Committee on Oversight and Government Reform
House of Representatives
2157 Rayburn House Office Building
Washington, DC 20515-6143

RE: Second Production, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
Request of May 9, 2012

Dear Chairman Issa:

Attached herewith in electronic form on CD is a second production of material responsive to the Committee's request dated May 9, 2012. As discussed with Committee staff and in our letter transmitting the initial production to the Committee on May 22, 2012, the Federal Maritime Commission ("Commission" or "FMC") lacks the technology to produce the material in TIFF format without incurring significant additional expense. We have made every effort to produce it in a consistent manner in PDF.

As further discussed with Committee staff, we have attempted to produce the material requested by the Committee within the deadline set by your May 9, 2012 request. We have not been able to collect and organize all such material, however, and therefore will be producing this information on a "rolling" basis, an approach that was approved in our May 14, 2012 conversation with Committee staff. As discussed and agreed with Committee staff, we intend to produce documents on a regular, bi-weekly basis going forward until the production is complete.

As discussed with Committee staff, we have narrowed the scope of communications and documents deemed responsive to Committee Request 2, in order to remove material unrelated to the Committee's interest. This would include, for example, email communications in which the named individuals [FOIA exemption 6, 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6)] are copied (and therefore could be read broadly as “relating to”) but that do not relate to the substantive matters outlined in the Committee’s request. This has reduced the size of the current production from approximately 2,800 pages of documents to approximately 1,266.

As further discussed with Committee staff, the FMC’s Inspector General, Mr. Adam Trzeciak, will provide directly to the Committee an audit and accounting he is conducting with regard to the Committee’s Requests numbered 3 and 4 relating, respectively, to agency vehicles and Spector 360 software. Because Mr. Trzeciak will produce reports, we understand that Committee staff does not expect the Commission to duplicate this effort with respect to the Committee’s Requests numbered 3 and 4.

The Commission is additionally segregating material with potential White House equities for review by White House counsel. As such, no documents relating to the Committee’s Request 1(j) (communications with the Executive Office of the President) are included in this production.

We have not withheld any material from production to the Committee or its staff based on any privilege or statutory mandate that the Commission ensure confidentiality. We have redacted, at the request of Senate staff, email correspondence from Senate staff to Commission employees, that was included in a later, unrelated, off-topic string of email correspondence. These redactions are found at FMC 004614-4632. If, however, much of the information we are producing were requested in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert privilege and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those privileges or objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. For example, some of the information we have provided cannot be released by the Commission to the public by mandate of the Shipping Act of 1984, 46 U.S.C. 40306. Some of the information may relate to the ocean carriers of foreign countries subject to the controlled carrier provisions of the Shipping Act of 1984, and public release of this information could negatively impact the foreign relations of the United States. Similarly, public release of other information may substantially harm the position of the United States in existing or future litigation. Additionally, the documents provided to the Committee may contain the names or other identifying information of individuals who provided information to the FMC pursuant to an administrative investigation or Fact Finding proceeding, for which the individual sought anonymity. Revealing this information to the public could seriously impair the FMC’s ability to conduct such investigations in the future. For the Committee’s reference, we have marked documents that raise such concerns provided in this production with the generic designation “confidential” in the header and footer. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission’s Office of the General Counsel prior to any release regardless of designation to ensure the United States is not prejudiced.

Here follow summaries of the responses provided with respect to the Committee’s numbered requests appearing at page 4 of the May 9, 2012 Committee Request.

RE: Third Production, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
Request of May 9, 2012

Dear Chairman Issa:

Attached herewith in electronic form on CD is a third production of material responsive to the Committee's request dated May 9, 2012. As discussed with Committee staff and in our letter transmitting the initial production to the Committee on May 22, 2012, the Federal Maritime Commission ("Commission" or "FMC") lacks the technology to produce the material in TIFF format without incurring significant additional expense. The Commission is additionally segregating material with potential White House equities for review by White House counsel. As such, no documents relating to the Committee’s Request 1(j) (communications with the Executive Office of the President) are included in this production.

Committee staff had requested an indication of the number of the documents we have reviewed for responsiveness. In our efforts to comply with the Committee’s request, to date this Office has manually reviewed approximately 30,000 pages of documents.

We have not withheld any material from production to the Committee or its staff based on any privilege or statutory mandate that the Commission ensure confidentiality.

We reiterate that if this request were made in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert privilege and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those privileges or objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. For example, some of the information we have provided cannot be released by the Commission to the public by mandate of the Shipping Act of 1984, 46 U.S.C. 40306. Additionally, the documents provided to the Committee may contain the names or other identifying information of individuals who provided information to the FMC pursuant to an administrative investigation or Fact Finding proceeding, for which the individual sought anonymity. Revealing this information to the public could seriously impair the FMC’s ability to conduct such investigations in the future. For the Committee’s reference, we have marked documents that raise such concerns provided in this production with the generic designation “confidential” in the header and footer. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission’s Office of the General Counsel prior to any release regardless of designation to ensure the United States is not prejudiced.

In the attached production, pages FMC 004905 – FMC 004910 and FMC 004916 - FMC 004918 are marked confidential. Additionally, we mistakenly failed to mark some of the information contained in our June 7, 2012 production to the Committee; specifically, we consider pages numbered FMC 003644 - FMC 003646 privileged. These documents should have been marked confidential, as they relate to the Commission’s internal deliberative process.

Here follow summaries of the responses provided with respect to the Committee’s numbered requests appearing at page 4 of the May 9, 2012 Committee Request.

RE: Supplemental Committee request dated August 1, 2012, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform

Dear Chairman Issa:

In response to the Committee's Supplemental Request of August 1, 2012 ("Supplemental Request"), transmitted to this Office via e-mail, attached please find in electronic form on CD, copies of "hand-written notes of Commissioner Michael Khouri memorializing a conversation with Chairman Richard Lidinsky in which they discussed issues related to the reorganization of the FMC staff." A copy of the e-mail requesting this material is also included for reference.

As specifically requested, documents responsive to the Supplemental Request have been added as a separate PDF file folder on the CD we deliver to you today in response to the Committee's May 9, 2012 request.

The documents responsive to your request of August 1, 2012 are marked as FMC-MAK-000001-000010.

These documents contain information that is deliberative and pre-decisional. If this request had been made by a private party in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert applicable privileges and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those privileges or objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission's Office of the General Counsel prior to any release regardless of designation to ensure that the interests of the United States and the FMC are not prejudiced.

Sincerely,

RE: Sixth Production, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
Request of May 9, 2012

Dear Chairman Issa:

Attached herewith in electronic form on CD is a sixth production of material responsive to the Committee's request dated May 9, 2012. As discussed with Committee staff and in our letter transmitting the initial production to the Committee on May 22, 2012, the Federal Maritime Commission ("Commission" or "FMC") lacks the technology to produce the material in TIFF format without incurring significant additional expense. We have made every effort to produce it in a consistent manner in PDF.

As further discussed with Committee staff, we have attempted to produce the material requested by the Committee within the deadline set by your May 9, 2012 request. We have not been able to collect and organize all such material, however, and therefore are producing this information on a "rolling" basis, an approach that was approved in our May 14, 2012 conversation with Committee staff. As discussed and agreed with Committee staff, we intend to produce documents on a regular basis every four weeks going forward until the production is complete.

Committee staff had requested an indication of the number of the documents we have reviewed for responsiveness. In our efforts to comply with the Committee's request, since the date of our last production to you on August 2, 2012 this Office has manually reviewed approximately 16,500 additional pages of documents. This production includes 854 pages; we have now delivered to you a cumulative total of approximately 7,300 pages.

As discussed with Committee staff, we have narrowed the scope of communications and documents deemed responsive to Committee Request 2, in order to remove material unrelated to the Committee's interest. This would include, for example, email communications in which the named individuals FOIA exemption 6, 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6) are copied (and therefore could be read broadly as "relating to") but that do not relate to the substantive matters outlined in the Committee's request. The Commission is additionally segregating material with potential White House equities for review by White House counsel. As such, no documents relating to the Committee's Request 1(j) (communications with the Executive Office of the President) are included in this production.

We have not withheld any material from production to the Committee or its staff based on any privilege or statutory mandate that the Commission ensure confidentiality.

We reiterate that if this request were made in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert privilege and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those privileges or objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. For example, some of the information we have provided cannot be released by the Commission to the public by mandate of the Shipping Act of 1984, 46 U.S.C. 40306. Some of the information may relate to the ocean carriers of foreign countries subject to the controlled carrier provisions of the Shipping Act of 1984, and public release of this information could negatively impact the foreign relations of the United States. Similarly, public release of other information may substantially harm the position of the United States in existing or future litigation. Additionally, the documents provided to the Committee may contain the names or other identifying information of individuals who provided information to the FMC pursuant to an administrative investigation or Fact Finding proceeding, for which the individual sought anonymity. Revealing this information to the public could seriously impair the FMC's ability to conduct such investigations in the future. There is also personally identifiable information that generally would be protected from public release by the Privacy Act were it requested by a private party. For the Committee's reference, we have marked documents that raise such concerns provided in this production with the generic designation "confidential" in the header and footer. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission's Office of the General Counsel prior to any release regardless of designation to ensure that the interests of the United States and the FMC are not prejudiced.

In response to the Committee's numbered requests 1, 2 and 4, attached are FMC-006498 – FMC-007351. Additional documents responsive to the Committee's requests numbered 3, 5 and 6 will be forwarded as soon as possible.

We will continue to work diligently to respond to the Committee's request.

Sincerely,

RE: Seventh Production, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
Request of May 9, 2012

Dear Chairman Issa:

Attached herewith in electronic form on portable flash drive is a seventh production of material responsive to the Committee's request dated May 9, 2012. This production should appear in TIFF format. If you have any difficulty accessing these materials, please notify me immediately.

As further discussed with Committee staff, we have attempted to produce the material requested by the Committee within the deadline set by your May 9, 2012 request. We have not been able to collect and organize all such material, however, and therefore are producing this information on a "rolling" basis, an approach that was approved in our May 14, 2012 conversation with Committee staff. As discussed and agreed with Committee staff, we intend to produce documents on a regular basis every four weeks going forward until the production is complete.

Committee staff had requested an indication of the number of the documents we have reviewed for responsiveness. In our efforts to comply with the Committee's request, since the date of our last production to you on August 30, 2012 this Office has reviewed approximately 50,000 additional pages of documents. This production includes 566 pages; we have now delivered to you a cumulative total of almost 8000 pages.

As discussed with Committee staff, we have narrowed the scope of communications and documents deemed responsive to Committee Request 2, in order to remove material unrelated to the Committee's interest. This would include, for example, email communications in which the named individuals FOIA exemption 6, 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6) are copied (and therefore could be read broadly as "relating to") but that do not relate to the substantive matters outlined in the Committee's request. The Commission is additionally segregating material with potential White House equities for review by White House counsel. As such, no documents relating to the Committee's Request 1(j) (communications with the Executive Office of the President) are included in this production.

We have not withheld any material from production to the Committee or its staff based on any privilege or statutory mandate that the Commission ensure confidentiality. We have, however, redacted a very small amount of personally-identifiable information in this production.

We reiterate that if this request were made in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert privilege and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those privileges or objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. For example, some of the information we have provided cannot be released by the Commission to the public by mandate of the Shipping Act of 1984, 46 U.S.C. 40306 or 40502(b)(1). Some of the information may relate to the ocean carriers of foreign countries subject to the controlled carrier provisions of the Shipping Act of 1984, and public release of this information could negatively impact the foreign relations of the United States. Similarly, public release of other information may substantially harm the position of the United States in existing or future litigation. Additionally, the documents provided to the Committee may contain the names or other identifying information of individuals who provided information to the FMC pursuant to an administrative investigation or Fact Finding proceeding, for which the individual sought anonymity. Revealing this information to the public could seriously impair the FMC's ability to conduct such investigations in the future. There is also personally identifiable information that generally would be protected from public release by the Privacy Act were it requested by a private party. For the Committee's reference, we have marked documents that raise such concerns provided in this production with the generic designation "confidential" in the header and footer. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission's Office of the General Counsel prior to any release regardless of designation to ensure that the interests of the United States and the FMC are not prejudiced.

In response to the Committee's numbered requests 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6 we have provided the additional enclosed documents.

We will continue to work diligently to respond to the Committee's request.

Sincerely,

Rebecca A. Fenneman
General Counsel

RE: Eighth Production, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
Request of May 9, 2012

Dear Chairman Issa:

Attached herewith in electronic form on a CD is an eighth production of material responsive to the Committee's request dated May 9, 2012. This production should appear in TIFF and PDF format. If you have any difficulty accessing these materials, please notify me immediately.

As further discussed with Committee staff, we have attempted to produce the material requested by the Committee within the deadline set by your May 9, 2012 request. We have not been able to collect and organize all such material, however, and therefore are producing this information on a "rolling" basis, an approach that was approved in our May 14, 2012 conversation with Committee staff. As discussed and agreed with Committee staff, we intend to produce documents on a regular basis every four weeks going forward until the production is complete. We currently plan to make our next production after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Committee staff had requested an indication of the number of the documents we have reviewed for responsiveness. In our efforts to comply with the Committee's request, we have reviewed roughly 128,600 pages of documents. This production includes approximately 520 pages; we have now delivered to you a cumulative total of almost 8500 pages.

As discussed with Committee staff, we have narrowed the scope of communications and documents deemed responsive to Committee Request 2, in order to remove material unrelated to the Committee's interest. This would include, for example, email communications in which the named individuals FOIA exemption 6, 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6) are copied (and therefore could be read broadly as "relating to") but that do not relate to the substantive matters outlined in the Committee's request. The Commission is additionally segregating material with potential White House equities for review by White House counsel. As such, no documents relating to the Committee's Request 1(j) (communications with the Executive Office of the President) are included in this production. We have not withheld any material from production to the Committee or its staff based on any privilege or statutory mandate that the Commission ensure confidentiality.

We reiterate that if this request were made in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert privilege and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those privileges or objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. For example, some of the information we have provided cannot be released by the Commission to the public by mandate of the Shipping Act of 1984, 46 U.S.C. 40306 or 40502(b)(1). Some of the information may relate to the ocean carriers of foreign countries subject to the controlled carrier provisions of the Shipping Act of 1984, and public release of this information could negatively impact the foreign relations of the United States. Similarly, public release of other information may substantially harm the position of the United States in existing or future litigation. Additionally, the documents provided to the Committee may contain the names or other identifying information of individuals who provided information to the FMC pursuant to an administrative investigation or Fact Finding proceeding, for which the individual sought anonymity. Revealing this information to the public could seriously impair the FMC's ability to conduct such investigations in the future. There is also personally identifiable information that generally would be protected from public release by the Privacy Act were it requested by a private party. For the Committee's reference, we have marked documents that raise such concerns provided in this production with the generic designation "confidential" in the header and footer. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission's Office of the General Counsel prior to any release regardless of designation to ensure that the interests of the United States and the FMC are not prejudiced.

We have provided the additional enclosed documents in response to the Committee's request number 4.

We will continue to work diligently to respond to the Committee's request.

Sincerely,

Rebecca A. Fenneman
General Counsel

RE: Ninth Production, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
Request of May 9, 2012

Dear Chairman Issa:

Attached herewith in electronic form on a CD is a ninth production of material responsive to the Committee's request dated May 9, 2012. This production should appear in PDF format. If you have any difficulty accessing these materials, please notify me immediately.

Committee staff previously had requested an indication of the number of the documents we have reviewed for responsiveness. In our efforts to comply with the Committee staff's request, we note that we have now reviewed a total of approximately 132,000 pages of communications and documents. This production includes approximately 564 pages; we have now delivered to you a cumulative total of over 9,000 pages of material.

With respect to Committee Request 1(j), this production includes documents and communications relevant to topics identified in the May 9, 2012 letter. As agreed by Committee staff, we have narrowed the scope of communications and documents deemed responsive to Committee Request 2, in order to remove material unrelated to the Committee's interest. This would include, for example, email communications in which the named individuals FOIA FOIA exemption 6, 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6) are copied (and therefore could be read broadly as "relating to") but that do not relate to the substantive matters outlined in the Committee's request.

We reiterate that if this request were made in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert privilege and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those privileges or objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. For example, some of the information we have provided cannot be released by the Commission to the public by mandate of the Shipping Act of 1984, 46 U.S.C. 40306 or 40502(b)(1). Some of the information may relate to the ocean carriers of foreign countries subject to the controlled carrier provisions of the Shipping Act of 1984, and public release of this information could negatively impact the foreign relations of the United States. Similarly, public release of other information may substantially harm the position of the United States in existing or future litigation. Additionally, the documents provided to the Committee may contain the names or other identifying information of individuals who provided information to the Federal Maritime Commission (FMC) pursuant to an administrative investigation or Fact Finding proceeding, for which the individual sought anonymity. Revealing this information to the public could seriously impair the FMC's ability to conduct such investigations in the future. There is also personally identifiable information that generally would be protected from public release by the Privacy Act were it requested by a private party. For the Committee's reference, we have marked documents that raise such concerns provided in this production with the generic designation "confidential" in the header and footer. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission's Office of the General Counsel prior to any release regardless of designation to ensure that the interests of the United States and the FMC are not prejudiced.

The March 8, 2013 letter is the first communication from the Committee indicating any interest in this matter since early August 2012, despite our ambitious schedule and voluminous production over the course of the months of May to October last year, the last of which was delivered to you on October 23, 2012.

As your letter recognizes, this Office worked diligently to produce documents and at an exhausting pace. Your request required a significant number of man hours, a substantial fraction of this Office's time and placed a great strain on our small and already overburdened staff, which until last week, consisted of only seven lawyers and one administrative assistant. These dedicated professionals ensure that all the legal work of the Commission is attended to, which, unlike cabinet agencies, includes the principal representation of the Commission in litigation (two appeals are currently pending), in addition to rulemakings, administrative proceedings (such as FOIA, EEOC and MSPB), and the collateral duties of Designated Agency Ethics Official (and alternate), congressional affairs and international affairs. This production has diverted the limited resources of this Office from other pressing duties, even as significant furloughs loom.

As I was prior to the issuance of your March 8, 2013 letter, I remain very happy to discuss any questions or concerns Committee staff may have with respect to this production.

Sincerely,

Rebecca A. Fenneman,
General Counsel

RE: First Production, House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform,
Request of May 9, 2012

Dear Chairman Issa:

Attached herewith in electronic form on CD is an initial production of material responsive to the Committee's request dated May 9, 2012. As discussed with Committee staff, the Federal Maritime Commission ("Commission" or "FMC") lacks the technology to produce the material in TIFF format without incurring significant additional expense. We have made every effort to produce it in a consistent manner in PDF.

As further discussed with Committee staff, we have attempted to produce the material requested by the Committee within the deadline set by your May 9, 2012 request. We have not been able to collect and organize all such material, however, and therefore will be producing this information on a "rolling" basis, an approach that your staff approved in our May 14, 2012 conversation.

The FMC's Inspector General, Mr. Adam Trzeciak, has advised us that he will provide responsive documents and material directly to the Committee. Mr. Trzeciak has thus not produced any information to me that might be responsive to your request. We have been advised by Committee staff that this is acceptable.

We have not withheld any material from production to the Committee or its staff based on any privilege or statutory mandate that the Commission ensure confidentiality. If, however, much of the information we are producing were requested in a legal action or through a Freedom of Information Act request, we would assert privilege and seek to withhold many of the documents. We do not waive the right to assert any of those objections to the release of this material by producing it to the Committee now. For example, some of the information we have provided cannot be released by the Commission to the public by mandate of the Shipping Act of 1984, 46 U.S.C. 40306. Some of the information may relate to the ocean carriers of foreign countries subject to the controlled carrier provisions of the Shipping Act of 1984, and public release of this information could negatively impact the foreign relations of the United States. Similarly, public release of other information may substantially harm the position of the United States in existing or future litigation. Additionally, the documents provided to the Committee may contain the names or other identifying information of individuals who provided information to the FMC pursuant to an administrative investigation or Fact Finding proceeding, for which the individual sought anonymity. Revealing this information to the public could seriously impair the FMC's ability to conduct such investigations in the future. For the Committee's reference, we have marked documents that raise such concerns provided in this production with the designation "confidential" in the header and footer. We respectfully request that the Committee consult with the Commission's Office of the General Counsel prior to any release.

Here follow summaries of the responses provided with respect to the Committee's numbered requests appearing at page 4 of the May 9, 2012 Committee Request.
