VIA ELECTRONIC AND REGULAR MAIL

On January 20, 2017, you submitted a request for information pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's (Commission) FOIA regulations, 18 C.F.R. § 388.108 (2016).¹ Specifically, you requested a "screenshot" of the following:

1. The FERCNet home page;
2. The separate main page on the FERCNet intranet site for each of the FERC Offices;
3. The main page on the FERCNet intranet site for the "online energy publications and databases;"

5. The primary page on the FERCNet intranet site for the eLibrary; and
6. The primary page on the FERCNet intranet site for the dam safety area on the OEP internal site.

While the Commission has no legal obligation to create screenshots in response to FOIA requests, the screenshots are enclosed as a courtesy. The Commission has no obligation to produce similar information in response to any future FOIA requests.

As provided by FOIA, any appeal from this determination must be filed within 90 days of the date of this letter. Office of Energy Projects (OEP)Division of Dam Safety & Inspections (D2SI)*What We Do

D2SI, as the Division of Dam Safety and Inspections is known at FERC, has one critical mission; safety of the dams under jurisdiction of FERC's Hydropower program.

- Before projects are constructed, the Commission staff reviews the designs, plans, and specifications of dams, powerhouses, and other structures.
- During construction, Commission staff engineers frequently inspect a project.
- Once construction is complete and the project enters the operation phase Commission engineers continue to inspect it on a regular basis.
