FOIA Request No.: 2015-08-097

On August 21, 2015, the Office of the Chief Counsel-FOIA and Transparency Services of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing (BEP) received your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request under 5 U.S.C. §552 to obtain:

- 1) a list of approvals and copies granted by the Chief, Office of Compliance for use of shredded U.S. currency from 2010 to present;
- 2) a copy of the log of requests and approvals for use of shredded U.S. currency; and
- 3) a copy of each request and/or request letter seeking approval for use of shredded U.S. currency since 2010.

On September 17, 2015 the BEP requested an extension of 10 business days to complete processing your FOIA request. 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(6)(B).

After a search of our records, we found documents that respond to your request. Enclosed are the records that are responsive to your request. Pursuant to the exemption found at 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6) of the FOIA, we are withholding the names, addresses, e-mail addresses, signatures, and telephone numbers of the individuals requesting authorization from the Chief, Office of Compliance for use of shredded U.S. currency. In addition, we are withholding the signatures of the employees of the BEP. The release of this information would clearly constitute an unwarranted invasion of their personal privacy.

The charges to respond to your FOIA request are listed below:

Search	GS12 x (7.5 hours) @ $36.23 p/h	274.50
	GS13 x (2 hours – 2 hours free)	000.00
Duplication	79 pages (100 pages free) = 00 x $0.20 per page	0.00
Total		$ 274.50

Please send your payment of $274.50 in the form of a check or money order payable to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to the undersigned Disclosure Officer at Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Office of the Chief Counsel-FOIA and Transparency, Room 419-A, 14th C Streets, SW, Washington, D.C. 20228. Please include your assigned FOIA number on your check or money order.

If you consider this response to be a denial of your request, you can file an appeal within thirty-five (35) days of the date of this letter to the Director, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, 14th & C Streets, SW, Washington, D.C. 20228. If you decide to file an appeal, please include the assigned FOIA number, a copy of your request, the BEP response letter, and any other correspondence associated with your request. Both the letter and the envelope should be clearly marked "Freedom of Information Act Appeal."

For further assistance concerning preparing a FOIA appeal, please go to our website at moneyfactory.gov, and click on "FOIA" at the bottom of the page.

Sincerely,

Re: Shredded Currency Request.

Dear Sir/Madam.

My daughter (13 years old), husband and I are planning to visit Washington DC for the first time in upcoming September 24th or 25th, 2014.

We are very excited and looking forward to visit BEP where our currency is made.

We will agree to the conditions which is on your website and we will only use the shredded currency as our keepsake at home.

Please consider us and approve our request.
Thank you very much for your time.

Chief, Office of Compliance:

I would like to request 120 shredded money packets for my four personal finance classes. I am the personal finance teacher at (b) (6). I already use a lot of the Federal Reserve Education supplies and would like to add the money packets to the list. I have done this in the past, and my students really enjoy receiving the shredded currency as it allows for more "teachable moments." I have read the Currency Residue Requirements and agree to follow them.

If there is any other paperwork or procedure I need to complete or follow, please let me know.

Respectfully,

To Whom it May Concern:

The (b) (6) in conjunction with (b) (6) is delighted to announce our preparations for the upcoming exhibition, Day After Debt, which will be on view at the museum November 23 – January 18, 2015. This collaborative project initiated by artist (b) (6) will include commissions by renowned international artists (b) (6). (b) (6)

In order to realize this exhibition, we are requesting on behalf of the artist (b) (6) 30 shredded money bricks as part of a small sculptural piece. This artwork would comply with all listed questions on the website: <http://www.moneyfactory.gov/shreddedcurrency.html>. Please see the final page for responses to these specifications listed.

We agree to follow the Environmental Protection Agency and other local or state requirements for recycling shredded currency. The shredded currency will not be recycled into paper of printable quality. The residue will not be used as confetti, or in loose form such as used in packing materials. Being in an art institution, the sculpture will be securely protected and not be allowed to be in contact with visitors. The shredded currency will not be used to create products designed to hold food or drink for human consumption. The shredded currency will not be resold for its material value, but will be defined as a conceptual work of which the value will later be determined. No replica of U.S. currency will be placed in the container of the shredded currency, and we will not dispose of or resell the currency with the Treasury's approval.

We would be very pleased if the Bureau of Engraving and Printing would help allowing the artist; (b) (6) to fulfill (b) (6) vision for this exhibition at the (b) (6). (b) (6) I am grateful for your consideration of this request, and both the artist and myself are happy to discuss this project with you in further detail. I can be reached through our Exhibition Manager (b) (6). (b) (6)

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Kindest Regards,

1. The recipient must follow Environmental Protection Agency and other local or state requirements for recycling shredded currency. Agreed
2. The shredded currency must not be recycled into paper of printable quality. Agreed
3. The residue must not be used as confetti, or in loose form such as used in packing materials. Agreed
4. Firmly seal any container in which the residue is placed so that it must be broken in order to remove the residue. The container must be at least 4 mils thick. Being in an art institution, the sculpture will be securely protected and not be allowed to be in contact with visitors by our security team.
5. Due to the presence of various chemicals in ink, the recipient must not use shredded currency for the creation of products designed to hold food or drink for human consumption. Agreed
6. If the recipient is intending to make a product with shredded currency, a sample of the product and/or packaging and marketing materials may be required. Agreed
7. The recipient must not claim the value of the shredded currency enclosed in a product as having a monetary value greater than the weight of the shredded currency per ounce, or fraction thereof, multiplied by $165 per ounce. The shredded currency will not be resold for its material value, but will be defined as a conceptual work of which the value will later be determined.
8. The recipient must not ship the shredded currency overseas. As a conceptual art piece the aim of the work is to reach a wide audience and help assist in this national issue. We would be happy to discuss this point further.

To Whom It May Concern:

Hi, how are you doing? I am requesting permission again to obtain shredded U.S. currency in bulk. I was granted permission back in 2010 as seen with this attached letter, and have recently been told by a representative at the Boston FDR to update my approval.

I am requesting the shredded currency for the same product I wanted to make back in (b) (6) (b) (6). It is a (b) (6) that has shredded currency inside of it that is visible to any onlooker and completely sealed off from ever being touched by the end-user. The purpose of this product is to be a gag gift and would be categorized as a novelty item. I have read the rules/guidelines several times and plan to follow them accordingly with my product.

I hope I can receive permission again to obtain shredded currency for my product and I look forward to sending the Bureau of Engraving and Printing some finished (b) (6) in the future. Thank you and I hope you had a great holiday!

Best Regards

Dear (b) (6)

This is in response to your August 21, 2010 letter requesting permission to obtain shredded currency residue, for use in a (b) (6) filled with shredded U.S. currency, met Treasury's requirements.

Approval is hereby granted for you to obtain shredded currency residue for the above purpose. Please note that any purpose other than the above, including any imprinted logo or inscription, is strictly prohibited without Treasury's prior approval.

Currency Residue Requirements can be found at www.moneyfactory.gov, click on the FAQ Library tab on left, then scroll down to the question 'Does the BEP make shredded currency available to the public?' These guidelines should provide you with answers to any questions you may have regarding the use and purchase of the residue.

Shredded currency residue can be obtained from certain Federal Reserve Banks. Occasionally, they make the residue available on a contractual basis and may charge processing fees to individuals under certain conditions and limitations. For address and contact information, see www.federalreserve.gov/otherfrb.htm.

Please present a copy of this letter to a Federal Reserve Bank that is willing to provide you with the residue. If we can be of further assistance, please contact Carmen Farnham at (202) 435-8084 or by email, carmen.farnham@bep.gov.

Sincerely,

Dear Sir / Ma'am,

I am requesting packages of both circulated and uncirculated currency residue to be sent to my agency (separated).

The currency residue will be used to proof the narcotics canines in our agency by using both untainted and tainted residue during training which shows that they do not alert on money. In addition to proofing the canines, by using these two items during money scans it proves that if the canine alerts to money, that currency must be tainted with the odor of narcotics.

I appreciate any and all assistance with this.

Respectfully, (b) (6)

Chief, Office of Compliance:

(b) (6) has been in the development stages of a project for the last 2 years that provides a chemical treatment to cellulosic-based waste products in order that they can be incorporated as filler materials in plastic resin molded parts. One of these cellulosic-based materials is shredded U.S. Currency (USC), which was previously obtained through your office by a consultant on our behalf.

We have finished with most of the development work on this project and are now ready to make our treated material (USC) commercially available for use as a replacement filler for a portion of plastic resin in injection molded plastic parts. Overall, the use of our treated material reduces the carbon footprint of a plastic part by up to 40% by weight with recycled USC. Because of our treatment process, the treated USC automatically becomes unavailable for use in food contact situations. In its final form, the USC is completely encapsulated within the plastic resin comprising the molded part.

Our development efforts for the USC have focused on office products such as a pencil cup, a pencil case, and a standard ruler. As we draw nearer to commercialization of this process, we find ourselves with only a small quantity of USC on hand for treatment. We will only be selling the USC in its treated form, and for a price that reflects the cost of the treatment chemicals and the labor required for processing.

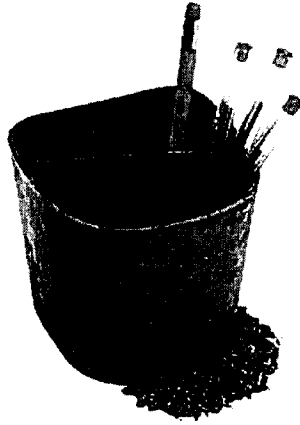

We would like to obtain permission to obtain more of the USC in bulk shipment so that we can continue our recycled bio-fillers program without interruption. For your information, a photograph of one of our molded polypropylene pencil cups containing 30% USC is attached. If you are interested we can provide a few of the actual pencil cups for you to use at your desk.

Dear Sir,

I am writing to request a significant amount of shredded currency to be used in an art exhibition in Kansas City, Mo. The amount that I am hoping to procure is approximately 150 cubic feet. I anticipate that to be the amount that will allow me to create a mound of shredded currency approximately 7' high x 5' wide x 4' deep.

(b) (6)

I plan to re-create a variation of this (b) (6) and I would like to place a large mound of shredded currency in front of it, partially concealing the flag.

I understand that if this request is approved by the Department of the Treasury, I will then approach the Federal Reserve Bank in Kansas City with this request and hope to procure the material from them. I plan to make them aware of my request during the time that I am waiting to hear from the Department of the Treasury.

I agree to the 10 conditions listed below cited on the website for the US Bureau of Engraving and Printing :

1. The recipient must follow Environmental Protection Agency and other local or state requirements for recycling shredded currency.
2. The shredded currency must not be recycled into paper of printable quality.
3. The residue must not be used as confetti, or in loose form such as used in packing materials.
4. Firmly seal any container in which the residue is placed so that it must be broken in order to remove the residue. The container must be at least 4 mils thick.
5. Due to the presence of various chemicals in ink, the recipient must not use shredded currency for the creation of products designed to hold food or drink for human consumption.
6. If the recipient is intending to make a product with shredded currency, a sample of the product and/or packaging and marketing materials may be required.
7. The recipient must not claim the value of the shredded currency enclosed in a product as having a monetary value greater than the weight of the shredded currency per ounce, or fraction thereof, multiplied by $165 per ounce.
8. The recipient must not ship the shredded currency overseas.

9. The recipient must not place any replica of U.S. currency on any product or container into which shredded currency is placed, or on any related advertising or other written material.
10. The recipient must agree not to resell or otherwise dispose of the residue without Treasury approval.

Thank you very much for your consideration of my request.
I look forward to hearing from you within the 21 day period.

Best regards,

Dear Sir or Madam:

We are requesting shredded currency from the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank for December 27, 2014. The shredded currency will be used to lightly stuff gift bags that will be given to cadets/midshipmen and their dates at a military ball. The (b) (6) is hosting an All Service Academy Ball for our local cadets/midshipmen on December 27, 2014 while they are at home on winter leave. Our association will hand out between 75-100 gift bags and would like to use shredded currency to help fill the bags.

We agree to follow the ten conditions mentioned on your website www.moneyfactory.gov/shreddedcurrency. Please write or call at the address or phone number below if you have any questions. Thank you for a quick reply and for your help.

The venue will be a smaller meeting room with typically fewer than 100 attendees. This is not an auditorium presentation. The currency would be collected (swept up) and I agree to comply with all safe handling and disposal requirements, if allowed.

I will look forward to your response.

Hello, my name is (b) (6). I am a 49 years old (b) (6) from the Netherlands.

A year ago I acquired a shoebox of shredded U.S currency through ebay and had it pressed into clear resin to make (b) (6) scales from it.

I believe I am one or even the first (b) (6) who ever did so.

I did some research today, and came by the site of the bureau of engraving and printing, and I read about the written approval for which I kindly would ask you for.

As this seems the right thing to do.

I have no commercial goals for the unique handle material I made from the shredded currency and I do not have a shop or website from where it can be obtained but only hand make a couple of (b) (6) a year which I sell to the small (b) (6) collectors community .

So I hope I can get a written approval for the described above.

And it certainly would make me proud if you could confirm me as being the first artist which you heard of to have this specific use for the shredded currency.

I do apologise for my badly written English, I did the best I could remember from my school days.

p.s I include a printed picture of the (b) (6) with the shredded currency (b) (6) in the making.

This letter is a request to obtain a large amount of shredded US currency. I intend to use the currency for a series of life size paper machete art sculptures. To this extend, my request is for whatever amount the treasury will afford as my intent to make these sculptures the size of a human and a small motor vehicle.

My request meets all of the treasury requirements:

1. The recipient must follow Environmental Protection Agency and other local or state requirements for recycling shredded currency.

Answer: YES, all EPA and California state laws and regulations will be followed.

2. The shredded currency must not be recycled into paper of printable quality.

Answer: No it will not. The currency will be mixed with glue and applied to cardboard sculptures.

3. The residue must not be used as confetti, or in loose form such as used in packing materials

Answer: No it will not. The currency will be mixed with glue and applied to cardboard sculptures.

4. Firmly seal any container in which the residue is placed so that it must be broken in order to remove the residue. The container must be at least 4 mils thick.

Answer: Sculptures will be enclosed in Plexi-glass protected displays.

5. Due to the presence of various chemicals in ink, the recipient must not use shredded currency for the creation of products designed to hold food or drink for human consumption.

Answer: No, I will not be using the currency in this manner.

6. If the recipient is intending to make a product with shredded currency, a sample of the product and/or packaging and marketing materials may be required.

Answer: Art work would be one of a kind, but will comply with any requirements.

7. The recipient must not claim the value of the shredded currency enclosed in a product as having a monetary value greater than the weight of the shredded currency per ounce, or fraction thereof multiplied by $165 per ounce.

Answer: One of a kind art sculptures with no monetary value.

8. The recipient must not ship the shredded currency overseas.

Answer: Art work will not be shipped overseas.

9. The recipient must not place any replica of U.S. currency on any product or container into which shredded currency is placed, or on any related advertising or other written material.

Answer: No replica will be used in any way.

10. The recipient must agree not to resell or otherwise dispose of the residue without Treasury approval.

Answer: Art work is intended for personal use.

All of the above conditions are agreed upon. I am willing to work with whatever amount of currency the treasury will afford, and would be willing to accept any amount however large as this project will expand to make use of whatever amount I receive. I am located just north of San Francisco, and if possible would request said location to obtain currency.

Thanks you for your consideration.

Dear office of Compliance,

(b) (6) is a transporter of currency in this region. We have moved currency from BEP, in Washington, D.C. to East Rutherford Operations center and transport currency daily for overseas users of US banknotes.

Many visitors to us ask if we see the shredded currency bricks and we would love to have some on hand as gifts for them. We would comply with all of the below:

- The recipient must follow Environmental Protection Agency and other local or state requirements for recycling shredded currency.
- The shredded currency must not be recycled into paper of printable quality.
- The residue must not be used as confetti, or in loose form such as used in packing materials.
- Firmly seal any container in which the residue is placed so that it must be broken in order to remove the residue. The container must be at least 4 mils thick.
- Due to the presence of various chemicals in ink, the recipient must not use shredded currency for the creation of products designed to hold food or drink for human consumption.
- If the recipient is intending to make a product with shredded currency, a sample of the product and/or packaging and marketing materials may be required.
- The recipient must not claim the value of the shredded currency enclosed in a product as having a monetary value greater than the weight of the shredded currency per ounce, or fraction thereof, multiplied by $165 per ounce.
- The recipient must not ship the shredded currency overseas.
- The recipient must not place any replica of U.S. currency on any product or container into which shredded currency is placed, or on any related advertising or other written material.
- The recipient must agree not to resell or otherwise dispose of the residue without Treasury approval.

This is my Contact Information:

Dear Sir/Madam:

My name is

(b) (6)

(b) (6)

I have about three months left and would like to have the opportunity to experiment with different DNA extraction methods on currency paper but after speaking with someone at BEP I was informed that all currency is "touched" during the printing process. Is that is true?

(b) (6)

I realize that there is discarded shredded paper currency removed from circulation available but I believe this will complicate my experiments since this currency had been in the general circulation and handled and as such will have certain levels of DNA. So, I was really wondering if I can get some untouched currency paper. Maybe there are trimmed pieces remaining from the process of printing and trimming that have not been handled. Perhaps, you have a suggestion to my dilemma. If I could obtain some paper or currency for the project I believe that it would lend to a more successful methodology to a DNA extraction method for both ninhydrin or DFO treated evidence samples. This could be distributed to the forensic community for use.

In any case, I would like to explore these investigations with pristine currency paper. I would need 100 pieces of paper approximately 2.5 x 2.5 cm each. Individual pieces of paper could each receive a single latent print deposition. Is this possible to get currency or paper unhandled? So, I was wondering how I might obtain some of the currency or currency paper that has not been touched or handled. If this request does not fall within your realm of responsibility or you do not have information concerning this extraordinary request tell me whom I would contact? If you have any information concerning my ideas for this project please, let me know. And finally, with whom would I communicate with to get this project approved if it is not through your office?

Thank you, in advance, for your cooperation in this project

Dear Sir/Madam;

I am writing to request permission as well as information. I am an art quilter and fiber artist and would like to use shredded currency as well as enlarged and cropped images of the presidential portraits on American currency and coins to make a quilt. This quilt will be created for a special anniversary exhibit/challenge for the (b) (6)

(b) (6) It could also be exhibited at other venues (ie. quilt shows, art galleries, craft exhibits, teaching and guild events). I need written permission to display my quilt using shredded currency and altered currency and coin images.

I have researched the Bureau's website and various links to learn what is legal and acceptable. I would like to use red, blue, black, grey, orange, and/or yellow prints on fabric to be sewn into the quilt top. As stated above, they would be cropped and enlarged. If, during final design and construction, I decide to include images of the full bill they will also be enlarged. This is my understanding of what I have read and am asking for clarification if I am incorrect.

Also, can you tell me what the cubic volume of the five pound bag of shredded currency is?

Thank you very much and, if you are interested, I would be glad to send a photo of the quilt when completed.

Sincerely,

(b) (6)

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to request shredded US currency for use by our law enforcement department. The intended use of the currency is to have "clean" money for our canine training program. The currency will be used as a control to ensure our canine will not alert on "clean" money. We agree to abide by all of the following requirements:

1. The recipient must follow Environmental Protection Agency and other local or state requirements for recycling shredded currency.
2. The shredded currency must not be recycled into paper of printable quality.
3. The residue must not be used as confetti, or in loose form such as used in packing materials.

Dear Daniel,

I hope this email finds you well. I'm writing you as I did during the last year regarding an extension of the permission to obtain shredded currency for art purposes and for our (b) (6) (b) (6) supporting The (b) (6) (A Foundation that supports education for unprivileged kids) . PLease find attached the letter below with the previous authorization in 2012,

Every year I travel during November and also January to Washington DC.

I will much appreciate if I can get an extension on the date for the authorisation.

I look forward to your email and I thank you in advance for all your invaluable support.

Warm regards,

Dear Daniel,

Thank you for your email. We contacted Baltimore Federal Reserve Bank last year. They have been very kind and very helpful. We got a permission to obtain shredded currency on 2012, please find below the attached letter.

Since I'm travelling to Washington DC on November, and the permission letter has an expiration on September 30th, 2013, I will much appreciate if there is a possibility that I can get an extension on the date for the authorisation. I hope this will be possible.

I look forward to your response, and thanks again for all your support.

Kind regards,

Hi Billy,

I hope all is going well and I wanted to reach out and wish you a Happy New Year!

I also was also hoping to obtain the letter of approval for another novelty product that I want to create. I would like to use the shredded currency and place it in hats so that it is visible but also sealed in plastic. It would be very similar to the approval that I currently have for the sleeping masks.

Thank you and I look forward to hearing from you soon!

Best,

Dear (b) (6)

This is in response to your letter requesting permission to obtain shredded currency residue to use as an educational tool in your four personal finance classes.

While we have supplied shred residue packets to (b) (6) free of charge in the past, we are no longer able to do so because of our own financial constraints. You may, however, purchase shreds directly from our website at www.moneyfactorystore.gov with no prior approval. Click search on top right of page and type "shred" for current availability.

Alternatively, shredded currency residue can be obtained from certain Federal Reserve Banks. Occasionally, certain Federal Reserve Banks make the residue available and may charge processing fees to individuals under certain conditions and limitations. For address and contact information, see www.federalreserve.gov/otherfrb.htm.

Approval is hereby granted for you to contact a Federal Reserve Bank to obtain shredded currency residue for your personal use as noted above. Please note that any purpose other than the above, including any imprinted logo or inscription, is strictly prohibited without Treasury's prior approval. This approval will expire one year from date of issuance. If currency residue is still desired after expiration, please resubmit your request for approval.

Please present a copy of this letter to a Federal Reserve Bank that is willing to provide you with the residue. If we can be of further assistance, please contact Billy Stanton at (202) 435-8131 or by email at william.stanton@bep.gov.

Dear (b) (6)

This is in response to your email on January 5, 2015 requesting permission to obtain shredded currency residue for a novelty hat containing shredded currency sealed in plastic.

You may purchase shreds directly from our website at www.moneyfactorystore.gov with no prior approval. Click search on top right of page and type "shred" for current availability.

Alternatively, shredded currency residue can be obtained from certain Federal Reserve Banks. Occasionally, certain Federal Reserve Banks make the residue available and may charge processing fees to individuals under certain conditions and limitations. For address and contact information, see www.federalreserve.gov/otherfrb.htm.

Approval is hereby granted for you to contact a Federal Reserve Bank to obtain shredded currency residue for use in novelty hats as noted above. Please note that any purpose other than the above, including any imprinted logo or inscription, is strictly prohibited without Treasury's prior approval. This approval will expire one year from date of issuance. If currency residue is still desired after expiration, please resubmit your request for approval.

Please present a copy of this letter to a Federal Reserve Bank that is willing to provide you with the residue. If we can be of further assistance, please contact Carmen Farnham at (202) 435-8084 or by email, carmen.farnham@bep.gov.

Sincerely,

You may purchase shreds directly from our website at www.moneyfactorystore.gov with no prior approval. Click search on top right of page and type "shred" for current availability.

Alternatively, shredded currency residue can be obtained from certain Federal Reserve Banks. Occasionally, certain Federal Reserve Banks make the residue available and may charge processing fees to individuals under certain conditions and limitations. For address and contact information, see www.federalreserve.gov/otherfrb.htm.

Approval is hereby granted for you to contact a Federal Reserve Bank to obtain shredded currency residue for use to create a quilt as noted above. Please note that any purpose other than the above, including any imprinted logo or inscription, is strictly prohibited without Treasury's prior approval. This approval will expire one year from date of issuance. If currency residue is still desired after expiration, please resubmit your request for approval.

Please present a copy of this letter to a Federal Reserve Bank that is willing to provide you with the residue.

Although the Bureau of Engraving and Printing may grant you permission to use shredded U.S. currency to make your quilt, we have no legal authority to approve or disapprove your request to use cropped images from U.S. paper currency and coins for this purpose.

The production and use of images in the likeness of currency is restricted by certain criminal laws of the United States. In particular, sections 474 and 504 of Title 18 of the United States Code (U.S.C.) and regulations published by the United States Secret Service in section 411.1 of Title 31 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) are provisions that relate to this type of matter.

18 U.S.C. § 474 provides for criminal penalties against anyone who "prints, photographs, or in any other manner makes or executes any engraving, photograph, print, or impression in the likeness of any such obligation or other security, or any part thereof, or sells any such engraving, photograph, print, or impression." The term "obligation or other security of the United States" as used in this criminal prohibition includes Federal Reserve notes and other paper currency of the United States. See 18 U.S.C. § 8.

18 U.S.C. § 504 establishes an exception to this criminal prohibition that permits the printing or publishing of illustrations of obligations or securities of the United States provided that: (1) the illustrations are in black and white; (2) the illustrations are of a size less than three-fourths or more than one and one-half, in linear dimension, of each part of any matter illustrated; and (3) the negatives and plates used in making the illustrations are destroyed after their final use.

In addition, 31 C.F.R. § 411.1 permits the printing of color illustrations of U.S. currency provided that: (1) the illustration are of a size less than three-fourths or more than one and one-half, in linear dimension, of each part of any matter so illustrated; (2) the illustrations are one-sided; and (3) all negatives, plates, or any other thing used in the making of the illustration are destroyed after their final use.

For further information on how these provisions and other laws and regulations pertaining to counterfeiting and the duplication of U.S. currency may apply to a particular situation, we recommend that you contact the United States Secret Service, U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

In addition, although the restrictions described above do not apply to coins, many of the images that are used on coins are protected by copyright laws. For further information on how such copyright laws may apply to the use of particular images from U.S. coins, we recommend that you contact the United States Mint, U.S. Department of the Treasury.

If we can be of further assistance, please contact Carmen Farnham at (202) 435-8084 or by email, carmen.farnham@bep.gov.
