipelines in service.

CPUC06616

- PG&E did not retain or maintain Subpart J pressure test records for the life of all of its gas transmission pipelines.

- PG&E did not maintain accurate, complete, or accessible "job files," that contained, among other things, pipe specifications, construction records, pressure test records, and purchasing records.

B. Integrity Management Program

23. In the late 1990s, in advance of the enactment of the IM regulations, PG&E created a computer database, called the Geographic Information System (the "GIS database"). PG&E intended that the GIS database would contain information about each natural gas transmission pipeline segment, such as pipe specifications and pressure test data, and would be used to make integrity management decisions.

24. To create the GIS database, PG&E relied on pipeline survey sheets that contained erroneous and incomplete information. In creating the GIS database, PG&E undertook no quality control or quality assurance to ensure the data taken from the pipeline survey sheets was accurate. From GIS's inception, PG&E was aware that the database contained erroneous and incomplete information.

25. PG&E relied on information in the GIS database to make integrity management decisions, including the identification of threats to each covered segment contained in the initial BAP.

C. Threat Identification

26. In identifying and evaluating threats as required by Sections 192.917(a) and (b), PG&E failed to gather and integrate all relevant data for many of its older transmission lines, including, but not limited to:

- past incident history for both covered and non-covered segments, including leaks with unknown causes ("unknown" because PG&E either had no records, or could not or did not locate such records);

- pipeline history for covered and non-covered segments that were greater than one mile away from the covered segments being analyzed for manufacturing and construction threats;
- maintenance history, including repairs;

- accurate and complete pipeline data, including wall thickness, diameter, seam type, manufacturer, and date of manufacture;
- pressure fluctuations;

- validated normal, maximum, and minimum operating pressures;

CPUC06617

- threats created by cyclic fatigue; and
- threats created by internal corrosion.

D. Assessment Method Selection

27. PG&E relied on inaccurate and incomplete records to select assessment methods to assess the integrity of covered segments for known or potential threats as required by Section 192.921(a).

28. In 2004, PG&E created a written policy on compliance with the IM regulations regarding data gathering that instructed PG&E employees to rely on available, verifiable information or "information that c[ould] be obtained in a timely manner."

29. In 2004, PG&E also created a written policy that proscribed, with certain limited exceptions, the use of hydrotesting or pressure testing as an assessment method for assessing the integrity of covered segments. Pursuant to this policy, the only two options (other than a PHMSA-approved new technology) for assessing threats on covered segments were ILI and ECDA. PG&E instituted this policy having determined that, due to economic considerations and the physical attributes of its transmission lines, ILI was not a feasible assessment method for approximately 80% of its transmission lines that were subject to the IM regulations.

30. For the approximately 80% of the gas transmission pipelines where PG&E determined that ILI was not economically or physically feasible, PG&E selected ECDA to assess threats on those pipelines. PG&E chose ILI as an assessment method for the approximately 20% of its remaining natural gas transmission pipelines.

E. Assessment Avoidance on Older Transmission Lines

i. Planned Pressure Increases

31. When the IM regulations went into effect, PG&E knew that thousands of miles of its gas transmission pipelines had never been subjected to a Subpart J pressure test, because the pipelines were installed before 1970 and were grandfathered in or because PG&E had not maintained a record of such a pressure test. As PG&E knew, many of these pipelines had a known or potential manufacturing threat due to their age, manufacturer, and/or history.

32. In order to maintain the then-current operating pressures of these pipelines without having to subject the pipelines to a Subpart J pressure test, PG&E adopted a practice in 2003 called

"planned pressure increases" ("PPIs"). To conduct a PPI, PG&E intentionally raised the pressure in several old highly-pressurized gas transmission pipelines located in HCAs to the pipelines' maximum allowable operating pressures (MAOP) for two hours. In so doing, PG&E at times exceeded the lines' 5-year MOPs and/or MAOPs. PG&E failed to review the history of the pipelines or verify the accuracy of its data prior to executing the PPIs to determine whether intentionally increasing the pressure on these older pipelines would affect the integrity of the pipeline. PG&E periodically conducted PPIs from 2003 until the San Bruno explosion.

33. PG&E executed PPIs on a number of its high pressure gas transmission pipelines, including lines 132, 101, and 109, all of which had covered segments with manufacturing threats that had never been subject to a Subpart J pressure test or for which records of such a test were not available. From 2002 until the San Bruno explosion, PG&E assessed these pipelines with ECDA.

ii. Unplanned Pressure Increases

34. PG&E was aware that hundreds of covered segments totaling over 80 miles of gas transmission pipelines had never been subject to a Subpart J pressure test and had manufacturing threats that could be considered unstable due to unplanned pressure increases that exceeded the pipelines' respective 5-year MOPs. These covered segments were found on numerous gas transmission pipelines operated by PG&E, including, but not limited to, segments on Lines 132, 153, and DFM 1816-01.

35. Section 192.917(e) required PG&E to prioritize the covered segments with unstable manufacturing threats as high risk and assess them using an assessment method that evaluated the integrity of the covered segment to determine the risk of failure from the unstable manufacturing threats, such as a Subpart J pressure test. For all of these covered segments, despite knowledge of the requirements of Section 192.917(e), PG&E chose not to reprioritize these pipelines as high risk and/or properly assess the integrity of each segment to determine the risk of failure. Instead, PG&E continued to choose ECDA to assess the integrity of these pipelines even though PG&E knew ECDA did not assess unstable manufacturing threats.

36. To avoid having to prioritize these pipelines as "high risk" and properly assess the pipelines for the known threats, PG&E chose only to consider a manufacturing threat unstable if the pressure on the pipeline exceeded the 5-year MOP by 10% or more. PG&E adopted and implemented this approach despite knowing since 2004 that PHMSA had issued regulations and additional guidance on those regulations that stated any increase in pressure that went above the 5-year MOP, regardless of amount, destabilized a manufacturing threat and required PG&E to prioritize the pipeline as high risk and to properly assess the pipeline. PG&E maintained this practice until 2011.

F. Line 132

37. When identifying threats on Line 132, and when determining the appropriate assessment technology to use in evaluating those threats, PG&E did not know the thickness of the pipeline walls for approximately 42% of Line 132, either because PG&E did not have records describing wall thickness or it could not or did not access records with this information.

38. PG&E did not know the manufacturer for approximately 80% of the hundreds of segments on Line 132 either because PG&E did not have such records, or could not or did not access such records with this information.

39. PG&E did not know the depth of cover for approximately 80% of Line 132 because PG&E did not have such records, or could not or did not access such records with this information.

40. PG&E used improper yield strength or SMYS values for several segments of pipe on Line 132 with unknown yield strengths.

i. Segment 180

41. Segment 180, the portion of Line 132 that ruptured, was located in an HCA and ran through a densely populated suburban development in the City of San Bruno. Segment 180 consisted of six short lengths or "pups" of 30-inch diameter pipe along with normal lengths of pipe. The date of manufacture of these pups is unknown, but the manufacture date was prior to 1956. The pups were welded together and installed in approximately 1956 in a manner that violated industry standards concerning fabrication of gas transmission pipelines in effect at the time. One or more of the pups had a defective seam weld. The segment, in part due to the defective pup or pups, had a yield strength significantly less than the yield strength that PG&E recorded and relied upon for integrity management purposes.

42. PG&E's records reflected the following for Segment 180:

- The pipe was seamless.

CPUC06620

- The SMYS was 42,000 psi.
- The depth of cover was unknown.
- The manufacturer of the pipe was unknown.
- The manufacture date of the pipe was 1956.
- A pressure test had been performed in 1961.
- The MAOP was 400 psi.

43. In fact, the pipe in Segment 180 was seamed, not seamless. The SMYS was unknown, but measured after the San Bruno explosion at significantly less than 42,000 psi for four of the six pups. The pipe manufacturer date was unknown, but occurred well before 1956. No records of a pressure test existed showing that any pressure test, let alone a Subpart J pressure test, had been performed on Segment 180. Other records in PG&E's files also showed the MAOP for Line 132 as 375 and 390 psi.

44. At no time between installation of the defective pup or pups and the San Bruno explosion did PG&E check or confirm whether its records accurately reflected the data relevant to assessing the integrity of Segment 180, even though PG&E knew that GIS contained incomplete and inaccurate data.

ii. Integrity Management For Line 132

45. PG&E identified segments of Line 132 as being in an HCA in 2002 and began conducting ECDA on Line 132 in 2002. PG&E also conducted ECDA on Line 132 in 2003, 2004, 2006, 2007, 2009, and 2010.

46. In identifying the threats that existed on Line 132 and choosing an assessment method to assess those identified threats, PG&E knowingly relied on erroneous and incomplete information from the GIS database and failed to gather and integrate, among other things, the following data and information:

- Leak data, including the cause of over 30 prior leaks on segments of Line 132; instead PG&E adopted a practice that it would not consider leaks with "unknown" causes when deciding if ECDA was a proper assessment method;
- Industry and PG&E data that showed that double submerged arc weld "DSAW" pipe manufactured by Western Consolidated Steel, which was found on segments of Line 132, including Segment 181, had pipe body and longitudinal seam defect issues;
- A seam weld defect in DSAW pipe that was discovered on a different segment of Line 132, and was similar to pipe on both Segment 180 and Segment 181, and was repaired in

- Multiple longitudinal seam cracks found during radiography of girth welds on portions of Line 132 that were constructed in 1948;
- A longitudinal seam weld defect in DSAW pipe discovered on a different segment of Line 132 in 1992 when a tie-in girth weld was radiographed;
- A defective weld found on Segment 186 of Line 132 in 2009. The segment was originally fabricated by Consolidated Western using pipe similar to Segment 180 and Segment 181 and installed in 1948, at or near the time when Segment 180 was originally installed;
- A field girth weld defect found on Segment 189 in 2009. Segment 189 was also originally fabricated by Consolidated Western using DSAW pipe installed in 1948;
- Whether any salvaged or re-used pipe, for which PG&E did not keep records, including manufacturer, dates of use, and history of the pipe, had been used on Line 132;
- Documents related to the design, manufacturer, construction, or testing of Segment 180 when it was relocated in 1956, including whether any salvaged pipe was used;
- Information from the 1956 construction file related to the six pups installed on Segment 180 by PG&E;
- The potential impact of cyclic fatigue or other loading conditions on Line 132 from planned or unplanned pressure fluctuations; and
- Additional construction defects on Line 132.

47. PG&E also knowingly failed to gather and integrate the following relevant data from similar gas transmission pipeline segments as required by 49 C.F.R. § 192.917(b):

- A seam leak in DSAW pipe found on Line 300B in 1958;
- A characterization evaluation of nearby Line 109 girth welds in 1994;
- A Subpart J pressure test failure in 1974 of a seam weld with lack of penetration on DSAW pipe found on Line 300B, and which was similar to DSAW pipe found on Segment 180 and Segment 181;
- Laboratory test reports from 1975 relating to Line 101 girth welds; and,
- Cracking of a seam weld in DSAW pipe in 1996 on Line 109 which paralleled Line 132.

CPUC06622

48. Relying on inaccurate and incomplete information regarding the pipeline attributes and history of Line 132, PG&E knowingly chose ECDA as the assessment method to assess the integrity of covered segments on Line 132, including Segment 180, starting in 2002 and continuing until the San Bruno explosion.

49. In 2003 and again in 2008, as part of PG&E's PPIs, PG&E intentionally raised for a two-hour period the pressure of Line 132 at least 25 psi above the normal operating pressure the pipeline had experienced for decades in order to maintain a current MOP for Line 132 without having to conduct a Subpart J pressure test. PG&E undertook this practice without conducting any review of the pipeline's history, including past leaks and the cause of such leaks, or verification of the pipeline's specifications in order to assess whether intentionally increasing the pressure on Line 132 more than 25 pounds higher than the line had experienced in decades would affect the integrity of the pipeline.

50. On July 23, 2009, Line 132, at a point north of Segment 180, experienced an unplanned pressure increase that exceeded that segment's 5-year MOP. That segment of Line 132 had a known manufacturing threat that was destabilized when the pipeline experienced this pressure increase. Despite knowledge of this pressure excursion and the requirement to properly assess unstable manufacturing threats, PG&E chose to assess that segment of Line 132 in 2009 using ECDA even though PG&E knew that ECDA could not assess unstable manufacturing threats.

THE CHARGES

COUNT ONE: (49 U.S.C. § 60123 – Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act) [Line 132]

51. The allegations set forth in paragraphs 1-12, 20-26, and 37-50 above are re-alleged and incorporated herein by reference.

52. Starting in or about December 2003, and continuing through on or about September 9, 2010, in the Northern District of California, the defendant,

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY,

by and through the actions of its employees, knowingly and willfully violated a minimum safety standard for pipelines carrying natural gas, as set forth in Title 49, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 192.917(b). Specifically, PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY, knowingly and willfully failed to gather and integrate existing data and information on a line, specifically Line

CPUC06623

132, that could be relevant to identifying and evaluating all potential threats on covered segments of that line, all in violation of Title 49, United States Code, Section 60123.

COUNT TWO: (49 U.S.C. § 60123 -- Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act)

53. The allegations set forth in paragraphs 1-12, 20-26, and 37-47 above are re-alleged and incorporated herein by reference.

54. Starting on a date unknown to the grand jury and continuing until at least on or about September 9, 2010, in the Northern District of California, the defendant,

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY,

by and through the actions of its employees, knowingly and willfully violated a minimum safety standard for pipelines carrying natural gas, as set forth in Title 49, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 192.709(a). Specifically, PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY, knowingly and willfully failed to maintain records concerning the date, location, and description of each repair made to a line, specifically Line 132, all in violation of Title 49, United States Code, Section 60123.

COUNTS THREE THROUGH FIVE: (49 U.S.C. § 60123 – Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act)

Cristine and Scott,

I have attached a meeting request form to meet with Commissioner Peterman and/or her advisors. I had previously scheduled a meeting but had to cancel it, for which I again apologize. I hope they are available on 5/5/14, as Steve and I will be in San Francisco then.

Thank you for your time,

David

Cristine,

Hope this email finds you well.

I unfortunately have to cancel my meeting next Tuesday with Commissioner Peterman's advisors, as I am on jury duty in NYC. I apologize for any inconvenience to Ms. Bawa and Ms. Charles. I plan to reapply for a meeting later this spring.

Thanks again for setting up the meeting.

Best,
David

Hi David,

At this time Commissioner Peterman is not available as she will be out of the office on March 25th. However, we are only about 80% sure she will be out. We won't know with absolute certainty until late February. If you'd like I'll keep your email handy and as soon as we know for certain I'll let you know.

Subject: Former U.S. Senator George Mitchell Appointed as Mediator for Negotiations Over PG&E San Bruno Pipeline Explosion Fines and Remedies: CPUC Press Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE PRESS RELEASE
Media Contact: Terrie Prosper, 415.703.1366, news@cpuc.ca.gov

FORMER U.S. SENATOR GEORGE MITCHELL APPOINTED AS MEDIATOR FOR NEGOTIATIONS OVER PG&E SAN BRUNO PIPELINE EXPLOSION FINES AND REMEDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today announced the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to serve as mediator in ongoing talks aimed at resolving by stipulated agreement a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), stemming from the September 2010 explosion of a high-pressure PG&E natural gas pipeline in San Bruno, Calif.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in the Northern Ireland peace process. He is the chairman emeritus of DLA Piper LLP (US), an international law firm, and he will be assisted by lawyers from that firm in his role as mediator.

"We are very grateful to Senator Mitchell for agreeing to devote his skills as mediator to this difficult and painful series of cases," said CPUC President Michael R. Peevey. "We are confident Senator Mitchell can help achieve a solution that will resolve these cases sooner rather than later, bring justice to the good people of San Bruno, and move California forward to our goal of a much safer natural gas system."

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010. PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in the Northern Ireland peace process. He is the chairman emeritus of DLA Piper LLP (US), an international law firm, and he will be assisted by lawyers from that firm in his role as mediator.

"We are very grateful to Senator Mitchell for agreeing to devote his skills as mediator to this difficult and painful series of cases," said CPUC President Michael R. Peevey. "We are confident Senator Mitchell can help achieve a solution that will resolve these cases sooner rather than later, bring justice to the good people of San Bruno, and move California forward to our goal of a much safer natural gas system."

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010. PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

Subject:	Background info on San Bruno enforcement cases negotiations

Hi Anne,

Here is some background information related to today's announcement that former U.S. Senator George Mitchell has been appointed to serve as mediator in negotiations to reach a stipulated settlement of three enforcement cases against PG&E resulting from the San Bruno natural gas pipeline explosion in 2010.

On October 5, 2012 the CPUC's Consumer Protection and Safety Division (CPSD) filed a motion to suspend proceedings in these four cases (here is the motion http://docs.cpuc.ca.gov/PublishedDocs/Efile/G000/M029/K972/29972262.PDF):

1) Setting New Rules for Safe, Reliable Operation of State's Natural Gas Pipelines

On February 24, 2011, the CPUC announced it will set new rules for the safe and reliable operation of natural gas pipelines in California. Proceeding R.11-02-019 encompasses this rulemaking.

2) Penalty Consideration Regarding CPUC Staff Report Alleging PG&E's Violation of Laws and Regulations Led to Pipeline Rupture

The CPUC issued a staff report alleging that PG&E violated state law and various federal and state pipeline safety regulations and accepted industry standards, leading to the September 9, 2010, pipeline rupture. The CPUC's Commissioners voted unanimously on Jan. 12, 2012, to immediately open a penalty consideration (I.12-01-007) case to examine the report and, as appropriate, consider proper penalties and remedies for such violations.

3) Penalty Consideration Regarding PG&E Gas Pipeline Recordkeeping

The CPUC has started a penalty consideration phase into whether PG&E's gas transmission pipeline recordkeeping was unsafe, whether it violated the law, and if so whether deficient PG&E recordkeeping caused or contributed to the pipeline rupture in San Bruno on Sept. 9, 2010. Proceeding I.11-02-016 encompasses this investigation.

4) Penalty Consideration Regarding Pipeline Classification

Nov. 10, 2011: CPUC Begins Penalty Consideration Case Regarding Alleged PG&E Pipeline Classification Violations (I.11-11-009).

On October 10, 2012, the Division of Ratepayer Advocates, an independent division within the CPUC, issued its response to CPSD's motion of October 5:

Here is DRA's position opposing CPSD's motion to suspend the hearings while settlement negotiations continue (issued on October 10, 2012): http://docs.cpuc.ca.gov/PublishedDocs/Efile/G000/M030/K329/30329522.PDF

Some Excerpts:

"The timing and substance of this motion, which was filed at the direction of the Commission's General Counsel, raise grave concerns. First we address our concerns about suspending the Rulemaking, then the Enforcement Cases. …

"For the Administrative Law Judge to grant suspension at the request of a non-party would violate the due process rights of the active parties to the Safety Rulemaking, who submitted testimony and completed hearings and briefing on PG&E's pipeline safety plan (and shareholder cost responsibility) several months ago.

"The hearings on the Enforcement Cases are nearly completed. Only two more weeks, perhaps less, are needed to complete hearings in the San Bruno Investigation, and only one witness remains to be cross-examined in the Recordkeeping Investigation. Several PG&E witnesses who have not yet testified were scheduled to be cross-examined under oath this week and next. Given the limited amount of hearing time remaining, why does CPSD seek to suspend all further process in these proceedings? And why now, and with such extreme urgency? It is common for parties, including DRA, to jointly request a suspension or a stay of the litigation schedule when they have reached a settlement in principle, or at least have reason to believe that they are getting close to that point. Here, a settlement in principle has not been reached, and of all the parties engaged in settlement negotiations, only PG&E has supported CPSD's motion.

"As DRA stated at the hearing on CPSD's motion on October 8th, in these cases there is a particularly strong public interest in getting the evidence into the record. That record development is not inconsistent with settlement. Several PG&E witnesses have yet to testify under oath, and the hearings are only two weeks from completion. At this late juncture, they should be cut short only for a very good reason. CPSD has not offered one."

On October 11, 2012, the ALJs Wetzell and Yip-Kikugawa granted CPSD's motion in part to suspend the hearings in the 3 investigation cases, in order to focus on settlement negotiations with PG&E, but not in the rulemaking case. Here is the ruling http://docs.cpuc.ca.gov/PublishedDocs/Efile/G000/M030/K326/30326114.PDF

Some excerpts from the ruling:

"On October 5, 2012, the Consumer Protection and Safety Division (CPSD) filed a motion in Investigation (I.) 12-01-007, I.11-02-016, I.11-11-009, and Rulemaking (R.) 11-02-019 requesting suspension of all procedural dates and activities in all four of these dockets in order to facilitate good-faith negotiations among the parties toward a stipulated outcome. We grant CPSD's motion in part and deny it in part as set forth in the discussion below.…

"In summary, we suspend the schedule for evidentiary hearings and briefing until November 1, 2012 to enable the parties to engage fully in negotiations. Because, as CPSD's motion states, there is no guarantee that a negotiated solution will emerge, this ruling provides for the resumption of evidentiary hearings and briefing after November 1, 2012. "

FORMER U.S. SENATOR GEORGE MITCHELL APPOINTED AS MEDIATOR FOR NEGOTIATIONS OVER PG&E SAN BRUNO PIPELINE EXPLOSION FINES AND REMEDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today announced the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to serve as mediator in ongoing talks aimed at resolving by stipulated agreement a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), stemming from the September 2010 explosion of a high-pressure PG&E natural gas pipeline in San Bruno, Calif.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. San Bruno Mediation: BACKROOM DEAL SHUTS OUT CONSUMERS

Contact: Mindy Spatt, TURN, 415.929.8876 ext. 306

Monday, Oct. 15, 2012 , San Francisco--TURN said today that the California Public Utilities Commission's appointment of Senator George Mitchell as mediator in the San Bruno cases was a back room deal that even parties to the case were shut out of. Rather than choose a mediator, or choose the mediation process, TURN and other parties were told today mediation would be imposed, and that a mediator had been chosen without their input or consent. Senator Mitchell's firm, DLA Piper, has a long list of corporate clients including Southern California Edison (which CPUC President Mike Peevey formerly headed) and Sempra Energy, the parent corporation of Southern California Gas Company and San Diego Gas & Electric.

"A mediator should be chosen by the parties, not imposed by the CPUC," said TURN executive director Mark Toney. "Without any input from consumer advocates or other parties to the proceeding, this appears to be a backroom deal that could be a set up for a worse backroom deal. The Commission has turned a deaf ear to the public's demands for transparency."

Toney said that a closed-door process did not inspire confidence in the CPUC's process. "Consumers want the CPUC to stand up for them and hold PG&E accountable, not broker a deal behind closed doors," he said.

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010. PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

Phil,

Regarding your inquiry about George Mitchell;

The two Assigned Commissioners in these dockets (President Peevey and Commissioner Florio) conferred and made the selection of Senator Mitchell as mediator.

The CPUC selected Senator Mitchell because he is a world-renowned mediator.

PG&E was not a part of the decision process.

Subject: Filing to protest mediator appointment

Hello Christopher,

I understand the DRA may be joining other parties in a protest of the appointment of Senator Mitchell as mediator to the San Bruno settlement talks.

May I receive an emailed copy of this filing if it is indeed submitted to the CPUC today?

Does DRA have any comment on the Mitchell appointment, or on the move to suspend San Bruno-related penalty/enforcement proceedings for a month in order to facilitate settlement negotations?

Thanks,
-- Stephanie Seay

Hi Terrie,
Just checking in again about the timing of Sen. Mitchell's appointment – when is it set to begin and end?
Also, given this new configuration, how would his mediation work intersect with the ALJ's judicial authority? Would he be able to make a decision on a proposed settlement without ALJ approval? Or would an ALJ necessarily need to approve any settlement he brokered?
I'm on deadline for this morning.
Thanks in advance,

FORMER U.S. SENATOR GEORGE MITCHELL APPOINTED

AS MEDIATOR FOR NEGOTIATIONS OVER PG&E SAN BRUNO PIPELINE EXPLOSION FINES AND REMEDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today announced the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to serve as mediator in ongoing talks aimed at resolving by stipulated agreement a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), stemming from the September 2010 explosion of a high-pressure PG&E natural gas pipeline in San Bruno, Calif.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in the Northern Ireland peace process. He is the chairman emeritus of DLA Piper LLP (US), an international law firm, and he will be assisted by lawyers from that firm in his role as mediator.

"We are very grateful to Senator Mitchell for agreeing to devote his skills as mediator to this difficult and painful series of cases," said CPUC President Michael R. Peevey. "We are confident Senator Mitchell can help achieve a solution that will resolve these cases sooner rather than later, bring justice to the good people of San Bruno, and move California forward to our goal of a much safer natural gas system."

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010. PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

Hi, Terrie, still waiting on answers to:

Who first proposed Mitchell as mediator?
How much is his payment?

Also, does the fact that PG&E's shareholders will fund Mitchell's work raise any concern at the commission about bias?

Senator Mitchell's role as mediator does not require a vote of the Commissioners.

Thanks for getting back to me, Terrie. Here are a few follow up questions:
--Can you please forward me a copy of the contract retaining DLA Piper and Sen. Mitchell?
--Also, is it correct that PG&E is paying the mediators' bills, as part of the overall cost of the San Bruno proceeding? How much will the mediators be paid? What are the terms or guidelines for their contact with the parties?
--Is it correct that both President Peevey and Commissioner Florio appointed Mitchell?
--And finally, why was PG&E notified last week, before any of the other parties to the proceeding?

FORMER U.S. SENATOR GEORGE MITCHELL APPOINTED AS MEDIATOR FOR NEGOTIATIONS OVER PG&E SAN BRUNO PIPELINE EXPLOSION FINES AND REMEDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today announced the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to serve as mediator in ongoing talks aimed at resolving by stipulated agreement a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), stemming from the September 2010 explosion of a high-pressure PG&E natural gas pipeline in San Bruno, Calif.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in the Northern Ireland peace process. He is the chairman emeritus of DLA Piper LLP (US), an international law firm, and he will be assisted by lawyers from that firm in his role as mediator.

"We are very grateful to Senator Mitchell for agreeing to devote his skills as mediator to this difficult and painful series of cases," said CPUC President Michael R. Peevey. "We are confident Senator Mitchell can help achieve a solution that will resolve these cases sooner rather than later, bring justice to the good people of San Bruno, and move California forward to our goal of a much safer natural gas system."

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010.

PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

Hi Terrie, we did a day one story on this, and are now following up on the letter given to the CPUC today from TURN, DRA, and cities of San Bruno and San Francisco. Does the PUC or any of the commissioners have any response to that letter? One other question – whose idea was it originally to hire Mitchell, was that first proposed by someone at the CPUC or at PG&E?

Thanks,
Stephanie

Hi Phil,

Long time, no talk – hope you are doing well! I know you called us yesterday and Andy Kotch gave you some information regarding the CPUC's selection of former U.S. Senator Mitchell as mediator in the PG&E San Bruno pipeline rupture cases. I am wondering if you are interested in speaking with our General Counsel, Frank Lindh, about the issue?

Thanks!

Phil,

Regarding your inquiry about George Mitchell;

The two Assigned Commissioners in these dockets (President Peevey and Commissioner Florio) conferred and made the selection of Senator Mitchell as mediator.

The CPUC selected Senator Mitchell because he is a world-renowned mediator.

PG&E was not a part of the decision process.

I'm following up about the below outstanding questions from yesterday:

--Can you please forward me a copy of the contract retaining DLA Piper and Sen. Mitchell?
--Also, is it correct that PG&E is paying the mediators' bills, as part of the overall cost of the San Bruno proceeding? How much will the mediators be paid? What are the terms or guidelines for their contact with the parties?
--Is it correct that both President Peevey and Commissioner Florio appointed Mitchell?

Hi Terrie,
Just checking in again about the timing of Sen. Mitchell's appointment – when is it set to begin and end?

Also, given this new configuration, how would his mediation work intersect with the ALJ's judicial authority? Would he be able to make a decision on a proposed settlement without ALJ approval? Or would an ALJ necessarily need to approve any settlement he brokered?
I'm on deadline for this morning.

Hi Terrie and Andy,
I'm following up about the below outstanding questions from yesterday:

--Can you please forward me a copy of the contract retaining DLA Piper and Sen. Mitchell?
--Also, is it correct that PG&E is paying the mediators' bills, as part of the overall cost of the San Bruno proceeding? How much will the mediators be paid? What are the terms or guidelines for their contact with the parties?
--Is it correct that both President Peevey and Commissioner Florio appointed Mitchell?
--And finally, why was PG&E notified last week, before any of the other parties to the proceeding?

Can you please get back to me as soon as possible?
Many thanks for your help,
Garance

FORMER U.S. SENATOR GEORGE MITCHELL APPOINTED AS MEDIATOR FOR NEGOTIATIONS OVER PG&E SAN BRUNO PIPELINE EXPLOSION FINES AND REMEDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today announced the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to serve as mediator in ongoing talks aimed at resolving by stipulated agreement a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), stemming from the September 2010 explosion of a high-pressure PG&E natural gas pipeline in San Bruno, Calif.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in the Northern Ireland peace process. He is the chairman emeritus of DLA Piper LLP (US), an international law firm, and he will be assisted by lawyers from that firm in his role as mediator.

"We are very grateful to Senator Mitchell for agreeing to devote his skills as mediator to this difficult and painful series of cases," said CPUC President Michael R. Peevey. "We are confident Senator Mitchell can help achieve a solution that will resolve these cases sooner rather than later, bring justice to the good people of San Bruno, and move California forward to our goal of a much safer natural gas system."

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010. PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

Subject: Sen. Mitchell's appointment

Chad Woodworth of the Energy Daily is writing a story about the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to mediate the San Bruno settlement talks. He has heard that parties and members of the public have called for rescinding his appointment.

Question: Is the CPUC re-considering his appointment as mediator? Does the CPUC have any comment on the matter?

Re: DLA Piper Mediation of San Bruno Explosion Cases

Dear Senator Mitchell and Mssrs. Clarke and Scheeler:

We, the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, The Utility Reform Network, and the California Public Utilities Commission's (CPUC) Division of Ratepayer Advocates, write to express our grave concern regarding DLA Piper attorneys serving as mediators for negotiations related to the San Bruno Explosion-Related Proceedings.[1]

As you know, last Thursday, in order to gather information and not for purposes of accepting the CPUC management's unilateral designation of DLA Piper as mediator, we met with Mssrs. Clarke and Scheeler to discuss issues related to DLA Piper's role in any potential mediation regarding these proceedings. Those issues included potential conflicts of interest that may call into question DLA Piper's ability to "maintain impartiality toward all participants in the mediation process at all times."[2]

While we have great respect for you, Senator Mitchell, and for the DLA Piper firm, we were deeply concerned to learn that DLA Piper represents a large insurance carrier that potentially may be required to pay costs incurred by Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) related to the San Bruno explosion. As the outcome of the four CPUC proceedings could affect PG&E's insurance claims arising from civil litigation, this representation is incompatible with DLA Piper's duty of impartiality as mediator in this matter.

[2] Cal. Rule of Court § 3.855(a).

At last Thursday's meeting, we also learned that DLA Piper attorneys have already received confidential information regarding the negotiation positions of the parties. Your receipt of such highly sensitive confidential information was a breach of the Confidentiality Agreement signed by each of the negotiating parties, including the four undersigned parties, at the start of the negotiations. That Agreement specifically provided that none of the contents of the settlement discussions was to be disclosed to any person outside the negotiations "without the consent of all Parties."[3] DLA Piper attorneys are not parties to the negotiation and the four undersigned parties have not consented to allow you to receive confidential settlement information. Consequently, you should neither have been offered, nor should you have accepted,[4] any information from any party regarding the negotiation positions of the parties. Furthermore, until we give our consent, you should not accept any additional information from any party that relates to any of the confidential settlement discussions and communications that have occurred to date.

DLA Piper's representation of an insurance carrier with an interest in the outcome of litigation related to the San Bruno explosion and your receipt of sensitive confidential information in violation of the Confidentiality Agreement raise serious questions about your ability to mediate these negotiations with the unquestioned impartiality that these matters require. As you know, there is extraordinary public interest in these cases, and there has been significant editorial outcry about the fact that you were imposed as mediators without any of the undersigned parties even being consulted.[5]

Senator Mitchell, you have had great success as a mediator and understand better than anyone that the process has the best chance for success if all parties agree in advance both to mediation itself and to the mediator. Speaking plainly, the CPUC management has completely botched any chance of securing public confidence in a DLA Piper mediation by unilaterally imposing DLA Piper as mediator without even [4] We recognize that, had you known about the Confidentiality Agreement, you likely would not have accepted any confidential information without the consent of all parties. This should lead you to ask why you were never informed about such an important agreement.

asking the opinion of four of the six negotiating parties. We are confident that there are other qualified mediators who are not conflicted and could mediate these negotiations with the consent of all parties.

For all of these reasons and for the sake of promoting public confidence in the fairness of these CPUC proceedings, we respectfully call on DLA Piper to decline to serve as mediator for these negotiations.

Mercury News editorial: PUC shouldn't need a mediator to do its job

Mercury News Editorial

Garbage in, garbage out. That's what Californians have come to expect from the state Public Utilities Commission's utter failure to regulate PG&E. This week just brought further confirmation.

With perhaps as much as $5 billion in ratepayer money at stake, the PUC, in an outrageous backroom deal, first ended public hearings and then announced it had appointed former U.S. Sen. George Mitchell to mediate private talks over how much the utility should pay toward preventing another San Bruno tragedy. Guess all that public scrutiny was getting a little uncomfortable.

We've said it before, we'll say it again: PUC board President Michael Peevey has to go. His cozy relationship with PG&E puts the PUC in the untenable position of being unable to do its job.

The PUC announced the Mitchell appointment Monday. Handled differently, this might have been OK. Mitchell is widely respected for his negotiating skills. But get this: Mitchell's firm previously worked for Southern California Edison, the utility Peevey once headed.

That roar you hear is the last remnant of trust in the PUC going up in flames, like the several city blocks of San Bruno that were incinerated, along with eight people, in 2010 when a PG&E pipeline exploded.

A blue-ribbon panel last year blistered both PG&E and the PUC's culture and practices, demanding that they "confront and change elements of their respective cultures to assure the citizens of California that public safety is the foremost priority." Another wasted report sitting on a shelf, apparently.

Assemblyman Jerry Hill, whose district includes San Bruno, and Mark Toney, the executive director of The Utility Reform Network (TURN), are outraged. So is San Bruno Mayor Jim Ruane. As an injured party in the conflict, San Bruno should have had a say in whether to hire a mediator and, if so, whom. Why not, for example, someone like former state Sen. Byron Sher, the longtime Stanford law professor whose expertise on energy issues is widely respected? There are any number of similarly qualified Northern Californians.

The need for public trust in these proceedings is paramount. PG&E's attorneys are arguing that its captive customers should pay for 85 percent of the safety work that's now needed because the utility skimped on it earlier to drive up profits. It's the PUC's job to decide how the whopping $5 billion bill will be split between shareholders and ratepayers. Getting Mitchell to take the fall won't work.

The PUC should reopen hearings, with all the involved parties, to decide in public whether a mediator is needed and if so, who it should be.

And, as we've been saying for the past 15 months, Gov. Jerry Brown really needs to get Peevey's resignation.

California PUC dodges its job

State regulators have found a way to make the San Bruno pipeline nightmare even worse. After halting public comment on looming fines, the Public Utilities Commission wants to farm the dispute out to a private mediator - a decision that's left the public in the lurch.

This move essentially caps public input and awareness of an important process. It relieves the state PUC of its direct responsibility to set fines that could range beyond $2 billion. It underscores once again the agency's inept handling of the pipeline explosion.

The decision to go to a mediator comes with qualifiers. The mediator will be a giant, worldwide law firm, DLA Piper, whose chairman emeritus is former Sen. George Mitchell. His public service is exemplary: 15 years in the Senate, four years fashioning peace in Northern Ireland, a report on steroids in baseball that led to tougher testing, and two years as President Obama's Mideast peace envoy.

It's a glittering resume, but Mitchell's remarkable accomplishments aren't the point. By taking the unusual course of hiring a mediator, the PUC is admitting it doesn't have the credibility to handle the job itself. It's giving up on its basic duty to sanction dangerous pipeline operations.

There are other problems. The hiring of Mitchell's firm was done with the assent of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which negligently operated the pipeline. But other parties such as the cities of San Bruno and San Francisco and consumer watchdogs were left out. It was a one-sided decision that ignored the very people harmed by the explosion. In addition DLA Piper has worked on other PUC-regulated utilities, links that cast doubt on its independence.

This decision process makes it clear what has happened. The PUC, with its credibility already in shambles from its inept oversight of the pipeline, rushed to find a prominent outsider to shoulder the burden. A code of silence was invoked to contain word of the decision until it took place. The state agency can now sit back, bask in the glow of distinguished statesman, and let the outside mediator do the heavy lifting.

It's been nearly two years since the disaster killed eight and destroyed 38 homes in a San Bruno neighborhood that believed an underground gas line was operated safely and overseen by a dutiful state agency.

Clearly it's time to end the inquiry and move forward. Earlier this month the PUC shut down public hearings and moved to closed-door negotiations due to run until Nov. 1. That decision was bad enough since it closed off outside observation.

At issue now are fines that may range from $200 million to $2.5 billion, a gulf that illustrates how far apart the many sides are. In addition, PG&E wants rate increases to pay for pipeline upgrades elsewhere in its network.

It's the PUC's job to take on this work and to make its decisions in public. It's doubly important to do this in a way that convinces a skeptical public that vigilant and fair-minded regulators are at work. The record shows that the agency is falling far short of its duty.

PG&E hearings can't be hidden behind mediation

By: SF Examiner Editorial | 10/21/12 8:20 PM

SF Examiner Editorial

Regulatory agencies established to watch over public utilities often become too close with the companies they oversee. The latest example of such cozy relations involves the ongoing investigations into the deadly San Bruno blast and the conduct of the power company behind that tragedy, PG&E.

On the evening of Sept. 9, 2010, a PG&E natural-gas transmission line exploded. The blast and subsequent conflagration killed eight people and destroyed dozens of homes. A blue-ribbon task force eventually blamed the utility for the blast, and the California Public Utilities Commission — the regulatory body that oversees such utilities — launched a series of investigative hearings into the blast, PG&E's record keeping and the way the company labels its gas lines.

Then the commission turned its back on the public and the idea of openness. First, its Consumer Protection Safety Division, in coordination with PG&E, asked judges to halt these public hearings. That request was granted by an administrative law judge Oct. 12. Then, a few days later, the CPUC announced that it had appointed former U.S. Sen. George Mitchell to mediate between PG&E and various other parties about potential fines against the utility.

In and of itself, the selection of the distinguished Mitchell could have been a decent choice, given that his negotiating skills include such monumental accomplishments as negotiating the peace treaty in Northern Ireland.

But the parties to these negotiations — including San Bruno, San Francisco and The Utility Reform Network — had no say in the mediator's appointment. And some of these parties have pointed out that Mitchell is the chairman of DLA Piper, a law firm that represents Southern California Edison, the Los Angeles-area power company and a company that CPUC President Michael Peevey once headed.

In a letter to the commission, San Bruno, San Francisco, The Utility Reform Network and the state's own Division of Ratepayer Advocates all have called for Mitchell to be removed as negotiator. We agree with their assessment.

While Mitchell's selection might well have been appropriate if handled in an above-board manner, it's hard to accomplish the goals of mediation if more than half the parties to the proceedings are not treated with respect.

It also is unclear why the CPUC's public hearings were halted in the first place, as the negotiations didn't appear to be deadlocked — a time when a mediator is typically called in. And consider that some of these hearings were designed to review the transparency of PG&E's record keeping and pipeline labeling. Conducting a hearing about openness behind closed doors is counterintuitive and wrongheaded.

What the public needs is for the commission to set aside its cozy relationship with PG&E and to investigate the San Bruno blast in a fair and transparent manner. If the commission continues to operate in this manner, perhaps the next hearing should occur in Sacramento and consider the performance of the agency itself. The people deserve a watchdog from the CPUC, but recent events suggest that too often they have a lapdog.

Hi Terrie and Andy,
I understand there may be some immediate changes to the status of DLA Piper/Sen. Mitchell mediation.
I understand Sen. Mitchell has rejected the assignment from the CPUC because there was not a unanimous approval of his appointment as mediator in the San Bruno proceedings. I understand that the CPUC may also ask PG&E to either put a settlement offer on the table or rejoin the proceedings.
Can you please give me a call at 415 495 1708 as soon as possible to provide me with an update as to the status? I am on a very tight deadline.

In addition, San Bruno survivors held a press conference today calling for President Peevey to be replaced.
--Does the CPUC have a comment on this petition they have launched asking for Gov. Brown to replace President Peevey?

FORMER U.S. SENATOR GEORGE MITCHELL APPOINTED AS MEDIATOR FOR NEGOTIATIONS OVER PG&E SAN BRUNO PIPELINE EXPLOSION FINES AND REMEDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today announced the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to serve as mediator in ongoing talks aimed at resolving by stipulated agreement a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), stemming from the September 2010 explosion of a high-pressure PG&E natural gas pipeline in San Bruno, Calif.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in the Northern Ireland peace process. He is the chairman emeritus of DLA Piper LLP (US), an international law firm, and he will be assisted by lawyers from that firm in his role as mediator.

"We are very grateful to Senator Mitchell for agreeing to devote his skills as mediator to this difficult and painful series of cases," said CPUC President Michael R. Peevey. "We are confident Senator Mitchell can help achieve a solution that will resolve these cases sooner rather than later, bring justice to the good people of San Bruno, and move California forward to our goal of a much safer natural gas system."

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010. PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

Ex-senator backs out of San Bruno talks

Jaxon Van Derbeken
Updated 6:25 p.m., Thursday, October 25, 2012

(10-25) 18:22 PDT SAN BRUNO -- Former Sen. George Mitchell and his law firm have offered to withdraw as mediator in talks over how much Pacific Gas and Electric Co. should be fined for the San Bruno pipeline explosion after the city and consumer watchdog groups voiced their opposition, officials said Thursday.

San Bruno and San Francisco officials, joined by advocates for PG&E customers, had denounced the California Public Utilities Commission's "unilateral" selection of Mitchell's law firm, DLA Piper, to broker a deal over regulatory penalties for the September 2010 disaster. City officials and consumer groups said the law firm represents an insurance carrier for PG&E, which they called a conflict of interest.

"Sen. Mitchell did the right thing by telling the parties that he wouldn't mediate without all the parties agreeing," said San Bruno City Manager Connie Jackson, who is involved in the talks. "We are very pleased and looking forward getting back to direct negotiations with PG&E."

Tom Long, who is involved in the talks for the consumer group The Utility Reform Network, said, "It appears that Sen. Mitchell and his firm, DLA Piper, made a wise decision."

Jackson and Long said utilities commission officials had told them that they would convey their continued opposition to DLA Piper, thus making the firm's withdrawal official.

PG&E and utilities commission officials had no comment about the withdrawal offer, and DLA Piper did not respond to calls seeking comment. Todd Burke, spokesman for the utility, said PG&E will continue to take part in the talks, regardless of whether there is a mediator.

The negotiations have stalled over how much PG&E should be fined for the explosion, which killed eight people, as well as for events leading up to it and the utility's poor natural-gas system record-keeping. PG&E has said it expects to be fined around $200 million, but other parties are believed to be holding out for as much as $2.5 billion.

Mitchell's appointment came as a shock to the cities and consumer groups because mediators are typically selected with the agreement of all the parties involved. The parties said that although they respected Mitchell, who served as mediator in talks over Northern Ireland, the utilities commission's leadership had bungled his appointment by not consulting them.

Hi Terrie, Chris and Andy,
I'm reaching out again to inquire about the current status of DLA Piper and Sen. Mitchell's involvement in the California Public Utilities Commission proceeding about the San Bruno pipeline explosion. I would appreciate hearing back from you as soon as possible this morning as I am on a very tight deadline.
Thanks in advance,

Hi Terrie and Andy,
I understand there may be some immediate changes to the status of DLA Piper/Sen. Mitchell mediation.
I understand Sen. Mitchell has rejected the assignment from the CPUC because there was not a unanimous approval of his appointment as mediator in the San Bruno proceedings. I understand that the CPUC may also ask PG&E to either put a settlement offer on the table or rejoin the proceedings.
Can you please give me a call at 415 495 1708 as soon as possible to provide me with an update as to the status? I am on a very tight deadline.
Thanks in advance,
Garance

Hi Terrie,
I completely understand that you are all quite busy but would really appreciate hearing back from you today about the two questions below, pending from Wednesday:
--Is it correct that both President Peevey and Commissioner Florio appointed Mitchell?
--And finally, why was PG&E notified last week, before any of the other parties to the proceeding?
In addition, San Bruno survivors held a press conference today calling for President Peevey to be replaced.
--Does the CPUC have a comment on this petition they have launched asking for Gov. Brown to replace President Peevey?
Thanks in advance for your help,
Garance

The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

I don't know that his contact has an end date. I will send it to you as soon as I have it.

As the press release says, any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment. If a stipulation is reached, it would be filed with the CPUC for review and a vote of the Commissioners.

Hi Terrie,
Just checking in again about the timing of Sen. Mitchell's appointment – when is it set to begin and end?
Also, given this new configuration, how would his mediation work intersect with the ALJ's judicial authority? Would he be able to make a decision on a proposed settlement without ALJ approval? Or would an ALJ necessarily need to approve any settlement he brokered?
I'm on deadline for this morning.

FORMER U.S. SENATOR GEORGE MITCHELL APPOINTED AS MEDIATOR FOR NEGOTIATIONS OVER PG&E SAN BRUNO PIPELINE EXPLOSION FINES AND REMEDIES

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today announced the appointment of former U.S. Senator George Mitchell to serve as mediator in ongoing talks aimed at resolving by stipulated agreement a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), stemming from the September 2010 explosion of a high-pressure PG&E natural gas pipeline in San Bruno, Calif.

Senator Mitchell is known, among other things, for his role as the U.S. Special Envoy for Northern Ireland, where he brokered the landmark Good Friday Peace Treaty in April 1998, and more recently as President Obama's Special Envoy to the Middle East. He was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in the Northern Ireland peace process. He is the chairman emeritus of DLA Piper LLP (US), an international law firm, and he will be assisted by lawyers from that firm in his role as mediator.

"We are very grateful to Senator Mitchell for agreeing to devote his skills as mediator to this difficult and painful series of cases," said CPUC President Michael R. Peevey. "We are confident Senator Mitchell can help achieve a solution that will resolve these cases sooner rather than later, bring justice to the good people of San Bruno, and move California forward to our goal of a much safer natural gas system."

Commissioner Mike Florio also applauded the appointment of Senator Mitchell, describing him as "a truly world-class mediator and peace-maker."

Senator Mitchell will serve as mediator in ongoing negotiations between PG&E, the CPUC's safety enforcement staff, and other parties to the proceedings. The other parties include the City of San Bruno, the City and County of San Francisco, the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates, and ratepayer advocacy group The Utility Reform Network (TURN). The parties to the mediation will be asked to sign a mediation agreement confirming their participation and giving their consent for Senator Mitchell's law firm to provide these mediation services.

In their report and testimony in the enforcement cases, the CPUC's safety staff allege that PG&E committed significant violations of pipeline safety rules, which staff claim contributed to the blast. The National Transportation Safety Board also found many deficiencies in PG&E's operations and its slow response to the explosion on the evening of September 9, 2010. PG&E faces the prospect of millions of dollars in fines in the CPUC proceedings, and other remedies.

"I encourage all of the parties to make a good-faith effort at a negotiated solution, working with Senator Mitchell," said Commissioner Florio. "This is the most expeditious way to resolve these cases and bring closure to the people of San Bruno. More than two years have passed since the tragedy. The evidence is all in, and the time has come to resolve these cases once and for all."

The CPUC's rules require that any stipulation the parties might agree to in the mediation process must be publicly filed with the CPUC, and considered by the CPUC's five Commissioners in public after an opportunity for public review and comment.

The CPUC previously ordered PG&E to fund all the costs of the San Bruno investigation from shareholders, and not to pass any of the costs along to ratepayers. The costs of Senator Mitchell's services will be paid in this same manner.

My information is from Mitchele Cooke of the CPUC. I was told that Senator Mitchell had told Frank Lindh that he would not mediate unless all the parties agreed. All the parties have not agreed. So he is not going to be mediating. But the reason not all the parties want him is not the choice of mediator, it is the process. The parties did not ask for mediation because settlement was moving along. And because the mediator was not chosen by the parties. You should ask a law professor on Alternative Dispute Resolution to find out how important it is to have the parties' choose the mediator.

CPUC URGES PARTIES TO PG&E PIPELINE CASES TO CONTINUE TALKS; WITHDRAWS MEDIATOR

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today said that it and former Senator George Mitchell have determined that Senator Mitchell will not mediate talks aimed at resolving a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) regarding the natural gas pipeline explosion in San Bruno, Calif., on September 9, 2010.

The appointment of former Senator Mitchell was announced last week by CPUC President Michael R. Peevey and Commissioner Mike Florio, who are presiding over a series of enforcement cases now pending before the five-member CPUC. Senator Mitchell's appointment was supported by the CPUC's enforcement staff, but was protested by parties who did not want to participate in mediation. The CPUC said that while it would like to see talks occur, it is clear that the parties must be supportive of the mediation and the mediator.

"We remain very grateful to Senator Mitchell for his willingness to step in and try to resolve, by stipulated agreement, these cases triggered by the tragedy in San Bruno," said President Peevey. "Senator Mitchell is arguably the greatest mediator in the world today, and it is regrettable that some of the parties did not appreciate the opportunity we afforded them to work with a man who is a true peacemaker. The San Bruno investigation and regulatory proceedings have gone on for more than two years. Unless a stipulation can be reached, I am worried it might take until mid-next year before these cases can be concluded in the normal litigation manner. We want justice and remedies much sooner than that, to get closure and true justice for the people of San Bruno."

Commissioner Florio added, "We are responding to the concerns of the parties about the appointment of Senator Mitchell. It's important to recognize that nobody opposed Senator Mitchell himself, or questioned his integrity or his abilities as a mediator. What seemed to prompt the concern was simply the way we decided to appoint him, without prior consultation with the parties."

President Peevey and Commissioner Florio urge the parties to continue their ongoing negotiations designed to bring a stipulation before the CPUC for its consideration in the near future.

If a stipulation is reached among the parties, the CPUC's rules require that it be publicly filed with the CPUC, and then considered by the five-member CPUC in public session.

Senator Mitchell's appointment was supported by the CPUC's enforcement staff, but was protested by parties who did not want to participate in mediation. The CPUC said that while it would like to see talks occur, it is clear that the parties must be supportive of the mediation and the mediator.

"We remain very grateful to Senator Mitchell for his willingness to step in and try to resolve, by stipulated agreement, these cases triggered by the tragedy in San Bruno," said President Peevey. "Senator Mitchell is arguably the greatest mediator in the world today, and it is regrettable that some of the parties did not appreciate the opportunity we afforded them to work with a man who is a true peacemaker. The San Bruno investigation and regulatory proceedings have gone on for more than two years. Unless a stipulation can be reached, I am worried it might take until mid-next year before these cases can be concluded in the normal litigation manner. We want justice and remedies much sooner than that, to get closure and true justice for the people of San Bruno."

Commissioner Florio added, "We are responding to the concerns of the parties about the appointment of Senator Mitchell. It's important to recognize that nobody opposed Senator Mitchell himself, or questioned his integrity or his abilities as a mediator. What seemed to prompt the concern was simply the way we decided to appoint him, without prior consultation with the parties."

President Peevey and Commissioner Florio urge the parties to continue their ongoing negotiations designed to bring a stipulation before the CPUC for its consideration in the near future.

If a stipulation is reached among the parties, the CPUC's rules require that it be publicly filed with the CPUC, and then considered by the five-member CPUC in public session.

Hi Terrie,
Thanks for this. Did Mitchell himself ever actually participate in mediation activities following his appointment?
Also, was Mitchell paid, and if so, how much? I requested the contract from PG&E and they routed me back to you.
Thanks,
Garance

CPUC URGES PARTIES TO PG&E PIPELINE CASES TO CONTINUE TALKS; WITHDRAWS MEDIATOR

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26, 2012 -- The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) today said that it and former Senator George Mitchell have determined that Senator Mitchell will not mediate talks aimed at resolving a series of enforcement cases against Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) regarding the natural gas pipeline explosion in San Bruno, Calif., on September 9, 2010.

The appointment of former Senator Mitchell was announced last week by CPUC President Michael R. Peevey and Commissioner Mike Florio, who are presiding over a series of enforcement cases now pending before the five-member CPUC. Senator Mitchell's appointment was supported by the CPUC's enforcement staff, but was protested by parties who did not want to participate in mediation. The CPUC said that while it would like to see talks occur, it is clear that the parties must be supportive of the mediation and the mediator.

Hi Terrie.

Can you tell me what parties were opposed to the manner in which Mitchell was appointed?

Hi Terrie and Christopher,
It's Linda Chiem from Law360 again. I seem to be getting a lot of assignments related to the California Public Utilities Commission lately.
This latest has to do with the mediation talks regarding the San Bruno pipeline explosion.
The AP and San Francisco Chronicle, among other media, have reported that former U.S. Sen. George Mitchell and his law firm DLA Piper have offered to withdraw as mediators unless all parties agree to participate.
Would you be able to confirm this and/or issue a statement on what this means for settlement talks going forward?

Here's a link to other coverage we've seen today:
http://www.sfgate.com/bayarea/article/Ex-senator-backs-out-of-San-Bruno-talks-3982697.php

Please let me know what's possible as soon as you can. I have about two hours to submit the story.
I appreciate your time and assistance.

Linda

"We remain very grateful to Senator Mitchell for his willingness to step in and try to resolve, by stipulated agreement, these cases triggered by the tragedy in San Bruno," said President Peevey. "Senator Mitchell is arguably the greatest mediator in the world today, and it is regrettable that some of the parties did not appreciate the opportunity we afforded them to work with a man who is a true peacemaker. The San Bruno investigation and regulatory proceedings have gone on for more than two years. Unless a stipulation can be reached, I am worried it might take until mid-next year before these cases can be concluded in the normal litigation manner. We want justice and remedies much sooner than that, to get closure and true justice for the people of San Bruno."

Commissioner Florio added, "We are responding to the concerns of the parties about the appointment of Senator Mitchell. It's important to recognize that nobody opposed Senator Mitchell himself, or questioned his integrity or his abilities as a mediator. What seemed to prompt the concern was simply the way we decided to appoint him, without prior consultation with the parties."

President Peevey and Commissioner Florio urge the parties to continue their ongoing negotiations designed to bring a stipulation before the CPUC for its consideration in the near future.

If a stipulation is reached among the parties, the CPUC's rules require that it be publicly filed with the CPUC, and then considered by the five-member CPUC in public session.

Hi Nuria,

Myself and a colleague will be traveling to San Francisco on Thursday, October 6 to meet with the management of PG&E. We were hoping some of President Peevey's staff would be available for a brief meeting in the afternoon. As far as our interest in the CPUC, we were looking to learn more about utilities in the state and Commission policy/regulation. In regards to my background, I am a research analyst following the utilities and power sector at Morgan Stanley in New York.

Thank you for your time.

Best,

I learned after speaking to you on Friday afternoon that there is an important conflict Friday morning February 10 which makes having a breakfast meeting with Commissioner Sandoval not practical...

the utility, American Electric Power is having it annual Annual Day that morning in NYC. It starts at 8AM and will likely go until noon (I am confirming the expected end time now.

AEP has a new CEO and this will be his chance to talk about strategy and outlook etc. with the financial community. All the sell-side analysts that I had planned to invite to our meeting will be at that meeting.

I remember that you said that another firm (was it Citi) is planning something else for the Commissioner on Friday.. is it lunch?
What is the earlier you can leave DC on Thursday and get to NYC? Perhaps we could do a late Thursday afternoon meeting., maybe around 4pm?

Please give me a call tomorrow to talk about options.

That would not be idea. It's not as much being a Friday. Rather it's hard to get the sell side to leave their offices at strange mid-day times like that especially when they have already been out for part of the day. Also people are scattered throughout the city. I think that before your Dinner on Thursday might be better. Let's talk tomorrow.

I was traveling last week --- please excuse the delay.

Here is the list again of suggested buy and sell side as well as rating agency representatives.
It has the most senior analyst at each company.
I would suggest explicitly telling people if they can send a substitute if they can not attend.
Please confirm that you get it. It may not have gotten to you when I first sent it a few weeks ago.

Here is the invitation list that I was going to use for the breakfast.
I am sure that these people would appreciate being invited to the Harvard Club event.
They are the leaders in the sell side-- debt and equity.

Stephen,

MFR will be hosting a welcome and reception next Thursday with CPUC Commissioner Sandoval next Thursday in New York.

In addition to a powerful group of banks, analysts and investors involved with the utility sector, also participating will be two New York State Commissioners. The panel will explore regulatory best practices from around the nation and how such decisions affect utility investment and cost of capital.

It would be my pleasure if you could attend however space is limited so let me know soon.

Warm regards,

Cliff

Hi Carol,

Hope all is well and that you remember our conversation a few months ago about California regulation.

We are going to be in San Francisco with investors to meet with PG&E management and are hoping to meet with you as well. The date is September 26 in the afternoon. Please let us know if you're available.

We are also reaching out to the Commissioners and Paul Clanon, but thought your insight would be great for investors.

Best,

Great. Let's hold 1pm. We will be with PG&E from 8-11am and that gives us (and you) time for lunch.

Please pass on to Paul Clanon also. Can do the meeting jointly or separately from him.

Thanks again.

Hi Carol,

Hope all is well and that you remember our conversation a few months ago about California regulation.

We are going to be in San Francisco with investors to meet with PG&E management and are hoping to meet with you as well. The date is September 26 in the afternoon. Please let us know if you're available.

We are also reaching out to the Commissioners and Paul Clanon, but thought your insight would be great for investors.

Hi Cody,

Would you be so kind and provide me with Carol Brown and Paul Clanon's titles? We are preparing our final agenda for investors for this trip.

Also, would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accomodate a large group.

Thank you,

Hope all is well and that you remember our conversation a few months ago about California regulation.

We are going to be in San Francisco with investors to meet with PG&E management and are hoping to meet with you as well. The date is September 26 in the afternoon. Please let us know if you're available.

We are also reaching out to the Commissioners and Paul Clanon, but thought your insight would be great for investors.

Hi Cristine,

Would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accommodate a large group.

There is an oral argument happening on the 26th which requires that some staff be present at 2:30. I am guessing that Commissioner Florio will probably be at that same oral argument and thus unable to make your meeting after all. Additionally I am unable to find a space to accommodate the people in your group at 2:30. Best to keep the time and location as is.

Hi Joan,

Valerie (from Commissioner Sandoval's office) explained it is best for his advisors to keep their original meeting time because some may attend the 2:30 pm hearing, so a time switch is not possible.

Would you be so kind and check with Commissioner Florio upon his return as to whether a 12:30 pm meeting is acceptable?

Thanks for your help.

We will be sure to forward a complete list of attendees as far in advance as possible. Is there an absolute cut-off date by which you need the list (so I may advise our marketing team)?

Look forward to hearing next week if the meeting time can be changed to 12:30 pm.

Thank you for you responsiveness. We will need to adjust Commissioner Ferron's meeting time to 3 - 3:30 pm. Stephen is keen on meeting all of the Commissioners, because of the hearing the only way to accomplish that is to do (2) 30 minute meetings from 3 - 4pm. Is that ok?

Also would it be possible to reserve 5305? Would be great to keep the investors in a single room as all of the other meetings look like they will be held there.

Joan,

I have adjusted Commissioner Ferron's meeting to 3- 3:30 pm, so that Commissioner Florio can have the 3:30 - 4pm slot. I have requested 5305 for the 3pm meeting. If there is a central booking system for your conference rooms, I hope to avoid any confusion. I am attempting to have the room reserved from 1 - 4:30 pm for all of our meetings.

Excellent, thank you kindly.

May I respectfully ask if Room 5305 is available that we book it for this meeting. I am waiting to hear back from Commissioner Ferron's office as to which room they have booked, they were scheduled for the 3-4pm slot. Would be great to keep the investors in a single room as all of the other meetings look like they will be held there.

Thank you for you responsiveness. We will need to adjust Commissioner Ferron's meeting time to 3 - 3:30 pm. Stephen is keen on meeting all of the Commissioners, because of the hearing the only way to accomplish that is to do (2) 30 minute meetings from 3 - 4pm. Is that ok?

Also would it be possible to reserve 5305? Would be great to keep the investors in a single room as all of the other meetings look like they will be held there.

Hope this e-mails finds you doing well.

I wanted to check on the possibility of Commissioner Ferron hosting this meeting from 2:30 pm - 3:30 pm instead? There appears to be a hearing at 2:30 pm on this day, I'm not sure if it will affect the Commissioner's schedule? Since you were gracious in offering a 1 hour meeting, we would like to keep it as such but there is a possibility we may have slightly alter the schedule due to the hearing.

Please let me know at your earliest convenience.

Thank you for you responsiveness. We will need to adjust Commissioner Ferron's meeting time to 3 - 3:30 pm. Stephen is keen on meeting all of the Commissioners, because of the hearing the only way to accomplish that is to do (2) 30 minute meetings from 3 - 4pm. Is that ok?

Also would it be possible to reserve 5305? Would be great to keep the investors in a single room as all of the other meetings look like they will be held there.

Excellent, thank you kindly.

May I respectfully ask if Room 5305 is available that we book it for this meeting. I am waiting to hear back from Commissioner Ferron's office as to which room they have booked, they were scheduled for the 3-4pm slot. Would be great to keep the investors in a single room as all of the other meetings look like they will be held there.

Good morning Cristine,

I hope this e-mail finds you doing well. I just wanted to confirm the meeting with Morgan Stanley on Wed., Sept 26th will be 30 minutes from 2 - 2:30 pm PDT.

Commissioner Ferron is scheduled to meet with the group from 2:30 pm - 3:30 pm, if possible, I would like to ask his office to reserve the room at that time. This way, the investors are in the same room for their entire afternoon of meetings. If your office will not be using 5305 from 2:30 - 3 pm, would you mind releasing it through your reservations person so it will be available for Commissioner Ferron's meeting?

Thank you,

Hi Cristine,

Would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accommodate a large group.

Good afternoon,

I just want to ensure our calendars all reflect a 30 minute meeting from 2-2:30 pm. A hearing was recently scheduled which made it necessary to restructure the calendar slightly so the investors have an opportunity to meet with Advisors from all of the Commissioner's offices.

Hi Juliane,

Please schedule Commissioner Ferron for the 2:30 - 3:30 pm slot.

I spoke with Cristine (from Commissioner Simon's office), she explained that the group has the room reserved for the entire afternoon already. Since the conference room is near all of you, she mentioned it would be easy for all of the meetings to take place as we have scheduled and there is no need for concern.

Yes, please! Would be great if we could schedule the full hour of 2:30 - 3:30 pm. Joan (from Comm Florio's office) informed me that she blocked room 5305 for the entire afternoon for our group. We should be set in terms of a room assignment.

Many thanks,

Thank you for you responsiveness. We will need to adjust Commissioner Ferron's meeting time to 3 - 3:30 pm. Stephen is keen on meeting all of the Commissioners, because of the hearing the only way to accomplish that is to do (2) 30 minute meetings from 3 - 4pm. Is that ok?

Also would it be possible to reserve 5305? Would be great to keep the investors in a single room as all of the other meetings look like they will be held there.

Hi Juliane,

Hope this e-mails finds you doing well.

I wanted to check on the possibility of Commissioner Ferron hosting this meeting from 2:30 pm - 3:30 pm instead? There appears to be a hearing at 2:30 pm on this day, I'm not sure if it will affect the Commissioner's schedule? Since you were gracious in offering a 1 hour meeting, we would like to keep it as such but there is a possibility we may have slightly alter the schedule due to the hearing.

Please let me know at your earliest convenience.

Good afternoon,

I just want to ensure our calendars all reflect a 30 minute meeting from 2-2:30 pm. A hearing was recently scheduled which made it necessary to restructure the calendar slightly so the investors have an opportunity to meet with Advisors from all of the Commissioner's offices.

Hi Juliane,

Please schedule Commissioner Ferron for the 2:30 - 3:30 pm slot.

I spoke with Cristine (from Commissioner Simon's office), she explained that the group has the room reserved for the entire afternoon already. Since the conference room is near all of you, she mentioned it would be easy for all of the meetings to take place as we have scheduled and there is no need for concern.

Hello again,

The person who approves the room reservations just informed me that Comr. Simon has the room with you guys from 2-3pm. Is this correct? If so, we wouldn't be able to change Comr. Ferron's time to 2:30pm. Please advise. Thanks!

Hi Juliane,

Yes, please! Would be great if we could schedule the full hour of 2:30 - 3:30 pm. Joan (from Comm Florio's office) informed me that she blocked room 5305 for the entire afternoon for our group. We should be set in terms of a room assignment.

Many thanks,

Thank you for you responsiveness. We will need to adjust Commissioner Ferron's meeting time to 3 - 3:30 pm. Stephen is keen on meeting all of the Commissioners, because of the hearing the only way to accomplish that is to do (2) 30 minute meetings from 3 - 4pm. Is that ok?

Also would it be possible to reserve 5305? Would be great to keep the investors in a single room as all of the other meetings look like they will be held there.

Hi Georgina,

Thank you for the list. It is good to have a head count to confirm that there is adequate room.

Each of the Commissioner's advisors has a bio posted on the CPUC website. You can find them here.

Subject:	Fwd: Meeting with Morgan Stanley Utilities Research | Sept 26th 2:30 - 3:30 pm

Hi Stephen,

While I enjoy meeting with equity analysts and investors, I have only one stipulation before agreeing to a meeting: that I am put on the distribution list for research pertaining to California utilties. Is this something that you are able to agree to? If so, could you also please send me any recent research (say over the last 6-12 months) on the sector that you think might be relevant?

Also, in the absence of an agenda, I am intending to make a brief introductory presentation on my perspectives on utility regulation in California, which I hope will frame the discussion and leave plenty of time for Q&A.

I hope that we will be able to meet next week.

Best regards

Mark

p.s., My Bio is as below:

Mark J. Ferron was appointed to the CPUC by Governor Jerry Brown on March 22, 2011. Before returning to California in 2009, Commissioner Ferron spent 25 years in global finance, banking and operations. From 2001 to 2009 he worked as chief operating officer for the Global Markets Division of Deutsche Bank in London, where he had responsibility for all operational activities globally across fixed income, currency, commodity and equity markets. Before joining Deutsche Bank, Commissioner Ferron was a vice president at Salomon Brothers from 1994 to 1996, and was a vice president at Bank of America from 1986 to 1994. Immediately prior to his appointment to the CPUC, he was a senior partner at the Silicon Valley Social Venture Fund and a board fellow of the New Teacher Center.

Commissioner Ferron holds a B.S. in mathematics from the University of Notre Dame and a master's degree in economics from Stanford University.

Commissioner Ferron, it would be our pleasure to put you on our research distribution list, and we will also send you our recent research that may be of interest to you. The format you propose for the meeting works for us. I'd love to have the opportunity to speak with you by phone before we head out next week, so that I can give you a bit of my background and briefly discuss key developments in the sector. I can also share the topics of most interest to investors - I doubt any of the topics would be a surprise to you. Would you be amenable to having a brief call this week or early next week?

Hi Stephen,

While I enjoy meeting with equity analysts and investors, I have only one stipulation before agreeing to a meeting: that I am put on the distribution list for research pertaining to California utilties. Is this something that you are able to agree to? If so, could you also please send me any recent research (say over the last 6-12 months) on the sector that you think might be relevant?

Also, in the absence of an agenda, I am intending to make a brief introductory presentation on my perspectives on utility regulation in California, which I hope will frame the discussion and leave plenty of time for Q&A.

I hope that we will be able to meet next week.

Best regards

Mark

Would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accommodate a large group.

Good afternoon,

I am sorry to hear of the miscommunication, when I submitted the original meeting request I asked for 9/26 anytime in the afternoon, please see attached. Unsure as to how that turned into 11am on 9/6. Hopefully everyone involved will still be able to attend a 2 pm meeting as the 11 am slot is not feasible, the group will be attending meetings at another site.

Originally we requested a 1 hour meeting, however a hearing was scheduled which required us to juggle the meeting times so that the investors could meet with all of the Commissioners and Advisors. I was under the impression Commissioner Simon could not attend the meeting, it would be yourself and Mr. Momoh, please confirm.

We are able to make the meeting from 2 - 2:45 pm in order to accommodate everyone's schedule. If you are agreeable, please let me know so I may contact Commissioner Ferron's office to begin his meeting at 2:45 pm instead of 2:30 pm.

Hi Cristine,

Would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accommodate a large group.

Carol A. Brown was hired as an Administrative Law Judge by the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) in 1999 and handled multiple proceedings in the electric and gas arena and in particular in resource procurement and the long term planning proceedings. Carol was trained as an alternate dispute mediator and regularly functioned as a mediator in commission matters. Carol was Acting Chief Administrative Law Judge 2002-2003 and supervised forty five judges and thirty support staff personnel in that capacity. Since 2009, Carol has been Chief of Staff to President Michael R. Peevey.

Carol received her B.A. from the University of Southern California, a M.A. in social sciences from Cal-State University Fullerton and a J.D. from the University of Southern California. Carol has been an member of the State Bar of California since 1985, beginning her practice at a law firm in Newport Beach that focused on business and real estate matters. Carol then worked at the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) in Newport Beach as a senior litigation attorney (1992-1995), in charge of complex proceedings at both the state and federal courts. Carol then moved to northern Califonia, working as Chief Counsel to the Cal-OSHA Appeals Board in Sacramento, before joining the CPUC.

Carol regularly teaches courses in Remedies and Legal Ethics as an adjunct professor at local law schools.

Good afternoon,

I am sorry to hear of the miscommunication, when I submitted the original meeting request I asked for 9/26 anytime in the afternoon, please see attached. Unsure as to how that turned into 11am on 9/6. Hopefully everyone involved will still be able to attend a 2 pm meeting as the 11 am slot is not feasible, the group will be attending meetings at another site.

Originally we requested a 1 hour meeting, however a hearing was scheduled which required us to juggle the meeting times so that the investors could meet with all of the Commissioners and Advisors. I was under the impression Commissioner Simon could not attend the meeting, it would be yourself and Mr. Momoh, please confirm.

We are able to make the meeting from 2 - 2:45 pm in order to accommodate everyone's schedule. If you are agreeable, please let me know so I may contact Commissioner Ferron's office to begin his meeting at 2:45 pm instead of 2:30 pm.

Hello...there has been miscommunication somewhere. Your meeting is on Commissioner Simon and his Advisors' calendar for Weds 9/6 from 11am to noon.

Please let Scott or Cris (email addresses above) know if this group accepts the 11am to noon appointment or if it can only be here at 2pm.

I also suggest you allow at least an hour for this many attendees to meet with Commissioner Simon. I don't see how 1/2 hour with can be at all productive.

Subject: RE: Morgan Stanley meeting with Phyllis White & Rahmon Momoh on 9/26 at 2 pm PDT

Good afternoon,

I am sorry to hear of the miscommunication, when I submitted the original meeting request I asked for 9/26 anytime in the afternoon, please see attached. Unsure as to how that turned into 11am on 9/6. Hopefully everyone involved will still be able to attend a 2 pm meeting as the 11 am slot is not feasible, the group will be attending meetings at another site.

Originally we requested a 1 hour meeting, however a hearing was scheduled which required us to juggle the meeting times so that the investors could meet with all of the Commissioners and Advisors. I was under the impression Commissioner Simon could not attend the meeting, it would be yourself and Mr. Momoh, please confirm.

We are able to make the meeting from 2 - 2:45 pm in order to accommodate everyone's schedule. If you are agreeable, please let me know so I may contact Commissioner Ferron's office to begin his meeting at 2:45 pm instead of 2:30 pm.

Regards,
Georgina Yeboah

Hello...there has been miscommunication somewhere. Your meeting is on Commissioner Simon and his Advisors' calendar for Weds 9/6 from 11am to noon.

Please let Scott or Cris (email addresses above) know if this group accepts the 11am to noon appointment or if it can only be here at 2pm.

I also suggest you allow at least an hour for this many attendees to meet with Commissioner Simon. I don't see how 1/2 hour with can be at all productive.

Hi Cristine,

Would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accommodate a large group.

Carol A. Brown was hired as an Administrative Law Judge by the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) in 1999 and handled multiple proceedings in the electric and gas arena and in particular in resource procurement and the long term planning proceedings. Carol was trained as an alternate dispute mediator and regularly functioned as a mediator in commission matters. Carol was Acting Chief Administrative Law Judge 2002-2003 and supervised forty five judges and thirty support staff personnel in that capacity. Since 2009, Carol has been Chief of Staff to President Michael R. Peevey.

Carol received her B.A. from the University of Southern California, a M.A. in social sciences from Cal-State University Fullerton and a J.D. from the University of Southern California. Carol has been an member of the State Bar of California since 1985, beginning her practice at a law firm in Newport Beach that focused on business and real estate matters. Carol then worked at the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) in Newport Beach as a senior litigation attorney (1992-1995), in charge of complex proceedings at both the state and federal courts. Carol then moved to northern Califonia, working as Chief Counsel to the Cal-OSHA Appeals Board in Sacramento, before joining the CPUC.

Carol regularly teaches courses in Remedies and Legal Ethics as an adjunct professor at local law schools.

Hi Stephen,

While I enjoy meeting with equity analysts and investors, I have only one stipulation before agreeing to a meeting: that I am put on the distribution list for research pertaining to California utilties. Is this something that you are able to agree to? If so, could you also please send me any recent research (say over the last 6-12 months) on the sector that you think might be relevant?

Also, in the absence of an agenda, I am intending to make a brief introductory presentation on my perspectives on utility regulation in California, which I hope will frame the discussion and leave plenty of time for Q&A.

I hope that we will be able to meet next week.

Best regards

Mark

Hi Stephen,

While I enjoy meeting with equity analysts and investors, I have only one stipulation before agreeing to a meeting: that I am put on the distribution list for research pertaining to California utilties. Is this something that you are able to agree to? If so, could you also please send me any recent research (say over the last 6-12 months) on the sector that you think might be relevant?

Also, in the absence of an agenda, I am intending to make a brief introductory presentation on my perspectives on utility regulation in California, which I hope will frame the discussion and leave plenty of time for Q&A.

I hope that we will be able to meet next week.

Best regards

Good afternoon,

I am sorry to hear of the miscommunication, when I submitted the original meeting request I asked for 9/26 anytime in the afternoon, please see attached. Unsure as to how that turned into 11am on 9/6. Hopefully everyone involved will still be able to attend a 2 pm meeting as the 11 am slot is not feasible, the group will be attending meetings at another site.

Originally we requested a 1 hour meeting, however a hearing was scheduled which required us to juggle the meeting times so that the investors could meet with all of the Commissioners and Advisors. I was under the impression Commissioner Simon could not attend the meeting, it would be yourself and Mr. Momoh, please confirm.

We are able to make the meeting from 2 - 2:45 pm in order to accommodate everyone's schedule. If you are agreeable, please let me know so I may contact Commissioner Ferron's office to begin his meeting at 2:45 pm instead of 2:30 pm.

Hello...there has been miscommunication somewhere. Your meeting is on Commissioner Simon and his Advisors' calendar for Weds 9/6 from 11am to noon.

Please let Scott or Cris (email addresses above) know if this group accepts the 11am to noon appointment or if it can only be here at 2pm.

I also suggest you allow at least an hour for this many attendees to meet with Commissioner Simon. I don't see how 1/2 hour with can be at all productive.

Hi Juliane,

Many thanks. Please have Comm Ferron call Stephen at 212-761-3865.

With regards to the investor meeting on Wed., Sept. 26th, would be possible to have Comm Ferron begin at 2:45 pm? This would allow the group to meet with both Comm Simon and Comm Ferron for 45 minutes each. Otherwise, due to time restraints the group would only have 30 minutes with Comm Simon.

Have a nice weekend.

Hi Stephen,

While I enjoy meeting with equity analysts and investors, I have only one stipulation before agreeing to a meeting: that I am put on the distribution list for research pertaining to California utilties. Is this something that you are able to agree to? If so, could you also please send me any recent research (say over the last 6-12 months) on the sector that you think might be relevant?

Also, in the absence of an agenda, I am intending to make a brief introductory presentation on my perspectives on utility regulation in California, which I hope will frame the discussion and leave plenty of time for Q&A.

I hope that we will be able to meet next week.

Best regards

Mark

Commissioner Ferron, it would be our pleasure to put you on our research distribution list, and we will also send you our recent research that may be of interest to you. The format you propose for the meeting works for us. I'd love to have the opportunity to speak with you by phone before we head out next week, so that I can give you a bit of my background and briefly discuss key developments in the sector. I can also share the topics of most interest to investors - I doubt any of the topics would be a surprise to you. Would you be amenable to having a brief call this week or early next week?

Hi Stephen,

While I enjoy meeting with equity analysts and investors, I have only one stipulation before agreeing to a meeting: that I am put on the distribution list for research pertaining to California utilties. Is this something that you are able to agree to? If so, could you also please send me any recent research (say over the last 6-12 months) on the sector that you think might be relevant?

Also, in the absence of an agenda, I am intending to make a brief introductory presentation on my perspectives on utility regulation in California, which I hope will frame the discussion and leave plenty of time for Q&A.

I hope that we will be able to meet next week.

Best regards

Mark

p.s., My Bio is as below:

Mark J. Ferron was appointed to the CPUC by Governor Jerry Brown on March 22, 2011. Before returning to California in 2009, Commissioner Ferron spent 25 years in global finance, banking and operations. From 2001 to 2009 he worked as chief operating officer for the Global Markets Division of Deutsche Bank in London, where he had responsibility for all operational activities globally across fixed income, currency, commodity and equity markets. Before joining Deutsche Bank, Commissioner Ferron was a vice president at Salomon Brothers from 1994 to 1996, and was a vice president at Bank of America from 1986 to 1994. Immediately prior to his appointment to the CPUC, he was a senior partner at the Silicon Valley Social Venture Fund and a board fellow of the New Teacher Center.

Commissioner Ferron holds a B.S. in mathematics from the University of Notre Dame and a master's degree in economics from Stanford University.

Also, would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accomodate a large group.

Good afternoon,

I am sorry to hear of the miscommunication, when I submitted the original meeting request I asked for 9/26 anytime in the afternoon, please see attached. Unsure as to how that turned into 11am on 9/6. Hopefully everyone involved will still be able to attend a 2 pm meeting as the 11 am slot is not feasible, the group will be attending meetings at another site.

Originally we requested a 1 hour meeting, however a hearing was scheduled which required us to juggle the meeting times so that the investors could meet with all of the Commissioners and Advisors. I was under the impression Commissioner Simon could not attend the meeting, it would be yourself and Mr. Momoh, please confirm.

We are able to make the meeting from 2 - 2:45 pm in order to accommodate everyone's schedule. If you are agreeable, please let me know so I may contact Commissioner Ferron's office to begin his meeting at 2:45 pm instead of 2:30 pm.

Hello...there has been miscommunication somewhere. Your meeting is on Commissioner Simon and his Advisors' calendar for Weds 9/6 from 11am to noon.

Please let Scott or Cris (email addresses above) know if this group accepts the 11am to noon appointment or if it can only be here at 2pm.

I also suggest you allow at least an hour for this many attendees to meet with Commissioner Simon. I don't see how 1/2 hour with can be at all productive.

Hi Cristine,

Would it be possible to reserve a larger conference room for this meeting? We expect anywhere from 10 -12 investors in addition to the 3 MS attendees. In arranging meetings with other Commissioners I've been told that room 5305 can accommodate a large group.

Subject: Meeting

Hi Bishu,

Thanks for the message. We will be at the CPUC today for meetings from 1:00 to 4:00 and expect to meet with you from 2:00 to 3:00. Below are a broad list of questions. We are happy to focus more or less on certain topics.

General
- Overall view on the four large electric/gas utilities in the state? Compare and contrast?
- Thoughts on what they can do better?
- Is Commission's largest concern safety, reliability, bills, or policy implementation?
- Any pressure from state level on budget side?

Cost of Capital
- Thoughts on timing around resolution
- Views on ROEs for gas versus electric and if they should differ
- Any read through for water cost of capital case settlement approval?
- Views on a likely adjustment in ROEs for water per the adjustment band
- Thoughts on different utilities having different capital structures
- Views on treasury bonds as a proxy given market dynamics
- Do you care to be close to the natural average in terms of ROEs?

Rate Cases
- What's been the hold up for the rate case of Sempra utilities and SCE?
- Timeline?
- How comfortable with the multi-year rate approval are you?
- How do you assess if company cost levels and capital spending is appropriate?
- Concerns over rate increase to customer given economy?

San Bruno Explosion
- View on general cause and response
- How are Sempra and PG&E doing with CPUC mandates for safety
- Where do we stand with the various OII and OIR?
- Timeline for resolution?
- Interest in a settled outcome?
- Where do funds from the company go? State coffers?
- Why the study for how much capital PCG can raise?
- Need for a headline figure?
- Is PSEP capex something that companies should earn a full return on?

SONGS
- Thoughts on situation there? Precedent?
- What happens if not brought on-line soon? Change in rates?
- Company may have to rebuild steam generators and receive limited recovery from NEIL or Mitsubishi. Full recovery of capex and replacement power costs?
- Timeline?

Various Items
- Status of AB32 and impact on rates come Jan?
- Aggressive renewable policy. Concerns about cost?
- Interest in renewables in and out of state to meet target?
- Status of once through cooling mandate and impact
- Status of capacity market interest especially with plants shutting down
- Does state need nuclear generation?

The key takeaway from our meeting with all Commissioner offices at the CPUC is that regulation will remain balanced. We expect ROEs to remain above-average with supportive rate case resolution this quarter. We are also upgrading EIX to OW, but maintaining ratings on SRE (OW) and PCG (EW).

ROE premium to continue, but not likely to be large. From our meetings in California, there was recognition that premium returns were needed to incentivize investment and accomplish energy goals. While the magnitude was not noted, we expect it to be modest. We now utilize a 10.5% return for all three CA utilities as we believe it supports CPUC efforts. We also believe a 52% equity ratio is likely for SRE and PCG.

Supportive rate case decisions coming soon. There was frustration at the CPUC over delays with pending rate cases at EIX and SRE. However, decisions appear likely in the coming months. There was general support for healthy utilities that would be able to carry out state policy in a reliable and safe manner. This would likely lead to utilities earning allowed ROEs going forward.

San Bruno resolution getting close, but San Onofre just starting. A settlement relating to the San Bruno explosion is progressing. An agreement may not include all parties, which the CPUC noted some comfort with. We believe our $500mn fine estimate remains appropriate. Conversely, a San Onofre nuclear plant investigation is likely, but the CPUC appears to be reserving judgment on the cause/recovery. As a result, we do not expect a near-term EPS hit to EIX/SRE.

Supportive CPUC benefits all CA utilities. However, we are upgrading EIX given attractive valuation and more confidence in management walking away from its merchant power business. For SRE, we believe it is in great position through year-end with CA regulatory items and for 2013 with LNG export approvals. For PCG we appreciate the upcoming San Bruno settlement, but believe rate case uncertainty and considerable equity needs (~$1bn per year) limit upside.

I'd welcome any information on the credit issues associated with PPAs. I have the original research piece from S&P on debt equivalence (and met with their utility analysts last November) but if you have anything further that you think might be useful, I'd appreciate it.

Subject: PG&E Corp(PCG.N): Harsh Treatment in Pipeline Safety Proposed Decision

Morgan Stanley

OCTOBER 15, 2012 GMT

PG&E Corp (PCG.N)

Harsh Treatment in Pipeline Safety Proposed Decision

Download the complete report (13 pgs)

Friday's Proposed Decision on pipeline safety cost recovery was harsher than expected. If approved, it may lead to weaker EPS and additional equity needs, potentially lowering the relative valuation discount. Accordingly, we remain comfortable with our EW-rating and prefer OW-rated EIX and SRE.

The Proposed Decision (PD) filed by the California Commission late Friday cut return levels on capital items by almost half and reduced expense recovery in all years for the pipeline safety plan PG&E filed following an explosion in the city of San Bruno. The PD reflected: 1) Reduced ROE levels on capital outlays associated with the plan to 6.05% for 5 years; 2) An authorized spending plan of ~$1bn through 2014 despite a request of ~$1.4bn that may still be needed; 3) Operating expense recovery on about a quarter of the original request (~$1.1bn) versus the 50% PCG offered. We broadly assumed a full return level on the filed amount and modestly higher expense recovery.

The potential impact to estimates and equity is meaningful. In aggregate, the Commission is providing the company 36% of its requested revenue requirement increase. In terms of the impact to EPS, we estimate that in each 2013 and 2014 the negative effect is ~$0.15 per share. In addition, net of tax benefits we estimate equity needs as a result of this decision to likely be higher by $200-300mn based on unrecovered costs.

Despite upside to our PT, we remain comfortable with our Equal-weight rating. Although San Bruno issues are close to being resolved, we believe the upcoming rate case uncertainty and considerable equity needs (~$1bn per year) may limit upside. In addition, we believe there is downside potential to consensus estimates, which are not fully factoring in equity needs, under-earning from the prior rate agreement, and the recent Proposed Decision. Our valuation is based on 2014 EPS but we now note that there may be downward pressure given these recent developments.

PG&E Corp (PCG.N)

Tough Headline Penalty, But Subject to Interpretation

Download the complete report (6 pgs)

Potentially more negative than positive versus expectations. Yesterday the consumer safety division at the California Commission, the party overseeing the three main investigations relating to the San Bruno pipeline explosion, recommended a headline penalty of $2.25bil. This amount will be invested in the pipeline system to offset rate-payer costs. While at a first look this figure is well-above the $500-600mil expectation, we believe the figures are not comparable as some costs to-date may be credited, although it remains unclear based on PG&E and Commission comments. Accordingly, we evaluate a best and worst case:

Best Case: Assuming all related costs to-date (~$1.4bil) plus future unrecorded pipeline safety related disallowances (~$100mil) can be used as an offset to the headline penalty, we estimate that the after-tax amount would be about $450mil, close to expectations.

Worst Case: Assuming disallowed and other costs incurred to-date are not included (but are deductible for taxes), we assume $1.35bil will be paid over several years as an offset to future safety related spending. Based on our conversation with the Commission, however, some costs to-date are likely to be credited, although the tax deductibility remains a question.

What's our view? We are concerned the figure could trend up and earnings power could be reduced. The former is due to the politically sensitive nature of the incident (and supported by precedent from the less severe Rancho Cordova case). And for the latter, while it is a positive that PG&E will not have to make a large cash payment (reducing equity needs), the earnings power will likely be lowered as the pipeline safety plan represents a ~$1bil rate base investment through 2014. Our forecast continues to reflect a $550mil after-tax figure and we remain Equal-weight given considerable uncertainty.

What's next? More clarity in 2H13. PG&E's and intervener replies are respectively due in late May and early June. A recommended/final decision is likely in 3Q.

All three California utilities have had notable developments recently, and despite each having large regulated assets in the same state, they offer very different investment propositions. In addition, they all appear to have upside based on our updated PTs, but we prefer SRE, EIX, then PCG.

EIX: Closer to a Bottom - Post underperformance recently, shares nearly reflect our bear case, which includes a punitive outcome relating to the San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station (SONGS), a discounted P/E, and below-consensus EPS. In our view, despite considerable uncertainty, upside exists in the medium- term as the likelihood of a nuclear retirement around year-end has increased. Our $52 PT (using a debt-like return on SONGS) implies a ~16% total return.

PCG: Almost Cleaned Up - Resolution surrounding San Bruno appears to be near following a balanced recommendation from the California Commission's Consumer Safety and Enforcement Division on a penalty. Remaining items to monitor include the pending California/FERC rate cases and any lingering San Bruno related items (criminal liabilities and third party claims). Our $47 PT (from $45.50) implies a ~9% total return.

SRE: A Good Infrastructure Growth Story - The company offers a play on US and LatAm energy infrastructure growth with an EPS CAGR of as high as 11% through decade-end. We see a continuation of positive developments on LNG export approval, MLP formation, and investment backlog growth. Our $87 PT (from $89) implies a ~10% total return

We have an order of preference, but all three have upside. Although they all appear to have upside based on our updated price targets, over the next 12 months our preference remains SRE (OW), followed by EIX (OW), and then PCG (EW). We also believe a strategy of owning all three may make sense given their idiosyncratic value drivers.

Subject: Utilities Conference Panel on California Regulation

Hi Carol,

Hope the holidays went well.

We are hosting our annual utilities conference here in New York on March 3 and wanted to get your thoughts on whether a Commissioner (Peevey or other recommendation) would have an interest in attending. It would be for a panel on California regulation along side the CFO of Edison International. And meetings with investors would be optional. Please let us know.

Best,

Rajeev Lalwani, Vice President
