The Broadcasting Administrative Manual (BAM) consists of policies, procedures, and guidance that govern the federal elements of the Broadcasting Board of Governors (BBG). The BAM is meant to be an authoritative, centralized compilation of policies that affect BBG's operations. The purpose of the BAM is to serve as an organizational and management tool that helps BBG elements act consistently and effectively. It also provides entities outside of BBG with a source of information about BBG's policies, operations, and organization.

Responsibilities for updating the BAM are managed by the International Broadcasting Bureau (IBB) Director's Office. In 2011, BBG initiated a BAM update project, which is still ongoing, and devoted resources to updating the BAM. Because many of the provisions are out of date, the Agency office responsible for the subject matter should be contacted to confirm current policies in effect.

PART I ORGANIZATION, 100 INTRODUCTION
Section 110

GENERAL

112 Functional Statements and Charts

GENERAL

111 PURPOSE

Part I of the Manual of Operations and Administration (MOA) describes the BBG and, the role of Broadcasting in carrying out the mission assigned by law and Presidential directive, and the major functional responsibilities and organizational structure of Broadcasting.

112 FUNCTIONAL STATEMENTS AND CHARTS

- a. The overall organizational chart of the BBG is available in the Office of Personnel and in the Office of Administration.
- b. Mission Statement
- c. Detailed functional statements outlining the specific responsibilities of the organizational components of Broadcasting through the Branch or equivalent levels. The functional statements provide complete descriptions of responsibilities and activities involved in the various major functions performed by Broadcasting.

As the BBG looks to the future in the year 2000, one fact is stark and clear: the 21st century will be the century of communications. The explosion of media choices in the 1990s now places images and sounds from the entire world within reach of even the most remote villages. Yet even a more enlightened earth will continue to be a very dangerous and unpredictable place. This seems certain because of regional conflicts and a resurgence of nationalism in Europe, the former Soviet Union, and central Asia. Each and every day international radio and television report instantaneously to millions. Publicly-funded international broadcasters also bring to listeners and viewers promising news about democracy and free enterprise. In doing this, they create, on balance, an informed and safer world.

Under the BBG, a unique blend of global radio and television programming is prepared every hour of every day. The programming spans the gamut of human experience: local, regional, and international news, features about America and its exports, practical information of universal interest about medicine, family health, business, agriculture, and music, everyone's communications medium.

At this crossroads in the history of global mass media, the BBG will take advantage of the combined power of radio and television, and design research to formulate a long-range mass media strategy to reconfigure the various broadcasting entities to match geopolitical realities and build into the new consolidated independent organization an even more flexible capacity for dealing with the inevitable crises in the 21st century

MONITORING OR RECORDING OF TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS

3011 INTRODUCTION

General Services Administration (GSA) regulations prohibit the monitoring or recording of telephone conversations except under very limited circumstances. This regulation describes the limited circumstances under which listening-in or recording of telephone conversations may be performed and prescribes policies which limit this practice within Broadcasting.

3011.1 Definitions

- a. "Consensual" means one party to a telephone conversation has given prior consent to the interception or recording of the conversation.
- b. "Non-consensual" means none of the parties to a telephone conversation has given consent to the interception or recording of the conversation.

- c. "Listening-in devices" as used in this section means such devices that can intercept any telephone communication and be used to listen-in and/or record telephone conversations without the knowledge of one or more of the parties to the conversation.
- d. "Determination" means a written document that specifies the operational need for listening-in or recording of telephone conversations, indicates the specific system and location where it is to be performed, lists the number of telephones and/or recorders involved, establishes operating times and an expiration date, and justifies the use. The determination will be signed by the Director or his/her designee.

3012 NON-CONSENSUAL LISTENING-IN OR RECORDING

Non-consensual listening-in or recording of telephone conversations shall be authorized for certain law enforcement and counterintelligence purposes.

3013 CONSENSUAL LISTENING-IN OR RECORDING

Consensual listening-in or recording of telephone conversations on the Federal Telecommunications System or any other telephone system approved in accordance with the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, section 201(a)(1) and (3) (40 U.S.C. 481(a)(1) and (3)), and implementing regulations thereof is prohibited except for the following conditions:

3013.1 Law Enforcement - When performed for law enforcement purposes in accordance with the Attorney General's Guidelines. Questions relating to this paragraph should be referred to the Office of the General Counsel.

3013.2 Counterintelligence - When performed for counterintelligence purposes and approved by the Attorney General or his/her designee. Questions relating to this paragraph should be referred to the Office of the General Counsel.

3013.3 Public Safety - When performed by any Federal employee for public safety purposes and when documented by a written determination signed by the Director or his/her designee citing the public safety needs. A written determination and a request for equipment acquisition and/or installation must be approved by GSA prior to the operational date. The determination must identify the segment of the public needing protection and cite examples of the hurt, injury, danger, or risks from which the public is to be protected.

3013.4 Handicapped Employee - When performed by a handicapped employee, provided a physician or licensed authority has certified that the employee is physically handicapped and the Director or his/her designee determines that the use of a listening-in or recording device is required to fully perform the duties of the official position description. A written determination and a request for equipment acquisition and/or installation must be approved by GSA prior to the operational date. The equipment shall be for the exclusive use of the handicapped employee and when not in use should be stored in a secure place. Questions relating to this paragraph should be referred to the Office of Civil Rights (OCR).

3013.5 Service Monitoring - When performed by any Federal agency for service monitoring, but only after analysis of alternatives and a determination by the agency head or his/her designee that monitoring is required to effectively perform the agency mission. (Service monitoring pertains to such activities as determining the accuracy of a service. It is unlikely that there often would be a need for this activity ) Questions relating to this paragraph should be referred to the Office of the General Counsel.

3013.6 Consent Of All Parties - When performed by an employee with the consent of all parties for each specific instance. (For example, telephone conferences, and secretarial recording.) Strict supervisory controls shall be maintained to eliminate any possible abuse of this privilege. The Director or his/her designee shall be informed of this capability for listening-in or recording telephone conversations. All participants shall be provided a transcript of the conversation. (This does not apply to administrative or informational messages which are routinely left on recorders. For example, a log is not required, nor a transcript provided to the caller when authorized newsgathering officials of Broadcasting conduct routine monitoring and recording of news stories and program feeds.) A telephone log will be maintained (by each office for a period of three years) of all recorded telephone conversations. The log will include the following information: Date, time, names of persons involved, and the length of the conversation. In the event recording equipment is used, a written determination and a request for equipment acquisition and/or installation must be approved by GSA prior to the operational date. Questions relating to this paragraph should be referred to the Office of the General Counsel.

3015 USE OF LINE IDENTIFICATION EQUIPMENT

Line identification equipment may be installed in FTS telephone facilities to assist Federal law enforcement agencies to investigate threatening telephone calls, bomb threats, and other criminal activities. No invasion of privacy is involved, and the use of this equipment does not violate the Privacy Act of 1974 or any Federal or State wiretap laws; e.g., Title III of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. Information and assistance may be obtained from General Services Administration, Washington, D. C. 20405.

APPENDIX A

GUIDANCE ON WRITING POLICY

Title:

Policy #: (This space to be filled by IBB/AS)

Effective Date:

Originating Office: (Office Title), (Contact Phone Number)

Notes on Format and Content: To easily incorporate policies into the BAM, IBB/AS strongly recommends that all offices write policy in 12 point, Times New Roman font, with 1” margins. Each policy should identify the office responsible for drafting it and provide a phone number for that office.

(a) PURPOSE: State the reason(s) for the policy here. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the question: WHY should the Agency adopt this policy?

(b) AUTHORITY & SCOPE:

(1) Authority:

(i) Provide a list of the authorities for this policy under law, regulation, executive order, delegation of authority from the IBB Director, or any other source. To the maximum extent possible, include citations and links to the full text of each authority. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the question: WHERE can the reader find additional information?

(ii) Example: Delegation Order 99-8, Redlegation of Authority to Direct and Administer the Board's Security Program to the Director of the Office of Security

(2) Scope: Then, explain which offices, personnel, activities, or federal assets the cited authorities, and this policy, regulate. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the question: TO WHOM does this policy apply?

(c) POLICY: Explain, in general terms, the course of action planned to fulfill the policy's purpose. However, save detailed information and explanations for Section D, Procedures and Primary Responsibilities. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the question: WHAT will the agency do to achieve the purpose of this policy?

(d) PROCEDURES AND PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

(1) Explain, in specific terms, the steps necessary to accomplishing the course of action explained in Section C, Policy. Each step in the procedures should identify who has Primary Responsibility for executing that step. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the questions:

- (i) WHO is responsible for implementing this policy; and
- (ii) HOW will the agency achieve the purpose of this policy?

(2) To the maximum extent possible, use the active voice when writing procedures.

- (i) Example: The IBB Director approves policies;
- (ii) But not: Policies will be approved by the IBB Director.

(3) Explain each step necessary to implementing the policy, in sequence, from beginning to end.

- (i) Explain sub-steps in an outline format.

(e) DEFINITIONS: List the meanings of special terms or abbreviations within the policy that a reader, who is not an expert in the policy's subject matter, would probably not understand. Note that this section should not include definitions of commonly-used terms or abbreviations.

(1) Example: Indefinite-Delivery, Indefinite-Quantity Contract (IDIQ) means an agreement that the Government will purchase an undetermined amount of goods or services, within specific minimum or maximum amounts, and which provides the Government the right to issue delivery or task orders for goods or services at any time during the period of the contract;

(2) But not: U.S.A. means the United States of America

(f) EFFECTIVE DATE AND APPROVAL: After approving the policy, the IBB Director signs it here.

(a) PURPOSE: To establish Agency-wide procedures for creating, updating, reviewing, approving, and communicating Agency policy.

(1) Authority:

(i) By Delegation of Authority from the Broadcasting Board of Governors (BBG), The Director of the International Broadcasting Bureau (IBB) provides for the general administrative management of the BBG and all Federal Entities that receive authority or funding from the BBG (collectively, “The Agency”). Pursuant to this authority, the IBB Director approves all documents establishing policies and procedures to achieve the mission and responsibilities of the Agency.

(ii) The IBB Director has delegated the coordination of policy approval to the Office of Administrative and Secretariat Operations (IBB/AS).

(2) Scope: IBB/AS is responsible for overseeing the approval of any new or revised management or administrative policy, guideline, or procedure which governs the Agency. Excepted from this requirement are housekeeping guidelines and Standard Operating Procedures that are of interest to only one element of the Agency.

(c) POLICY:

(1) Policies are intended to govern the conduct, performance, accountability, and responsibility of Agency employees and are made accessible to all employees through the Agency intranet website.

(2) Policies are used to communicate Agency regulations, requirements, guidance, rules, and mandates and remain in effect until revised or canceled. All separate guidance provided through email or memoranda which are intended to create or modify existing policy must be incorporated in an updated policy document.

(d) PROCEDURES & PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES

(1) New policies will be proposed by element heads or office directors to IBB/AS (See Appendix A for guidance on writing policy and a policy template).

(2) When an office develops a new policy, or there are major, substantive changes to existing policy, IBB/AS will circulate the policy and coordinate meetings, as appropriate, to provide an opportunity for input from all offices affected by the policy involved. For example, a change in the procedures governing the use of purchase cards should be shared with VOA, OCB, the Office of the Chief Financial Officer, the Office of Contracts, and other affected offices.

(3) Once input from affected offices has been incorporated by IBB/AS, IBB/AS will coordinate with the Office of General Counsel (OGC) to obtain legal clearance for the policy. OGC will:

- (i) Ensure that the policy's guidelines and procedures are in compliance with all applicable laws and regulations; and
- (ii) Advise IBB/AS on any public notice or publication requirements.

(4) IBB/AS will also submit proposed new and amended policies to the Office of Human Resources, Labor and Employee Relations Division (OHR/L). OHR/L will determine whether proposed policies require the Agency to provide notice and opportunity to bargain to employee unions, and notify IBB/AS of its determination. If union notice and opportunity to bargain is required, OHR/L will notify the appropriate union(s) of the proposed policy, coordinate bargaining, notify IBB/AS when the bargaining obligation is fulfilled, and notify IBB/AS of any changes in the proposed policy that result from bargaining. If bargaining results in any significant changes to the policy, IBB/AS will re-circulate the policy among affected offices for their input, and then re-submit the policy to OGC for final legal clearance.

(5) After the Agency fulfills any bargaining obligation, and OGC provides final legal clearance for a proposed policy, IBB/AS will prepare a policy package and submit the proposed policy to the IBB Director. Then:

- (i) For policies that require publication or public comment – The IBB Director reviews a proposed policy. If the IBB Director approves the proposed policy for publication, IBB/AS will manage publication and public notice requirements. After this process is complete, IBB/AS will re-submit the policy package to the IBB Director for final approval.
- (ii) For policies that do not require publication – The IBB Director reviews the policy for final approval.

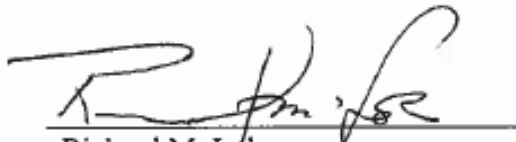

(6) Ordinarily, the IBB Director determines whether to grant a proposed policy final approval after the review process, explained in paragraphs (d)(1)-(5), is complete. However, the IBB Director may approve a final policy without going through the policy review process explained above, when determined necessary.

(7) Once the IBB Director approves a policy, the Director returns the approved policy to IBB/AS for immediate posting on the Agency's intranet website. The IBB/AS staff will prepare a broadcast message announcing the policy's location in the Broadcasting Administrative Manual (BAM) and providing instructions to access it.

(ii) Example: Delegation Order 99-8, Redlegation of Authority to Direct and Administer the Board's Security Program to the Director of the Office of Security

(2) Scope: Then, explain which offices, personnel, activities, or federal assets the cited authorities, and this policy, regulate. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the question: TO WHOM does this policy apply?

(c) POLICY: Explain, in general terms, the course of action planned to fulfill the policy's purpose. However, save detailed information and explanations for Section D, Procedures and Primary Responsibilities. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the question: WHAT will the agency do to achieve the purpose of this policy?

(d) PROCEDURES AND PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

(1) Explain, in specific terms, the steps necessary to accomplishing the course of action explained in Section C, Policy. Each step in the procedures should identify who has Primary Responsibility for executing that step. It might be helpful to think of this section as answering the questions:

- (i) WHO is responsible for implementing this policy; and
- (ii) HOW will the agency achieve the purpose of this policy?

(2) To the maximum extent possible, use the active voice when writing procedures.

- (i) Example: The IBB Director approves policies;
- (ii) But not: Policies will be approved by the IBB Director.

(3) Explain each step necessary to implementing the policy, in sequence, from beginning to end.

- (i) Explain sub-steps in an outline format.

(e) DEFINITIONS: List the meanings of special terms or abbreviations within the policy that a reader, who is not an expert in the policy's subject matter, would probably not understand. Note that this section should not include definitions of commonly-used terms or abbreviations.

(1) Example: Indefinite-Delivery, Indefinite-Quantity Contract (IDIQ) means an agreement that the Government will purchase an undetermined amount of goods or services, within specific minimum or maximum amounts, and which provides the Government the right to issue delivery or task orders for goods or services at any time during the period of the contract;

(2) But not: U.S.A. means the United States of America

(a) PURPOSE: This policy provides guidance and establishes procedures for making Agency programming available within the United States.

(b) AUTHORITY & SCOPE:

(1) Authority:

(i) Section 501 of the U.S. Information and Educational Exchange (Smith-Mundt) Act, as amended, as codified in 22 U.S.C. § 1461.

(ii) Section 208 of the Smith-Mundt Act, as amended, Clarification on Domestic Distribution of Program Material, 22 U.S.C. § 1461-1a.

(iii) The U.S. International Broadcasting Act, 22 U.S.C. 6201 et seq.

(iv) The Radio Broadcasting to Cuba Act, 22 U.S.C. § 1465 et seq.

(v) The Television Broadcasting to Cuba Act, 22 U.S.C. § 1465aa et seq.

(vi) Office of Management and Budget Circular A-25, Revised, Memorandum for the Heads of Executive Departments and Establishments, Subject: User Charges.

(2) Scope: This policy applies to all offices and divisions of the Federal Government which the Broadcasting Board of Governors supervises pursuant to the U.S. International Broadcasting Act (collectively, the Agency).

(c) POLICY:

(1) The Agency's mission is to inform, engage, and connect people around the world in support of freedom and democracy. Amendments to the Smith-Mundt Act in Pub. L. 112-239 re-affirm the Agency's mission to broadcast to foreign audiences, while lifting some restrictions on disseminating information within the United States.

(2) The Agency may provide individuals, media entities, or other organizations with Agency program materials for use or distribution within the United States in accordance with law and the procedures in this policy. The Agency may not seek to syndicate its program materials through domestic media outlets with the intent to develop audiences within the United States. The Agency may provide program materials, prepared for dissemination abroad, to domestic broadcasters aimed at foreign diaspora communities as part of the Agency's foreign policy mission. Unless these program materials are made available in the U.S. under a partnership or as part of the agency's public affairs activities, (See, 22 U.S.C. § 1437; VI BAM 610, Partnership Policy), then program materials must be provided upon request only. All domestic distribution shall fall within the following three categories:

(i) Public Affairs – The Agency may provide information about the Agency’s operations, programs, and program materials, including granting permission for a one-time use of Agency programming, when it serves the Agency’s public affairs functions.

(ii) Media and Organization Requests for an Ongoing Subscription to Agency Program Materials – Upon request, the Agency may enter an agreement to provide media entities, or other organizations, an ongoing subscription to Agency program materials on a case-by-case basis, as described below.

(A) A case-by-case determination shall include the following considerations:

(1) Whether such an ongoing subscription agreement is consistent with the public diplomacy and broad foreign policy objectives of the United States (See 22 U.S.C. §§ 6201, 6202(a)(1));

(2) Whether such an ongoing subscription agreement would serve the Agency’s mission to communicate to foreign audiences, or open communication of information and ideas among the people of the world (See 22 U.S.C. §§ 1461, 6201(2), 6204(a)(1));

(3) Whether such an ongoing subscription agreement would serve the Agency’s mission to promote human rights, including freedom of opinion and expression. The Agency shall consider whether a media entity’s intended use of Agency programming would support the Agency’s efforts to provide a variety of opinions or otherwise meet the needs which remain unserved by the totality of media voices available to people within nations and regions subject to censorship or repression (See 22 U.S.C. §§ 6201(1), 6202(a)(8), (b)(7));

(4) Whether entering such an agreement would be consistent with the highest professional standards of broadcast journalism, as outlined in an Agency broadcasting element’s charter or journalistic code (See 22 U.S.C. § 6202(a)(5), (c));

(5) Whether a media entity’s intended use of Agency programming would complement, rather than duplicate, adequate information dissemination from the Agency’s other broadcasters, private United States broadcasters, or government-supported broadcasting entities of other democratic nations. The Agency shall consider what, if any, broadcasts are available to the public in the relevant media market, in the same language and medium (e.g. radio or television) as the requested program materials, from private U.S. broadcasters or from government-sponsored broadcast entities from democratic nations (See 22 U.S.C. §§ 1462, 6202(a)(3)-(4); H. Conf. Rep. No. 103-482);

(6) Whether entering into such an agreement would help the Agency to effectively reach a significant target audience (See 22 U.S.C. §§ 6202(a)(7));

(7) The extent to which entering into an ongoing subscription agreement would be consistent with all other broadcasting standards, principles, charters, and objectives of the Agency (See generally, 22 U.S.C. §§ 1461, 1462, 6201-6206; and

(8) Whether distributing the requested program materials would be cost prohibitive to the agency because of an agreement with a third party who holds a copyright in the requested materials. (See Pub. L. 112-239 §1078(b); 22 U.S.C. §§ 1461(b)(1)(C));

(B) The Agency may provide ongoing subscribers access to a professional distribution systems, such as the Direct system (“Direct”). Any agreement to grant a media entity an ongoing subscription to Agency programming:

(1) Must include limitations to ensure the subscriber keeps the Agency fully informed regarding its dissemination of Agency programming, to prevent further dissemination of Agency programming outside the scope of the agreement, and to prevent use or dissemination of Agency programming that does not meet the standards in paragraph (C)(ii)(1) above;

(2) Must place responsibility on the subscriber to secure any necessary licenses from all persons or organizations that hold a copyright in any portion of requested program materials;

(3) Must require the subscriber to credit the Agency broadcasting element which produced the programming in any and all uses of those program materials; and

(4) Must require the subscriber to play program materials unaltered and in full at least once; and

(5) May establish subscriber fees in order to recover reasonable costs.

(iii) Domestic Partnerships with Incidental Distribution - The Agency may pursue and enter contractual or partnership agreements to distribute its programming in any form, or via any medium of communication, including but not limited to satellite broadcasting and the Internet. The Agency may distribute its programming via any means, regardless of whether this distribution incidentally reaches the United States, so long as distributing programming by these means serves the Agency’s international broadcasting statutory mission. See VI BAM 610, Partnership Policy; and BAM Title IX, Procurement for procedures on entering partnerships or contracts.

(d) PROCEDURES AND PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

(1) Public Affairs – Each broadcaster will respond to its own public affairs requests through the broadcaster’s Public Relations Office.

(i) The Public Relations Offices at each broadcaster are responsible for keeping a record of all domestic public affairs programming requests. This record should be provided once a year to the IBB Director's Office.

(2) Media Requests for an Ongoing Subscription to Agency Program Materials –The procedures for reviewing and answering requests for an ongoing subscription agreement are below:

(i) The Office of Strategy and Development (OSD) responds to written requests to enter into an ongoing subscription agreement for Agency program materials in the United States, including requests for access to Direct.

(ii) After OSD receives a written request with sufficient information, OSD shall, within 15 calendar days, draft a determination regarding whether entering into an ongoing subscription agreement is in the Agency's best interests, based on the considerations in paragraph (c)(ii) above, and forward its recommendation to the IBB Director's Office.

(iii) Within 15 calendar days of receiving OSD's recommendation, the IBB Director will make a determination, in consultation with either the VOA or OCB Director, based on the considerations in paragraph (c)(ii) above, whether to allow the request to go forward to the next step or whether to deny it.

(iv) Decisions by the IBB Director not to enter into the subscription agreement will be communicated to the requestor by OSD in writing.

(v) If the IBB Director determines that a subscription request should be granted, OSD shall immediately communicate that determination to the Agency broadcasting element that produces the requested program materials, the Office of Digital Design and Innovation (ODDI), and the Office of Technology, Services and Innovation (TSI).

(vi) Within 15 calendar days of receiving the IBB Director's decision, ODDI and TSI shall consult with OSD and the Agency broadcasting element regarding the capabilities of Direct, or other Agency systems used to provide subscribers with ongoing access to Agency programming.

(vii) Also within 15 calendar day of the IBB Director's decision, the broadcaster shall initiate contact with any third party vendors to determine if the requestor needs to secure any domestic rebroadcast rights. Alternatively, the broadcaster may provide vendor contact information directly to the requestor (via OSD) for the purpose of securing the necessary domestic rebroadcast rights. The broadcasting element may not grant a request without approval from the IBB Director.

(viii) Once the broadcasting element communicates any vendor issues or costs for the request, OSD shall inform the Requestor, in writing, of this information.

(ix) Provided the domestic licensing issues are resolved, OSD may use a template agreement that has been previously cleared by the Office of General Counsel for all ongoing subscribers approved by the IBB Director. Alternatively, OSD may negotiate a new agreement or amendments to a template agreement, as long as OSD receives legal clearance from the Office of General Counsel before entering such an agreement.

(x) OSD shall keep a copy of:

(A) The final determination regarding the best interest of the Agency based on the standards in paragraph (c)(ii) above;

(B) The final version of all subscription agreements; and

(C) Any other records related to the subscription agreement.

(xi) The relevant broadcasting element shall coordinate with ODDI and TSI to ensure that the programming the subscriber requests is available on Direct, or is available through another system.

(xii) Annual Review:

(A) Within one year of the effective date of each subscription agreement to allow continuing use or distribution of Agency program material within the United States, OSD shall review its original determination regarding the standards in paragraph (C)(ii)(1) and submit the results of that review to the IBB Director.

(B) If, for any reason, OSD or the IBB Director, in consultation with the OCB or VOA Directors, determine that providing an ongoing subscription is no longer in the best interest of the Agency based on the factors outlined in this policy, the Agency shall take appropriate action, including but not limited to amending or terminating a subscription agreement.

(3) Domestic Partnerships and Contracts with Incidental Distribution – Agency non-fee partnership requests will follow the procedures in VI BAM 610, Partnership Policy, which is managed by the IBB Office of Administrative and Secretariat Operations. The procedures for entering into Contracts are found in the Federal Acquisition Regulation and BAM Title IX. The Office of Contracts manages contracts and procurements, including Contracts to broadcast or make Agency programming available abroad, with incidental distribution in the United States.

(4) Determining Fees – The Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO), Financial Operations Division, in consultation with OSD, ODDI, TSI and the Agency broadcasting element, shall draft the Agency's determination whether to charge fees, and the amount of fees, in accordance with OMB Circular A-25. OCFO shall conduct a review of the Agency's determination on fees, at least once every two years, or more frequently as necessary. OCFO shall keep all records associated with the Agency's determinations, and periodic reviews, as described in OMB Circular A-25 paragraph 8(g).

181 POLICY

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA), P.L. 104-13, amending 44 U.S.C. Chapter 35, became effective October 1, 1995. The PRA, as implemented by the Office of Management and Budget, (OMB) regulations 5 CFR 1320, requires minimizing and controlling burdens associated with the collection of information by Federal agencies from individuals, businesses and other private institutions, and State and local governments.

For purposes of implementing the Paperwork Reduction Act the following terms are defined:

a. Collection of Information means the obtaining or soliciting of information by an agency from ten or more persons which includes the use of forms, schedules, questionnaires, reporting or recordkeeping requirements, or other similar methods including verbal responses to questions asked as part of a public opinion survey. This definition also applies to any collection of information performed domestically or overseas.

b. Burden means the total time, effort, or financial resources expended by persons to respond to a collection of information, including reviewing instructions; developing, acquiring, installing, and utilizing technology and systems for the purposes of a) collecting, validating, and verifying information, b) processing and maintaining information, and c) disclosing and providing information; training personnel to respond to a collection of information; searching data sources; completing and reviewing the collection of information; and transmitting, or otherwise disclosing the information.

183.1 OMB Approval - To obtain OMB approval of a collection of information, an agency must demonstrate that it has taken every reasonable step to insure that the proposed collection of information:

a. is the least burdensome necessary for the proper performance of the agency's functions to comply with legal requirements and achieve program objectives;

b. is not duplicative of information otherwise accessible to the agency; and

c. has practical utility.

183.2 Information Collections Required by Statute - Unless it can be demonstrated that a collection of information is necessary to satisfy statutory requirements or other substantial need, OMB will not approve the collection of information.

184 RESPONSIBILITIES

184.1 IBB, Chief of Staff - The IBB Chief of Staff Director of has been delegated by the BBG Executive Director as the senior agency official to carry out BBG responsibilities under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995.

184.2 BBG Submissions - BBG submissions of information collection requirements for OMB review may only be made by the BBG Executive Director, senior official, or their designee.

184.3 BBG Clearance Officer - The senior official will appoint the BBG Clearance Officer from the Analysis and Administration Division, IBB/A, to execute the detailed work associated with obtaining OMB approval of new submissions and renewal of existing clearances for continuing information collection requirements.

185 DISCLOSURE OF ESTIMATED BURDEN

185.1 Mandatory Requirement for BBG - Section 1320.5 of OMB regulations 5 CFR Part 1320 requires agencies to indicate on each information collection the estimated average burden hours per response and to request public comments on the information collection. BBG's statement should read: "Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average (requesting office is to fill in amount hours or minutes) per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information." Also, the statement must inform respondents of the reasons the information is being collected; the way in which such information is to be used; whether responses are voluntary, required to obtain a benefit or mandatory."

In addition, the following statement must appear on all collections of information:

"An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and the respondent is not required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden to Broadcasting Board of Governors, IBB/A, 330 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, D.C. 20237; and to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs (OIRA), Office of Management and Budget (OMB, Washington, D.C. 20503."

a. The requesting office shall disclose on each collection of information, as close as practicable to the location of the current OMB Control Number, the estimated average burden hours per response.

b. If it is not practicable to place the burden estimate and request for comments on the front page, at the beginning of the collection of information or in the regulatory text, the requesting office may place the burden estimate and request for comments at the beginning of the instructions that accompany the collection of information, or at the beginning of the preamble of a proposed or final rule that contains the collection of information.

c. Place the burden estimate and request for comments only on the copies of the collection of information, or in its instructions, printed or otherwise reproduced.

d. If special circumstances exist, OMB may, in consultation with the BBG Clearance Officer, exempt from the requirements of this section, specific collections of information or categories thereof.

186 PROCEDURES

186.1 Assembling the Submission Package

a. BBG elements requiring clearance of information collections or public use forms should contact the BBG Clearance Officer, IBB/A, to obtain a Form OMB-83-I, Paperwork Reduction Act Submission, and instructions for completing it and other supporting documentation. Because of the time required for public comments and OMB clearance, BBG elements should submit all documents to IBB/A 150 days before the information collection is to begin.

b. The requesting element completes OMB 83-I, and places the name and phone number of the BBG contact person in item 18.

c. The Clearance Officer will obtain the signature of the senior agency official (IBB, Chief of Staff) on item 19 of the OMB 83-I, "Certification for Paperwork Reduction Action Submissions."

d. The instructions for completing the OMB 83-I require the requestor to answer, in narrative form, 18 questions justifying the information collection, and if statistical methods are used, a section of 5 additional questions related to statistical use of the data collected.

e. Sample copies of any forms to be used in the information collection must also be submitted for OMB approval. The estimated burden hours statement must be properly displayed on all forms (see section 185.1).

f. After receipt of the Form OMB 83-I, supporting statement, sample copies of forms and copies of legislation in hand, the Clearance Officer writes an announcement for publication in the Federal Register. The BBG Clearance Officer prepares the first of two notices for publication in the Federal Register:

The 60-day Federal Register Notice is published 60 days prior to OMB submission to solicit public comment. Following the 60-day period, the BBG Clearance Officer prepares the second of two notices for publication in the Federal Register:

The 30-day Federal Register Notice is published to announce that the Information Collection packet has been submitted to OMB, and to allow the public an additional 30 days to comment on the collection.

186.2 Public Comment Period - Both the 60-day and 30-day Federal Register Notices (section 186.1), must allow the public a total of 90 days to comment on the proposed information collection. During this period, the public may also request copies of all submissions from the BBG Clearance Officer. Public comments are to be submitted to the OMB Desk Officer for BBG and or the BBG Clearance Officer.

g. The Clearance Officer then prepares a forwarding letter to OMB explaining the submission package, and requesting review and clearance. OMB requires that all submissions include three sets of documents. The letter is to be addressed as follows:

Mr./Ms. (name of OMB Desk Officer for BBG)
Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs (OIRA)
Office of Management and Budget (OMB)
Attn: Docket Library, Room 10102
Washington, D. C. 20503

h. The final submission package is entered into the OMB electronic ROCIS system - the Regulatory Information Service Center (RISC) and Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs (OIRA) Combined Information System to include: electronic link to the Federal Register announcement; Information from Form OMB 83-I; narrative justification (Word or .pdf); .pdf copies of forms to be used for information collection; electronic links to the legislation or statute which allows or requires the information collection.

187 ACTIONS FOLLOWING SUBMISSION TO OMB

187. 1 Final Clearance of Information Collection - Following the initial 60-day period for public comment, upon submission to OMB, the OMB Desk Officer will proceed with the clearance of the form, which requires a minimum review period of 30 to 60 days.

187.2 OMB Control Number - Upon approval, OMB ROCIS system will display the approval date and provide a unique identifying number, and an expiration date (from one to three years) for the information collection. The control number and the date must appear in the upper right hand corner of any forms or other documents used in the information collection, and must be updated with this information upon approval.

187.3 Providing OMB with Sample Copies of Forms - When information collection forms have been updated to display the OMB clearance number, expiration date, and estimated burden statement, a .pdf copy will be loaded onto into the electronic ROCIS system by BBG's clearance officer.

188 OMB MONTHLY REPORT

OMB prepares a monthly compilation of information collection approvals, indicating the date of last action and the expiration date. OMB usually begins 150 days in advance to alert agencies when existing information collection approvals are due to expire.

189 REVISION OF DATA COLLECTION FORMS BEFORE EXPIRATION DATE

If it is necessary to make substantive revisions to a public use form before the expiration date of the information collection, another full and complete submission to OMB is required as outlined in section 186 above.

190 RENEWAL OF INFORMATION COLLECTION APPROVAL

If an information collection is to continue beyond the assigned expiration date, another full and complete submission, as outlined in section 186 above, will be required. An agency shall not continue to engage in an information collection after the expiration date of the OMB control number unless OMB has approved an extension. Renewal submissions for OMB should be submitted to IBB/A at least 150 days before the expiration date.

PART II GENERAL ADMINISTRATION, 200 COST REDUCTION AND MANAGEMENT IMPROVEMENTS
Section 220

MANAGEMENT ACCOUNTABILITY AND CONTROL

- 221 Purpose
- 222 Policy
- 223 Authority
- 224 Scope
- 225 Responsibility of Managers
- 226 Risks
- 227 Management Controls
- 228 Management Reporting
  - 228.1 Director's Report
  - 228.2 Administration's Procedures
  - 228.3 Distribution of Integrity Act Report
- 229 The Role of the Office of the Inspector General (OIG)

221 PURPOSE - The purpose of this Manual of Operation & Administration (MOA) is to issue implementing instructions of the Chief Financial Office guidance toward financial soundness for the International Broadcasting Bureau/ Board of Governors, to meet compliance with the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-123.

222 POLICY - It is the policy of BBG to acknowledge the requirements of laws regarding the establishment, maintenance, review of, and reporting on management controls. Management controls are intended to provide managers at all levels with reasonable assurance that resources are safeguarded against fraud, waste, abuse, mismanagement, loss, and unauthorized use in accordance with Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-123 and A-127, A-136 and Circular A-11.

223 AUTHORITY - This section issued pursuant to the Budget and Accounting Procedures Act of 1950 (31 U.S.C. 3512) as amended by the Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act (FMFIA) of 1982 (P.L. 97-255), requiring organizational heads to establish and maintain systems of management controls and to report annually on their operation to the President and Congress. OMB Circular A-123, "Management Accountability and Control", (henceforth the Circular) provides guidance to Federal managers on improving the accountability and effectiveness of Federal programs and operations by establishing, assessing, and reporting on management controls. This compliance effort is, and must remain, an integral aspect of everyday management involving all managers and employees. All Broadcasting activities are subject to compliance with this directive, the Circular and the FMFIA. 224 SCOPE- Effective March 30, 2006, provisions of this section apply to all programs, operations, policy functions, management, administrative and accounting systems, and to personnel at all levels of Broadcasting. The head of each element should ensure compliance with provisions of this section by maintaining management controls that make sense for each organization's structure and environment.

225 RESPONSIBILITIES OF MANAGERS - Managers have been designated to be in charge of both program and administrative resources. At every level of leadership and supervisory control, management is responsible for:

- a. Ensuring internal controls are established, or where already in place followed, to ensure compliance with applicable regulatory guidance outlined herein. This will include annual checklists prepared by the CFO office and coordinated with BBG managers by the Office of Administration. (Checklists will serve to outline areas of vulnerability, which are to be reported in annual assessments). Ensure identification and implementation of operational safeguards to facilitate prevention of fraud, waste and abuse;
- b. Identifying and reporting to the CFO on the risks for waste, fraud, abuse and mismanagement of funds or property, conflict of interest, errors in reports and information, illegal or unethical acts and mismanagement inherent in unit operations;
- c. Ensuring an annual review of in-place safeguards to verify their adequacy;
- d. Modifying or replacing safeguards found to be inadequate in the annual reviews, noting for management, deficiencies judged to be of major consequence immediately upon their discovery and reporting annually on this process by means of a written statement to the next level manager in the organizational chain of command;
- e. Ensuring special emphasis of Property Accountability in accordance with the President's Management Agenda (PMA), as outlined herein.

226 RISK - Represents potential for problems present in the programs and functions of Broadcasting for which specific internal controls need to be in place. Assessments of risk potential by managers should be continuous. Examples are:

- a. Inadequate quality and cost measurement, control and reporting capability;

- b. Improperly, unsupervised or poorly trained employees;
- c. Absence of reasonable checks and balances in any aspect of the operation;
- d. Broad ranges of authority to individuals transcending standard functional lines such as ordering, receiving, paying, inventorying, and issuing;
- e. Lack of prior supervisory approval for overtime, travel, supply requisitions, etc., or other transactions affecting agency fund control.
- f. Insufficient or undocumented, or non-current Delegations of Authority on file;
- g. Vague areas of responsibility in position descriptions;
- h. Infrequent or haphazard inventorying, record keeping and reporting of supplies and equipment.
- i. Noncompliance with Federal Financial Systems requirements, Standard General Ledger (SGL) Accounting Standards, and applicable Federal Accounting Standards.

227 MANAGEMENT CONTROLS - Specifically, these measures provide reasonable assurance, if established and implemented properly, that an organization or function: (a) accomplishes its mission and objectives efficiently and effectively; (b) complies with applicable laws, regulations, policies and procedures; (c) safeguards funds, property, and other resources against waste, fraud, abuse, unauthorized use or mismanagement; (d) avoids conflict of interest; (e) makes effective use of human and financial resources; (f) has at its disposal sufficiently reliable financial and statistical reports to maintain accountability over assets and liabilities; and (g) holds its managers and staff accountable for their performance.

226 228 MANAGEMENT REPORTING - Pursuant to OMB Circular A-136, Agencies must prepare Performance and Accountability Reports (PAR) in accordance with OMB Bulletin No. 01-09 Form and Content of Agency Financial Statements, as amended and OMB Circular No. A-11 (Preparation, Submission, and Execution of the Budget), as amended. OMB Circular A-123, Reporting pursuant to Section 4. 31 U.S.C. 3512(d)(2)(B) (commonly referred to as Section 4 of the Integrity Act) requires an annual statement on whether the agency's financial management systems conform to government-wide requirements. The proposed "Accountability Report" would integrate the following information: the Integrity Act report, Management's Report on Final Action as required by the IG Act, the CFOs Act Annual Report (including audited financial statements). The CFO Office prepares agency financial statements, various segments of the reporting phase will require explanation or justification of data included in the statements. Under the Reports Consolidation Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-531), agencies are permitted to submit combined reports in implementing statutory requirements for financial and performance management reporting to improve the efficiency of executive branch performance.

228.1 DIRECTOR'S REPORT - The annual reports on management control provide the basis for the Director's annual report, due in August of each year, assuring that Broadcasting's management controls are achieving their intended objectives. The Director's annual report, which is a part of the Annual Performance Report, must include a schedule and plan for the correction of material weaknesses cited. The Director must also consider deficiencies identified by the OIG, OMB and the GAO. The annual assurances from the element heads should be addressed to the Director and forwarded to the Director of Administration. An annex to the Director's Report provides the status of any previously reported major management deficiencies in Broadcasting's management control system. Submissions from various organizational elements or bureaus must be prepared with consideration given to the guidelines provided by the Office of Administration. These submissions will be used to support the BBG's overall Assurance Statement. Checklists and other narratives or justification of individual (organizational element) submissions must be provided to the Director of Administration.

228.2 ADMINISTRATION'S PROCEDURES - The Director of Administration will inform all elements, on an annual basis, of the procedures for Broadcasting's management control system and appropriate reporting requirements.

TAB A: Guidelines for BBG Managers (to facilitate management control objectives):

The agency head's assessment of management controls can be performed using a variety of information sources. Management has primary responsibility for monitoring and assessing controls, and should use other sources as a supplement to -- not a replacement for -- its own judgment. Sources of information include:

- o Management knowledge gained from the daily operation of agency programs and systems.
- o Management reviews conducted (i) expressly for the purpose of assessing management controls, or (ii) for other purposes with an assessment of management controls as a by-product of the review.
- o IG and GAO report, including audits (internal or external), inspections, reviews, investigations, outcome of hotline complaints, or other products.
- o Program evaluations/internal reviews.
- o Audits of financial statements conducted pursuant to the Chief Financial Officers Act, as amended, including: information revealed in preparing the financial statements; the auditor's reports on the financial statements, internal controls, and compliance with laws and regulations; and any other materials prepared relating to the statement.
- o Reviews of financial systems which consider whether the requirements of OMB Circular No. A-127 is being met. Reviews of systems and applications conducted pursuant to the Computer Security Act of 1987 (40 U.S.C. 759 note) and OMB Circular No. A-130, "Management of Federal Information Resources."

- o Annual performance plans and reports pursuant to the Government Performance and Results Act (GPRA).
- o Reports and other information provided by the Congressional committees of jurisdiction.
- o Establish goals consistent with the President's Management Agenda (PMA) on Real Property Asset Management Initiative

TAB B: Management Review Checklists (Best Practices):

The Director of Administration distributes guidance, Self Assessment Checklists and submission procedures; managers should ensure proper implementation and management of internal control systems. The agency head's assessment of management controls can be facilitated, in accordance with the above guidelines, by using the checklists to be furnished by the Office of Administration.

TAB C: Reporting on Management Controls:

Reporting Pursuant to Section 2. 31 U.S.C. 3512(d)(2) (commonly referred to as Section 2 of the Integrity Act) requires that annually by December 31, the head of each executive agency submit to the President and the Congress (i) a statement on whether there is reasonable assurance that the agency's controls are achieving their intended objectives; and (ii) a report on material weaknesses in the agency's controls. OMB may provide guidance on the composition of the annual report.

· Statement of Assurance. The statement on reasonable assurance represents the agency head's informed judgment as to the overall adequacy and effectiveness of management controls within the agency. The statement must take one of the following forms: statement of assurance; qualified statement of assurance, considering the exceptions explicitly noted; or statement of no assurance.

In deciding on the type of assurance to provide, the agency head should consider information from the sources described in Section III of this Circular, with input from senior program and administrative officials and the IG. The agency head must describe the analytical basis for the type of assurance being provided, and the extent to which agency activities were assessed. The agency head must sign the statement of assurance.

· Report on Material Weaknesses. The Integrity Act report must include agency plans to correct the material weaknesses and progress against those plans. Reporting Pursuant to Section 4. 31 U.S.C. 3512(d)(2)(B) (commonly referred to as Section 4 of the Integrity Act) requires an annual statement on whether the agency's financial management systems conform to government-wide requirements. These financial systems requirements are presented in OMB Circular No. A-127, "Financial Management Systems," section 7. If the agency does not conform with financial systems requirements, the statement must discuss the agency's plans for bringing its systems into compliance. If the agency head judges a deficiency in financial management systems and/or operations to be material when weighed against other agency deficiencies, the issue must be included in the annual Integrity Act report in the same manner as other material weaknesses.

228.3 DISTRIBUTION OF INTEGRITY ACT REPORT - The assurance statements and information related to both Sections 2 and 4 should be provided in a single Integrity Act report. Copies of the report are to be transmitted to the President; the President of the Senate; the Speaker of the House of Representatives; the Director of OMB; and the Chairpersons and Ranking Members of the Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs, the House Committee on Government Reform and Oversight, and the relevant authorizing and appropriations committees and subcommittees. In addition, 10 copies of the report are to be provided to OMB's Office of Federal Financial Management, Management Integrity Branch. Agencies are also encouraged to make their reports available electronically.

229 THE ROLE OF THE OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL (OIG) - It is the responsibility of the OIG to evaluate the IBB/BBG practices in accordance with the CFO Act, to determine compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The Director of Administration will be advise by the OIG if an active part in the on-going review of management controls used by Broadcasting elements is necessary. The OIG routinely supports and augments the management controls and performance improvement efforts of broadcasting managers.

  - 237.7 Audit Finding
  - 237.8 Audit Recommendation
  - 237.9 Audit Determination
  - 237.10 Audit Resolution

231 PURPOSE - The purpose of this section is to provide policies and guidance for the implementation of OMB Circular A-50, "Audit Follow-up," regarding OIG issued reports with regard to the establishment, hierarchy, improvement, review, and reporting on the BBG audit follow-up system.

232 SCOPE - The audit follow-up system is applicable to all administrative and financial recommendations contained in external and internal audit and inspection reports processed or issued by the Office of Inspector General (OIG) and to all audit report recommendations involving the BBG, which are presented by the General Accounting Office (GAO) and other government organizations.

233 AUTHORITY - This section is issued pursuant to the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921, as amended (31 USC & 53); Section 236 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970; and GAO Policy and Procedures Manual for Guidance of Federal Agencies (Title 2-Accounting). The Supplemental Appropriation and Rescissions Act of 1980 specifically requires that all audits involving disallowed or questioned costs be resolved within six months of issuance.

234 POLICY- It is the policy of the BBG that audit follow-up is an integral part of good management that is a shared responsibility among Broadcasting management officials. Additionally, it is the BBG's policy that all corrective actions to audit findings are essential to improving the effectiveness and efficiency of the agency and its operations.

235 FOLLOW-UP SYSTEM - The BBG shall assign a high priority to the resolution of audit recommendations and to corrective action. Systems for resolution and corrective action must meet the following standards:

- (1) Provide for appointment of a top level audit follow-up official.
- (2) Require prompt resolution and corrective actions on audit recommendations. Resolution shall be made within a maximum of six months after issuance of a final report or, in the case of audits performed by non-Federal auditors, six months after receipt of the report by the Federal Government. Corrective action should proceed as rapidly as possible.
- (3) Specify criteria for proper resolution and corrective action on audit recommendations, whether resolution is in favor of the auditor or an auditee. These criteria should provide for written plans for corrective action with specified action dates, where appropriate.
- (4) Maintain accurate records of the status of audit reports or recommendations through the entire process of resolution and corrective action. Such records shall include appropriate accounting and collection controls over amounts determined to be due to the Government.
- (5) Provide a means to assure timely responses to audit reports and to resolve major disagreements between the audit organization and agency management or contracting officials. The process should provide sufficient time to permit resolution to take place within the six month limit.
- (6) Assure that resolution actions are consistent with law, regulation, and Administration policy; and include written justification containing, when applicable, the legal basis for decisions not agreeing with the audit recommendation.
- (7) Provide for coordinating resolution and corrective action on recommendations involving more than one program, agency, or level of Government.

(8) Provide semi-annual reports to the agency head on the status of all unresolved audit reports over six months old, the reasons therefore, and a timetable for their resolution; the number of reports or recommendations resolved during the period; the amount of disallowed costs; and collections, offsets, write-offs, demands for payment and other monetary benefits resulting from audits. These reports should include an update on the status of previously reported unresolved audits.

(9) Provide for periodic analysis of audit recommendations, resolution, and corrective action, to determine trends and system-wide problems, and to recommend solutions.

(10) Assure that performance appraisals of appropriate officials reflect effectiveness in resolving and implementing audit recommendations.

(11) Provide for an evaluation of whether the audit follow-up system results in efficient, prompt, and proper resolution and corrective action on audit recommendations. The first evaluation will be made within one year of the date of this Circular, and evaluations will be made periodically thereafter.

236 ACTION OFFICIALS & IMPASSE RESOLUTION: The Associate Director for Management, International Broadcasting Bureau, is the designated agency Senior Audit Follow-up Official. The SAFO has responsibility for ensuring that:

- (1) Systems of audit and inspection follow up, resolution, and corrective action are documented and in place;
- (2) Timely responses are made to all audit and inspection reports;
- (3) Disagreements are resolved; and
- (4) Corrective actions are taken, if required.

The Executive Director of the Broadcasting Board of Governors' (BBG) is the designated official for final impasse resolution when an audited or inspected BBG bureau, office, or other BBG activity does not agree with the Office of Inspector General (OIG) over the corrective action to resolve an audit/inspection recommendation.

By definition, the term "impasse" means that the audited/inspected action office either rejects or makes no response to an OIG corrective action recommendation after a reasonable effort to achieve agreement by the OIG and the action office. If at an "impasse" with the action office, the OIG can then seek resolution of the issue at the management level with the SAFO, but will provide the action office with sufficient notice and opportunity to present its reason for noncompliance concurrent with the OIG referral to the SAFO.

236.1 FINAL LETTER OF DETERMINATION - The official written notice detailing all necessary actions taken or to be taken and financial adjustments necessary to resolve the findings in an external audit report.

236.2 SENIOR AUDIT FOLLOW-UP OFFICIAL- is the individual responsible for audit follow-up. OMB Circular A-50 requires the head of an organization to designate a top management official to oversee audit follow-up, including resolution and corrective action.

237 DEFINITIONS- The BBG shall provide understanding of the terms below for employees who will be involved with audits/inspections being conducted by the Inspector General's Office and the Government Accounting Office:

237.1 Inspections - Evaluations performed by OIG staff in the area of program effectiveness and efficiency, project impact, management operations, and compliance with Government regulations.

237.2 Internal Audits - Internal audits are detailed and extensive reviews of internal activities conducted by OIG staff. They include operational audits, performance audits, management reviews, or surveys covering headquarters and/or overseas activities.

237.3 External Audits - External audits are reviews covering contracts, grants, proposals or other activities of organizations (grantees, contractors, etc.) external to, but doing business with, Broadcasting elements.

(a). OIG Audits - OIG reviews of grantee or contractor operations including audits of fiscal and non-monetary operations, pre-award reviews, and contract closing statements.

(b). Independent Public Accountant Audits - Audits performed by independent public accountants engaged by external organizations or under contract with the BBG.

(c). Other Federal Audits - Audits conducted by the Department of State and Commerce Department or other Federal Agencies under contract.

237.4 Ineligible Cost - An incurred cost that is questioned by the OIG because of an alleged violation of a provision of a law, regulation, contract, grant, cooperative agreement, or other agreement or document governing the expenditure of funds.

237.5 Unsupported Cost - An incurred cost that is questioned by the OIG because at the time of the audit such costs were not supported by adequate documentation.

237.6 Disallowed Cost - An ineligible or unsupported cost that the contracting officer has concluded, in an audit determination, should not be charged to the Federal Government.

237.7 Audit Finding - A written explanation of errors, non-compliance with legal requirements, use of funds for improper purposes, weaknesses, deficiencies, or the need for improvements of changes which are disclosed in an audit.

237.8 Audit Recommendation - The auditor's written suggestions for specific action to correct a deficient condition, prevent a recurrence of the condition, alleviate the adverse effects of a condition, or request repayment of funds used improperly. The recommendation relates directly to the cause of the weakness or deficiency. Recommendations are directed to action officials who have the authority and the responsibility to take corrective action on the adverse condition or weakness.

237.9 Audit Determination - The evaluation by management of the findings and recommendations included in an audit report and the issuance of a written final decision by management concerning its response, including corrective actions concluded to be necessary, to such findings and recommendations.

237.10 Audit Resolution - OMB Circular A-50, dated September 29, 1982, defines audit resolution as:

(A). "For most audits, the point at which the audit organization (OIG) and agency management or contracting officials agree on action to be taken on reported findings and recommendations; or, in the event of disagreement, to the point at which the Senior Audit Follow-up Official determines the matter to be resolved. A report may be considered resolved despite the right of persons outside the organization to negotiate, appeal, or litigate. Resolution of a report with respect to parties outside the Government does not preclude further consideration of issues in the report by broadcasting management."

(C). External Audits findings:

(1) Disallowed costs - are considered resolved when the Contracting Officer transmits the final determination regarding amounts to be recovered. Evidence of the resolution of audit reported deficiencies are supplied to the OIG.

(2) Ineligible and Unsupported Costs - are considered resolved when costs are supportable and eligible under the program. [Such evidence should consist of appropriate documents, materials, and schedules].

(3) Findings Involving Procedural Matters - are considered resolved when evidence that action on the audit recommendation was completed or is underway, with reasonable assurances that the necessary action will be completed within a specified time frame.

d. Internal Audits and Inspections:

(1) Improved Management Practices - are considered resolved when management has completed the recommended action or has established and reported definitive plans and procedures (including estimated completion dates) for doing so.

(2) Revisions to Directives and/or Regulations - are considered resolved when management has started action to rewrite or revise policies, procedures, or regulations, including estimated implementation dates.

(3) Other findings are considered resolved when agreement has been reached between the OIG and the Action Official that good reasons exist for not following the audit recommendation, e.g., the conditions upon which a recommendation was made have changed to such an extent as to negate implementation of the recommendation.

331 PURPOSE AND SCOPE

331.1 Purpose - This Directive establishes the Broadcasting Board of Governors, International Broadcasting Bureau's (BBG/IBB) Forms Control Program. The International Broadcasting Bureau's, Analysis and Administration Division's, Forms Control Program provides for the management, centralized review and standardization of all in-house IBB forms, Standard forms (SF), Optional forms (OF), and specialty forms in electronic and hard-copy formats. The centralized review and standardization of forms eliminates unnecessary forms, produce forms that reduce paper work, and contributes to more efficient operations.

331.2 Scope - The Forms Control Program covers all forms, whether used throughout Broadcasting or by one element. This includes all IBB created forms; Standard forms, prescribed by a Federal agency and approved by the General Services Administration (GSA) for mandatory use throughout the Federal Government; and Optional forms, developed for use by two or more agencies and approved by GSA for non-mandatory use.

331.3 Policy - All IBB forms designed and/or used by the IBB in the conduct of Government business will be centrally designed, controlled and maintained in a standardized format by the International Broadcasting Bureau's, Analysis and Administration Division, to:

- a) promote consistent quality, economy, and efficiency; and
- b) ensure that forms are designed in a standardized format to simplify preparation, eliminate duplication, and comply with GSA forms design standards.

331.4 Authorities -

- a) Federal Records Act, 44 U.S. Chapter 31, Records Management by Federal Agencies. This statute contains the legal authority for records management in the Federal Government. It provides GSA with oversight responsibility concerning the creation, maintenance, and use of records in Federal agencies. Forms management is one area of records management.
- b) Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA), P.L. 105-277 requires that, when practicable, Federal agencies use electronic forms, electronic filing, and electronic signatures to conduct official business with the public.
- c) Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a. This Act safeguards individuals against an invasion of personal privacy. It requires agencies to establish procedures for identifying and preventing the disclosure of personal information that it maintains to unauthorized individuals or organizations. The Act also requires that forms used to collect information from individuals contain a Privacy Act statement that cites the authority for collecting the information, the purposes for requesting it, and the penalties for not providing the information.
- d) Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) of 1966, 5 U.S.C. 552. This Act establishes policy and guidelines concerning public access to Federal records. Agencies are required to identify restricted information, including information contained on forms, under the provisions of the Act.
- e) Federal Management Regulation, Chapter 102, Part 102-194, Standard and Optional Forms Management Program. This regulation describes GSA's Standard and Optional Forms Management Program and provides a model for Federal Agencies to follow in the management of their Forms Control Program.

f) Code of Federal Regulations, Title 41, Chapter 101, Part 101-26, Section 101-26.302, Standard and Optional Forms. This regulation describes the GSA procedures for the procurement of Standard and Optional forms.

332 DEFINITIONS

A form is a fixed arrangement of captioned spaces designed for entering and extracting prescribed information, used in reporting, processing, transmitting, or recording data concerning the operations. All forms that are in continuous use or will become a permanent record, whether Broadcast wide or one element's use, will be given a number in the appropriate series.

A paper form is a preprinted document with fixed information and blank spaces for entering information.

An electronic form is an arrangement of fixed data items, created on a computer that can be completed, saved, transmitted/routed, signed electronically, and/or printed at the user site.

333 RELATED PROCEDURES

The office having functional control for the use of a form is responsible for preparing and updating administrative regulations covering its use. Requisitions processed through the Office of Contracts must be completed using only Prism software NOT Adobe .pdf software.

334 ACCESS AND OPERATION OF .PDF FORMS IN SHAREPOINT

a) .PDF Adobe forms are accessed from the <http://inside.bbg.gov> Home Page by clicking on the "Electronic Forms" link.

b) To locate a particular form, click on one of the major form categories, IBB,SF, OF, GSA, etc., scan through the forms in numeric order, or enter in a key word in the search function located at the top right side of the page. Each form is listed by number, title, and revision date. For faster access to the forms when using the search function, type in the form number or a portion of the title in the box provided, and click on the magnifying glass graphic. If there are multiple matches, they will all be listed.

c) A completed IBB form may be saved to your "H:\Forms" directory for easy retrieval, or it may be saved into another personal directory of your choosing.

d) The electronic Adobe .pdf forms are also available on the FTP Server to Agency elements/organizations without access to the BBG Home Page using the following information:

Hostname: upload.voa.gov
Username: ibbforms
Password: dwlndLe

For any Optional, Standard (OF/SF) or other forms not found on the IBB Home Page or FTP Server, please visit the GSA Forms. The GSA website is best viewed in Microsoft Internet Explorer.

335 FORMS, DESIGN, REVISION, AND APPROVAL

335.1 New Forms Design - The Analysis and Administration Division, will develop new forms in the Agency approved software, Adobe .pdf. The Analysis and Administration Division should be consulted early in the draft stage to avoid duplication. All IBB created forms will bear the IBB approved eagle logo, IBB prefix followed by a unique four-digit number, appropriate BAM citation, and edition date for control purposes to indicate that the forms have been cleared and approved. A new form should be letter-size, except under unusual circumstances, and will not be approved if there is an existing form that will serve the same purpose.

335.2 Previously Issued Forms - The office of origin/primary user is the only office authorized to modify existing forms. To request a revision, the office of origin must submit a copy of the current form along with the revision instructions to the Analysis and Administration Division.

335.3 Approval - No form is to be printed, entered into Adobe or automated using alternate software without obtaining prior clearance from the Analysis and Administration Division. Requests to revise a form or develop a new form must be approved by the originating office head prior to submission to the Analysis and Administration Division.

336 REQUESTS FOR AUTOMATION/REPRODUCTION

Use of electronic forms is encouraged; however, organizations requiring blank paper forms may print out the form in Adobe and make the necessary copies. If the form is unavailable in Adobe and a hardcopy is needed, a blank copy may be acquired by contacting the The Analysis and Administration Division. If more than 100 copies are needed, the office may request copies of the form by submitting a Printing and Reproduction Services Requisition (IBB-300) The Analysis and Administration Division, Room 1657, Cohen Building.

Requests to place a form into Adobe or for reproduction of blank forms must include a final version of the form on white bond paper. An attached memorandum should state the proposed use of, and justification for, the form; estimated annual usage; required clearances; the BAM citation; and if the form is to be used by more than one organizational element. The Analysis and Administration Division will assign the form number and date. In lieu of hardcopy forms, all forms will be automated and entered into Adobe as practicable in keeping with the Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA).

THE APPROPRIATION CHARGEABLE AND FUNDS AVAILABLE BLOCKS ON THE SERVICES REQUISITION, IBB-300 FORM, MUST BE COMPLETED BY THE REQUESTING ELEMENT.

337 UNAUTHORIZED FORMS

Unauthorized forms are known to be duplicative, inefficient, may not gather all the information needed, or may gather irrelevant information. Automated unauthorized forms can also impact the agency's database management system by collecting data in a different format or by preventing access to other users who could share the data. Unauthorized forms are not recognized as official IBB forms as they exist outside of the IBB control system.

491 GIFTS AND DECORATIONS FROM FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS

Section 9 of Article I of the U.S. Constitution prohibits the acceptance of gifts from foreign governments by U. S. employees except as Congress may authorize. Congress has regulated the acceptance and retention of gifts and decorations from foreign governments by U.S. Government employees under the Foreign Gifts and Decorations Act (1976). Implementing instructions are set forth in 3 FAM 621.

Generally, an employee is prohibited from accepting a gift or decoration of more than minimal value from a foreign government or international organization. Minimal value means retail value in the United States at the time of acceptance of *$200* or less, except that at 3-year intervals "minimal value" is to be redefined in regulations prescribed by the Administrator of General Services, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to reflect changes in the consumer price index for the immediately preceding 3-year period (22 C.F.R. Part 3.3(e)).

Gifts of more than minimal value must be deposited with the Property Management Staff within 60 days of acceptance. Violation of the Act may result in a civil penalty of the retail value of a gift improperly solicited or received, plus $5,000.

Questions regarding the acceptance of gifts or decorations from foreign governments should be directed to the Office of the General Counsel (GC). All officers and employees are reminded that the public propriety of their acceptance of any gift is as important as their legal right to do so.

For instructions on reporting payments from non-Federal sources for travel, subsistence, and related expenses, see MOA VII 359.

495 EMPLOYEE LOCATOR SYSTEM

495 SCOPE

495.1 This section of the BAM addresses locator profiles for domestic and overseas employees in the Broadcasting Board of Governors. Contractors are not included.

496 AUTHORITIES

496.1 The Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, (Public Law 93-579, codified in 5 U.S.C. 552a) regulates the collection, maintenance, use, and dissemination of personal information about U.S. citizens or aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

496.2 The Privacy Act covers information contained in a “system of records” from which information is retrieved by using the name of an individual or some other personal identifier for the individual.

496.3 The Privacy Act of 1974 further requires Federal agencies maintaining systems of records to protect records from unauthorized disclosure by establishing appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards. Federal agencies may provide office telephone numbers or employment verification information.

497 DEFINITIONS

497.1 The BBG locator profile system contains information about each Agency employee and is considered a system of records as defined by the Privacy Act. Each locator profile includes specific employee information, office information, residential information, and additional information particular to that employee.

498 RESPONSIBILITIES

498.1 The Agency’s Office of Human Resources provides the initial locator profile for each employee.

498.2 Employees are responsible for reviewing, maintaining, and editing their profile information online by accessing the online Agency Phone Directory system as follows:

Using the Internet Explorer web browser, employees should navigate to URL: <http://inside.bbg.gov> and click on the Phone Directory link. On the left hand side of the page, employees should select “Update Profile” and then enter their login ID and password. The fields that must be completed will be annotated with a red asterisk. Employees may allow or disallow public disclosure of their home address by selecting “Yes” or “No” from the drop down menu. Once the update is completed, employees should click on the “Update” button and sign out.

498.2a When employees view or change any office, personal, or emergency contact information, the locator system will automatically generate an email message indicating that the employee’s private information has been reviewed or changed. If an employee receives an email message stating that changes have been made and the employee did not make these changes, then the employee should forward this information by email message to locator@ibb.gov for investigation.

498.3 The Personnel Locator Coordinator, located in the Agency’s Office of Engineering and Technical Services, is responsible for:

- (a) Answering telephone inquiries from the public about the location and telephone numbers of Agency employees and assuring that no unauthorized information is given. Assisting overseas BBG employees with updates to their locator profiles.
- (b) Assisting overseas BBG employees with updates to their locator profiles.
- (c) Assuring that locator information is protected from unauthorized disclosure as specified in the Privacy Act of 1974.

499 USES OF LOCATOR PROFILES

499.1 Agency locator profiles provide: (1) a ready means to locate an employee at work or home, or a relative, if necessary, in an emergency; (2) a current name and address file for payroll purposes; (3) a current name and address for Thrift Savings Plans; and (4) employee information for the alphabetical section of the Agency telephone directory.

499.2 External locator information--The District of Columbia, Northern Virginia, and Suburban Maryland telephone directories list the telephone number of the BBG as (202-260-4500). This number is the main number coming into the Agency's voice mail and Personnel locator systems. The locator provides callers with the telephone numbers of individuals with whom they wish to contact or refers the callers to the appropriate organization. This number will remain in place until the local telephone company, Verizon, schedules updates for its telephone directories in the Washington metropolitan area. At that time, the Agency's locator number for the general public will change to 202-203-4000.

499.3 Agency employees can access the BBG locator system by dialing 9-203-4000.

497.1 Background - Much of the very life blood of Broadcasting is the protected materials used by every media under gratis permissions and nominal fee licenses. Disregard of such rights is illegal. Additionally, the U.S. leadership position in the negotiation of new treaty concepts for the Berne Union and the Universal Copyright Convention should be supported by our example, rather than undercut by violation.. Exhibit 490F contains a complete summary of the present state of the laws as interpreted by the courts. The 1909 statute is silent on the subject of Fair Use (see 497.4a below), which is a judicially developed concept.

497.2 Definition - The term "copyright" means the legal right to control copying of intellectual and cultural materials in which there is a proprietary interest. It is just as illegal to reproduce a single copy as it is multiple copies.

497.3 Common Areas of Copyright Violation -

- a. Periodicals and Books - The copying of whole articles and chapters from periodicals and books is now the most common form of copyright violation, and it is no less wrong when performed in the interests of scholarship or serious research. Periodicals and newspapers need carry but a single copyright notice, so that absence of notice on individual articles is not significant.
- b. Sound Recordings - The copying of sound recordings present the same problems as the unauthorized copying of printed material. The retail purchase of a record or tape does not give the purchaser the right to copy it.

497.4 Exceptions -

- a. Fair Use - A very limited exception in the field has developed as so-called "Fair Use." This practice usually involves limited quoting in the context of comment and criticism, not total copying. Where there is insufficient time for securing permission from a publisher to make copies, under Fair Use, limited, controlled copying may be permissible if solely for internal use on a temporary basis; for example, the making of multiple copies of an article for use in a seminar, numbering and signing for each copy, then returning and destroying them. Fair Use is usually demonstrated when that use creates a broader interest in the protected materials and thus improves the market for its author. The Fair Use doctrine is not applicable if the copying will prevent a single sale of the author's product.
- b. Tables of Contents - Another permissible technique is the copying and distributing of tables of contents as a means of encouraging the reading of the article listed.
- c. Other -Broadcasting is expressly given the right to copy some products, such as re-print rights in printed materials and reproduction rights in motion pictures but these grants to us are always precisely circumscribed, and it should never be assumed that our authority to copy is unlimited. Whenever there is question as to what rights Broadcasting holds or what copying is permissible, make advance inquiry to the Office of the General Counsel. Special rights may be obtainable on request.

Title: FAIR Act Challenges and Appeals

Effective Date: 08/20/2013

Originating Office: IBB Administrative and Secretariat Operations, x4595

---

(a) PURPOSE: This policy describes procedures for the Broadcasting Board of Governors for reviewing and deciding challenges and appeals under the Federal Activities Inventory Reform (FAIR) Act of 1998.

(b) AUTHORITY & SCOPE:

(1) Authority:

(i) The Federal Activities Inventory Reform \(FAIR\) Act of 1998, Pub. L. 105-270, as codified at 31 U.S.C. § 501 Note; and

(ii) Office of Management and Budget \(OMB\) Circular A-76, revised 05/29/2003.

(2) Scope: This policy applies to challenges and appeals to the FAIR Act inventory for the Broadcasting Board of Governors which oversees two federal broadcast entities - the Voice of America and the Office of Cuba Broadcasting - through an umbrella organization called the International Broadcasting Bureau (IBB), hereinafter collectively referred to as “the Agency”.

(c) POLICY: Under Section 3 of the FAIR Act, the Agency’s decision to include or exclude a particular activity from its inventory of activities that are not Inherently Governmental Functions, or the Agency’s application of the OMB’s commercial activity reason codes, is subject to challenge and, then, possible appeal by an “Interested Party” as defined in paragraph (e)(2) below.

(d) PROCEDURES AND PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

(1) Filing a Challenge by an Interested Party

(i) Challenges must be made by an Interested Party and are limited to: the re-classification of activities as inherently governmental or commercial; or the application of commercial reason codes. In addition, challenges must be in writing and:

(A) Identify the activity being challenged as specifically as possible so that the Agency office can identify it;

(B) Specify the location of each activity being challenged and the relevant Agency office;

(C) Include a statement that the activity being challenged should be re-classified as Inherently Governmental or as commercial, and/or that an associated commercial activity reason code should be changed;

(D) Include the Interested Party's reasons for its assertion that the activity being challenged should be re-classified, and/or that an associated commercial reason code should be changed; and

(E) Provide any supporting information or documentation the Interested Party wishes the Agency to consider in support of its challenge, including but not limited to precedent set by other federal agencies that have contracted for a particular activity.

(ii) All items in (d)(1)(i)(A)-(F) are required for each activity or reason code that is being challenged.

(iii) An Interested Party must submit its challenge to the Agency within 30 working days after the date that the OMB publishes a notice in the Federal Register stating that the Agency's FAIR Act inventory is publicly available. If OMB fails to publish the required notice within 45 days after the Agency submits its FAIR Act inventory to OMB for review, and the Agency is directed by OMB guidance to publish its FAIR Act Inventory on the Agency's public website, an Interested Party should file its challenge within 30 working days after the Agency makes its FAIR Act inventory available to the public on its website. The Agency is not required to consider any challenges to inventories that are untimely filed, including challenges to inventories from previous fiscal years.

(iv) All challenges shall be sent by United States mail, express delivery or similar service to:

IBB Senior Policy Advisor
Broadcasting Board of Governors
Washington, DC 20237

(2) The Agency's Decision on Challenges: Within 28 working days after receiving a challenge, the IBB Senior Policy Advisor shall decide the challenge and transmit to the Interested Party a written notification of the Agency's decision. The written notification must include the Agency's rationale for its decision. If the Agency's decision is adverse to the Interested Party's challenge, the written notification must explain the Interested Party's right to file an appeal.

(3) Filing an Appeal:

(i) An Interested Party may appeal an adverse decision to a challenge. The Agency is not required to consider on appeal new reasons why an activity should be re-classified, or a commercial reason code should be changed, when the Interested Party did not include those reasons in its original challenge.

(ii) Appeals must be in writing and shall include:

(A) All reasons for the Interested Party's assertion that the Agency should have decided the challenge in the Interested Party's favor;

(B) Any supporting documentation that the Interested Party wishes the Agency to consider in support of its appeal; and

(C) A copy of the challenge document and the Agency's decision.

(iii) Appeals shall be sent by United States mail, express delivery or similar service to:

The FAIR Act Appeals Committee shall include a representative designated by the Directors of the Office of Human Resources and the Office of Contracts. In addition, the FAIR Act Appeals Committee will include one representative designated by each of the Directors of VOA, OCB, or IBB when positions within these Agency elements are the subject of an appeal. The Office of General Counsel shall advise the FAIR Act Appeals Committee, as necessary, on applicable laws and regulations.

- provides examples and helpful information for preparing various types of correspondence; and
- provides ready reference material.

The first section of the Handbook is organized in "frames" consisting of two pages each. On one page is the example, and the facing page contains helpful information for its correct preparation. Included in the "information for preparation" pages are references to the more detailed material contained in the second section of this Handbook, the Appendices.

INFORMATION ON PREPARATION OF ACTION MEMO

INFORMATION ON PREPARATION OF BRIEFING MEMO

USE:

- For all office calls on the Director, even "courtesy calls."
- As covering memo for transmitting talking points and background information for events at which the Director will participate.

PREPARATION OF MEMO:

- Typed on Briefing Memo form. If it is necessary to extend the memorandum to more than one page, type the second page (and any following pages) on plain white bond paper.

- Route memo from an individual (by name) to the Director (by title).

-- Director should receive only one Briefing Memo for a meeting. The drafting office should assure that all subjects to be discussed with a particular visitor are included in the Briefing Memo. This will require coordination with other elements to prepare a single Briefing Memo.

-- Only an original is needed (i.e., no copies).

-- For more details/explanations see Appendix B.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

-- Provide as much detail as the subject matter of the meeting warrants. This section should include only information directly relevant to the conversation expected. When appropriate, include information on the Director's last contact with the visitor.

ISSUES AND TALKING POINTS:

-- If a Briefing Memo contains talking points, keep this section of the memo as brief as possible. Use "bullets" to highlight important issues. The substance of the points should be developed in the background section of the Briefing Memo.

-- Use subheads for each issue treated e.g. transmitting station, OPM SES ceiling, etc. When talking points are for use only if the caller raises the issue, this fact should be noted parenthetically. Note subjects to be avoided.

CLEARANCES:

-- Drafting and clearance information must appear in the lower left corner of all Briefing Memos. Clear with appropriate elements before delivery to the Secretariat.

-- Briefing memos are due in the Secretariat at least 72 hours in advance of appointment or event.

APPENDIX A

NOTES FOR DRAFTING OFFICERS

-- Use short, concise sentences and paragraphs.

-- Use a straightforward, informal style. Avoid stilted, convoluted or bureaucratic language. Use the first person judiciously throughout. Use the active voice instead of the passive. Superlatives need careful handling but are acceptable when the circumstances warrant them. Keep the text as short as possible, while still being fully responsive. Do not use contractions.

-- Be sure to respond to each point/issue raised in the incoming correspondence.

-- When letters involve interests of other offices or elements, the drafting office is responsible for consulting such offices. In no case should disagreements between elements delay letters from arriving in the Secretariat Staff on or before the deadline date. If absolutely necessary, describe different viewpoints in a covering memorandum and attach alternative letters. In most cases a preferred solution should be developed for consideration by the Director.

-- Routine letters are assigned five working days for a reply. All clearances and the signature must be obtained and the letter returned to the Secretariat within this time frame. If, for good reason, the deadline cannot be met, call the Secretariat to determine if an extension can be granted or an interim response would be appropriate. Extensions are not granted on or after the due date.

-- Element heads are responsible for the substance, quality and classification of all material prepared in their elements.

-- When drafting a circular to heads of elements or to employees for the signature of the Director, the drafting officer should specify the distribution recommended.

-- Show clearly who drafted and cleared both memos and letters, and what offices are to receive cc's, on all copies except the original letter.

-- Actions requiring immediate attention should be handcarried for clearances and delivery to the Secretariat for processing.

-- Action that has been assigned by Secretariat cannot be transferred without Secretariat approval.

-- When the Director is not in Washington, a reply to a letter addressed to him/her should begin with language such as: "The Director has asked me to reply to (thank you for) your letter of (date) requesting (or commenting)..." or "In the absence of the Director, I am responding to ..."

-- Letters in response to White House referrals should reference the President or Mrs. _____. Use "Your recent letter to President _____ or the First Lady."

-- When responding to White House referrals, please provide a 9-1/2 X 12-inch manila envelope (the White House has requested that nothing be folded) addressed to Sue J. Smith, and a copy of the signed original without drafting information.

APPENDIX B

GUIDELINES FOR PREPARATION OF IN-HOUSE MEMOS

Three of these memorandums (ACTION MEMO, BRIEFING MEMO, and INFO MEMO) MUST be prepared on the appropriate memo form. (For preparation of a Memorandum of Conversation (MEMCON) - see pages 8 and 9).

--If it is necessary to extend the memo to more than one page, type the second page (and any following pages) on plain white bond paper.

MEMORANDUM FOR: The Director

MEMORANDUM FOR: The BBG Chief of Staff

DO NOT use names, i.e., MEMORANDUM FOR: Marc Nathanson - or MEMORANDUM FOR: Joe Jones

--Memorandums being sent to the Director from element offices should be sent through their respective Director or office head. Example:

MEMORANDUM FOR: The Director

--Lengthy details can be treated in attachments.

--Clearances should be shown on the original along with the office symbol, name, initials of typist, date, and telephone number of the drafting officer. See APPENDIX F for sample.

APPENDIX C

FORMAT FOR MEMOS

Avoid division of words at the end of the line, if possible. Never divide the last word in a paragraph or on a page which has continuing pages.

-- Clearance. Make sure that all clearing officers initial the official record copy. If telephone clearances are obtained to save time, the drafting officer must initial the record copy to indicate these clearances. If a letter has been cleared in draft and remains substantively unchanged, the drafting officer should initial for the clearing officers.

-- Envelope. Use appropriate size. Provide typed envelopes for all addressees outside Broadcasting. See APPENDIX G.

NOTES FOR SECRETARIES

-- Outgoing letters and memorandums prepared for the Director's signature should be prepared on letterhead.

-- DO NOT type drafting and clearing information on the bottom of the original of an outgoing letter or memorandum. Type this information on the file copies ONLY.

-- Action that has been assigned by the Secretariat Staff cannot be transferred without Secretariat approval.

-- If a reply must be delayed (for good reason) beyond the due date, call the Secretariat before the due date to determine if the deadline can be extended and, if so, whether or not an interim reply is necessary.

-- Routine correspondence requires action within five working days (this time frame includes obtaining any clearances required before submission of the reply to the Secretariat).

-- Correspondence MUST be received in the Secretariat on or before the due date.

ASSEMBLY OF SIGNATURE MATERIAL

-- On the outside of the manila letter folder, place the Action Memo or any special notations or explanations about the urgency of the letter or the fact that the drafting officer will deliver the letter after it is signed.

NOTES FOR PREPARING CONGRESSIONAL CORRESPONDENCE

Incoming Congressional Correspondence

All incoming Congressional mail will be delivered to the Secretariat Staff regardless of where it is addressed.

Correspondence Handling Procedures

(a) Secretariat opens and assigns action on Congressional correspondence addressed to the Director.

(b) Congressional mail addressed to an employee of Broadcasting will be forwarded UNOPENED to the addressee. THE SECRETARIAT DOES NOT OPEN Congressional mail addressed outside the Director's office. The Secretariat will stamp the envelope with the following legend:

HANDLING OF CONGRESSIONAL MAIL

If this communication deals with official business, regulations provide that the addressee notify the Secretariat by phone and send a copy immediately to the secretariat. If the communication is personal the recipient is requested to notify the Secretariat of this fact by phone.

This procedure was established to assure that the Director's office and the Office of Congressional and External Affairs be kept fully informed of official business transpiring between employees of Broadcasting and Members of Congress and their staffs.

Routing and Control of Congressional Correspondence

The Secretariat Staff will decide who should sign official replies to Members of Congress and so indicate on the Action Request . Congressional mail will be referred to the action office by the Secretariat.

Coordination of Response within Broadcasting

Congressional or OMB correspondence requesting Broadcasting's views on legislation should be sent to the Secretariat for forwarding to the action office with the appropriate cover sheet. All Congressional correspondence must be cleared in draft by Congressional and External Affairs. Any procedural questions regarding Congressional correspondence should be directed to the Secretariat.

When Congressional correspondence involves more than one element, it is important that the action officer coordinate the response with the other elements. Clearances of the various elements involved in the response should be clearly indicated with initials on the official file copy. Please do not submit separate sheets of white bond paper with the drafting and clearance information noted. This information should be typed at the end of the signature page or the end of the last page of the document. This information must be typed on all file copies.

Deadlines

There are two distinct deadlines for responding to Congressional mail:

(a) Letters originating from Members of Congress must be answered within three working days.

(b) Constituent or other letters which are referred by a Member of Congress must be answered within five working days.

The action officer is the key to meeting these three-day and five-day deadlines. Congressional replies will meet the deadlines only if the drafting officer gives the incoming letter immediate attention the day it reaches his or her desk.

EXTENSION OF DEADLINES

If a substantive response requires more than three or five working days to prepare, the action officer must contact the Secretariat upon receipt of the Action Request. Extensions requested on or after the due date will not be granted.

Transfers of Action

Transfers of action within Broadcasting, or to another Federal agency, can seriously delay the response. As with other correspondence, the Secretariat must be consulted immediately if transfer of action seems appropriate.

When action must be transferred to another agency, an explanatory letter must be sent to the Member who wrote initially. Use the expression "I have referred" in this letter to show that we have already taken the necessary action. If the letter concerning more than one subject is assigned to an office for action, it should not be passed on to another office for drafting parts of the reply. The original drafting office is responsible for preparing a full reply after obtaining the necessary information from the other offices. The final text must be cleared with all those offices having input. All other clearances should be obtained before the letter is submitted to the Office of Congressional and External Affairs.

I. Components of Congressional Letters

(A) Salutation - Formal salutations should be used. If in doubt, check with the Secretariat.

(B) Opening - Do not refer in detail to the subject of the Member's letter. Refer to the request by date (omit the year, unless referring to a previous year) and general subject only. If a reply is later than two weeks from the date of the incoming, do not refer to date of incoming (use "your recent letter"). Refer to a Member's transmittal slip as an "inquiry" or "communication."

When more than one and up to three Members of Congress inquire on behalf of the same constituent, add in the opening paragraph of each reply:

"Senator(s) or Congressman/Congresswoman (Congressmen/Congresswomen) Smith (and Jones) has (have) also inquired on behalf of Mr. Doe and I am sending him/her (them) similar replies."

When more than three members inquire, add: "Several other Members of Congress have also ....."

1. When Constituent's letter is enclosed Refer to date of Congressional letter or transmittal slip in the first paragraph of the reply. If undated, use "recent inquiry." Do not refer to the date of the constituent's letter.

"Thank you for giving us the opportunity to comment on Mr. John Doe's views about ."

"I have received your inquiry dated            concerning Ms. Sally Smith's interest in            ."

"I am pleased to reply to your communication of            requesting on behalf of Mr.            information concerning            ."

2. Without Constituent's letter enclosed - "Thank you for your letter (communication) of            requesting (concerning (commenting on)            ."

"I am pleased to reply to your recent inquiry in which you express concern about            " or "and appreciate your bringing to my attention your concern over            ."

3. Criticisms and Commendations
Do not open with "thank you" when the Member is complaining about or critical of any policy, program or employee.

In such cases it is more appropriate to use:

"I am pleased to reply to your letter dated            in which you express concern" or "and appreciate your bringing to my attention your concern over            ."

In the case of a letter of commendation, use:

"We appreciate receiving your letter of            concerning            ," or "Thank you for            ."

4. Letters referred by the White House - When a Congressman or Congresswoman's letter to the White House is forwarded to Broadcasting for a direct reply, use: "We have been asked to reply to your letter of (date) to the White House concerning ."

5. Letters from Staff Members - If a letter is received and signed by a staff member, the reply should be addressed to the Member of Congress. The envelope should be addressed to the attention of the staff member. If a transmittal slip from a Congressman/Congresswoman's office with an "attention" name is received for reply, prepare the response to the Congressman/Congresswoman and add to the envelope only "Attention: (name)." Where the incoming correspondence contains a specific reference number or other code, this should be used in the reply. When asked for in the incoming request, or when it is known that a particular person in the Congressman/Congresswoman's office is interested in the reply, has called about it, or has signed the request for the Congressman/Congresswoman, the envelope should be marked for that person's attention.

(C) Body

1. Clarity - The drafter should keep in mind that the reply often will be forwarded to the constituent, may appear in the press, or may be printed in the Congressional Record. Use language appropriate to the presumed age or intelligence level of a requesting constituent. For example, language intended for a university professor should differ from that directed to a grammar school pupil.

Bear in mind that the constituent may not have extensive knowledge of the subject matter, so our reply should be designed to add to his or her understanding of the problem. In every response, be as forthcoming as possible in explaining policy or programs, unless this has already been done in previous correspondence to or about the same constituent and repetition would be redundant.

2. Responsiveness - Be sure that your answer is fully responsive. Do not hedge or deliberately misinterpret or rephrase a question in a way which makes it easier to answer.

3. Tone - By its tone your letter should carry an implicit recognition of the position and role of a Senator or Representative in the U.S. Government. Be sure that it is courteous and properly respectful.

4. Style - Avoid the passive verb form and long, complicated sentences. Do not use a group of words when one will do. Make your replies clear and readable. Do not use stereotype phrases. Avoid bureaucratic language, especially "in-house" jargon, and over-technical terms. Do not assume that a constituent has knowledge of or access to copies of laws; when referring to sections of a law or act, include an explanation of the section mentioned.

Do not say: "As explained in the enclosed brochure ." Instead, use: "I am enclosing a brochure that explains .", etc.

5. Length - A short letter, if it is fully responsive, is preferable to a long one.

(D) Closing (suggested form)

It is important that all letters have a courteous closing consistent with the nature of the reply. Do not say we are glad to have been of help if we have not been.

If we only give information in our reply, use: "I hope this information will be helpful to you in replying to your constituent (or Mr./Ms.       )."

If we have been of help in assisting the Member or his/her constituent in a problem, use: "Please do not hesitate to call on us again whenever we can be of assistance."

Or, in replying to the Chairman (Chairwoman/Chairperson) of a Committee or Subcommittee, use: "I hope we have been of assistance to you and the members of the Committee (or Subcommittee)."

When action or a decision is negative, use a closing similar to: "I regret that our reply cannot be (more) favorable (encouraging)," or, "It is unfortunate that in this instance we could not be helpful."

NOTE: Specific wording is only suggested, and should be varied to suit the content of our reply. If some other closing is appropriate, do not hesitate to use it, but be sure it is friendly, graceful and conveys to both the Member and the constituent the impression that we took the request seriously and really made an effort. There may be occasions when no such language is appropriate--then be sure the closing is not curt.

II. Transfers of Action

Transfers of action within Broadcasting, or to another Federal agency, can seriously delay the response. As with other correspondence, the Secretariat must be consulted if transfer of action seems appropriate.

INTRODUCTION

501 SCOPE - This Handbook describes basic objectives and responsibilities for administration of the Records Management Program. The regulations contained in Part 500 prescribe policies, standards, procedures, and techniques for the economical and efficient management of BBG records.

502 AUTHORITIES

502.1 The Federal Records Act (44 U.S.C 3102) requires the head of each Federal agency (a) to make and preserve records containing adequate and proper documentation of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, and essential transactions of the agency and designed to furnish the information necessary to protect the legal and financial rights of the Government and of persons directly affected by the agency's activities; and (b) to establish and maintain an active and continuing program for the economical and efficient management of records.

502.2 The Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA, Pub. L. 105-277) requires that, when practicable, Federal agencies use electronic forms, electronic filing, and electronic signatures to conduct official business with the public.

502.3 Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 USC 3501 (et seq.)) requires agencies to minimize the paperwork burden for individuals, small businesses, educational and nonprofit institutions, Federal contractors, State, local and tribal governments, and other persons resulting from the collection of information by or for the Federal Government.

502.4 The Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) as amended (5 U.S.C. 552) requires Federal agencies to make the fullest possible disclosure of their records available to the public.

502.5 The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a) requires protection of individuals from unwarranted invasion of privacy by: prohibiting the collection of unnecessary personal information and disclosure of information collected except in prescribed manner; requiring that Federal agencies publish lists of their systems of records containing information on individuals; providing for access by individuals to records pertaining to themselves and; providing means for individuals to request amendment of records pertaining to themselves.

503 DEFINITION AND IMPORTANCE OF RECORDS

503.1 Definition - As defined in the Federal Records Act (44 U.S.C. 3301), the term "records" includes "all books, papers, maps, photographs, machine readable materials, or other documentary materials, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received by an agency of the United States Government under Federal law or in connection with the transaction of public business and preserved or appropriate for preservation by that agency or its legitimate successor as evidence of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the Government or because of the informational value of data contained in them."

503.2 Non-Record Material - Material not usually included within the definition of records, such as unofficial copies of documents that are kept only for convenience or reference, stocks of publications and processed documents, and library or museum material intended solely for reference or exhibition.

503.3 Importance - The proper individual maintenance and management of records is essential to the effective operation of Broadcasting's programs. Records not only have administrative value, they contain legal evidence that must be preserved to protect the Government; and they also embody information necessary to protect legal, property, or other rights of private citizens and government employees, as well as historical or research value for administrators, scholars, or specialists in various fields.

504.3 Employees - Employees are responsible for the orderly maintenance of the contents of each file cabinet and safe assigned to them. Records must be reviewed periodically to keep non-record material from accumulating and to retire eligible inactive material. Employees are also responsible for maintaining the files in accordance with the files classification system.

504.4 Ownership of Records - No Government employees, regardless of rank or position, can acquire private proprietary interest in records that they create or that are in their custody, or to which they have access by virtue of their position. All records are the property of the Government. They must be safeguarded against unauthorized access, loss, fire, theft, or other damage.

18 U.S.C. 2071 provides for a fine of not more than $2,000 or imprisonment for no more than three years, or both, for willful unauthorized concealing, removing, destroying, mutilating, and obliterating or carrying away Government records. Employees are responsible and must account for the records in their custody. ## 506 FILING EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES

506.1 Definition - Filing equipment, in addition to file cabinets and safes, includes special purpose equipment, mechanized files and microfilm or microfiche filing equipment; shelf files and any other cabinets or equipment used to house records.

506.2 Controls - Controls over issuance of filing equipment and supplies, essential to assure maximum utilization of space and equipment are exercised by the Records Management Officer, who must approve requests for filing equipment and for non-standard equipment or supplies.

  - (3) Ensure full utilization of current file equipment.
  - (4) Remove non-record material from file cabinets.
  - (5) Redistribute equipment within the unit to provide the additional space, if possible.

506.3 Non-Standard Equipment and Supplies - Requests for non-standard filing equipment or supplies must be approved by the Agency's Records Management Officer. Such equipment and supplies are expensive and their use is approved only when it can be shown that the additional cost is justified by significantly increased program efficiency, space saving, or reduction in personnel required.

Managing Agency Records

511 CREATING RECORDS - The Federal Records Act of 1950 requires Federal agencies "to establish and maintain an active, continuing program for the economic and efficient management of its records."

511.1 Controls over the creation of records are essential to ensure that important policies, decisions, and operations are adequately recorded, routine paperwork is kept to a minimum, and the accumulation of unnecessary files prevented.

Each element will develop the standards and techniques for achieving economy and efficiency in creating records, in accordance with general criteria set forth in regulations and handbooks issued by the General Services Administration. Use the following methods to control the creation of records:

A. Survey Office Procedures - Subject all existing and proposed office procedures to continuing examination to prevent the creation of unnecessary records.

B. Eliminate Duplicate Files - Take positive action to eliminate duplicate files not required for current operating purposes. Use centralized files, where feasible, to control the growth of individual office working files.

C. Limit Number of Copies - Limit the number of documents reproduced and distributed to those required on a strict need-to-know basis. Exercise control over office copying equipment to limit the reproduction of copies. File information copies in temporary files to be retained for short periods of time only.

511.2 Documentation:

A. Adequacy - Document the activities of officials to the extent necessary to:

1. Facilitate decision making and policies by them and their successors;
2. Fulfill the requirements of Federal statutes;
3. Allow a proper scrutiny of operations by Congress and other duly authorized agencies of the Government;

4. Protect the rights of the Government and of persons affected by the actions of agency; and

5. Provide material for research.

B. Types - Make all essential information a part of Broadcasting's documentation. In addition to communications forms, such as telegrams, letters, and memorandums, the following types of transactions and records may constitute official documentation.

1. Oral Transactions - Significant oral decisions, commitments, and discussions made in person, by telephone, in staff meetings, or in conferences are a matter of record. Record this information in the form of a memorandum of conversation, or memorandum to the file.

2. Committee and Conference Documentation - Document decisions and commitments reached through participation in, interdepartmental, and international committees and in U.S. Governmental, national, and international conferences and organizations. Include agenda and minutes of each meeting, documents considered or presented for consideration, reports and other documents resulting from the meetings, records created by or for the agency or U.S. Government participation before or during the meeting, and records resulting from the implementation of decisions and commitments.

3. Statements of Mission, Themes, Program Guidance, Briefing Books, and Background Data - These records are a part of Broadcasting's activities. Indicate clearly the meeting or purpose for which each item was prepared. Keep a master copy of each as a part of Broadcasting's records.

4. Regulations, Directives, Delegations, etc. - Document programs, policies and procedures, and organizational changes of Broadcasting in regulations, directives, circulars, delegations of authority, designations, legal opinions, and similar material. Maintain a master set so each is a part of Broadcasting's records.

5. Report and Studies - Reports and studies prepared by Broadcasting, including overseas establishments or at the request of either for its use are a part of the documentation of its activities. Maintain master sets of all such reports and studies as a part of Broadcasting's records.

6. Media Program Records produced or acquired materials for program use, such as films, radio and television scripts, pamphlets, magazines, photographs, exhibits, press stories, and other documentary, graphic, and audiovisual materials are a part of Broadcasting's activities documentation. Keep a master copy of each as a part of Broadcasting's records.

7. Administrative Records - Records concerning personnel management, budget and fiscal operations, space management, procurement and contracting, and administrative management programs documenting Broadcasting's activities in these fields.

8. Electronic Records - Electronic records are increasing every day and adequate documentation including electronic messages is essential.

9. Microfilm Records - There are various forms of miniaturization, such as the microfilm roll, microfiche, aperture cards, etc. Whenever created, all these types of microfilm are records.

10. Drafts and Working Papers - Rough drafts and working papers, such as preliminary notes, do not constitute required documentation unless they form an integral part of the finished document or show changes in policy.

511.3 Record Copies - The maintenance, use, and disposition of record copies are controlled by Federal law and any violation is a criminal act. The record copy is the official or record document so marked or recognized, complete with enclosures or related papers. When a document not generally identified as a record copy is used to support an action or decision, it becomes an integral part of the official record. If there is a question about the identification of the record copy, consult the Records Officer. A general guide to identifying the record copy of most commonly used materials follows:

A. Correspondence - Letters, memorandums, serially numbered and unnumbered communications, such as telegrams, and office memorandums, etc.

1. Created Within Broadcasting - This category includes correspondence between offices (domestic and overseas). Since not all records are merged into a central records system, each organizational element is responsible for maintaining records covering its operations. Each organizational element must maintain its own set of record copies.

The record copy may be the original communication, an official signed or initialed copy, or a reproduced copy designated as the record copy. Some specific examples are:

a. Original incoming, letters, memorandums, telegrams, e-mail, fax messages.

b. Copies of outgoing letters and memorandums.

c. original of outgoing telegrams.

2. Received from outside the agency - The record copy may be the original or a designated record copy.

a. Procedural Issuance, Reports, Studies, etc. - This category includes such items as master files of directives, circulars, staff memorandums, delegations of authority, reports. When created in printed form by Broadcasting, the office of origin is responsible for maintaining the record copy.

b. Media Program Records include many types of materials, such as films, pamphlets, magazines, scripts, etc. Some of these materials are created in Broadcasting, while others are acquired for program use.

The same type of record may be obtained from both of these sources.

(1) Created in Broadcasting - One master set of all materials created in domestic or overseas offices must be retained for record purposes.

The office of origin will designate and retain the record copy.

(2) Acquired From Outside Sources - These materials may be obtained either by direct purchase, contractual service, or donation. The program office will designate and retain the record copy of any material obtained directly by such office through purchase or contract.

511.4 Non Record Material - Non record materials are U.S. Government-owned documentary materials that do not meet the conditions of records status or that are specifically excluded from the statutory definition of records. There are three specific categories of materials excluded from the statutory definition of records. (For disposition of non-record materials, see Section 550.)

a. library and museum material (but only if such material is made or acquired and preserved solely for reference or exhibition purposes), including physical exhibits, artifacts.

b. extra copies of documents (but only if the sole reason such copies are preserved is for convenience of reference.

c. stocks of publications and of processed documents. Catalogs, trade journals, and other publications that are received from other Government agencies, commercial firms, or private institutions and that require no action and are part of a case on which action is taken. Stocks do not include serial or record sets of agency publications and processed documents, including annual reports, brochures, pamphlets, books, handbooks, posters and maps.)

a. Managing Non-record Materials - The following guidelines should be used in managing non-record materials:

a. if a clear determination cannot be made, the materials should be treated as records.

b. non-record materials must be physically segregated from record or, for electronic non-record materials, readily identified and segregable from records.

c. non-record materials should be purged when no longer needed for reference. NARA's approval is not required to destroy such materials.

514.2 Removal of Non-record material:

a. non-record materials, including extra copies of unclassified or formally declassified agency records kept only for convenience of reference, may be removed by departing employees from Government agency custody only with the approval of the head of the agency or the individual(s) authorized to act for the agency on records issues.

b. national security classified information may not be removed from Government custody, except for a removal of custody taken in accordance with the requirements of the National Industrial Security Program established under Executive Order 12829, as amended, or a successor Order.

c. information which is restricted from release under the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a), as amended, or other statutes may not be removed from Government custody except as permitted under those statutes.

d. this section do not apply to use of records and non-record materials in the course of conducting official agency business, including telework and authorized dissemination of information.

512 Electronic Records

ELECTRONIC RECORD KEEPING MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

512.1 PURPOSE - It is expected that an increasing proportion of Broadcasting's official records will be created and maintained with electronic equipment. Section 3102 of title 44, United States Code, requires the head of each Federal Agency to maintain a continuing program for the economical and efficient management of the records of an agency. In accordance with that authority, this chapter:

A. Establishes the Electronic Record keeping Management Program for the BBG.

B. Assigns responsibilities for the administration and implementation of the program.

C. Provides guidance for implementation of the Electronic Record keeping program.

512.2 SCOPE - The provisions in this Chapter are applicable to all organizational elements, both domestic and overseas.

512.3 AUTHORITY:

A. Title 44 U.S.C. 3102, Federal Records Act of 1950.

B. 36 CFR 1220, Records Management.

C. Title 18 U.S.C. 641 and 2071, Crimes and Criminal Procedure.

D. Federal Rules of Evidence (Rule 803 (8)).

E. Electronic Communications Privacy Act (1986), P.L. 99-508.

512.4 DEFINITIONS

A. Records - 44 U.S.C. 3301, "includes all books, papers, maps, photographs, machine-readable materials...(See Section 503, Definition of Records.)

B. Electronic records are records stored in a form that only a computer can process, also called machine-readable records or automated data processing (ADP) records. Examples of media used to store records include magnetic tapes, disks and drums, video files and optical disks.

C. Electronic form applies to all records created and/or stored on electronic or magnetic media.

D. Electronic mail also called email, is the transmission of memos and messages over a network. Electronic mail systems are implemented in mainframe, mini and personal computer LANs. Users can send mail to a single recipient or broadcast it to multiple users on the system. Sophisticated systems can prompt recipients for a reply if they haven't responded within a certain time frame.

With multitasking workstations, mail can be delivered and announced while the user is working in an application. Otherwise, mail is sent to a simulated postal box in the network server or host computer, which must be accessed by the recipient.

E. Electronic recordkeeping is the creation, maintenance and use, and disposition of records created and/or stored by using a computer.

F. File Transfer - Movement of data between devices, without any extraction, as complete files.

G. Information System - is the organized collection, processing, transmission, and dissemination of information in accordance with defined procedures, whether automated or manual. It is sometimes called a record system. Electronic records are generally scheduled by information system, whereas non-electronic records are generally scheduled by series.

H. Life Cycle is the management concept that records pass through three stages: creation, maintenance and use, and disposition.

I. Non-records - (See Section Title 3, Part 500, Section 511.4 Non-record Materials.)

512.5 POLICY

44 U.S.C. 2904, 3101, 3102 and 3105, OMB Circular A-130, Management of Federal Information Resources, prescribes for the management of records and information systems containing records.

512.6 RESPONSIBILITIES

A. The Director, Office of International Broadcasting, is responsible for establishing an agency-wide policy to manage the creation, use and disposition of BBG's records, including electronic records.

B. All primary officials at overseas establishments, the General Counsel, and all office heads are responsible for:

1. Ensuring compliance with the provisions of this Chapter and all other records management practices;
2. Ensuring electronic records and systems under their jurisdiction are covered by an approved records disposition schedule.
3. Ensuring that practices and procedures are implemented to protect records created or acquired in electronic form from loss, removal, theft, or unauthorized access;
4. Ensuring that adequate training is provided for the users of each electronic recordkeeping system in the operation and care of the equipment, software, and media used in the system; and,
5. Coordinating information needs during the design phase of a new system or a change to a current system with the User Services Division and the head of any office that could be affected by the new or modified system.

C. The User Services Division is responsible for:

1. Ensuring that electronic record keeping requirements are addressed during management reviews at critical junctures in the life cycle of major information systems;
2. Ensuring that electronic record keeping requirements are addressed during the review/approval phase of mid and small-sized information systems;
3. Ensuring the participation of a records management specialist in required milestone reviews of information systems, when the integrity and preservation of official records are discussed.

D. ADP Managers and Contractors are responsible for ensuring the adequacy of documentation, following authorized disposition schedules, and complying with established security procedures, to prevent unauthorized disclosure of data contained in existing or planned systems.

E. Program Managers (System Owners) will coordinate electronic records system activities with the Office of Administration in order to:

1. Identify the office of primary responsibility for the records being created;
2. Determine if the data being created is record or non-record material;
3. Determine in what form the record will be maintained for its life cycle; e.g., paper, microform, tape, disk, diskette, etc.;
4. Establish procedures for identifying, cataloging, and labeling records for the life cycle of the record;
5. Establish an appropriate retrieval system;

6. Identify appropriate record series and disposal instruction for the files being created within the system;

7. Ensure that adequate documentation is provided, authorized disposition schedules are followed, and that offices comply with established security procedures.

F. Records Liaison Officers have been appointed to represent their office and to assist the Records Officer in all matters of records management. The responsibilities of Records Liaison Officers include:

1. Ensuring the scheduling of electronic record series;
2. Ensuring the prompt disposal or transfer of electronic records; and,
3. Conducting inspections of electronic record keeping systems to ensure compliance with this Chapter.

G. Users are responsible for complying with operating procedures established by Computing Services and operating the system in such a manner as to protect the records from damage, destruction, or alteration.

512.7 ELECTRONIC RECORD FORMAT - The Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) Publications should be used in electronic records creation, storage, and transmission.

512.8 REQUIREMENTS AND PROCEDURES FOR CREATING RECORDS IN ELECTRONIC FORM

A. Life cycle management prior to initiating any new system development, system owners must consider the full life cycle of the data maintained in the system and take the following steps:

1. Determine if the data is record or non-record material;
2. If the data is record material and can be updated, establish periodic time frames for the establishment of an entirely new file and storage of the old file (monthly, quarterly, or annually) to ensure complete files;
3. Include appropriate disposal authority, instructions, and date for each electronic record file. If no authority is available, a "Request for Records Disposition Authority", (SF 115) is to be submitted to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) through the Records Management Officer;
4. If the records to be maintained in the system contain proprietary information, information about individuals that is retrieved by the individual's name or other identifier such as social security number, include adequate safeguards in the system design to prevent unauthorized access, as spelled out in the Freedom of Information Act, records are subject to the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974.

B. Creation and Use of Data Files

1. For electronic records systems that produce, use, or store data files, disposition instructions for the data shall be incorporated into the system's design.

2. Adequate and up-to-date technical documentation shall be maintained for each electronic records system that produce, uses or stores data files. Elements should follow FIPS PUB 38, "Guidelines for Documentation of Computer Programs and Automated Data Systems,"

- a. A narrative description of the system;
- b. Physical and technical characteristics of the records, including for each field its name, size, starting or relative position, and a description of the form of the data (such as alphabetic, zoned decimal, packed decimal, or numeric), or a data dictionary or the equivalent information associated with a data base management system which includes a description of the relationship between data elements in data bases;
- c. Element responsible for maintaining system, and principal users; and
- d. Any other technical information needed to read or process the records (for example, software and version, and hardware platform).

C. Creation and Use of Text Documents

1. Electronic records systems that maintain the official file copy of text documents on electronic media shall meet the following minimum requirements (NOTE: Most official copies are maintained in paper or microform, so the existence of an electronic copy does not in itself require that all of these requirements be met):

- a. Provide a method for all authorized users of the system to retrieve desired documents, such as an indexing or text search system;
- b. Provide a level of security that ensures the integrity of documents, that is, prevents unauthorized addition, modification, or deletion.
- c. Provide a standard interchange format when necessary to permit the exchange of documents on electronic media between Agency computers using different software/operating systems or the conversion or migration of documents on electronic media from one system to another; and
- d. Provide for the disposition of the documents including, when necessary, the requirements for transferring permanent records to NARA.

e. Before a document is created electronically on electronic records systems that will maintain the official file copy on electronic media, each document shall be identified sufficiently to enable authorized personnel to retrieve, protect, and carry out the disposition of documents in the system. Appropriate identifying information for each document maintained on electronic media may include: office of origin, file code (item number), key words for retrieval, addressee (if any), signatory, author, date, authorized disposition (coded or otherwise), and security classification (if applicable). System owners must ensure that records maintained in such systems can be correlated with related records on paper, microform, or other media.

D. Labeling - To retrieve information created and stored electronically, the user is dependent upon labels, both external and internal. To the extent allowable by the software, the following information should be included:

1. Tape - External labels (or the equivalent automated tape management system) for magnetic tapes used to store permanent or unscheduled electronic records shall provide unique identification for each reel, including the name of the organizational unit responsible for the data, system title, and security classification, if applicable. Additionally, the following information shall be maintained for (but not necessarily attached to) each reel used to store permanent or unscheduled electronic records: file title(s); dates of creation; dates of coverage; the recording density; type of internal labels; volume serial number, if applicable; number of tracks; character code/software dependency; information about block size; and reel sequence number, if the file is part of a multi-reel set. For numeric data files, include record format and logical record length, if applicable; data set name(s) and sequence, if applicable; and number of records for each data set.

2. Diskette (Floppy) - Labels for diskettes should include title, date, software, equipment dependence, and disposition instructions.

3. Pack - Labels for disk packs will consist of the directory of file names; other labeling information (e.g., record series, date of creation, coverage, etc.) will be part of the records (ADP) layout.

E. System Documentation - System documentation is to be maintained for the life cycle of the records in the system. Included are systems specifications file specifications, code books record layouts, user guides, and output specifications. NOTE: records must continue to be retrievable and usable, regardless of any upgrades or replacements of an automated system, until the authorized disposition date of the records.

512.9 ENSURING RECORDS RETENTION

A. The ease of erasing or changing electronically stored records increases the risk of unauthorized disposal of official documentation. The record status of electronically stored drafts or updates should be re-evaluated as changes are made. Substantial updates (i.e., something which changes intent, policy, procedure, or conclusion) to electronic records constitute new records, while minor changes may not. When new records are created through substantial updating, the old record must be retained until authorized for disposition.

B. Some electronic mail systems automatically erase information after the recipient has read it, while others delete the information at specified time intervals. Therefore, personnel should take positive action at the time they receive electronic messages, to retain any records received in this manner in a medium which will satisfactorily store the record until its disposition date. Many electronic mail messages will not contain enough substance to be considered official records.

512.10 ELECTRONIC INDEXING -The complexity of the indexing system is dependent upon the volume of records and the length of time they are to be retained. Electronic indexes must include, at a minimum, the subject, date, user, and identification number; e.g., Item Number (also known as file code).

512.11 STORAGE Tapes, disks, and diskettes should be stored in compliance with FIPS PUBS.

Electronically stored data containing vital records (see 1604, Definitions. MOA Part III, Chapter 500, Section 540) are to be copied and stored off site for the protection of the legal and financial rights of the Government, its employees, and the public.

512.12 Records Transfer and Disposal - When information is converted from paper to electronic form, the nature, usefulness, and accessibility of the information change. Therefore, the disposition of the information when maintained in electronic form may differ from the disposition when maintained in paper form. Electronic records derived from paper records should be separately scheduled. Although paper records may already be scheduled, the retention time should be reviewed for earlier disposition at the time the records are converted to electronic form. Electronic records authorized for disposal, i.e., shipped to the Washington National Records Center (WNRC) or NARA, or destroyed, must comply with the following requirements.

A. Records Authorized for Destruction - Electronic records may be destroyed only in accordance with a records disposition schedule approved by the Archivist of the United States, including General Records Schedule (GRS). See Title 3, Section for disposition of electronic records GRS 20 and GRS 23. GRS 20 and GRS 23 do not cover all electronic records. Electronic records not covered by items in GRS 20 or GRS 23 may not be destroyed unless authorized by a Standard Form 115 that has been approved by the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA). In carrying out the disposition instruction the following steps should be taken:

1. Electronic records scheduled for destruction are disposed of in a manner that ensures protection of any sensitive, proprietary, or national security information.

2. Magnetic recording media previously used for electronic records containing sensitive, proprietary, or national security information are not reused if the previously recorded information can be compromised by reuse in any way. NOTE: Approval from the General Accounting Office (GAO) must be obtained before any records eligible for destruction can be disposed of if Broadcasting is undergoing an audit. Likewise, if records eligible for destruction have not yet been destroyed and are the subject of a Freedom of Information Request, the records must be kept until such request is resolved.

B. Records to be transferred to WNRC or NARA - When NARA has determined that records stored on disks or diskettes are to be maintained for a long period of time, the information they contain must be converted to magnetic tape, 3480 class tape cartridges, paper or microfilm {36 CFR 1228.188}.

1. The following applies to tapes scheduled for transfer to NARA.

a. The tapes will be on one-half inch 7 or 9 track tape reels, written in ASCII or EBCDIC, with all extraneous control characters removed from the data (except records length indicators for variable length records, or marks designating a datum, word, field, block, or file) blocked no higher than 30,000 bytes per block, at 800, 1600, or 6250 bpi.

b. The tapes on which the data are recorded shall be new or recertified tapes (see 36 CFR 1234) which have been passed over a tape cleaner before writing and will be rewound under controlled tension.

c. Documentation adequate for servicing and interpreting records that have been designated for preservation by NARA will be transferred with them. This documentation shall include, but shall not necessarily be limited to:

(1) A completed Standard Form 277, Computer Magnetic Tape File Properties, or its equivalent.

(2) Where it has been necessary to strip data of extraneous control characters, the documentation specifications defining the data elements and their values must match the new format of the data.

2. The following applies to 3480 class tape cartridges scheduled for transfer to NARA.

a. 3480 class tape cartridges must meet the American National Standard based on the IBM format. The magnetic tape and cartridge for information interchange must be 18-track, parallel, 12.65 mm (1/2 inch), and 1491 cpm {37,871 cpi}.

b. All maintenance requirements of 36 CFR 1234.28(g) apply to 3480 class tape cartridges.

c. NARA will copy the contents of 3480 class tape cartridges at the time of accessioning and return them to the agency unless the agency indicates that it does not want the cartridges returned.

512.13 JUDICIAL USE OF ELECTRONIC RECORDS - Electronic records may be admitted in evidence to Federal courts for use in court proceedings (Federal Rules of Evidence 803(8)) if trustworthiness is established by thoroughly documenting the record keeping system's operation and the controls imposed upon it. If the only record is electronic, the following procedures are required to ensure the legal admissibility of that record:

- a. Document that similar kinds of records generated and stored electronically are created by the same processes each time and have a standardized retrieval approach.
- b. Substantiate that security procedures prevent unauthorized addition, modification, or deletion of a record and ensure system protection against such problems as power interruptions.
- c. Identify the electronic media on which records are stored throughout their life cycle, the maximum time span that records remain on each storage medium, and the NARA-approved disposition of all records.
- d. Establish trustworthiness of records by ensuring that:
  - (1) The date of the record can be determined;
  - (2) The date of alterations is automatically recorded by the system;
  - (3) It is evident that the document was authorized to be issued ("signed") by an appropriate official.
- e. Coordinate all of the above with the Office of the General Counsel (GC) and the Records Management Staff.

ELECTRONIC RECORDS STANDARDS

The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) has issued the following Federal Information Processing Standards Publications (FIPS PUBS) that are particularly relevant to records creation, storage, and transmission using personal computers or other electronic office equipment. (Note: FIPS PUBS with an asterisk are mandatory standards that are implemented in the FIRMR and 41 CFR 201.13)

1. FIPS PUB 38 Guidelines for Documentation of Computer Programs and Automated Data Systems.
2. FIPS PUB 46-1 Data Encryption Standard.
3. FIPS PUB 48 Guidelines on Evaluation of Techniques for Automated Personal Identification.
4. FIPS PUB 54-1 Computer Output Microform (COM) Formats and Reduction Ratios, 16 mm and 105 mm.
5. FIPS PUB 65 Guidelines for ADP Risk Analysis.
6. FIPS PUB 73 Guidelines for Security of Computer Applications.
7. FIPS PUB 74 Guidelines for Implementing and Using the NBS Data Encryption Standard.
8. FIPS PUB 81 DES Modes of Operation.

9. FIPS PUB 82 Guideline for Inspection and Quality Control for Alphanumeric Computer-Output Microform.

10. FIPS PUB 83 Guideline on User Authentication Techniques for Computer Network Access Control.

GENERAL RECORDS SCHEDULE 20, Electronic Records and GENERAL RECORDS SCHEDULE 23, Records Common to Most Offices, provides for the disposal of certain records common to most offices. (See Title 3, Communication and Records, Section _____ for a complete list of records eligible for disposal.)

512 ORGANIZING RECORDS - Each element will organize and maintain the documents it creates and receives, according to the standards and procedures listed below.

512.1 Centralized vs. Decentralized Records

a. Definitions

(1) Centralized Files consist of an organized body of records, maintained at a key point, serving all or most of an organizational element.

(2) Decentralized Files are dispersed to several locations serving smaller units or individual offices.

b. Location and Purpose - Centralization of files assures uniformity in procedures, continuity, and efficient management of records. It also avoids duplication, and makes it possible to utilize trained records personnel. However, frequently there are several factors, such as space arrangements, lack of personnel, and usage of records, which make centralization undesirable. If possible, centralize files within a Division, Branch, or Section.

512.2 Blocking - Arrange subject files by calendar or fiscal year blocks to facilitate retirement or destruction of inactive records. At the completion of that period, close out the existing files and start a new group. Bring forward into the current block any document(s) that constitutes an integral part of the current file.

512.3 Segregating Classified Files - As a rule, classified documents should be maintained separate from unclassified documents for the following reasons:

a. employees may not have the same level of security clearances.

b. because of the atmosphere at overseas locations, employees and non-Americans must separate classified and unclassified materials.

c. the Washington National Records Center (WNRC) does not accept classified and unclassified records retired under the same accession.

512.4 Types of File Series -

a. Subject Files - consist of letters, memorandums, telegrams, enclosures, reports, and miscellaneous materials, arranged by subject.

b. Case Files:

(1) Definition - Case files, regardless of media, document a specific action, event, person, place, project or other matter. A case file may cover one or several subjects that relates to a specific case. Some examples of case files are contract files, official personnel files, research project files, etc.

(2) Creating Case Files - Methods of creating case files largely depends on the creating office. Any office that requires the creation of case files must ensure that they adequately document the function(s) or project(s) of that office. Regular review of case filing procedures is necessary to ensure that the above conditions are consistently met.

A standard system of case filing should be established for each case file series regardless of the level of creation or the office of origin. Each identifiable case file series should:

(a) specify what data the file should contain;

(b) use the same type of folders;

(c) use the same method of arrangement; and

(d) have the same ultimate disposition (i.e., case files that are created or maintained by different offices, but have the same or similar content and the same administrative or archival value, should have the same disposition).

(3) Arrangement and Maintenance - Case files are normally arranged by the names of individuals, projects, social security numbers, geographic locations, etc. Referencing case files will be easier if they are arranged by the feature most frequently requested. There are two arrangement systems; alphabetic or numeric. Alphabetic systems are arranged by names of persons or organizations, geographic locations, subject or project. Numeric systems are arranged by numbers assigned to names, projects, locations, etc. (NOTE: numeric filing schemes may require indexes which cross-reference numbers to names or subjects).

File papers loosely in folders. Fasten papers only to segregate certain documents for easy reference or disposition. Each case file folder should contain no more than 3/4 of an inch of paper. This allows all material to fit neatly in the folder and will not obstruct the folder labels. Additional papers relating to the same case file should be filed in a new folder. Each additional folder should be sequentially numbered so that is evident that they are part of the same case file.

Arrange folder labels in a straight line rather than staggered. This enables a user to quickly locate a file.

Charge-out cards are recommended when files are used by a large number of employees.

File all new case documents on a daily basis.

The case files should be centralized within offices and easily accessible to users.

(4) Planning Disposition - The ultimate disposition of case files, destruction after a specific period of time or permanent retention by the National Archives, is authorized only by instructions provided in MOA III, 555 or the General Records Schedules. Offices are required to maintain their case files in a manner that facilitates proper disposition. To do so, offices should employ the following techniques:

Chronological File - The originating office may maintain chronologically a copy of all outgoing communications as a temporary finding aid.

Media Program Records - Program records, such as films, videotape, photographic scripts, engineering drawings, etc., require special types of equipment and are arranged to suit the needs of the users.

Information and Working Files - Restrict the use of information and working files by individual offices and officers to those essential for current operating purposes. Do not retain record copies of communications in these files after action is completed.

f. Reference Files - Reference files generally serve two purposes.

(1) General Research and Reference - Certain documents required for an indefinite period for use by office personnel. Examples: Manual of Operations and Administration, Foreign Affairs Manual, Congressional Directory, etc.

(2) Program Source Data - Various types of Government and non Government publications and reference materials, newspaper clippings, and other raw data are used as source material in the preparation of periodicals, scripts, feature stories, etc.

Review this material periodically to prevent an unnecessary accumulation of obsolete material.

513 RECORDS CLASSIFICATION AND MAINTENANCE

513.1 Official File System -

a. Methods of Filing - The official file system prescribed in the Records Classification Handbook is comprised of subject categories.

b. Subject Categories - Use the official file system in the Records Classification Handbook for the organization and maintenance of all domestic and overseas subject files, including working files.

(1) Code Symbols - A symbol has been selected for each of the primary subjects. These have been chosen because of their meaning or obvious relationship to the subject matter. Simple serial numbers have been assigned to subject breakdown.

(2) Parallel Numbering - As an aid to the classifier, the same number has been assigned, whenever possible, to similar secondary subjects appearing in different file outlines.

(3) Qualifying Subjects - Offices may need to further subdivide a secondary subject by name, geographic location, or other appropriate breakdown. For example, documents relating to a film festival may be subdivided by location, e.g., MV 8 Festivals - Cannes; or documents relating to the operation of a particular component of a radio transmitter, e.g., RIO 18 Transmitter - Poro.

(4) New Subjects - The Records Classification Handbook contains comprehensive subject coverage reflecting the needs and requirements of Broadcasting. The system will be revised and updated periodically. Overseas establishments and domestic elements may send suggestions for new or revised subject headings to the Records Officer. In no case may revision or additions be made except by the Records Officer.

(5) International Organizations and Conference Files - A special instruction has been included in the Records Classification Handbook for arranging documents concerning international organizations and conferences.

(6) Abbreviations - A list of frequently used abbreviations is included in the Records Classification Handbook to aid in classifying.

(7) Index - A detailed index to the subject outlines is included in the Records Classification Handbook as an aid in determining the appropriate file designation, but it should not become a substitute for the file outlines.

513.3 Subject Classification of Documents:

a. Purpose - Classification is the process of determining the subject of a document and relating it to the corresponding subject in the Records Classification Handbook. When records are not properly classified it is difficult to locate either specific documents or all related documents on a particular subject.

(1) When to classify - Classify documents as soon as practical after receipt or before filing.

(2) How to classify - Classify documents, as follows:

(a) Determine the specific subject of the document, as follows:

(i) Note the subject line of communications as a guide to the general subject.

(ii) Determine the specific idea, directive, request, question, etc., from the text.

(iii) Check reference, if any, to obtain the file designation assigned to previous communications on the same subject.

(iv) Check drafting and distribution data to learn the functions performed by the originator or action office.

(b) Select from the Records Classification Handbook subject outlines the primary and secondary subject that corresponds to the specific subject of the document.

(i) Use the Records Classification Handbook Index to narrow the search for a single code symbol whose definition includes as many as possible of the elements of the subject matter appearing in the document. If all elements cannot be found in one primary subject outline, cross-reference to subordinate elements to complete documentation and to facilitate reference service.

(ii) If the Records Classification Handbook subject outlines do not provide a subject that corresponds with the specific subject, or, if the proper subject requires further breakdown, a qualifying subject may be added to the secondary code symbol.

(c) Write the file designation selected, i.e., the code symbol for the specific subject chosen, along with those for any cross-reference, in the upper right corner of the document.

(i) Qualifying subjects may be underlined on the document. Unless this is impossible or might be overlooked in filing, in which case it should be written either to the right or immediately below the file designation.

(ii) When chronological copies are maintained, mark the file designation(s) and use as a finding aid.

(d) If the file designation selected differs from any previous classification, change the designation to meet the user's file requirements. If necessary, prepare a continuity cross-reference to avoid reclassifying significant volumes of records.

523.4 Cross-Referencing:

a. Purpose - Cross-referencing provides complete documentation and a finding aid when a document can logically be requested by more than one subject, or when documents or an entire folder are transferred from one file designation to another. Avoid making unnecessary cross-references.

b. Marking Document - Indicate a subject cross-referenced subject symbol below the file designation in the upper right corner of the document.

c. Preparing Cross-References - If copies of a document requiring cross-referencing are available, use the copies instead of cross-reference sheets.

d. Permanent Cross-Reference - To eliminate the need for cross-referencing many individual documents on the same subject, a permanent cross-reference may be made. Fasten this permanent cross-reference sheet to the left side of the folder for ease of reference.

e. Continuity Cross-Reference - If a change in file designation becomes necessary after a file has already been established, the file designation may be changed to a more appropriate one provided it conforms to one in the Records Classification Handbook. In this case, it may be desirable to prepare a continuity cross-reference for the file to avoid reclassifying significant volumes of records.

f. Cross-Reference to Security Classified Files - It is sometimes necessary to prepare a cross-reference to related documents that must be maintained in a separate file in accordance with security regulations (usually overseas). This procedure applies to Top Secret documents. Normally do not prepare cross-references to individual documents.

Instead, stamp the following statement on the left (inside) of the related folder in the unclassified or lower classified files: "See Classified (or Top Secret) File for Additional Information." When the cross-referencing of an individual document is necessary, write only the date and type of document on the cross-reference sheet.

523.5 Alphabetical Name Index - Where volume of files warrants, a name index composed of extra copies of communications or cross-reference sheets (no record copies) may be maintained as an index to the subject file. This index is arranged alphabetically by names of persons or organizations referred to in documents.

523.6 Arranging Subject Files - Arrange subject files according to the subject pattern in the Records Classification Handbook. However, an office primarily concerned with a single one of these categories may arrange this category at the front of the subject file. Where it is necessary to maintain "case" or "project" files separate from the subject file, arrange them in simple alphabetic or numeric order by name or number, e.g., contract, personnel, or voucher (see par. 522.4). One of the following methods of arranging case files within the subject file system may be selected:

a. Subject - When the volume of documents to be filed under any one subject is relatively small, it is not necessary to subdivide by specific name, organization, country, etc. Use the subjects in the file outlines of the primary, secondary, or tertiary level without qualifying subjects. When the volume of material is large or further subdivision is needed, subdivide secondary subjects by qualifying subjects such as: name of individual or organization, geographic location, subject, or title. Arrange folders for qualifying subjects in alphabetical sequence being the appropriate primary or secondary subject folder.

b. Geographic Location - Arrange the subjects in the file outlines by area, country, or other geographic location, and subdivide by primary or secondary, subjects, as required. Relationships between countries may be shown at the primary or secondary level.

c. Organization - Arrange files by name of organization, particularly specific international organizations, and subdivide by primary, secondary, and tertiary subjects within appropriate file outlines when volume makes it impractical to file records under the "3 - Organizations and Conferences" subjects or where it is more convenient to file all records relating to an organization together.

d. Name - Arrange files by name of individual or firm when it best meets the operational requirements of an office. This arrangement is suitable for talent or vendor files, etc.

e. Category of Person, Product, etc. - Offices responsible for programs that relate to specific categories of persons, products, etc., may arrange files by nationality of person, type of worker, title of product (e.g., films, radio and TV shows), and further subdivide by appropriate secondary and tertiary subjects within a specific outline.

523.7 Crisis Files - If a prolonged crisis generates a large volume of related records, the normal arrangement of documents may not adequately serve the needs of an office. To meet these needs a case file, separate from the regular subject file, may be established. In classifying documents relating to the crisis, use the appropriate subjects within the Records Classification Handbook. Crisis folders or labels should be marked with the crisis title or some other identifying symbol to facilitate separate filing. Make permanent cross-reference to the crisis file in the regular subject file. When the crisis subsides or ends, establish a specific cutoff date and resume filing in the regular subject file.

523.8 Filing Procedures:

a. Filing Authorization - To prevent action communications from being filed before action is indicated on certain record copies of documents before they are filed. The action officer will mark and initial documents for filing unless the file copy of the reply accompanies the incoming communication indicating completed action. When action is taken other than by a direct reply, the action officer will make proper notations on the documents to complete the record. Place these notations in the box provided in a mail distribution stamp on the document or near the incoming time stamp. Complete documentation by including attachments, appendices, and exhibits. Remove unnecessary transmittal slips, etc., and destroy.

b. Sorting Documents for Filing - Filing and reference service can be more efficiently accomplished when the filing material is sorted into filing sequence by records classification symbol or by subject, dates, names etc. For large scale sorting operations, commercial sorting devices or sorting aids may be authorized.

c. Filing:

(1) Arranging Documents in Folder - File documents by the specific file designation in chronological order, most recent date to the front.

Documents comprising one action e.g., an incoming letter and reply including attachments normally should be fastened together.

(2) Fastening Documents to the Folder - Do not fasten documents onto general subject folders since five or more pieces on one subject should be accumulated before setting up a new folder for secondary or tertiary subjects. However, case files, such as contracts, chronological files, etc., in which the filing arrangement will remain the same, may be fastened to the folder if so desired.

Also when any folder of loose documents is charged out and it is desired to retain the filing arrangement, the documents may be temporarily fastened to the folder. Press prong fastener outward without compressors to reduce filing time and to keep folders evenly expanded within the file drawers.

d. Labeling File Drawers - Label each file drawer to show its contents. Include on each label the broad subject category, the inclusive file subjects, and date. When it becomes necessary to shift the contents of file drawers, re-label the drawers accordingly.

523.9 Reference Service:

a. Responsibilities - Persons in charge of records collections are responsible for providing reference service to authorized personnel on a need-to-know basis. Adopt charge-out and follow-up system to ensure the return of records within a given period of time.

b. Access to Transferred Records - Access to records that have been transferred to the National Archives is obtained through the Records Management Staff. Furnish sufficient information to facilitate locating and identifying the material desired. Include the type or nature of the document, date and subject matter, office which transferred the material, and the lot or accession number and box number. When large groups of records are to be researched the Records Management Staff will arrange with the National Archives for an employee to be granted access to these records. The Records Management Staff must be notified if any files are removed from these records. The Records Management Staff maintains a reference charge-out card for each transaction and all material must be returned through them.

524 ACCESS TO INFORMATION AND RECORDS

524.1 Agency personnel may have access to active or retired records on a need-to-know basis according to the procedures established in this Manual and subject to the following restrictions:

a. Classified Records - Access to classified records as well as procedures for their handling, transmission, storage, etc., are covered in the Uniform Security Regulations (5 FAM 900) filed with MOA VIII.

b. Personnel Records - The Privacy Act of 1974 (pub. L. 93-579) restricts disclosure of information contained in the Official Personnel Folder and other personnel records (see par. 560). In addition to these restrictions, the Foreign Service Act (Section 612) prohibits disclosure of information regarding performance and character records of Foreign Service personnel except to specified officials.

c. Personnel Investigative Records - The disclosure of information contained in personnel investigative records and restricted by Executive Order 10450 and by the Privacy Act of 1974 (see par. 560)

d. Media Products - Pursuant to Section 501 of the U.S. Information and Educational Exchange Act (Pub. L. 80-402), information media material prepared for dissemination outside of the United States will not be disseminated to the public within the United States, its territories or possessions, but, on request, will be available (in the Office of Congressional and External Affairs or the FOIA office, at all reasonable times following its release as information abroad, for examination only by representatives of United States press associations, newspapers, magazines, radio systems, and stations, and by research students and scholars, and, on request, will be made available for examination only to Members of Congress, in compliance with provisions of Pub. L. 402 and the Freedom of Information Act (see par. 524.3 below). This does not limit access to records containing this material when required by agency personnel to conduct official business.

e. Records of Other Agencies (see also par. 524.3j.) - In addition to security considerations, Broadcasting observes administrative restrictions imposed by the originating agency on the use of its records. Designated control officers are responsible for receipt, distribution, storage and disposal of classified documents originating in agencies such as NSC, Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Department of Energy, NATO, etc. Classified records originating in another agency may not be transferred to another agency or destroyed, nor will information contained therein be made available to a third agency or person without written approval of the originating agency (see 5 FAM 900). Non-record material originating in other agencies may be disposed of as prescribed in par. 553.

524.2 Personnel of other agencies on assignment or detailed to the BBG may have access to records necessary for performing their duties according to the procedures and restrictions applicable to agency personnel. The element in contact with the other agency, in conjunction with the Records Officer, will handle requests for the BBG's records for temporary use by the other agency in conducting official business. See par. 3 for Transfer of Records to other agencies.

524.3 Public Access to Information and Records:

a. Policy

(1) The BBG will make the fullest possible disclosure of its information and records consistent with provisions of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), as amended (5 U.S.C. 552).

(2) Regulations governing the availability of records are contained in Title 22, Code of Federal Regulations.

(3) Requests for access to records referring to the FOIA, or which can be reasonably interpreted as relying to FOIA provisions, will be processed as outlined in the following paragraphs. Complete adherence to the established procedure is essential because of the strict time constraints imposed by the FOIA.

b. Responsibilities

(1) The Director has assigned the responsibility for processing all FOIA requests to the Office of Administration.

(2) Each office, or service head is required to designate a FOIA action officer who will be responsible for supervising the processing of FOIA requests submitted by the Office of Administration. Granting or denying a request is the responsibility of the head of the Office, or Service, subject to review by the Office of Administration. If, for any reason, an Office, or Service head is unable to make a determination to grant or deny a request, the matter should be referred to GC for determination.

(3) A requester is entitled by law to appeal any determination denying access to records. In such instances, the Office, or Service head will be required to review the initial determination of denial. A decision to sustain the denial will require further review and final determination by the Committee for Public Information Policy (CPIP). This Committee is chaired by the Chief of Staff.

c. Initial Requests for Access to Records:

(1) Application for access to records should be submitted in writing to the Office of Administration.

Requests received by any other element, either by phone or in person, should be referred to the Office of Administration. Send written requests by the most expeditious means. (Requests received by overseas establishments are covered in par. 624.4). The Office of Administration will inform requesters, if necessary, of the procedures to be followed in order to request access to records.

(2) Requesting letters should contain all necessary data concerning desired records, including a description of the material, dates, titles, authors and other information which may help in identifying and retrieving the records.

d. Action on Initial Requests for Access to Records

(1) The Office of Administration will send to the requester by return mail a notice of receipt of each FOIA action, establishing the beginning of the ten-day response period. The notice will also indicate any anticipated delays in compliance with the request and/or cost of obtaining information. With the cooperation of Broadcasting elements, the Office of Administration will, to the extent practicable and permitted by law, convey to the requester a determination whether to grant or deny a request for records within ten working days of receipt of the initial request. To assure compliance with the mandatory time limits, the Office of Administration will date and time-stamp, log, and assign a case number to each FOIA request. When it is determined which element will be responsible for the release or denial of the requested materials, the request will be sent to the concerned element under cover of a Routing and Transmittal Slip.

(2) Completed actions on all requests will be returned to the Office of Administration by the elements as soon as possible, but no later than c.o.b. of the ninth working day following the date of receipt as established by the Office of Administration. The response will be prepared by the Office of Administration, dated and time-stamped, and the notice of denial or the requested material forwarded to the requester.

(3) If, due to unusual circumstances, a determination cannot be made within ten working days whether to grant or deny a request for records, the Office of Administration will advise the requester immediately that an administrative extension has been instituted, giving the reasons for the extension and the projected date on which a final determination will be made. The term "unusual circumstances" is defined as follows:

(a) The need to search for and collect the requested records from field facilities or other establishments that are separate from the office processing the request;

(b) The need to search for, collect, and appropriately examine a voluminous amount of separate and distinct records which are demanded in a single request;

(c) The need for consultation, which will be conducted with all practicable speed, with another agency having a substantial interest in the determination of the request or among two or more components having substantial subject matter interest therein.

(4) Any element seeking an administrative extension must send a request in writing to the Office of Administration, signed by the action officer or the Office, or Service head, stating the circumstances and fully justifying the need for a time extension. Such requests for administrative extension must be received by the Office of Administration no later than c.o.b. of the third day of the initial ten-day processing period, or by cob of the tenth day of the twenty-day appeals period (see e below). This extension can be applied in part or in whole during the initial and/or appeal period, but, in no case can such an extension exceed ten working days in the aggregate.

e. Denial of Access to Records and Rights of Appeal -

(1) When an initial request for records is denied, in whole or in part, the Office of Administration will immediately notify the requester in writing of such adverse determination the reasons therefore, the officials responsible for such determination, and the right of the requester to appeal, within thirty days.

(2) Appeals of initial determinations to deny records should be addressed as follows:

Freedom of Information Act Appeal for Access to Records Office of Administration

(3) All appeals will be returned to the element responsible for the initial denial for reconsideration. If the concerned element decides to sustain the denial, the appeal will then be submitted to the Committee for Public Information Policy (CPIP) for review and final determination. Judgments of the CPIP will supersede individual element determinations and will be communicated to the Director.

(4) A determination on an appeal of an initial denial of records must be made within twenty working days after receipt of such appeal except as noted under paragraphs d. (3) and (4) and f. (2). If the denial is upheld, the Office of Administration will notify the requester in writing giving reasons for the denial, the names and positions of the officials responsible for such determination, and informing the requester of the right to judicial review.

f. Judicial Review of Appeals -

(1) The legal consequence of not responding within the prescribed initial ten working days is that the requester may initiate court action without resort to further administrative remedies. If suit is filed while in an initial request or an appeal is pending, whether or not the suit is premature, Broadcasting will normally continue to process the request and/or appeal.

(2) A court may retain jurisdiction and allow Broadcasting additional time to complete its review of the records, if it can be determined that exceptional circumstances exist and that Broadcasting is exercising due diligence in responding to the request.

(3) In any instance of a denial of an appeal for access to records or disregard of prescribed time limits as stated above, a requester is entitled to seek redress through the courts. Examples of such instances include the following:

-- a determination whether or not to comply with an appeal of an initial denial is not made within twenty working days of receipt of an appeal.

-- a requester is advised that a ten-working-day extension has been applied during the initial determination period or appeal period, but a determination regarding access is not made by the end of the extension period.

-- in any instance of a final, administrative denial of access to records, following an appeal, the requester wishes to test the legality of the denial.

(4) Whenever a court orders the proof of any Broadcasting records improperly withheld from the complainant and assesses against Broadcasting reasonable attorney fees and other litigation costs, and the court additionally issues a written finding that the circumstances surrounding the withholding raise questions whether personnel acted arbitrarily or capriciously with respect to the withholding, the office of Personnel Management (OPM) will promptly initiate a proceeding to determine whether disciplinary action is warranted against the officer or employee who was primarily responsible for the withholding. Broadcasting must take the correct view action that OPM recommends.

g. Fees -

(1) Broadcasting is authorized by law to require payment of a fee to cover only the direct costs of search and duplication of records. The following schedule of fees has been established:

(a) Making copies (Xerox or comparable) per page, $0.15. No fee will be charged for a particular request totaling 10 pages or less.

(b) Searching for records, per hour or fraction thereof, for clerical personnel - $8.00, for supervisory personnel - $15.00

No fees will be charged for searches of one hour or less.

(c) Duplication of architectural drawings and photographs - $2.00

(d) For signed statement of non-availability of records No fee.

(2) When no specific fee has been established for a service, the Director, Office of Administration is authorized to determine the direct costs of the service and include such costs in the fees chargeable under the schedule of fees.

(3) When it is anticipated that the fees chargeable under this section will amount to more than $25.00, and the requester has not indicated in advance his or her willingness to pay fees as high as are anticipated, the requester will be promptly notified of the amount of the anticipated fee or such portion thereof as can readily be estimated. In appropriate cases, an advance deposit may be required. The notice of request for an advance deposit will extend where practicable, an offer to the requester to confer with knowledgeable personnel in an attempt to reformulate the request in a manner which will reduce the fees and meet the needs of the requester. Dispatch of such notice or request for fees will suspend the running of the period for response by Broadcasting until a reply is received from the requester.

(4) Search costs are due and payable even if the record which was requested cannot be located after all reasonable efforts or if Broadcasting determines that a record which is exempt from disclosure under this part is to be withheld.

(5) Fees must be paid in full prior to the issuance of requested copies.

(6) Remittances shall be in the form either of a personal check or bank draft drawn from a bank in the United States, a postal money order, or cash. Remittances will be made payable to the order of the Treasurer of the United States and mailed to the Office of Administration. Broadcasting will assume no responsibility for cash that is lost in the mail.

(7) Receipt for fees paid will be given only upon request. Refund of fees paid for services actually rendered will not be made.

(8) The Director, Office of Administration is further authorized to waive all or part of any fee for records if it is determined that such waiver primarily benefits the general public.

h. Exemptions -

(1) The Act authorizes exemption from disclosure of the following classes of records and information concerning matters that are:

(a) specifically authorized under criteria established by an Executive order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy and are in fact properly classified pursuant to such Executive order;

(b) related solely to the internal personnel rules and practices of Broadcasting;

(c) specifically exempted from disclosure by statute (such as section 501 of the United States Information and Educational Exchange Act of 1948, as amended, 22 U.S.C. 1461);

(d) trade secrets and commercial or financial information obtained from a person as privileged or confidential;

(e) inter-agency or intra-agency memorandums or letters that would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the Agency;

(f) personnel and medical files and similar files, the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy;

(g) investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, but only to the extent that the production of such records would:

(i) interfere with enforcement proceedings;

(ii) deprive a person of a right to a fair trial or an impartial adjudication;

(iii) constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy;

(iv) disclose the identity of a confidential source and, in the case of a record compiled by a criminal law enforcement authority in the course of a criminal investigation, confidential information furnished only by the confidential source;

(v) disclose investigation techniques and procedures;

(vi) endanger the life or physical safety of law enforcement personnel;

(h) contained in or related to examination, operating, or condition reports prepared by, on behalf of or for use of any agency responsible for the regulation or supervision of financial institutions; or

(i) geological and geophysical information and data, including maps, concerning wells.

(2) To the extent required to prevent a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, Broadcasting may delete identifying details when it makes available or publishes an opinion, statement of policy, interpretation, or staff manual or instruction. Whenever Broadcasting finds any such deletion necessary, the responsible officer or employee must fully explain the justification therefore in writing. Any reasonable portion of a record will be provided to any person requesting such record after deletion of the portions that are exempt under this paragraph.

i. Limitation of Exemptions - The Act declares that it does not authorize withholding information or limit the availability of records to the public except as specifically stated in paragraph h. Nor is authority granted to withhold information from Congress.

j. Records of Other Agencies (see also par. 524.1e) - Requests for records originated in other agencies should be referred to the Office of Administration for forwarding to the originating agency. Records originated in inter-agency working groups or committees will be made available only when release is approved, in writing, by the agencies concerned.

k. Records of Other Non-U.S. Government Sources - Records described below may not be released by the head of a domestic element, but rather should be referred to the Office of Administration for appropriate action.

(1) Records originating with international organization or multipartite agencies.

(2) Papers originating with a foreign government and not yet released for publication by that government.

l. Deposit of Research Studies - Researchers making use of records will be encouraged to deposit copies of their completed manuscripts or published works with the Office of Administration.

m. Coordination between Broadcasting and the Department of State -

(1) In some instances, the assistance of the Historical Office of the Department of State will be necessary in determining the documents that may be made available to the public since some of the files of Broadcasting are a part of or related to classified records of the Department of State.

(2) Under administrative support arrangements, many inactive records of Broadcasting are retired to the Department of State's Records Service Center, where reference rooms and retired record materials will be made available.

n. Reports - On or before March 1 of each calendar year, Broadcasting will submit a report covering the preceding calendar year to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and President of the Senate for referral to the appropriate committees of the Congress. The report will include:

(1) the number of determinations made by Broadcasting not to comply with requests for records and the reasons for such determination;

(2) the number of appeals made by requesters of records, the results of such appeals, and the reason for the action upon each appeal that results in a denial of information;

(3) the names and titles or positions of each person responsible for the denial of records requested, and the number of instances of participation for each;

(4) the results of each proceeding conducted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(4) (F), including a report of the disciplinary action taken against the officer or employee who was primarily responsible for improperly withholding records or an explanation of why disciplinary action was not taken;

(5) a copy of every rule made by Broadcasting regarding this paragraph (524.3);

(6) a copy of the fee schedule and the total amount of fees collected by Broadcasting or making records available under this paragraph; and

(7) such other information as indicates efforts to administer fully this paragraph.

524.4 Subpoenas for Records - A subpoena served on any officer or employee of Broadcasting by or on behalf of a court of law or other department or an agency acting in a quasi-judicial capacity, with a view to the production of any records of Broadcasting or records of another department or agency held in the custody of Broadcasting, or with a view to obtaining testimony regarding information actually contained or which might be contained in such records, will be brought immediately to the attention of the Director and referred to the Office of the General Counsel (GC) for review. Any such subpoena served by or on behalf of a Committee of Congress will be similarly processed. No response will be made to any subpoena except upon the specific authorization of the Director after consultation with GC and any other elements concerned. If the records contain classified or administratively controlled information, (5 FAM 900), and the restrictions on disclosure of information about individuals contained in the Privacy Act of 1974 (see par. 560) will also apply.

515 PERSONAL FILES/OFFICIAL RECORDS

515.1 Purpose and Scope - This paragraph prescribes policies governing the removal of official records, copies of official records and publications, and personal papers, by current employees and those employees planning separation or transfer from Broadcasting.

525.2 Authority - This section implements the requirements of the Federal Records Act (44 U.S.C., Chapters 21, 29, 31, and 33) and NARA Bulletin 89-2, Disposition of Personal Papers and Official Records, dated November 14, 1988.

525.3 Definitions

a. Official Records - Official records, as used in this Section, are all books, papers, maps, photographs, machine readable materials which include films, broadcast tapes, disks, or other documentary materials, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received by an agency of the United States Government under Federal law or in connection with the transaction of public business and preserved or appropriate for preservation by that agency or its legitimate successor as evidence of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the Government or because of the informational value of the data in them. Excluded are library and museum materials made or acquired and preserved solely for reference or exhibition purposes, extra copies of documents preserved only for convenience of reference, and stocks of publications and processed documents.

b. Personal Files - Personal files are those materials that belong to an individual, not the agency. Certain files are clearly personal, such as those that are not used in the transaction of agency business. Personal files may contain references to or comments on agency business, but they are considered personal if they are not used in the conduct of business.

Traditionally, personal files have included the following categories of material:

a. business or professional files created before entering Government service; files created during or relating to previously held positions, political materials, and reference files.

b. private files brought into, created, or received in the office; family and personal correspondence and materials documenting professional activities and outside business or political pursuits, including manuscripts and drafts for articles and books and volunteer and community service records that are considered personal, even if created or received while in office, because they do not relate to agency business.

c. work-related personal files including diaries, journals, notes, and personal calendars and appointment schedules; thought work-related, they may be personal if they are used only as reminders and personal observations on work-related topics, not for the transaction of Government business.

515.4 Removal of Official Records -

(1) Official records are the property of the Government, not of the employee who makes or receives them. Employees may not remove such records from Broadcasting's custody.

(2) Unauthorized removal of official records for personal use or for the use of others constitutes theft of Government property, punishable by fine and/or imprisonment under 18 U.S.C. 641. Criminal penalties are also provided under 18 U.S.C. 2071 for the unlawful removal or destruction of official records.

515.5 Removal of Personal Files and Extra Copies of Records -

(1) By definition, extra copies of documents (paper records and publications) accumulated only for convenience or reference are not "official records." Therefore, such copies are not subject to the general prohibition of removal outlined in paragraph 525.4a above. Employees may remove at their discretion extra copies of documents that they have accumulated for reference purposes, provided that such removal does not:

(a) diminish or create a gap in the official files of the office;

(b) involve a cost to the Government; or

(c) violate confidentiality required by national security, personal privacy, or other interests protected by law.

(2) Because of considerations of confidentiality, the following types of documents may not be removed at the discretion of the employee:

(a) copies of documents classified for national security purposes as "top secret," "secret," or "confidential" under Executive Order 13526 of December 29, 2009, Classified National Security Information

(b) copies of documents marked "for official use only" or administratively restricted;"

(c) copies of documents expressly designated as confidential or exempt from public disclosure by statute;

(d) copies of documents containing personal information about an individual, such as personnel, medical or grants records, the removal and disclosure of which would constitute an invasion of privacy. NOTE: Employees may remove copies of documents in their possession that contain personal information only about themselves. Removal of such copies would not constitute an invasion of privacy;

(e) copies of documents compiled for investigatory, law enforcement or security purposes;

(f) copies of broadcast tapes, films, and other produced documentation;

(g) copies of documents containing trade secrets, or confidential commercial, financial or technical information about an organization or its products or services;

(h) copies of interagency or intra-agency communications which reflect the personal views of the writer or other individuals as opposed to the official position of the office or agency;

(i) copies of contingency plans, civil defense or disaster plans, and emergency operating procedures; or

(j) copies of automated data processing and telecommunications systems documentation, including systems specifications; computer programs; descriptions of administrative, technical, and physical programs; descriptions of administrative, technical, and physical safeguards; lists of access codes or passwords; and systems security information or documentation.

(3) The policy established in this section does not limit the right of employees to request and obtain copies of documents under the Freedom of Information Act or the Privacy Act of 1974.

c. Maintenance and Removal of Personal Papers -

(1) Papers which are truly personal and private belong to the employee who makes or receives them and may be removed at his or her discretion. Personal diaries, resumes, notes of personal telephone conversations and meetings, and private logs or journals are typical examples of removable personal papers.

(2) Employees will clearly designate personal papers as non-official at the time of origination or receipt. Such papers will at all times be maintained separately from the official files of the office. In cases where the transaction of official business is prompted by personal correspondence, the portion of the correspondence which pertains to official business will be extracted and made a part of the official files.

(3) Whenever possible, personal papers should be stored in desk drawers or credenzas. Office filing cabinets may be used for storage of personal papers provided that the volume of papers is small (one file drawer or less per cabinet) and the space is not needed for official records. When a file drawer is utilized for this purpose, however, personal papers and official records may not be commingled but must be kept separately and labeled distinctly.

DISPOSITION OF RECORDS

531 DEFINITION - When used in this Hand-book, disposition of records includes transferring records within Broadcasting or to other Federal agencies; donating records to non-Government institutions, organizations, or individuals; retiring to records centers; transferring to the National Archives; and destruction or sale as scrap paper.

532 PURPOSE - An active records disposition program is essential to prevent accumulation of large quantities of inactive records in valuable office space beyond the time they are needed for conducting official business.

533 REQUIREMENTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

533.1 Requirements - The head of each Government organization, in accordance with 44 U.S.C., 2904, 3101 and 3301, is required to establish and maintain a records disposition program to ensure efficient, prompt, and orderly reduction in the quantity of records and to provide for the proper maintenance of records deemed appropriate for permanent preservation.

533.2 Responsibilities -

a. The Records Management Officer is responsible for assuring that records of enduring value are identified and preserved; identifying records that can be destroyed after they have lost their value; developing retention plans; determining the useful life of records and securing authorization by the Archivist of the United States to dispose of records after the lapse of specified retention periods; and otherwise developing and implementing the records disposal program of Broadcasting.

b. All personnel are responsible for implementing the program by regularly destroying material eligible for destruction and retiring inactive records.

534 RETIRING RECORDS - Inactive records not eligible for destruction are retired to one of several records depositories. The Records Management Officer will approve all requests for retirement of records and determine the appropriate depository. Offices having records to retire must first screen the records and remove those eligible for destruction as well as all extra copies and other non-record material. Contact the Records Management Staff for a determination of appropriate records depository. Obtain transmittal forms and boxes through normal supply channels.

Records Center boxes are stored and issued flat. To prepare for use, unfold and stand box with bottom up. Fold the short flaps in, then the long flaps over the short ones. Secure the seam with two-inch wide filament tape, carry the tape two or three inches up the ends of the box.

After the records are placed in the box, close the top by folding down one long flap, fold either short flap over this followed by the other long flap, then the last short flap and tuck the end under the first long flap.

534.1 To Records Service Center, Department of State

a. Packing - After the records to be retired have been screened, pack them in Records Center boxes. List the contents on each box, number the boxes consecutively, and mark one end of each box with the box number, and office symbol,

If the records consist of maps, charts, or other bulky or odd-shaped material that will not fit the standard Records Center box, consult the Records Management Staff for instructions.

NOTE: To avoid violation of Security Regulations do not pack classified documents until notified of date of pickup.

Package Top Secret material separately, according to Security Regulations, and transmit, under appropriate classified document receipt, by security messenger. Note on the Form DS-693 (see b below) that the Top Secret material is being transmitted under separate cover, and in the package containing the Top Secret material include the information that this was a part of a larger shipment.

b. Transmittal Forms - Prepare original and four copies of Form DS-693, Transfer of Records, and forward ALL FIVE COPIES to the Records Management Staff, for approval. The Office of Administration will arrange for the records to be picked up. One copy of the Form DS-693 will be returned to the originating office after the records have been picked up.

534.2 To Federal Records Center - Offices in the Washington area make arrangements for retiring records to the Washington National Records Center through the Records Management Staff. After the records have been screened, obtain accession numbers from the Records Management Staff. Obtain boxes and transmittal forms, Records Transmittal and Receipt, (SF-135) through normal supply channels.

a. Packing - Pack the records to be transferred in Federal Records Center boxes. List the contents of each box, number the boxes consecutively, and mark one end of each box with accession number, box number, office symbol, and brief description of contents.

NOTE: If the records contain classified information, special arrangements must be made to provide proper security until they are picked up.

b. Transmittal Forms - Prepare an original and three copies of SF-135, Records Transmittal and Receipt. Forward the original and three copies to the Records Management Staff.

534.3 To National Personnel Records Center- Records documenting pay and service of employees as well as personnel folders of separated employees are retired to the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis, Missouri.

a. Screening - Screen personnel folders before retiring them to remove temporary material eligible for destruction and to remove performance rating and related material from the Foreign Service Administrative folder.

b. Notifying Records Management Staff - After screening, the office retiring the records notifies the Records Management Staff of the pending retirement and the approximate volume of records. Obtain the necessary transmittal forms (SF-135) and boxes through normal supply channels at this time.

c. Packing - Pack the records in standard Federal Records Center boxes and list the contents of each. Number the boxes consecutively (No. 1 of 5; 2 of 5; etc.). Prepare the SF-135 and list the records by individual name, date of birth, and Social Security Account number. Pack one copy in box No. 1, and forward the original and four copies to the Records Management Officer for processing and approval. Arrange with the Office of Administration to pick up the boxes.

d. Transmitting - The Records Management Officer checks the transmittal forms for compliance with standards and approves the retirement. The transmittal forms (original and one copy) with a covering letter are forwarded to:

National Personnel Records Center, GSA Civilian Personnel Records Branch
111 Winnebago Street, St. Louis, Mo. 63118.

535 TRANSFERRING RECORDS

535.1 Approval - The Records Management Officer must approve all transfers of records to other Federal agencies, and to non-government organizations or individuals, and coordinates transfers of records of other agencies to Broadcasting. The Records Management Officer also must approve transfers of records to the National Archives.

536.3 Transfers to Other Federal Agencies - A transfer request by another Federal agency for official records of Broadcasting must be made in writing by a responsible official of the requesting agency. The Records Management Staff processes these requests according to the NARA Regulations. The request should indicate:

- a. Organizational location of the records.
- b. Description of the subject matter of the records.

- d. Reason for requesting the transfer and use to be made of the records.
- e. Certification that the acquiring agency will adhere to any conditions restricting use of the records.
- f. Proposed date of transfer.

535.4 Transfers to Non-Government Organizations - Submit requests for the transfer of Government records to non-government organizations to the Records Management Officer. The Records Management Officer will determine whether the proposed records transfer is consistent with law or regulations and whether injury would be done to the public interest or to private individuals by their transfer. If the request is approved, he or she will make the necessary arrangements for the transfer.

535.5 Transfers From Other Agencies -Broadcasting may request the transfer of records from another Federal agency when the records are needed for current operations and are not required by the other agency. Make such request by memorandum to the Agency's Records Management Officer, who will then prepare a written request for National Archives approval of the transfer. After receipt of written approval from National Archives, the Records Management Officer will prepare a request to the agency having custody of the records and will make arrangements for the transfer. Requests for transfer of records should include:

- a. Organizational location of the records.
- b. Description of the subject matter of the records.
- c. Volume of the records, such as number of cabinets, file drawers, folders, or volume in cubic feet.
- d. Reason for requesting the transfer and use to be made of the records.
- e. Proposed date of transfer.

535.6 Transfers to National Archives - Records having historical value may be transferred to the Archivist of the United States when no longer required for conducting business. These transfers are arranged by the Records Management Staff on an individual basis for each group of records transferred. Elements having accumulations of records that document the organization, policy, program, or other aspects of Broadcasting's history should consult the Records Management Officer regarding their transfer to the National Archives.

535.7 Transfer of Personnel Files - Contact Administrative Officer, Office of Personnel.

535.8 Transfer of Security Files - Contact Administrative Officer, Office of Security.

536 DISPOSAL OF RECORDS

536.1 Coverage - When used in this Handbook, disposal includes actual destruction by burning, shredding, etc., sale as waste paper; discarding in waste baskets; or by any other means.

536.2 Authority -

a. The Federal Records Act and the Records Disposal Act as well as the Federal Property Management Regulations prohibit destruction of any Federal records without authorization by the Archivist of the United States and the U.S. Criminal Code imposes penalties, including fine and imprisonment, for unauthorized destruction.

b. Destruction or sale of classified records is governed by Executive Order 10501.

c. Authority for disposal of specific records that do not continue to accumulate is obtained by submitting Disposal Lists to the Archivist of the U.S. for approval. Authority for disposal of records that continue to accumulate is contained in General Records Schedules prepared and published by the National Archives and Records Administration and in Records Schedules (par. 555). These schedules have been approved by the Archivist of the U.S., and the Comptroller General of the U.S., when appropriate. In addition to identifying permanent records that must not be destroyed, they identify temporary records that are destroyed after the lapse of specified retention periods.

d. Material falling within the scope of the Privacy Act should be burned or shredded.

536.3 Records Schedules -

a. Location - Records Schedules are contained in par. 555. Par. 553 lists non-record material accumulated in offices that may be disposed of without further authorization.

b. Developing Records Schedules - The Records Management Staff is responsible for developing and revising schedules for records and for securing the necessary internal clearances, Archivist and Comptroller General approvals. When an element finds that retention periods are too long or too short, that new records are being created, or that existing schedules do not adequately serve the needs of an office, the problem is referred to the Records Management Staff. All personnel are responsible for preventing accumulation of temporary records eligible for disposal and non-record material that have no further value.

536.4 Unscheduled Records - Records that are neither identified in the General Records Schedule nor included in the Records Schedules or lists of non-record material must be retained pending approval of their disposition by the Archivist of the United States.

536.5 Emergency Disposal Authority - The Records Disposal Act authorizes the heads of Federal agencies to order destruction of records without regard for disposal authorities under certain conditions, such as existence of a state of war when retention of some records might not be in the best interest of the United States, or if records constitute a menace to health or property.

a. State of War - The head of an agency may order immediate destruction of records when a state of war exists or threat of hostile action by a foreign power is imminent, and he or she determines that retention of records would be prejudicial to the best interest of the United States, or that the space occupied by the records is urgently needed for military purposes, and the records have insufficient value to warrant further preservation. Within six months after such destruction he/she must submit a written report to the Archivist of the United States showing the character of the records destroyed, the volume, and the time and place of the destruction.

b. Records Constituting Menace to Health or Property -

(1) Determination - When the head of an agency determines that records in his or her custody constitute a continuing menace to human life or health, or to property, he or she will notify the National Archives and Records Administration and specify the nature of the records, their location and volume, and the nature of the menace. If NARA concurs in the determination, immediate destruction or disposal of records will be ordered.

(2) Films - When still or motion picture film of nitrocellulose base has deteriorated to the condition that it is soft, emits noxious gasses, contains air bubbles, or has degraded to an acrid powder, the head of an agency may order immediate removal of the menace by destruction in a manner that will salvage its silver content, when practical. Films of this type are very dangerous and proper precautions must be exercised to protect personnel and property when they are moved or destroyed. The official authorizing such destruction must submit a written report to NARA that describes the film and shows the time, place, and method of disposal within thirty days after such destruction.

536.6 Microfilming - The Record Management Staff, furnishes advice and technical assistance on microfilm and its applications and should be consulted whenever a microfilming project is considered. The Records Management Staff must approve all proposed microfilming projects. Space saving alone is not sufficient reason for microfilming records nor does the fact that the records have been microfilmed constitute authority to dispose of the original records. Microfilming is expensive - records can be stored for fifty years for about the same cost as filming an equal volume of records. In addition to high initial cost of processing, other factors must be examined when considering a microfilming project. These include: reducing the retention period; storing in a records center; developing adequate indices' storage, viewing and reproduction equipment, etc.

It should be noted that microfilming of a record does not mean the paper record can automatically be destroyed without the approval of the Archivist of the United States.

VITAL RECORDS PROGRAM

541 PURPOSE - In accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 11490 October 28, 1969 (34 F.R. 17667; 3 CFR 1966-1970; Comp. p. 820) the Vital Records Program has been developed to provide for the safe and secure storage of those records that would be essential for the organization and administration of Broadcasting under emergency conditions or in the event of a disaster.

542 POLICY GUIDELINES - In developing the Vital Records Program the general guidelines and assumptions to be considered are that:

- a. Each organizational element is responsible for determining and selecting the records essential to its operation during an emergency.
- b. A calculated risk must be taken with regard to records that are not absolutely essential to emergency operations, or that can be reconstructed from other records in the post-emergency period.
- c. Evacuation to other than assumed prime target areas is a practical means of providing protection.

543 CATEGORIES OF RECORDS - The program is concerned with three principle categories of records.

- a. Records vital to the functioning of Broadcasting and each individual element for the duration of an emergency or for replacement purposes in the event of a destructive disaster.
- b. Records essential to the preservation of legal rights of the Government and of individual citizens.
- c. Records essential to the preservation of legal rights of Government employees.

544 RESPONSIBILITIES

- a. Records Management Staff - The Records Management Staff is responsible for overall supervision, guidance, and coordination of the Vital Records Program.
- b. Records Liaison Officers - The Records Liaison Officer designated by the head of each element is responsible for maintaining the Vital Records Program within his or her element and for ensuring proper supervision, continuity, coordination, and periodic review of the program.
- c. Individual Office - Each individual office where records are kept has the responsibility for maintaining this program on a current basis by periodically reviewing materials submitted for the relocation area, submitting current records, and withdrawing obsolete material.

545 SELECTING RECORDS - Each element is responsible for determining and selecting the records that will be essential to organize and administer the operations of the element and its subdivision in an emergency. The following guidelines may be used in determining and selecting these records.

545.1 Administrative Records relate to the internal management and operation of elements and their subdivisions. They include such items as administrative instructions and regulations, office manuals, handbooks, organizational material, functional outlines, budget and fiscal materials, delegations of authority, personnel lists, pay and retirement information, laws and legal matters, etc.

545.2 Substantive Records - relate to the policy and program activities of elements and their subdivisions and would serve in an emergency as the records nucleus for the continuance of functions. They include such items as:

(1) Reports, documents, and summaries that would be required to reestablish a continuing current program.

(2) Important accumulated record material that is available in original or single copy in unique or special office files. Examples of specific items are: Site agreements, executive agreements, program plans, etc.

545.3 Sample Relocation Material - Listed below are various types of material that elements may want to forward to the relocation area. This list is not complete and is intended to serve only as a guide. Each element should determine the materials it would need to continue operations during an emergency.

- a. Office of the General Counsel (GC) - Public Laws pertaining to Broadcasting.
- b. Office of Administration - Circulars and Announcements, Manual of Operations and Administration, Charts, etc.
- c. Office of Personnel - Staffing Patterns, Personnel Lists.
- d. Office of Budget and Finance- Estimates for Office of Management and Budget and Congressional Submissions, Management Accounts Structure, Monthly Financial Reports, Current Year financial Plan and Accounts, and payroll and retirement documents.

546 TRANSMITTING VITAL RECORDS

546.1 Packaging - Transmit material to the relocation site in envelopes or packages or on disks for use on laptops. The disks can be updated periodically and held by a responsible officer of the element or office who would be part of a relocation team.

- a. Rotation - Do not include records that rotate monthly or quarterly in packages with records of a longer rotation period. Only an entire package may be replaced or rotated, since facilities are not available for screening packages at the site.
- b. Segregation - Segregate and package records so that they may be easily identified and readily available.
- c. Security - Packages that contain classified records must be prepared in compliance with security regulations in MOA VIII.
- d. Package Labels - Label material to be transmitted as follows:

Office or Div. & Branch
Pkg. #1, List #1

546.2 Preparing Form - Prepare Form Request for Action on Vital Records, in triplicate. Send all three copies of the form, with the material, to the Records Management Staff. After the deposit has been completed, one copy of the processed form will be returned to the originating unit.

ACCESS TO AND PROTECTION OF RECORDS ON INDIVIDUALS

581 POLICY AND LEGAL REQUIREMENTS

581.1 Policy - It is policy to deal with all employees and members of the public in an open manner, respecting their right to privacy, observing due process, and limiting collection, use or disclosure of information about individuals to those lawful purposes that contribute to Broadcasting's conduct of its authorized functions. It will continue to be policy to refer to the individual directly in verifying personnel records, and in obtaining personal information; to provide to individuals convenient access to records about themselves consistent with the Privacy Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-579) and the need to protect the right of all individuals to privacy; to assure that records about individuals are timely, accurate, relevant, and complete, consistent with the purposes for which they are maintained, and to correct them when necessary or appropriate. The principles of openness, fairness, and discretion in dealing with individuals or information about them are to be observed by all personnel. The Privacy Act of 1974 has codified the constitutional principles which govern the right to privacy; and it is policy to give full meaning to the spirit of that statute in carrying out its provisions.

581.2 Legal Requirements -

a. Authority - Regulations governing the protection and availability of records on individuals are contained in Title 22, Code of Federal Regulations, Chapter V, Sections 505.1 through 505.14.

b. Effect of Other Laws - Individuals may not be denied access to records pertaining to them because those records are permitted to be withheld under the Freedom of Information Act.

c. Use of Social Security Numbers -

(1) The Privacy Act of 1974 prohibits that any individual be required to disclose a social security number to verify identification unless such disclosure is required under statute or regulation adopted prior to January 1, 1975.

(2) No Federal, State, or local government agency can deny individuals any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of the individuals' refusal to disclose their social security account numbers.

(3) A Federal, State, or local government agency that requests an individual to disclose his or her social security account number will inform the individual whether the disclosure is mandatory or voluntary, the statutory authority for the solicitation, and the use to be made of the number.

(4) The Act also prohibits maintaining files on individuals from which information is retrieved by an individual's social security account number, unless the system of records was in existence and operating before January 1, 1975, and the disclosure of the social security number was required by statute or regulations to verify identification.

582 DEFINITIONS - For purposes of implementing the Privacy Act of 1974, the following definitions will apply.

a. Organization - the BBG (Broadcasting) its domestic offices and overseas establishments.

b. Individual - a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

c. Maintain - collect, use, disseminate, or any combination of these record keeping functions; control over, responsibility, and accountability for systems of records, including systems operated by contractors on behalf of Broadcasting.

d. e. System of Records - a group of any records under the control of Broadcasting from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual.

f. Statistical Record - a record in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes and not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual. (Note - Such records are excluded under the Privacy Act from disclosure, but may not be exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act.)

g. Routine Use - the common and ordinary purposes for which records are used, and all of the proper and necessary uses even if any such use occurs infrequently. Under the Act, gratuitous, ad hoc dissemination for private or other wise unofficial use of information not compatible with the purpose for which it was collected are prohibited.

583 RESPONSIBILITIES

583.1 Government-wide - The Privacy Act of 1974 established a Privacy Protection Study Commission to oversee implementation of the Act.

583.2 a. General Counsel, Office of General Counsel - The Director has delegated to the GC, Office of General Counsel, the responsibility for assuring compliance with the spirit and the letter of the Privacy Act.

b Permanent Working Subcommittee provides for necessary staff coordination, drafting or review of policy, rules, regulations, and procedural matters, required by the Privacy Act.

c. Office of the General Counsel (GC) will be called upon to advise the Director, and other officials on all matters involving the legal interpretation of the provisions of the Act.

f. Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts Coordinator, Office of Administration is responsible for:

(1) Serving as the executive secretary to the Committee on Public Information Policy and the Permanent Working Subcommittee.

(2) Receiving Privacy Act-related written requests directed to the Office of Administration and initiating action on these requests.

(3) Recording all requests under the Privacy Act received assigning action to appropriate offices within Broadcasting and overseas establishments, monitoring their actions in responding to such requests, preparing or reviewing responses made by Broadcasting, billing of requesters for services rendered as required, maintaining a file system of correspondence and documents (including accounting of disclosures) generated by the Privacy Act.

(8) Managing a reception office and reading room where requesters may be given access to records about themselves and examine records made available in response to a request.

(9) Identifying records desired (excluding personnel records and security files); obtaining them from Records Control Officers; reviewing records to determine whether (a) they contain classified material, (b) are in whole or in part exempt from disclosure to the requester under the provisions of the Privacy Act and directives implementing the Act, and (C) whether they contain personal information concerning an individual other than the requester after deletion of any portions exempted from disclosure for the above reasons.

(10) Overseeing accesses and accounting of accesses conducted by the Office of Personnel Services and the Office of Security .

(11) In coordination with the Office of Personnel arranging for all personnel involved in any way in maintaining systems of records to receive instruction of procedures established to implement the Act, and to be apprised of their responsibilities and rights under the Act, including penalties for noncompliance.

g. Records Control Officer - Each element of Broadcasting is to appoint a Records Control Officer to provide a bridge between Systems Managers (see par. 1 below), and the many record custodians in Broadcasting. Records Control Officers may be assigned to:

(1) Assure that Systems Managers, records custodians, and supervisors are aware of the follow through on their responsibilities under the privacy Act and directives pertaining to it, or;

(2) Serve as the "records custodian" for specific records systems or for Privacy Act procedures, e.g., the disclosure procedures, or;

j. Contracting Officers review all contracts that provide for the maintenance of systems of records by or on behalf of Broadcasting to ensure that, where appropriate and within Broadcasting's authority, language is included which ensures that such systems will be maintained in a manner consistent with the Act.

k. Systems and Management Analyst - In developing or designing a system of records to accomplish a function, analysts are to include safeguards to ensure that such systems will be maintained in conformance with the Act.

l. Systems Managers ensure that records maintained under their supervision conform in general to the provisions of the Act and, specifically to the published Notice of Systems of Records. They initiate proposals for revision of systems and their uses for approval by the Office of Administration, and conduct the annual review of systems of records leading to publication of a notice. In the exercise of these responsibilities, the Systems Managers will coordinate such actions with appropriate Records Control Officers.

m. File Custodians are to ensure that physical, procedural, and technical safeguards are observed and maintained in operation. They establish necessary unique identification of "records," as defined in the Act, and maintain adequate controls to ensure that records are only delivered to or made accessible to authorized persons.

584 DISCLOSURE

584.1 Conditions of Disclosure - No record within a system of records may be disclosed except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains. A record may be disclosed, however, without either a written request from or the written consent of the individual to whom the record pertains if such disclosure is authorized as follows:

a. Disclosure Within Broadcasting - This provision is based on a "need to know" concept. The Act recognizes that personnel require access to records in the performance of their duties.

b. Disclosure to the Public - Broadcasting is not required to obtain the consent of individuals before disclosing records that may contain information about them to a member of the public to whom Broadcasting is required to disclose such information under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). Broadcasting may, however, withhold records from a member of the public if such records are exempted from disclosure under the FOIA, e.g., if disclosure would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. (See par. 524.3h(1)(f).)

c. Disclosure for a Routine Use - Records may be disclosed without the consent of an individual for a "routine use," as defined in paragraph 562g, and as described in the required annual public notice about the system published in the Federal Register (see par. 565.2).

d. Disclosure to the Bureau of the Census - Broadcasting may disclose records to the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity. Title 13 U.S.C. Section 8, limits the uses that may be made of these records and also makes them immune from compulsory disclosure.

e. Disclosure for Statistical Research and Reporting - Records may be disclosed for statistical research or reporting purposes, either Government or private, only after Broadcasting has received and evaluated a written statement that explains the purpose for requesting the records, and certifies that the records will be used solely for statistical research or reporting. Such records made available would be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable. An accounting of these disclosures will be required in accordance with par. 584.2.

f. Disclosure to the National Archives - Broadcasting may disclose records to the National Archives of the United States pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 2103, which provides for the preservation of records of historical or other value. Records transferred to Federal Records Centers for safekeeping or storage do not fall within this category. (See par. 587.3.)

g. Disclosure for Law Enforcement Purposes - Broadcasting may disclose a record to another agency or unit of state or local government upon receipt of a written request describing the law enforcement activity for which the record is required, certifying that the activity is authorized by law, and specifying the particular record or portion of a record. Blanket requests for all records pertaining to an individual are not permitted by the Act.

h. Disclosure Under Compelling Circumstances -Broadcasting may disclose records when the time required to obtain the consent of the individual to whom the record pertains might result in a delay that could impair the health or safety of an individual, e.g., release of medical records on a patient undergoing emergency treatment. The concerned individual is to be so notified following the disclosure.

i. Disclosure to the Congress - Records on individuals may be furnished to either House of Congress, or, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee. Individual Members of Congress may gain access to records under conditions specified in par. 585.3d(2)(b)(iii). Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

j. Disclosure to the General Accounting Office - Records on individuals may be disclosed to the Comptroller General, or any of his or her authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office.

k. Disclosure Pursuant to Court Order - Broadcasting records may be disclosed as required pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

584.2 Accounting of Certain Disclosures

a. When Required - An accurate accounting is required for disclosure outside Broadcasting even when such disclosures are with the written consent or at the request of the individual (see par. 584.1). Exceptions are - disclosures within Broadcasting (par. 584.1a); and disclosures to the public under the Freedom of Information Act (par.584.1b), which require a separate accounting (par. 524.3n). The accounting of disclosures must include the following data:

(1) The date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure of a record to any person or to another agency made under par. 584.1.

(2) The name and address of the person to whom the disclosure is made.

(3) A cross-reference to the justification or basis upon which the release was made including any written documentation as is required in the case of the release of records for statistical or law enforcement purposes.

b. Retaining Records - Records on the accounting of disclosures required by the Act are to be retained for at least five years or the life of the record, whichever is longer, after the disclosure for which the accounting is made.

c. Making the Accounting of Disclosures Available to the Individual - Upon written request of the individual to whom the record pertains, Broadcasting will make available to that individual all information in its accounting of disclosures except that pertaining to disclosure to other agencies or government instrumentality for law enforcement purposes (par. 584.1g).

d. Informing Prior Recipients of Corrected or Disputed Records - When records are corrected at the request of individuals acting in accordance with their rights under the Act to request an amendment of records, or a statement of dispute is filed as provided in par 585.4d(5), Broadcasting must notify each agency or person to which the record has been disclosed of the exact nature of the correction or that notation of dispute has been made, or provide a copy of the corrected record when appropriate. If Broadcasting is the recipient of a record from another agency, Broadcasting must inform those to whom it may have disclosed the record of a correction or statement of dispute.

585 REQUIREMENTS AND PROCEDURES

585.1 Collecting , Validating, and Safeguarding Records

a. Restrictions on Collecting Information About Individuals

(1) Broadcasting can derive authority to collect information about individuals in one of two ways:

(a) by statute or Executive order explicitly authorizing the maintenance of a system of records;

(b) by statute or Executive order authorizing Broadcasting to perform a function which requires the maintenance of a system of records.

(2) Each item in a system of records must be relevant and necessary to the accomplishment of the purpose for which the system is maintained.

b. Information Is To Be Collected Directly From the Individual - The Act wishes to obviate the possibility that determinations affecting individuals may be based on information obtained from third party sources which could be erroneous, outdated, irrelevant or biased; so, to the greatest extent practicable, information that may adversely affect an individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs should be obtained directly from the individual concerned.

c. Informing Individuals From Whom Information is Requested - This provision is intended to assure that individuals from whom information about themselves is collected are informed of the reasons for requesting the information. Implicit in the Act is the notion of informed consent regarding an individual's decision as to whether or not to respond. Forms used in requesting information should contain easily understood language so that individuals are not deterred from reading them, and to ensure that respondents are not misled or inadvertently coerced. The forms should also include the following:

(1) Authority - Cite the specific provisions in statute or Executive order which authorizes Broadcasting to collect the requested information. The Offices of Personnel and Security, and other offices requiring personal information on special forms should clear such forms with GC.

(2) Purpose - The individual from whom information is solicited must be informed of all the principal purposes for which the information will be used, e.g., to evaluate qualifications for employment, or to issue benefit payments, and whether providing such information is mandatory or voluntary. Generally, all information solicited on individuals would be provided on a voluntary basis, but such information might be necessary for actions, procedures, or decisions. Therefore, it is important that the individual be informed of the consequences of not responding to the request for information (see par. (4) below).

(3) Uses To Be Made of Information - "Uses" should be distinguished from "purposes" in that purposes describe the objectives for collecting and maintaining information. Uses are the specific ways or processes in which the information is employed, and it is required that they be published in the Federal Register under each system of records (see par. 585.2a(4)). Descriptions of uses may be a summary of the routine uses in evaluating information for employment, or the various uses made of information contained in Foreign Service locator files, for example.

(4) Effects of Not Providing Needed Information - The individual must be informed of the effects, beneficial and adverse, if any, of not responding to a request for information.

d. Accuracy, Relevance, Timeliness, and Completeness of Records - The Act requires that all Federal agencies assure the accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness of records maintained on individuals. Errors could result in an erroneous decision with adverse consequences to the individual, e.g., denial of rights, benefits, entitlements, or employment. Systems Managers, Records Control Officers, and file custodians will observe the following criteria to provide at least a minimum assurance of the accuracy of records on individuals.

(1) Limit records to those elements of information that clearly bear on the purposes for which the records are intended to be used.

(2) In questionable instances, reverification of pertinent information with the individual to whom it pertains may be appropriate.

(3) If appropriate, advise recipients that the information disclosed was accurate as of a specific date, such as the last date on which a determination was made on the basis of the record or other known limits on its accuracy, e.g., its source.

e. Validating Records Before Disclosure - Broadcasting cannot guarantee the absolute accuracy of its records, but must make every effort to assure that a record about an individual it discloses to any person or agency is as accurate, relevant, timely, and complete as would be necessary reasonably to assure fairness in any determination which the Agency might make on the basis of that record. Validating records is the direct responsibility of Records Control Officers, and file custodians who maintain systems of records as reported in the Federal Register of January 23, 1979, and subsequently.

f. Records on Religious and Political Activity - The Act establishes rigorous standards governing the maintenance of records regarding religious, political, and other activities guaranteed by the First Amendment. No element is authorized to maintain records describing the exercise of these rights unless one of the following conditions is met:

(1) A statute specifically authorizes it.

(2) The individual expressly authorizes it.

(3) The record is required by an agency for an authorized law enforcement function.

g. Notification for Disclosures Under Compulsory Legal Process - When a record is disclosed under compulsory legal process (par. 644lg and k) and the issuance of that order or subpoena is made public by the court which issued it, Broadcasting will make a reasonable effort to notify the individual to whom the record pertains. Notifying the individual by mail at his or her last known address will suffice. Upon being served with an order to disclose a record, Broadcasting should endeavor to determine whether the issuance of the order is a matter of public record, and, if it is not, seek to be advised when it becomes public.

h. Rules of Conduct - The Privacy Act of 1974 imposes additional responsibilities upon all employees. The rules of conduct for persons involved in the design, development, operation, or maintenance of any system of records are set forth below. Employees should be aware of the public trust placed in them to ensure the confidentiality of personal information and to safeguard personal information from willful or negligent disclosure. This public trust involves physical and procedural protection, as well as the responsibility to report any known unauthorized disclosures. The use by officers and employees of personal information will be on a "need-to-know" basis and for official purposes only. Employees are particularly expected to use due discretion in all verbal communication to prevent an unauthorized disclosure of information contained in a system of records. The Act provides for civil remedies and criminal penalties which are described in par. 586.1 and 586.2.

(1) Supervisors may have in their possession notes regarding the performance of employees under their direction that must be properly safeguarded under the Act, irrespective of the manner in which such information is customarily recorded and maintained. For example, notes containing such information, once shown to or discussed with another person, must be filed and indexed in a manner enabling their recovery should the employee make application for access under the Act, and be reflected in the notice of systems of records. If such circulated records should contain any information (e.g., political views or affiliation, religious affiliation, etc.) not authorized to be maintained as part of Broadcasting's systems of records, the employee maintaining them could be subject to the criminal penalties provided in the Act. Supervisors should assure that all employees under their supervision receive a general orientation about their responsibilities under the Act. In addition, those supervisors whose subordinates are in any way involved in maintaining systems of records covered by the Act must assure that such individuals are thoroughly familiar with rules and procedures.

(2) Records Control Officers and Systems Managers must be aware of the infraction of law and regulation entailed in unauthorized disclosure, destruction, or modification of records in the system. It is the joint responsibility of the Records Control Officer and the System Manager to ensure that all reports, listings, files, and programs that contain personal information or that may be used to modify personal information are properly stored. The Records Control Officer and the System Manager are also responsible for the accuracy, currency, completeness, and relevance of the information contained in the record system.

(3) Systems and Management Analysts - All analysts are responsible for safeguarding personal information. In the development of new systems, analysts are to take into account the possible use of remote terminals and passwords for computer access (in the case of computer assisted systems) and their security, the reports developed by the system, and the distribution of those reports, their method of storage, etc. They are to also ensure that systems containing personal information are designed to be in accordance with the Act and reported as required by it.

(4) Contractors Operating System of Records - All contractors operating systems of records are responsible for protecting personal information in the same way as any of Broadcasting's employees, subject to the same administrative, technical, and security safeguards contained in paragraph i below. They are to be made aware by the contracting officer and contract monitor that under the Privacy Act, they are considered to be Broadcasting employees and, therefore, are subject to the civil and criminal provisions of the Act.

i. Administrative, Technical, and Physical Safeguards - The Privacy Act requires agencies to "establish appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to ensure the security and confidentiality of records and to protect against any anticipated threats to their security and integrity which could result in substantial harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained..." Broadcasting must protect personal information when it is stored, when it is in transit, and when it is being processed.

(1) General - Records of information about individuals should be used, held, or stored where facilities or conditions are adequate to prevent unauthorized access.

(2) Storage - Whenever records containing information about individuals are not under the direct control of an authorized person, they must be stored in a locked metal filing cabinet or in a secured room. Alternative storage facilities may be used, provided they furnish an equivalent or greater degree of physical protection than the cited methods.

(3) Administrative - Supervisors and personnel responsible for receiving and processing information about individuals should establish work practices and controls that assure the integrity of system of records and prevent unauthorized access to them.

(4) Procedural Safeguards - When information about individuals is being transmitted between two persons authorized access to it, the material must either be hand-carried or entrusted to a distribution system that affords protection equivalent to that of the U.S. mail. When the mail and messenger distribution system is used between Washington offices, the information should be enclosed in a sealed envelope and the envelope marked "PERSONAL INFORMATION." When addressed to the individual concerned, it will be marked "TO BE OPENED BY ADDRESSEE ONLY." Any unauthorized person opening material so marked may be considered subject to the criminal penalties of the Privacy Act. Particularly sensitive material, such as documents originating in the Office of Security, litigation materials, reprimands, etc., requires special handling at least equivalent to that which is afforded by registered mail. Such sensitive information must be hand-carried or transmitted through a messenger service with a system of receipts. Personnel evaluation files receive this treatment and are entrusted only to designated persons in each office or overseas establishment who will be responsible for their safe custody.

(5) Technical Safeguards - Material stored in or transmitted by electronic, photographic, or other non-paper means must be protected by adequate safeguards to avoid inadvertent or negligent disclosure. Computer transmission and storage are protected by passwords and secrecy keys to prevent unauthorized access to the system. Persons with access to the passwords are noted in an appropriate log to ensure that a complete list of such persons is maintained at all times. The password is changed as required to ensure that no unauthorized persons continue to have access. Data processing areas are secured by combination locks and locked doors to ensure that only authorized and recognized personnel are permitted to have access.

(6) Disposal or Destruction of any material contained in a system of records as reported in the Federal Register must be done with care so as not to cause unauthorized disclosure of information (see par. 536.1). The disposal or destruction of material considered to be of a sensitive nature must follow procedures contained in par. 536.

585.2 Requirements for Public Notices

a. Publication of Annual Notice of Systems of Records - Broadcasting is required to publish public notices of the existence and character of all its newly created systems of records. The public notice provision is premised on the concept that there should be no system of records whose very existence is unknown to the public. Exemption of information in records from disclosure does not, therefore, exempt the system from the requirement for public notice. Notices will be published to include the following information:

(1) Name and Location of the System - The public notice will specify each city/town and site (street address and building and overseas facilities at which the system of records is located). For a geographically dispersed system each location should be listed. A change in the list of locations will require publication of revised notice. In determining how to treat systems of records for purposes of public disclosure, the following matters should be considered:

(a) If each small grouping of records is treated as a separate system, public notices and procedures will be required for each.

(b) The publication of numerous notices may have the effect of limiting the information value to the public.

(c) If a large complex of records is treated as a single system, only one notice will be required but that notice and the procedures may be considerably more complex.

(d) Broadcasting can be expected to be required to respond to requests for access to records at the level of detail in their public notices.

(e) A geographically decentralized system of records may be treated as a single system, but the public notice must specify each location and the official responsible for the system at each location.

f) Broadcasting's ability to be responsive to the request of an individual for access to records will determine whether a grouping of records constitutes one system or several, for purposes of the annual public notice.

(2) Categories of Individuals - The public notice should allow the individual to determine if information about him or her might be in the system. The description of the categories of individuals should, therefore, be clearly stated in non-technical terms understandable to individuals unfamiliar with data collection techniques.

(3) Categories of Records - The notice should briefly describe the types of information contained in the system, e.g., employment history or earnings records, employee evaluation reports, etc.

(4) Routine Uses of records contained in the system should be listed in the public notice, and should also include the categories of users and the purpose of such uses (see par. 582g).

(5) Describing Records Management Policies and Practices in the Public Notice - The public notice should describe how the records are maintained, how they are safeguarded, what categories of officials within Broadcasting are permitted to have access and for what purposes, and how long records are retained both on Broadcasting's premises and at secondary storage sites (see below).

(a) Storage - Indicate the medium in which records are maintained, e.g., file folders, magnetic tape.

(b) Retrievable - The capabilities within the system of records for indexing and accessing a record, e.g., by name, personal characteristics, identification numbers.

(c) Safeguards - Describe in general terms what measures have been taken to prevent unauthorized disclosure of records and what categories of employees within Broadcasting have access.

(d) Retention and Disposal - Rules on how long records are maintained, if and when they are transferred to a Federal Records Center or to the Archives, if and how they are destroyed.

(6) Officials Responsible for Systems of Records - The public notices will include the title and address of the official who is responsible for overseeing domestic records management policies and practices pertaining to each system of records. For overseas systems, the name and address of the person responsible for the systems at each location will be provided on request by the Office of Administration.

(7) Procedures for Determining if a System of Records Contains a Record on an Individual - This portion of the public notice should specify:

(a) The address of the office to which inquiries should be addressed, or address of the location at which the individual may present a request in person.

(b) Identifying information required to ascertain whether or not the system contains a record about the inquirer.

(8) Procedures for Gaining Access to Records or Contesting Their Contents - This portion of the public notice should include the same information as described in paragraph (7)(a) above. This provision does not require the publication of procedures for obtaining access to or contesting the accuracy of a record. It requires only that individuals be advised of the means by which they can obtain information on those procedures.

(9) Categories of Information Sources - For systems of records that contain information obtained from sources other than the individual to whom the records pertain, the notice should list the types of sources used, e.g., previous employers, financial institutions, educational institutions attended. Specific individuals or institutions need not be identified.

b. Notice of New/Revised Routine Uses -

(1) For changes to existing systems, a revised public notice is required to be published thirty days before the change is effective. Generally, any change in a system which has the effect of expanding the kinds of records maintained, the categories of individuals on whom records are maintained, or the potential recipients of the information will require the publication of a revised public notice before the change is put into effect. In addition, any modification that alters the procedures by which individuals exercise their rights under the Act will require the publication of a revised notice before the change becomes effective.

(2) The required Federal Register notice issued to solicit public comment on new or revised routine uses must contain:

- (a) the name of the system;
- (b) the authority for the system;
- (c) the purpose for which the record is to be maintained;
- (d) the proposed routine uses; and
- (e) the categories of recipients for each.

(3) For new routine uses of systems for which a public notice is required, make reference to that public notice. The notice of the new routine use, however, should contain sufficient information to permit public comment on the appropriateness of the uses, including its necessity to and compatibility with the purposes of the system.

(4) All elements making changes in the systems of records which they maintain are responsible for notifying the Office of Administration on such changes. The Office of Administration in consultation with GC will, in turn, determine the appropriate public notice action.

585.3 Granting Access to Records -

a. General

(1) For purposes of this MOA section, the term "individual" includes both Broadcasting employees and persons outside Broadcasting.

Broadcasting will inform individuals, upon request, whether a system of records contains information pertaining to them, permit individuals to review copies of records pertaining to them, and permit individuals to obtain copies of such records in a form comprehensible to them at a reasonable cost.

(2) While reviewing records on Broadcasting premises, an individual may be accompanied by another person of his or her choosing. However, Broadcasting will require a written statement authorizing discussion and disclosure of the individual's record in the accompanying person's presence.

(3) The form in which a record is maintained, e.g., magnetic tape, or the context of the record, may require that a record be extracted or translated in some manner. Personnel responsible for working with records must be knowledgeable of the various processes required to extract information or translate documents for the individual.

(6) Broadcasting is not required to permit access to records by an individual if the information is not retrievable by the individual's name or other identifying particular. (see par. 584.1 regarding Freedom of Information Act requests.)

(7) Granting of access to records will not be conditional upon any requirement to state a reason or otherwise justify the need to gain access.

(8) Access will not be granted to an individual who requests information about himself or herself that might be contained in the file of another individual, except where a cross-indexing system is used to access information on an individual contained in another individual's file.

(9) Procedures for granting access to records may, of necessity, vary according to the size, nature, and location of the system of records. However, the rights of individuals to have access and to obtain copies of documents pertaining to them in systems of records will remain constant.

b. Determining if an Individual is the Subject of a Record

(1) The Public

(a) Paragraph 585.2a requires the publication of notices of the existence of systems of records within Broadcasting. Individuals should be able to determine from these notices whether or not any of the systems might contain a record pertaining to themselves.

(b) If the individual is uncertain as to whether or not Broadcasting maintains a record on him or her, the individual may contact the Systems Manager listed in the public notice.

(c) A request received by mail should identify the system of records by name and location as provided in the public notice.

(d) The request should reasonably identify the individual by name, date of birth, place of birth, father's name, and mother's maiden name. Employees or former employees should include their employee numbers, if known. (Note - Social security number may be requested but not required as an identifier. See par. 581.2c)

(e) In all instances of requests from individuals for access to records, or for other assistance pursuant to the Privacy Act, an acknowledgment of the receipt of such request will be forwarded within ten working days.

(2) Employees

(a) Official personnel files on employees currently on the rolls are maintained in accordance with the Office of Personnel Management regulations for domestic personnel, and the Foreign Service Act of 1946 for Foreign Service personnel. Rules regarding access to these files are contained in MOA V-A-900 and V-B-900.

(b) If an employee believes that he or she may be the subject of a file in another system of records other than official personnel files an inquiry may be made to the Office of Administration, or to the Office of Security.

c. Complying With Requests for Access

(1) Forward requests for access to systems of records under the Act to the Office of Administration, except those for official personnel files and security records. (See par. d. (5) below for the latter requests.)

(2) With the exception of Systems Managers of records maintained by Personnel and Security, any System Manager receiving a written or oral request for access to records will immediately direct the request to the Office of Administration for processing.

(3) All requests for access sent directly to the Office of Administration must clearly identify the systems of records sought as well as the individuals making the request. This applies to both written and oral requests. All requests will be reduced into written form before processing action begins.

(4) Requests for access received in the Office of Administration will be date/time stamped, logged, and action assigned to the appropriate element.

(5) Each element receiving a request for access should locate and review the pertinent records for their timeliness and accuracy in accordance with the purpose for which they are being maintained, and to ascertain if there is data contained in the records that should be excluded from disclosure. See paragraph 587 for exemptions under the Privacy Act. When the records are ready for review by the requesting individual, the responsible element must so inform the Office of Administration in writing by close of business of the eighth day following receipt of an access request. The Office of Administration will then notify the requester and establish a date and time for review of the concerned record.

(6) A response to a request for access to records should be sent within ten working days. In the case of an initial positive response, the individual will be invited to inspect/review requested records on premises, and will be advised to provide, if possible, such identifying documents as a birth certificate, driver's license, Medicare card, or employment identification card, or identifying information required by the Systems Manager. If the individual cannot provide any suitable documents, a signed notarized statement would be obtained asserting his or her identity, which stipulates that knowingly and willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another individual under false pretenses is punishable by a fine of up to $5,000. (See par. 586.2c.)

(7) Once an appointment to review records is established and prior to the arrival of the requester, the Office of Administration will request the transfer of the records to its office.

(8) Exemptions to the rules for access to records are contained in paragraph 587. If the reviewing element determines to deny access to records, the Office of Administration will be so notified in writing, including the reasons for denial. Any question as to what material can or cannot be exempted or deleted from records under the Freedom of Information Act or the Privacy Act should be referred to GC.

d. Procedures for Actual Access

(1) Identification of Individual - Requesting individuals must present themselves in person to verify their identities. In-person verification of identity should be arranged by appointment during official working hours, 8:15 to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except on legal holidays. Exceptions to this rule are contained in paragraph (6) below.

(2) Access - If it is determined that records may be disclosed, and are available locally, the individual may be permitted to review the file in the presence of a Broadcasting employee, and may be provided photocopies at a reasonable cost of any documents contained therein.

(a) By Employees - Employees may obtain access to their Official Personnel Files under procedures described in MOA V-A-900. Rules regarding access to such records for personnel at overseas establishments are covered in MOA V-B-900.

(b) By Other Individuals

(i) Designee - A designee is considered to be a person other than the original requester who requests access to records pertaining to the original requester. A designee must present, in writing, a signed statement from the original requester, authorizing and consenting to the release of his or her records to the designee.

(ii) Legal Guardians - The rights of legal guardians to have access to records are explained in paragraph 588.

(iii) Members of Congress - When an inquiry is received from a Member of Congress, seeking access to records pertaining to a constituent on his or her behalf, the consent of the individual may be implied rather than expressed, if the inquiry includes the assurance of such consent.

...No consent is necessary for a congressional request which specifies that the reply be sent directly to the individual; for a request based on "compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual"; or for a request (for records) that would be disclosed to the public under the Freedom of Information Act.

...Generally, a congressional request for access to records on an individual will include a copy of a letter from the individual, and consent may be implied. However, in the case of any congressional inquiry, whether written or verbal (including telephonic), which indicates that the request is being made on the basis of a written request from the individual to whom the record pertains, consent may be inferred even if the constituent's letter is not provided. In the case of such a verbal request, Broadcasting will carefully document the request, including the name of the requester, time and date of the request, and action taken. In some cases, Broadcasting may wish to ask the congressional office to follow-up with written confirmation of the request. While it is the policy of Broadcasting to expedite and be completely responsive to such requests, good judgment must be exercised in each case in the interest of preventing unauthorized disclosures.

...In those cases where the congressional inquiry indicates that the request is being made on behalf of a person other than the individual whose record is to be disclosed, Broadcasting should advise the congressional office that the written consent of the subject of the record is required. Broadcasting should not contact the subject unless the congressional office requests that it do so.

...This standard for implied consent is not intended to apply to other than congressional inquiries.

(3) Medical Records - Medical records maintained by Broadcasting comprise only medical clearances and abstracts of physical examinations. Individuals may have access to these records, except if, in the judgment of Broadcasting the release of medical information could have an adverse effect on the individual. Broadcasting will attempt to arrange an acceptable alternative in granting access to such records to the requester. This will normally involve the release of such information to a physician named by the requester. Rules regarding access to official personnel medical records of employees that are maintained by the Department of State are contained in 5 FAM 400.

(4) Accounting of Disclosures - The Office of Administration will be responsible for maintaining a log of all disclosures of records under the Privacy Act. Personnel and Security will maintain separate logs on disclosures under their control and report them to the Office of Administration. The accounting of each disclosure will include the following information:

(a) Identification of records disclosed.

(b) Identification of individual requesting disclosure and of any other person accompanying the requester during disclosure.

(c) Date and time records received in the Office of Administration, Personnel or Security.

(d) Date and time records given to requester for review.

(e) Time and review of records completed.

(f) Date and time disclosed records returned to concerned elements.

(5) Other Locations for Review of Records - Access to and review of official personnel records and security files will be arranged at a suitable location. It will be the responsibility of Personnel or Security to designate Records Control Officers and provide for suitable rooms where records can be reviewed. These Records Control Officers will be responsible for maintaining the necessary logs on the disclosures of records and for reporting such disclosures and other necessary information to the Office of Administration.

(6) Access to Records by Mail - If it is determined that access to records can be granted only by mail because an individual is unable to appear in person due to physical disability, hospitalization, or other legitimate reasons, copies of the requested records may be sent to the home address provided by the requester. This procedure will require proper identification of the requester by documentation or other means of identification acceptable to Broadcasting.

e. Processing Request for Access to Records Abroad - Overseas establishments maintaining records on individuals locally will follow the general procedures outlined in par. d above. Overseas offices receiving in person a request for records maintained in Washington from individuals resident in particular country should forward the request to the Office of Administration without recording it. The head of the overseas establishment will, if the individual has appropriate documentation, verify the identity of the individual and add a statement to this effect on the request. The Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts Coordinator will locate and transmit the information for release to the individual.

f. Granting Access to Records in Offices Abroad - Overseas establishments, in granting access to records maintained locally, will maintain files documenting access transactions. If the head of an overseas establishment proposes to deny access to a record, he or she should describe the situation to the Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts Coordinator and ask for concurrence with the proposed action, or for guidance.

g. Transfer of Records to Another Agency - Procedures for the transfer of records maintained on individuals to another Federal agency, or from another Federal agency to Broadcasting are contained in par. 535.

585.4 Amending Records

a. Requests To Amend Records -

(1) If after reviewing records pertaining to them, individuals question the accuracy or relevance of information contained therein, they are entitled to request amendment of the records. These requests should be submitted in writing in person or by mail to the Office of Administration. Requests should be clearly identified as Privacy Act requests for amendment of records and should contain the following information for identification of the system of records reviewed, date and place of the review, full and complete details concerning the portions of records to be amended, and a complete statement as to how the requester proposes that the records be amended.

(2) Incomplete or inaccurate requests should not be rejected automatically, but rather the individual will be asked to clarify the request as needed. A request presented in person will be screened briefly while the individual is still present to assure that the request is complete so that clarification may be obtained as needed.

(3) The Coordinator will date, time-stamp, and log the requests and forward them to the element responsible for review and determination on the request. Reviewing elements are to notify the Coordinator in writing of the determination within eight working days of receipt of a request.

(4) Follow the procedures in paragraphs 585.3b(1)(e) and 585.3d(1) to verify the identity of individuals requesting amendment of records.

b. Acknowledging Requests

(1) The Office of Administration will send a written acknowledgment of the receipt of a request to amend a record to the individual within ten working days. The acknowledgment will clearly describe the request and advise the requester when he or she may expect to be informed of action taken on the request.

(2) No separate acknowledgment of receipt is necessary if the request can be reviewed, processed, and the individual advised of the results of the review (whether complied with or denied) within ten working days.

(3) For written requests presented in person, written acknowledgment should be provided at the time the request is presented.

c. Action Required

(1) Action by concerned elements should be taken on a request to amend a record within ten working days, if possible. Prompt action will both assure that records are as accurate as possible and reduce the administrative effort which would otherwise be involved in issuing a separate acknowledgment of the receipt of the request and subsequently informing the individual of the action taken.

(2) If the nature of a request precludes completing the review in ten working days, the reviewing element must notify the Coordinator in writing and complete the review as soon as reasonably possible, normally within thirty working days, unless unusual circumstances preclude completing action within that time. Unusual circumstances can be defined as the requirement to obtain supporting data from retired records or from another agency which could not be completed within the required time. the Office of Administration will notify the requester of any such delays.

(3) If the concerned element agrees with any portion or all of the individual's request to amend a record:

(a) The Office of Administration will notify the individual

(b) The concerned element will correct the record as agreed upon.

(c) When an accounting of disclosures has been made, the Office of Administration will advise all previous recipients of the record that a correction has been made, giving the substance of the correction. (See par. 584.2d regarding an accounting of disclosures for personnel and security files.)

(4) In reviewing a record in response to a request to amend it, the accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness of the record must be considered (see par. 585.1d)

(5) If, after an initial review of a request to amend a record, the concerned element disagrees with all or any portion thereof, the Office of Administration will -

(a) Notify the individual in writing of the reasons for the refusal to amend the record;

(b) Inform the individual that he or she may request a further review by the Committee on Public Information Policy; and

(c) Include in the notice of refusal a description of the procedures for requesting a review.

d. Requesting a Review of the Refusal To Amend a Record -

(1) If an individual disagrees with Broadcasting's initial refusal to amend a record, he or she may request a further review of that determination in writing, addressed to the Chairperson, Committee on Public Information Policy. The appeal should include any documentation, information, or statements advanced to substantiate the request for amendment, as well as the basic data required by paragraph a(1) above.

(2) The Office of Administration will date, time-stamp, and log the request for review and return it to the element responsible for the initial denial.

(a) The reviewing element must inform the Office of Administration in writing within twenty working days of its review determination.

(b) If the review results in an agreement to amend records, the Office of Administration is to be so informed and the procedures in paragraph c(3) above followed in order to correct the record, advise the individual, and inform former recipients.

(c) If the review results in a determination to uphold the initial refusal to amend records, then the reviewing element is to so inform the Office of Administration and provide reasons for the denial.

(d) If for any reason the reviewing element is not certain as to what determination should be made, or wishes further consultation concerning a particular request, the Committee on Public Information Policy (CPIP) may be consulted for a decision or additional guidance.

(3) In all cases, determinations on appeals for review of initial denials to amend records will be reviewed by the Chairperson of the CPIP, who may bring the appeal and denial to the attention and consideration of the full Committee. The decision of the Chairperson or the full Committee will represent the final determination of Broadcasting on a particular request and will supersede individual element determinations where such action is indicated. (Note - The CPIP is the committee which also provides oversight of Freedom of Information requests. (See par. 524.3e(3).)

(4) If the CPIP concurs with the requester's appeal, it will direct that the actions described in paragraph (2)(b) above be initiated.

(5) If the CPIP determines to deny an appeal of an initial denial to amend records, the individual must be so notified and informed of his or her right to file with Broadcasting, for incorporation in his or her record, a concise statement setting forth reasons for disagreement with the decision. The individual must also be advised of the provisions for judicial review of the adverse determination (see par. 586.1a(1)).

(6) Prior recipients of the disputed record will be provided a copy of any statement of a dispute to the extent that an accounting of disclosures was maintained.

(7) A final determination on an individual's request for a review of an initial refusal to amend a record must be completed within thirty working days, unless Broadcasting has determined that a fair and equitable review could not be completed in that time. If additional time is required, the individual will be informed in writing, of the reasons for the delay and of the approximate date on which the review is expected to be completed.

585.5 Disclosure of Disputed Information

a. When an individual files a statement disagreeing with the decision not to amend a record, Broadcasting must clearly annotate the record so that the fact that a record is disputed is apparent to anyone who may subsequently gain access, use, or disclose it. The notation itself should be integral to the record and specific as to the record and specific as to the portion in dispute. For automated systems of records, the notation may consist of a special indicator on the entire record or the specific part of the record in dispute.

b. When information that is the subject of dispute filed by an individual is subsequently disclosed, Broadcasting should inform the agency or person that the information is disputed and provide a copy of the individual's statement.

c. If there is any question as to whether the dispute pertains to information being disclosed, the statement of dispute should be enclosed.

d. Prior recipients of records pertaining to individuals must be informed of disputed information (see par. 584.2d).

585.6 Access to Information Compiled in Anticipation of Civil Action

a. The Act does not permit individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding.

b. This provision of the Act is not intended to preclude access by an individual to records that are available to that individual under other procedures, e.g., pre-trial discovery. It is intended to preclude establishing by this Act a basis for access to material being prepared for use in litigation other than that established under other processes such as the Freedom of Information Act or the rules of procedural due process.

585.7 Fees - A fee of $0.15 per page will be charged to any individual requesting copies of records accessible under the Act, although there will be no charge for such costs of $1.00 or less, or for the first copies of personnel records. Broadcasting may not charge the individual for time spent searching for requested records or for time spent in reviewing records to determine if they fall within the disclosure requirements of the Act.

585.8 Disclosing Mailing Lists - Broadcasting may not sell or rent mailing lists for commercial or solicitation purposes unless authorized to do so by statute. The philosophy behind this provision of the Act, as explained in the "Privacy Act Guidelines, Office of Management and Budget, F.R. 40-28949 of July 9, 1975," is that the Federal Government is not in the mailing list business, and it should not be Federal policy to make a profit from the routine business of Government, particularly when the release of such list has been authorized under the FOIA. In other words, such lists cannot be withheld by Broadcasting unless it determines that the release would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy under the FOIA.

585.9 Government Contractors

a. Systems of records, operated under a contract that are designed to accomplish a function, are, in effect, deemed to be maintained by Broadcasting.

b. Any such contractor or any employee of such contractor is considered to be an employee of Broadcasting. This provision pertains to contracts agreed upon on or after September 27, 1975.

c. Contracts should stipulate that maintenance of systems of records on individuals requires the contractor and his or her employees to comply with all of the provisions of the Act pertaining to disclosure of records, and alert the contractor to the Act's provisions regarding criminal penalties for failure to comply.

586 CIVIL REMEDIES AND CRIMINAL PENALTIES

586.1 Civil Remedies

a. Grounds for Action - Individuals will have a recourse to legal action in the Federal District Courts for an unsuccessful attempt to have Broadcasting amend their records, for any improper denial of access to records, or denial of information about them in a record, or who were injured by an Agency action in violation of the Act.

(1) Refusal To Amend a Record - Individuals may seek judicial review of the refusal to amend a record under three conditions:

(a) The individuals have exhausted their recourse under the administrative procedures established by Broadcasting on appeals of the refusal to amend records; or

(b) The individuals contend that Broadcasting has not considered the request to review in a timely manner or has not acted in a manner consistent with established and published procedures for the review of an appeal for refusal to amend records; or

(c) Individuals may also bring a civil action against Broadcasting based on allegedly inaccurate records if it can be shown that a decision adverse to the individuals resulted from that inaccuracy.

(2) Denial of Access to a Record - Individuals may challenge decisions to deny them access to records about themselves to which they consider themselves entitled. Since access to a file is the key to ensuring the individual's right of accuracy, completeness, timeliness, and relevancy of records about himself or herself, a denial of access affords the individual the right to raise these issues in court, and also to challenge any exemption from the requirements of the Act.

(3) Failure to Maintain a Record Accurately - An individual may bring an action if it can be shown that deficiency in a record resulted in the adverse determination on the basis of the record by Broadcasting maintaining the record. An adverse action is one resulting in the denial of a right, benefit, entitlement, or employment by Broadcasting which the individual could reasonably have expected to be granted if the record had not been deficient. Broadcasting may be liable under the Act as a consequence of its failure to maintain a record accurately only if it is shown that its failure was "intentional and willful."

(4) Other Failures To Comply With The Act - An individual may bring an action for any other alleged failure by Broadcasting to comply with the requirements of the Act or failure to comply with any rule published by Broadcasting to implement the Act provided it can be shown that --

- (a) the action was "intentional or willful"; or
- (b) the action had an "adverse effect" upon the individual; or
- (c) the "adverse effect" was caused by Broadcasting's actions.

b. Basis for Judicial Review for Refusal To Amend a Record

(1) In any suit filed by an individual for Broadcasting's refusal to amend a record, a court may order Broadcasting to amend the individual's record in accordance with his or her request in such other way as the court may direct.

(2) The court may assess against Broadcasting reasonable attorney fees and other litigation costs reasonably incurred in which the complainant has substantially prevailed.

c. Basis for Judicial Review and Remedies for Denial of Access - In a suit filed by an individual for the denial of access to records in which the court finds for the individual against Broadcasting, the court may direct Broadcasting to pay court costs and attorney fees.

d. Basis for Judicial Review and Remedies for Adverse Determinations and Other Failures To Comply

(1) In any action brought for failure to comply with the provisions of the Act, other than for refusal to amend or denial of access to records, it must be shown that --

(a) the failure of Broadcasting to comply was "intentional or willful", or

(b) there was injury or harm to the individual; or

(c) the injury was casually related to alleged Broadcasting failure.

(2) If the court finds that Broadcasting has acted willfully and intentionally in violation of this Act, in such manner as to have an adverse effect upon the individual, Broadcasting may be required to pay actual damages or $1,000, whichever is greater, and court costs and attorney fees.

e. Jurisdiction and Time Limits -

(1) Action may be brought in the district court for the jurisdiction in which the individual resides or has a place of business, or in which the records are situated, or in the District of Columbia.

(2) The statute of limitations is two years from the date upon which the cause of action arises, except for cases in which Broadcasting has materially or willfully misrepresented any information required to be disclosed and when such misrepresentation is material to the liability of Broadcasting. In such cases the statute of limitations is two years from the date of discovery by the individual of the misrepresentation.

(3) A suit may not be brought on the basis of injury which may have occurred as a result of Broadcasting's disclosure of a record prior to September 27, 1975.

586.2 Criminal Penalties

a. Criminal Penalties for Unauthorized Disclosure - It is a criminal violation of the provisions of the Act for any officer or employee of Broadcasting knowingly and willfully to disclose a record in any manner to any person or agency not entitled to receive it for failure to meet the conditions of disclosure enumerated in paragraph 584.1, or without the written consent or at the request of the individual to whom the record pertains. Any officer or employee of Broadcasting found guilty of such misconduct shall be fined not more than $5,000.

b. Criminal Penalties for Failure To Publish a Public Notice - A basic objective of the Act is to assure that there is no secret system of records on individuals. Agencies are required to publish a public notice about each system of records which they maintain. Exemptions provided by the Act do not allow an agency to exempt any system of records from the requirement to publish a public notice of its existence, although the notice may be shortened somewhat. It is a criminal violation of the Act willfully to maintain a system of records and not to publish the prescribed public notice. Any officer or employee of Broadcasting found guilty of such misconduct is subject to a fine of not more than $5,000.

c. Criminal Penalties for Obtaining Records Under False Pretenses - The Act makes it a criminal offense knowingly and willfully to request or gain access to a record about an individual under false pretenses. Any person found guilty of such misconduct is subject to a fine of not more than $5,000.

567 EXEMPTIONS - The legislation recognizes that the application of all of the requirements of the Act to certain categories of records would have undesirable and often unacceptable effects upon agencies in the conduct of necessary public business. In applying any of the exemptions approved by the Act, it is recognized that no system of records is automatically exempt from any provision of the Act, and that the requirement to publish a public notice of systems of records maintained by Broadcasting applies to all such systems. To obtain an exemption from any requirement of the Act, the agency head must make a determination and publish it as a rule, subject to the Administrative Procedure Act, that a system of records falls within one of the categories permitted to be exempted. Such notice must include the specific provisions from which the system is proposed to be exempted and why the Agency considers the exemption necessary. (22 CFR 505)

587.1 General Exemptions -

a. Central Intelligence Agency - Files of the Central Intelligence Agency are exempted from certain provisions of the Act.

b. Criminal Law Enforcement Records

Records of an agency or component thereof engaged in criminal law enforcement activities are exempted from disclosure under the Act. Specifically exempted under this provision of the Act are records which are:

(1) Compiled for the purpose of identifying information on an individual regarding arrests, nature and disposition of criminal charges, sentencing, confinement, release and parole, or probation status;

(2) Compiled for the purpose of criminal investigation, including reports of informants and investigators, and associated with an identifiable individual;

(3) Reports identifiable to an individual compiled at any stage of the process of enforcement of the criminal laws from arrest or indictment through release from supervision.

587.2 Specific Exemptions -

a. Classified Material - The Act exempts from disclosure those records which are properly classified under an Executive order in the interest of national defense or foreign policy.

b. Investigatory Material Compiled for Law Enforcement Purposes - An Agency may exempt from disclosure investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes, other than material described in paragraph 567.1b provided, however, that if any individual is denied any right, privilege, or benefit that he or she would otherwise be entitled by Federal law, or for which he or she would otherwise be eligible, as a result of the maintenance of such material, such material will be provided to such individual, except to the extent that the disclosure of such material will be provided to such individual, except to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to the effective date of the Act, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

c. Records Maintained To Provide Protective Services - This exemption covers records that are not within the scope of law enforcement records covered under b. above, but which are necessary to assure the safety of the President of the United States and other individuals protected pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3056.

d. Statistical Records - An agency may exempt a system of records that is used solely for the purpose of generating aggregate data or for other similarly evaluative or analytical purposes, and that is not used to make decisions on the rights, benefits, or entitlements of individuals except for the disclosure of a census record to an individual permitted by 13 U.S.C. 8.

e. Investigatory Material Compiled for Determining Suitability for Federal Employment or Military Service - A record or portion thereof may be exempted from certain provisions of the Act if disclosure would cause the identity of a confidential source to be revealed. This exemption may be invoked only if the following conditions are met:

(1) The record is maintained only for purposes of determining an individual's qualifications, eligibility, or suitability for military service, employment in the civilian service or on a Federal contract, or need for access to classified material.

(2) The information is considered relevant and necessary to making a judicious determination as to qualifications, eligibility, or suitability and could only be obtained by providing express assurance to the source that his or her identity would not be revealed to the subject of the record, e.g., for "critical sensitive positions."

(3) Disclosure of the record with the identity of the source removed would likely reveal the identity of the source, e.g., the record contains information that could only have been furnished by one of several individuals known to the subject.

f. Testing or Examination Material - Broadcasting may exempt from disclosure testing or examination material used solely to assess the qualifications of an individual for appointment or promotion in Broadcasting, the disclosure of which would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process.

g. Material Used To Evaluate Potential for Promotion in the Armed Services - Application of an exemption for material used in evaluating the potential for promotion of members of the armed services must meet the same tests and conditions that are applied under paragraph b. and e. above, revealing a confidential source.

587.3 Archival Records

a. Records Stored in Federal Records Centers - The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) performs records storage services for all Federal agencies. Records stored in Federal Records Centers are considered to be maintained by the agency that deposited the records. NARA will not disclose records to any agency or individual except the agency that maintains the records, except as provided under rules established by that agency which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act.

b. Records Archived Prior to September 27, 1975 - Records transferred to the Archives for preservation pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 2103 prior to September 27, 1975, are considered to be maintained by the Archives and are not subject to any of the provisions of the Act. However, NARA is required to issue general notices describing its current holdings which cover, to the extent possible, the categories of individuals on whom records are maintained, the types of information in those records, and policies governing access and retrieval. If for any reason a record currently in the Archives is disclosed to the agency for use in making a determination as to the rights, benefits, or entitlements of an individual, it becomes subject to the provisions of the Act to the same extent as any other record maintained by the agency.

c. Records Archived on or After September 27, 1975 - Records transferred to the Archives for preservation pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 2103 on or after September 27, 1975, are considered to be maintained by the Archives for purposes of the Act, but are only subject to the provisions of the Act requiring (1) annual public notice of the existence and character of the information systems maintained by the Archives, (2) establishment of appropriate safeguards to ensure the security and integrity of preserved personal information, and (3) issuance and implementation of rules to ensure the effective enforcement of those safeguards.

588 RIGHTS OF LEGAL GUARDIANS - The Act provides that the parent of any minor or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction may act on behalf of the individual.

589 REPORTS

589.1 New Systems

a. A report must be submitted for each proposed new system of records and for changes to existing systems. Each agency element maintaining systems of records is responsible for reporting changes in existing systems or establishment of new systems. The Office of Administration is responsible for preparing and submitting the reports. The criteria for determining what constitutes a change in an existing system requiring the preparation of a report are:

(1) Increasing the number or types of individuals on whom records are maintained.

(2) Expanding the type or amount of information maintained.

(3) Increasing the number of categories of agencies or other persons who may have access to those records.

(4) Altering the manner in which records are organized so as to change the nature of those records, e.g., the combining of two or more existing systems.

(5) Modifying the way the system operates or its locations in such a manner as to alter the process by which individuals can exercise their rights under the Act, e.g., to seek access or request amendment of a record.

(6) Changing the equipment configuration on which the system is operated so as to create the potential for greater access, e.g.; adding a telecommunication capability.

b. The reports are submitted to the Congress, to the Director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Attn. ISD, and to the Privacy Protection Study Commission.

589.2 Annual Report -

a. The Office of Administration will prepare the report to OMB by April 30 of each year, covering activities under the Act during the preceding year. The information required in the report will include not only the minimum information required for inclusion in a report to Congress but also information as is needed to evaluate the overall effectiveness of the Privacy Act implementation, to identify areas in which implementing policies or procedures should be changed, and to assess the impact of Federal data management activities.

b. The Broadcasting report will include but not be limited to the following:

(1) Summary - a brief summary of the status of actions to implement the Act, the results of these efforts, any problems encountered and recommendations for any changes in legislation, policies, or procedures.

(2) Accomplishments - a summary of major accomplishments, i.e., improvements in information practices and safeguards.

(3) Plans - a summary of major plans for activities in the upcoming year, e.g., area of emphasis, additional securing of facilities planned.

(4) Exemptions - a list of systems which are exempted during the year from any of the operative provisions of the Privacy Act permitted under the terms of general and specific exemptions, whether or not the exemption was obtained during the year, the number of records in each system exempted from each specific provision, and reasons for invoking the exemption.

(5) Number of Systems - a brief summary of changes to the total inventory of personal data systems subject to the provisions of the Act including reasons for major changes, e.g., the extent to which review of the relevance of and necessity for records has resulted in elimination of all portions of systems of records or any reduction in the number of individuals on whom records are maintained. Agencies will also be required to provide OMB with a detailed listing to facilitate oversight of implementation of the Act.

(6) Operational Experiences - a general description of operational experiences including estimates of the number of individuals (in relation to the total number of records in the system) requesting information on the existence of records pertaining to them, refusing to provide information, requesting access to their records, appealing initial refusals to amend records, and seeking redress through the courts.

c. More extensive data may be requested on those cases where Broadcasting was unable to comply with the requirements of the Act or the OMB guidelines, e.g., access was not granted or a request to amend records could not be acknowledged within prescribed time limits.

Originating Office: TSI, Enterprise Telecom Division (T/CT), 202-382-7384

(a) PURPOSE: This document defines policies, procedures, and standards for the usage, administration, and security of Agency Mobile Devices used to conduct the official business of the Broadcasting Board of Governors (BBG). The BBG's Mobile Device Use Policy is intended to define the procurement, administration, and use of Agency Mobile Devices.

(b) AUTHORITY & SCOPE:

(1) Authority: This policy implements requirements and guidance found in the following:

- (i) The Clinger-Cohen Act (Pub. L. 104-106, Division E; 40 U.S.C. 11101 et seq.)
- (ii) OMB Memo M-11-29 (Aug. 8, 2001);
- (iii) Executive Order 13589 (Nov. 9, 2011);
- (iv) National Institute of Standards and Technology Special Publication 800-124, Rev. 1 (July, 2012);
- (v) Standards of Ethical Conduct for Employees of the Executive Branch: Basic Obligations of Public Service. 5 C.F.R. 2635.101 \(b\)\(9\);
- (vi) Standards of Ethical Conduct for Employees of the Executive Branch: Use of Government Property. 5 C.F.R. 2635.704.

(2) Scope: This policy applies to all offices or divisions of the International Broadcasting Bureau (IBB), Voice of America (VOA), and Office of Cuba Broadcasting (OCB), collectively "the Agency". However, paragraphs (1) through (13) of Section (d) DO NOT apply to OCB or non-U.S.-based offices of divisions of IBB or VOA. All mobile devices (including cell phones, smart phones, and tablet computers, but not laptop computers; see Section E Definitions below) that are owned, rented, issued, or otherwise procured or maintained by the Agency are "Agency Mobile Devices," subject to the provisions of this policy. This policy applies to all Users, including full and part-time employees, contractors, and any other individual, who uses an Agency Mobile Device. This policy supersedes any previously-implemented policies dealing with Agency Mobile Devices.

(c) POLICY:

(1) Employment at the Agency does not guarantee access through an Agency Mobile Device to Agency networks and information.

(2) One of two types of Agency Mobile Devices may be provided based upon User needs and Agency resources:

(i) A Dedicated Mobile Device; or

(ii) A Shared Mobile Device.

(3) The Agency will centralize mobile service plans and optimize costs through the maximum practical use of Shared Mobile Devices, minutes, and data plans.

(d) PROCEDURES AND PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

(1) The BBG's Office of Technology Services and Innovation (TSI) Enterprise Telecommunications Division (T/CT) administers and oversees this Agency Mobile Device policy.

(2) T/CT will coordinate with the Office of Contracts (CON) for the procurement of mobile devices and services.

(3) T/CT is solely responsible for managing the administration of all Agency Mobile Devices and mobile services, including but not limited to monitoring Agency Mobile Device usage and costs, as well as maintaining up-to-date records of assigned Agency Mobile Devices and phone numbers.

(4) The directors of VOA, IBB, and office directors that report directly to the IBB Director, determine the need for Agency Mobile Devices or mobile applications within their respective organizations.

(5) The IBB Enterprise Telecommunications Division (T/CT) is not responsible for purchasing or distributing Agency Mobile Device accessories or mobile applications. If the directors mentioned in paragraph (d)(4) above determine a need for Agency Mobile Device accessories or applications, based on mission critical operation requirements, their respective organizations will be responsible for procurement these items.

(6) Device/Service Requests: A User must submit an "Agency Mobile Device/Service Request" form to telecom-support@bbg.gov or a hard copy of T/CT before receiving an Agency Mobile Device, initiating new services on an Agency Mobile Device, or changing existing services on an Agency Mobile Device. The request form will be available on the website for the T/CT. <http://inside.bbg.gov/offices/tsi/EnterpriseTelecom/default.aspx>. Each Agency Mobile Device/Service Request Form must include a written justification that explains why the User requires an Agency Mobile Device or a change to existing services. The request form must be signed by the User's supervisor and by the appropriate director identified in paragraph (d)(4) above.

(7) Justification for Dedicated Mobile Devices: Dedicated Mobile Devices will only be issued to Agency Users who possess a highly specialized skill set (e.g. Journalist, Dalet Administrator, Radio Traffic Management), do not have a back-up, and must be accessible at any time (e.g. Agency Senior Executive Leadership). Mobile devices may also be provided for news gathering purposes. Any User that meets these criteria will need to document their need on the request form, mentioned in paragraph (d)(4) above.

(8) Justification for Shared Mobile Devices: If a User does not meet the requirements for a Dedicated Mobile Device, that User may receive a Shared Mobile Device. Shared Mobile Devices will be assigned on a temporary basis or permanently shared among a group of people. Examples of how these devices may be used include:

(i) System support personnel who provide support and assistance to Agency Users will “check in” and “check out” Agency Mobile Devices at the beginning and end of each shift.

(ii) Journalists who require Mobile Devices for limited periods of time for recording, editing, sending, or publishing multimedia content on various platforms will “check in” and “check out” Mobile Devices at the beginning and end of each shift.

(iii) Staff members on official travel who require an Agency Mobile Device for a limited period of time will “check in” and “check out” the device at the beginning and end of official travel.

(iv) Staff members on rotation as a duty officer, or for a temporary assignment, will “check in” and “check out” devices at the beginning and end of each assignment.

(9) Management of Shared Mobile Devices: Departments or Divisions that require Shared Mobile Devices for either temporary or group use are required to submit an Agency Mobile Device request form to T/CT. As with designated Users, requests for Shared Devices will require justification as well. In addition, the requesting Department or Division must designate a shared Mobile Device administrator to manage and secure the distribution of all devices provided by T/CT. The Shared Mobile Device administrator will be responsible for the following:

(i) Ensuring that Agency Mobile Devices are kept in a secure, locked facility when not in use.

(ii) Ensuring that Temporary or Group Users are familiar with the Agency’s Mobile Device Policy and have signed an acceptance of responsibility document provided by T/CT.

(iii) Ensuring that Temporary or Group Users check in and out Shared Mobile Devices by signing a shared device log, provided by T/CT.

(iv) Ensuring that Temporary or Group Device Users remove any personal data and email accounts from the Shared Mobile Device before it is transferred to another User. T/CT will assist Shared Mobile Device administrators by providing instructions on how to setup or remove Agency email accounts for Temporary or Group Users on Shared Mobile Devices.

(v) Ensuring that Shared Mobile Devices are fully utilized. If a Shared Mobile Device administrator foresees no usage on a device, for a minimum period of a month, s/he must notify T/CT and request a service suspension on the device.

(vi) Shared Mobile Device administrators will also provide usage reports to T/CT upon notification and on a quarterly basis by submitting an electronic copy of their shared device log via email to telecom-support@bbg.gov. T/CT will provide administrators with a shared device log template. Failure to submit a device log may result in suspending services on the Shared Mobile Devices.

(10) Types of Agency Mobile Devices and Services Available:

(i) Device selection is determined by the Agency's mobile service contracts, user needs, and by recommendations from T/CT and the Information Technology Directorate. A current list of Agency Mobile Devices and technical details is available on the T/CT intranet site at <http://inside.bbg.gov/offices/tsi/EnterpriseTelecom/default.aspx>.

(ii) Agency Mobile Devices requiring international service plans are intended to be used for official use. Any personal use of Agency Mobile Devices including international service plans shall comply with the policies and procedures outlined in paragraphs 14 through 16 of this section.

(iii) To add international service to a plan, the User's supervisor must submit a request to temporarily add international service to the assigned Agency Mobile Device. The request must include the dates of travel and the countries visited.

(11) Replacement of Agency Mobile Devices:

(i) To maintain a cost-effective program, Agency Mobile Devices must be used for a minimum of at least two years prior to replacement or upgrades.

(ii) Requests for a replacement Agency Mobile Device require justification from the User's supervisor and approval from the relevant Director Mentioned in paragraph (d)(4) above.

(12) Usage Guidelines: T/CT shall provide users information on service plan's restrictions and usage limits. Users must know and follow their service plan's restrictions and usage limits.

(i) If a User retires, leaves the Agency, or no longer needs an Agency Mobile Device or service, s/he is required to inform the Enterprise Telecommunications Division (T/CT) and to turn in the Agency Mobile Device.

(ii) Users may not share or pass the Agency Mobile Device to another colleague while the device is still officially assigned to the User.

(iii) Users shall not accept any offers made via text, or other means, that might generate third party charges, nor subscribe to any fee-based mobile applications, games, or other content while using an Agency Mobile Device.

(iv) Users are responsible for the care of their assigned or Shared Mobile Devices. Users must promptly return any Agency Mobile Device requiring maintenance, service, or repair to T/CT.

(v) If an Agency Mobile Device is lost, stolen, or damaged, the User or Shared Mobile Device administrator must immediately notify the Enterprise Telecommunications Division at telecom-support@bbg.gov so that T/CT can lock and disable the Device. Lost, stolen, or damaged Agency Mobile Devices may be replaced pending availability of Devices and funding.

(vi) Lost or stolen Agency Mobile Devices are subject to immediate deactivation and remote deletion of all their data or content. .

(vii) Failure to comply with these Usage Guidelines may result in disciplinary action, up to and including removal from Federal service. See Paragraph (d)(15) below for more information.

(13) Usage Reviews:

(i) T/CT will conduct an annual usage review of all Agency Mobile Devices and submit a report to the Agency's Chief Information Officer, or designee. This information will be used in planning for future Agency Mobile Device usage. In addition, T/CT will review usage records for Agency Mobile Devices monthly and will consult with Users' supervisors if excessive uses or unauthorized calls are observed.

(ii) T/CT will identify Agency Mobile Devices that are not used, or are minimally used, for two consecutive months.

(iii) Then, T/CT will contact the Users of all unused or minimally-used Agency Mobile Devices, as well as the Users' supervisors, to determine whether or not the assignments for these devices are still justified.

(iv) After consultation with both the User and the User's supervisor, T/CT may terminate service for underutilized Agency Mobile Devices and require the return of such devices.

(14) Security:

(i) All Agency Mobile Devices must be password protected.

(ii) Users are solely responsible for the physical security of their assigned Agency Mobile Device.

(iii) Mobile Device Management software may be installed on Agency Mobile Devices to track usage, inventory, and policy implementation.

(iv) Users are prohibited from disabling or altering security features on any Agency Mobile Device.

(v) The physical security of Agency Mobile Devices is the responsibility of the User to whom the device has been assigned.

(vi) Users must remove sensitive information from the Agency Mobile Device before it is returned, exchanged, or disposed of.

(15) Compliance and Disciplinary Action:

(i) All Agency Mobile Device Users shall abide by all federal, state, and local laws governing the use of mobile devices while driving (e.g., hands-free use and/or texting), as well as all Agency Mobile Device policies and guidelines.

(ii) The Agency may restrict or rescind Agency Mobile Device privileges, or take any other appropriate administrative or legal action, due to failure to comply with the above-referenced policies.

(iii) Agency Mobile Devices are intended for official use. Users are permitted limited personal use of Agency Mobile Devices if such use:

(A) Will not interfere with official business; and

(B) Will not create an additional expense for the Government; and

(C) Will not create an appearance or perception of inappropriate or unlawful use.

(iv) Users are solely responsible for confirming that personal use of an Agency Mobile Device will comply with their service plan's restrictions and usage limits and will not result in additional expenses or service charges. Users that incur additional expenses to the Government through the personal use of an Agency Mobile Device may be required to reimburse the Government the full amount of such expenses and may be subject to disciplinary action.

(v) Unauthorized or inappropriate use of Agency Mobile Devices (which includes, but is not limited to, excessive use, personal use that results in additional cost to the Agency or interferes with Agency official business, placing unauthorized international calls, or using an Agency Mobile Device to access, store, or display inappropriate or prohibited content) may result in disciplinary action, up to and including removal from federal service.

(vi) Users are strictly prohibited from using Agency Mobile Devices for personal commercial or business activities not related to their official duties.

(vii) Divisions or Departments that fail to properly administer their Shared Mobile Devices may lose the privilege of administering their own programs.

(i) Agency Mobile Devices are official government equipment to be used for official government business. As such, Users do not have a right to, nor should they have any expectation of, individual or personal privacy while using Agency Mobile Devices.

(ii) By accepting an Agency Mobile Device, Users consent to monitoring and/or inspection of Device usage, including the contents of any files or information maintained or accessed on that Device.

(e) DEFINITIONS:

(1) Agency Mobile Devices include, but are not limited to cell phones, smart phones, and tablet computers requiring a cellular data plan, mobile hotspot, or broadband card. However, Laptops are not Agency Mobile Devices for purposes of this policy.

(2) Agency Mobile Device accessories include, but are not limited to holsters, cases, car chargers, screen protectors, Bluetooth headsets, etc.

INFORMATION SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT POLICY

1101 PURPOSE AND SCOPE

This policy establishes the management process for designing, developing and implementing new information systems (IS), and operating and enhancing existing systems. It introduces Life Cycle Management (LCM) concepts as the basis for the policy.

This policy applies to all Information Systems, domestic and overseas, which are procured, enhanced or operated with Broadcasting funds.

1102 LIFE CYCLE MANAGEMENT

The term, Life Cycle, refers to the duration of an information system, beginning with conception or creation and ending with final disposition. Life Cycle Management seeks to:

1. Establish a framework for managing technical change: creating new information systems, enhancing existing systems, and retiring or replacing obsolete systems.
2. Ensure that information systems are responsive to user requirements by guaranteeing that a functional analysis is completed and validated before development is authorized.
3. Avoid development of unneeded or redundant systems by requiring appropriate management review and approval.
4. Institute controls so that information systems are acquired, developed, operated, and enhanced in a cost-effective manner and in accordance with existing Federal regulation.
5. Identify individual roles and responsibilities throughout the life cycle of an information system, and ensure management accountability for its success.
6. Specify all resource requirements related to an information system for its entire life cycle.

1106.0 INFORMATION SYSTEMS

A sub-category of Non-Major system, is defined as having a development cost of $50,000 or less, an annual operating cost of $20,000 or less, or an enhancement cost of $10,000 or less. Broadcasting policy seeks to keep management review at a level and in an amount in keeping with the need to expedite the development and enhancement of the system.

1106.1 Management and Control

1106.1.1 Project Manager. The responsible Element Head or his Technology Coordinator will designate a single point of contact for each system. This project manager is responsible for:

1. Ensuring that required information on each system development or enhancement is prepared and provided to the Technology Coordinator. The Technology Coordinator is responsible for providing required documentation to Computing Services.
2. Conforming to internal Element policies and procedures.

1106.1.2 Milestones and Documentation. The necessary information on cost, benefits and other issues can be provided on a one-page form. The information requested on this form must be:

1. Prepared in advance.
2. Reviewed and approved by the Element Head (or Technology Coordinator).
3. Retained for audit purposes in the Element during the entire system life cycle;
4. Provided to Computing Services, which is responsible for planning for technology.

1107 Exceptions

External coordination is required for System development or enhancement, regardless of cost, when:

1. Systems contain classified information. The approval of Office of Security is required.
2. Technology Coordinators determine that systems processing or transmitting unclassified, but sensitive, information (e.g., personnel or medical records) require protective measures beyond those proposed or in place. The advice and approval of the Office of Security is then required.
3. Systems need to be accessed by others outside of the Major Element or Office that develops them. Such systems require the concurrence of all affected elements.

1108.0 Definitions

Definition of terms used in this Life Cycle Management policy are contained in Chapter 4000.

1109 MILESTONE REVIEW CHECKLIST

The following check-list is intended to help project managers and system developers prepare for milestone reviews. It lists criteria that are relevant to a broad range of information systems. All criteria will not apply to every system. Computing Services will coordinate with project or system managers, the Technology Coordinators and the SIRMO to establish specific review criteria for each system.

1109.1 Milestone 1: Project Initiation

1. The requirement described has high priority and lends itself to an automated solution.
2. Constraints on Broadcasting's ability to meet the requirement are identified.
3. Requirements are stated in program and management terms, not as specific hardware and software requirements.
4. Resources required for developing the concept are reasonable.
5. The proposed implementation date is achievable.
6. A proven strategic planning methodology is used.
7. Organizations and/or management processes impacted by the proposed system have been identified and coordinated.

1109.2 Milestone 2: Concept Development

1. The general functional requirements, including security needs, are well defined and validated.

INFORMATION RESOURCES PLANNING PROCESS

1201 Purpose and Scope

This policy establishes the planning process for information resources. The goals are to improve program effectiveness, increase productivity and reduce or avoid costs by improving information resources management (IRM).

In general, the planning process seeks to align technology with mission, goals and objectives. In particular, the planning process should help to:

- Develop and maintain the technological infrastructure needed to operate cost-effectively in a rapidly changing external environment.
- Identify, design and implement information systems that contribute in significant measure to program and management goals and activities.
- Establish resource priorities for information systems relative to other demands on resources and well in advance of implementing such systems.
- Provide compatibility, reduce unnecessary duplication and facilitate information exchange wherever desirable throughout Broadcasting.
- Ensure that information systems are designed, operated and enhanced in accordance with the genuine needs of users and the best technical knowledge available to Broadcasting.
- Ensure that Broadcasting conforms to Federal regulations on disseminating, storing, and disposing of information and on privacy, freedom of information, and security requirements.

This policy applies to both domestic and overseas establishments.

1201.1 Regulatory Basis

IRM planning is mandated in public statute:

Public Law 96-511 (The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980) establishes a requirement for a five-year plan and annual updates to meet Federal automated data processing (ADP) and telecommunications needs.

Office of Management and Budget (OMB) issues annual bulletins requiring Federal Agencies to provide information on plans for information systems and technology.

OMB Circular A-11 (Section 43) establishes a requirement for preparing information technology resource requests and, for significant initiatives, benefit-cost analyses.

1201.2 Planning as a Management Tool

Although required for external reporting, IRM planning is a key internal management tool. It provides ways of examining current applications of technology, identifying opportunities for improvement, and monitoring associated costs. IRM planning also helps to avoid crisis-oriented responses by providing for an orderly review and replacement of information systems consistent with rapidly changing technological capabilities. And it provides a framework for defining roles, delegating responsibilities, and measuring performance.

1201.3 Planning as a Budgetary Aid

By generating financial information based on estimated life cycle cost which is explained in the previous chapter on Information Systems Management Policy, IRM planning provides direct input to the budgeting process. It also provides a way to identify duplication of effort, existing information systems that might be candidates for common use, trends in information technology, components headed in diverse directions, and proposed systems not based on current technology. Based on analysis of the IRM plan, the budget can reflect solid decisions.

1202 IRM Planning Process

The IRM Planning Process consists of five separate processes or activities which follow one another in prescribed order. Each activity produces a separate planning document.

1202.1 Plan

Ideally, planning for technology is based on a plan which identifies directions, program and other initiatives. This opens the way for close alignment of technology objectives with Broadcasting objectives.

1202.2 IRM Planning and Architecture Guidance (PAG)

The first step in the IRM Planning Process is to prepare guidelines which:

1. Summarize the long-range objectives of Broadcasting which technology must support as identified in the Plan (see above).
2. Portray management's philosophy for applying information resources to support Broadcasting's mission.
3. Describe current technical framework and identify the future direction for technology. This section will address current capabilities and key factors affecting the evolution of technology. It will also provide a target architecture for at least the next five years which includes software and hardware standards as well as communications interfaces and protocols. Chapter 1800 addresses policy on Information Resources Standards.
4. Provide specific guidance on preparing IRM plans for Broadcasting's Major Elements (see Section 1202.3 below). These individual plans are then synthesized to produce a Broadcasting-wide IRM Plan. The planning guidelines will include an outline of the format for the IRM Plan and describe its main components. It will also analyze the strengths and weaknesses of the previous year's planning efforts of Broadcasting's Major Elements and identify problems to be remedied in the new planning cycle.

5. Designate deadlines for completing the various activities in the planning process so that planning documents are available in time to provide meaningful input into the budget process.

These instructions, known collectively as IRM Planning and Architecture Guidance (PAG), provide a framework for use in preparing technology plans.

1202.3 Major Element IRM Plan

For purposes of this planning effort, the Major Elements are: Voice of America, Television, Engineering, as well as each of the Offices reporting directly to the Director of International Broadcasting. The Office of Cuba Broadcasting will have its own IRM plan.

Considering the mission, their own program and management objectives, and the PAG, the Major Elements must describe and evaluate their current systems environment, including architecture; identify future information resource requirements and their plans for meeting them, including resource requirements, using a five-year horizon. The plans must also address requirements for information sharing--internally, with other major elements, and/or with central systems.

In summary, to prepare their IRM plans, the Major Elements must:

1. Identify and analyze their program and operational needs, and develop technology goals and objectives to support them.
2. Analyze the PAG for its impact on their technology goals and objectives.
3. Develop strategies to meet their technology goals and objectives.
4. Describe, design or update their system architecture.
5. Plan for information systems including priorities, funding, and implementation strategies.

1202.4 IRM Plan

The third major activity in the technology planning process is to synthesize the IRM Plans of the Major Elements into a Broadcasting-wide IRM Plan. This plan will identify, for technology resources, where Broadcasting is, where it plans to go, and how it plans to get there. The plan will describe constraints on implementing technology in Broadcasting, ways to overcome these impediments, and Broadcasting's priorities for implementing technology. The document will provide a basis for developing a technology budget, including information about expected return on investment.

1202.5 IRM Budget

To improve planning for technology resources and to comply with Federal policies and reporting requirements, Broadcasting will integrate technology budgeting into the its general budget preparations, begin technology budgeting early in the budget cycle, and bring a Broadcasting-wide perspective to bear on technology budget decisions.

In particular, technology resource requirements will be incorporated at the Office level as a non-add item in the Going Rate submission to the BBG and identified in budgeting for increases and decreases.

After Congress has provided the BBG appropriation, and OMB has apportioned these funds, the Major Elements will be able to develop their IRM plans as called for in Section 1202.6 below.

1202.6 Major Element IRM Plan

Each Major Element is responsible for producing a plan showing how their technology strategies will be implemented during the coming fiscal year. This plan is due at the start of the new fiscal year, beginning October.

1203 Reviews and Approvals

The review and approval procedures for IRM planning are explained in this section.

1203.2 Major Element IRM Plan

Central review and approval of the IRM plan of a Major Element is required prior to implementation. Computing Services will review each plan for conformity to general directions, including architectures and standards; technical soundness; interconnectivity with other systems and overlap with initiatives of other elements. Computing Services also will address resource adequacy issues including how well the plan provides for managing, operating, and maintaining new and existing systems.

In addition, Computing Services will evaluate implementation schedules and recommend ways to eliminate conflicts and minimize the resources required to develop, operate, maintain and train.

1203.3 IRM Plan and Budget

These documents, are reviewed by the Major Elements and approved by the CIO.

1204 Responsibilities

Responsibilities for the activities and documentation required by the IRM planning process are summarized here.

1204.1 Planning

The Office of Computing Services is responsible for preparing the PAG and updating it every two years. Computing Services also consolidates information from the Major Elements into a Broadcasting-wide IRM Budget.

In all the above activities, Computing Services is responsible for obtaining input from the operational elements.

1204.2 Technology Coordinators

The Technology Coordinators are responsible for consolidating information from Program and System Managers into a Major Element IRM Plan. They are also responsible for preparing the annual IRM Plans for their organizations.

The Technology Coordinators also review the PAG and the IRM Plan and IRM Budget, all of which the CIO approves. After receiving their comments, Computing Services and the affected Technology Coordinator(s) will resolve any differences.

1204.3 Program and System Managers

Although the Technology Coordinators are responsible for preparing consolidated IRM plans for their organizations, they require extensive contributions from program and system managers in subordinate elements. The Technology Coordinators issue a call for information to which these officers must respond.

1204.4 Heads of Major Elements

Heads of Major Elements have managerial responsibility for developing their IRM Plans, for the integrity of these plans, and for ensuring that submission deadlines are met.

The signature of the head of the Major Element is required on the transmittal letter for the consolidated IRM plans of the element.

1204.5 Chief Information Officer (CIO)

The CIO is the senior manager responsible for ensuring that Broadcasting has and executes a planning process which encourages efficient, effective use of technology in support of missions and goals. He/She must also ensure that Broadcasting keeps its technology base current and cost-effective.

The CIO is the final authority in all matters relating to IRM planning. In carrying out his/her tasks, the CIO is assisted by Computing Services , which recommends actions, and by the Technology Coordinators, who bring an end-user perspective to advising the CIO.

Section 1301

INFORMATION RESOURCES PROCUREMENT POLICY

1301 Purpose and Scope

The acquisition of information technology is subject to additional scrutiny over and above that applied to other procurements. See for example, the Paperwork Reduction Act as amended (44 U.S.C. 3501 et.seq.). This policy establishes procedures for pre-contractual control, review and approval of computer-based technology procurements.

The policy applies to proposed procurements of automated data processing (ADP) and telecommunications hardware, software, services, facilities, and related training and maintenance. Supplies, such as computer, fax and other paper, toner, diskettes, tapes, manuals, and replacement parts for repair and maintenance are specifically excluded from these requirements.

The processes and procedures described here are in addition to any clearances and reviews described in MOA IX- Domestic Procurement Handbook. This document applies to all procurements, including ADP, telecommunications and other computer-based technology.

1301.1 Policy Change

Broadcasting relies increasingly on information technology to streamline operations, improve service to its target audiences, and manage programs and administrative tasks. Consequently, Broadcasting must heighten its efforts to curb systems that fail to meet users' needs, suffer from late changes to specifications or long development delays, result in cost overruns, or succumb to other risks inherent in acquiring complex and highly technical information systems. Broadcasting addresses this need by requiring review, and specific authorization to proceed, at key decision points in the life cycle of each information system.

This approach represents a sea change from past practice where management review of computer-based technology concentrated primarily on procurements. Current policy, in contrast, focuses review at key junctures in the information systems life cycle, not when procurements occur. These key decision points include initiation, concept development, design, implementation and post-implementation review.

In general, approval to proceed resulting from management reviews at each decision point carries with it authority up to an authorized dollar amount for procurements identified as required to reach the next major milestone. (This approval does not imply funds availability. Funding issues must be resolved with the appropriate financial management officers and spending authority officials.) The procurement itself no longer is the primary focus of review.

IRM policies recognize three categories of information systems--Small, Mid-Size and Major (see MOA Part III, Chapter 1100). Pre-contractual procurement procedures vary slightly for Major and Mid-Size Systems and greatly for Small Systems.

1303.1.1 Small Systems

Systems are designated "small" if they have a development cost of $50,000 or less, an annual operating cost of $20,000 or less, or an enhancement cost of $10,000 or less.

Instead of a series of milestone reviews, Small Systems have a simplified procedure. Small Systems must be in an approved IRM Tactical Plan. A Small System Justification (see MOA Part III, Chapter 1100 for content and format) which summarizes mission and requirements information must be prepared. If the required information is fully addressed in the tactical plan, a copy of the relevant page(s) attached to the Small System Justification will suffice.

For purposes of the Small System Justification, Major Elements are encouraged to develop umbrella categories, e.g., one might aggregate plans to acquire basic office automation software in a single justification. This form should be submitted as early as possible and ahead of specific procurement requests to permit the Technology Coordinator who reviews it to ensure that the justification is technically correct, understandable and compelling, and that the proposed technology will meet stated operational requirements. The procurement request , with cover page may then be prepared and submitted to the Technology Coordinator who insures that necessary clearances have been obtained.

Provided that the director of the Major Element has delegated authority to the Technology Coordinator, if he/she approves the request and it requires no other approvals (see below, Sections 1304.1 and 1305.6), he/she sends an information copy to the Office of Computing Services and forwards the procurement package through the normal procurement process. If the Technology Coordinator disapproves, the request is returned to the project manager for resolution.

1305 Other Considerations

Under these procedures several issues have greater significance than before in preparing for procurements. Every project officer is responsible for ensuring that the requirements discussed below have been met. Under the life cycle documentation and approval system identified in the Information Systems Management Policy, these issues will have been addressed at each milestone review. They are reviewed here as a reminder.

1305.1 Statement of Opportunity or Problem

Every procurement must be preceded by a clear statement, in mission terms, of the problem or opportunity that the procurement addresses. No procurement, no matter how small, is permitted absent this statement. However, technology coordinators and project officers are encouraged to group like procurements when preparing justifications.

1305.2 Analysis of User Requirements

The analysis of the user's operational requirements must be sufficiently detailed to determine the most cost-effective and efficient system solutions. It must include a description of the functions to be automated, and, as appropriate, inputs, outputs, files, processing and data flow, current and projected workload, storage, retrieval, retention requirements, and interfaces with other systems.

1305.3 Options and Cost/Benefit Analyses

Government-wide regulations (e.g., Office of Management and Budget Circular No. A-11 and Federal Information Resources Management Regulation 41 CFR Chapter 201) require that procurements of technology be preceded by an analysis of options, costs and benefits. The alternatives considered and the reasons for the chosen solution must be documented to maintain institutional memory and provide an audit trail for internal or external review. The degree of this documentation must be commensurate with the cost of procurement, that is, limited analysis for small purchases, much more substantive and detailed consideration of procurements for Mid-Size and Large Systems.

1305.4 Standards

A Broadcasting-wide process for the development of standards has been initiated (See Information Resources Standards Setting Policy, MOA Part III, Chapter 1800). This process defines mandatory and supported standards. Mandatory standards permit initiation and perpetuation of data resource sharing. Supported standards are established to ensure cost-effective support of technology, including training, trouble-shooting and maintenance.

An officer who proposes to develop or enhance computer technology must become informed about Broadcasting standards. Developing systems or purchasing hardware or software outside of the supported standards is allowed, as long as mandatory standards are observed. However, the procurement of non-standard hardware and software will require that the ordering office fund any necessary support services normally provided centrally, e.g., training, maintenance, and Computing Services support. Procurements outside established mandatory standards require additional justification tied to mission and must be approved by the CIO.

1305.5 Training, Maintenance and Other Life Cycle Costs

Often the cost to purchase new hardware or software is small compared to related one-time or continuing costs such as operation, training or maintenance. Other costs that also need to be considered include wiring, furniture, electrical and air conditioning requirements, staffing, and application development. Each procurement request must be preceded by evidence that these sometimes hidden costs have been identified and provided for in planning and funding.

1305.6 Security

Office of Security review and approval is required for IRM systems that will be used to process, store or transmit classified information. This review is needed to ensure that basic controls will be available for the protection of such information.

Office of Security review and approval is also required for systems processing or transmitting unclassified, but sensitive, information (e.g., personnel or medical records) when a Technology Coordinator determines that protective measures are required beyond those proposed or in place.

1309 POLICY ON ENERGY EFFICIENT COMPUTER EQUIPMENT

1309.1 SCOPE

This policy applies to all new acquisitions of microcomputers including notebook and other portable computers, monitors and printers acquired domestically. Outside of scope (for now): fax machines, photo copiers, larger and more powerful computers such as LAN and other file servers, minicomputers, mainframes and super computers.

1309.2 AUTHORITIES

- a. Executive Order 12845, April 21, 1993: Effective October 1993, Federal agencies shall meet EPA's Energy Star efficiency levels.
- b. Energy Policy Act of 1992: GSA must undertake a "program to include energy-efficient products in carrying out their procurement and supply functions." DOE must support, monitor and evaluate a voluntary industry-executed national testing and information program for widely used office equipment.
- c. OMB Office of Federal Procurement Policy Letter 92-4, 11/7/92: Federal agencies must implement "cost-effective procurement preference programs favoring the purchase and use of environmentally sound, energy efficient products and services."
- d. Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) SubPart 23.2: Federal agencies must apply energy conservation and efficiency criteria to acquisitions "whenever the results would be meaningful, practical and consistent with agency programs and needs."

1309.3 PROVISIONS

All acquisitions of microcomputers, monitors and printers must meet EPA's Energy Star Computers Program requirements for energy efficiency. For microcomputers, and monitors the specification is 30 watts in standby; for printers the number is 30-45 watts, depending on speed. The identified equipment must either meet Energy Star efficiency levels at all times or include a low power standby feature activated by the manufacturer upon shipment. Users can identify equipment that meets Energy Star requirements by an EPA logo introduced in June 1993.

1309.4 EXCEPTIONS

Only the Director of International Broadcasting can make exemptions to the energy efficiency requirements detailed here. The Director will consider requests for exception on a case by case basis for: commercial availability, cost differential, performance requirements and Broadcasting's mission. These exemptions must be reported to GSA annually.

To obtain an exception prepare a request, citing and providing evidence that one of the above detailed reasons apply.

MOA Update: The policy with the most recent date takes precedence over policies in other sections of the existing and new MOA that have older dates.

ELECTRONIC RECORD KEEPING MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

1601 PURPOSE

It is expected that an increasing proportion of Broadcasting's official records will be created and maintained with electronic equipment. Section 3102 of title 44, United States Code, requires the head of each Federal Agency to maintain a continuing program for the economical and efficient management of the records of an agency. In accordance with that authority, this chapter:

- a. Establishes the Electronic Record keeping Management Program for the BBG (Broadcasting)
- b. Assigns responsibilities for the administration and implementation of the program.
- c. Provides guidance for implementation of the Electronic Record keeping Program..

1602 SCOPE

The provisions in this Chapter are applicable to all organizational elements, both domestic and overseas.

1603 AUTHORITY

- a. Title 18 U.S.C. 641 and 2071, Crimes and Criminal Procedure.
- b. Title 44 U.S.C. 3102, Federal Records Act of 1950.
- c. Title 36 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) 1220, Records Management.
- d. Title 36 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) 1228.188, Machine-readable records.
- e. Title 36 CFR 1234, Electronic Records Management.
- f. Federal Rules of Evidence (Rule 803 (8)).
- g. National Archives and Records Administration's Handbook, Managing Electronic Records.
- h. Electronic Communications Privacy Act (1986), P.L. 99-508.

1604 DEFINITIONS

- a. Accession - The transfer of the legal and physical custody of permanent records from an agency to the National Archives.
- b. Electronic Form - applies to all records created and/or stored on electronic or magnetic media.
- c. Electronic Mail - Also called e-mail. The transmission of memos and messages over a network. Electronic mail systems are implemented in mainframe, mini and personal computer LANs. Users can send mail to a single recipient or broadcast it to multiple users on the system. Sophisticated systems can prompt recipients for a reply if they haven't responded within a certain time frame.

With multitasking workstations, mail can be delivered and announced while the user is working in an application. Otherwise, mail is sent to a simulated postal box in the network server or host computer, which must be accessed by the recipient.

- d. Electronic Records (ER) - are records stored in a form that only a computer can process. Also called machine readable records or Automated Data Processing (ADP) records. Examples of media used to store records include magnetic tapes, disks and drums, video files and optical disks.
- e. Electronic Record keeping - is the creation, maintenance and use, and disposition of records created and/or stored by using a computer.
- f. File Transfer - Movement of data between devices, without any extraction, as complete files.
- g. Formal Transmissions - are official communications which inform, direct, consult, clarify, request (data calls), or seek or grant approval. These are official records and must be retained until authorized for disposal.
- h. Informal Transmissions - are communications equivalent to person-to-person or telephone conversations which do not contain information of continuing value. These are non-record and need not be recorded, or if in paper form, do not require disposal authorizations.
- i. Information System - is the organized collection, processing, transmission, and dissemination of information in accordance with defined procedures, whether automated or manual. It is sometimes called a record system. Electronic records are generally scheduled by information system, whereas non-electronic records are generally scheduled by series.
- j. Life Cycle - of records is the management concept that records pass through three stages: creation, maintenance and use, and disposition.
- k. Non-records - are U.S. Government-owned informational materials excluded from the legal definition of records. These include extra copies of documents kept only for convenience of reference, stocks of publications of processed documents, and library or museum materials intended solely for reference or exhibition.
- l. Records - according to 44 U.S.C. 3301, "includes all books, papers, maps, photographs, machine-readable materials, or other documentary materials, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received by an agency of the United States Government under Federal law or in connection with the transaction of public business and preserved or appropriate for preservation by that agency or its legitimate successor as evidence of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the Government or because of the informational value of data in them".

- m. Scheduling - is the process of developing schedules for the disposition of records, along with disposition instructions for non-record materials.
- n. Vital Records - In accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 11490, the Vital Records Program has been developed to provide for the safe and secure storage of those records that would be essential for the organization and administration of Broadcasting under emergency conditions or in the event of a disaster. Vital records are divided into three categories:
  - a. Records vital to the functioning of Broadcasting and each individual element for the duration of an emergency or for replacement purposes in the event of a destructive disaster.
  - b. Records essential to the preservation of legal rights of the Government and of individual citizens.
  - c. Records essential to the preservation of legal rights of Government employees (MOA III, Ch. 500, Sec. 540).

1606.1 The Director, of International Broadcasting is responsible for establishing Broadcasting-wide policy and procedures for the Records Management Program.

1606.2 All Primary Officials at Overseas Establishments, General Counsel, Office Directors, Division and Branch Chiefs are responsible for:

- a. Ensuring compliance with the provision of this Chapter and all other records management practices;
- b. Ensuring electronic records and systems under their jurisdiction are scheduled (e.g., covered by an approved records disposition schedule. See Manual of Operations and Administration (MOA) Part III, Chapter 500, Section 550, "Records Management Handbook "and MOA Part III Chapter 600, "Records Management Overseas)";
- c. Ensuring that practices and procedures are implemented to protect records created or acquired in electronic form from loss, removal, theft, or unauthorized access;

- d. Ensuring that adequate training is provided for the users of each electronic record keeping system in the operation and care of the equipment, software, and media used in the system; and,
- e. Coordinating information needs during the design phase of a new system or a change to a current system with the Office of Computing Services and the head of any office that could be affected by the new or modified system.

1606.3 The Director of the Office of Administration, has overall responsibility to develop and implement a Broadcasting-wide program for the management of all records created, received, maintained, used, or stored on electronic media.

1606.4 The Office of Computing Services is responsible for:

- a. Ensuring that electronic record keeping requirements are addressed during management reviews at critical junctures in the life cycle of major information systems;
- b. Ensuring that electronic record keeping requirements are addressed during the review/approval phase of mid and small-sized information systems;
- c. Ensuring the participation of a records management specialist in required milestone reviews of information systems, when the integrity and preservation of official records are discussed.

1606.7 ADP Managers and Contractors are responsible for ensuring the adequacy of documentation, following authorized disposition schedules, and complying with established security procedures, to prevent unauthorized disclosure of data contained in existing or planned systems.

1606.8 Program Managers (System Owners) will coordinate electronic records system activities with the Office of Administration in order to:

- a. Identify the office of primary responsibility for the records being created;
- b. Determine if the data being created is record or non-record material;
- c. Determine in what form the record will be maintained for its life cycle; e.g., paper, microform, tape, disk, diskette, etc.;
- d. Establish procedures for identifying, cataloging, and labeling records for the life cycle of the record;
- e. Establish an appropriate retrieval system;
- f. Identify appropriate record series and disposal instruction for the files being created within the system;

- g. Ensure that adequate documentation is provided, authorized disposition schedules are followed, and that offices comply with established security procedures.

1606.9 Records Liaison Officers have been appointed at various levels within Broadcasting (see MOA Part III Chapter 500, Section 514.2). The responsibilities of Records Liaison Officers include:

- a. Ensuring the scheduling of electronic record series;
- b. Ensuring the prompt disposal or transfer of electronic records; and,
- c. Conducting inspections of electronic record keeping systems to ensure compliance with this Chapter.

1606.10 Users are responsible for complying with operating procedures established by Computing Services and operating the system in such a manner as to protect the records from damage, destruction, or alteration.

1608 REQUIREMENTS AND PROCEDURES FOR CREATING RECORDS IN ELECTRONIC FORM

1608.1 Life Cycle Management Prior to initiating any new system development, system owners must consider the full life cycle of the data maintained in the system and take the following steps:

- a. Determine if the data is record or non-record material;
- b. If the data is record material and can be updated, establish periodic time frames for the establishment of an entirely new file and storage of the old file (monthly, quarterly, or annually) to ensure complete files;
- c. Include appropriate disposal authority, instructions, and date for each electronic record file. If no authority is available, a "Request for Records Disposition Authority", (SF 115) is to be submitted to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) through the Records Management Officer;
- d. If the records to be maintained in the system contain proprietary information, information about individuals that is retrieved by the individual's name or other identifier such as social security number, include adequate safeguards in the system design to prevent unauthorized access, as spelled out in the Freedom of Information Act, records are subject to the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974.

1608.2 Creation and Use of Data Files

- a. For electronic records systems that produce, use, or store data files, disposition instructions for the data shall be incorporated into the system's design.
- b. Adequate and up-to-date technical documentation shall be maintained for each electronic records system that produces, uses or stores data files. Elements should follow FIPS PUB 38, "Guidelines for Documentation of Computer Programs and Automated Data Systems,"
  - 1) A narrative description of the system;
  - 2) Physical and technical characteristics of the records, including for each field its name, size, starting or relative position, and a description of the form of the data (such as alphabetic, zoned decimal, packed decimal, or numeric), or a data dictionary or the equivalent information associated with a data base management system which includes a description of the relationship between data elements in data bases;
  - 3) Element responsible for maintaining system, and principal users; and
  - 4) Any other technical information needed to read or process the records (for example, software and version, and hardware platform).

1608.3 Creation and Use of Text Documents

- a. Electronic records systems that maintain the official file copy of text documents on electronic media shall meet the following minimum requirements (NOTE: Most official copies are maintained in paper or microform, so the existence of an electronic copy does not in itself require that all of these requirements be met):
  - 1) Provide a method for all authorized users of the system to retrieve desired documents, such as an indexing or text search system;
  - 2) Provide a level of security that ensures the integrity of documents, that is, prevents unauthorized addition, modification, or deletion.
  - 3) Provide a standard interchange format when necessary to permit the exchange of documents on electronic media between Agency computers using different software/operating systems or the conversion or migration of documents on electronic media from one system to another; and
  - 4) Provide for the disposition of the documents including, when necessary, the requirements for transferring permanent records to NARA.
- b. Before a document is created electronically on electronic records systems that will maintain the official file copy on electronic media, each document shall be identified sufficiently to enable authorized personnel to retrieve, protect, and carry out the disposition of documents in the system. Appropriate identifying information for each document maintained on electronic media may include: office of origin, file code (item number), key words for retrieval, addressee (if any), signatory, author, date, authorized disposition (coded or otherwise), and security classification (if applicable). System owners must ensure that records maintained in such systems can be correlated with related records on paper, microform, or other media.

1608.4 Labeling - To retrieve information created and stored electronically, the user is dependent upon labels, both external and internal. To the extent allowable by the software, the following information should be included:

- a. Tape - External labels (or the equivalent automated tape management system) for magnetic tapes used to store permanent or unscheduled electronic records shall provide unique identification for each reel, including the name of the organizational unit responsible for the data, system title, and security classification, if applicable. Additionally, the following information shall be maintained for (but not necessarily attached to) each reel used to store permanent or unscheduled electronic records: file title(s); dates of creation; dates of coverage; the recording density; type of internal labels; volume serial number, if applicable; number of tracks; character code/software dependency; information about block size; and reel sequence number, if the file is part of a multi-reel set. For numeric data files, include record format and logical record length, if applicable; data set name(s) and sequence, if applicable; and number of records for each data set.
- b. Diskette (Floppy) - Labels for diskettes should include title, date, software, equipment dependence, and disposition instructions.
- c. Pack - Labels for disk packs will consist of the directory of file names; other labeling information (e.g., record series, date of creation, coverage, etc.) will be part of the records (ADP) layout.

1608.5 System Documentation - System documentation is to be maintained for the life cycle of the records in the system. Included are systems specifications file specifications, code books record layouts, user guides, and output specifications. NOTE: records must continue to be retrievable and usable, regardless of any upgrades or replacements of an automated system, until the authorized disposition date of the records.

1609 ENSURING RECORDS RETENTION

- a. The ease of erasing or changing electronically stored records increases the risk of unauthorized disposal of official documentation. The record status of electronically stored drafts or updates should be re-evaluated as changes are made. Substantial updates (i.e., something which changes intent, policy, procedure, or conclusion) to electronic records constitute new records, while minor changes may not. When new records are created through substantial updating, the old record must be retained until authorized for disposition.

- b. Some electronic mail systems automatically erase information after the recipient has read it, while others delete the information at specified time intervals. Therefore, personnel should take positive action, at the time they receive electronic messages, to retain any records received in this manner in a medium which will satisfactorily store the record until its disposition date. Many electronic mail messages will not contain enough substance to be considered official records.

1610 ELECTRONIC INDEXING The complexity of the indexing system is dependent upon the volume of records and the length of time they are to be retained. Electronic indexes must include, at a minimum, the subject, date, user, and identification number; e.g., Item Number (also known as file code).

1611 STORAGE Tapes, disks, and diskettes should be stored in compliance with FIPS PUBS. Electronically stored data containing Vital Records (see 1604, Definitions. MOA Part III, Chapter 500, Section 540) are to be copied and stored off site for the protection of the legal and financial rights of the Government, its employees, and the public.

1612 DISPOSAL When information is converted from paper to electronic form, the nature, usefulness, and accessibility of the information change. Therefore, the disposition of the information when maintained in electronic form may differ from the disposition when maintained in paper form. Electronic records derived from paper records should be separately scheduled. Although paper records may already be scheduled, the retention time should be reviewed for earlier disposition at the time the records are converted to electronic form. Electronic records authorized for disposal, i.e., shipped to the Washington National Records Center (WNRC) or NARA, or destroyed, must comply with the following requirements.

1612.1 Records Authorized for Destruction - Electronic records may be destroyed only in accordance with a records disposition schedule approved by the Archivist of the United States, including General Records Schedule (GRS). See GRS 20 and GRS 23. GRS 20 and GRS 23 do not cover all electronic records. Electronic records not covered by items in GRS 20 or GRS 23 may not be destroyed unless authorized by a Standard Form 115 that has been approved by the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA). In carrying out the disposition instruction the following steps should be taken:

- a. Electronic records scheduled for destruction are disposed of in a manner that ensures protection of any sensitive, proprietary, or national security information.
- b. Magnetic recording media previously used for electronic records containing sensitive, proprietary, or national security information are not reused if the previously recorded information can be compromised by reuse in any way. NOTE: Approval from the General Accounting Office (GAO) must be obtained before any records eligible for destruction can be disposed of if Broadcasting is undergoing an audit. Likewise, if records eligible for destruction have not yet been destroyed and are the subject of a Freedom of Information Request, the records must be kept until such request is resolved.

1612.2 Records to be Transferred to WNRC or NARA - When NARA has determined that records stored on disks or diskettes are to be maintained for a long period of time, the information they contain must be converted to magnetic tape, 3480 class tape cartridges, paper or microfilm {36 CFR 1228.188}.

a. The following applies to tapes scheduled for transfer to NARA.

- 1) The tapes will be on one-half inch 7 or 9 track tape reels, written in ASCII or EBCDIC, with all extraneous control characters removed from the data (except records length indicators for variable length records, or marks designating a datum, word, field, block, or file) blocked no higher than 30,000 bytes per block, at 800, 1600, or 6250 bpi.
- 2) The tapes on which the data are recorded shall be new or recertified tapes (see 36 CFR 1234) which have been passed over a tape cleaner before writing and will be rewound under controlled tension.
- 3) Documentation adequate for servicing and interpreting records that have been designated for preservation by NARA will be transferred with them.
This documentation shall include, but shall not necessarily be limited to:
  - a) A completed Standard Form 277, Computer Magnetic Tape File Properties, or its equivalent.
  - b) Where it has been necessary to strip data of extraneous control characters, the documentation specifications defining the data elements and their values must match the new format of the data.

b. The following applies to 3480 class tape cartridges scheduled for transfer to NARA.

- 1) 3480 class tape cartridges must meet the American National Standard based on the IBM format. The magnetic tape and cartridge for information interchange must be 18-track, parallel, 12.65 mm (1/2 inch), and 1491 cpm {37,871 cpi}.
- 2) All maintenance requirements of 36 CFR 1234.28(g) apply to 3480 class tape cartridges.
- 3) NARA will copy the contents of 3480 class tape cartridges at the time of accessioning and return them to the agency unless the agency indicates that it does not want the cartridges returned.

1613 JUDICIAL USE OF ELECTRONIC RECORDS - Electronic records may be admitted in evidence to Federal courts for use in court proceedings (Federal Rules of Evidence 803(8)) if trustworthiness is established by thoroughly documenting the record keeping system's operation and the controls imposed upon it. If the only record is electronic, the following procedures are required to ensure the legal admissibility of that record:

- a. Document that similar kinds of records generated and stored electronically are created by the same processes each time and have a standardized retrieval approach.
- b. Substantiate that security procedures prevent unauthorized addition, modification, or deletion of a record and ensure system protection against such problems as power interruptions.
- c. Identify the electronic media on which records are stored throughout their life cycle, the maximum time span that records remain on each storage medium, and the NARA-approved disposition of all records.
- d. Establish trustworthiness of records by ensuring that:
  - 1) The date of the record can be determined;
  - 2) The date of alterations is automatically recorded by the system;
  - 3) It is evident that the document was authorized to be issued ("signed") by an appropriate official.
- e. Coordinate all of the above with the Office of the General Counsel (GC) and the Records Management Staff.

ELECTRONIC RECORDS STANDARDS

The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) has issued the following Federal Information Processing Standards Publications (FIPS PUBS) that are particularly relevant to records creation, storage, and transmission using personal computers or other electronic office equipment. (Note: FIPS PUBS with an asterisk are mandatory standards that are implemented in the FIRMR and 41 CFR 201.13)

GENERAL RECORDS SCHEDULE 20

Electronic Records

This schedule provides disposal authorization for certain electronic records and specified hard-copy (paper) or microform records that are integrally related to the electronic records.

This schedule applies to disposable electronic records stored on magnetic media by Federal agencies in central data processing including ones operated for agencies by contractors. It covers records created by computer operators, programmers, analysts, and systems administrators in order to store and maintain computer files in such facilities; certain master files, including some that are components of database management systems; and certain files created from master files for specific purposes. Items covering disposable electronic records produced by end users in office automation applications (e.g., word processing files, certain text files, and databases developed on personal computers in support of administrative functions) are included in General Records Schedule 23, Records Common to Most Offices. GRS 20 and 23 do not cover all electronic records. Electronic records not covered by items in GRS 20 or GRS 23 may not be destroyed unless authorized by a Standard Form 115 that has been approved by the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA).

The records covered by several of the items in this schedule are authorized for erasure or deletion when no longer needed. NARA could not establish a more definite retention that would be appropriate in all applications. Items 2a and 1a (in part) of this schedule apply to hard-copy or microform records used in conjunction with electronic files. Item 1 also covers printouts produced to test, use, and maintain master files. Items 10 and 11 of this schedule should be applied to special purpose programs and documentation for disposable electronic records regardless of the medium in which such documentation and programs exist.

Records Common to Most Offices

This schedule provides for the disposal of certain records common to most offices in Federal agencies. It covers administrative subject files; facilitative records such as suspense files, tracking and control records, calendars, and indexes; and transitory documents; as well as certain types of records created in electronic form on stand-alone or networked micro and mini computers. This schedule does not apply to any materials that has been determined to be non-record or to materials such as calendars or work schedules claimed as personal.

Office Administrative Files described under item 1 are records retained by an originating office as its record of initiation of an action, request, or response to requests for information. This item may be applied only to separate administrative files containing such records as copies of documents submitted to other offices for action including budget feeder documents, purchase orders, training requests. Item 1 may not be applied to files that also contain program records, and it may not be applied by an office that receives and takes action on documents submitted by other offices.

1. Office Administrative Files

Records accumulated by individual offices that relate to the internal administration or housekeeping activities of the office rather than the functions for which the office exists. In general, these records relate to the office organization, staffing, procedures, and communications; the expenditure of funds, including budget records; day-to-day administration of office personnel including training and travel; supplies and office equipment.

Destroy when 2 years old, or when no longer needed, whichever is sooner.

Services and equipment requests and receipts; and the use of office space and utilities. They may also include copies of internal activity and workload reports (including work progress, statistical, and narrative reports prepared in the office and forwarded to higher levels) and other materials that do not serve as unique documentation of the programs of the office.

[NOTE: This schedule is not applicable to the record copies of organizational charts, functional statements, and related records that document the essential organization, staffing, and procedures of the office, which must be scheduled prior to disposition by submitting an SF 115 to NARA.]

2. Word Processing Files

Documents such as letters, messages, memoranda, reports, handbooks, directives, and manuals recorded on electronic media such as hard disks or floppy diskettes:

a. When used to produce hard copy which is maintained in organized files. Delete when no longer needed to create a hard copy.

b. When maintained only in electronic form, and duplicate the information in and take the place of records that would otherwise be maintained in hard copy providing that the hard copy has been authorized for destruction by the GRS or a NARA- approved SF 115.

Delete after the expiration of the retention period authorized for the hard copy by the GRS or a NARA-approved SF 115.

3. Administrative Databases

Databases that support administrative or housekeeping functions, containing information derived from hard copy records authorized for destruction by the GRS or a NARA-approved SF 115.

a. When hard copy records are retained in order to meet record keeping requirements.

Delete information in the database when no longer needed.

b. When the database takes the place of hard copy records.

Delete after the expiration of the retention period authorized for the hard copy file, or when no longer needed, whichever is later.

c. Hard copy printouts created for short-term administrative purposes. Destroy when no longer needed.

4. Electronic Spreadsheets

Spreadsheets that are recorded on electronic media such as hard disks or floppy diskettes:

a. When used to produce hard copy which is maintained in organized files. Delete when no longer needed to update or produce hard copy.

b. When maintained only in electronic form.

Delete after the expiration of the retention period authorized for the hard copy by the GRS or a NARA-approved SF 115. If the electronic version replaces hard copy records with differing retention periods and agency software does not readily permit selective deletion, delete after the longest retention period has expired.

5. Schedules of Daily Activities

Calendars, appointment books, schedules, logs, diaries, and other records documenting- meetings, appointments, telephone phone calls, trips, visits, and other activities by Federal employees while serving in an official capacity, created and maintained in hard copy or electronic form, EXCLUDING materials determined to be personal.

a. Records containing substantive in- formation relating to official activities, the substance of which has not been incorporated into official files, EXCLUDING records relating to the official activities of high government officials (see note).
Destroy or delete when 2 years old.

[NOTE: High level officials include the heads of departments and independent agencies; their deputies and assistants; the heads of program offices and staff offices including assistant secretaries, administrators, and commissioners; directors of offices, bureaus, or equivalent; principal regional officials; staff assistants to those aforementioned officials, such as special assistants, confidential assistants, and administrative assistants; and career Federal employees, political appointees, and officers of the Armed Forces serving in equivalent or comparable positions. Unique substantive records relating to the activities of these individuals must be scheduled by submission of an SF 115 to NARA.]

b. Records documenting routine activities containing no substantive information and records containing substantive information, the substance of which has been incorporated into organized files.
Destroy or delete when no longer needed.

6. Suspense Files

Documents arranged in chronological order as a reminder that an action is required on a given date or that a reply to action is expected and, if not received, should be traced on a given date.

a. A note or other reminder to take action.
Destroy after action is taken.

b. The file copy or an extra copy of an outgoing communication, filed by the date on which a reply is expected. Withdraw documents when reply is received. (1) If suspense copy is an extra copy, destroy immediately. (2) If suspense copy is the file copy, incorporate it into the official files.

7. Transitory Files.

Documents of short-term interest which have no documentary or evidential value and normally need not be kept more than 90 days. Examples of transitory correspondence are shown below. Destroy when 3 months old, or when no longer needed, whichever is sooner.

a. Routine requests for information or publications and copies of replies which require no administrative action, no policy decision, and no special compilation or research for reply.

b. Originating office copies of letters of transmittal that do not add any information to that contained in the transmitted material, and receiving office copy if filed separately from transmitted material.

c. Quasi-official notices including memoranda and other records that do not serve as the basis of official actions, such as notices of holidays of charity and welfare fund appeals, bond campaigns, and similar records.

8. Tracking and Control Records.

Logs, registers, and other records in hard copy or electronic form used to control or document the status of correspondence, reports, or other records that are authorized for destruction by the GRS or a NARA-approved SF 115.

Destroy or delete when no longer needed.

9. Finding Aids (or Indexes).

Indexes, lists, registers, and other finding aids in hard copy or electronic form used only to provide access to records authorized for destruction by the GRS or a NARA-approved SF 115, EXCLUDING records containing abstracts or other information that can be used as an information source apart from the related records.

Destroy or delete with the related records or sooner if no longer needed.

SECTION 1650

ELECTRONIC MAIL POLICY

1651 Scope

The provisions in this chapter are applicable to all elements, both domestic and overseas.

1652 Purpose

This chapter prescribes interim policy, procedures and responsibilities for the creation, use, maintenance and disposition of Electronic Mail Communications.

1653 Authorities

1653.3. The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a, as amended) - governs the creation, safeguarding and disclosure of personal records (such as those pertaining to education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal and employment history) containing the name or identifying number of an individual.

1653.4. NSDD 145 National policy on telecommunications and automated information systems security requires encryption of materials classified for national security purposes.

1654 Policy

1654.1 General

a. E-mail may be used to transmit official business messages and data/documents among personnel located domestically or overseas. It may also be used to transmit official business messages between Broadcasting and external organizations such as other government agencies, private voluntary organizations, contractors, vendors, grantees, and universities.

b. E-mail may be used only for Broadcasting business. For purposes of this policy, Broadcasting business will be broadly interpreted to include communications with colleagues. Penalties for other use may include any of the following: loss of E-mail privileges, billing the employee for the cost to the government of the unofficial use, and other disciplinary actions up to and including dismissal.

d. At the discretion of each Office Director, a limit on the number of addressees for each E-mail message can be established.

1654.2 Prohibited Messages

E-mail may not be used for messages or information subject to protection under the provisions of the Privacy Act. Medical records are an example of privacy-protected information. (See MOA Part III, Section 581.1.)

National security classified, Limited Official Use and unclassified sensitive material must not be transmitted via E-mail. These forms of messages must go through the Diplomatic Telecommunications System. (For further definitions see MOA on Security.)

1654.3 Records Management

E-mail is subject to the same Federal legal records requirements as telegraphic traffic and correspondence. When creating an E-mail message that can be considered an official record, the same thought should go into its creation, content and potential distribution as goes into the preparation of all other written documents, such as memoranda, letters or cables. Official records contain adequate and proper documentation of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, and they document essential transactions of Broadcasting. There will be no routine review of electronic messages by systems administrators, management, or other third parties.

1655 E-mail Messages Deemed as Records

By law, all personnel are responsible for preserving federal records, which are defined by the Federal Act 44 (USC, Chapter 33, Section 3301) to include documentary materials, regardless of medium, which:

- a. are made or received by Broadcasting under federal law or in connection with public business; and
- b. are "appropriate for preservation as evidence of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the Government, or because of the informational value of data in them."

Under FRA regulations (36 CFR 1222.38), records "appropriate for preservation" include those which:

- c. document the formulation and execution of basic policies and decisions and the taking of necessary actions;
- d. document important meetings;
- e. facilitate action by officials and their successors in office;

f. permit a proper scrutiny by the Congress or other duly authorized agencies of the Government;

g. protect the financial, legal, and other rights of the government and of persons directly affected by the Government's actions; and otherwise

h. document the activities of Broadcasting.

Bearing in mind the above guidance, as well as the limitation on the use of E-mail referenced earlier, E-mail messages which may constitute federal records include:

i. E-mail providing substantive input to basic policy decision or statements. This could include drafts of documents which contain unique information, such as annotations or comments, that explain the formation or execution of policies, decision, actions or responsibilities.

j. E-mail documenting oral exchanges by policy-level officials, such as meetings or telephone conversations, during which policy was discussed or formulated or other activities were planned, discussed or transacted.

1656 E-Mail Messages NOT deemed as records:

a. routine business communications between employees or with colleagues outside Broadcasting that could occur over the telephone;

b. information which is already recorded elsewhere and is forwarded along from one employee to another;

c. information on dates, places or times of meetings, or other shared information;

d. responses to questions that could normally be answered by telephone and would not be documented with a memorandum.

For further information on the distinction between record and non-record material, please contact the Records Management Staff.

If there are questions regarding privacy issues or the release of information to the public, please contact the Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Unit in the Office of Administration.

1557 Storage of E-Mail Messages

a. Offices shall set up procedures to erase E-mail messages after 30 days on all file servers and other shared hardware platforms.

b. Employees may retain E-mail messages indefinitely on their assigned microcomputers, but these messages are subject to all federal regulations. Refer to the section on Privacy below.

c. Until a method of electronic storage can be designed, E-mail messages that meet the definition of a records must be printed on paper along with the transmission information. Each creator of an E-mail message shall decide what to archive according to the records disposition authority that provides and describes disposition instructions by records series. In making this decision, all personnel should exercise judgment in the same manner as they would in determining whether to retain and file paper records. The printing of E-mail messages is an interim measure pending the issuance of final E-mail guidance by the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA).

1658 Accessibility

Reasonable efforts will be made to ensure confidentiality and privacy of E-mail communications. However, employees are reminded that:

- a. messages that they prepare may be forwarded by the recipient to others without their knowledge;
- b. system and other managers with special access privileges may have to access the text of messages for legitimate government purposes. However, casual and non-authorized reading of other peoples' messages by these or any other individuals is prohibited and will be dealt with stringently.
- c. Specific reviews may be requested by law enforcement officials, the Inspector General or other appropriate authorities. Messages may also be subject to disclosure under provisions of the Freedom of Information Act. Federal policy on protecting messages is being formulated by the Office of Management and Budget and NARA.

1559 Standards

E-mail standards are covered in MOA, Part III, Section 1600, Electronic Records-keeping Management Program.

1708 Database Administration and the Database Administrator

Section 1700

Data Management Policy

1701 Purpose

This policy establishes a basic structure for assisting end-users to share data. This policy shall be modified and/or amended in the future to accommodate additional data related issues.

1702 Scope

This policy adheres to the MOA, Part III, Chapter 1100 Information Systems Management Policy. This policy applies to all elements, domestic and overseas, that are involved in the creation, acquisition, use, and management of data in the course of developing, enhancing, or operating information systems. This policy broadly articulates the rationale for sharing data throughout Broadcasting and establishes the basic implementation infrastructure. "Step-by-step" procedures describing "how" personnel will interact with each other will be provided in separate instructions.

1703 Data Definition

Data are facts about a person, place, thing, idea, or event. Data exists in element or in text format or a combination of each. The data element format is characterized by specific data facts about a person (e.g., address, phone number social security number), place, thing, idea, or event. Data in text format includes reports, articles, and other forms of descriptive documentation. A combination of data element and text format would include cables, fax and other graphics. In these cases, facts about the documentation are part of the same package (e.g., the data "name", "organization," and "date" are part of a cable or fax).

Data is not synonymous with information. Information is a product (i.e., reports) that results from the processing and presentation of data to provide intelligence or insight necessary to support the actions and decisions of Broadcasting's managers.

All data , regardless of its form, machine-readable or not, is a resource and needs to be managed.

1704 Data Sharing Problems

Although computers and types of applications have changed within Broadcasting, problems in application development have not. Many of these problems relate to sharing data. Some of these problems are:

1704.1 Hidden Data - Data that could be shared are not easily identified and, therefore, not easily obtained.

1704.2 Incompatible Data - Systems have been developed without data structure guidelines. As a result, data formats differ and data from different applications cannot be easily integrated and shared.

1704.3 Data Redundancy - Since major elements may develop information systems independently, many systems contain the same data. This results in multiple costs of developing and maintaining the same data.

1704.4 Inaccurate Data - Without editing standards, accuracy of the data cannot be assured.

1705 Basic Data Management Policy

In order to mitigate these problems and promote data sharing, Broadcasting has determined that "Data" is a resource that is critical to the success of fulfilling its mission and meeting its goals and objectives. All data, within Broadcasting, shall be construed to be owned by Broadcasting at large, and to be a common, sharable resource. All data shall be managed to maximize its sharing and usage by as many elements as possible. Broadcasting will seek out and exploit data sharing opportunities to eliminate conflicting or redundant policies and procedures, and redundant and unproductive work. Management will foster, encourage, and require cooperative and sharing attitudes to eliminate obstacles to information sharing. Standards and procedures will be established for defining the meaning and representation of data so that it can be captured, maintained, and accessed in sharable forms to maximize its benefit while minimizing its cost.

1707 Data Administration and the Data Administrator

Data Administration - Data Administration is the function for centralized management of an organization's data. The Data Administrator (DA) works closely with management to develop and administer policies and procedures for the organization, protection, documentation, audit and efficient utilization of data and its associated resources. The DA is chartered to manage data as a valuable organizational resource. The DA's primary objectives are to encourage and facilitate data and information sharing, to promote data consistency and standardization throughout Broadcasting, and to improve the quality, accuracy, and integrity of information and shared data.

1708 Database Administration and the Database Administrator

Database Administration - Database Administration is the function for the physical design, implementation, and management of databases in accordance with Data Administration policies, procedures and standards. Database Administration is concerned primarily with managing databases that are in development or operational. The Database Administrator (DBA) works closely with the DA to develop and control the definition, organization, access and documentation of databases.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY STANDARDS POLICY

1801 Purpose and Scope - This policy establishes the process for setting standards for all areas of Information Technology Resources, including hardware, software, telecommunications, and operating procedures. Information Technology standards are established under the direct authority and approval of the Chief Information Officer (CIO).

1802 The Need For Standards - Broadcasting has many diverse elements with widely differing responsibilities. While these elements often must employ unique information technology methodologies and systems in meeting these challenges, there remains the critical need to share information. Accordingly, information technology standards are designed to ensure that various elements have the technical flexibility they require and still ensure all necessary system inter-operation and information exchange.

The standards permit Broadcasting to focus resources on information technology matters of common use and concern and to develop hardware and software systems that can be supported readily within Broadcasting.

1802.1 Standards Categories - Two categories of standards are established: (1) Mandatory Standards and (2) Supported Standards.

1802.1.1 Mandatory Standards - Mandatory standards allow the sharing of essential information. They establish the minimum requirement to ensure that information creation and interchange can be achieved among all systems within Broadcasting. These standards apply to all offices and systems. Deviations from mandatory standards can only be approved by the CIO.

1802.1.2 Supported Standards - Supported Standards are established to ensure cost-effective implementation and operation of technology support such as training and maintenance. With the proliferation of computer technology, support has become a critical issue. Standards are established to ensure the cost effectiveness of Broadcasting's investment in the support apparatus. Supported standards also provide employees an opportunity to share information readily.

Developing systems and/or purchasing hardware and software outside of the Supported Standards is allowed as long as Mandatory Standards are met. However, the element purchasing outside of the Supported Standards will be unable to obtain assistance such as training, maintenance, and assistance from the Office of Computing Services. The element will need to make arrangements to maintain all non-standard software. When transmitting a document to another office within Broadcasting, employees must ensure that it conforms to Supported Standards.

Supported Standards, some of which may be product-specific, will be announced Broadcast wide and support elements, such as the Office of Computing Services and the Training Division will direct their resources to supporting these standards.

1803 Process for Establishing Standards

1803.1 The Office of Contracts will review all draft Standards to ensure compliance with Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR). Specifically, Contracts will ensure adequate rationales are in place to justify any competitive restrictions contained in the proposed standards. When required, Contracts will request the concurrence of the Office of the General Counsel.

The CIO, in consultation with the Office of Computing Services, is responsible for approving all standards.

1803.2 Procedures for Establishing Standards - The procedure for establishing information technology resource standards is described below. The process is the same for both mandatory and supported standards.

1803.2.1 Proposals for Standards - Computing Services will review standards annually, in the third quarter (April - June). This group will propose changes to the standards based on various factors such as: new business requirements, resource allocation, both funds and staff, and industry changes. This group will determine the priority order for making the revisions to the standards. This list of priorities will be submitted to the CIO for approval.

In addition to the annual review, Computing Services will handle any requests to establish or revise standards at any time.

1803.2.2 Employee Evaluation Teams - Working with Computing Services, the CIO will form evaluation panels when necessary to assist with the selection of new standards, such as in the case of a new e-mail package. These panels will have employees with various skills to provide a cross section (from different elements), and vertical slice (different grade levels, job classifications and skill sets) of employees. These panels will help develop evaluation criteria and perform tests. A recommendation will be made by the panel. After review, a team recommendation will be prepared by Computing Services and submitted for approval to the CIO.

1803.2.3 Reviews and Approvals - The Office of Contracts will review all draft standards to ensure compliance with procurement regulations. The final standard will then be forwarded to the CIO for approval.

1803.3 Publication - After CIO approval has been obtained, Computing Services will publish the standards.

1804. Compliance

1804.1 Violation of Mandatory Standards - The Evaluation Panel will address cases where mandatory standards are not followed. The Panel will identify issues surrounding the violation, discuss alternative solutions and take corrective action after reaching consensus. In cases where no consensus is reached, the Panel will present alternatives to the CIO. The CIO, will render a decision and a course of action that will be followed.

1804.2 Compliance with Supported Standards - Offices that wish to use products that are not Broadcasting supported standards shall discuss the matter with Computing Services to determine if there are any potential operational problems. Once it is determined that operations will remain normal, the proposing office, will discuss the matter at a meeting of the Evaluation Panel. This discussion is to share information and is not intended as a form of approval. Offices may use products other than supported standards.

In cases where office elements act before holding these preliminary discussions, the Evaluation Panel will recommend a course of action to prevent future non-compliance with the policy. In cases where the corrective action is unsuccessful, the Panel will make recommendations to the CIO.

The CIO, will render a decision and a course of action that will be followed.

ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPLIES AND EQUIPMENT

251 REQUISITIONING AUTHORITY

Basic authority to request administrative supplies, services, and equipment is restricted to officers of the rank of division chief, or higher. Other officials may requisition supplies, services and equipment only if specifically authorized on a Signature Card.

252 DEFINITIONS

a. Administrative Supplies are purchased from allotments and consist of both expendable and non-expendable supplies, services, and equipment required for the administrative support of program operations.

b. Expendable Property (office supplies and forms, mechanical and electrical replacement parts and supplies) is property normally consumed in usage, or of insufficient value to justify the maintenance of property accountability records subsequent to issuance.

c. Nonexpendable Property (office furniture and equipment and mechanical and electronic equipment) is property not normally consumed in usage, and of sufficient value to justify the maintenance of property accountability records.

255 ORDERING PROPERTY

255.1 Categories Requiring Separate Requisitions - Submit a requisition for each of the following categories:

a. File cabinets, including safe combination files. Requisitions for filing cabinets are subject to special economy measures. Each request for additional file equipment will be surveyed by the Records Management Staff in accordance with MOA III-514.

b. Nonexpendable property other than file cabinets, including special office machines, executive equipment, and furniture.

255.2 Preparing Form Request for Supplies/Services

a. Give as complete a description as possible of the items ordered. In the case of technical administrative equipment specific vendors may be suggested. However, the Office of Administration is responsible for determining the source of supply and requesting offices are not to negotiate with prospective vendors or commit Broadcasting in any manner to make the required purchase from a specific vendor.

b. Requisitions not prepared in accordance with these instructions will be returned to the requesting office with a memorandum for correction and resubmission or cancellation.

255.3 Reviewing Requests - The Office of Administration will review all requisitions to determine whether substitution may be made. Requisitions for nonexpendable property will be reviewed and decisions made based on need, current property utilization in the requesting office, and, availability of funds.

255.4 Receipt of Order - When items ordered on requisitions are delivered, an authorized employee signs, dates, and returns, a copy of the requisition to the employee delivering the material. Also, he or she notes the receipt date on a copy, and files the copy in the completed requisition file until no longer required for reference purposes.

255.5 Items Out-of-Stock - The following action will be taken on out-of-stock items.

If a requisition can only be partially filled, the notations "Temporarily out of Stock - Reorder" or "Canceled -Unavailable" will be made on a copy of the form, and it will be sent to the requisitioning office together with the delivered items to act as notification of the cancellation of the specified items from the particular requisition.

255.6 Procedures for Obtaining Expendable Office Supplies

Broadcast elements will have an allocation (not an allotment) of a maximum amount up to which they can obligate funds for covered expendable office supplies/forms. Certification of funds availability will be obtained centrally when placing an order for expendable supplies utilizing funding in an administrative appropriation.

The central point of control for tracking use of the supply funds is in the Facilities Management Division. Certification of funds availability on requisitions (or other commitment/obligating documents) will be provided by a Facilities Officer. Copies of all final procurements/ordering documents should be provided to the Facilities Officer so that the central allotment of supply funds can be maintained.

Persons ordering supplies are encouraged to take advantage of the GSA ADVANTAGE ordering system to conserve the use of funding available for expendable supplies. Orders using GSA ADVANTAGE and by credit card will be processed in the same manner as described above. If the cost on the requisition differs from the total cost of the order after it is placed with the vendor, please inform the Facilities Officer of the new total.

MANDATORY SOURCE ITEMS

The Jarvis-Wagner-O'Day (JWOD) Act (Public Law 92-28) stipulates that all supplies and services produced by UNICOR, the National Industries for the Blind (NIB), and the National Industries for the Severely Handicapped (NISH) are classified as Mandatory Source Items. This means that if they meet the requirements of the ordering office, by law they cannot be purchased from an alternative source. (As a general rule, NIB/NISH produce office supply items: pens, folders, paper, post-it notes, etc., while UNICOR manufactures office furniture/seating, signs, brushes, brooms, mops, etc.) All requisitions will be reviewed to determine if items being ordered from commercial sources are those produced by UNICOR, NIB, and/or NISH. Should office needs require items be purchased from commercial sources (that are not on GSA schedule) please ensure the provisions covered in section 8.706 of the Federal Acquisition Regulations pertaining to purchase exceptions are met.

256 OFFICE FURNITURE USE STANDARDS

256.1 Purpose

The quantity and types of office furniture and furnishings shall be assigned to individuals based on the following standards. These standards will provide the minimum essential requirements to support functions and programs. Assignment of lower levels or lesser quantities is authorized.

256.2 Quantity

The quantity of furniture assigned shall be limited to that prescribed in CFR 41 Subpart 101.

256.3 Use Standards

a. Executive Office Furniture - traditional and modern wood office furniture under Federal Supply Schedule FSC Group 71, Parts IIA and IIC. This furniture shall be limited to personnel in the Senior Executive Service (SES), Senior Foreign Service (SFS) and GS-16 and above or their equivalent. Staff assistants whose duties are in direct support of these personnel and are located in contiguous space are authorized the same level of furniture, but only in the quantities appropriate to their grade. Exceptions will be considered for approval by the Director, Office of Administration.

b. Middle Management Office Furniture - unitized wood furniture and related items under Federal Supply Schedule FSC Group 71, Part II, Section B. This furniture shall be limited to personnel at the GS-13 through 15 level or equivalent.

c. General Office Furniture - contemporary steel, wood, and general steel office furniture listed in the GSA Supply Catalog. This furniture shall be assigned to personnel at the GS-12 level or equivalent and below. Assignment will be based on functional requirements.

d. ADP Support Furniture - includes tables, work surfaces, machine surfaces, storage cabinets and related items under Federal Supply Schedule FSC Group 71, Part III, Section N. This furniture will be assigned to accommodate automated office requirements based on functional needs.

e. Modular Office Furniture - consists of interconnecting panel assemblies and all items under Federal Supply Schedule FSC Group 71, Part II, Section G. This furniture is designed to support office automation equipment and is to be used in open plan offices to provide flexibility and reduce space utilization. Requirements for this furniture with projected costs greater than $10,000 must have documented layout and justification provided, for approval by the Director, Office of Administration.

Use of modular furniture will be authorized with space utilization that supports the concept of open planning.

256.4 Deviation From Standards

a. Deviation from the use standards in paragraph 256.3 will be made on an individual basis and must have the approval of the Director, Office of Administration.

b. Specialized Furniture to be utilized in reception areas, libraries, technical areas, etc., will be assigned based on functional requirements. This furniture must have a documented layout and justification provided, for approval by the Office of Administration.

256.5 Procurement of New Furniture:

a. Procurement of new furniture may be made only if the required furniture cannot be obtained:

(1) From Broadcasting-owned, unassigned inventory, or

(2) From excess of other agencies, including substitution or adapting excess items to requested items, whether the excess items are unused, rehabilitated, or in used condition, or

(3) By reassigning furniture that is being used by persons not entitled to it, provided that substantial costs will not be incurred for rehabilitation and other related services.

b. Requests for furniture must include:

(1) The name of the employee to whom the furniture will be assigned and the grade level of the position occupied,

(2) Explanation of need; and,

(3) Certification that no similar furnishings, which are excess, are available within their organizational element.

257 TYPEWRITERS

257.1 Responsibility for Determining Typewriter Requirements -

a. The Office of Administration has full responsibility for determining typewriter requirements and for operating the program for acquiring, using, and disposing of typewriters.

b. The Office of Administration reviews each requisition for a new or replacement typewriter and the justifications presented therefor in the light of overall needs and resources and of the priorities and standards set forth below. The Office of Administration will continually survey requirements for typewriters.

258 REPAIRING AND REPLACING EQUIPMENT

258.1 Repairs

a. Services Available - The Office of Administration services requests for repairs to office machines and furniture - desks, chairs, typewriters, and other types of mechanical office equipment such as time clocks, numbering machines, electric staplers, perforators, and dictating and transcribing equipment. "On-the-spot" repairs to office machines and furniture are made whenever feasible.

b. Requesting Repairs - Employees should telephone requests for equipment repairs to the Office of Administration (see Functional Directory of telephone directory for appropriate telephone listings under "Repairs.")

258.2 Replacement - The Office of Administration controls the property replacement program, and arranges for the exchange of worn equipment for new or reconditioned items. Age, condition, and individual use of each piece of property are considered in determining replacement requirements.

259 DISPOSING OF SURPLUS EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES

Administrative property excess to the needs of Broadcasting is reported to the General Services Administration, which makes it available to other Federal agencies in lieu of new purchases. Similarly, when practicable, Broadcasting meets its personal property needs by obtaining excess property from other Federal agencies through GSA.

259.1 Action by Using Offices -

a. Each employee should ensure the maximum utilization of property assigned to him or her. Employees should report to their Administrative Officers all property excess to their needs.

b. Administrative Officers should return to the Office of Administration all nonexpendable property excess to the needs of their offices. Either list the excess items under the heading "Return to Stock" on the next requisition, or submit a separate requisition for pickup service. Do not place excess property in the corridors, and be sure that all drawers and cabinets are emptied.

c. Before submitting requisitions for additional nonexpendable property, Administrative Officers should survey the offices in their organizational element to see if the required items can be supplied by reassignment of property on hand. See paragraph 256.3 for reassignment of executive furnishings.

d. The Office of Administration conducts continuous surveys to locate excess property available for reassignment. When it finds property excess to the needs of an organizational element it informs the Administrative Officer who either reassigns the equipment to an element where it is needed or returns it to stock for reissue. Whenever possible, the Office of Administration fills requisitions by furnishing excess property items rather than by purchasing new property.

261.3 Procedures

SHIPPING EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES

261 COVERAGE AND PROCEDURES - Shipping equipment and supplies to overseas establishments throughout the world involves a complex variety of traffic operations. Instructions in this Section apply to the traffic operations most commonly employed by Broadcasting.

261.1 Responsibilities

a. Shipments By Domestic Offices - The Office of Engineering provides support for the transportation scheduling, shipping and receiving of equipment and technical supplies to and from transmitting stations, overseas establishments, other broadcasters, etc. This support does not include "mail room" functions associated with small packages suitable for handling by the U.S. Postal Service or courier services.

b. Shipments From Overseas Establishments To New York Service Depot - Elements that authorize shipment of equipment or materials from an overseas establishment to the New York Service Depot must:

(1) Simultaneously send the authorization to the overseas establishment to ship such equipment or materials, and a copy of the authorization to the Service Depot.

(2) Issue advance written instructions to the Service Depot concerning disposition of the equipment or materials, i.e., whether (and where) it is to be forwarded, stored, or disposed of. Instructions must include the name and telephone number of the person authorizing the return.

261.2 Methods of Shipment - The method of shipment is determined by giving consideration to the urgency of need, cost of transportation, size and weight, commodity being shipped and destination.

a. For Domestic Shipments - Air freight, motor freight, rail freight, small package express, and all forms of mail.

b. For Overseas Shipments - Air freight, ocean freight, sea pouch, air pouch, small package express, APO/FPO air mail and parcel post.

The support provided by the Office of Engineering, Network Support Division utilizes a combination of U.S. Government facilities and commercial transportation agents. Currently, the Brooklyn Warehouse is used as a transit point for shipments en route to, or returning from, overseas locations. Plans are to continue to use the Brooklyn facilities as long as they are operational through a MOU with the Department of State. The Network Support Division will arrange transportation via all modes from the Washington area, and, through commercial freight forwarders, can provide worldwide services including packing, crating, diplomatic pouch and container shipments.

Shipping expenses related to activities of the Office of Engineering will be covered by the budget of the Broadcasting element requesting shipping services.

261.2 Procedures

The Network Support Division will be responsible for shipping equipment and supplies for Broadcasting elements except for shipments that are small enough to be sent through the U.S. mail and do not require any special packing and/or handling.

To initiate the shipment, the requesting element will provide the Network Support Division with the following information:

- a. The priority for the shipment: routine, urgent, or emergency.
- b. A requisition.
- c. A fund cite to pay for the shipping costs.
- d. A point of contact and telephone number.
- e. The quantity and description of the material.
- f. The address where the material is to be sent.
- g. The location of the material to be shipped.
- h. Any special instructions that the Network Support Division needs to be aware of in order to properly ship the material.

Once Network Support receives a funded requisition, a staff member will pick up the material from the requesting office (if required) and have the material packed and shipped to the location specified on the requisition.

The Network Support Division will forward shipping information to the requester upon receipt from the freight forwarder. NOTE - IT IS THE REQUESTERS RESPONSIBILITY TO PROVIDE THE SHIPPING INFORMATION TO THE SITE RECEIVING THE MATERIAL.

OFFICE SPACE

411 REQUESTING OFFICE SPACE

The Office of Administration, administers all space assigned to Broadcasting by the Public Buildings Service, General Services Administration (GSA). To request allocation of office space, managers should submit a Request for Supplies/Services, through their Administrative Officer to the Office of Administration. Include the following information:

- a. The type of work to be performed in the space;
- b. The numbers and grades of employees who will be occupying the space;
- c. Any contemplated changes in operation, personnel, etc., that may require a future expansion;
- d. Any other pertinent information that will assist in evaluating the needs of the requesting office.

412 PLANNING SPACE OCCUPANCY

412.1 Obtaining Services of a Space Manager - The services of a space manager from the Office of Administration are available to prepare layouts for the effective utilization of existing or newly allocated space. The space manager consults with appropriate officials of the organizational element to which the space is assigned to determine operational needs. He or she then prepares and submits to the requesting office, for approval, scale drawings of the new space layout showing actual positioning of all major pieces of equipment, telephones, furniture, etc. To avoid costly changes, all operating officials concerned should be consulted before final approval is given for a proposed layout.

These drawings, as approved by the organizational element, are used for making the office move.

412.2 Checking Furniture and Equipment Needs -

- a. As soon as the space and equipment layout drawings are approved, the equipment as shown on the layout is checked against the furniture and equipment already assigned. Any additional furniture or equipment needed in the new location must be requisitioned in the usual manner, to be delivered to the new location when the move has been made.
- b. Similarly, all furniture and equipment in excess of requirements in the new space must be reported on a separate requisition. The contents must be completely removed by the originating office from all desks, cabinets, tables, etc., referred to in the requisition. This requisition must be prepared sufficiently in advance of the move to allow for the furniture and equipment to be picked up before the move takes place, but no later than 2 working days before the move date. Excess furniture and equipment must not be left in vacated space or moved into hallways.

412.3 Carpeting - The Office of Administration is responsible for determining the disposition of carpeting when office moves are made.

413 MOVING ARRANGEMENTS

413.1 Minor Moves - Requests for moving small amounts of furniture and for other minor moves within an organizational element can be made by the originating office contacting its Administrative Office. The Administrative Officer may contact the appropriate facilities officer by telephone or submit a requisition.

413.2 Major Moves - After space and equipment layouts have been approved, the facilities officer makes all arrangements for major moves excluding telephone installations and major ADP systems. The Administrative Officer of the office moving will make arrangements with the Mail and Telephone Branch for telephone installations. The telephone specialist will coordinate the installation date with the facilities officer. The Administrative Officer of the office moving will make arrangements with Computing Services for the move of computers. The facilities officer will provide movers for relocating minor ADP equipment, i.e., monitors, terminals, PC's and printers. Approved space and equipment layouts are followed without deviation since movers, telephone installers, and electricians are not authorized to make any changes or alterations in the plans.

413.3 Packing Supplies and Marking Equipment - The facilities officer arranges for the necessary moving boxes to be delivered to the office in advance of the moving date, and furnishes tags for marking boxes, furniture and equipment. The contents of filing cabinets, and bookcases with doors need not be emptied for a move from one room to another or from one building to another in the same locality (with the exception of breakables). The instructions below must be carefully followed by the moving office so that moves may progress rapidly and without unnecessary interruptions or delays:

- a. Cartons must be packed so that contents do not extend above the top edge of a carton. Do not place cartons on top of furniture. All cartons must be unpacked promptly. Empty cartons will be collected as soon as the move is completed with no request required.
- b. Tag each moving box, office machine, and item of furniture individually. Tags must show the name of the person to whom assigned, room number, and the building to which the items are to be moved.
- c. Number file cabinets, transfer cases, and supply cabinets consecutively in the order in which they are to be placed as shown on the equipment layout.
- d. Draw up tightly the sliding retainers in file drawers, record and transfer cases. It is not necessary to secure drawers of file cases and desks by cord, tape or wire.

- e. Pack small items in cartons. Carefully seal all containers of liquid. Remove from desks, tables, or other insecure places all containers of liquids and breakable items and pack securely in boxes.
- f. The moving of employee personal items (i.e., plants) are the responsibility of the employee or originating office. Prior arrangements may be made for moving such items with the facilities officer but Broadcasting will not be responsible for damages to such items.
- g. Papers, books, etc., may be left in desk drawers if they will not be damaged when the desks are placed on end.
- h. Empty supply cabinets, heavily loaded or poorly constructed file cabinets, book cases without doors, and the top drawer of map and chart cases, and pack the contents in boxes.
- i. Tag all typewriters, calculators, and similar equipment and place on top of desks. Do not leave typewriters and other office machines in the typewriter compartments of desks. Do not place office machines in cartons.
- j. Tag all computer monitors, terminals, PC's and printers and place in machine stands. Do not place ADP equipment in cartons.
- k. Tag, but do not pack, all mirrors, pictures, desk lamps, and glass desk tops. Mirrors and pictures suspended from moldings will be taken down by the movers.
- l. Remove the pins, markers, or posted material from maps, charts, and bulletin boards, or place temporary covers over them.

414 NOTICES CONCERNING OFFICE MOVES

It is the responsibility of the element Administrative officer to notify Labor and Employee Relations and to publish a notice of a major move, if necessary. Notices to Labor and Employee Relations must be provided prior to the scheduled move date, allowing sufficient time for that office to formally notify the union and solicit union comments. This is done in a memo through the Director of Administration to Labor and Employee Relations. Once formally notified, the union has ten full working days to provide comments. The space layout of the office realignment is to be included.

415 WORK SPACE MANAGEMENT PLAN

The Office of Administration prepares an annual Work Space Management Plan for submittal to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The plan, submitted as part of the budget process, provides estimated office space utilization rates in assigned buildings (within the United States). In preparation of this plan, the Office of Administration conducts an annual census of employees who require a workstation in Broadcasting assigned space.

416 CONFERENCE ROOMS

Requests for conference rooms must be submitted to the respective controlling office(s) located in each assigned building. Refer to MOA Part IV, Section 433, for approved uses of conference rooms, auditoriums, etc. in Broadcasting occupied space.

When reserving the conference rooms, offices must furnish the following information.

- a. Date, time and anticipated duration of the conference;
- b. Identification of the participating group;
- c. Name and phone number of the person requesting the reservation.

417 MAINTENANCE AND REPAIRS

Major Repairs and Improvements - Request major building repairs and improvements such as installation or removal of partitions, installation of electrical outlets, or painting by submitting a requisition to the Office of Administration. Your request will be reviewed by the Resource Management Committee in order to identify funding. The Office of Administration will notify you of approval/disapproval.

Broadcasting Administrative Manual
TITLE IV ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES, 400 SPACE AND FACILITIES
Section 420 PARKING SPACES

420 SCOPE

This section of the BAM addresses Agency policies and procedures for assigning parking spaces in Washington, D.C. facilities and covers Agency employees, other Federal employees, and non-government employees.

421 AUTHORITIES

421.1 The General Services Administration (GSA) prescribes the policies and procedures that Federal agencies must follow in assigning parking spaces for U.S. Government-owned or leased vehicles. (See 41 CFR §101.20-104-1/2 and 41 CFR §102-74.305.) Parking spaces not required for official needs may be used for employee parking. Following GSA regulations, the Agency periodically reallocates BBG-controlled parking spaces.

421.2 As cited in 41 CFR §101.20-104-1 and 41 CFR §102-74.305, parking spaces are assigned in the following order of priority:

Priority 1: Government-owned and leased vehicles.

Priority 2: Severely disabled employees.

Priority 3: Executive personnel and persons who work unusual work hours.

Priority 4: Vanpool/Carpool vehicles.

Priority 5: Other privately owned vehicles of employees, on a space available basis.

422 DEFINITIONS

422.1 The following guidelines are used in assessing permit applications:

422.1a Severely Disabled Employee Parking. Agency employees with physical disabilities or handicaps may apply to the Facilities Management Division (E/OA) in the IBB's Office of Engineering and Technical Services for a disability parking permit. All applications for a disability parking permit will require sufficient documentation before a permit is issued. Sufficient documentation is a copy of the employee's approved application, from the jurisdiction in which the employee's vehicle is registered, for either of the following: (i) the disability license plate or (ii) the disability placard. If an employee is unable to provide the required documentation (i.e., a copy of his/her approved application), the employee can meet the requirement for sufficient documentation as follows: As to the license plate, the employee can show the current vehicle registration card confirming that the license plate was issued to the employee. As to the placard, the employee can show either a current placard that bears the employee's name or, if the placard does not bear the employee's name, a current placard and a current identification document that the issuing jurisdiction provides to the placard holder that clearly establishes the identity of the person to whom the placard was issued.

Severely handicapped Agency employees (i.e., persons with permanent or temporary severe disabilities) shall receive a temporary permit upon application. Severely handicapped employees awaiting a permanent disability permit will receive preferential consideration for the first permanent disability permit that the Agency can make available. Should there be more than one severely disabled employee waiting for a permanent disabled parking permit, the Agency will assign permits in the order of application dates (i.e., the first permit goes to the employee with the earliest application date, and so forth). Employees who have a permanent disability license plate or a permanent disability placard and who have satisfied the supporting-documentation requirements described herein, shall retain a valid temporary permit while awaiting a permanent permit.

Permits for employees with a temporary disability license plate or temporary disability placard will expire on the expiration date of the temporary license plate or temporary placard. Disability parking permits must be renewed on a schedule to be determined by the Agency, but no more frequently than on an annual basis.

422.1b Executive personnel and persons who work unusual work hours. Executive passes will be issued to Federal employees with management responsibilities and duties or to persons who work unusual hours, who, in the judgment of the IBB Director or his/her designee, require assignment of parking privileges.

422.1c Vanpool/carpool. A vanpool/carpool consists of two or more regular riders. A regular rider is one who rides in the same automobile with the driver to the Agency parking lot on most work days throughout the entire period the parking permit is used. Intermittent vanpool/carpool members should not be listed as regular riders. Allocations to vanpools/carpools are based on a specified numerical point system defined in section 425. Once all available spaces have been allocated, the Facilities Management Division will place applicants on a waiting list as further discussed in section 431. Points are not given for riders who do not supply complete information. Agency parking permits will be issued to vanpools/carpools in the order of the highest aggregate point totals.

422.1d Other Privately Owned Vehicles. If additional spaces are available after distribution to the priority allocations (official vehicles, severely disabled employees, executive personnel and persons who work unusual work hours, and vanpools/carpools), the Facilities Management Division will issue permits to privately owned vehicles based on the Agency employee's seniority using total years of Agency service.

423 RESPONSIBILITIES

423.1 The Facilities Management Division (E/OA) in the IBB's Office of Engineering and Technical Services is responsible for managing and overseeing the Agency's parking facilities.

423.2 The IBB Director or his/her designee assigns parking privileges to executive personnel and to persons who work unusual work hours.

424 APPLICATION PROCESS FOR AGENCY PARKING PERMITS

424.1 All employees interested in obtaining a parking space at the Cohen Building or Switzer Building must complete a permit application available in the Facilities Management Division or on the IBB Intranet. Employees are reminded that parking permits are not automatically renewed and must be resubmitted annually.

424.2 Employees applying for a daytime parking permit cannot participate in the Public Transportation Assistance Program (PTAP).

424.3 Employees must hand deliver applications to the Facilities Management Division, Room G-074, Cohen Building, by the designated due date. Each year, the Facilities Management Division will notify employees of this designated due date at least 30 calendar days before application deadline through the electronic IBB notices system. No exceptions to the due date will be accepted. Employees who submit parking applications after the due date will be placed on a "waiting list" as described in section .

424.4 Employees must complete the application form in its entirety; missing information or signatures will result in the rejection of the application. Each vanpool/carpool member must include the telephone number, name, and signature of his/her supervisor on the application form. The supervisor's signature constitutes certification that, to the best of the knowledge of the supervisor, the information provided on the application is correct.

424.5 Severely disabled employees or new executive personnel may submit an application at any time. Granting of additional parking permits for these employees may result in the revocation of the lowest priority permit holders. In such a situation, the Facilities Management Division will notify the lowest priority permit holder in writing. The lowest priority permit holder will return the parking permit to the Facilities Management Division within seven calendar days of receipt of notification.

424.6 Employees may express a preference for underground parking in the Cohen Building where a tandem parking system (i.e., one car parked behind the other) is used. Such parking will be granted in order using the point allocation process specified in section 425. Employees must have work hours compatible with the tandem parking scheme.

424.7 The Facilities Management Division will verify all application information before issuance of a parking permit. This same verification process may be applied at any time while the permit is in use.

425 RANKING OF APPLICATIONS--POINT ALLOCATION

425.1 To rank vanpool/carpool applications, the Facilities Management Division will apply the following point system:

- Full-time Agency employee: 6 points
- Other Federal employee: 3 points
- Non-Government employee: 1 point

Each full-time Agency employee in the vanpool/carpool will receive 6 points; other Federal employees in the vanpool/carpool will receive 3 points; and each non-government employee in the vanpool/carpool will receive 1 point. The Facilities Management Division will issue parking permits for vanpools and carpools based on the highest total of points received.

425.2 To break ties, the Facilities Management Division will use the following criteria in the priority ordering shown:

- Total number of Agency employees in the vanpool/carpool.
- Total number of vanpool/carpool members.
- Total years of Federal service of each vanpool/carpool member.

425.3 Once all available spaces have been allocated, the Facilities Management Division will place applicants on an Agency waiting list. (See section 431 on the waiting list process.)

425.4 The Agency will grant serial (numbered) vanpool/carpool parking permits to vanpools/carpools that qualify according to the point structure described above. The Agency will allocate serial parking permits sequentially according to rank order. Two or more vanpools/carpools may be issued a joint daytime parking permit if their work hours do not overlap.

425.5 Vanpool/carpool permits will be issued to the primary member of the vanpool/carpool. Primary members must be Agency employees. The primary member is responsible for ensuring that all Agency parking policies and procedures are followed.

425.6 The primary member must notify the Facilities Management Division in writing within seven calendar days of any change in the status of listed vanpool/carpool members, i.e., the addition, deletion, or substitution of a rider. If changes occur, the vanpool/carpool may retain the permit only if the total points do not fall below the level of the highest scoring applicant on the Agency parking permit waiting list.

425.7 The Facilities Management Division will notify the primary member of the vanpool/carpool if the parking permit must be surrendered. The primary member must return the parking permit within seven calendar days of receipt of notification. Failure to notify the Facilities Management Division of changes in vanpool/carpool status could result in disciplinary action and suspension of parking privileges.

426 AFTER HOURS PARKING PERMITS

426.1 Each employee will receive one After Hours Parking Permit upon completion of the Request for After Hours Parking Permit form. The request will include the employee's name, organizational unit, office telephone number, office email address, and whether or not it is a new or replacement permit.

426.2 Employees may apply for an After Hours Parking Permit at any time.

426.3 After hours parking spaces will be occupied on a first-come/first-served basis for all eligible employees.

426.4 Normally, After Hours Parking Permits will be honored for daytime parking on all Federal holidays and when the Office of Personnel Management closes the Federal Government. The Facilities Management Division will notify the guards. Exceptions will, to the maximum extent possible, be announced by house-wide email the day preceding the closure.

426.5 Lost or damaged After Hours Parking Permits will be replaced upon completion of a new Request for After Hours Parking Permit form.

426.6 The Agency may require employees to update their request form and/or may reissue any After Hours Parking Permits as necessary.

427 USE OF PARKING PERMITS

427.1 Display of Permits. Parking permits must be clearly displayed in the front window of their vehicle or hung from the rear view mirror, depending on the type of permit issued.

427.2 Use of Certain Restricted Spaces. Regular parking permits authorize parking in spaces not marked as "Reserved," "Disabled," or "HHS." Only disabled permit holders are allowed to park in the designated disabled spaces.

428 TRANSFERING PERMITS

428.1 The Agency parking permit is non-transferable. Only permit holders and employees listed on vanpool/carpool applications may use Agency parking permits. Vanpools/carpools may, however, include alternate riders for limited periods such as when approved members are on annual leave.

428.2 Lost parking permits. Employees who misplace or lose their Agency parking permits should immediately report the loss in writing to the Facilities Management Division. The report should explain the circumstances surrounding the loss of the permit. If the permit appears to have been stolen or if evidence of fraud is found, the Facilities Management Division will refer the case to the appropriate authorities for investigation. If a lost permit is found, employees are asked to notify the Facilities Management Division immediately and return the replacement parking permit.

429 REVOCATION OF PARKING PERMITS

429.1 Employees determined to be in violation of Agency parking policies will be subject to disciplinary action.

429.2 Employees will be subject to the following provisions:

- a. Parking permits may be revoked for just cause. An employee will be given two weeks advance notice of parking permit revocation during which time the employee will have the opportunity to explain the circumstances.
- b. Falsification of information on applications will result in the denial or suspension of parking privileges on Federal facilities for at least one year.
- c. Employees who are found in violation of any of the procedures or policies set forth in this section of the Broadcasting Administrative Manual will be subject to having their vehicle ticketed and/or towed in accordance with the Negotiated Labor Management Agreement between the Broadcasting Board of Governors and the American Federation of Government Employees Local 812, Article 33, Sections 1, 3, 4, 5, and 6.
- d. Individuals who have violated an established Agency parking policy such as unauthorized parking in Agency facilities or fraudulent use of parking permits may have their Agency parking permits revoked for the rest of the time covered by the permit and will be ineligible to be counted as primary members or members of vanpools/carpools for an additional period of one year.
- e. Parking permits of employees found to be members of other government or private industry vanpools/carpools may be revoked.

430 MOVING OF VEHICLES OWING TO PARKING RESTRICTIONS

430.1 When an employee is unable to move his/her vehicle from the Cohen or Switzer Building parking lot as required by a parking lot restriction because of an unexpected emergency or because the employee could not be released due to work requirements, the employee will contact the Facilities Management Division by telephone, and an extension of time will be granted until the employee can move the vehicle.

431 WAITING LIST APPLICATIONS

431.1 Owing to the limited number of parking spaces available, some employees who apply for parking permits may not receive them immediately. Individuals who qualify for Agency parking permits but for whom spaces are not available will be placed on an Agency parking application waiting list and will receive parking permits once they become available.

431.2 The Facilities Management Division will maintain the parking application waiting list. Additional applications received during the year will be added to the waiting list, and all outstanding applications will be re-ranked in accordance with the procedure outlined in section 425.

431.3 As parking becomes available, the Agency will issue permits based on the current, ranked waiting list. Individuals may determine their position on the waiting list by contacting the Facilities Management Division on 202-203-4001.

432 PERMIT HOLDERS

432.1 The names, telephone numbers, and duty hours of vanpool/carpool permit holders will be published on the Agency Intranet. Position titles will be published for all executive permits.

434.2 Other Waste Materials - Do not place glass or other sharp instruments in waste-paper containers nor leave them on top of desks where they can be knocked off and broken. Wrap such items securely and place beside the wastepaper container marked "for disposal." Do not leave candy, fruit, or like items in desks overnight unless they are in solidly closed containers.

434.3 Recyclable Materials - Regularly scheduled collections of recyclable materials are made by contractors of the General Services Administration or building owners. Employees shall place recyclable materials in boxes provided. Boxes shall be placed on desk tops, near trash cans, or other noticeable locations for regular collections.

435 FEDERAL ENERGY USAGE

435.1 Purpose - Federal reporting on activities relating to energy efficiency is required by the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1992; the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (as amended by PL 99-272 and PL 100-615); and Executive Orders 12003 and 12759. Accordingly, the Office of Administration must report quarterly to the Department of Energy on domestic and overseas energy consumption, and provide annual information on costs and progress toward meeting reduced usage mandates.

Three types of fuel and electricity usage data are required:

a. Buildings & Facilities Operation. All domestic locations will be reported by GSA, and all overseas locations by the State Department. In both cases, transmitting stations are excepted (see item 3, below).

b. Vehicle and Equipment Operation. All elements operating federally owned and leased vehicles at domestic locations will report quarterly and annual usage of specified types of fuel , including fuel for Alternative Fueled Vehicles (AFV's).

c. Process Energy/Operations. Transmitting Stations located in the United States and overseas have been designated "energy intensive operations". DOE requires a separate report on energy consumption at these locations (see 435.3.b) .

435.2 Effective Date - Annual statistics were required by DOE beginning with FY 89. Quarterly reports began with the first quarter of FY 90.

435.3 Procedures - Elements will submit quarterly data to the Office of Administration - within 15 calendar days of the end of each quarter. While fuel costs are not included in the quarterly report, they should be collected quarterly by elements to simplify year-end reporting. The annual report must be submitted within 30 days of the end of the fiscal year. The Office of Administration will convert the submissions into a single report for Broadcasting.

a. DOE form F 6200.2 is used to report quarterly usage. In the second section, Vehicle and Equipment Operation, all elements, including transmitting stations, will enter pertinent consumption data. The report is due to the Office of Administration within 15 calendar days of the end of each fiscal quarter.

b. Annual energy costs are to be reported to the Office of Administration which will transmit them to The Department of Energy. Figures for gross square feet of floor area are required only for the transmitting stations.

c. Efforts to reduce energy usage should be presented in a narrative attached to the elements annual reports.

Section 440

TELEPHONE SERVICES

441 GENERAL

Except for technical broadcast related telecommunications services handled directly by Broadcast Operations and all telephone services for

Office of Cuba Broadcasting, the Office of Administration provides for telephone services including installation and maintenance of telephone equipment and telephonic communication consultation service.

442 USE OF TELEPHONES

442.1 Responsibility of User - Each employee having a telephone on his or her desk is responsible for assuring it is used only for official business. Pay telephones are available in all buildings for the use of employees making personal calls. Personal calls that must be made during working hours may be made if the call is consistent with the criteria in 444.2 (c) and 444.3 (a). telephone numbers must not be used in private advertisements or for similar unofficial use. General information regarding the use of telephones is found in the Telephone Directory.

442.2 Transferring Misdirected Incoming Calls - Upon receipt of a misdirected incoming call from outside Broadcasting, ascertain the proper office to handle the call by checking the Functional or Organizational section of the Directory. After informing the caller of the proper extension, transfer the call by depressing the telephone switch-hook once, dial the number and hang up.

442.3 Official Long-Distance Telephone Calls

a. When Used - Official long-distance telephone calls will be made only to transmit or obtain information when the official making the call determines that less expensive means of communication such as letters or fax or e-mail are impractical and the situation is of such urgency as to warrant the additional expense. Collect calls will be accepted for official business only. The head of each organizational element is responsible for assuring that long-distance calls by personnel in the element are made for official purposes and only when essential.

b. Planning Conversations - Make long-distance calls brief. Have necessary material (documents, notes, etc.) organized before placing the call in order to complete the conversation as quickly as possible.

c. Placing Domestic Long-Distance Calls - Place all official long-distance telephone calls to points in the contiguous United States, Alaska, and Hawaii via the Federal Telecommunication System (FTS 2000). All calls to Canada and the Caribbean Islands (except Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands which are served by FTS 2000) must dial 9 + 1 + 10 digit number. Commercial facilities may be used only in emergencies when a call cannot be completed immediately via FTS 2000 or to obtain information of a commercial telephone number in a distant location. The Telephone Directory contains complete instructions on the use of FTS 2000. Additional information on the use of the FTS 2000 system can be obtained from the Office of Administration.

d. Placing Calls to Overseas Locations - To place a direct dial overseas call, dial 9 + 011, country code, city code and the number. In order to contact the International Operator for assistance in placing overseas calls to locations that cannot be direct dialed, the prefix 9 + 0 + 0 should be used.

442.4 Installation Services - Submit a Request for Supplies/Services, to the Office of Administration for installation of additional telephone equipment or changes in location of present equipment. Request must be signed by an authorized official of the requesting office. Under no circumstances will telephone equipment be removed from the furniture to which it is attached or changed in any manner unless the change is authorized by the Office of Administration and the work done by a regular telephone company technician.

442.5 Advisory Services - The services of a telephone analyst are available from the Office of Administration. To obtain these services submit a requisition stating the problem in detail.

443 TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

443.1 Publication - The Telephone Directory is issued periodically by the Office of Administration.

a. Each office head must notify the Office of Administration through their Administrative Office, of any changes that affect the information listed in the Directory. Submit personnel changes on a Locator Card.

b. Employees should refer any corrections, omissions, or deletions required in the Directory to their supervisor. Employees should also suggest to their supervisors any changes in the functional section of the Directory that may become necessary.

c. Send changes to be made in the Functional Directory to the Office of Administration. Each element will be furnished a copy of its listing in the Organizational Directory for updating.

443.2 Obtaining Directory - New employees requiring copies of the Telephone Directory should make such requests to their Administrative Officer. Administrative Officers may request additional Directories by submitting a requisition to the Office of Administration.

444 AUTHORIZED USE OF THE TELEPHONE SYSTEM

444.1 Use of Government Telecommunication Services - The government telecommunications system intracity network is to be used only to conduct official business, i.e., if the call is necessary in the interest of the government. The government system is to be used for placement of calls instead of a commercial toll network to the maximum extent practicable. Where use of the government system is not practicable, a commercial toll network may be used if the call is necessary in the interest of the government. The head of each organizational element is responsible for the proper management of telephone usage within his/her jurisdiction.

444.2 Authorized Use of the Telephone System on Official Business -

a. The use of the telephone system (both the government and the commercial systems) in the continental United States, Alaska, and Hawaii is limited to the conduct of official business. Such official business calls may include personal emergency or convenience calls as specified in (c) below and calls that are necessary in the interest of the government.

(2) An employee traveling on Government business is delayed due to official business or transportation delay and calls to notify family of a schedule change. Wherever possible, the employee should use a government telephone for the call, but may use a commercial toll network if a government telephone is not available and may claim reimbursement for the call when submitting a travel voucher in accordance with MOA IV 655 j and the Travel Reimbursement Manual paragraph C 26.

(3) An employee traveling for more than one night on Government business in the U.S. makes a brief call to his or her residence (but not more than an average of one call per day). Wherever possible, the employee should use a government telephone for the call, but may use a commercial toll network if a government telephone is not available and may claim reimbursement for the call when submitting a travel voucher in accordance with MOA IV 655 j and the Travel Reimbursement Manual paragraph C 26.

(4) An employee traveling overseas on Government business is permitted to make one five-minute telephone call to his or her residence after he or she has been in travel status for at least seven calendar days and in seven day increments after that. The employees may claim reimbursement for calls when submitting a travel voucher in accordance with MOA IV 655 j and the Travel Reimbursement Manual paragraph C. 26.

(5) An employee is required to work overtime without advance notice and calls within the area from which the employee regularly commutes, to advise his or her family of the change in schedule or to make alternate transportation or child care arrangements.

(6) Brief local calls (within the commuting area) to speak to the spouse or minor children (or those who care for them, e.g., schools or day care centers) to see how they are.

(7) Brief local calls to a local government agency, a physician, or locations within the local commuting area that can only be reached during the working day.

(8) Brief local calls to arrange for emergency repairs to his or her residence or automobile.

444.3 Authorized Use of the Telephone System on Personal Business

a. Personal calls that must be made during working hours may be made over the commercial long distance network if the call is consistent with the criteria in 444.2 (b) and is:

(1) Charged to the employee's home telephone number or other non-government number (third number call);

(2) Made to an 800 toll-free number;

(3) Charged to the called party if a non-government number (collect call); or

(4) Charged to a personal telephone credit card.

b. No other calls, on the commercial or government system, may be placed except in circumstances identified in 444.2 (b) and (c) even if the employee intends to reimburse the government for the cost of the call.

444.4 Abuse by Employees - Abuse of the Government Telephone System, including abuse of the privileges in Section 444.2, may result in disciplinary action. Employees should be particularly sensitive to the use of Government telephone facilities under the conditions outlined in section 444.2. Such calls should be made during lunch break or other off-duty periods, if possible.

444.5 Prohibitions - The following practices are prohibited. A willful violation may result in a criminal, civil or administrative action, including suspension or dismissal. (See 22 CFR 10.735-207).

The listing details all calls by telephone number within an element, usually to the Branch level, so heads of Offices can exercise oversight and control telephone usage in their elements.

a. Heads of Offices and Services- The head of each organizational element is responsible for the proper management of telephone usage within his/her jurisdiction.

b. Manager and Supervisors - Managers and supervisors should review the long distance listing to ensure that telephones are being used for official business.

c. Employees and Contractors - Each employee or contractor having access to a telephone is responsible for its use only for official business as defined in this section.

SAFETY PROGRAM

(Occupational Safety and Health-OSH)

461 LEGAL AUTHORITIES - FEDERAL SAFETY PROGRAMS

a. Section 19, Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1590), requires the head of each agency to establish and maintain a comprehensive occupational safety and health program consistent with the safety standards promulgated under Section 6 by the Secretary of Labor for businesses affecting interstate commerce.

b. Title 5, Section 7902, United States Code, authorizes the President to establish by Executive Order a safety advisory council composed of representatives of Federal agencies and labor organizations representing employees to serve as an advisory body to the Secretary of Labor in carrying out a Federal safety program.

c. Executive Order 12196, (February 26, 1980), entitled Occupational Safety and Health Programs for Federal Employees, details the specific responsibilities of each agency head in establishing and maintaining this comprehensive program. It also provides, in part, that the Secretary of Labor shall provide advisory services, conduct annual program evaluations, and establish and maintain a safety management information system.

d. The Code of Federal Regulations, Title 29, Part 1960, entitled Safety and Health Provisions for Federal Employees, contains the program guidelines issued by the Secretary of Labor to assist Federal agencies in developing a safety program suitable to their mission, size and organization.

462 SAFETY POLICY

The Occupational Safety and Health Program, herein called the Safety Program, seeks to reduce and prevent employee injuries and property losses caused by needless accidents. Toward the achievement of these goals, it is policy to provide safe and healthful working spaces and conditions that conform with the General Industry Standards (OSHA 2077, Vol. 1, Occupational Safety and Health, Part 1910) or other applicable standards that are approved, issued, or authorized by the Secretary of Labor. Constant observance of and adherence to safety principles and standards by heads of establishments, supervisors, and employees is essential to achieve program objectives. See MOA VII-173.2 for justifying purchases of safety or protective equipment, etc.

463 APPLICABLE REGULATIONS - DOMESTIC OR OVERSEAS ACCIDENTS

463.1 Domestic Locations - The contents of this Section apply to domestic locations and to all employees in domestic elements. It is administered by the Safety Officer. Reports of domestic accidents must be submitted on Supervisor's Report of Accident, or SF-91, Operator's Report of Motor Vehicle Accident, or both (see paragraph 464 below).

463.2 Overseas Locations - The Safety program overseas is administered by the Safety Director, Department of State, in accordance with the joint regulations in 6 FAM 600, Safety and Civil Defense Programs. Reports of overseas accidents are forwarded to the Department of State through the Embassy or consulate on Form DS-1663 and/or SF-91.

463.3 Radio Transmitting Stations - The Transmitting Station Instruction TSI Manual issued by the Office of Engineering and Technical Services, contains accident reporting and safety procedures which supplement the applicable MOA or FAM reference above. Also see Exhibit 460C.

463.4 Safety and Health Provisions for Employees - The procedural requirements and employee rights which shall be observed in implementing the OSH program are based on this regulation; applicable provisions of any collective bargaining agreement covering employees; Safety and Health Provisions for Employees, Exhibit 460D; and 29 C.F.R. Part 1960 - Basic Program Elements for Federal Employee OSH Programs and Related Matters, which provides the Department of Labor guidelines on this subject.

464 ACCIDENT REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

The accident reports described below are used by safety officers in developing appropriate remedial actions that would minimize or prevent the recurrence of similar accidents. They also provide statistical information used in evaluating the progress of the safety program and in comparison with other organizations. See MOA V-A 505 for employee instructions regarding the Federal Employees Compensation Act forms which are also required for any injury incurred in the performance of duty. Filing of the latter protects both the immediate and future compensation rights of the employee, should complications develop.

See 6 FAM 600 for overseas locations.

464.1 Reports by Employees and Supervisors

a. Supervisor's Report of Accident, is required for every domestic accident resulting in an injury to an employee regardless of severity. Supervisors submit the form via the appropriate Unit Safety or Administrative Officer to the Safety Officer, for accident evaluation and reporting purposes.

b. Form SF-91, Operator's Report of Motor Vehicle Accident, must be prepared by the employee operating a U.S. Government-owned, rented or leased motor vehicle, or a private vehicle used for official business that is involved in an accident. The completed SF-91 will be submitted through the employee's immediate supervisor and Unit Safety Officer for review and forwarding to the Office of Administration. When appropriate, Form SF-94, Statement of Witness, should accompany the SF-91. If the SF-94 is unavailable, the statement of the witness may be handwritten or typed. (See MOA IV-750, Motor Vehicles, and MOA V-A 505, Compensation for Work Injuries).

c. Serious Accidents - Any employment accident which is fatal to one or more employees, which results in the hospitalization of five or more employees, or which involves property damage of $100,000 or more must be immediately reported by telephone to the Safety Officer, for his or her report to the Secretary of Labor, which is due within 2 working days of the accident (Safety and Health Provisions for Federal Employees, Department of Labor, Regulation and Procedures Subpart B, 29 CFR 1960.8).

465 SAFETY ORGANIZATION AND RESPONSIBILITIES (See Exhibits 460A, 460B and 460C).

Members of the Unit Safety and Health Committee should read and be familiar with both management and employee rights.

466.2 The Occupational Safety and Health Committee provides a forum where general or specific safety and environmental health issues may be discussed and resolved. Its membership consists of:

- a. a representative from the labor organization holding exclusive recognition for the (WG) technicians unit;

b. Supervisors must deal with violations of this policy as they would with similar matters of conduct; that is, through appropriate guidance, warnings and, as necessary, progressive disciplinary sanctions suited to the seriousness and frequency of the misconduct.

c. To the maximum extent feasible, disputes over this agreement should be resolved through informal discussions at the lowest level possible, and, if necessary, between representatives of Broadcasting and the employee union(s), prior to the initiation of a formal grievance process or a disciplinary action. Any disputes regarding the interpretation or application of the policy which are not resolved informally may be raised as grievances under the appropriate grievance procedures: Article XXIII of the AFGE Negotiated Agreement for AFGE civil service bargaining unit employees; 3 FAM 660 for Foreign Service employees; Article XIII of the VOA Negotiated Agreement for AFSME bargaining unit employees; and MOA VA-560 for supervisors, managers and other non-bargaining unit employees.

469 FEDERAL HAZARD COMMUNICATION PROGRAM

469.1 Purpose and Policy

Purpose and Scope

a. The regulations and procedures in this Exhibit are based upon the safety program guidelines issued by the Secretary of Labor to assist Federal agencies in establishing and maintaining an effective Occupational Safety and Health Program. It is suggested that the regulations be read in conjunction with the Secretary's guideline paragraphs which contain additional explanatory material. In some instances the regulations incorporate by reference specific paragraphs in the guidelines

b. The Occupational Safety and Health (OSH) Program is administered by the Office of Administration pursuant to guidelines received from the Department of Labor. Health services programs such as health units, medical exams, health monitoring procedures, maintenance of medical records, etc., contribute to the successful implementation of the OSH program but are separately administered by the Office of Personnel pursuant to guidance from the Office of Personnel Management or the Department of State.

1960.16 Designated Safety and Health Official

The Director, Office of Administration is the Director's designated Safety and Health Official. The Safety Officer reports directly to that Official on all safety and health matters. Unit Safety Officers at principal locations within the United States receive program guidance from the Safety Officer and submit reports to that officer. General program goals and objectives include the prevention of needless accidents by locating and eliminating hazards. Promotional activities are keyed to encourage employee involvement and safety awareness themes. Specific goals and priorities, seeking the reduction of recurring and similar accidents or illnesses, are reviewed and revised annually. Program effectiveness is judged by comparison of quarterly and annual statistics and close liaison with safety personnel and committees comprising both management and employee representatives. Program funding is requested and justified based upon an annual evaluation of safety and health objectives together with staff requirements to implement an effective program.

1960.17 Safety and Health Committees

Employee representatives participate with management personnel in Unit Occupational Safety and Health Committees (see MOA IV 466.1 and 466.2). The booklet, "Occupational Safety and Health for the Federal Employee" contains pertinent sections of the Act of 1970, the Executive order, and regulatory material, and is on file with each Unit Safety Officer for official use and employee reference. Additional copies may be ordered from OSHA or through the Safety Officer.

1960.18 Posting of Notice; Availability of Act and Details of the Safety and Health Program

The official OSHA poster (OSHA 2219) will be displayed at principal locations in a conspicuous place where notices are customarily posted. Pertinent information will be added. The applicable safety standards will be available in records maintained by the Unit and safety officers. The organization of the Safety Program is described in MOA IV 460. Also see Exhibits 460A, 460B, 460C, and 460D.

1960.19 Duties of Officials and Employees

The Secretary of Labor's guidelines are adopted as regulations and shall be so interpreted and applied. The employee safeguards mentioned in Procedures for Inspections and Abatements shall be observed. The grievance procedures detailed in MOA V-A-567 or 3 FAM 660 may be utilized to secure any right granted by Section 19 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, Executive Order 12196, and/or the OSH Program. In addition, all non-supervisory employees serving on Civil Service or Wage Board appointments and covered by negotiated agreements may grieve under negotiated grievance procedures of the union holding exclusive recognition for the unit in which the dispute arises.

1960.20 Safety and Health Training Guidelines

It is policy to provide introductory occupational safety and health training as well as general or specialized instruction appropriate to the position, the needs of the employee, or the special tasks to be accomplished. This policy extends to employees at all levels including officers, supervisors, representatives of employees, and employees.

1960-21-24 (Reserved)

PROCEDURES FOR INSPECTIONS AND ABATEMENTS

1960.25 Purpose, Scope and General Provisions

The Secretary of Labor's guidelines, including subparts a, b, c d, e, f, and g, shall be utilized for reference purposes in fulfilling the intent and objectives of this Subpart. Information requested by the Secretary of Labor about training needs or special problems that might occur in inspection or abatement activities shall be cleared through the Safety Officer.

1960.26 Safety and Health Inspectors; Frequency of Inspection

Paragraphs (a, b, c, and d) of the Secretary's Guidelines shall be observed to the extent that the circumstances of the individual establishment permit. Workplaces shall be inspected at least annually and more frequently where there is an increased risk of accident, injury, or illness due to the nature of the work performed. Inspections shall be made by a person having sufficient training and/or experience in the safety and health needs of the workplaces involved to adequately carry out the duties of an inspector. An inspector shall be accompanied by one or more representatives of employees and, where feasible, one or more management representatives when making the annual inspection. Where an employee(s) of another agency or private industry is to conduct the inspection, a management representative as well as an employee representative shall accompany the inspector. Appropriate security clearance requirements shall be observed at all times.

1960.27 Conduct of Inspection

Paragraphs a, b, c, d, e, and f of the Secretary of Labor's Guidelines shall be observed when conducting an inspection at a Broadcasting location. Any unsafe or unhealthy working condition(s) disclosed shall be discussed by the inspector or inspection team with the responsible management official(s) and the representative(s) of employees.

1960.28 Advance Notice of Inspections

In general, the Secretary's Guideline paragraphs state that advance notice of an inspection should not be given to the official in charge of an establishment except in the specific exceptions mentioned. One exception is where advance notice is necessary to assure the presence of representatives of employees and management. Even then, the notification should preferably not be given more than 24 hours in advance. Unit safety officers for the media services, staff offices, and independent establishments should observe the intent and spirit of the Guidelines to the extent feasible and practical at any location under their control. However, Guideline paragraphs a and b are adopted as regulations, together with the exceptions, for any inspection conducted: (1) by a safety officer who is not a resident officer or employee at the site or (2) by any inspector who is not an employee of Broadcasting. In all of the above cases, if advance notice of an inspection is given to the official in charge of an establishment, the representative(s) of employees must also be notified.

1960.29 Representatives of Officials in Charge and Representatives of Employees

A safety and health officer or inspector employed by Broadcasting or another Federal agency, or obtained from private industry, will be in charge of any authorized inspection and may seek information from any employee, employee representative, supervisor, or management official during the course of the inspection. A representative of the official in charge of the establishment and a representative of the employees shall be given an opportunity to accompany the inspector and to provide any information they deem essential. The inspector may also select additional representatives from both management and the employees to accompany the inspection team if determined beneficial. Different representatives may be selected by the inspector during each phase of the inspection as necessary. Management and employee representatives on the Unit Safety Committee may fulfill some or all of the above requirements during an inspection.

1960.30 Consultation with Employees

Safety and health inspector should consult with employees to the extent deemed necessary for the conduct of an effective and thorough inspection. Similarly, any employee has the right to bring to the attention of the inspector any unsafe or unhealthy working condition which is believed to exist in the workplace.

1960.31 Reports by Employees of Unsafe or Unhealthful Working Conditions

(a) An oral report of an unsafe or unhealthful working condition to the responsible supervisor and/or the Unit Safety Officer will usually assure prompt analysis and response. However, pending the outcome of the oral report, an employee may also file a written report and/or use the grievance procedures in MOA V-A-567 or 3 FAM 660, or where applicable, the negotiated agreement of the exclusive bargaining representative.

(b) A written report requesting an inspection of workplaces should set forth with reasonable particularity the grounds for the report, and should be signed by the employee or the representative of employees. The report should preferably be addressed to the Unit Safety Officer, but may be sent directly to the Safety Officer or the Safety and Health Official, if the employee prefers. If so requested in the report, the name of the employee as well as any other employees mentioned will not be disclosed except to authorized representatives of the Secretary of Labor. Imminent danger situations should be reported in person or by telephone to the immediate supervisor, the Unit Safety Officer, or the Safety Officer, and later reduced to writing if preferred or requested.

(c) The officer receiving the written report shall determine within five working days whether there are reasonable grounds to believe that the alleged unsafe or unhealthful working condition exists. If so determined, an inspection shall take place as soon as possible. The Secretary of Labor's Guidelines will be observed if it becomes necessary to give the inspector the name of an employee who requested anonymity. Imminent danger situations shall be determined on a priority basis and, if believed to exist, an immediate inspection will be arranged.

(d) Inspections initiated pursuant to a report of an unsafe or unhealthful workplace need not be limited to matters referred to in the report. Employees or employee representatives may notify the inspector of any other such conditions believed to exist either prior to or during the inspection.

(e) An employee or employee representative filing a written report (see [b] above) shall be notified in writing whenever a determination is reached that there are no reasonable grounds to believe that an unsafe or unhealthful working condition exists or whenever an inspection fails to disclose such a condition. The employee then has the right to request a prompt and informal review by the responding officer, setting forth in writing the reasons why the determination should be reconsidered.

Successive rights for a determination and subsequent review exist through the Unit Safety Officer, the Safety Officer, and the Safety and Health Official. In each instance the employee's report or request for reconsideration as well as each determination or review shall be in writing. A determination by the Safety and Health Official will prevail unless changed during a subsequent review (see paragraph [g] below).

(f) A Unit Safety Committee, the Safety Committee or a subcommittee may be utilized as the designee of the Safety and Health Official for the purpose of developing facts and/or recommendations in connection with any oral or written report alleging an unsafe or unhealthy working condition. Where appropriate, and always when so requested, the official will preserve the confidentiality of the originator(s) and other names within the report.

(g) An employee or employee representative who is dissatisfied with any final in-house determination made by the Safety and Health Official may contact in writing the Office of Federal Agency Safety Program (OFASP), Occupational Safety and Health Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. 20210, describing in detail the entire processing of the report of the alleged unsafe or unhealthy working condition (s) and setting forth his/her objections thereto. A copy must also be provided simultaneously to the Safety and Health Official. Consult the Secretary of Labor's Guidelines for OFASP actions and retention of records by agencies.

1960.32 Imminent Danger

The text of the Secretary of Labor's Guidelines shall apply in the handling of imminent danger situations. Whenever a Unit Safety Officer or the designee acting as assistant concludes that conditions or practices exist which could reasonably be expected to cause death or serious physical harm before the danger can be eliminated through the normal abatement procedures (see 1960.33 and 1960.34), he/she should inform the affected employees and official in charge of the establishment of the danger. The official so notified should undertake immediate abatement and the withdrawal of any employees not necessary to eliminate the dangerous condition(s). If assistance is needed, the Safety Officer and/or the Safety and Health Official shall be notified immediately. The Safety and Health Official should inform the Secretary of Labor as soon as time permits of any imminent danger which cannot be promptly and completely abated. The Unit and Occupational Safety and Health Committee should be informed of all relevant actions.

1960.33 Notices and Unsafe or Unhealthy Working Conditions

(a) Notices of unsafe or unhealthful working conditions discovered upon inspection by a safety inspector or safety committee shall describe with particularity the nature of the condition(s) and include a reference to the OSHA standard involved.

The notice should also list a reasonable date for the abatement of the condition as determined in consultation with the Unit Safety Officer and the responsible administrative officer(s). A copy of the notice should be sent to the head of the individual establishment and to the Unit Occupational Safety and Health Committee.

(b ) If the above notice is issued as a result of a report filed pursuant to 1960.31 (b) above, a copy shall also be sent to the person who made the report.

(c) Upon receipt of a notice issued in accordance with (a) above, the head of the establishment, through the designated Unit Safety Officer, should immediately post an unedited copy of that notice at or near each place the unsafe or unhealthful working condition exists. See the Guideline paragraph for alternate posting locations when necessary.

(d) Each notice should remain posted until the condition has been abated.

1960.34 Correction of Unsafe or Unhealthful Working Conditions

(a) The official in charge of an establishment and the employee serving as Administrative Officer have primary responsibility for the correction of unsafe or unhealthful working conditions brought to their attention by any means. Where a notice has been issued pursuant to 1960.33, abatement should be accomplished within the time set forth in the notice.

(b) Reinspection of unsafe or unhealthful working conditions shall be made by the Unit Safety Office or designee to determine that the correction has been made. If not made or if the corrections were not carried out in accordance with an abatement plan submitted pursuant to paragraph (c) below, the Unit Safety Officer should inform the Administrative Officer, the head of the establishment, and the Safety Officer.

(c) Unsafe or unhealthful conditions, which in the judgment of the establishment's administrative officer cannot be abated within 30 working days, should be documented in an abatement plan. The plan should contain an explanation of the circumstances of the delay, a proposed timetable for the abatement, and a summary of the steps taken in the interim to protect employees. The plan should be submitted to the Unit Occupational Safety and Health Committee and to the Safety Officer for appropriate comment and assistance. If the estimated abatement time is more than 60 working days, the head of the element shall forward one copy of the plan to the Unit Committee and two copies to the Safety Officer for transmittal to the Secretary of Labor. Changes in an abatement plan require submission of a new plan in accordance with the provisions of this section.

1960.35-39 (Reserved)

OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH STANDARDS

1960.40 Purpose and Scope

Refer to 29 CFR, Part 1960 (Basic Program Elements for Federal Employee OSH Programs and Related Matters) for purpose and scope of standards and the responsibilities of the Secretary of Labor under Executive Order 12196.

1960.41 Procedures for Adoption of Standards

(a) Purpose

This section details procedures for the promulgation and adoption of a standard either in lieu of an existing OSHA standard or to supplement OSHA standards because they do not cover a working condition encountered within Broadcasting.

(b) Adoption of OSHA and Emergency Temporary Standards

As noted in 1960.42, Broadcasting has adopted OSHA standards and automatically adopts OSHA standards as issued which apply to Broadcasting operations, and in paragraph 1960.45 has provided for the implementation of any applicable emergency temporary standard as issued by the Secretary of Labor or the Safety and Health Official.

(c) General

Any person may petition the Secretary of Labor to promulgate, modify, or revoke an OSHA standard (see OSHA, Vol. 1, General Industry Standards, paragraph 1910.3 for details). This direct approach to the Secretary should be considered whenever issuance as a nationwide OSHA standard would improve safety and health conditions at other establishments as well as Broadcasting. Where a unique working condition(s) or operation(s) exists only at Broadcasting locations, a standard promulgated for use within Broadcasting is appropriate. In any event, a standard proposed for use only within Broadcasting cannot be implemented without the prior approval of the Secretary of Labor unless it is an emergency temporary standard issued by the Safety and Health Official.

(d) Promulgation and Approval Procedure for a Broadcasting Standard

(1) Employees

One or more employees, employee representatives, supervisors, or officers may submit a proposed safety standard to the individual establishment's Unit Safety Committee. The proposal should be submitted in triplicate and must contain (1) the substance of the proposed standard, (2) its effects if adopted, and (3) the reason for the proposal. A proposed standard may also be initiated by a Unit or Occupational Safety and Health Committee. It may be withdrawn by its originator(s) at any time prior to its possible adoption by notifying the Unit Safety Committee in writing and sending a copy to the Safety Officer.

(2) Unit Occupational Safety and Health Committee and Safety Officer

Upon receipt of a proposed standard by a Unit Safety Committee, one copy shall be forwarded to the Safety Officer. After a feasibility study and comparison with previously adopted standards, the Safety Officer will acknowledge its receipt to the Unit Committee involved and to the proposal's originator. Any pertinent information and comments will be included. If the proposed standard is received from a Radio Transmitting Station, the Transmitting Station Safety Advisor, the Office of Engineering will participate in the above study and be a point of clearance for the reply to the Unit Committee.

(3) Unit Occupational Safety and Health Committee

After receipt of the acknowledgment and comments from the Safety Officer, the Unit Committee and the originator(s) of the proposed standard should proceed to resolve any remaining questions as to its feasibility and wording. Unless withdrawn (see paragraph [a] above re notification), the Unit Committee will then proceed to evaluate the proposed standard and may appoint a sub-committee to assist as necessary. The Unit Committee, after reviewing the need, effects, advantages and disadvantages, etc., of the proposed standard, shall submit comments and recommendations in writing to the Safety Officer with a copy to the proposal's originator(s).

(4) Safety Officer

Upon receipt of a Unit Safety Committee's recommendations with respect to the proposed standard, the Safety Officer will send a copy to each member of the Occupational Safety and Health Committee for review prior to the next meeting. If additional research is considered necessary, the Safety Officer and/or, when appropriate, the Transmitting Station Safety Advisor, will consult appropriate contacts within or without Broadcasting. When sufficient information has been assembled, the Safety Officer as Chairperson will call a meeting of the Safety and Health Committee members to discuss and vote upon the proposed standard.

(5) Occupational Safety and Health Committee

When a proposed safety standard is on the agenda, the Committee members by majority vote shall resolve to: (1) submit the recommendation of the majority together with any dissenting opinions to the Occupational Safety and Health Official for a decision endorsing or rejecting the proposed standard, or (2) postpone submission pending further research or developments reportable at each subsequent Committee meeting until resolved.

(f) Safety and Health Official

The Safety and Health Official (Director, Office of Administration,) upon receipt of the Committee's recommendations, may cause additional studies to be initiated as deemed necessary but will, as soon as feasible, make an official determination endorsing or rejecting the proposed standard. Notification of the action taken together with the reasons therefore will be provided to the Chairperson of both Committees and to the proposal's originator.

(1) If the proposed standard is endorsed by the Official, a letter of transmittal will be prepared to the Secretary of Labor requesting approval for adopting the proposal as a Broadcasting or OSHA standard, as deemed appropriate.

(2) If the proposed standard is rejected by the Official, that determination may be appealed within 30 working days by its originator(s) directly to the Official by submitting a statement of facts and reasons in writing justifying its reconsideration.

(3) A determination by the Official pursuant to the above appeal shall be conclusive and all parties concerned will again be notified. However, that determination does not preclude any right granted under grievance procedures (consult Labor and Employee Relations for details) or the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 and Executive Order 12196 (consult Safety Officer, or Office of Federal Safety Programs, Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. 20210) to exercise any right(s) granted under those procedures, legislative enactment, or Executive Orders.

(g) Safety Officer

When the Secretary of Labor's decision is received (see [f-1] above), the Safety Officer will again notify all Committee members and the proposal's originator. If approved to become a standard, it will be published as such by Broadcasting for retention in the safety files of each establishment and for notation copies of OSHA's General Industry Standards, Vol. 1, containing the standards otherwise prevailing. If rejected by the Secretary of Labor, no further action or appeal is anticipated.

1960.42 Initial Adoption of Standards

(a & b) Broadcasting has adopted OSHA standards as issued on a continuing basis which are applicable to the working conditions encountered by its employees. They may be found in 29 CFR 1910 or in Occupational Safety and Health Subscription Service, Volume 1, General Industry Standards and Interpretations (OSHA 2077). Subparts A, D, E, G, H, I, J, K, L, N, O, P, Q, R, (Telecommunications - 1910,268-275), S and Z contain standards applicable within some or all of Broadcasting's operations.

(c) (Does not apply.)

(d) Not pertinent at this time. (Broadcasting does not traditionally adopt standards as, and only as, part of job operation descriptions or technical manuals.)

1960.43 Adoption of Different and/or Supplementary Standards

(a & b) Standards drafted to replace an OSHA standard or to cover working conditions for which no OSHA standard exists require consultation with the Secretary of Labor before adoption. (See 1960.41)

1960.44 Conflicting Standards

(a) Employees within the United States will observe OSHA and/or any other standard adopted by Broadcasting. Employees overseas are under the safety program and standards adopted by the State Department safety program. The OSHA standards apply by law only within the United States but should be observed overseas to the extent feasible unless either the host country or the Department of State requires compliance with other standards or regulations.

(b) Where a legal requirement exists to comply with the standards of another Agency, (such as GSA's regulations as to buildings or fire safety) and such standards conflict with a Broadcasting standard, the heads of both agencies and the Secretary of Labor will be notified of the conflict so that it may be resolved.

(c) Appropriate employee representatives will be informed of any activities undertaken pursuant to this section.

1960.45 Emergency Standards

(a) Emergency temporary OSHA standards issued by the Secretary of Labor shall be immediately effective without change and any employees exposed to the unsafe or unhealthful working condition involved shall receive the protection provided for in such standard. Each standard will remain effective until replaced by a permanent standard.

(b) The Safety and Health Official may issue an emergency temporary standard whenever he/she deems such action necessary for the protection of employees from grave dangers. Employee representatives and the Secretary of Labor will be immediately notified of such action.

1960.46 Access to Standards

(a) The Secretary of Labor shall be notified on a quarterly basis of the final adoption, revision, modification, or revocation of any standard taken within the current quarter and copies will be made available upon request.

(b) See Guideline instructions as to the rules to be followed when references are to be incorporated in a standard.

1960.47-49 (Reserved)

FEDERAL SAFETY AND HEALTH COUNCILS

1960.50 Purpose and Scope

To the extent that the workload permits, participation by appropriate officers, supervisory personnel, and representatives of employees in local Federal Safety and Health Council meetings is authorized and encouraged to facilitate the exchange of ideas between members from Federal activities in the area.

OCCUPANT EMERGENCY PROGRAM

471 PURPOSE AND POLICY

471.1 Purpose - The Occupant Emergency Program prescribes the scope and method for immediate, positive, and orderly action to safeguard life and property during facility/occupant emergencies.

471.2 Policy - This program will be fully implemented through the development of an Occupant Emergency Plan and the establishment of an Occupant Emergency Organization at each location where Broadcasting is the primary tenant. Broadcasting will participate in a similar organization upon the request of another agency having responsibility as primary tenant.

472 AUTHORITY - The Occupant Emergency Program is prescribed by the Administrator, General Services Administration, under authority of Section 205(c), 63 Stat 390 (40 U.S.C. 486). GSA provides implementing regulations in 41 CFR 101-20.5 (Public Contracts and Property Management). This program also adheres to Homeland Security Presidential Directive (HSPD)-5

473 APPLICABILITY

473.1 Domestic - The provisions of this section apply to all personnel occupying space in Federally-owned or leased buildings at locations in the United States. The Director, Office of Administration, provides guidance and administration.

473.2 Overseas Locations - The Uniform Foreign Affairs Regulations, 6 FAM 600, Safety and Civil Defense Programs, apply to all overseas establishments. The Department of State has overall responsibility for implementing and coordinating these programs for personnel at overseas locations.

473.3 Radio Transmitting Stations - The Transmitting Station Instructions (TSI) Manual issued by the Office of Engineering shall require the head of each domestic or foreign-based radio transmitting station to comply with 473.1 or 473.2 above, whichever is appropriate, in developing emergency preparedness procedures.

474 DEFINITIONS

474.1 Occupant Emergency Program is a facility/occupant response program to reduce or eliminate loss of life, injury, and destruction of property during a short term emergency.

474.2 Occupant Emergency Plan is a written set of instructions developed to provide an immediate response to emergency situations which pose a threat to life or property.

474.3 Occupant Emergency Organization is the emergency response organizations comprised of tenant employees of a Broadcasting occupied building who are designated to perform the requirements established by the Occupant Emergency Plan.

474.4 Emergency is a term which involves bombing, bomb threats, civil disturbances, fires, explosions, tornadoes and other natural or human-caused disasters. The term does not include emergency preparedness as it applies to civil defense matters, such as potential or actual enemy attack.

474.5 Primary Occupant is the Federal agency having the largest number of employees working in a building or facility. This determination is usually based upon each agency's space requirements.

474.6 Designated Official is the official of the primary occupant agency assigned the responsibility for developing and implementing the occupant emergency plan. In Washington, D.C., the Director, Office of Administration, is the Designated Official for all buildings where Broadcasting is the primary occupant agency. TRAVEL FOR TRAINING PURPOSES

551 LEGAL AND REGULATORY AUTHORITIES

The Government Employees Training Act (5 U.S.C., Ch.41; P.L. 85-507, as amended), implemented by E.O. 11348 of April 20, 1967, and Civil Service regulations, authorizes the use of funds appropriated to an Agency for the payment of travel expenses of employees incident to training in a Government or non-Government facility. These authorities also provide that contributions and awards by a tax-exempt non-Government source incident to training may be made to and accepted by employees when such acceptance is specifically authorized. (see paragraph 555.2 below).

552 DEFINITION

The term "training" means the process of providing for and making available to an employee, and placing or enrolling an employee in, a planned, prepared, and coordinated program, course, curriculum, subject, system, or routine of instruction or education, in scientific, professional, technical, mechanical, training, clerical, fiscal, administrative, or other fields which are or will be directly related to the performance of the employee, in order to increase the knowledge, proficiency, ability, skill, and qualifications of the employee in the performance of his or her official duties.

- a. The "training" may be accomplished through conferences, etc., that contribute to better supervision and management of the Agency's substantive functions, or classroom work, workshops, or other methods or combination of methods.
- b. The term "training" does not include attendance of employees at such gatherings as meetings or conventions for the purpose of obtaining information concerning developments in their particular fields of interest. Travel for this purpose is considered official temporary duty travel and not a planned program of instruction. The travel expenses in such cases are chargeable to the organizational element's funds earmarked for official travel.

553 CLEARANCE AND APPROVAL REQUIREMENTS

Clearance and approval requirements are listed in Exhibits IV-510A and 510B.

554 WHEN ALL OR PART OF EXPENSES ARE PAID BY BROADCASTING

Travel expenses paid by Broadcasting incident to training are charged to funds allotted to the organizational elements for official travel to meet program needs.

555 WHEN ALL OR PART OF EXPENSES ARE PAID BY A TAX-EXEMPT SPONSORING ORGANIZATION

555.1 Acceptance of Payments

- a. 5 U.S.C. 4111 permits acceptance by employees of contributions, awards, and payments (in cash or in kind), of expenses incident to training in a non-Government facility, provided that the contributions, awards, and payments are made by a tax-exempt organization described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954; and provided that prior authorization is granted to accept such payment (see paragraph 555.2 below).

- b. Whenever an organization offers to pay all or part of the expenses of an employee, the matter must be referred to the Office of the General Counsel to determine whether the organization making the offer is tax-exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Code.
- c. The official designated in paragraph 555.2 below may approve, by memorandum to the Financial Operations Division, Office of the Comptroller, the acceptance of payments by tax-exempt sponsoring organizations for travel, subsistence, and other expenses incident to training of an employee. Such payments are for credit as a reimbursement to the appropriation charged for the employee's travel and other expenses.

555.2 Authorizing Acceptance of Payments by Employees - The Chief, Training and Development Division, may authorize an employee (by signing in Block N of the travel authorization) to accept payment from a tax-exempt organization, in cash or in kind, of expenses incident to training. The General Counsel may authorize an employee to accept payment from such an organization incidental to attendance at meetings. Conditions and factors governing the acceptance of these payments are cited in 5 CFR 410.701, which is reprinted herein as Exhibit 550A.

555.3 Reduction of Payments - Whenever a contribution, award, or payment, in cash or in kind, is made to an employee for expenses in connection with training, an appropriate adjustment will be made to any payment by Broadcasting to the employee as described in MOA IV 546.3.

Also, describe the exact payment of expenses, in cash or kind, by the sponsoring organization in Block H (Itinerary) of the Travel Authorization. The following additional information is needed:

- b. The use of taxicabs, or any other authorized item of expense not paid by the sponsoring organization should be included in the travel authorization and claimed in the Travel Voucher.

555.5 Reporting Requirements - As required by 5 USC 4113 and Office of Personnel Management (OPM) regulations, the Training and Development Division reports annually to OPM on each authorized contribution, award or payment, in cash or in kind, made and accepted for training purposes. For additional reporting requirements see MOA VII 358, which provides guidance on the acceptance of gifts. The acceptance of travel expenses in connection with training programs must be reported to the Budget Operations Division.

556 WHEN ALL OR PART OF EXPENSES ARE PAID BY A NON-TAX-EXEMPT SPONSORING ORGANIZATION

Section 560

TRAVEL ON AN ACTUAL SUBSISTENCE EXPENSE BASIS

561 SCOPE

This Section provides general guidelines for the administration of travel on an actual subsistence expense basis. Detailed guidance is provided in Section 301-8 of the Federal Travel Regulations.

562 SITUATIONS WARRANTING APPROVAL OF ACTUAL SUBSISTENCE EXPENSES

Travel on an actual subsistence expense basis within and outside the continental United States (CONUS) may be approved when it is determined that the maximum per diem allowance would be inadequate for a specific trip due to the unusual circumstances of the travel assignment. It is not intended that reimbursement for actual subsistence expenses be authorized or approved when expenses exceed statutory per diem allowances by a small amount only. Reimbursement may appropriately be authorized or approved when the actual and necessary subsistence expenses exceed the maximum per diem allowance by 10 per cent or more. Examples of situations that may warrant approval of actual subsistence expenses include but are not limited to the following:

- a. The employee attends a meeting, conference or training session away from the official duty station where lodging and meals must be procured at a prearranged place (such as the hotel where the meeting, conference or training session is being held) and the lodging costs incurred, because of these prearranged accommodations, absorb all or practically all of the applicable maximum per diem allowance;
- b. The travel is to an area where the applicable maximum per diem allowance is generally adequate but subsistence costs have escalated for short periods of time during special functions or events such as missile launching periods, international or national sports events, world's fairs or conventions;
- c. Based on a situation described in (b) above, affordable lodging accommodations are not available or cannot be obtained within a reasonable commuting distance of the employee's temporary duty point and transportation costs to commute to and from the less expensive lodging facility consume most or all of the savings achieved from occupying less expensive lodging;
- d. The employee, because of special duties of the assignment, necessarily incurs high expenses in the conduct of official business, such as the procurement of superior or extraordinary accommodations;
- e. The employee necessarily incurs unusually high expenses incident to his/her assignment to accompany another employee in a situation described in (d) above.

563 MAXIMUM ALLOWANCE

563.1 Maximum Daily Rates - The maximum amount of reimbursement for actual subsistence expenses is as provided in a and b below. When expenses are expected to be less than the maximum amounts listed, enter in Block K, Item 6, of the travel authorization only the amount which will be needed. Maximum daily rates need not be prorated for fractions of a day.

a. Travel Within CONUS - The maximum daily rate shall not exceed 300 percent of the applicable maximum per diem rate for the travel assignment location.

b. Travel Outside CONUS - The maximum daily rate shall not exceed:

300 percent of the applicable maximum foreign travel per diem rate allowance (rounded to the next higher dollar). The reimbursement for M&IE shall not exceed 300 per cent of the applicable M&IE rate (rounded to the next higher dollar).

563.2 Reimbursement Limitation - When the actual subsistence expenses incurred during any one day are less than the maximum daily rate authorized, the employee shall be reimbursed only for the lesser amount.

564 APPROVAL AND CLEARANCE REQUIREMENTS

564.1 Approval Officials - Justification for travel on an actual expense basis for all offices except those listed below shall be submitted in memorandum form to the Director, Office of Administration.

565 COMPUTATION

565.1 Reimbursement Up To Approved Daily Maximum - Reimbursement of actual subsistence expenses up to the approved daily maximum is allowed for any day during which the employee is authorized payment for actual subsistence expenses.

565.2 Travel on Per Diem and Actual Subsistence During a Single Trip - Travel may be authorized or approved on both a per diem basis and an actual subsistence basis during a single trip. Generally, the applicable rate and/or reimbursement method for each calendar day (beginning at 12:01 a.m.) will be determined by the employee's status and location at 12:00 midnight of that calendar day. Only one rate and reimbursement method will be authorized for each day except when reimbursement is authorized for occasional meals or lodging as provided in the Federal Travel Regulations, Section 301-8.2(b). On the day of departure from the official station the reimbursement method and maximum rate will be the same as that authorized for the first location where lodging is required. On the day of return to the official station, the method and maximum rate of reimbursement will be the same as that authorized for the previous calendar day.

566 ITEMIZING EXPENSES

All employees authorized to travel on an actual subsistence expense basis are required to submit with their travel vouchers an itemized list of the amount spent daily for expenses incurred. This listing shows the amount spent daily for: (a) lodging, (b) meals (each meal cost should be listed separately), and (c) all other items of subsistence expenses. Receipts are required without exception for lodging expenses and for individual meals costing over $75 before tip.

567 USE OF PURCHASE ORDER FOR LODGING

The General Accounting Office (GAO), in Decision B-209375 dated December 7, 1982, granted the authority to use appropriated funds to pay for the rental or leasing of rooms by purchase order for employees traveling on temporary duty under extraordinary circumstances where reimbursement on an actual subsistence expense basis would be inadequate. Examples of such extraordinary circumstances would be:

- a. Reporters assigned to cover the President who must stay with the rest of the press corps in accommodations arranged by the White House, or
- b. Officials traveling with foreign dignitaries who must stay in the same hotel as the visitor in order to perform their duties effectively.

567.1 Approval Requirements - Each request to use this exceptional authority must be submitted to the Director of Administration in writing, in advance, and on an individual basis. The request must be in the form of an Action Memorandum and must explain:

- a. The nature of the employee's TDY assignment;
- b. Why the use of the requested accommodations is an integral part of this job assignment;
- c. Why alternative accommodations cannot be utilized; and
- d. Why failure to provide the requested accommodations could frustrate the ability of Broadcasting to carry out its statutory mandate.

Requests must clearly demonstrate that the employee is not free to choose his/her own accommodations.

567.2 Preparation of Travel Authorization - Upon approval of the Action Memorandum, a travel authorization is prepared which specifies that lodging will be procured by purchase order in accordance with GAO Decision B-209375. Meals and incidental expenses (M&IE) are authorized in the amounts specified for the city or cities to be visited.

567.3 Preparation of Purchase Order - The purchase order is prepared by the appropriate purchasing office in accordance with standard procedures. No purchase order may be prepared for room rental costs unless copies of both the approved Action Memorandum and the travel authorization are furnished to document the purchase file. The approved Action Memorandum must also be attached to the travel authorization and travel voucher.

EMERGENCY TRAVEL

591 SCOPE

The payment of transportation and subsistence expenses may be allowed when an employee discontinues or interrupts a temporary duty travel assignment prior to its completion because of incapacitating illness or injury or a personal emergency situation, within or outside the continental United States. This Section provides limited guidance on the approval and performance of emergency travel. Complete regulations pertaining to this type of travel are contained in Chapter 301, Part 12 of the Federal Travel Regulations (FTR).

592 APPLICABILITY

The provisions of this section apply to travelers covered by the Federal Travel Regulations Foreign Service employees are covered by the Uniform Foreign Affairs Regulations (6 FAM 126).

593 DEFINITIONS

593.1 Incapacitating Illness or Injury of Employee - For purposes of this Section, an incapacitating illness or injury is one that occurs suddenly for reasons other than the employee's own misconduct and renders the employee incapable of continuing, either temporarily or permanently, the travel assignment. A sudden illness or injury may include a recurrence of a previous medical condition thought to have been cured or under control. The illness or injury may occur while the employee is at, or en route to or from, a temporary duty location.

593.2 Personal Emergency Situation - The death or serious illness or injury of a member of the employee's family, or a catastrophic occurrence or impending disaster such as a fire, flood or act of God which directly affects the employee's home at the official station or the family and occurs while the employee is at, or en route to or from, a temporary duty location.

593.3 Serious Illness or Injury of Family Member - A grave, critical or potentially life-threatening illness or injury; a sudden injury such as an automobile or other accident where the exact extent of injury may be undetermined but is thought to be critical or potentially life-threatening based on the best assessment available; or other situations involving less serious illness or injury of a family member in which the absence of the employee would result in great personal hardship for the immediate family.

593.4 Family - Those individuals defined in Chapter 302, Section 1.4e, of the Federal Travel Regulations who are members of the employee's household at the time the emergency situation arises. For compassionate reasons, when warranted by the circumstances of a particular emergency situation, the approving officer may on an individual case basis expand this definition to encompass other members of the extended family of an employee and employee's spouse, such as the individuals named in FTR 302-1.4e who are not dependents of the employee or members of the employee's immediate household. In using this authority the approving officer will evaluate the extent of the emergency and the employee's relationship to, and degree of responsibility for, the individual(s) involved in the emergency situation.

593.5 Fire, Flood or Act of God - Fires or floods may be due to natural causes or human actions (e.g., arson) or other identifiable causes. Act of God means an extraordinary happening by a natural cause (as fire, flood, tornado, hurricane, earthquake or other natural catastrophe) for which no one is liable because experience, foresight, or care could not prevent it.

594 APPROVAL REQUIREMENTS

Emergency travel is approved by the head of the element to which the employee is assigned. Large organizational units may redelegate this approval authority to as high an administrative level as practical to ensure adequate consideration and review of the circumstances requiring such travel.

595 EMPLOYEE RESPONSIBILITY AND DOCUMENTATION

As soon as an employee is incapacitated by illness or injury or informed of an emergency situation which necessitates discontinuance or interruption of the temporary duty travel assignment, he/she should attempt to contact the designated approving official for instructions. In the event that such contact cannot be made on a timely basis, payment of transportation expenses and per diem may be approved after the travel has been performed.

596 AUTHORIZED TRAVEL EXPENSES

596.1 Incapacitating Illness or Injury of Employee - When an employee interrupts or discontinues a travel assignment because of an incapacitating illness or injury (as defined in MOA IV 593.1), transportation expenses and per diem may be allowed to the extent and within the limitations detailed in Section 301-12.5 of the Federal Travel Regulations. These include:

- a. Continuation of per diem at point of interruption;
- b. Return to official station or home;
- c. Travel to an alternate location and return to the temporary duty assignment.

- a. Return to the official station or home, or
- b. Travel to an alternate location where the personal emergency exists and return to the temporary duty assignment.

597 PROCUREMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

Section 610

TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS

611 SCOPE

Except as noted below, this Section applies to arrangements for all temporary duty (TDY) travel in the U.S. by Civil Service and Foreign Service American and Foreign National employees, regardless of point of origin, and to overseas travel originating in the U.S. It also applies to domestic and international travel by non-employees which originates in the U.S. Paragraph 617, Advance of Travel Funds, applies to travel advances issued in the U.S. Paragraph 618, Passport and Visa Requirements, applies to passports and visas issued in the U.S. to Civil Service and Foreign Service American employees. Regulations pertaining to Travel Performance and Accommodations are found in MOA IV 631 through 638. Additional regulations applicable to travel by Foreign Service American and Foreign National employees are contained in 6 FAM 100.

612 PROCUREMENT OF TICKETS

612.1 Use of Travel Agencies - The services of the contract travel agency shall be used for all common carrier tickets issued in the United States, except for emergencies. The travel agency assists the traveler in making the necessary arrangements, e.g., developing the itinerary and obtaining the tickets and other reservations for officially authorized TDY travel.

612.2 Use of Special Lower Fares - Through fares, special fares, commutation fares, and reduced-rate round-trip fares shall be used for official travel when it can be determined before the start of a trip that this type of service is practical and economical for the Government. Round-trip tickets for special lower fares which are restricted or have specific eligibility requirements will be secured only when, on the basis of the journey as planned, it is known or can be reasonably anticipated that these tickets will be used. The use of special lower fares under these provisions does not take precedence over the mandatory use of contract air fares between selected city-pairs discussed in paragraph 612.3 below.

612.3 Contract Carriers offering discount fares under the Government's city-pair program shall be utilized whenever possible. Although contract carriers have no advance purchase requirement, tickets should be requested 30 days in advance of travel whenever possible in order to take advantage of other discount fares, where available, on routes not served by contract carriers.

612.4 Limitation on Cash Purchase of Tickets Costing Over $100

- a. Applicability - This subsection applies to all travelers whose travel vouchers are processed in Washington. Travelers whose vouchers are processed overseas should follow Embassy procedures.
- b. Policy and Procedures - Tickets costing over $100, excluding Federal transportation tax, may not be purchased with cash or credit card, but must be procured through the contract travel agency or by means of a Government Transportation Request (GTR). Overseas, Embassies or Consulates on the traveler's itinerary can issue GTRs for purchase of tickets and excess baggage when necessary. In emergency circumstances, where the use of cash or credit card is unavoidable, the traveler must obtain the approval of the appropriate official listed below in order to be reimbursed.
- c. Office of Cuba Broadcasting travelers who use cash or credit card to purchase tickets costing over $100 shall submit an explanation of the circumstances warranting the purchase to the Director of Administration.
- d. All other Bureau of Broadcasting travelers shall submit their explanations to the Director, Office of Administration through the Chief, Administrative Operations Division.

612.5 Promotional Materials Received in Conjunction with Official Travel From Common Carriers, Rental Car Companies, or Other Commercial Sources

- a. Disposition - Travelers are obliged to account for any gift, gratuity, or benefit received from private sources incident to the performance of official business (Comp. Gen. Decisions B-199656, July 15, 1981 and B-220542, November 16, 1987). All promotional materials (e.g., bonus flights, reduced-fare coupons, upgrades to business and first class, cash, merchandise, gifts, credit toward future free or reduced costs of services or goods, etc.) received by employees in conjunction with official travel or incident to the purchase of a ticket for official travel, or to other services such as car rental, are due the Government and may not be retained by the employee. When an employee receives promotional material from any commercial source incident to official travel, the employee shall accept the material on behalf of the Federal Government and relinquish it to the appropriate Administrative Office.
- b. Retention - Travelers may keep certain benefits accruing from airline promotional programs including membership in clubs and check-cashing privileges. Travelers may also keep promotional material such as pens, pencils, notepads, calendars, and other items of nominal intrinsic value. Element directors may approve the use of frequent flyer upgrades to business class. The Director, Office of Administration must approve upgrades to first class. Such requests and subsequent documentation of approval must conform to the criteria outlined in section 636.5.

- c. Records/Reports - Employees are required to account for all frequent flyer mileage credits. Travelers shall report the following minimum information to their administrative officers: airline, benefit earned, if transferable, date benefit used, and the date it expires. Administrative officers will submit a summary report to the Office of Administration within fifteen days after the close of each quarter.

613 BAGGAGE

613.1 Baggage Allowance for Travel Within the United States (including Alaska, Hawaii, the Commonwealths of Puerto Rico and the Northern Mariana Islands, and U.S. possessions abroad) - The amount of baggage carried by the traveler at no charge by airlines is the same for less-than-first-class and first-class accommodations. Baggage above this limitation is excess baggage. Reimbursement for baggage in excess of the weight carried free by the carrier will be allowed only if authorized or approved.

613.2 Baggage Allowance for Travel Outside the United States - When less-than-first-class air accommodations are authorized for travel beginning or terminating outside the United States (as defined in paragraph 613.1 above), the amount of baggage carried free in first-class accommodations will be allowed. The contract travel agency or Embassy Administrative Section will provide excess baggage coupons, if available, with international tickets. In those cases where coupons cannot be obtained, travelers may claim reimbursement on their travel vouchers. When first-class accommodations are authorized, baggage carried in excess of the weight carried free by the airline will be allowed only if authorized or approved.

614 INDIRECT OR INTERRUPTED TRAVEL

614.1 Policy - Official TDY travel shall be performed by the most direct, usually-traveled route to conduct official business. Employees should develop their itineraries to permit travel by the most direct route, class, and mode of transportation authorized and available. When indirect or interrupted travel is performed for personal convenience, the provisions in paragraphs 614.3 and 614.4 below apply.

614.2 Definitions

- a. Indirect Travel is any journey that deviates from a usually-traveled route for the traveler's personal convenience.
- b. Interrupted Travel applies to stopovers on a usually-traveled route for the convenience of the traveler. In such instances, leave is charged for excess time spent, and no per diem is paid for such periods of leave. Any extra expense caused by the interruption is borne by the traveler.

- c. Constructive Cost is the total cost of per diem, transportation, and incidental expenses which would have been incurred for travel by a usually-traveled route. However, reimbursement for indirect travel may not exceed the cost actually incurred.

614.3 Reimbursement for Indirect Travel -

- a. Extra Expense - When a traveler deviates from a usually-traveled route for personal convenience, the extra expense for the journey that is by an indirect route or for accommodations superior to those authorized must be borne by the traveler. Tickets may only be issued for official travel.
- b. Limitations on Reimbursement - Reimbursement for costs incurred on a journey which is traveled by indirect route is limited to the total cost of per diem, incidental expenses, and transportation by less than first-class/business-class air accommodations (regardless of mode of transportation used in indirect travel) which would have been incurred by traveling on a usually-traveled route. Leave is charged for any excess travel time. (See paragraph 612.2 above regarding use of through fares, reduced-rate round trip fares, etc.)

614.4 Leave - The employee should obtain approval prior to taking leave to perform indirect or interrupted travel during TDY travel. The traveler's supervisor evaluates the request to take leave while on an official trip, and approves or disapproves on the basis of need.

615 REST STOPS AND TIME ZONE ADJUSTMENTS

615.1 Stopover for Rest Period - In order to provide needed rest on long air journeys, a rest period not to exceed 24 hours is authorized when the traveler uses economy class accommodations for a trip of 14 hours or more of scheduled flight time, including scheduled stopovers of less than eight hours, on a usually-traveled route. The rest stop should be taken at a point midway in the journey or as near thereto as schedules permit, and per diem and incidental expenses are payable. Rest stops are not authorized if travel is performed by an indirect route or in first-class or business-class accommodations, except where no economy seats are available or airlines direct that business-class or first-class routing must be used.

615.2 Time Zone Adjustments

- a. Uninterrupted Travel - Travelers flying without interruption, except for flight connections, on a direct route with a difference of five or more hours between local time at point of departure when travel began and local time when arriving at the temporary or permanent duty point should, whenever possible, arrange departure to allow arrival at destination a full day before commencing duty.
- b. Travel Including Rest Stop - When the flight is of such duration that it includes an authorized rest stop, as provided in paragraph 615.1, the same consideration should be given at the conclusion of the trip, provided there is a difference of four or more hours between local time at point of departure when travel was resumed and local time at destination point upon arrival.

- c. Excused Absence - In cases meeting either of these criteria, excused absence without charge to leave may be granted for any part of the 24-hour adjustment period following arrival at the duty point which happens to fall within working hours.
- d. Per Diem during the adjustment period is payable to temporary duty travelers, except on return to the official duty station.

616 TRAVEL BY CONTRACTORS AND OTHER NON-EMPLOYEES

Travel by an individual providing services to the BBG under contract, grant or otherwise, shall be included in the contract, grant or travel authorization consistent with the provisions of paragraphs 611 through 615 above and MOA IV 632 through 637 (Travel Performance and Accommodations). In the U.S., travel arrangements should be made through the contract travel agency whenever possible. The use of first-class/business-class air accommodations must be authorized as stated in MOA IV 636, unless the contract provides for first-class or business-class accommodations. If travel arrangements are made independently by the individual, and reimbursed by the BBG, the contract or grant provisions for reimbursement, or the travel authorization, will be consistent with the policy stated for employees. However, if in the course of negotiations the individual makes strong representation for first-class/business-class accommodation based on private considerations, the contract or grant provisions for reimbursement, or the travel authorization, may be written accordingly and must have the written approval as specified in MOA IV 636.4.

617 ADVANCE OF TRAVEL FUNDS

617.1 Guidelines - If indicated, up to 92% of the estimated cost of per diem and miscellaneous expenses may be advanced; see Travel Card Handbook for information on travel advances in connection with the use of Government contractor-issued charge cards. See MOA VII 814 for preparation of application for any additional travel advance, if required, while en route at overseas locations.

617.2 By Check - Allow a minimum of five working days to process the application for a check. Prepare SF-1038, Advance of Funds Application and Account, in triplicate. Forward the original and both copies for processing to the Travel and Transportation Branch.

617.3 By Cash - In cases where employees are requested to travel on short notice and there is insufficient time for a check to be issued prior to travel, an advance of no less than $50 and no more than $500 may be obtained from certain domestic cashiers authorized to make travel advances.

617.4 By Travelers Check - Travelers checks are issued by the contract travel agency in multiples of $50. Prepare SF-1038 in triplicate and forward for processing as described in paragraph 617.2. above.

617.5 Repayment of Travel Advance

- a. Travel Canceled or Postponed For an Indefinite or Lengthy Period - Return the advance to the Cashier immediately upon receipt of notice of such action. The advance can later be re-applied for if needed.
- b. Travel Completed - Receiving an advance does not relieve an employee of the responsibility for keeping an accurate record of travel performed and expenses incurred, with supporting receipts where required, and submitting a completed and approved travel voucher. Submit the travel voucher within five working days after completing the travel. The amount of the travel advance will be deducted from the approved amount of the voucher by the Financial Operations Branch . If the amount claimed on the voucher is less than the amount of the travel advance, attach to the face of the voucher at the time of submission a personal check or other form of remittance for the difference, made payable to: International Broadcasting. Prompt submission of a travel voucher and repayment of excess funds advanced (if any) reduces paperwork and the possibility of deductions for the full or excess amount advanced. See MOA VII 818.

618 PASSPORT AND VISA REQUIREMENTS

An employee scheduled for overseas travel must have a valid passport with the necessary visas. The employee should consult the Office of Administration concerning the forms to be completed, photographs to be taken, and other requirements.

618.1 Diplomatic and Official Passports - The Office of Administration will obtain passports, as well as the required visas, when adequate itinerary and lead-time are provided.

618.2 Regular (Tourist) Passports - When indicated, official travel may also be performed with tourist passports. The Office of Administration will assist in obtaining the passport but travelers may be required to secure their own visas. Employees may request reimbursement on the travel voucher for the cost of tourist passports and visas when their use for official travel is indicated.

619 IMMUNIZATIONS

619.1 Employees - It is the employee's responsibility to obtain the necessary immunizations for overseas travel. The Health Unit provides information on requirements and will administer inoculations if presented with a valid travel authorization containing at least one official signature. In emergencies, inoculations also may be obtained at the State Department Medical Division.

619.2 Non-Employees -Immunizations are not provided for non-employees such as experts, consultants and other categories traveling on official business. These travelers may obtain information on requirements from the element sponsoring the travel but must obtain their own inoculations.

Section 620

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT TRANSPORTATION REQUESTS (GTRs)

621 APPLICABILITY

This Section applies to domestic offices which prepare, issue, sign or process U.S. Government Transportation Requests (GTRs). It also applies to individual travelers who are authorized to issue GTRs en route.

622 THE GTR FORM

622.1 Books of GTRs - The GTR is printed on punched card stock and bound in books of 10 sets, each set consisting of one original (SF-1169) and one memorandum card copy (SF-1169a). These books are used by certain frequent travelers on lengthy overseas itineraries for individual issuance when the itinerary requires modification en route. The inside covers provide space for maintaining records of custody and use.

622.2 Single Snapout Assembly GTR - GTRs also are bound in individual snap-out assemblies containing the original (SF-1169), the memorandum card copy (SF-1169a), and two additional paper copies (SF-1169b and 1169c) which are used for administrative purposes (see paragraph 626.1b). These individual GTRs are issued to authorized individuals when it is not feasible to procure transportation services through normal channels.

623 USE OF THE GTR

623.1 General - The GTR is presented to transportation companies for the purchase of passenger transportation by common carrier, i.e., air, bus, rail, or for authorized transportation services or accommodations furnished by common carrier. Its use is mandatory when procuring passenger transportation services costing in excess of $100, excluding Federal transportation tax (see MOA IV 612.4). When the cost of transportation is over $10 but does not exceed $100, excluding tax, the use of a GTR is encouraged but cash may be used if necessary.

623.2 Restrictions - Do not use GTRs to purchase:

- a. Transportation costing $10 or less, exclusive of Federal transportation tax;
- b. Airport limousine, intra-city transit, taxicab, car rental or other for-hire automobile services or rental of special conveyances (see MOA IV 634); or for toll road or bridge charges;
- c. Services costing more than those authorized, including travel by an indirect route for employee's personal convenience.

624 PREPARING THE GTR

Draw lines through any space on the GTR not needed for the service being procured. Any erasures and alterations to the original should be validated by the issuing officer's initials, or the GTR may not be honored by the carrier. When assistance is needed in the preparation of the GTR, travelers should consult Embassy or Consulate Administrative Officers, or Administrative Officers in the U.S.

625 ISSUING AND SIGNING GTRs

625.1 Procedure - The GTR provides for an issuing officer's signature. Officers are delegated authority to sign GTRs as issuing officer in accordance with MOA II, Exhibit 490E. In addition, any traveler with an authorized travel order may sign the GTR as issuing officer. When a traveler is given a book of GTRs because of the uncertainty of his or her itinerary, the traveler is authorized to issue them as needed, and to sign as issuing officer.

625.2 Memorandum Copy of GTR - The memorandum card copy of the GTR (SF-1169a) must reflect all the data (other than signatures) that appears on the original at the time of its surrender for service. As GTRs are issued, send the memorandum copy immediately to the Financial Operations Branch, so that the carrier's invoice may be paid promptly.

626 ACCOUNTABILITY FOR GTRs

626.1 Custodial Responsibility - The Travel and Transportation Branch, maintains records of all GTRs received, on hand, and issued. It will not issue new GTRs until there has been a satisfactory accounting for those previously issued.

a. Used Books of GTRs - Return the empty covers to the Travel and Transportation Branch, with Record of Custody and Use on inside covers properly filled out. Be sure the dates of travel recorded include the year.

b. Used Single Snap-out Assembly GTRs - Return one of the completed paper copies (SF-1169b or SF-1169c) to the Travel and Transportation Branch.

c. Spoiled GTRs and GTRs Completed but not Used - When GTRs are spoiled in preparation, or completed but not used, write "canceled" across the face and return them immediately to the Travel and Transportation Branch.

d. Unused GTRs - When there is no further need for unused GTRs, return them immediately to the Travel and Transportation Branch. 626.2 Lost or Stolen GTRs - In the event of the loss or theft of a GTR, the following instructions must be followed. A traveler may be held liable for any expenditure resulting from failure to comply.

a. Blank GTRs - Report the loss of a blank GTR to the Travel and Transportation Branch immediately, in writing, with all available information. Under no circumstances should it be used if subsequently recovered. Instead, mark it "canceled" and return it to the Travel and Transportation Branch.

Section 630

TRAVEL PERFORMANCE AND ACCOMMODATIONS

631 SCOPE

This Section provides guidance on policy regarding the performance of domestic and international temporary duty (TDY) travel by all categories of official travelers. Additional guidance on travel by Civil Service employees and the other categories of travelers listed in MOA IV 511.2 is provided in the Federal Travel Regulations. Additional guidance on travel by Foreign Service employees is included in the Foreign Affairs Manual (6 FAM 100).

632 POLICY

632.1 Method of Transportation - Travel on official business shall be by the method of transportation which will result in the greatest advantage to the Government, cost and other factors considered. In selecting a particular method of transportation to be used, consideration shall be given to energy conservation and to the total cost to the Government, including costs of per diem, overtime, lost work time and actual transportation costs. Additional factors to be considered are the total distance of travel, the number of points visited, and the number of travelers. As cited in 5 U.S.C. 5733, "The travel of an employee shall be by the most expeditious means of transportation practicable and shall be commensurate with the nature and purpose of the duties of the employee requiring such travel."

632.2 Class of Service - It is the general policy of the Government that less than premium class accommodations (business or first class or equivalent accommodations) shall be used for passenger transportation, except as provided in paragraphs 635.1, 635.2, 636.2 and 636.3. Common carrier accommodations, specifically discussed in paragraph 634.1, will apply to both domestic and international travel of civilian employees while on official business for the Government.

633 SELECTING METHOD OF TRANSPORTATION

633.1 Employee's Obligation - Employees traveling on official business are expected to exercise the same care in incurring expenses that a prudent person would exercise if traveling on personal business.

633.2 Authorized Methods - Methods of transportation authorized for official travel include railroads, airlines, helicopter service, vessels, buses, streetcars, subways, taxicabs, Government-furnished and contract rental automobiles and airplanes, and any other necessary means of conveyance. The method selected should comply with the policy stated in paragraph 632.1 above.

633.3 Limitation on Travel by Vessel - Except for travel between points served by ferries, travel by vessel is not considered to be advantageous to the Government in the absence of sufficient justification that the advantages accruing from the use of ship transportation offset its higher costs, i.e., per diem, fare, and lost work time. Requests for travel by vessel must be approved by the Director of Administration and normally will be permitted only for medical reasons or in connection with U.S. Government-ordered evacuation overseas.

633.4 Traveler's Cost Liability When Selected Method is Not Used - The traveler shall use the method of transportation administratively authorized or approved as most advantageous to the Government. Any additional cost resulting from use of a method of transportation other than that specifically authorized, approved, or required by regulation, e.g., contract air service, shall be the traveler's responsibility.

633.5 Security Factor - When required for reasons of security, the mode of travel, accommodations, and route will be determined on the basis of providing the necessary safeguards.

634 PRESUMPTIONS AS TO MOST ADVANTAGEOUS METHOD OF TRANSPORTATION

634.1 Common Carrier - Since travel by common carrier (air, rail, or bus) will generally result in the most efficient use of energy resources and in the least costly and most expeditious performance of travel, this method shall be used whenever it is reasonably available. Other methods of transportation may be authorized as advantageous only when the use of common carrier transportation would seriously interfere with the performance of official business or impose an undue hardship upon the traveler, or when the total cost by common carrier would exceed the cost by some other method of transportation. The determination that another method of transportation would be more advantageous to the Government than common carrier transportation shall not be made on the basis of personal preference or minor inconvenience to the traveler resulting from common carrier scheduling.

The following policies will aid in the selection of the most advantageous method of common carrier transportation:

a. Contract Air Service - The use of discount fares offered by contract air carriers between certain cities (city-pairs) is considered advantageous to the Government and is mandatory for authorized air travel between those city-pairs.

b. Non-contract Air Service - The use of non-contract air service may be authorized or approved only when justified. Advance authorization and the justification for the use of non-contract air service shall be shown on the travel order, or other form of travel authorization, before the actual travel begins unless extenuating circumstances or emergency situations make advance authorization impossible. In this event, the employee shall obtain a certificate of approval to his/her travel order at the earliest possible time after completing the travel. The approval and justification shall be stated on or attached to the travel voucher.

c. Rail or Bus Service - Rail or bus service may be used when determined to be advantageous to the Government, cost, energy, and other factors considered and when compatible with the requirements of the official travel. The use of discount fares offered to the Government by rail or bus carriers between selected cities (city-pairs) is considered advantageous. Whenever these discount fares are offered, and the accompanying service will fulfill mission requirements, they should be used to the maximum extent possible.

d. Carrier Rates - When two or more carriers charge different rates between the same points for similar accommodations, the carrier charging the lower rate should be used to the maximum extent possible unless it would increase per diem or other costs in excess of the difference in rates. However, contract carriers must be used wherever possible.

634.2 Rental and Government-Furnished Automobiles and Special Conveyances -

a. When Used - Commercially rented vehicles, other than those under contract, and other special conveyances shall be used only when it is determined that use of other methods of transportation discussed in paragraph 634.1 above would not be more advantageous to the Government. In the selection of commercially rented vehicles, first consideration shall be given to Government-contract rental vehicles available under an appropriate GSA Federal Supply Schedule contract.

b. Approval Requirement - The hire of boat, automobile, taxicab (other than as provided in MOA IV 640), aircraft, or other conveyance will be allowed if authorized or approved as advantageous to the Government whenever the traveler is engaged in official business within or outside the employee's designated post of duty.

c. Government-Contract Rental or Government-Furnished Automobiles - When it is determined that an automobile is required for official travel, a Government-contract rental or a Government-furnished automobile shall be used as follows:

(1) A Government-contract rental automobile is the first resource for short-term rental of an automobile by a traveler on temporary duty (TDY) travel. This applies to those who travel to their destination by common carrier, such as airplane, train, or bus, and are authorized to rent a vehicle for local transportation in the destination area. An employee may also use a Government-furnished automobile if a Government-contract rental automobile is unavailable or if use of a Government-furnished automobile is more practicable.

(2) A Government-furnished automobile is the first resource when an automobile is required for official travel performed locally or within commuting distance of an employee's designated post of duty. If a Government-furnished automobile is unavailable, a Government-contract rental automobile may be used.

(3) When a Government-owned or -leased automobile or other transportation equipment is used by an employee for official travel, its use will be limited to official purposes (31 U.S.C. 638a). Official purposes include transportation between places where the employee's presence is required incident to official business, between such places and places of temporary lodging, and when public transportation is unavailable or its use is impractical, between either of the above places and places necessary to obtain suitable meals. Also, transportation to drugstores, barber/beauty shops, places of worship, cleaning establishments, and similar places required for the sustenance, comfort, or health of the employee in order to foster the continued efficient performance of Government business will be allowed.

(4) Under regulations prescribed by the Office of Personnel Management, an employee need not have a Government driver's identification card in order to use Government-owned vehicles when he or she is away from his or her official station and would be authorized to use a commercial rental vehicle if a Government-owned vehicle were not available.

d. Collision Damage Insurance on Commercially Rented Automobiles - Since the Government relies on self-insurance, Broadcasting cannot pay, nor can it reimburse employees, for the cost of the collision damage waiver or collision damage insurance available for an extra fee in commercial rental contracts in the United States. The waiver or insurance referred to is the type offered a renter to release him or her from liability for damage to the rented automobile. If a traveler is authorized to rent a vehicle, the Government assumes responsibility for any damage thereto while being used for official business. However, employees traveling overseas who are authorized to rent a vehicle may be reimbursed the cost of collision insurance.

e. Incidental Charges for Special Conveyances - If the hire of a special conveyance does not include costs of the incidental expenses of gasoline or oil, rent of garage, hangar or boathouse, subsistence of operator, ferriage, tolls, airplane parking, landing, and tie down fees, etc., the same should be first paid, if practicable, by the person furnishing the accommodation, or his or her operator, and itemized in the bill.

634.3 Privately Owned Conveyance - The use of a privately owned conveyance shall be authorized only when its use is advantageous to the Government. A determination that the use of a privately owned conveyance would be advantageous to the Government shall be preceded by a determination that transportation by common carrier, a government-contract rental automobile, or Government-furnished transportation is not available or would not be advantageous to the Government. To the maximum extent possible, these determinations and the authorization to use a privately owned conveyance shall be made before the performance of travel.

a. Permissive Use of a Privately Owned Conveyance - When an employee uses a privately owned conveyance as a matter of personal preference and such use is compatible with the performance of official business, although not determined to be advantageous to the Government, such use may be authorized or approved provided that reimbursement is limited in accordance with the provisions of MOA IV 640 or 6 FAM 145.3, which applies equally to Foreign Service employees.

635 TRAIN ACCOMMODATIONS

635.1 Sleeping Car Accommodations - When overnight travel is involved, the lowest first-class sleeping accommodations available shall be allowed. Higher cost accommodations may be authorized or approved upon the employee's certification on the travel voucher that lowest first-class accommodations were not available or that use of superior accommodations was authorized or approved by the Director or his/her designee, as being required for security purposes.

635.2 - Parlor Car and Reserved Coach Accommodations - When adequate reserved coach accommodations are available, officials authorizing travel shall require that those accommodations be used to the maximum extent possible. However, use of a parlor car seat may be allowed when the duration of the train travel exceeds four hours.

635.3 Extra-Fare Trains - Travel by extra-fare trains may be authorized or approved whenever their use is administratively determined to be more advantageous to the Government or is required for reasons of security. The use of National Railroad Passenger Corporations (Amtrak) Metroliner coach service is considered to be advantageous to the Government. (Note: Metroliner Club service is considered to be first-class service.)

636 AIRLINE ACCOMMODATIONS

636.1 Policy - It is the policy of the U. S. Government that air travelers funded by the USG use the most economical fare structures available. Consistent with that general policy, there are circumstances which warrant travel in first-class or business-class accommodations. The following exceptions pertain to first-class or business-class seating, as specified. For approval authority see paragraph 636.4 below. Rest stops are not authorized when travel is performed in upgraded accommodations.

636.2 First- Class Travel Exceptions- First- class travel may be authorized under the following conditions:

a. When travel is conducted by couriers accompanying controlled pouches, and a lower premium-class air accommodation is not available.

b. No other reasonably available accommodations. The use of first-class air accommodations may be authorized or approved when coach-class air accommodations or premium-class other than first-class air accommodations are not reasonably available. Not reasonably available means no other class of accommodations, other than first-class accommodations is available on any scheduled flight in time to accomplished the purpose of the official travel.

c. When the physical condition of the traveler, as certified by competent medical authority, requires the use of first-class travel.

d. Regularly scheduled flights only provide first-class air accommodations. The use of first-class air accommodations may be authorized or approved when regularly schedules flights between the authorized origin and destination points (including connecting points) provide only first-class air accommodations, and the employee certifies this circumstance on the travel voucher.

636.3 Business-Class Travel Exceptions - Use of premium-class travel other than first-class air accommodations are limited to those below:

a. When TDY travel is conducted by any USG-funded traveler for direct travel, when the authorized origin or destination point is outside the United States (CONUS) and the scheduled flight time is in excess of 14 hours, including stopovers of less than eight hours, and when a rest stop cannot, because of the urgency of the mission, be taken. When this authority is exercised by the authorizing officer, an employee shall not be eligible for a rest stop en route or a rest period upon arrival at the duty station.

b. When there is no space in economy accommodations on any scheduled flights in time to carry out the purpose of the official travel, which is so urgent that it cannot be postponed.

c. When the physical condition of the traveler, as certified by competent medical authority, requires the use of business-class travel.

d. When exceptional circumstances essential to the successful accomplishment of the mission or security reasons require the use of business-class travel.

e. Where the cost savings from forfeiture of rest stop entitlement exceeds the incremental increase for business-class accommodations; and/or where measurable efficiencies are achieved from the traveler's avoiding use of work days for rest stops; and/or where business class facilitates work enroute and/or immediately upon arrival. A cost comparison must accompany both the request and the travel authorization. See paragraph 636.4b and 636.5b below.

636.4 Approval and Authorization

a. First-Class Travel - The use of first-class accommodations under the exceptions listed in paragraphs 636.2a through c require prior approval from the Director of International Broadcasting through the Director of Administration. The Director of Administration reports on usage on an annual basis.

b. Business-Class Travel - Authorization to use business class for criteria specified in paragraphs 636.3a through e requires prior approval at the appropriate supervisory level as follows: Director of International Broadcasting; Director, Voice of America; Director, Engineering; Chief of Staff for all other offices, through the Director of Administration for reporting purposes.

c. Requirement for Advance Authorization - Authorization for first class and business class travel where necessary shall be obtained in advance of actual travel. Where circumstances make advance approval impossible, the traveler shall obtain written approval as soon as possible in accordance with the above regulations.

d. Employee Responsibility and Documentation - The employee shall certify on the travel voucher the reasons for the use of first-class/business-class accommodations. Specific authorization or approval shall be attached to, or stated on, the travel voucher and retained for the record. In the absence of specific authorization or approval, the employee shall be responsible for all additional costs resulting from the use of first-class/business-class accommodations. The additional costs shall be the difference between the first-class/business-class accommodations used and the lowest fare available at the time of travel.

636.5 Procedure for Requesting Upgraded Air Accommodations

a. First-class travel requests must be justified in writing by the appropriate office director or head of an overseas establishment for the exceptions outlined in the above paragraphs. Such requests should be submitted through the Director of Administration for technical review to the Director of International Broadcasting for action, and must specify the following:

- (1) Name, grade, and position or title of the traveler;
- (2) Origin and destination or segments for which first-class is requested;
- (3) Additional cost to the BBG resulting from the difference between first-class accommodations and the next lower class accommodations and between first class and the lowest fare available;
- (4) Circumstances justifying the use of first-class, the name and title of the requesting officer, and, if a foreign carrier is being used, the name of the carrier.

b. Business-class travel - Element Directors, and the Chief of Staff may approve upgrades to business class. Requests for Frequent Flyer upgrades as well as other requests to business-class shall include the information specified in paragraph 636.5a as it relates to the use of business class.

c. Records - Approved first- and business-class requests will be forwarded to the Travel and Transportation Branch for recording purposes.

637 USE OF U.S. FLAG AIR CARRIERS

637.1 - The Fly America Act, 49 U.S.C. 1517, established as a legal requirement that all Government-financed air travel be performed on U.S. air carriers where such service is available.

637.2 - Travel Between Two Points Abroad - 49 U.S.C. 1518 provides that notwithstanding the provisions of 49 U.S.C. 1517, Government-financed air travel by officers and employees of State, AID, BBG, and ACDA, their dependents, and accompanying baggage may be performed on foreign flag air carriers between two places both of which are outside the United States. Congress noted that it expected that this authority will be implemented in a manner which will continue to encourage U.S. Government employees to use U.S. air carriers to the maximum practical extent.

637.3 - Scheduling and Routing of Official Air Travelers - The following applies to employees consultants, contractors, grantees, and other travelers funded by the BBG for all travel between the United States and points abroad.

a. U.S. air carrier service would be considered both available and practical even though comparable foreign flag service may be available, cost less, may be financed by excess foreign currency (see paragraph 637.6), may be preferred by the BBG or the traveler, or may be more convenient for the BBG or the traveler.

b. Travelers on transfer travel, and those who can exercise flexibility in scheduling their travel, are expected to schedule their trips to make use of U.S. air carriers.

c. U.S. air carrier service should be used for all travel EXCEPT:

(1) When use of such service would interfere with the accomplishment of an essential mission.

(2) When unaccompanied children (16 years of age or younger) would have to change airports at an interchange point, overnight at such points, or experience delays in excess of 3 hours at the interchange point.

(3) When it has been determined that delay could be detrimental to the health of the traveler, an employee or dependent, or when traveling under emergency visitation or medical evacuation orders (certified by competent medical authority in the case of medical evacuation). Travel of medically authorized attendant(s) is also authorized. The authorizing officer must provide a statement to the traveler outlining the urgent travel requirement and the reason why U.S. carriers were not considered available. The traveler will file the statement with his/her travel voucher. Return travel is to be performed in accordance with the Fly America Act.

(4) When an official traveler is denied boarding by a U.S. carrier, he/she may accept a seat provided by the airline's representative on a foreign flag flight, notwithstanding the availability of alternate U.S. air carrier service. This provision also applies to cases where a traveler is denied boarding while on indirect travel or annual leave which is taken in conjunction with TDY, home leave, or transfer travel. The traveler should attempt to get a statement of the denied boarding from the airline representative to file with his or her travel voucher.

(5) When the gateway airport abroad is the traveler's origin or destination airport, and the use of U.S. air carrier service would extend the time in a travel status, including delay at origin and early arrival at destination, by at least 24 hours.

(6) When the gateway airport abroad is an interchange point, and the use of U.S. air carrier service would require the traveler to wait six hours or more to make connections at that point.

(7) When connecting with ongoing flights at the gateway airport in the United States would extend his or her time in a travel status by at least six hours.

(8) When the travel abroad is a portion of the trip to the United States, travelers may interchange to U.S. air carriers at a point which will permit arrival in the U.S. on a flight which directly serves the interchange point and destination. Likewise, when travel abroad is a portion of the trip from the United States, travelers may interchange to foreign carrier service at a point which will permit departure from the U.S. on a U.S. air carrier flight directly serving the origin and the interchange point.

d. U.S. air carrier service will be used to the furthest interchange point with foreign carriers and foreign carriers will be used to the nearest interchange point with U.S. air carriers which will not extend the traveler's time in a travel status by more than six hours between points of origin and destination.

e. U.S. air carrier service does not have to be utilized abroad if it would require travel during normal sleeping hours (11:00 P.M. - 7:00 A.M.) and a foreign air carrier provides service during other hours.

f. U.S. air carrier service does not have to be utilized abroad if it would require a change of planes during normal sleeping hours and the foreign air carrier service would not require a change of planes during those hours.

g. Foreign air carrier service may be used abroad if it would eliminate two or more aircraft changes en route.

637.4 - Short Distance Travel - Foreign air carrier service may be used when the elapsed travel time of a scheduled flight from origin to destination airport by foreign air carrier is three hours or less and service by U.S. carrier would involve at least twice such travel time.

637.5 - Justification for Use of Foreign Air Carriers

a. Approval is required whenever a foreign air carrier is used between the United States and points abroad. The traveler shall submit a memorandum to the Travel and Transportation Branch prior to start of travel, providing full justification for the request for the use of the foreign air carrier. If the Travel and Transportation Branch concurs with the traveler's justification, the request will be forwarded to the Office of the General Counsel for approval. The traveler may appeal a negative ruling by the Travel and Transportation Branch directly to the General Counsel. (This requirement is not applicable to travel described in paragraph 637.2 [Travel Between Two Points Abroad] or to travel addressed by Broadcasting announcements authorizing the use of foreign flag carriers between the U.S. and specific points abroad.)

b. The approval memorandum discussed above (637.5a) is required before tickets procured in the U.S. can be released by the contract travel agency, and it must be attached to the travel voucher.

c. For travelers abroad who were unable to avail themselves of the prior approval process, a statement must be included on/with the travel voucher justifying their use of the foreign air carrier. Travelers are cautioned that if their justification is not accepted they will be subject to the financial responsibilities discussed in 637.7.

637.6 - Payment in Foreign Currency - Legislative authority for certain programs and activities prohibits the expenditure of U.S. dollars for travel or other official purposes. In such instances, where foreign currency (either excess, near-excess, or non-excess) necessarily must be used for travel and where U.S. air carriers do not accept such currency, travel may be performed to the extent required on carriers which do accept such currency since under these circumstances the travel could not otherwise be performed.

637.7 - Traveler's Financial Responsibility - Where the travel is by indirect route or the traveler otherwise fails to use available U.S. air carrier service, the amount to be disallowed against the traveler is based on the loss of revenues suffered by U.S. air carriers.

Travelers should not be held liable for minor variations when the differences in distance are relatively small and difficult to measure. The following formula will be used to determine the amount to be disallowed against the traveler:

Sum of certificate
carrier segment
mileage authorized fare payable X by Govt.
Sum of all segment mileage authorized

MINUS

Sum of certificate
carrier segment
mileage traveled through fare X paid
Sum of all segment

mileage traveled

The traveler is liable only if the difference is greater than zero. The traveler is never liable for more than the segment fare payable for the segment improperly traveled.

638 UNUSED TICKETS

638.1 Refunds or Adjustments - Under no circumstances will a traveler obtain a refund or credit from a carrier for an unused ticket or transportation request (GTR). For tickets which are exchanged (traveler exchange of an original ticket for one of lesser value) or returned, the traveler will surrender the ticket coupon to the carrier in return for a receipt or ticket refund application. Carriers are required to make refunds to the "bill charges to" office indicated on the GTR. This will be provided to the carrier by the traveler together with the complete accounting classification which is also indicated on the GTR and any other information which will identify the refund. Receipts or ticket refund applications and any unused tickets or portions thereof which were not turned in at the carrier's ticket office, whether purchased on a GTR or by a travel agency under a blanket GTR, must be forwarded immediately to the Financial Operations Branch, Office of the Comptroller, as described in paragraph 638.2 below. Employees stationed overseas shall follow Embassy procedures.

638.2 Uncompleted Trips

a. The traveler will submit unused tickets, carrier receipts or ticket refund applications with an appropriate explanation to Budget and Finance, or to the appropriate Embassy official, when:

- (1) Travel is terminated short of the destination shown on the GTR;
- (2) The services furnished are of less value or different than specified on the GTR; or
- (3) The return portion of a round trip ticket is not used.

b. When there is no unused ticket for services not furnished, the traveler should obtain a written statement from the carrier's representative. The traveler will submit the statement with an appropriate explanation to Budget and Finance, or to the appropriate Embassy official, and give:

- (1) The serial number of the GTR; and
- (2) Points of travel for which the ticket was purchased, and the points between which the ticket was actually used.

TRAVEL REIMBURSEMENT HANDBOOK

This manual summarizes the guidelines and policies for travelers, Administrative Officials and Approving Officials to follow in obtaining reimbursement for official travel.

A. TRAVEL AUTHORIZATION

All travel must be specifically authorized on Authorization of Official Travel. There are three types of travel authorizations used:

1. Unlimited Open Travel Authorization (Type A)

This type of authorization can be issued once for the entire fiscal year to provide unlimited travel approval to specially designated individuals. In preparing the unlimited open authorization, offices use the following guidelines:

- a. Include any restrictions peculiar to the authorization.

- b. Submit the number 3 copy of the order to Finance in advance of the first voucher and submit a copy of the authorization attached to the first voucher. No additional authorizations will be required for the remainder of that fiscal year. All unlimited open authorizations must be renewed at the beginning of each fiscal year. Currently, this type of travel authorization is limited to frequent travelers, such as correspondents.

2. Limited Open Travel Authorization (Type B)

This type of authorization can be issued for a 3-month period to approve travel within a specific geographic area or for a specific purpose during the three month time frame. The following guidelines apply to the limited open authorization:

- a. Include any restrictions peculiar to this type of authorization: e.g. the specific purpose or itinerary.

- b. Submit a copy of the authorization with each travel voucher. All limited open authorizations must be renewed no less frequently than each quarter.

3. Individual Trip Travel Authorization (Type C)

This type of authorization is issued for each trip. The types of travel that require individual authorization include all travel not authorized on Type A or Type B, also conference attendance, training, entitlement, and relocation travel. The following guidelines apply to the individual trip authorization:

- a. Include any restrictions peculiar to this type of authorization; e.g. the specific purpose or itinerary.

- b. Domestic Transfer - Temporary quarter entitlements, (41 CFR 302-5), must be authorized in advance on the travel authorization.

- c. Submit a copy of the travel authorization with each travel voucher.

4. Specifically Authorized Expenses

Even though travel is approved on a travel authorization, certain travel expense claims must be specifically authorized for reimbursement by the authorizing official. These authorizations must either be included on the authorization or a separate sheet attached to the authorization. A listing of those items requiring specific authorization on the authorization can be found in the Federal Travel Regulations 41 CFR 301-11.6b, 6 FAM 141, and MOA IV 646.8.

5. Purpose of Travel Code

Each travel authorization, as well as the Travel Voucher, must include a purpose of travel code. Requesting officials must select the applicable code from the list provided on the reverse side of the travel voucher. Enter this code on the travel authorization. If the authorization covers more than one purpose of travel code, list all the applicable codes. However, on the Travel Voucher, show only one major purpose of travel code.

B. TRAVEL VOUCHER

1. Travelers must prepare and submit a Travel Voucher, to Finance to claim reimbursement of travel expenses. This manual contains instructions for the proper completion of the voucher for each type of travel authorized.

2. Primary responsibility is placed on the designated approving official to verify that claimed expenses are authorized and are reasonable. Approving officials should not audit the voucher and are not required to check the mathematical accuracy of the data. Voucher audit is the sole responsibility of Finance. Finance also computer-edits each voucher to verify the accuracy of the computations.

3. Travel vouchers are processed daily by Finance to provide maximum efficiency in the payment of claims. Those vouchers selected for audit take longer to clear for payment, but usually not more than 14 days. If a voucher irregularity is discovered, Finance will notify the traveler by a Voucher Difference Statement.

4. Vouchers should be submitted within 5 working days upon completion of the travel. Those employees on extended temporary duty in the U.S. should submit a voucher after each 30 days. Employees involved in transfer of station should submit their voucher after completion of each phase of the move.

5. A travel authorization must accompany each Travel Voucher submitted to Finance. A Purpose of Travel code block is provided on the travel voucher. The traveler must select the applicable code that describes the nature of the travel and show this code on the travel voucher. A complete listing of the purpose of travel codes is provided on the reverse side of the travel voucher.

6. Reclaim Amounts

Finance will notify travelers of any disallowed claims by means of the voucher difference statement. A Voucher Difference Statement (Travel), is used to notify travelers of errors on vouchers for domestic and foreign travel. A Voucher Difference Statement (Transfer of Station), is used to inform travelers of errors on vouchers submitted for transfer of official duty station. Those disallowed expenses that the traveler feels are justifiable should be reclaimed on a subsequent Travel Voucher with a full explanation providing the reasons for the reclaim.

In submitting reclaims, the traveler should attach to the reclaim voucher a copy of the Voucher Difference Statement that originally explained the disallowance. The reclaim must be signed by the traveler and mailed to the regular voucher mailing address provided on the voucher.

7. Sick or annual leave taken during the period of official travel must be documented on the travel voucher.

C. RESPONSIBILITIES

1. Employee/traveler will:

a. Upon completion of the travel, promptly submit a Travel Voucher, to an authorized approving officer.

a. Verify that all travel expenses claimed on the voucher are authorized and are reasonable in accordance with regulations published in the FTR, 6 FAM, MOA and the Standardized Regulations. Therefore, the approving official must be the individual who is in a position to have first hand knowledge about the actual performance of the travel and that the expenses associated with the travel are necessary and reasonable.

D. CLAIM TYPES (SECTION A)

1. Domestic Travel - (Type Claim 1) - Travel within the limits of the continental United States (the 48 states plus the District of Columbia). Type Claim 1 travel can be authorized on either of the three types of travel authorizations: the unlimited open, the limited open, or the individual. In preparing the travel voucher for the Type Claim 1, the travel voucher can be used as a daily travel log for single entry items. For those items that require summarization, such as taxi or limo expenses when there is more than one trip in a single day, the traveler must itemize in the Remarks Section and list the total daily expense on the voucher.

2. Foreign Travel (Type Claim 2) - Travel outside the 50 states or territories and possessions of the U.S., and travel within the U.S. directly connected with such travel. Policy concerning foreign travel is set forth in MOA IV, 530. For all foreign travel, a Travel Authorization, is required on an individual trip basis.

3. Transfer - House hunt (Type Claim 3) - Travel authorized for purpose of seeking permanent residence quarters in conjunction with a domestic transfer of station.

4. Domestic Transfer - Other (Type Claim 4) - Travel authorized for purpose of relocating to a new official duty station.

5. Foreign Service Transfer - Overseas (Type Claim 5)
Travel of Foreign Service Officers between the U.S. and overseas posts or between overseas posts.

6. Domestic Travel - Other - Travel to Alaska, Hawaii and U.S. territories (Type Claim 6).

E. GENERAL VOUCHER PREPARATION GUIDELINES

1. Specific instructions for preparing the travel voucher as well as samples of the various types of travel, can be found in the Travel Voucher Completion Instructions. Copies are available through element Administrative Officers.

2. Mailing Address of Check. Enter the address to which the traveler wishes the check to be mailed. The address must include street address, city, state and zip code.

3. GTR Usage.

For authorized travel, travelers stationed in the U.S. must obtain tickets through a travel agency. Other travelers abroad should use the services of Embassy or Consulate travel offices to purchase all passenger transportation and accommodations over $500. Cash should be used if transportation costs are under $100, plus federal transportation tax. Transportation services, accommodations, and amounts purchased by GTR are reported in Section B of the Travel Voucher. Travelers should exercise reasonable care that costs charged by common carriers are not excessive or unreasonable, or that services are not less than originally specified.

4. Refunds and Unused Tickets.

a. Travelers must report refunds or unused tickets on their travel voucher when any of the following occur:

1) Travel is finally terminated short of the destination to which a GTR was issued.

2) Service or class of travel was of less value than that specified on a GTR.

3) The return trip portion or any portion of a ticket was not used.

If the unused ticket does not clearly support the Government's right to claim a refund, the traveler must attempt to secure a written acknowledgment of the situation from the carrier's representative.

b. To report any unused tickets or refunds to be billed by Finance, the traveler must:

1) Complete Section B of the Travel Voucher as indicated and enter the words "Bill Carrier" in the Vendor column. (This will flag the voucher for billing by Finance).

2) Attach the unused tickets securely to the front of the Travel Voucher.

c. To report refunds made directly by the carrier:

Travelers who surrender any ticket coupons to a carrier because the original trip was downgraded enroute, a part of it was canceled, the traveler was involuntarily bumped from the original flight, or any other reason, will:

1) Furnish to the carrier Finance's address as the "Bill Charges To" address for mailing the refund check. At the same time, obtain a receipt or ticket refund application from the carrier as documentation of the returned ticket.

2) Attach the carrier's receipt or ticket refund application to the Travel Voucher. The statement "Bill Carrier" should be placed under the column titled "Vendor" in Section B of the Travel Voucher to advise Finance that the carrier will be submitting a refund check.

NOTE: Travelers are not entitled to retain any monies refunded from a carrier for official travel.

5. Actual Subsistence Allowance of Actual Subsistence (Overseas and Per Diem Cities within the Continental U.S.) Conditions and Limitations. Authorization to travel on an actual subsistence expense basis is limited to those travel assignments where necessary subsistence costs are unusually high. Actual subsistence is not authorized where expenses may exceed the maximum per diem locality rate by only a small amount.

a. Conditions warranting authorization or approval of actual expenses. (41 CFR 301-8)

1) Travel assignments involving special or unusual circumstances. Travel on an actual subsistence expense basis may be authorized or approved for travel assignments when the applicable maximum per diem rate is inadequate due to special or unusual circumstances. The maximum per diem rate, although generally adequate, may be insufficient for a particular travel assignment because the actual and necessary subsistence expenses are unusually high due to special duties or because subsistence costs have escalated temporarily during special events. Actual subsistence expense reimbursement shall not be authorized or approved when the actual and necessary subsistence expenses exceed or are expected to exceed the applicable maximum per diem allowance by only a small amount. Since lodging costs constitute a major portion of the subsistence expenses, travel on an actual subsistence basis may be authorized or approved for travel when, due to special or unusual circumstances, the lodging costs absorb all or nearly all of the applicable maximum per diem allowance. Examples of travel assignments or situations that may warrant authorization or approval of actual and necessary expenses include but are not limited to the following:

a) The employee attends a meeting, conference, or training session away from the official duty station where lodging and meals must be procured at a prearranged place (such as the hotel where the meeting, conference, or training session is being held) and the lodging costs incurred, because of these prearranged accommodations, absorb all or practically all of the applicable maximum per diem allowance;

b) The travel is to an area where the applicable maximum per diem allowance is generally adequate but subsistence costs have escalated for short periods of time during special functions or events such as missile launching periods, international or national sports events, World's Fairs, conventions or natural disasters;

c) Based on a situation described in b), above, affordable lodging accommodations are not available or cannot be obtained within a reasonable commuting distance of the traveler's temporary duty point and transportation costs to commute to and from the less expensive lodging facility consume most or all of the savings achieved from occupying less expensive lodging;

d) The traveler, because of special duties of the assignment, necessarily incurs unusually high expenses in the conduct of official business, such as to procure superior or extraordinary accommodations including a suite or other quarters for which the charge is well above that which he/she would normally have to pay for accommodations; or

e) The traveler necessarily incurs unusually high expenses incident to his/her assignment to accompany another employee in a situation as described in d), above.

2) Situations requiring reimbursement for occasional meals and/or lodging. Although lodging and/or meals are furnished without cost (or at a nominal cost) for a particular assignment, the traveler may necessarily incur expenses for occasional lodgings and/or meals. The authorizing official may approve reimbursement of appropriate expenses incurred for occasional meals or lodging that are determined to be necessary and justified by the circumstances involved.

b. Maximum daily rates and reimbursement limitations. The maximum amount of reimbursement for actual subsistence expenses that may be authorized or approved for each calendar day or fraction thereof is as provided in 1) and 2), below. Authorizing officials shall determine appropriate and necessary daily maximum rates not to exceed these amounts when authorizing or approving travel under actual subsistence. Maximum daily rates need not be prorated for fractions of a day.

1) Travel within CONUS - Maximum daily rates. For travel within CONUS, the maximum daily rate for subsistence expenses shall not exceed 300 percent of the applicable maximum per diem rate (rounded to the next highest dollar).

2) Travel outside CONUS. For travel outside CONUS, the maximum daily rate for subsistence expenses shall not exceed the greater of the amounts prescribed by the Departments of Defense and State, respectively, for non-foreign and foreign areas as set forth in paragraphs (a)(2)(i) and (ii) of 301-8.3.

a) 300 percent of the applicable maximum per diem rate (rounded to the next higher dollar) prescribed under FTR 301-7.3(b) or (c).

$50 plus the applicable maximum per diem rate prescribed under 301-7.3(b) or (c).

3) Reimbursement limitation. When the actual subsistence expenses incurred during any 1 day are less than the maximum daily rate authorized, the employee shall be reimbursed only for the lesser amount. Expenses incurred and claimed (including those for fractional days) shall be reviewed and allowed only to the extent determined to be necessary and reasonable. Reimbursement for meals and incidental expenses shall not, exceed: 300 percent of the M&IE rate applicable to the temporary duty location.

4) Specific meals and incidental expenses limitation. The agency may limit reimbursement for meals and incidental expenses to 100 percent of the applicable M&IE rate and deviate from the requirement for receipts and/or itemization of such expenses as provided in 301-8.5(a)(3). In such instances, the M&IE rate shall be prorated for partial days of travel as provided in 41 CFR 301-7.8(e).

5) When lodging is procured through use of a purchase order. When actual subsistence expense reimbursement is authorized or approved and lodging is furnished to the employee at no cost through use of a purchase order, the authorizing official shall not authorize or approve reimbursement for other subsistence expenses that will, when combined with the cost of lodging furnished, exceed the maximum daily rate authorized under 1) or 2), above.

c. Authorization or approval.

1) Requests for authorization or approval of actual expense reimbursement. It is the traveler's responsibility to request authorization for actual subsistence expense reimbursement when conditions appear to warrant such reimbursement and to furnish appropriate justification to support the request.

2) Prior authorization of actual expense travel. Normally, travel on an actual expense basis should be authorized in advance and the daily maximum rate authorized shall be stated on the Authorization of Official Travel. Maximum daily rates need not be prorated for fractions of a day on the travel authorization.

3) Approval after travel is completed. If travel is performed without prior written authorization or is authorized on a per diem basis, reimbursement for actual and necessary subsistence expenses may be requested after completion of the travel. However, there is no automatic approval of such a request.

d. Documentation of actual subsistence on the Travel Voucher.

1) Itemization. When travel is authorized or approved on an actual subsistence expense basis, the traveler shall itemize on the Travel Voucher each expense for which reimbursement is claimed on a daily basis. Meals must be itemized separately; i.e., breakfast, lunch, and dinner. Those expenses that do not usually accrue on a daily basis, such as laundry and cleaning and pressing of clothing, may be averaged over the number of days that actual expense reimbursement is authorized or approved.

2) Receipts. Receipts shall be required for lodging, regardless of amount, and any individual meal or dry cleaning expense, when the cost is over $75.

6. Mixed travel (per diem and actual subsistence expense) reimbursement. Mixed travel involves reimbursement on both a per diem and an actual subsistence basis. Generally, the applicable rate and/or reimbursement method for each calendar day (beginning at 12:01 a.m.) will be determined by the traveler's status and location at 12:00 midnight of that calendar day. Only one rate and reimbursement method will be authorized for each day except when reimbursement is authorized for occasional meals or lodging as provided in 5. a. 2). The reimbursement method and maximum rate for the day of departure from the official station will be the same as that authorized for the first location where lodging is required. On the day of return to the official station, the same method and maximum rate of reimbursement applicable to the previous calendar day shall apply.

7. Use of privately owned vehicle. Travelers are permitted to use their privately owned vehicle for official business when such use is either advantageous to the government or an authorized or approved exercise of the travelers personal preference. Different mileage rates apply depending upon the conditions or circumstances involved in the use of the privately owned vehicle. (See 41 CFR 301-4.3)

APPROVAL TO USE A PRIVATELY OWNED VEHICLE DURING TRAVEL MUST BE SPECIFICALLY AUTHORIZED ON THE TRAVEL AUTHORIZATION (SEE LIST OF CERTIFICATION STATEMENTS IN 41 CFR 301-11.6b)

Travelers shall record the total daily mileage, applicable rate, and amount in Section 4 of the Travel Voucher. The usual method for determining mileage is to use the beginning and ending mileage for each day's travel from the vehicle's odometer. However, DO NOT show the odometer readings on the voucher, but only the total mileage traveled.

8. Direct cash payments for transportation services.

a. Car rental. Travelers who are authorized to use commercially rented vehicles must pay for the cost of the rental themselves and then submit a claim for reimbursement on their travel voucher. Car rental invoices cannot be billed directly to Finance. AMOUNTS PAID FOR AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE IN CONNECTION WITH THE CAR RENTAL CANNOT BE CLAIMED ON THE TRAVEL VOUCHER (EXCEPT FOR FOREIGN TRAVEL). (See 41 CFR 301-3.2c) Show the amount paid for car rental in Section 2 on the Travel Voucher. A receipt (such as a credit card receipt) and a copy of the rental agreement from the commercial rental firm must be included with the voucher to verify the claim.

b. Common carrier service paid by traveler.

Transportation services should always be purchased with a GTR, except where:

1) the cost of services is $100 or less, plus federal transportation tax;

2) the carrier will not accept a GTR;

3) a GTR is not available and the traveler is required to pay cash for services.

Travelers procuring transportation service for cash shall record these expenses in Section 5 of the Travel Voucher. All amounts claimed shall be supported by a passenger coupon or other documentation attached to the voucher. Travelers must obtain specific approval from the Director for Administration to make a cash payment of more than $100 in lieu of using a GTR.

c. Use of taxi, limo, local bus or subway.

Travelers should use the mode of transportation that is most advantageous to the government. Subways, buses, or streetcars should normally be used for local transportation. Courtesy transportation provided by hotels/motels to the air terminal should be used when available. However, when these cannot be used, or are not practical in a given case, the use of a taxicab may be approved. (See 41 CFR 301-2.3 or 6 FAM 141.) A certification statement authorizing use of a taxicab is preprinted in the "Approving Officer's Responsibilities and Signature" block of the Travel Voucher. Any single trip expense over $25, plus tip, requires a receipt.

NOTE: The use of a taxicab to and from places where meals are obtained can only be authorized in accordance with 41 CFR 301-2.3b; 41 CFR 301-3.1a, and 6 FAM 141.

9. Restrictions on the Use of the Travel Voucher.

a. Imprest fund.

Travel vouchers may not be paid by the imprest fund. All travel vouchers must be submitted to Finance for payment. However, the imprest fund can be used to pay for local (at official duty station), taxi or transportation costs.

b. Purchases (supplies, materials) not directly related to authorized travel. Employees who purchase supplies, materials, or services while at their official duty station which are not directly related to travel should not list such expenses on a travel voucher.

Travel of 12 plus hours not to exceed 24 hours with lodging.

Actual cost of lodging up to the lodging limit for the locality plus 75% M&IE is allowed. Arrival and departure times must be included on the voucher.

8. Computation Rules for Travel of More Than Twenty Four Hours.

a. The applicable maximum per diem rate for each calendar day of travel shall be determined by the travel status and location of the employee at 12:00 midnight and whether lodging is required at such location. When lodging is required, the applicable maximum per diem rate shall be the maximum rate prescribed for the temporary duty location, or a stopover point where lodging is obtained while en route to, from, or between temporary duty locations. Per diem for travel of more than 24 hours shall be calculated as provided below.

b. Day Travel Begins - Lodging Required. When lodging is required on the day travel begins (day of departure from the official station or other authorized point), the per diem allowable shall be the actual cost of lodging incurred by the traveler, limited to the applicable maximum lodging allowance prescribed for the location of the lodging, plus 75% of the applicable M&IE rate prescribed for the location of the lodging.

c. Day Travel Begins - Lodging Not Required. When lodging is not required on the day travel begins, 75% of the destination M&IE is allowed.

d. Full Calendar Days of Travel - Lodging Required. For each full calendar day that the employee is in a travel status and lodging is required (whether en route or at a temporary duty location), the per diem allowable shall be the actual cost of lodging incurred by the traveler, limited to the applicable maximum lodging allowance prescribed for the location of the lodging, plus the applicable M&IE rate.

e. Full Calendar Days of Travel - Lodging Not Required. For each full calendar day that the traveler is in a travel status and lodging is not required (such as when the traveler is en route overnight to the next temporary duty location), the per diem allowance shall be the M&IE for the location at midnight, except when en route overnight, then the destination M&IE rate is allowed.

f. Returning from Travel

1) Lodging Required. For each full calendar day of travel when lodging is required at an enroute location while the employee is returning to the official station, home, or other authorized point, the per diem allowable shall be the actual cost of lodging incurred by the traveler, limited to the applicable maximum lodging allowance prescribed for the location of the lodging, plus the applicable M&IE rate.

2) Lodging Not Required. For any full calendar day of travel when lodging is not required while the traveler is enroute overnight returning to the official station, home, or other authorized point, the per diem allowable shall be the M&IE rate applicable to the preceding calendar day.

3) Day Travel Ends For the day travel ends (day traveler returns to the official station, home, or other authorized point) the per diem allowable shall be 75% of the M&IE rate applicable to the preceding calendar day.

g. International Dateline In computing per diem in cases where the traveler crosses the international dateline (180th meridian), the actual elapsed time shall be used to compute per diem rather than calendar day

h. Lodging Obtained After Midnight. Generally, the per diem payable for any given day is based on the traveler's location at midnight. However, when the traveler is enroute at that time and obtains lodging after midnight the lodging shall be claimed for the preceding calendar day and will be determined as if the traveler had been at the lodging point before midnight.

i. Lodging at TDY Point If the traveler obtains lodging at other than the TDY point as a matter of personal preference, the allowable per diem rate shall be limited to the per diem rate prescribed for the TDY location.

j. Lodging Not Available at TDY Point When the traveler must obtain lodging in an area adjacent to the TDY point, the rate applicable to the lodging point will apply when justified, subject to the approval of the Associate Director, Bureau of Management. If the higher maximum rate is not justified and authorized in advance, the employee must furnish a statement with the travel voucher satisfactorily explaining the circumstances that caused him/her to obtain lodging in an area other than at the temporary duty point designated in the travel authorization.

k. Lodging With Friends or Relatives When a traveler obtains lodging from friends or relatives (including members of the immediate family), no part of the per diem payable is allowed for lodging unless the host actually incurs identifiable additional costs in accommodating the traveler. In such instances, any additional cost must be substantiated by the traveler supported by receipts or canceled checks, and determined to be reasonable by the Agency before a lodging cost will be allowed. Neither costs based on room rates for comparable conventional lodgings in the locality, nor flat "token" amounts, will be considered in determining any additional costs to the host.

l. Lodging in Non-conventional Facilities When there are not conventional lodging facilities available such as in remote areas or a shortage of such facilities is caused because of an influx of people attending special events or a shortage caused by inclement weather or other such emergency, costs of lodging in non-conventional facilities may be allowed subject to the approval of the Authorizing Official. In such cases, the traveler must provide an explanation of the circumstances on the voucher.

m. Deviation From Lodgings-Plus System When it can be determined in advance that this system is not appropriate for certain travel assignments, such as extended TDY or when lodgings or meals or both are provided at no cost or a nominal cost by the Government, a specific reduced per diem rate may be established by the Authorizing Official and shown on the Authorization of Official Travel.

9. Common Carrier Travel

a. Commercial Vessel For vessel travel, except for the day of arrival on board (day of embarkation) and the day of departure from the vessel (day of debarkation), the allowable per diem rate will be $6 per day. When the $6 rate is not sufficient to meet the traveler's per diem expenses, a per diem rate equal to the anticipated expenses, not to exceed $9 per day, may be authorized or approved; except that the rate for travel by the Alaska Ferry System shall not exceed the standard M&IE rate for CONUS. Per diem will be computed under the lodgings-plus system on the days of embarkation and debarkation.

b. Delays and Interruptions En Route. Per diem is allowed when interruptions occur on an official trip because of an authorized stopover, or because of circumstances beyond the control of the traveler.

c. Awaiting Transportation. Per diem is allowed for only such periods awaiting onward transportation as are reasonably necessary under the circumstances. The travel voucher should contain an explanation of the circumstances necessitating any waiting period in excess of 12 hours at transfer points in the United States and 24 hours at transfer points abroad.

d. Deductions For Meals And/Or Lodgings Furnished. When furnished without charge or at a nominal charge, an appropriate deduction as prescribed in A.5.

B. GENERAL RULES (CONUS AND CONUS TRAVEL).

1. Not Payable At The Permanent Duty Station. No reimbursement shall be allowed within the limits of the official station at, or within the vicinity of, the place of abode (Home) from which the traveler commutes daily to the official duty station.

2. Beginning and Ending of Travel Period. Official travel begins and ends at the time the traveler leaves and returns to the home, office or other authorized point of travel.

3. Traveler Responsibilities. The traveler's entitlement is only for the necessary expenses incurred in conjunction with the official travel and prudence should be exercised to insure that Government costs are minimized. The employee must record dates and times when it is relevant to subsistence computations, as well as taking of leave, deviation in official travel for personal reasons including return to the permanent duty station, and must furnish receipts and other documentation where required.

4. Reduced Maximum Per Diem Rates. When appropriate, reduced per diem rates will be prescribed when it is known that subsistence cost to the traveler will be lower such as at professional meetings and conferences, extended TDY assignments, etc., or will be furnished by the Government at nominal costs. The rate established shall be commensurate with the known costs to be incurred by the traveler. The Travel Authorization will reflect the lower rate when known in advance and the reduced rate is payable without receipts or itemization by the traveler.

5. Requirements For Receipts. There is a general requirement for receipts for official travel expenses in excess of $75.00, however, receipts are required for certain miscellaneous expenses regardless of the amount. (SEE 41 CFR 301-11.3). Travelers are expected to retain all documentation, including receipts, for a period of six (6) years and three months as mandated by the National Archives.

6. Per Diem For Weekly Or Monthly Rentals. Daily lodging costs are computed by dividing the total lodging costs by the number of days in the rental period (e.g., 7 or 30 days as appropriate).

7. TDY Assignment Curtailed Or Interrupted. When an assignment is curtailed or interrupted for the benefit of the Government or for reasons beyond the control of the traveler and as a result the traveler is unable to obtain a refund of prepaid rent, the unused lodging expenses will be reimbursed as follows:

a. The daily lodging costs for the period covered by the voucher is calculated by dividing the total costs for the rental period by the number of days of actual occupancy (e.g., monthly cost $600.00, occupied for TDY purposes 20 days, daily rate $30.00) to this amount is added the M&IE rate, not to exceed the maximum locality rate.

b. If the authorized per diem rate is insufficient to cover the subsistence expenses involved, reimbursement may be made on actual subsistence basis with proper approval. The excess amount (if any) of the unrefunded lodging cost not reimbursed above will be paid as a miscellaneous travel expense.

8. Travel Assignment canceled. When the traveler incurs lodging expense in reasonable expectation of a travel assignment which is canceled before travel begins, any non-refundable lodging expenses (e.g., forfeited deposit) will be reimbursed as a miscellaneous travel expense.

9. Leave while in a travel status.

a. Leave of absence. Except as provided in paragraph 11 below, no per diem is payable for leave of absence taken while in travel status.

b. Non-workdays. Per diem is payable for non-workdays (normally weekends or holidays), except when:

1) Those non-workdays are both preceded and followed by periods of leave other than sick leave granted in accordance with paragraph 11.

2) A leave of absence is both preceded and followed by non-workdays, in which case payment of per diem is limited to 2 non-workdays.

10. Voluntary Return to Official Station. If, while in travel status, a traveler for personnel convenience returns on non-workdays to his/her post or place of abode from which employee commutes daily to employee's official station, reimbursement may be made for the round trip transportation and per diem en route in an amount not to exceed the per diem which would have been allowed had the employee remained at temporary duty station.

11. Illness or Injury. Whenever a traveler takes leave of absence of any kind because of illness or injury not due to the traveler's own misconduct, per diem may be continued for periods not to exceed 14 calendar days in any one period of absence unless, under the circumstances, a longer period is approved. The Element Director, must approve all emergency leave request. No evidence of the illness or injury need be submitted with the travel voucher but the type of leave and duration thereof must be shown on the voucher. The evidence filed at the traveler's official duty station, as required by pertinent annual and sick leave regulations, will suffice. Per diem is not payable where the traveler receives hospitalization and meals, or reimbursement for them, under any Federal statute, except that receipt of partial or total reimbursement under the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program does not preclude payment of per diem.

12. Indirect route or interrupted travel. If there is an interruption of travel or deviation from the direct route resulting in excess travel time because of the traveler's personal preference or convenience or through the taking of leave, the per diem allowed shall not exceed that which would have been allowed on uninterrupted travel by a direct or usually traveled route. A separate voucher will be prepared and labeled "Hypothetical" to show what the travel expenses would have been had the itinerary been actually performed on the direct traveled route.

13. Hotel and Motel Fire Safety Act. Mandates that U.S Government employees stay in fire safe accommodations while on official travel. This act pertains to all travel within the U.S., U.S. possessions and territories. All travelers who travel overseas should make every effort to stay in fire safe accommodations. All domestic travelers must indicate whether or not they stayed at "fire safe" accommodations on their travel vouchers. Fire safe means that the facility has smoke detectors and sprinklers in all rooms.

Section 660

TRAVEL CARD PROGRAM

661 GENERAL

661.1 Purpose - This section prescribes policies and procedures covering the use of the General Services Administration (GSA) authorized travel charge cards for payments to commercial facilities for subsistence and miscellaneous travel expenses during officially authorized Government travel. Employees are required by law to use the Government contractor-issued travel charge card for all official travel expenses unless the employee or the expense is exempted by either the GSA Administrator or the Associate Director for Management, International Broadcasting Bureau (IBB).

The use of charge cards for major travel expenses substantially reduces the Government's cash requirements by lessening the need for cash travel advances. It essentially provides a more convenient and efficient method of paying travel expenses.

661.2 Reference - GSA contracts for the issuance and maintenance of travel charge cards to be used by Federal travelers to cover transportation, subsistence and other allowable expenses. Reference is made to the Travel and Transportation Reform Act of 1998, Public Law 105-264, dated October 19, 1998, 112 STAT. 2350, 5 U.S.C. 5707; 40 U.S.C. 486; Sec. 2. In addition, this MOA reflects Federal travel regulations contained in 41 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Chapters 301-51, 301-52, 301-54, 301-70, 301-71, and 301-76 which implement statutory requirements and Executive branch policies for 1) the use of Federal travel charge cards by Federal employees authorized to travel at Government expense and 2) the collection of amounts owed to the Travel Card Contractor from an employee's bi-weekly salary.

661.3 Employee Eligibility Criteria For a Government Travel Card - Employees eligible to apply for an individual Government travel card are those employees expected to perform official travel frequently (three or more official trips) during the course of the year. A copy of the "NOTICE OF RULES FOR USE OF A GOVERNMENT TRAVEL CARD" (See Attachment) signed by the employee and his/her element head, must be received by the IBB Travel Card Program Coordinator prior to the employee applying for the Travel Card.

Other employees who may travel infrequently during the year may apply for temporary activation of a travel charge card if a copy of the "NOTICE OF RULES FOR USE OF A GOVERNMENT TRAVEL CARD," signed by the employee and his/her element head, is presented to the IBB Travel Card Program Coordinator authorizing the employee to apply for the Travel Card.

For these infrequent travelers, the Travel Program Coordinator will notify the Travel Card Company to close the Card following the completion of travel. It is the traveler's responsibility to apply for a new Travel Card and to notify the IBB Travel Program Coordinator via Email (with a copy to the traveler's administrative officer) at least 7 business days in advance of travel, to request the Travel Card company to temporarily re-open the employee's Travel Card account.

661.4 Definitions - For the purpose of this notice, certain terms used herein are defined as follows:

a. Government Travel Card means a GSA-Contractor-issued travel charge card for use by travelers to cover major travel and transportation items such as rental vehicles, lodging, and meals in connection with official Government travel for which the contractor bills the employee. The term does not include personal credit cards issued to employees based upon their own financial merit by any credit card or other company.

b. Travel Card Contractor means the Travel Card Company on contract with GSA.

c. Travel Card Program Coordinator means an employee who has been designated to administer the Travel Charge Card Program within the IBB.

661.5 Effect on Current Procedures - All travel requirements must continue to be observed fully and all official travel must still be authorized on the Authorization of Official Travel form. Use of the Government travel card does not relieve the employee of observing prudent travel practices and all rules and regulations governing official travel as set forth in applicable travel directives.

661.6 Exemptions

a. The Administrator of General Services will exempt any payment, person, type or class of payments, or type or class of personnel in any case in which -

(1) It is in the best interest of the United States to do so;

(2) Payment through a Government travel card is impractical or imposes unreasonable burdens or costs on Federal employees or Federal agencies; or

b. The head of a Federal agency or his/her designee(s) may exempt any payment, person, type or class of payments, or type or class of agency personnel if the exemption is determined to be necessary in the interest of the agency. Not later than 30 days after granting such as exemption, the Agency Head must notify the Administrator of General Services in writing of such exemption stating the reasons for the exemption.

c. The Administrator of General Services has exempted the following from the mandatory use of the Government contractor-issued travel charge card:

1. Expenses incurred at a vendor that does not accept the Government contractor-issued travel charge card;

2. Laundry/dry cleaning;

3. Parking;

4. Local transportation system;

5. Taxi;

6. Tips;

7. Meals (only when use of the card is impractical or not accepted);

8. Phone calls (when a Government calling card is available for use);

9. An employee who has an application pending for the travel charge card;

10. Individuals traveling on invitational travel; and

11. New appointees.

d. In addition to those GSA, FTR exemptions listed in 661.6.c above, the BBG/IBB exempts the following class of agency employees from mandatory use of the Government travel charge card:

1) Due to the length of time for travel card statements sent via international mail to reach employees overseas coupled with the length of time for BBG/IBB employees' payments via international mail to reach the issuing card company (this time consuming process substantially exceeds the allowable 25-day payment due period causing the entire travel card process not to function in a productive manner):

a) BBG/IBB employees whose permanent duty station is outside of the Continental United States. These employees may be in positions posted in transmitter relay stations, in Voice of America radio correspondent locations overseas, or other positions outside the Continental United States deemed appropriate for this exemption as determined by the Associate Director for Management, IBB; and,

b) BBG/IBB employees on temporary assignment TDY outside of the Continental United States for more than thirty (30) consecutive calendar days; and,

2) BBG/IBB employees who are denied travel cards or whose travel charge cards have been canceled or suspended for financial irresponsibility or for other specific reasons

662 Acceptability of Government Travel Cards - Employees are required to use the Government contractor-issued travel charge card for all official travel expenses, such as common carrier transportation, hotel, car rental, restaurant, or other travel-related expenses, unless the traveler or type of expense has been exempted (see 661.6 above).

663 CARD ISSUANCE AND OVERSIGHT PROCEDURES

In addition, the Agreement provides that the billing statement is due and payable in full upon receipt of the statement but must be received by the Bank no later than 25 calendar days from the closing date on the statement in which the charge appeared. (emphasis added)

Domestic and Overseas TDY Travel - When the Travel Card is not accepted in geographic location(s) for travel or if the traveler has a travel card application pending, the traveler may receive a travel allowance up to 80% of estimated miscellaneous expense, if requested. The traveler and supervisor jointly determine the anticipated cash requirements for the trip and specify such on the Travel Authorization.

It is the responsibility of the office preparing the travel authorization to ensure that the above guidelines are followed when travel advances are requested.

664.1 For Employees Having a Government Travel Card - To obtain an advance in the form of travelers checks, employees present their Travel Card and Travel Authorization to IBB's Travel Management Center, Room 1645, Cohen Building.

2) The Travel Card Program Coordinator verifies that the employee has turned in their Travel Card by signing and dating the exit form that is used by employees (Clearance for Final Salary Payment, Form #IA-134).

3) The Travel Card Program Coordinator immediately notifies the Travel Card company by telephone to cancel the account; and

4) The Travel Card Program Coordinator cuts the card in half and disposes of the card.

b. Employee Residence Address Changes - To ensure uninterrupted service when an employee changes their residential address, the employee must notify the Travel Card company of the change in his/her official residence to ensure timely receipt of his/her travel card billing statement.

666 TRAVEL VOUCHER CLAIMS

666.1 General - Travel vouchers shall be prepared and submitted by employees within 5 workdays after the employee completes the trip or period of travel or at least once every 30 days during extended travel assignments in order to be reimbursed in a timely manner to pay the bill issued by the Travel Card Contractor.

Employees are reimbursed for authorized and allowable travel and transportation expenses in accordance with the provisions of the Federal Travel Regulations, Foreign Service Travel Regulations, and applicable IBB/MOA travel policies and procedures.

666.2 Transportation Charges - When claiming reimbursement on a travel voucher for transportation expenses purchased with a Government travel card, the employee shall claim only the cost of transportation tickets actually used.

666.3 Voucher Submission and Processing Schedule - The following schedule must be followed to ensure that employees receive reimbursement for allowable expenses before the payment is due to the travel card contractor:

- a. Employees are to submit travel vouchers to approving officials within 5 workdays after completion of trips or at least once every 30 days during extended travel assignments. Vouchers may be printed legibly in ink.

- b. The employee's Administrative Officer or voucher approving official will forward the travel voucher to the U.S. State Department, FMP, for payment processing.

- c. The State Department, FMP, will process travel vouchers in an expeditious manner in order to allow the employee to make a timely payment to the Travel Card Company. Employees will be reimbursed within 30 calendar days after submission of a proper travel voucher.

667 MONTHLY CONTRACTOR BILLINGS AND PAYMENT

667.1 Monthly Billing Statement - Employees who have used their travel card will receive a monthly billing statement from the Travel Card Contractor at their home address around the end of each month. A statement is issued when expenditures are incurred or when a credit is posted to the account. If travel card is used and a monthly statement is not received, the employee should contact the Travel Card Contractor. Payment in full for the amount billed is due and payable by the employee directly to the Travel Card Contractor within 25 days of the billing date shown on the cardholder's statement.

NOTE: AS PART OF THE GOVERNMENT CONTRACT AND CARDHOLDER MEMBERSHIP RULES, FULL PAYMENT IS DUE ON A MONTHLY BASIS. DEFERRED OR PARTIAL PAYMENTS ARE NOT ALLOWED. IF THE EMPLOYEE IS DELINQUENT IN PAYING THE BILL, CHARGE CARD PRIVILEGES MAY BE SUSPENDED OR CANCELLED.

667.2 Disputed Charges - If a Travel Card statement contains a disputed charge or if a charge appears on the Travel Card statement but the credit does not, it is the employee's responsibility to immediately call the Travel Card Contractor to resolve the dispute. Employees must obtain a Dispute Form from the Administrative Operations Division, Room 1657, Cohen Building, to document the billing error and send the Dispute Form to the Travel Card Contractor within 60 days of receipt of their statement.

668 FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS AND LIABILITY

- a. Employee - Except when they promptly report lost or stolen charge cards (see 665.6), employees are liable for all billed charges. Government employees are required to pay their just financial obligations in a proper and a timely manner pursuant to section 206 of Executive Order 11222 (May 8, 1965) and Government Ethics regulations, see 5 CFR 2635.101.

b. Government - The Government assumes no liability for charges incurred on employee travel charge cards, nor is the Government liable for charges against lost or stolen charge cards issued to employees.

669 COLLECTION FOR DELINQUENT PAYMENTS

669.1 General - This section outlines procedures and policies for collection of delinquent payments of travel charge card expenses.

669.2 Authority - Public Law 105-264, October 19, 1998 (codified at 5 U.S.C. section 5701) and Federal Travel Regulation 301-54 and 301-76 authorize Federal agencies to collect undisputed delinquent amounts incurred on an employee's individually billed travel charge card from an employee's disposable pay.

669.3 Due Process Notice for Employees Identified for Salary Collection - Procedures for salary collection of delinquent payments are in accordance with provisions of 41 CFR 301-54 and provide that employees be:

- 1) Notified of the type and amount of the claim and of the intention to collect the claim by deduction from their disposable pay;
- 2) Given the opportunity to inspect and copy their records related to the travel card contractor's claim;
- 3) Allowed an opportunity for a review within the agency of the decision to collect the amount from the employee's salary; and
- 4) Provided an opportunity to enter into a written agreement with the Travel Card Contractor to repay the delinquent amount of the claim.

669.4 Salary Collection Procedures

a. The Director, Office of Administration (M/A), is designated to receive the written request from the Travel Card Contractor for collection from an employee's pay of amounts owed on a contractor-issued travel charge card.

b. The Travel Card Contractor will make a written request to M/A for salary collection of the affected employee's travel card debt. The Travel Contractor's written request to M/A will include:

1. Delinquent debtor's name.
2. Travel card account number.
3. Social security number (if available)
4. Amount of debt.
5. Travel Card Contractor's routing information for electronic payment of the employee's debt.

6. Travel Card Contractor's point of contact to allow the employee an opportunity to make a written agreement to repay the debt.

M/AO will request that the employee's supervisor and/or Administrative Officer review the written request, documentation, and the employee's travel voucher records on file to ascertain if all properly submitted travel expense vouchers have been paid to the employee.

c. If the review shows that the agency has not reimbursed all of the employee's travel reimbursement claims, the employee's Administrative Officer and/or supervisor will advise the employee of the amounts and the expected date of his/her reimbursement.

d. If all properly submitted travel expenses have been reimbursed to the employee or if debts owed appear to be from charges unrelated to official travel, the employee's Administrative Officer will notify IBB's Chief Financial Officer/Comptroller (CFO).

e. The CFO/Comptroller's Office will review the employee's payroll records to determine if the employee has the ability to pay the debt. The determination of the employee's ability to pay is based upon an analysis of 1) whether other garnishments or salary collections are being deducted from the employee's pay and 2) the percentage of disposable pay being deducted.

f. If the employee does NOT have the ability to pay the debt, the Comptroller's Office will notify M/AO. M/AO will notify the travel card contractor in writing that the IBB cannot initiate salary collection action due to the employee having other debt collection with higher priority.

g. If the employee has the ability to pay the debt, the Comptroller's Office will calculate the amount that will be deducted and the number of pay periods over which the collection will occur to fully repay the debt and notify M/AO. Collection begins no earlier than the pay period following 30 calendar days from the date of the signed receipt.

h. M/AO will notify the employee of BBG/IBB's intention to collect the debt by salary collection. This notice (see Attachment 2) to the employee will consist of the following information:

1. Delinquent debtor's name.
2. Travel card account number.
3. Social security number.
4. Amount of debt and amount to be collected per pay period.
5. Travel Card Contractor's routing information for electronic payment of the employee's debt.

6. Travel Card Contractor's point of contact to allow the employee an opportunity to enter into a written agreement to repay the debt.

This notice to the employee will be sent via certified mail, return receipt requested, to the employee's home address. This notice will advise the employee that he/she will have 30 calendar days from the date of the signed receipt to review the information contained in the notice and to enter into a written agreement with the Travel Card Contractor to repay the debt. If no written agreement is made or if the debt remains unpaid, salary collection will commence with the pay period following the end of the 30 day period from the date of the signed receipt.

i. The CFO/Comptroller's Office will calculate the employee's disposable pay using the definition at FTR Part 301-76-2:

* Definition of Disposable Pay - Pay that is the part of the employee's compensation remaining after the deduction of any amounts required by law to be withheld. These deductions do not include discretionary deductions such as savings bonds, charitable contributions, etc. Deductions may be made from any type of pay, e.g., basic pay, special pay, retirement pay, or incentive pay.

* Maximum collection amount - No more than 15% of the employee's disposable pay per pay period will be collected under this procedure.

* Priority of collection - The debt covered by this collection procedure is lower in priority to all other involuntary collection, garnishment, and offset actions, and will not be collected if higher priority debt would result in more than 15% of the employee's disposable pay for any given pay period from being collected.

669.5 Collection by Payroll

a. Once all requirements in procedures "a through i" above are satisfied, the CFO/Comptroller's office, will proceed with salary collection.

b. M/AO will respond to the Travel Contractor's original written request and advise the Travel Contractor the specific amount to be collected from the employee's biweekly paycheck and the starting date of the salary collection.

669.6 Agreement to Repay in Lieu of Salary Collection

a. If the employee completes and returns a written agreement to the Travel Card Contractor (and a copy to M/AO) within 30 calendar days from the date the employee signed the returned receipt, the original written request from the Travel Card Contractor will be deemed to have been appropriately responded to and no further action is necessary.

b. If the employee makes an Agreement to repay the debt with the Travel Card Contractor at a later date, it is the responsibility of the employee to notify M/AO and provide M/AO with a copy of the Agreement. M/AO will coordinate with the Travel Card Contractor and the Comptroller's Office to stop the salary collection.

669.7 Termination of Salary Collection

a. Collection will be terminated when the full amount of debt is collected, or the employee enters into a voluntary written agreement with the Travel Card Contractor to repay the debt owed, or when the employee separates from BBG/IBB.

b. If a voluntary collection agreement is entered into, M/AO must be notified in writing (with a copy of the agreement) so that automatic salary collection can be terminated. Voluntary repayment may be accomplished through a voluntary allotment of pay initiated by the employee with the CFO/Comptroller's Office.

TRANSFERS BETWEEN OFFICIAL DUTY STATIONS (DOMESTIC RELOCATION)

681 SCOPE

This Section outlines policy on the payment of certain domestic relocation expenses for personnel transferring between official duty stations in the conterminous United States. The basic regulations are described in detail in Chapter 302 of the Federal Travel Regulations (FTR).

682 DOMESTIC SHIPMENTS - ACTUAL EXPENSE METHOD

When an employee is transferred for the convenience of the Government and payment of domestic relocation expenses is authorized, the actual expense method is used. Under this method the Government assumes responsibility for payment to the moving company. Responsibility for the various steps in planning domestic relocation is as follows:

a. The Administrative Office responsible for issuing the travel authorization provides the General Services Administration (GSA) with the origin and destination points and relocation date. This can be done by telephone; contact the Travel and Transportation Branch for the name and telephone number of the appropriate GSA contact.

b. GSA furnishes the Administrative Office with a list of moving companies authorized to perform the move.

c. The Administrative Office forwards the list to the employee, who selects a mover capable of performing the move on the desired date.

d. Upon receipt of the travel authorization and the name of the moving company, the Travel and Transportation Branch issues a Government Bill of Lading to authorize the move.

683 WEIGHT ALLOWANCE

The maximum weight of household goods and personal effects that may be transported at Government expense is limited to 18,000 pounds net weight.

684 TRANSPORTATION TO SEEK PERMANENT RESIDENCE QUARTERS

Payment of travel and transportation expenses of the employee and spouse traveling together, or either one of them traveling individually, may be authorized for one round trip between the localities of the old and new duty stations for the purpose of seeking residence quarters if it is determined that circumstances warrant such a trip. This determination will be made by the Director, Office of Personnel. The period of the advance house hunting trip at Government expense may not exceed ten calendar days, including travel time.

685 TEMPORARY QUARTERS ALLOWANCE VS. HOUSE HUNTING TRIP

If an advance house hunting trip is authorized in accordance with 684 above, a temporary quarters allowance upon arrival at the new station will not be authorized.

686 SERVICE AGREEMENT

No payment may be authorized for relocation until the employee has signed an agreement to remain in the service of the Government for twelve months following the effective date of transfer, unless separated for reasons beyond his or her control and acceptable to the Director, Office of Administration who will ensure that this agreement is obtained prior to issuance of a travel authorization.

687 ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The Office of Administration will provide additional information and guidance as necessary.

712 ASSISTANCE WITH PROPERTY ACCOUNTING ISSUES AND WORKLOAD

712.1 E/OT is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the Agency's property management program. To accomplish these responsibilities, E/OT has established a BBG Property Management Office. This office will assist any or all property control officers and accountable officers who have questions concerning property accountability and/or need assistance in managing their property to include maintaining their property records in the Property Inventory Processing System (PIPS), the Agency's automated property system.

- a. E-mail: property\_help@bbg.gov

712.2 Besides providing guidance on property accountability policies and procedures, the BBG Property Management Office will provide assistance with the following property-related actions to any interested property control officers and accountable officers:

- b. Barcoding equipment
- c. Preparing hand receipts for property
- d. Transferring property within the Agency
- e. Disposing of excess property
- f. Inventorying property
- g. Preparing reports and other property related paperwork

NOTE: Providing the support outlined above is a service E/OT will provide to any or all interested property control officers and accountable officers. However, using these services is voluntary in nature. Property control officers or accountable officers wishing to continue to manage their property without E/OT's direct assistance are more than welcome to do so.

713 ORGANIZATION FOR ACCOUNTING FOR THE AGENCY'S PROPERTY

713.1 Agency Property Management Officer (PMO): The Director of the Office of Engineering & Technical Services (E) has been designated as the PMO and is responsible for the overall administration, coordination, and control of the property management program for the Agency. In this role, E develops and implements property management policies and procedures for the Agency.

713.2 Agency Property Manager (PM): The Chief of the Network Support Division (E/OT) has been designated as the PM and is responsible for the day-to-day administration of Agency's property management program. E/OT is also responsible for the dissemination and implementation of the property policies and procedures within the Agency, and for the maintenance of the Agency-wide, central property database called the Property Inventory Processing System (PIPS).

713.3 Accountable Officer (AO):

a. The Director or Office Head of each of the BBG/IBB major organizational elements has overall responsibility for the property assigned to their organizational element. To assist them in managing their property, one or more individuals have been designated as accountable officers. An accountable officer is a Government employee responsible for all accountable property assigned to his/her accountable area, regardless of how the property was acquired (owned, leased, hand-receipted, locally procured, etc.). These responsibilities include but are not limited to ensuring that:

- (1) Property is managed in accordance with the Agency's policies and procedures.
- (2) All required transactions affecting property are completed in a timely manner.
- (3) Each piece of nonexpendable property (to include sensitive equipment and capitalized property) is barcoded.
- (4) A property record for each piece of nonexpendable property (to include sensitive equipment and capitalized property) is created and maintained in the PIPS property database.
- (5) The property records in the PIPS property database accurately reflect the property assigned to the accountable area, and that the property records are quickly updated whenever the information on a record changes.
- (6) Documentation is maintained on file to support the entries on each property record.
- (7) Lost, stolen, or damaged property is properly reported in a timely manner.
- (8) Excess equipment is reported to E/OT for disposal action.
- (9) All assigned property is physically inventoried at least once each fiscal year, and the results of the inventory are reported to E/OT by April 10.

b. To assist the AO in accounting for property within the accountable area, one or more individuals can be designated as a Property Custodian (PC). The property custodian is a Government employee assigned specific responsibility by the accountable officer for all or part of the accountable area's property. The property custodian assists the accountable officer and is responsible for properly managing, maintaining, accounting for, and controlling the nonexpendable property (to include sensitive equipment and capitalized property) assigned to him/her by the accountable officer.

713.4 Property Control Officer (PCO): Within each major organizational element, one or more individuals have been designated as Property Control Officers (PCO) responsible for providing administrative support to the accountable officers within their organizational area by:

- a. Maintaining the property records in the PIPS property database.
- b. Coordinating property actions that affect more than one accountable officer.
- c. Reviewing and consolidating property-related reports and responses being forwarded to E/OT.

713.5 All U.S. Government and contract employees are responsible for properly using and safeguarding any Agency property in their custody. Employees may be held liable for any property stolen, destroyed, lost, or damaged as a result of negligence, improper use, or willful action on their part.

714 TYPES OF PROPERTY

714.1 Real Property - This type of property consists of owned or leased land, buildings, structures, and facilities. Examples: land the site is situated on, transmitter building, car park, warehouse, storage shed, fuel point, etc. Note that the procedures for accounting for real property are not addressed in this Section of the BAM. If you need instructions on accounting for real property, please contact the BBG Property Management Office at property\_help@bbg.gov.

714.2 Expendable Property - This type of property is consumed in use, loses its identity when put into use, becomes a component part of other articles, or is of a durable nature but does not meet the criteria for being considered real property or nonexpendable property which includes capitalized property and sensitive equipment. There is no dollar criteria assigned to expendable property. In other words, any item of property that does not qualify as either real or nonexpendable property is considered expendable property regardless of its acquisition cost. For this reason, a transmitting tube costing $125,000 and an office printer costing $275 are both considered expendable. Examples: spare and repair parts for transmitters and vehicles, transmitting tubes, batteries, household cleaning liquids, pens, copier paper, an office printer costing less than $1,000, etc. Note that the procedures for accounting for expendable property are not addressed in this Section of the BAM. If you need instructions on accounting for expendable property, please contact the BBG Property Management Office at property\_help@bbg.gov.

714.3 Nonexpendable Property is an item of property that is complete in itself, does not lose its identity or become a component part of other property when used, has an initial acquisition cost of $5000 or more, is durable, and has an expected useful life of over two years. All nonexpendable property must be barcoded and have a property record established in PIPS. Examples: transmitters, vehicles, broadcasting equipment, etc.

a. Nonexpendable property also includes Sensitive Equipment. To be considered sensitive, the equipment must be mission essential, attractive for personal use, pilferable, or hazardous, and cost between $1000 and $5000. Sensitive items require a greater degree of control and accountability; therefore, the equipment must be barcoded and have a property record established in the PIPS property database. The following items are always considered as sensitive equipment:

- (1) Equipment containing any type of classified material
- (2) Laptops, Notebooks, PDA's, and Cameras
- (3) Wireless Mic Transmitters/Receivers UHF
- (4) Camcorders
- (5) VCR, Mini DV/Monitor (Clams, Watchman)

NOTE: Based on mission considerations, accountable officers may declare equipment not meeting the definition for sensitive as sensitive equipment when the accountable officer determines that the additional effort of barcoding the property and tracking it thorough the PIPS property database is warranted.

b. Capitalized Property is nonexpendable property that must be reported by the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) on the Agency's quarterly and annual financial statements. It is accounted for like any other piece of nonexpendable property. To be considered capitalized property, the item of nonexpendable property must meet one of the following thresholds:

- (1) Nonexpendable property with an acquisition cost of $25,000 or greater
- (2) All motor vehicles regardless of acquisition cost

715 RECEIVING NONEXPENDABLE PROPERTY (TO INCLUDE SENSITIVE EQUIPMENT AND CAPITALIZED PROPERTY) - The accountable officer is responsible for ensuring that all nonexpendable property is properly received and processed. The accountable officer must ensure that:

- a. All incoming deliveries of Government property (receipts) are physically inventoried and inspected to ensure that that the correct items were received in the specified quantities.

b. A receiving report is prepared. Any defects, damage, or other problems found during the inventory are noted on the receiving report. A copy of the receiving report is provided to M/CON, and a copy is retained for the accountable officer's files.

c. Any nonexpendable property that is received is barcoded using an Agency authorized barcode label.

NOTE: Nonexpendable property received with an authorized barcode label on it must be recorded using the number on the existing label.

d. The property control officer is notified of the receipt of any nonexpendable property, and that a property record is created in the PIPS property database. (When creating the property record, ensure that the acquisition information shown on the property record matches the cost and the date received shown on the invoice payment documentation.)

NOTE: If the item received also meets the definition of capitalized property, a copy of the purchase order and invoice payment document must also be provided to E/OT. These documents are included as part of the Capitalized Property Report that E/OT submits quarterly to the CFO's office.

e. Files are maintained with all the supporting documentation for each receipt.

INFORMATION ON BARCODES

The barcode label contains a series of alphanumeric characters (such as IA0000123567) that uniquely identify a piece of property. The barcode is used to track the property from the time of receipt to the time of disposal.

The Agency uses a standardized barcode label that works with the barcode reading software used by Agency. These barcode labels are stocked by E/OT. Any accountable or property control officers who need barcode labels should contact E/OT to obtain the barcode labels.

The barcode label is normally placed on the item when it is received. Once assigned to an item, the barcode number cannot be changed. If the label is lost or becomes un-readable, you should contact E/OT for a replacement.

There is no mandatory location for attaching barcode labels to the property. However, it is recommended that barcode labels be placed where they can be easily seen and accessed. This placement makes it easier to identify the nonexpendable property when inventorying it, especially if you are using a barcode reader to conduct the inventory.

716 HAND RECEIPTS - All accountable officers are encouraged to hand receipt their nonexpendable property and sensitive equipment to their property custodians and/or the actual users. Hand receipting is especially important if the property is being maintained off-site. If hand receipts are used, they must be updated annually.

a. The property control officer can assist the accountable officers in preparing hand receipts for equipment by printing a report from the PIPS property database which can be used as a hand receipt. See Figure 1.

b. The form IBB-873, Receipt for Loan of Agency Equipment, can also be used to hand receipt property. See Figure 2.

c. If you have just one item to hand receipt, your property control officer can print out a copy of the property record card from the PIPS property database that can be used as a hand receipt. See Figure 3.

718 INVENTORYING NONEXPENDABLE PROPERTY (TO INCLUDE SENSITIVE EQUIPMENT AND CAPITALIZED PROPERTY)

718.1 All nonexpendable property including items normally maintained at off-site locations must be inventoried at least once during the fiscal year.

718.2 The accountable officer may delegate the actual conduct of the inventory to other employees within the accountable officer's area of responsibility.

718.3 The individual(s) conducting the inventory must physically inventory (actually see) every item of property. The goals of the physical inventory are to:

- Determine the completeness and accuracy of the property records and to update the records with the results of the inventory.
- Identify property that needs to be barcoded and added to the PIPS property database.
- Confirm the property's physical condition.
- Validate the effectiveness of property accountability and control procedures.

718.4 Conducting the Inventory:

- The property control officer will generate and distribute a property inventory report (Print By AO report in PIPS) to each accountable officer. See Figure 5.
- The accountable officer or designee will physically inventory the items on the property inventory report.

NUMBER OF RECORDS: 11

I accept accountability for all property listed on this report. I certify that, to the best of my knowledge, the content of the report represents all accountable property in my custodial area, is an accurate representation of this property in the PCO's central database, and has been properly inventoried, according to required procedures.

Items marked with an (*) have been asked to be disposed.

Items marked with an (**), a lost/stolen report has been filed.

Note: If a barcode scanner is available, the accountable officer may use the scanner to conduct the inventory. In this case, the accountable officer needs to coordinate this action with the property control officer so that the necessary information from the PIPS property database can be downloaded to and uploaded from the barcode scanner at the beginning and end of the inventory process.

718.5 Reconciling the Inventory Results:

a. At the conclusion of the inventory, the accountable officer will coordinate with the property control officer to have the PIPS property database updated with the results of the property inventory.

(1) For items that were on hand during the inventory, any updates to the property records resulting from the inventory (change in location, property custodian, condition, etc) can be made at this time.

(2) For items "found" during the inventory, a property record will be added to the PIPS property database for any nonexpendable property located during the inventory that does not already have a property record in the PIPS property database.

NOTE: For missing items, no update to or removal of the property record can be made until a written confirmation is received from E/OT as to the final action taken on the missing property.

b. After the new items have been added to the PIPS property database, and any property record updates have been completed, the property control officer will print a final inventory report, and will mark with an asterisk (*) all property items that have been identified for disposal, and will mark with a double asterisk (**) all property items that could not be located during the physical inventory. After the final inventory report is prepared, the property control officer forwards the report to the accountable officer for review, signature, and if any property is missing inclusion of a missing property report(s) (IBB-0400, Report of Lost, Stolen, Damaged, Or Destroyed Property).

c. The accountable officer reviews the final inventory report to ensure that it is correct, and then signs and dates it certifying to its correctness. If property is missing, the accountable officer will prepare a missing property report(s). In the missing property report, the accountable officer should:

(1) Include a formal statement identifying the action(s) taken to locate the property or to determine if the property was loaned, transferred, moved, or disposed of.

(2) Discuss any procedural changes implemented to improve accountability including record keeping for property under his/her control.

d. The accountable officer then returns the certified final inventory report and any missing property reports to the property control officer for further processing.

e. The property control officer will ensure that the missing property form is filled out correctly and completely, and that all required signatures were obtained. The property control officer will attach the original and one copy of the missing property report to the final inventory report.

f. The property control officer then forwards a certified hard copy of the inventory results (completed inventory packet) through management channels to E/OT no later than April 10, 200X.

g. E/OT will review the results of the inventory, and process any IBB-0400 loss reports that were submitted. Based on the final review of the inventory, and the conclusion of any actions undertaken based on the review of the loss reports (to include convening a board of survey if required), E/OT will advise the accountable officer and/or the property control officer if any additional action is required on their part.

h. Once written confirmation is received from E/OT, the accountable officer will coordinate with the property control officer to have the property records for the missing items updated and/or archived based on the information provided by E/OT.

718.6 Inventory Files: All annual physical inventory documentation, including notes and/or printouts used in the inventory process, must be retained until the third succeeding inventory has been completed. The earliest records may then be removed from the files.

719 PROPERTY TRANSFERS WITHIN THE AGENCY

719.1 Transfers Within the Same Accountable Area - Whenever an item is moved to a different location within the same accountable area, the accountable officer will coordinate with his/her property control officer to have the property record updated in the PIPS property database to reflect the item's new location.

719.2 Transfers Between Two Accountable Officers Within Agency

a. To initiate the transfer, the accountable officer who is transferring the property prepares an e-mail and sends it to the accountable officer who is receiving the property with a copy to E/OT (property\_help@bbg.gov). The e-mail will contain the following information for each item being transferred: barcode number, description, model number, serial number, acquisition cost, and condition code.

b. Upon receipt of the property, the accountable officer receiving the property will send an e-mail to the transferring accountable officer with a copy to E/OT (property\_help@bbg.gov) confirming receipt and the new location of the property.

c. Since this type of transfer normally involves more than one property control officer, E/OT will update the property record in the PIPS property database to show the transfer.

d. Both accountable officers retain copies of the transfer e-mails for their files.

7110 PROPERTY DISPOSAL PROCEDURES TO INCLUDE PROPERTY TRANSFERS OUTSIDE OF AGENCY

7110.1 Excess Property - Excess property is any item of property that is no longer required for use within the Agency. Once declared excess, the Agency will either transfer the item to another Federal agency or dispose of it through the General Services Administration (GSA). E/OT is responsible for coordinating these disposal actions.

7110.2 Disposal Procedures

a. The accountable officer in coordination with his/her property control officer sends an e-mail to E/OT requesting disposal action. In the body of the e-mail (or in an attached Excel spreadsheet) the accountable officer will provide the following information for each item of property being disposed of:

(1) Description

(2) Quantity

(3) Manufacturer & model

(4) Serial number

(5) Barcode number

(6) Condition code

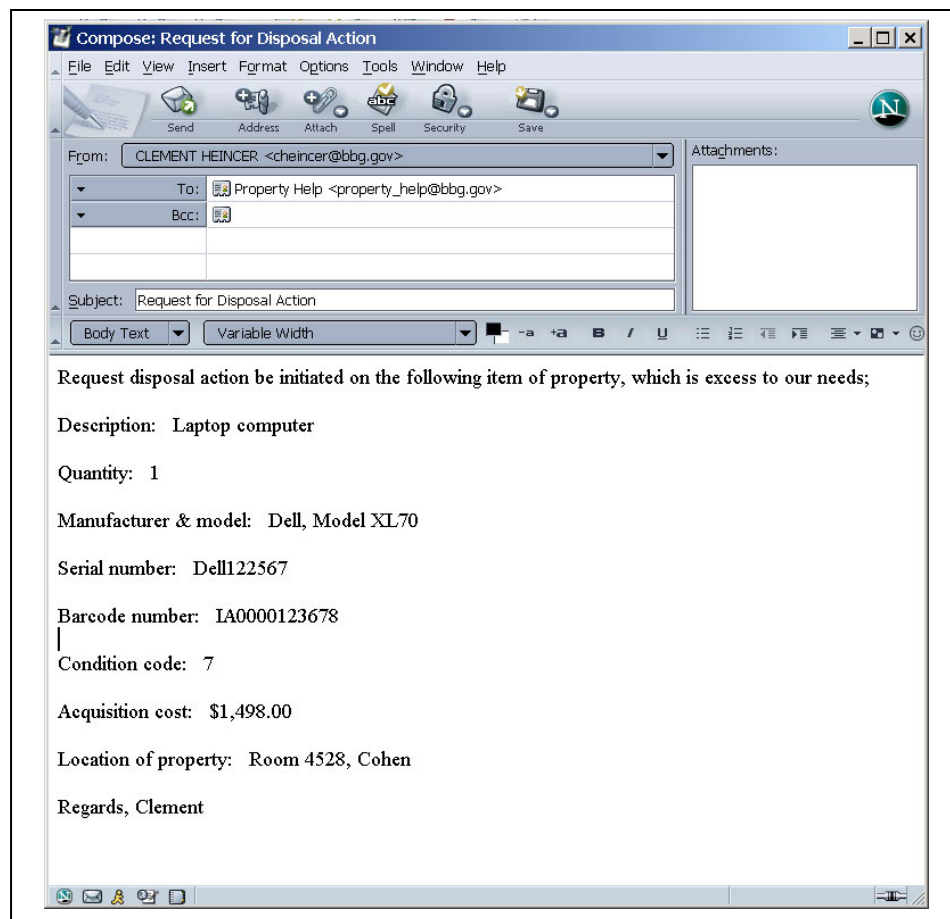

(7) Acquisition cost

(8) Location of the Property

NOTE: If the property is being transferred to another Federal agency, be sure to note this on the e-mail. Also provide the point of contact and telephone number for the receiving Federal agency.

b. Once the e-mail is received, E/OT personnel will arrange to have the property picked up from the accountable officer and process it for disposal with GSA or transfer to another Federal agency.

c. Once the disposal action is complete, E/OT will update the property records in the PIPS property database with the disposal information, and remove the property records from the active database and place them in the Archive file. E/OT will also provide the accountable officer with a copy of the final disposal documentation for the accountable officer's files.

7111 REPORTING LOST, STOLEN, DAMAGED, OR DESTROYED PROPERTY

7111.1 The employee in possession of the property at the time of the incident, in coordination with the accountable officer, will initiate the IBB-0400, Report of Lost, Stolen, Damaged, or Destroyed Property, immediately after the incident is discovered. The accountable officer will ensure that Blocks 1-8 of the IA-0400 are properly completed.

Note: If theft is suspected, the incident should be immediately reported to the Agency's Office of Security (M/SEC), and the Federal Protective Service or the appropriate local law enforcement authority.

7111.2 The accountable officer will forward the completed IBB-0400 with any attachments to the property control officer, who will check it for completeness, and who will then forward it through management channels to E/OT.

7111.3 E/OT will review the report and provide a recommendation to the IBB Property Management Officer (E) as to whether the action can be closed out administratively or if a board of survey needs to be convened.

7111.4 Once all actions have been completed by E/OT or if required, a board of survey, E/OT will update the property record in PIPS, and inform the appropriate accountable officer and property control officer in writing of the final resolution of the incident.

7112 CHANGES IN ACCOUNTABLE OFFICERS

NOTE 1: If the departing accountable officer is also leaving Agency's employ, all the following tasks must be completed before E/OT can sign off on the individual's clearance papers.

NOTE 2: If the incoming accountable officer has not yet arrived, an acting accountable officer will have to be assigned so that the joint inventory can be conducted and results certified.

7112.1 The departing accountable officer requests a property inventory report from the property control officer.

7112.2 The incoming and departing accountable officers will physically inventory the property together, and annotate the results of the inventory on the property inventory report. Both the incoming and departing accountable officer will sign and date the property inventory report certifying the results of the inventory.

7112.3 The property control officer will review the inventory results and will mark with an asterisk (*) all property items that could not be located during the physical inventory. If property is missing, the departing accountable officer will prepare a missing property report(s) (Form IBB-0400).

7112.4 When the inventory packet is correct, the property control officer will:

- a. Attach the original copy of any IBB-0400 missing property reports that were prepared to the original copy of the duly certified change in accountable officer property report.
- b. Forward the completed inventory packet through management channels to E/OT.
- c. Retain a copy of the completed inventory packet with any attachments for three years.
- d. Sign a copy of the completed inventory packet certifying that the departing accountable officer completed the above requirement, and provide this certified packet to the departing accountable officer. The departing accountable officer will need this certified packet in order to complete the clearance process with E/OT.

NOTE: Departing accountable officers who are located elsewhere must present the duly certified property inventory report to the individual that approves the employee's clearance papers.

7112.5 E/OT will review the results of the inventory, and process any IBB-0400 loss reports that were submitted. Based on the final review of the inventory, and the conclusion of any actions undertaken based on the review of the loss reports (to include convening a board of survey if required), E/OT will advise the accountable officer and/or the property control officer if any additional action is required on their part.

7113 REPORTING ON PROPERTY

7113.1 Annual Property Inventory Report: The accountable officer will provide a certified hard copy of the inventory results through management channels to E/OT no later than April 10, 200X.

7113.2 Annual Capitalized Property Inventory Report: Using the inventory information submitted by the accountable officers in April, E/OT extracts the information on capitalized property and submits an inventory report on capitalized property to Office of the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) no later than May 1, 200X.

7113.3 Quarterly Report on Capitalized Property: At the end of each quarter, E/OT provides the CFO's office with an update on capitalized property that had been received, transferred, and/or disposed of during the quarter. Documents supporting these changes in capitalized property are included as part of the packet.

NOTE: Because the capitalized property records are used to prepare the Agency's financial statements, no information can be changed on the PIPS property record unless supporting documentation is submitted as part of the Quarterly Report on Capitalized Property submission.

7113.4 Feeder Reports on Capitalized Property - Any time an item of capitalized property is received, transferred, disposed of, or the information on its property record is updated, E/OT must be notified by e-mail (property\_help@bbg.gov) so that the property information on the Agency's financial statement can be updated. Attached to the e-mail will be a copy of the appropriate documentation as follows:

- a. For receipts: Provide the purchase orders and invoices. The invoices are used to support acquisition costs and date items were received. For motor vehicles purchased locally, please ensure that a copy of the dealer's invoice is included.
- b. For disposals: The documentation should show how and when the item was disposed of and to whom. If the item was sold, be sure the documentation shows how much the item sold for.
- c. For transfers: The documentation should show why the item of property was transferred, who authorized the transfer, where the item was transferred to and when.
- d. For adjustments or changes to the information on the property record: The documentation should identify what information was changed, explain why the change was necessary, and substantiate the new information entered on the property record.
- e. Motor vehicles: In addition to the above supporting documentation, when providing documentation on motor vehicles, please ensure that the documentation provided clearly shows the vehicle's make, model, model year, license plate (TAG) number, and VIN number.

7114 RECORDS RETENTION - Records and files pertaining to nonexpendable property will be maintained, retired, and/or destroyed in accordance with the guidance provided in BAM Part III, Communications and Records, Section 500, Records Management Handbook. The only exception is the records and files pertaining to nonexpendable property that also qualify as capitalized property. In these cases, a copy of the documentation that supports the property record entries will be retained as long as the items remain active in the Agency inventory, since these entries support the Agency's financial statement. After a capitalized property item is disposed of, the documentation pertaining to this item will be retired and/or destroyed in accordance with the guidance provided in the Records Management Handbook.

- (iii) BAM Title IV, Chapters 710 and 950, on Personal Property Management contain the policies and procedures for accounting for motor vehicles.
- (iv) The Agency's Office of Security Armored Vehicle Program Resource shall be utilized in conjunction with applicable motor vehicle guidelines for the management of armored vehicle assets.

(4) Scope. This policy applies to the Voice of America, Office of Cuba Broadcasting (OCB), and the Offices of the International Broadcasting Bureau and their sub-elements supervised by the Broadcasting Board of Governors (collectively "the Agency") and to all motor vehicles owned or leased by these Agency elements (collectively "the Fleet"). The Agency elements who procure, lease, or otherwise acquire motor vehicles are the Responsible Agency Elements (RAE) for the purposes of this policy.

(c) POLICY:

(1) T/EOS/N shall complete a Vehicle Allocation Methodology to develop an optimal fleet inventory and develop a Fleet Management Plan to achieve that optimal fleet inventory. (See GSA Bulletin FMR B-30, Motor Vehicle Management for additional information)

(2) Purchasing or Leasing Low-Greenhouse Gas (GHG)-Emitting Vehicles.

- (i) The Responsible Agency Elements (RAE) shall not purchase, lease, or acquire a sedan, light duty (LD) vehicle, or medium duty (MD) passenger vehicle unless it is a low-GHG-emitting vehicle, as defined by the Environmental Protection Agency. (Refer to Paragraph (e)(9) for the definition of a low-GHG-emitting vehicle.)
- (ii) Waiving the Purchase or Lease of a Low Greenhouse Gas Emitting Vehicle. The RAE may acquire a vehicle, that is not a Low-GHG Emitting Vehicle, only if, in advance of the acquisition, the Director of Global Operations, or designee, issues a written certification in compliance with 42 U.S.C. § 13212\(f\)\(2\)\(B\).
- (iii) Special purpose vehicles whose function would prohibit the use of small, energy efficient, Alternative Fuel Vehicle (AFV), or low-GHG-emitting powertrains shall be exempt. Such vehicles include but are not limited to armored vehicles managed by the Agency's Office of Security (BBG/SEC).

(3) Beginning with FY 2013, the Agency will start transitioning its current fleet of motor vehicles operating on petroleum products (gasoline and diesel fuel) to a fleet of motor vehicles that is smaller, is more efficient, emits less GHG, and operates primarily on alternative fuels. In order to achieve this transition, all the following actions will be taken by the RAEs:

(i) The RAEs will not increase the total number of motor vehicles currently in their fleets without approval from the Director of Global Operations; and will reduce the total number of vehicles in their fleets whenever possible;

(ii) Due to the costs involved in converting the Agency's fleet, the RAEs will use normal attrition in accomplishing this transition;

(iii) An RAE shall only use the appropriate alternative fuel (e.g. E-85 [85% ethanol] or B20 fuel [20% bio-diesel]) to fuel any Agency purchased or leased flex-fuel vehicle, i.e. a vehicle that can operate using either petroleum products or an alternative fuel;

(iv) Purchasing or Leasing Motor Vehicles for Domestic Operations.

(A) Sedans, LD Motor Vehicles, and MD Passenger Vehicles. When a sedan, LD vehicle, or MD passenger vehicle operating on petroleum products becomes eligible for replacement, it will be replaced with a sedan, LD motor vehicles or MD passenger vehicle operating on alternative fuels.

(1) An RAE will only procure flex-fuel vehicles when the E-85 or B20 fuel is readily available in the vehicle's area of operation. In those areas with limited E-85 or B20 sources, hybrid vehicles will be leased or purchased.

(2) An alternative fuel is reasonably available if it can be obtained within a 15-minute drive or within 5 miles (one way) from the vehicle's garaged location, and the alternative fuel costs the same or less per gallon as the gasoline at the same station.

(B) MD Trucks and Heavy Duty (HD) Motor Vehicles. The vehicle selected by a RAE must be as small and energy efficient as possible while still meeting mission requirements. If the selected vehicle type has an alternative fuel version, AFV must be purchased.

(v) Procuring Motor Vehicles for Overseas Operations.

(A) Where the overseas infrastructure can support vehicles operating on alternative fuels, sedans, LD motor vehicles, and MD passenger vehicles operating in these areas will convert to AFVs at the time of replacement, if suitable AFVs are available and maintainable locally. If the infrastructure cannot support AFVs, the types of vehicles selected as replacements are to be as small and energy efficient as possible while still meeting mission requirements.

(B) MD trucks and HD motor vehicles also must be as small and energy efficient as possible while still meeting mission requirements. If the selected vehicle has an alternative fuel version, the AFV must be purchased.

(4) The Agency shall, as a whole, reduce the Agency's annual use of petroleum products by:

(i) 20%, relative to petroleum products the Agency used in fiscal year 2005, by the end of fiscal year 2015;

(ii) 30%, relative to petroleum products the Agency used in fiscal year 2005, by the end of fiscal year 2020; and

(iii) a minimum of 2%, relative to petroleum products the Agency used in fiscal year 2005, for each fiscal year until the end of fiscal year 2020.

(5) The Agency shall, as a whole, increase the Agency's annual use of alternative fuel by:

(i) 10% relative to the Alternative Fuel the Agency used in fiscal year 2005, by the end of fiscal year 2015; and

(ii) 10% over the previous fiscal year, compounding, until 2020.

(6) The Agency shall report on its motor vehicles, as required, to the Office of Management and Budget, the General Services Administration, and the Department of Energy. (Refer to Paragraph (d)(3) for additional information.)

(d) PROCEDURES AND PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES:

(1) Primary Responsibilities.

(i) The Director of Global Operations, or his/her designee, must approve the following before any of these changes can take place:

(A) Increasing the number of motor vehicles currently assigned to an RAE;

(B) Purchasing or leasing domestically a new non-AFV when a suitable AFV is available;

(C) Purchasing or leasing domestically a new non-low-GHG-emitting vehicle; and

(D) Replacing a motor vehicle before it meets the minimum replacement requirements in paragraph (d)(4)(iii).

(ii) The Head of each RAE, or his/her designee, is responsible for:

(A) Transitioning the RAE's portion of the Agency's fleet from a fleet of motor vehicles operating on petroleum products to a fleet of motor vehicles that is smaller, is more efficient, emits less greenhouse-gas, and operates primarily on alternative fuels;

- (B) Maintaining, budgeting for all expenses related to, and controlling use of motor vehicles that the RAE purchases or leases;
  - (C) Ensuring all motor vehicles are properly accounted for per agency guidelines, to include compliance with BAM Title IV, Chapter 710;
  - (D) Ensuring the RAE's compliance with energy management and environmental programs outlined in Paragraph (b)(1), entitled Authority & Scope, as they apply to motor vehicles;
  - (E) Ensuring that the RAE does not increase the total number of motor vehicles under its control without prior approval from the Director of Global Operations, or his/her designee;
  - (F) Reducing the total number of vehicles under the RAE's control whenever possible;
  - (G) Ensuring that the RAE purchases or leases its motor vehicles in accordance with the procedures found in this policy;
  - (H) Providing T/EOS/N with information and data required to complete the Agency's reporting requirements to outside agencies in a timely manner (Refer to Paragraph (d)(3) for additional information.);
  - (I) Monitoring the RAE's fuel consumption and vehicle use;
  - (J) Taking appropriate action to reduce the RAE's use of petroleum products, and increase its use of alternative fuels, according to the goals established by the Agency (Refer to Paragraphs (c)(4)-(5) for additional information.);
  - (K) Developing a scheduled maintenance program, in accordance with Federal Management Regulation 102-34.285 (Refer to Paragraph (d)(6)(ii) for additional information.);
  - (L) Establishing a program for controlling and documenting the use of its portion of the Agency's Fleet on a daily, monthly, and annual basis (Refer to Paragraph (d)(6)(i) for additional information on reporting requirements.);
  - (M) Ensuring that RAE's overseas locations comply with 14 FAM, Logistics Management, and 14 FAH-1, H-800, Use and Control of Official Vehicles at Posts, which provide guidance on controlling motor vehicles and documenting their use; and
  - (N) Conducting an annual review of the RAE's motor vehicles (Refer to Paragraph (d)(2) for additional information.).
- (iii) Contracting Officer. All motor vehicles being leased or purchased by the Agency for use domestically shall be procured by Contracting Officers in the IBB Office of Contracts or in OCB. The Contracting Officer shall be responsible for reviewing requests to procure motor vehicles (including RAE recommendations regarding which type of vehicle to procure), consulting with T/EOS/N regarding which vehicle to procure (see paragraph (d)(1)(v) below), procuring a vehicle that complies with the policies established in this document, determining whether to lease or purchase the vehicle, and determining the source from which the Agency will procure the vehicle. The source for motor vehicles will be the General Services Administration (GSA), unless GSA cannot provide the vehicle required, or a suitable substitute. Additionally, the Contracting Officer should ensure vehicles are procured using the correct Budget Object Code (BOC) for capitalized property.

(iv) Local Warranted Contracting Officer. With Head of RAE approval, a Local Warranted Contracting Officer will lease or purchase motor vehicles at Agency duty stations outside of the United States, such as transmitting stations or foreign correspondent offices. The lease or purchase must be made within the scope of the Local Warranted Contracting Officer's procurement authority, in accordance with all applicable laws, regulations, policies and Agency procedures to include ensuring that the vehicle selected is in compliance with the policies established in this document.

(v) T/EOS/N is responsible for advising RAEs, Contracting Officers, and Local Warranted Contracting Officers regarding which motor vehicles meet the requirements of this policy and the authorities in paragraph (b)(1) above.

(vi) T/EOS/N is responsible for reporting on the Agency's fleet inventory, fleet management, and compliance with Federal environmental programs to other Federal Agencies.

(vii) BBG/SEC: All armored vehicles shall be coordinated through and comply with the policies and procedures contained within the Agency's Office of Security Armored Vehicle Program Resource.

(2) Annual Review of Motor Vehicle Requirements.

(i) The goal for this review is to determine the minimum number and types of motor vehicles that the RAE needs to accomplish its mission, keeping in mind the need to transition from the current mix of motor vehicles to a fleet of motor vehicles that is smaller, more efficient, less GHG-emitting, and operates primarily on alternative fuels. To accomplish this goal, the Head of each RAE, or designee, will annually review the RAE's motor vehicles to ensure that each motor vehicle is still required, is the right type of vehicle for the mission assigned, and that the mix of motor vehicles used at his or her domestic and overseas locations supports the goal of maintaining a fleet of smaller, more efficient, less GHG-emitting vehicles that operate primarily on alternative fuels. This review also shall include:

(A) Determining if the requirements for each vehicle warrant maintaining a full-time vehicle or if the vehicle needs can be met through the use of "shared fleet-on-demand services" such as the use of public transportation or short-term rentals;

(B) Identifying vehicles that are no longer required and processing them for disposal; and

(C) Identifying vehicles that need to be replaced during the next three fiscal years, and the type and size of vehicle required as a replacement. If the vehicle being replaced is a sedan, LD vehicle, or a MD passenger vehicle operating domestically, the replacement vehicle must be an AFV. Otherwise, the replacement must be as small and energy efficient as possible while still meeting mission requirements.

(ii) The RAE shall report information from this review to T/EOS/N by October 15th each year.

(3) Reporting Requirements.

(i) Annual Report: The Agency must report on its motor vehicles annually to the Office of Management and Budget, GSA, and the Department of Energy. The Agency must report on information from an entire fiscal year, i.e. from October 1st to the following September 30th. The annual report captures usage and cost information for each motor vehicle for the fiscal year ending on September 30th, as well as, information on planned motor vehicle acquisitions and disposals for the next three fiscal years. T/EOS/N is responsible for consolidating the information received from all elements of the Agency, obtaining relevant clearances from within the Agency, and reporting information on Agency motor vehicles to other Federal agencies. Accordingly, all RAEs must provide their usage, cost, and planned acquisition and disposal information to the BBG Property Management Office by e-mail (property\_help@bbg.gov), no later than October 15th each year. Refer to Attachment A for the information required, format, and instructions on reporting the necessary information.

(ii) Planning Documents: T/EOS/N also is responsible for consolidating information received from all elements of the Agency, and using this information to develop plans (Vehicle Allocation Methodology [VAM], fleet management plans, optimal fleet inventories, etc.) for the whole Agency, and reporting on these plans to other Federal agencies. Since the type of information and reporting timeframes can vary, RAE's will be sent a request for information outlining the information that is needed, and providing a suspense date. All RAE's must provide this information by the date requested.

(4) Procuring Replacement or Additional Vehicles.

(i) Authority to Procure an Additional Vehicle. The Director of Global Operations, or designee, must approve increasing the number of motor vehicles currently assigned to an RAE. This requirement applies to both domestic and overseas locations.

(ii) Authority to Procure a Replacement Vehicle.

(A) The Head of each RAE may approve replacing a motor vehicle, as long as the replacement vehicle meets the criteria established in this document.

(B) The Director of Global Operations, or designee, must approve the procurement of the replacement vehicle if the RAE is:

(1) Replacing an old sedan, LD motor vehicle, or a MD passenger vehicle domestically with a non-AFV, when a suitable AFV is available in the class of vehicle being purchased or leased;

(2) Replacing an old sedan, LD motor vehicle, or a MD passenger vehicle domestically with a non-low GHG-emitting vehicle; and

(3) Replacing a motor vehicle that is less than seven years old or has been driven less than 80,000 miles. (Refer to Paragraph (d)(4)(iii) for additional information.)

(iii) Replacement Criteria - Minimum Time and Use Requirements. The Agency will not replace a motor vehicle before it has been in use for seven years, or has been driven for 80,000 miles. Since most vehicles can be economically maintained for longer periods, the Agency will not replace a motor vehicle that it owns until the Head of a RAE, or designee, determines that the motor vehicle is no longer economical to repair or maintain. For planning purposes, a vehicle is economically repairable as long as the cost to repair is less than 60% of the current value of the vehicle. Leased vehicles may be replaced at the end of the lease period.

(iv) Waiving the Replacement Criteria - Minimum Time and Use Requirements. The Director of Global Operations, or designee, may waive the seven years or 80,000 mile requirement, if he or she receives a request from an RAE with attached, documented evidence (e.g. a quote for repairs) of operational problems (e.g. very high operating costs, local operating conditions, safety issues, security issues, etc.) that the Director of Global Operations determines warrants early replacement of the vehicle.

(v) Selecting a Motor Vehicle.

(A) The Agency shall purchase, lease, or acquire low-GHG-emitting vehicles, as defined by the Environmental Protection Agency. (See Section (e)(9) below, EPA's Green Vehicle Guide, and Regulations & Standards for Federal Fleets for additional information.)

(B) Each RAE is responsible for recommending to the relevant Contracting Officer a type of vehicle, as well as recommending whether the new vehicle should be purchased or leased, based on what the RAE believes would result in the best value for the Government. However, after consultation with T/EOS/N, the Contracting Officer is responsible for the final determination on the type of vehicle the Agency will procure, the source from which the Agency will procure the vehicle, and whether to lease or purchase the vehicle based on the Contracting Officer's independent judgment. The following rules govern motor vehicle selection:

(1) Limitation on Upgrades. The Agency will only lease or purchase a motor vehicle with the minimal upgrades (e.g. automatic transmissions, air conditioning, and trailer hitches) necessary to meet mission requirements or environmental conditions. Under no circumstances are RAEs authorized to lease or purchase vehicles with leather seats, upgraded audio (radio/CD) systems, special wheels, sports-type packages, or luxury-type packages.

(2) Procuring a Vehicle for Use Domestically.

(i) Sedans, LD Motor Vehicles and MD Passenger. The vehicle purchased or leased must meet the criteria established in Paragraph (c)(3)(iv)(B) above.

(ii) Medium-Duty and Heavy Duty Motor Vehicles. The vehicle purchased or leased must meet the criteria established in Paragraph (c)(3)(iv)(C).

(iii) For future consideration, per Executive Order 13423, Section 2, Paragraph (g), Item (iii), the Agency shall use Plug-In-Hybrid Vehicles domestically, when they are commercially available at a life-cycle-cost comparable to Non-Plug-In-Hybrids.

(3) Procuring a Vehicle for Use Overseas.

(i) The Head of the RAE shall approve in advance the lease or purchase of a vehicle by an overseas element.

(ii) The vehicle purchased or leased must meet the criteria established in Paragraph (c)(3)(v)(A)-(B).

(iii) Lease or Purchase of a Foreign Manufactured Motor Vehicle. A Local Warranted Contracting Officer at an overseas office or transmitting station may lease or purchase a foreign-manufactured vehicle when it is advantageous to the site's mission. When deciding whether to procure a foreign-manufactured vehicle, the Local Warranted Contracting Officer must consider: local operating conditions, safety concerns, availability of parts and service, and/or overall cost considerations, and/or a requirement to use right-hand drive vehicles.

(iv) Acquiring Foreign AFV. A Local Warranted Contracting Officer, stationed outside of the United States, must also acquire AFV when purchasing or leasing a sedan, LD motor vehicle or MD passenger vehicle according to the same guidelines that apply to the Agency's Domestic Fleet, as described above, unless the Local Warranted Contracting Officer determines:

1. AFV are not available at his or her duty station;
2. Alternative fuel is not available within five (5) miles of his or her duty station; or

3. He or she would not be able to maintain an AFV at his or her duty station because parts or maintenance services for AFV are not available locally.

(5) Receiving and Accounting for Motor Vehicles.

(i) Upon receipt of a leased or purchased motor vehicle, the receiving element's accountable officer, in coordination with the element's property control officer, will:

(A) Create a property record for the motor vehicle in the Property Inventory Processing System (PIPS).

(B) Notify the BBG Property Management Office by e-mail (property\_help@bbg.gov) so that the vehicle can be added to the Agency's capitalized property report. The information on the e-mail shall include:

- (1) Whether the Agency Purchased or Leased the vehicle
- (2) Barcode Number
- (3) Make and Model
- (4) Model Year
- (5) Vehicle Identification Number (VIN)
- (6) Type of Vehicle (sedan, pickup, SUV, etc.)
- (7) Type of Drive Train (4x2 or 4x4)
- (8) Number of seatbelts (i.e. passenger capacity)
- (9) Gross Vehicle Weight Rating (GVWR) in pounds
- (10) Type of Fuel (Diesel, Gasoline, E-85, B20, etc.)
- (11) Acquisition Cost or Lease Cost
- (12) Date Vehicle Received
- (13) License Plate (TAG) Number
- (14) Documentation: Attach to the e-mail a copy of the following documentation and please ensure that the documentation shows the vehicle's make, model, model year, license plate number, and VIN number.
  - (i) Purchase or lease document
  - (ii) Dealer's invoice to support the acquisition cost or the cost of the lease

(6) Use, Control, and Maintenance of the Agency's Fleet.

(i) Each RAE shall establish a program for controlling and documenting the use of its portion of the Agency's Fleet on a daily, monthly, and annual basis. Refer to Paragraph (d)(3) and Attachment A for the information required to complete the annual report on motor vehicles.

(ii) Each RAE shall develop a scheduled maintenance program for each motor vehicle it owns or leases, in accordance with Federal Management Regulation 102-34.285. This requirement applies to motor vehicles operated domestically and overseas. The scheduled maintenance program must:

(A) Meet Federal, State, and local emission and safety standards;

(B) Meet manufacturer warranty requirements;

(C) Ensure the safe and economical operating condition of the motor vehicle throughout its life; and

(D) Ensure that inspections and servicing occur as recommended by the manufacturer or more often if local operating conditions require.”

(iii) Each of the RAE's overseas locations must also comply with 14 FAM, Logistics Management, and 14 FAH-1, H-800, Use and Control of Official Vehicles at Posts, which provide guidance on controlling motor vehicles and documenting their use.

(7) Disposing of Vehicles.

(i) When a vehicle is identified for disposal or is excess to the RAE's needs, the accountable officer responsible for the motor vehicle in coordination with the RAE's property control officer will notify the BBG Property Management Office by e-mail (property\_help@bbg.gov) and will request disposition instructions. When reporting a vehicle, the e-mail shall contain the following information:

(A) Type of Vehicle (sedan, pickup, SUV, etc.)

(B) Make and Model

(C) Model Year

(D) Vehicle Identification Number (VIN)

(E) Barcode Number

(F) Brief description of the condition of the vehicle

(G) The number of years the vehicle was in use

(H) Mileage

(I) Location of the Vehicle

(J) Justification for Disposing of the Vehicle

(K) Proposed Method of Disposal

(L) For vehicles located outside of the United States - Statement on whether or not the ICASS agreement with the embassy provides for property disposal support because this will affect the type of disposal actions that can be authorized.

(ii) If the BBG Property Management Office approves the RAEs request to dispose of a vehicle, the Property Management Office will provide the RAE with disposition instructions.

(iii) If the RAE disposes of the vehicle itself, then the element's accountable officer, in coordination with the element's property control officer, will do the following after they dispose of the vehicle:

(A) Update the property record in PIPS.

(B) Notify the BBG Property Management Office by e-mail (property\_help@bbg.gov) so that the vehicle can be deleted from the Agency's capitalized property report. The e-mail should include:

(1) Vehicle's Make and Model

(2) Vehicle Identification Number (VIN)

(3) Barcode Number

(4) Date of Disposal

(5) Method of Disposal

(e) DEFINITIONS:

(1) Fleet means all motor vehicles that the Agency owns, or leases, for a period greater than one month.

(8) Low-Greenhouse Gas Emitting Vehicles. The EPA issues annual guidance on which vehicles are Low-Greenhouse Gas (GHG)-Emitting Vehicles. For motor vehicles with model year 2012 and earlier, Low-GHG Emitting Vehicles are defined by vehicle size and GHG Score. See EPA's Green Vehicle Guide for additional information. For motor vehicles with model year 2013 and beyond, Low-GHG Emitting Vehicles are defined by vehicle size and grams of carbon-dioxide the vehicle emits per mile. Section 810

USE OF LOCAL TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

811 COVERAGE - Employees engaged in official business in the metropolitan area of their official duty station may use local transportation facilities at Government expense, "Metropolitan area" is defined as not exceeding 25 miles from the corporate limits of the city in which the official duty station is located. Dulles International Airport is considered in the "metropolitan area of Washington, D.C." for this purpose.

812 PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

812.1 General - Public transportation such as Metrorail and buses should be used for official travel within the Metropolitan area, and employees are urged to use these modes whenever time and circumstances permit.

812.2 Obtaining Supplies of Tokens, Tickets, and Farecards -

To obtain Metro tokens, tickets, or farecards, submit a requisition bearing an authorized signature (see MOA II-494) to the Office of Administration. The items will be delivered to the requesting offices for issuance to individual users.

812.3 Issuance of Tokens, Tickets, and Farecards - Employees obtain tokens, tickets, and farecards for official local transportation from administrative officers or other authorized employees. Tokens, tickets, and farecards are issued on a trip basis.

812.4 Maintenance of Records - Record of Tokens Received and Issued is provided to enable each issuing office to record the number of tokens, tickets, and farecards received and issued and to reflect the number on hand at all times. A separate form must be used for each type. The form also provides for the signature of the person to whom the tokens, tickets, and farecards were issued and his or her destination. When requesting tokens, tickets, and farecards, each office will submit with its requisition a copy of the form used bearing the signature of the person responsible for their issuance as certification that the record is accurate.

812.5 Audit - Periodically, the files on the use of farecards, etc. will be audited. Issuing offices, will retain Forms in their files for a minimum of two years for possible GAO and internal audit.

812.6 Cash Payment for Public Transportation - When it is not possible for an employee to obtain tokens, tickets, and/or farecards as provided in paragraph 812.3 above, reimbursement may be made for official travel on SF-1164, Claim for Reimbursement for Expenditures on Official Business. The SF-1164 is completed, approved, and submitted to a cashier for payment in the same manner as prescribed for taxicabs. See generally MOA IV-813.3a, 813.3b(1), 813.4a, and 813.5.

813 TAXICABS AND PRIVATELY OWNED AUTOMOBILES AT PERMANENT POST OF DUTY

813.1 Use of Taxicabs

a. Reimbursement - Reimbursement for use of taxicabs, when allowable, will be made when charges are properly vouchered and approved in accordance with the succeeding paragraphs. Reimbursement is limited to the actual fares paid, not exceeding the usual rates. In addition, tips to drivers will be reimbursed, when actually paid, not exceeding 15 cents where the fare is $1 or less, or 15% of the fare where the fare exceeds $1. If the amount of the tip, computed at 15 percent, is not a multiple of 5, it may be increased to the next multiple of 5.

b. Between Places Where Official Business Is Transacted -Taxicabs may be used only when advantageous to the Government and the expense of the taxicabs is justified by official needs that cannot be met through the use of public transportation. A taxicab should not be used for a trip of less than six blocks (each way) except for reasons of physical incapacity, seriously inclement weather, or when transporting official materials too cumbersome to carry. In each such case of use, the claimant must state the reason on the voucher. Also, reimbursement for use of a taxicab for a trip of less than six blocks (each way) may be allowed if the officer administratively approving the voucher certifies on the voucher for each such use that time or official security factors were sufficiently critical to warrant the use of a taxicab.

c. Between Home and Office in Case of Necessity

(1) Basic Rule - The basic rule is that an employee is personally responsible for the cost of transportation between his or her home and place of duty.

(2) Employee Dependent on Public Transportation - Overtime Work - Reimbursement for taxi fare between office and home may be allowed in cases where the following conditions apply:

- (a) the employee working the overtime is dependent on public transportation and without alternative transportation; and
- (b) travel time is during hours of infrequently scheduled public transportation or darkness.

"Infrequently scheduled public transportation" does not mean that public transportation is not as readily available as at the height of rush hour. The determination involves such factors as risk of harm, and unusual and lengthy delays because of curtailment of service. "Darkness" connotes late evening hours when few people are using public transportation. Darkness is not a valid condition when solely based on early evening hours when much of the employed population is commuting from work.

(3) Unusual Nature of Assignment-- Overtime Work - Reimbursement for taxicabs between the place where official business is transacted and home for travel incident to officially ordered work outside an employee's regular working hours performed on a "call-back" basis or on a regular non-work day may be allowed in such rare situations where the use of taxicabs is demonstrably necessary to successfully perform the particular assignment. Such reimbursement is limited to taxicab use immediately proceeding and/or following the officially ordered overtime, and is allowable only when the employee and the officer ordering the overtime could not reasonably have taken action to preclude the necessity for use of taxicabs.

813.2 Use of Privately Owned Automobile -

a. Reimbursement - Reimbursement for use of privately owned automobile, when allowable, will be made when expenses are properly vouchered and approved in accordance with the succeeding paragraphs. Please contact your administrative officer for current mileage rate reimbursement. An Employee will, in addition, be reimbursed for the necessary cost of parking fees, ferry fares, and bridge, road, and tunnel tolls, unless administrative determination restricts their allowance. Employees are expected to exercise prudence and avoid such charges or keep them to a minimum.

b. Between Places Where Official Business Is Transacted -Privately owned automobile may be used only when advantageous to the Government and the expense of such means of travel is justified by official needs that cannot be met through use of other means of transportation. Privately owned automobiles should not be used for trips of less than six blocks (each way) except for reasons of physical incapacity, seriously inclement weather, or when transporting materials too cumbersome to carry. In such case of use, the claimant must state the reason on the voucher. Also, reimbursement for use of a privately owned automobile for a trip of less than six blocks (each way) may be allowed if the officer administratively approving the voucher certifies on the voucher for each such use that time or official security factors were sufficiently critical to warrant the use of the automobile.

c. Between Home and Office in Case of Necessity

(1) Basic Rule - The basic rule is that an employee is personally responsible for the cost of transportation between his or her home and place of duty.

(2) Use of Personally Owned Automobile Determined Advantageous to the Government During Regular Hours of Duty and/or Overtime Hours Immediately Preceding and/or Following Regular Hours - When it is determined advantageous to the Government for the employee to have his or her privately owned automobile available during the working day for use for travel between places where official business will be transacted, reimbursement will not be allowed between the employee's home and the places where official business is transacted. However, ferry fares, and bridge, road and tunnel tolls between such points will be allowed if they would not normally be incurred in driving to and from the employee's regular headquarters building, unless administrative determination restricts their allowance. Parking fees, when necessarily incurred, will be allowed at all places where official business is transacted, including parking fees incurred incident to duty at the employee's regular headquarters building.

When an employee pays for parking incident to duty at his or her regular headquarters building on a monthly basis, he or she may be reimbursed for those days during which the automobile is used for official travel on a prorated basis to be based on the number of days of actual rental period. Under no circumstances are parking fees allowable incident to duty at headquarters building if the automobile is not used as advantageous to the Government on official business to another place or places of duty during the day.

(3) Unusual Nature of Assignment - Reimbursement for use of privately owned automobile between place or places where official business is transacted and home in connection with overtime work not immediately preceding or following regular working hours (including overtime work on a regular non-work day) may be allowed in such rare situations where the use of a privately owned automobile is demonstrably necessary to successfully perform the particular overtime assignment. Reimbursement for use of private automobile is not authorized, however, when used as transportation in lieu of public transportation in such overtime situations for the convenience of the employee. Reimbursement may include mileage to and from home and all fees necessarily incurred listed in paragraph 813.2a above. Reimbursement is allowable only when the employee and the office ordering the overtime could not reasonably have taken action to preclude the necessity for use of the privately owned automobile.

813.3 Preparing Vouchers for Reimbursement

a. Form and Frequency of Filing Vouchers - Vouchers for reimbursement of expenditures for use of taxicabs and privately owned automobiles are prepared in original only by typewriter or pen and ink on SF-1164, Claim for Reimbursement for Expenditures on Official Business. Vouchers may be prepared as frequently as necessary, but preferably not more than once a week for those employees whose duties require recurring trips. However, vouchers should be submitted not later than one month after the expense has been incurred.

b. Data To Be Shown

(1) All Vouchers - Enter the name of the Organization, name and organizational symbol of the claimant, and office address of the claimant. For each trip, enter date, origin and destination, and the amount claimed. Specify the purpose of each trip on the line (or lines) immediately following the entry for the trip; general statements such as "Official Business" or "To attend meeting" are not adequate. In the case of use of taxicabs, show the amounts of the fare and tip separately. In the case of use of privately owned automobile, enter the speedometer readings at the beginning and end of each trip, total miles, and mileage claimed; also itemize and enter the amount of each parking fee and other allowable fees (par. 813.2). If travel is less than six blocks (each way), state reason why taxicab or use of privately owned automobile was necessary (pars. 813.1b and 813.2b). Enter totals of each column and grand total. The claimant dates and signs the SF-1164 in ink in the space provided.

(2) Additional Data To Be Shown on Vouchers for Taxicabs Between Place of Duty and Home--Overtime Work. If claim is made for taxicab fares under provisions of paragraph 813.1c(2) or (3) above, itemize in connection with each claimed trip the conditions set forth in that paragraph and make the following affirmative statement that such conditions were met. "Travel performed by the claimant met the requirements of MOA IV-813.1c(2)'br(3) as appropriate). Allow space before the next entry for a special approving officer (par. 813.4b below) to indicate his or her approval or disapproval and signature. If claim is made for taxicab fares under provisions of paragraph 813.1c (3) above, enter for each claimed trip the reason why use of a taxicab was necessary to successfully perform the assignment.

General statements such as "Time element" or "For security reasons" are not satisfactory; be specific. Allow space before the next entry for a special approving officer (par. 813.4b below) to indicate his or her approval and signature.

(3) Additional Data To Be Shown on Vouchers Involving Use of Privately Owned Automobile Between Place of Duty and Home - Where claim is made for parking incident to duty at regular headquarters building under provisions of paragraph 813.2c(2) above, the mere fact that claims may be made for use of the automobile on that day for travel between places of duty is not sufficient to support the charge. Enter for each such parking fee claimed an affirmative statement that use of the privately owned automobile was advantageous to the Government. If the amount claimed is computed on a prorated basis, enter computation. Allow space before the next entry for a special approving officer (par. 813.4b below) to indicate his or her approval and signature. When claim is made for mileage and allowable fees under provisions of paragraph 813.2c(3) above, enter for each claimed use of the automobile, why use of the automobile was necessary to perform the assignment. General statements such as "Time element" or "Need for mobility" are not satisfactory. Be specific. Allow space before the next entry for a special approving officer (par. 813.4b below) to indicate his or her approval and signature.

813.4 Administratively Approving Vouchers

a. All Vouchers - All vouchers must be approved by the claimant's supervisor or comparable official. However, if the claimant is a Division Chief or higher ranking official, or a person serving in such position on an acting basis, or if an claimant's supervisor or comparable official is not located in the headquarters city involved, the claimant may sign the SF-1164 as both claimant and as approving official.

b. Additional Approval on Vouchers Involving Charges for Travel Between Place of Official Duty and Home - In order to establish stringent administrative controls as directed by the Federal Travel Regulations and decisions of the Comptroller General of the United States, specific explanation for each claim involving travel between place of official duty and home must be included by the claimant on his or her voucher as set forth in pertinent paragraphs above. Each claim must be reviewed and approved by an official who occupies one of the positions below before reimbursement will be made. The approving officer must consider each claim separately in the letter and spirit of these regulations and approve only those cases that are fully justified.

List of Positions

Director Element Directors Assistants to the Director General Counsel

813.5 Paying Vouchers -

a. Means of Payment - After all required approval have been obtained, the voucher is submitted to the appropriate cashier for payment (MOA VII-710.)

b. Acknowledgment of Payment - When payment is made by a cashier to the claimant, the claimant signs in the "Paid in Cash" block in the lower portion of SF-1164. When payment is made to a person other than the claimant, the person actually receiving the cash signs in the "Paid in Cash" block.

c. Refusal by Cashier To Pay Claim or Disallowance by Authorized Certifying Officer After Payment - The Cashier is authorized to refuse payment of a claim if the form is not properly prepared or signed, or if for any other reason he or she does not consider the claim to be proper. Any claim paid by a cashier that is subsequently disapproved by the authorized certifying officer in the Office of Comptroller Services, will be returned to the cashier for adjustment. The cashier will arrange for the necessary correction on the claim or obtain a refund from the claimant as appropriate. Failure to receive the refund within a reasonable time will be reported by the cashier to his or her supervisor for further necessary action.

814 GOVERNMENT-OWNED VEHICLES

814.1 Delegation of Authority - Authority is delegated to the Director, Office of Administration to approve the use of Government-owned vehicles by employees engaged in field work in the United States. This approval includes the use of the vehicle for transportation between such places where the employee's presence is required incident to official business, between such places and places of temporary lodging, and, when public transportation is unavailable or its use is impractical, between either of the above places and places necessary to obtain suitable meals, and to drugstores, places of worship, cleaning establishments, and similar places required for the sustenance, comfort, or health of the employee in order to foster the continued efficient performance of Government business.

814.2 Redelegations - This authority may be redelegated by the Director of Administration to other appropriate officials.

814.3 Government Driver's Identification Card - An employee need not have a Government driver's identification card in order to use Government-owned vehicles when he or she is away from his or her official station and would be authorized to use a commercial rental vehicle if a Government-owned vehicle were not available.

Section 830

BROADCASTING BOARD OF GOVERNORS
INTERNATIONAL BROADCASTING BUREAU POLICY FOR PURCHASING BUSINESS CARDS FOR AGENCY EMPLOYEES

831 PURPOSE

The purpose of this document is to establish the policy and procedures for the use of appropriated funds to purchase business cards for International Broadcasting Bureau (IBB) employees. It applies to all IBB employees worldwide and to the immediate staff and members of the Broadcasting Board of Governors (BBG).

832 BACKGROUND

Business cards have long been ruled by the General Accounting Office (GAO) to be a personal expense, thus employees had to purchase the cards themselves. The GAO has reversed this position in an official opinion which states that business cards may be a "necessary expense" for certain employees and thus, be purchased with appropriated funds.

The GAO decision relied heavily on a Department of Justice (DOJ) legal opinion which concluded that "an agency head may reasonably determine that the appropriate use of business cards by agency employees who deal with outside organizations will further the agency's statutory mission and therefore constitutes a proper expenditure from its general appropriations." The GAO decision agrees with the DOJ opinion on the application of the "necessary expense" doctrine to determine availability of appropriated funds to obtain business cards for government employees who regularly deal with the public or organizations outside of their agency.

833 POLICY OF THE IBB

To ensure prudent and consistent application of the GAO decision, the IBB Director has delegated the following senior managers the authority to and responsibility for evaluating and making the determination that a particular employee's official duties involve regular dealings with the public or organizations (federal or otherwise) outside the IBB:

The Executive Director of the BBG
The Director of the Voice of America,
The Director of the Office of Cuba Broadcasting,
The Director of Worldnet Television and Film Service,
The Comptroller,
The Associate Director for Program Support,
The Associate Director for Management, and The Director of Engineering and Technical Services.

These officials are authorized to approve business card applications/orders from those office directors within their respective purview, and to utilize for this purpose, appropriated funds within their respective budget allotments.

834 ELIGIBILITY FOR BUSINESS CARDS

Agency employees eligible for business cards are those employees listed on IBB's payroll on a permanent, term, or temporary appointment (longer than six months duration). It does not include any person detailed to or working at IBB who is on the payroll of another agency or company. It also does not include contractors or persons working under contract with the IBB as stringers or Purchase Order Vendors (POVs).

In general, interns, fellows, and those utilized in similar type positions employed by IBB are not eligible for business cards, but exceptions may be made dependent on the nature and duration of their assignments.

835 PROCEDURE FOR ORDERING CARDS

Requests for the purchase of business cards from appropriated funds should be submitted on the application/order form (Form Number Ibb 0001), through your immediate office/division head, to the appropriate official listed above for consideration. Approved requests should then be sent to your Administrative Officer for certification of availability of funding and to have necessary accounting data entered onto the application/order form. The funded application/order form should then be sent to the Facilities Management Division (M/AF), Office of Administration, ATTN: Printing and Reproduction Manager, Room G-074 Cohen.

Orders will be limited to 250 cards and will be purchased from The Lighthouse for the Blind, Inc. (a mandatory source unless IBB's requirements cannot be met). Current cost is $19.79 per 250 card order. Orders will be sent to the printer once per month. Funded orders received in the Facilities Management Division by the 5th of the month, will be sent to the printer within approximately 5 work days. Estimated delivery time is three weeks from the date the order is sent to the printer. Upon return from the printer, the printed cards will be inspected, and then delivered to the Administrative Officer who funded the order for distribution to the employee whose names are on the cards.

836 STANDARD BUSINESS CARD STYLES

In order to maintain uniformity in appearance and to hold costs to a minimum, IBB-funded business cards will be ordered in accordance with established style formats. It is IBB policy that only regular printed, non foil-embossed, one-color, one-sided cards, in blue or black ink be purchased with appropriated funds. Established style formats are attached to the application/order form. Applications/orders for business cards deviating from the established format will require approval from the IBB Associate Director for Management.

Upgraded Business Cards: Should an employee want to order an "upgraded" business card (i.e. printing on the reverse side of the card for a total card cost of $25.29 instead of $22.99), he/she may do so by supplementing appropriated funding with his/her personal funding. The employee will need to pay the full cost of the cards and then submit a reimbursement request only for the maximum allowable amount of $19.79 under this policy. We cannot process orders for upgraded cards using a mix of appropriated and employee personal funds. To request "upgraded" business cards, the card application/order form needs to be completed and approved in the same manner as described above, but NOT sent to your Administrative Officer for funding. Instead, the approved application/order form is to be submitted to Printing and Reproduction Manager in the Facilities Management Division along with your personal credit card account information. The business card printing order will be forwarded to The Lighthouse for the Blind for printing. Upon receiving the printed cards, employees should follow the standard procedures for petty cash reimbursement (submitting a claim for reimbursements with appropriate receipts) through his/her Administrative Officer to claim the $19.79 maximum reimbursement. Reimbursements will not be approved for any portion of the cost of cards printed by other than The Lighthouse for the Blind.

SEC. 639. Each Executive department and agency shall evaluate the creditworthiness of an individual before issuing the individual a government purchase charge card or government travel charge card. The department or agency may not issue a government purchase charge card or government travel charge card to an individual who either lacks a credit history or is found to have an unsatisfactory credit history as a result of this evaluation: Provided, that this restriction shall not preclude issuance of a restricted-use charge, debit, or stored value card made in accordance with agency procedures to: (1) an individual with an unsatisfactory credit history where such card is used to pay travel expenses and the agency determines there is no suitable alternative payment mechanism available before issuing the card; or (2) an individual who lacks a credit history. Appendix B of OMB Circular A-123 establishes standard requirements and practices for improving the management of government charge card programs.

865 PROCESS FOR ASSESSMENT OF CREDIT WORTHINESS

865.1 The Application Process - For Purchase and Travel Charge Card Applicants

- a. All employees requiring a purchase or travel charge card to carry out their official duties should contact the designated purchase or travel charge card Agency Program Coordinator (APC) in M/C (for purchase); M/A (for travel), or OCB (for travel). For the purposes of this Section, the term "charge card" includes travel cards and purchase cards.
- b. The APC will inform new card applicants of the need to obtain a credit worthiness assessment in addition to completing required application forms.
- c. The APC will contact the Security Office (M/S) to obtain the applicant's credit score (i.e., a Beacon numerical score from Equifax, Inc.).
- d. M/S will communicate the score results only to the officially designated APC or other officials having a need to know. Communication will be in a manner to protect the privacy of the applicant's credit information. M/S will obtain the credit score from the applicant's security file. M/S will request a credit score as part of the security process for all new Agency employees. The Security Office will maintain all scores.
- e. M/S will obtain a credit score from Equifax, Inc. for charge card applicants who either do not have a credit score in their security file or have a credit score more than twelve (12) months old. The APC will require the applicant to complete a credit release form. M/S will communicate the score results as noted in "d" above.
- f. The APC will complete the appropriate form to notify the applicant and the applicant's supervisor of the issuance of a standard or restricted card or the denial of a card to the applicant based on the applicant's credit score obtained from Equifax, Inc.

865.2 Alternative Credit Worthiness Assessment

- a. When 1) a credit score is unavailable or 2) the applicant refuses to sign a credit release form or 3) the applicant is a foreign national employee not having a credit history to produce a credit score, M/S will provide input of financial related information from the applicant's security file. Information for the alternative credit worthiness assessment consists of a review of the applicant's security form, SF-86, "Questionnaire for National Security Positions," maintained in the applicant's security file.

b. If the most recent SF-86 is more than 12 months old, the applicant will be required to complete a new SF-86 for further consideration of a Government charge card application.

c. M/S will provide financial related information found in the SF-86 to the appropriate Purchase or Travel Card APC or higher level charge card administrator as appropriate. The APC may consult with M/S regarding the risk analysis associated with the information provided. The APC or higher-level charge card administrator will consult with the applicant's supervisor to determine if the applicant has a satisfactory credit history in order to issue a charge card.

The APC or higher level charge card administrator, in consultation with the applicant's supervisor, has the primary lead responsibility for the final alternative credit worthiness assessment and is responsible for the effective and proper conduct of the Government charge card program.

d. If the applicant's supervisor does not agree with the APC's determination of credit worthiness for the applicant, the assessment of credit worthiness will be routed to the Associate Director for Management for a determination. Note : for Office of Cuba Broadcasting (OCB) charge card applicants, the assessment will be routed to OCB's Director of Administration for a determination. The APC will communicate the decision of its alternative assessment only to Agency officials having a need to know. Communication will be in a manner to protect the privacy of the applicant's personal financial information contained in security forms.

e. The APC will document the determination, in writing (form IBB-0090d), of the alternative credit worthiness assessment and provide the written determination to the appropriate officials including the applicant's supervisor.

f. Should the APC or Associate Director for Management (or the OCB Director of Administration for OCB charge card applicants) make an alternative credit worthiness assessment resulting in a determination of unsatisfactory credit history, the card applicant will be notified appropriately in writing (form IBB-0090c).

g. The APC shall file the written determination with the applicant's Government charge card application and maintain the file in accordance with the BBG's applicable system of records (forms IBB-0090e and IBB-0090f).

869 SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION FOR CHARGE CARD APPLICANTS - For additional information please see questions and answers below. Any questions regarding credit worthiness should be directed to the Purchase Card Program Coordinator in the Office of Contracts (M/C) or the Travel Card Program Coordinators in the Office of Administration (M/A) or at the Office of Cuba Broadcasting Administration Office (OCB/A) for OCB travel card applicants.

869.1 OFFICE OF PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITY FOR THIS MOA

The Office of Administration (M/A) and Office of Contracts (M/C) have primary responsibility for the periodic updating of this MOA.

CREDIT WORTHINESS POLICY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

1. Q: Who is subject to a credit worthiness assessment?

A: All new charge card applicants must be evaluated for credit worthiness prior to issuance of a government charge card. A current cardholder who leaves government service and then returns will be considered a new applicant for the purposes of credit worthiness requirements. A current cardholder changing Elements within BBG will not be considered a new applicant.

2. Q: How will credit worthiness be assessed?

A: The Agency's Security Office (M/S) will obtain a credit score for new applicants from Equifax, Inc. Next, M/S will provide the credit score to the appropriate APC (for the agency Travel Card Program or Purchase Card Program). The APC will compare the score to the minimum scores required for the type of charge card the applicant is applying for (travel card or purchase card) and the APC will determine the applicant's eligibility for a standard card or a restricted card or if the applicant will be denied a charge card.

3. Q: Is there a passing score?

A: The numerical score indicates the credit risk level associated with a specific credit applicant. First time applicants will receive a charge card with standard spending limits if the applicant has a credit score of 660 or higher. Credit scoring information is contained in Section 866 of this MOA. Information on how credit bureaus determine credit scores is available at www.myfico.com.

4. Q: What if my credit score is less than 660?

A: For the first time travel card applicant with a credit score of less than 660, BBG may issue a card, but more stringent restrictions will apply. For the first time purchase card applicant with a credit score between 500 and 660, the BBG may issue a card but more stringent restrictions will apply. BBG will not issue the purchase card to an applicant with a credit score lower than 500.

5. Q: What is the process if obtaining a credit score is not possible?

A: If obtaining a credit score is not possible (e.g., the applicant refuses to provide consent or does not have a credit history), the OMB policy allows agencies to issue a charge card with restrictions only after the Agency conducts an alternative credit worthiness assessment and determines that the applicant possesses a satisfactory credit history.

6. Q: In keeping with the Privacy Act, what are the record keeping requirements for credit scores?

A: The Office of Contracts (administering the Purchase Card) and the Administrative Operations Division and Office of Cuba Broadcasting (administering the Travel Card) will not keep your credit score. Only BBG's Security Office will maintain your credit score. Since the Security Office is obtaining the numerical credit score record, they are responsible for maintaining those records in accordance with the requirements of the Privacy Act.

7. Q: How will I be notified if my credit score is less than 660 required for the standard card?

A: The Office of Security will notify the Purchase or Travel Card Program Coordinator (APC) of an applicant's score. If the applicant's credit score is less than 660, the APC will notify both the charge card applicant and the applicant's supervisor of the applicant's eligibility for a restricted charge card or if the applicant has been denied.

8. Q: What is the purpose of the supervisor being notified?

A: The supervisor will need to be aware that the employee's ability to travel or make purchases may be affected.

9. Q: I received a restricted card or was denied a card. How can I get a copy of the credit report that triggered this?

A: If you are issued a restricted card, or are denied a card, you may request a free copy of your credit report by contacting Equifax Credit Information Services at (800) 685-1111. General credit scoring information is available on-line at www.equifax.com.

10. Q: When are re-evaluations of credit worthiness required?

A: A credit worthiness assessment must be conducted for restricted cardholders before the cardholder is issued a renewed card. The re-evaluation of credit worthiness may be conducted by obtaining a credit score or, at the BBG's discretion, may be made by reviewing the restricted cardholder's card usage during the initial period of card issuance, i.e., entire history prior to notification of card renewal.

11. Q: How often may a credit check be obtained?

A: Applicants who were denied a charge card due to the outcome of their numerical score or alternative credit worthiness assessment, can be re-evaluated at a time deemed most appropriate by the BBG. The applicant's credit worthiness will again be evaluated based on the requirements in this MOA.

12. Q: Are there any circumstances in which credit worthiness restrictions may be temporarily lifted?

A: Yes. The credit worthiness restrictions may be temporarily lifted at the discretion of the Agency Head or his or her designee, in order to ensure the safety of American citizens and/or property (e.g., during times of national emergency, contingency, peacekeeping, or humanitarian missions).

13. Q: Will my government charge card restrictions affect my credit?

A: If you receive a government travel charge card with restrictions, your restrictions will not be included in your credit report. Regarding travel cardholders, however, if your travel charge card is cancelled due to your delinquency, your delinquency may be reported as a bad debt.

14. Q: Will requesting a credit check affect my credit rating?

A: One credit inquiry will not significantly affect your credit rating.

ACQUIRING ADMINISTRATIVE PROPERTY, SUPPLIES, AND EQUIPMENT

931 SCOPE

This Section describes the ways and means by which overseas establishments acquire administrative property, supplies, and equipment. Also included are references to other parts of the MOA that cover similar information for program equipment and supplies.

932 POLICY

It is policy to purchase property, supplies, and equipment in the most economical manner consistent with operational and regulatory requirements.

Overseas establishments are encouraged to explore all sources of supply - U.S., local, and third country. For vehicles, see para 933.1 below, and for limitations on local and third country procurement of foreign end products see para 933.2 below).

933 LIMITATIONS ON PURCHASES

933.1 From Any Source, Foreign or Domestic - Prior approval from Washington is required for purchase of any type of motorized transportation regardless of country of manufacture.

933.2 Outside of the U.S.

a. The Balance of Payments Program restricts local or third country purchase of a foreign product or service costing more than $25,000 by requiring a determination based upon a comparison of the total cost of the foreign product with the estimated delivered cost of the comparable U.S. product, and by requiring approval as discussed in para. 933.2a (2) below.

(1) Cost Comparison - A foreign product may be procured only when the cost of the U.S. product (packing and shipping costs included) is greater than 150% of the foreign product's cost.

(2) Approvals

(a) Prior approval by the (Director, Office of Contracts ) is required before a foreign product can be purchased which meets the cost differential test explained in para. 933.2a(1) above.

b. Exceptions from the Balance of Payments Program include (1) any foreign product whose estimated cost is not more than $25,000 or (2) procurements using excess foreign currencies. See Department of State Acquisition Regulation (DOSAR 625.1 for additional details and other possible exceptions.)

934 ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPLIES, PROPERTY, AND EQUIPMENT

934.1 Supplies

a. Common Use Administrative Supplies - Office supplies such as pencils, pens, paper clips, lined pads, staplers, carbon paper, stationery envelopes etc., that are used by both Broadcasting and the Embassy should be furnished as needed by the Embassy. These common use supplies are funded under ICASS and not charged to GOE.

b. Other Administrative Office Supplies - primarily used by a Broadcasting establishment are funded from GOE and acquired through the Embassy GSO. Supplies may be purchased locally or through a third country when in compliance with paragraph 933.2 or DOSAR 6-6.8.

934.2 Property and Equipment

a. Procurement Through Embassy GSO

(1) Office Space - The purchase of office furniture, furnishings, equipment, generators and window or split unit air conditioners should be funded from GOE. If procurement is to be made in a local or third country, see para. 933.2 above. For vehicles see para. 933.1 above and IV-960

(2) Requests for service or assistance concerning equipment initially purchased through the Embassy GSO or directly from overseas distributors should be directed to those sources.

b. Procurement Through Washington

(1) - When circumstances prevent procurement through the Embassy GSO, submit requests with pertinent details and GOE fiscal data to Washington. Requests for office furniture, computer supplies (such as paper, labels, diskettes, printwheels, ribbons, disk packs, computer vacuums, and acoustical covers), and vehicles should be referred to the appropriate Washington element.

(2) - Requests for information processing equipment (word processors, mini-computers, CRT display terminals) should be referred to the Office of Computing Services. CIO approval is required for the purchase of information processing equipment whether purchased overseas or stateside.

c. Procurement by Broadcasting overseas establishments - Where it has been determined that the Broadcasting staff can more economically effect procurement operations (as opposed to ICASS charges for Administrative Support) purchases, from local, third country, U.S. (including GSA), may be authorized by the appropriate Washington element.

935 PROGRAM SUPPLIES AND EQUIPMENT

These items are usually procured through the appropriate Washington element or a control office.

951 PROCEDURES AND SCOPE

951.1 Applicability of Affairs Manual - The Foreign Affairs Manual (6 FAM 220 - 230, Personal Property Management ) concerning control, maintenance, and loss or damage of personal property applies to overseas establishments, except as modified or replaced in this Section and MOA IV 720 to accommodate Broadcasting's requirements on personal property management.

951.2 Scope - This Section applies to all overseas establishments. It covers accountability for all non-expendable personal property except certain expendable program materials retained or distributed in the course of operations.

See MOA IV-960 (Procurement and Inventory of Motor Vehicles) for regulations covering motor vehicles.

952 DEFINITIONS

952.1 Personal Property - Personal property is classified as either program property, administrative property, or vehicles. Classification of personal property items as expendable or nonexpendable will determine the appropriate procurement, disposal, and accountability procedures to be used.

a. Expendable Personal Property - Items which, when used or consumed, lose their identity, or normally become a component part of other property; and items with an expected useful life of less than two years.

b. Nonexpendable Personal Property - Individual items of personal property which are complete in themselves, do not lose their identity or become a component part of another item when put into use, have an expected useful life of two years or more, and have an acquisition cost of $1000 or more, or which are considered Sensitive (see 6 FAM 221.5).

Nonexpendable personal property is divided into Administrative and Program property. Administrative property includes all office and residential furniture, furnishings, household appliances, and standard office equipment. Program property is all Broadcasting-owned accountable property of a technical or specialized nature that is usually acquired to carry out a particular phase of an overseas location's program operation. Vehicles are considered program property.

c. Capitalized Personal Property - Nonexpendable personal property which has a useful life of two years or more and an item acquisition value of $5,000 or more. This property is recorded in the general ledger accounts.

d. Sensitive Property - Nonexpendable personal property that is controlled by detailed accountable property records, regardless of acquisition cost, because of its high probability of theft or misuse. Sensitive property is, by its nature, subject to theft or loss, or is difficult to differentiate from commonly used commercial items, and is therefore subject to more stringent controls. To record the condition and fix the responsibility for care by the custodians to whom this property is loaned it must be recorded on an item by item basis, regardless of purchase price.

Sensitive program property includes:

Weapons, typewriters, cameras & lenses, telecopiers, two-way radios, video recorders, portable test equipment, receiver/monitor, (TV sets) audio recorders, (excluding handheld or microcassette recorders) computer-related equipment such as minicomputer, CPUs, modems, hard disk drives, (not installed in CPUs, printers) repeaters/boosters, controllers, multipurpose controls, scanners, and plotters.

This list does not preclude control of other equipment. A manager may elect to designate as Sensitive and control items not included above, as a result of circumstances specific to an overseas establishment.

e. Expendable Personal Property - Items which, when used or consumed, lose their identity, or normally become a component part of other property; and items with an expected useful life of less than two years.

953 RESPONSIBILITIES

953.1 Heads of Overseas Establishments

a. The head of each overseas establishment is responsible for the control, preservation, and maintenance of non-expendable administrative and program property assigned to that particular establishment.

b. The head of the overseas establishment plans an orderly schedule of replacement for accountable property. He or she anticipates replacement of both types of property in the budget submission and reserves funds for this purpose in the General Operating Expense (GOE) allotment. Disposal of property is covered in paragraph 958 below.

c. Although the accountability and inventory control of property may be maintained by the administrative staff of the Embassy or Consulate as part of Administrative Support in the ICASS agreement, the head of the overseas establishment is technically the accountable property officer and should ensure that such functions are properly performed. This includes an accurate transfer of accountable property assets to a successor.

d. The head of an overseas establishment is the Accountable Officer for property assigned to the establishment. This responsibility may be delegated to the Executive Officer if the position exists. In large overseas establishments where there are officers responsible for a specific program and its property, an assistant Accountable Officer may be designated for that property.

953.2 Accountable Officers - The Accountable Officer and designated assistant Accountable Officers at each establishment are responsible for:

a. Custody, care, and safekeeping of all property for which they are accountable.

b. Maintaining property records.

c. Annual audits (physical inventories) of the overseas establishment's property assets.

d. An audit prior to the Station Manager's or Correspondent's departure from the overseas establishment; and audit upon arrival at an overseas establishment, to verify the inventory of accountable property.

e. Reporting accountable property that is unserviceable or no longer needed. See paragraph 958.4b for required disposal authorization.

f. Reporting to the Embassy Property Survey Board (see par. 957) all lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged property. The term "destroyed" does not include property authorized for destruction under the provisions of paragraph 958.5g. See 6 FAM 226.5.

g. Supervising the annual audit (physical inventory) of accountable property as necessary to verify the records.

953.3 Other Employees - Each employee is responsible for the proper use and protection of Government property in his/her custody, and is financially liable for loss or damage of such property if due to willful neglect, misuse, or carelessness. Except in emergencies threatening loss of life or property, or when otherwise authorized by law, property must not be used for any purpose other than in the performance of official duties. An employee will not appropriate for personal use any property that has been officially approved for abandonment or destruction unless specific permission is given in writing by an authorized official (also see par. 958.5d(2)b, Bids by U.S. Government Employees). Each employee to whom property is entrusted or assigned for official use is accountable for that property. As requested by Accountable Officers, employees will conduct or assist in conducting audits of property.

953.4 Property Survey Boards - Embassy or Consulate Boards of Survey, under administrative support ICASS agreements, may act for the head of an overseas establishment in investigating and fixing responsibility for property that is lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged (see par. 957). See 6 FAM 226.5-2. If the staff of American officers is sufficiently large to provide the three persons required, the Accountable Officer may convene a Board from Broadcasting personnel.

953.5 Control of Accountable Property -

a. Single Point of Contact - The Office of Administration is the issuing and receiving office for the annual property audit request, which includes all of the overseas establishment's accountable property items. The Office of Administration's responsibilities include: (1) insuring that the appropriate Washington element processes the update diskettes received for all accountable properties purchased or acquired overseas; (2) preparing the exceptions report of items listed in the previous audit but not found in the current year's audit; (3) distributing the report to the overseas establishment, the appropriate Washington element, and the Office of Inspector General; and (4) corresponds with Washington elements and overseas establishments as necessary to ensure accuracy of property records.

b. Control by Overseas Establishment

(1) Vehicles - are individually recorded when received or when title is otherwise acquired. For other details concerning vehicles see MOA IV 960. Vehicles are controlled by the appropriate Washington element and the Office of Administration.

(2) All Other Accountable Property - The Accountable Officer at each overseas establishment ensures the accuracy and timeliness of property records by designating an American officer or direct hire FSN to maintain the records, and to verify the location of property items by an audit no less than annually.

954 CONTROL OF EXPENDABLE PROPERTY OR SUPPLIES

954.1 Purpose - The head of each overseas establishment should determine whether records are necessary for expendable property or supplies. Expendable supply records may be useful when such supplies are stocked in quantities sufficient to justify control (more than 30 days' supply) or whenever cost of a particular expendable item justifies control. The records provide a running inventory for the item, permit establishing a reordering level timed for low-cost surface shipment, enable determination of proper excessive usage, and provide accurate information for reordering by name, part, model, stock number, etc. Proper stock control will prevent the unwarranted accumulation of large stocks of slow moving or obsolete items.

954.2 Methods of Control - Stock control cards are available for this purpose. Supply records are not required for cupboard stock used to meet immediate internal requirements, usually not to exceed a 30-day supply.

955 INVENTORY CONTROL OF ACCOUNTABLE PROPERTY

955.1 Coverage - All accountable property costing $1000 or more or considered Sensitive, regardless of the overseas location, is subject to inventory control. Property held by an overseas establishment under lease or loan must be controlled to ensure proper management and disposition of the property, and should be barcoded and included in inventory records for the duration of the loan or lease.

955.2 Marking Property

- a. Accountable Property will be identified by a barcode label.

955.3 Legal Requirements - Public Law 863 - 84th Congress requires that the accounts of Government agencies be maintained on an accrual basis to show the resources, liabilities, and costs of operations, and that agency accounting systems include adequate monetary property accounting records.

955.4 Procedures for Property Accountability -

- a. Heads of overseas establishments are Accountable Officers (AOs).
- b. Property management functions may be delegated, but the final responsibility is the head of an overseas establishment. Physical control of accountable property may be delegated to an American officer, but not to a Foreign Service National. However, administrative control may be delegated to a Foreign Service National.
- c. The Accountable Officer is responsible for all aspects of property management from receipt of an asset up to but not including disposal. The Accountable Officer must request authorization from the appropriate Property Control Office in Washington, for all deletions in fair condition or better, and for all proposed trade-ins.
- d. Before authorizing a disposal, the PCO will ensure that the asset is not needed at another Broadcasting location. Written authorization must be provided to the overseas installation, to be considered official.
- e. Overseas establishments must maintain all appropriate documentation concerning the status of accountable items for examination by OIG auditors for 6 years from data of disposals for items costing $25,000 or more, and for 3 years for items costing under $25,000. NOTE: Items transferred to the Embassy GSO for eventual sale are still maintained on inventories until the Embassy provides documentation of the sale.

955.5 Annual Audits

- a. The heads of overseas establishments will ensure that an audit (that is, a physical inventory) of all accountable property is conducted every year. Audits may be conducted by barcode scanner, if available, or by visual inspection. Audits will be entered into inventory records.
- b. When requested, the Embassy/Consulate property staff may conduct all or part of the annual audit. Whatever portion of the audit the Embassy/Consulate does not cover must be performed by the staff, regardless of ICASS provisions to reimburse State.

955.6 Non- Personnel Posts

a. When all personnel are temporarily withdrawn from an overseas installation, and time permits, a report of accountable property should be given to the GSO so that the property can be reclaimed when personnel return.

b. When all personnel are permanently withdrawn from a post, accountable property would preferably be transferred to State. If feasible, the appropriate Washington element may alternatively request that State enter accountable property into its property system (NEPA) and maintain the records as part of the ICASS agreement.

956 LOANING PROPERTY

956.1 Authority and Responsibility - Accountable property may only be loaned in accordance with approved practices. AOs are responsible for the temporary loan of property, and for any loss or damage that may be sustained, unless the loan was made in accordance with para. 956.3, below.

956.3 External Loans

a. Purpose and Authorization - The dissemination of information through external loans to local government sources, private organizations, and individuals interested in actively supporting the overseas programs has proved to be an effective means of augmenting programs. To utilize these overseas outlets, it may be advisable to lend items such as motion picture, recording and playback equipment, etc. to local cooperating groups or individuals. Authorization for these loans is contained in Public Law 402, 80th Congress. See para. 951.2 concerning expendable program materials. In some instances, a grant may be preferred.

b. Policy -Overseas establishments are encouraged to develop, whenever possible, additional opportunities for increasing the dissemination of information programs and may, at their discretion, lend without deposit accountable property items to local sources and to contractors when they can perform their task more efficiently because of such loans. The following questions are relevant in determining when loans are justified:

(1) Is the intended audience within Broadcasting's priority objectives?

(2) To what extent will Broadcasting audiovisual materials be used on the loaned equipment?

(3) Would the borrower be able to use Broadcasting audiovisual materials if Broadcasting did not furnish the equipment? NOTE: Whenever feasible, borrowers should be encouraged to provide any equipment necessary for use with audiovisual materials.

c. Recording Loans of Accountable Property - AOs must obtain receipts for all loaned property and enter pertinent information in the Comments section of the item's Property record. The AO should keep the signed copy of each receipt on file until the property has been returned. When, in the opinion of the head of an overseas establishment, it is not advisable to request a signed receipt from the borrower, the loan may be made, but the Property record notation, explaining the circumstances, is still required.

d. Loan Period

(1) General Guidelines - Maximum use of program equipment can usually be achieved through short term loans of up to 30 days. However, loans may be authorized up to 90 days when the overseas establishment has assurance that the equipment will be used during the entire period to further program objectives. When circumstances justify renewal of the loan, the original equipment should be returned and exchanged for like equipment if available. With loans limited to a definite period, maintenance personnel will be able to keep the equipment in repair, and closer control over the use of the equipment is achieved.

(2) Special Loans - The Head of the establishment may personally authorize a loan not to exceed one year in exceptional circumstances if the loan would be of prime importance to Broadcasting. The termination date must be specified in the loan agreement. The agreement should provide for preventive maintenance and supervisory checks at suitable intervals. If it is to Broadcasting's advantage to renew a special loan, arrangements should be made to substitute like equipment bearing different serial and barcode numbers.

Instead of long-term loans to State/Marine Corps or other USG agencies, the preferred procedure is a property transfer by memorandum, with appropriate entries in the item's Property record.

e. Inspections - Periodic maintenance checks and inspections of loaned property should be made to prevent misuse and undue deterioration of the equipment.

f. Indefinite Loans - All property should be loaned for a specified length of time and renewed after appropriate periodic review. Indefinite loans are not permitted.

957 PROPERTY SURVEY BOARD

As stated in paragraph 953.4, Embassy or Consulate Boards of Survey, under administrative support ICASS agreements, may act for the overseas establishment in investigating and fixing responsibility for Broadcasting property that is lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged (see 6 FAM 226.5-2). If the staff of American officers is sufficiently large to provide the three persons required, the Accountable Officer may convene a Board from Broadcasting personnel.

The term "destroyed" does not include property destroyed under the provisions of para. 958.5f, Disposal by Cannibalization and Destruction. A Property Disposal Authorization and Survey (Form OF-132) containing the available facts should be prepared immediately after a loss occurs for submission to the Board of Survey. Each item of property involved should be identified in accordance with para. 959.1. Once the Board has rendered its judgment, the item(s) may be removed from Property Inventory. A copy of the Survey Report, completed and executed, should be retained in the overseas establishment's files. The original should be forwarded to the appropriate element in Washington.

958 DISPOSAL OF ACCOUNTABLE PROPERTY

958.1 General - The AO will make periodic inspections of accountable property to verify utilization and serviceability, and initiate appropriate action when property is determined to be in poor condition or is excess to requirements. Before disposing of any item, the AO must determine that clear title exists. The AO (or designee) will evaluate the condition of proposed disposals. Disposal of items in fair condition or better, and items to be used as trade-ins, require authorization from Headquarters. Items considered to have no useful life and/or in poor condition, or where repair is unavailable or too costly, does not require prior authorization but must be reported to Washington and deleted from the Property records.

958.2 Disposal Categories - The applicable uniform regulations for the disposal of Government property are contained in 6 FAM 220-230. Property is identified as Replacement or Foreign Excess in disposal documents. Most property qualifies as replacement-type property. Additional information follows.

a. Replacement Property - This refers to an item that is in continuing usage by one or more establishments throughout the world. Proceeds resulting from the sale of principal or major items of replacement property in most instances are available for element to use to purchase new "similar" property. The proceeds are deposited in the element's GOE.

b. Foreign Excess - Use of the word "excess" in overseas sales and disposal documents requires Washington authorization that the particular property is excess to the needs of the entire element, as distinguished from excess at a single location. Accountable property will not be disposed of as Foreign Excess without specific (PCO, element office) authorization. Funds from the sale of Foreign Excess property are not available for reuse by the Agency and are deposited as General Fund Receipts (see para. 959.3b).

958.4 Approval Requirements for Disposals

a. (1) Element authorization is required for the disposal of accountable property other than furniture, furnishings, appliances and equipment (FFA&E; see 6 FAM 770), to ensure that disposal rather than repair or transfer is most appropriate under the circumstances. Specialized technical or electronic properties may sometimes be repaired at a fraction of the cost of new equipment. Sufficient details should be provided to enable the Property Control Office to diagnose a specific problem and estimate repair costs before authorizing a disposal. Other required approvals include any other elements which have an interest in the item. Vehicle disposals are approved by the element head and the Office of Administration.

(2) Equipment once authorized for disposal should not be used again by the overseas establishment. Inspectors and auditors will check to confirm compliance.

(3) The overseas establishment should send the disposal request to the appropriate PCO.

The request must contain the item name, manufacturer, model number, serial number, and barcode number. The sender must briefly describe the condition of the property or assign a condition code. When appropriate, the sender should recommend the method of disposal (sale, transfer, repair, destruction, grant, etc.) based upon such factors as suitability for sale in the host country, anticipated sales proceeds, present condition, availability of parts and repair in host country, etc.

(6) The PCO will authorize the method of disposal, specify the account for deposit of proceeds if sale is authorized, and indicate the documentation needed.

(7) If final disposition is to be made (by destruction, transfer, grant, donation, trade-in, Board of Survey report), a memorandum acknowledging the final disposal by the establishment, or the completed Survey Form, is needed by the Washington element and the Office of Administration.

(8) If authorized for disposal through the Embassy/Consulate property disposal facilities by sale or other means, a copy of the Washington authorization should accompany the memo to the Embassy Disposal Officer. If the property is to be sold, the Washington authorization will identify the account to which the proceeds should be deposited.

(9) Disposal delivery of property to the Embassy/Consulate Property Disposal Officer, a Custody Receipt bearing the current date and a signature acknowledging receipt of the items must be obtained. The Custody Receipt identifies each article of property, references the memorandum (para. 8, above), and the letter of authorization (para. 6, above). If property of more than one Agency PCO is involved, separate receipts should be executed. In addition to identifying each item of property, the Custody Receipt will read as follows:

"I acknowledge receipt of the items listed herein for disposal in accordance with the attached authorization, or otherwise in accordance with MOA IV-950. Return of this property to the custody of the Broadcasting overseas establishment is prohibited unless for emergency use evidenced by written request bearing the signature of the head of the establishment, with concurrent notification to the appropriate Washington element.

Date	Embassy/Consulate	Property Disposal Officer
------	-------------------	---------------------------

(10) Retain the Custody Receipt at the overseas establishment.

Major items of accountable property to be sold or otherwise disposed of, as identified by the Property Control Office in the authorizing document, will remain in the establishment's inventory until final sales documents are received from the Embassy/Consulate Budget and Fiscal Section (see para. 959), or until other appropriate disposal documents (grants, Certificates of Destruction, etc.) have been finalized. Overseas establishments should endeavor to expedite the disposal of such property and promptly forward the required disposal documents to the appropriate Washington element.

Once the disposal process is complete, the overseas establishment may remove the item from its Property inventory.

958.5 Methods of Disposal

Property may be disposed of by memorandum transfer to another U.S. Government agency overseas; by sale or exchange (trade in); or by grant, destruction, abandonment, or described below and in accordance with prior Washington approval requirements (see para. 958.4, above). The overseas establishment will ensure that such disposal action does not violate any existing treaties or agreement. In determining the method of disposing of property, the overseas establishment will seek to obtain the maximum possible advantage to the U.S. Government.

a. Disposal by Transfer or Exchange within the U.S. Government

(1) Transfer or Exchange between Overseas Establishments - An establishment may authorize the transfer or exchange of property between subordinate offices of that establishment. Prior authorization is required to transfer accountable property from one location to another. The receiving location will pay all shipping costs.

(2) Transfer to Other U.S. Government Agencies - Property authorized by an overseas establishment for disposal may be transferred to other U.S. Government agencies overseas, as described in 6 FAM 227.3-2. Transfer shall be made upon the terms agreed to by the USG agencies; the offering agency shall not require reimbursement greater than the best estimate of gross proceeds if the property were sold competitively, plus any transportation and freight forwarding costs. Overseas establishments should ensure that the other agency's representative has authority to receive the property.

b. Disposal by Sale or Exchange (Trade-in)

(1) Use of Exchange or Proceeds of Sale - Property authorized for disposal (para. 958.4) may be offered for sale, or exchanged. When property is disposed of by sale, and is not excess, salvage or scrap but is a major replaceable item, any exchange (trade-in) allowance available may be used to acquire identical or similar new property. The use of proceeds from the sale of major replaceable items is controlled by the appropriate Washington element.

(2) Sales through Bids

(a) Soliciting Bids. Embassy/Consulate administrative staffs, will solicit bids when selling property (6 FAM 220-230), except when experience has shown that such solicitation would clearly be ineffective in increasing the return to the U.S. Government, or when determined by the head of the overseas establishment to be to the disadvantage of the U.S. Government. Where the Embassy/Consulate does not provide this service, Broadcasting staff must execute solicitation procedures.

(b) Bids by U.S. Government Employees. U.S. Government employees may only submit bids in property disposal sales that are held on a competitive bid basis, and provided that collusion or fraud is precluded by adequate administrative controls and safeguards.

(c) Disposal by Donation - If property cannot be disposed of by one of the methods in the preceding paragraphs and it has little or no commercial value, or the cost of handling or storage would exceed the estimated proceeds from sale, it may be considered for donation. "No commercial value" means that the property has no market value either for the purpose for which it was originally intended or for use as an entity for any other purpose (see 6 FAM 230).

(d) Disposal by Cannibalization and Destruction - Electrical and/or Mechanical Equipment - Where disposal of property by transfer, sale, or grant is not practical due to the property's condition, low sales potential, or other unfavorable circumstances, and the value and condition of useful parts and components are high enough to justify the time and labor required to remove them, the property may be dismantled to obtain the useful parts as replacements in other identical or similar property. The unusable parts should be destroyed or rendered inoperable before discarding.

In the case of motion picture projectors or other audiovisual equipment, destroy the amplifier and main body casting. Property destroyed as above must be identified on a Certificate of Destruction ), which is sent to the appropriate Washington element. A copy will be retained at the overseas establishment. An unauthorized destruction caused by negligence, abuse, or carelessness must be documented for the Property Survey Board in accordance with para. 957, above.

g. Disposal by Abandonment - Abandonment, or discarding as trash, is used as a last resort, that is, after all disposal possibilities, including donation and sale as scrap, have been exhausted. The property should first be rendered completely inoperable. See 6 FAM 227.3-6 for further details.

h. Disposal of Obsolete Seals, Flags, Insignia, Signs, etc. -see 6 FAM 227.4.

959 REPORTING DISPOSALS

959.1 Identification of Disposals - Disposals must be included or referenced in the disposal documents required by paragraph 959.2 below. Vehicle and Accountable Property identification information is available in the overseas establishment's Property Inventory . The information needed is as follows;

(1) Property description; specify item, make, and model.

(2) Serial number, barcode number, and Federal Supply Classification (FSC) number.

959.2 Disposal Documentation Required

a. Disposal by Sale - Each disposal action from which proceeds are realized must be documented by a sale agreement (contract) and a completed Form SF-1036, Statement and Certificate of Award. The agreement must bear the date of sale and state that any duty or sales tax will be paid by the purchaser. Information identifying the property sold (para. 959.1 above) must appear within the sale agreement or covering memorandum.

(1) Information Needed in Memorandum or Sale Agreement - Unless appearing in the sales agreement, the covering memorandum to the appropriate Washington element must provide the following information:

The dollar amount received, or the amount in dollars as converted from the local currency; The total amount in dollars, minus any sales expenses, deposited to the authorized account; The overseas establishment's request and the document authorizing the sale; and The property identification (para. 959.1), to enable the element to use sales proceeds to purchase replacement properties.

(2) Sales Document - A signed original and one copy of the completed Form SF-1036 must be forwarded by covering memorandum to the appropriate Washington element. Subsequent distribution of sales documents by the element is made within 5 working days to the Property Control Office (Office of Administration).

b. Documentation for Property Disposals by Means Other Than Sale - Lost, stolen, destroyed, or damaged accountable property should be processed through the Embassy Property Survey Board (para. 957). The original of the OF-132 should be sent to the appropriate Washington element.

Properties or vehicles authorized for disposal by means other than sale (scrapping, destruction, abandonment, grant, etc.) should be reported by memorandum when finally disposed of; the property will be identified as in para. 959.1 above.

SECTION 970

OFFICE AND RESIDENTIAL QUARTERS ABROAD

INTRODUCTION

The following has been issued and is discussed in detail as UNIFORM STATE REGULATIONS "6 FAM - GENERAL SERVICES UNIFORM REGULATIONS."

971 MANAGEMENT OF GOVERNMENT-HELD PROPERTY

SEE 6 FAM 720 for detailed regulations regarding management of Government-held property.

972 SHORT-TERM LEASED SPACE

Short-term leases are for a period of less than ten years. The number of renewal periods does not change the designation of a short-term lease, as long as the basic term of each lease renewal period is less than ten years.

Only one approval from the appropriate Washington element is required prior to execution of each lease as indicated in the following paragraphs. The appropriate Washington element should ensure that adequate funds are available and that the Office of the General Counsel has reviewed the lease.

972.1 Prior Washington Approval - Washington approval is required for all overseas leases regardless of rental rate. Complete justification is required for:

- a. Execution of new leases.
- b. Renewals exceeding 20 percent rent increase, and annual rent more than $25,000.
- c. Renegotiation or amendments that change the lease term(s).
- d. Assumptions, transfer or reassignment of other USG leases or USG owned property.
- e. Termination before regularly scheduled date.

An information copy of all executed leases should be furnished to the appropriate Washington element.

972.3 Procedures

When a relocation is required, the following offices will be involved:

The appropriate Washington element will review the current lease for termination rights and funding requirements.

Security will review the proposal to determine what type of co-location waiver is required. Security will also review the RSO inspection of the property.

(1) Overseas establishment must develop a program definition which outlines space and program requirements.

(2) From the program definition, overseas installation must develop a needs assessment outlining the amount of space required.

(3) Overseas installation must do a market survey to find the least expensive suitable property that will meet its needs.

(4) Obtain RSO inspection and approval of property.

(5) Submit lease request according to current lease format provided by cable periodically.

b. Residential Space

Submit lease request according to current lease format provided by cable periodically.

972.4 Abrogation of Leases

a. The Comptroller General has ruled that no U.S. government employee may relinquish a valuable lease or other contract right unless the USG has received a substantially equal consideration or benefit in return.

b. Termination of leases is strongly discouraged because premature lease cancellation unduly escalates overhead costs and is wasteful of any improvement investments previously made in our properties.

c. Therefore, overseas installations must obtain element authorization before terminating valid leases or electing not to exercise firm renewal options.

972.5 Unacceptable Justification

Any change not primarily motivated by better serving USG interests does not constitute compelling justification for lease termination. The following are examples of unacceptable justifications received from posts requesting early lease termination.

a. Landlord refusal to make personal preference changes.

b. Exchanging adequate location site for "better" location.

- c. Exchanging adequate quarters for "better", "more functional" or "more representational" quarters.

972.6 Interagency Housing Boards

- a. Interagency Housing Boards have been established to insure that the Department's uniform Housing policies are administered equally for all USG employees.
- b. Actions taken by The Interagency Housing Boards should not be contrary to Broadcasting authority. Similarly, overseas installations may not take actions which are contrary to Mission Housing Board procedures.

972.8 Tandem Couples

Tandem couples, both of whom are assigned to the same post, will be granted the space authorization for the senior member of the couple

All rental and utility costs will be shared equally by the respective parent agencies. All other costs should be shared on an equitable basis determined by the agencies.

972.9 Negotiation Tactics

The following can be used as bargaining tactics where local law permits and when a clear benefit will be returned to the USG.

- a. US Dollar contract.
- b. Advance payments for one year [See 6 FAM 731.3-4]

972.10 Diplomatic Escape Clause

- a. All leases must include, at a minimum, the normal diplomatic escape clause outlined in 6 FAM 734.1.
- b. For all leases, it is in the best interest of the USG to include a clause allowing for early termination when the property becomes excess to USG needs.
- c. For residential leases, the contracting officer must make every effort to include a clause allowing for termination upon transfer of the employee.

972.11 Restoration and Alteration Clauses

- a. Refer to 6 FAM 734.1 (14 and 15) for complete wording. All leases should include a clause allowing alterations and renovations to the leased space. Leases should indicate that USG will leave the property in "broom clean" condition, and include a waiver from restoration requirements. If and only if the landlord demands restoration of the premises, a clause may be added which indicates that the USG will restore the premises to the same condition as that existing at the time when the USG assumed responsibility for the property, normal wear and tear excepted. Be sure lease documents contain the exact condition of the premises so a proper level of restoration can be determined.

972.12 Other Clauses

- a. Specify the condition of the space to be leased.
- b. Specify date that USG has access to property (this time would be for repair and renovation work to be done prior to effective date of lease and payment of initial rent).
- c. Clearly outline all repair/renovation and security work to be done to space.

972.13 Documentation - When a new lease is approved and executed the overseas installation should submit the following:

- a. A copy of the executed lease (renewal or transfer document, with the lease and property inventory numbers).
- b. Photographs (for new properties only).
- c. Floor plans (for new properties only).
- d. Copy of document authorizing the lease action.
- e. Position title of the occupant.

972.14 Lease Proposals

The Department of State periodically issues worldwide telegrams which provide questions which must be answered before a lease request can be approved. Unless or until the BBG has its own regulations, overseas installations will follow the FAM.

974 SECURITY EXPENSES

- a. Security Guards may be administered through the U.S. Embassy contract and approved by the Regional Security Officer.
- b. Funding for all other security requirements should be handled through the Regional Security Officer. Where local threats or security incidents dictate that emergency funding is required to upgrade a residence beyond standards or in advance of implementation of a mission-wide upgrade program, the Broadcasting Office of Security and RSO should coordinate and request funding from State DS/FPD/RES, with a copy to Broadcasting Security.

975 MINOR CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS, ALTERATIONS, AND MAJOR REPAIRS

See 6 FAM 760 for detailed regulations regarding minor capital improvements, alterations, and major repairs.

976 FURNITURE, FURNISHINGS, APPLIANCES, AND EQUIPMENT FOR SHORT-TERM LEASED RESIDENTIAL QUARTERS (FFA&E) -

976.1 For full details on furniture, furnishings, appliances and equipment authorized for residential quarters see 6 FAM 772 and 6 FAM Exhibit 772.1. The appropriate Washington element has final authority on any FFA&E.

976.2 Maintenance, Repair and Purchase of Accessories for Swimming Pools

The following is intended to provide guidance on occupant responsibility for swimming pools on Government-leased residential property. Although swimming pools are not specifically mentioned in 6 FAM 725.3a, 725.3b, 734.1 (10), these rules are directly applicable to such situations. This guidance in no way implies that all official-leased residences should include swimming pools; rather it is issued to underscore the special responsibilities of the lessor and the occupant.

- a. Responsibility of the Lessor - Leases for Government-leased residential properties that include already constructed swimming pools as an integral part of the property should conform to 6 FAM 734.1 (10). The lease should include a clause specifying the lessor's responsibility for all mechanical and structural repairs to the pools. This would include, for example, the repair of the pool pump and similar mechanical equipment. Failure to include this clause in the lease could result in the occupant bearing personal responsibility for payment for such repairs.
- b. Responsibility of Occupant - The occupant is responsible for the general operating costs of the pool such as chemicals, replaceable filters, brushes, etc.

977 REPORTS ON GOVERNMENT-OWNED PROPERTY

See 6 FAM 790 for detailed regulations regarding reports on Government-owned property.

978 REPORTING OVERSEAS REAL PROPERTY

978.1 Background - Accurate information about overseas residential and functional property is essential for replying to Congressional inquiries and providing backup for the annual Congressional budget hearings. To facilitate this reporting, two reports are required; one for each residential and one for each functional property.

978.2 Procedures

- a. Forms - Use , GSA form 1166 for each property occupied by Broadcasting elements but also use Annual Report of Residential Property and Annual Report of Functional Property.
- b. b.Due Date - Reports are due in the Office of Administration each year by November 1.

- c. Effective Date - The reports are to reflect real property occupied as of September 30, the close of the most recent fiscal year.
- d. Coverage - A completed form is required for each Government-owned or leased residential and functional property at all overseas establishments.

LEASES REQUIRING APPROVAL:

APPROVAL IS REQUIRED FOR ALL LEASES.   - 991.2 Responsibilities
  - 991.3 Claim Procedures
  - 991.4 Other

Section 990

MISCELLANEOUS SERVICES

991 LOSS OR DAMAGE IN OVERSEAS SHIPMENTS OF SUPPLIES AND EQUIPMENT

991.1 Applicability of Foreign Affairs Manual - Shipments of supplies and equipment are received and processed on arrival at ports of entry overseas by personnel of the Department of State under foreign affairs administrative support arrangements. Cases involving the loss or damage of these shipments are handled in accordance with the Foreign Affairs Manual, 6 FAM 217 and 223. The responsibilities of personnel and the procedures to be followed are outlined below.

991.2 Responsibilities

a. Reporting Loss or Damage to Shipments - The head of the overseas establishment must report to the Administrative Officer of the Embassy or Consulate all losses and damages of equipment or supplies immediately upon discovery of the damage or loss. If claims are not filed within a limited time after shipment, the carrier is relieved of responsibility.

b. Handling Loss or Damage Claims - Appropriate disposition of cases involving loss or damage resulting from faulty packing or other causes sustained prior to arrival of shipment at a post of entry is the responsibility of the ordering office. If post places the order with a US vendor directly, arrangements for replacement or reimbursement must be handled by the post. Cases of loss or damage sustained after arrival at the foreign port of entry will be processed by the post to which the shipment is consigned.

991.3 Claim Procedures

a. Examining Shipments

Immediately upon receipt of a shipment examine the containers to determine whether there is damage. As soon as possible, examine the contents for evidence of concealed damage or shortage. If any such evidence is found, notify the Embassy or Consulate Administrative Officer or his or her designee immediately so that he or she can examine the shipment before it is disturbed further.

b. Claims for loss due to damage, shortage or pilferage.

Claims for reimbursement for loss due to pilferage or for damages that occurred during shipment should be initiated at the post with the assistance of the Consulate or Embassy Administrative Officer. Claims for shortages that appear to be the fault of the vendor will be initiated by the originating procurement office.

(1) Documentation

Post should keep all the packing cartons, materials, and container seals until discrepancies are resolved. Annotate the Bill of Lading and all other documents on which receipt is signed to show lost or damaged items. Describe the damages in detail and, if possible, take photographs.

(2) Use of items before claim

If it is necessary to use part or all of the shipment before the Administrative Officer performs an examination, or before a claim can be finalized, record the action together with the justification. In the case of damages, record exactly what repairs were made, and at what cost, to make the item useable.

(3) Report to Washington

Promptly report all details to the originating procurement element in Washington Include the following:

(a) When the discrepancy or damage was first noticed.

(b) A description of damages to the outside of the container, (was any damage concealed and only visible when the carton or container was opened).

(c) If the items were in a container, were the seals broken when post took delivery of the shipment. (Post should keep these seals.)

(d) Was the shipping company notified. (Annotations must be made on the Bill of Lading or Airway Bill and other documentation).

(e) For concealed damages, describe the contents of the items in the cartons.

(f) Provide photographs of the damaged cartons and/or item.

(g) If the damaged item is salvageable, give an estimated value of the salvageable item (the original purchase and shipping costs minus any repairs).

(h) Record exactly what repairs were made, and at what cost, to make the item useable.

(i) If the loss or damage appear to be due to faulty packing or other failure on the part of the vendor, the originating procurement element will initiate a claim against the vendor or take such action as may be indicated.

(4) Damage or Pilferage Sustained After Arrival at Port of Entry - If it is determined that the shipment was damaged or lost after arrival at the port of entry and it was NOT the result of faulty packing or processing prior to or during shipment, the Embassy or Consulate Administrative Officer will take necessary action in accordance with local practices. In such cases, the overseas establishment should notify the originating procurement office of the action taken.

991.4 Other

a. Late arrival of shipments

(1) For orders sent from the warehouse, post should contact the originating procurement element to request that a tracer be performed. If the shipment is not located, a claim will automatically be originated by the element, and replacement will be addressed by the element.

(2) For items ordered direct from U.S. sources by the post, the Embassy should assist in contacting the U.S. Dispatch Agency or the regional USG shipping liaison (e.g., ELSO) for status.

b. Cargo held up in customs

(1) For orders sent from the warehouse, the post should immediately advise the ordering element so arrangements can be made with the shipper to authorize the immediate release via telex. As a secondary measure, the warehouse will send a second set of the Original Bill of Lading to post via express courier.

(2) If additional fees [demurrage, etc.,] are solicited by the shipping agent, this also should be brought to the attention of the ordering element. The Post should not pay unusual charges without notice to the element.

(3) For items ordered directly from U.S. sources by the post, the Embassy should assist in contacting the U.S. Dispatch Agency to request telex release.

c. Point of off-loading

Routinely shipments are prepaid and off-loaded at the port of entry. From that point, post administrative personnel are responsible for delivery to its facilities; however, special door to door delivery arrangements can be made prior to shipment with advance notice to the element.

d. Pursuing Collection and Settlement of Claims - See MOA VII-470.

212 OBTAINING ADDITIONAL INFORMATION - An employee in an Office or Service should contact the Office of Personnel to obtain additional information on position classification and appeals.

213 RESPONSIBILITIES

213.1 The Director is responsible for assuring that all positions are described and properly classified. The discharge of this responsibility is accomplished for the Director by those in the Office of Personnel who have been delegated classification authority (see MOA V-A 120).

213.2 Office of Personnel is responsible for:

- a. Classifying all positions in the domestic service in accordance with the following classification plans:

(1) Civil Service General Schedule Plan) (Section 5102, Chapter 51, Title 5 U.S.C.) under which Broadcasting has authority and obligation to place positions within their proper classes and grades. Allocations of positions to GS-16, GS-17 and GS-18 are made by the Office of Personnel Management upon recommendations by Broadcasting. Determinations of classes and grades for positions subject to Title 5, U.S.C. must be made in conformance with, or consistent with, position classification standards published by the Office of Personnel Management. OPM may exercise at any time, at its discretion, the authority to review allocations made by Broadcasting and to make any changes that it deems necessary.

(2) The Wage Board Plan covers certain positions that are exempt from the General Schedule under Section 5102 (c) (7) Title 5, U.S.C. and are specifically exempt from the Federal Wage System for classification and pay purposes.

(3) The Federal Wage System covers all wage grade positions not specifically exempt as stated in paragraph (2) above. Positions covered by the Federal Wage System must be classified and graded in conformance with the Office of Personnel Management.

(4) The Exempted Schedule Plan includes certain types of positions specifically exempted by Title 5 of the U. S. C. and positions authorized by specific legislative authority, except those described in paragraph (5) below. These positions are allocated to an exempted schedule (GG) and are assigned grade levels patterned after those for Classification Act positions (GS-1 to GS-15). Substantially the same standards and guides are used in allocating positions to grade levels in the exempted schedule.

Positions occupied by persons employed as non-(U.S.) citizens for use in the United States (MOA V-A-820) and those occupied by persons employed under Appropriation Act authority for temporary employment (MOA V-A-840) are included in the Exempted Schedule Plan. The regulations and procedures established for classification of positions under Title 5, U.S.C., contained in paragraph (1) above, will generally be followed in classifying positions under the Exempted Schedule Plan.

(5) Foreign Service positions may be classified in the Foreign Service as Overseas Specialist (OS) (22 U.S.C. Chapter 14, Section 886 (b)), at Class 8 and above.

(6) Senior Executive Service (SES) positions.

Conducting annual systematic position reviews to assure positions are properly described and evaluated.

Integrating the position classification and pay administration system with other aspects of personnel administration to further personnel and other management objectives.

213.3 Supervisors and Managers - In their line capacities supervisors will fully discharge their responsibilities in the administration of the position classification program. These responsibilities include:

a. Utilizing classification processes in the interest of improved work force management, planning, economy, and efficiency of operations.

b. Determining and documenting the duties and responsibilities of each position under their direction, and maintaining the accuracy and currency of these position descriptions.

c. Assuring that there is a mutual understanding with the employee regarding the duties and responsibilities assigned to him or her and documented in the position description.

d. Insuring, with the guidance of the personnel office, that the employees know and understand the purpose and operation of position classification, including policies and procedures relating to appeals and audits.

213.4 Employees are responsible for assuring that major duties officially assigned to them are described in their position descriptions.

214 POSITION DESCRIPTIONS

214.1 Forms - All position descriptions will be prepared on Optional Form 8, Position Description .

214.2 Format - The principal duties, responsibilities and supervisory relationships must be described specifically, clearly, and definitively so that descriptions will provide the information necessary for proper classification of positions. It is essential that position descriptions meet the standard of adequacy requirements. In order to maintain uniformity throughout Broadcasting, position descriptions for all NON-SUPERVISORY Civil Service and Foreign Service positions should be prepared according to the format shown in Exhibit 210A. Position descriptions for SUPERVISORY AND MANAGERIAL Civil Service and Foreign Service positions are prepared according to the format shown in Exhibit 210B. Position descriptions for positions covered under the Federal Wage System (FWS) are to be prepared according to the format shown in Exhibit 210C. Position descriptions usually will not require an introduction if organization and functional charts are current and available. To the extent possible prototype and multiple position descriptions can be used.

a. Length - Position descriptions will be as concise as practicable. Every effort should be made to avoid excessive length in the interest of reducing the paperwork and time involved in their preparation and review. Normally, pertinent factors relating to duties, responsibilities, and supervisory relationships of most positions can be documented in two pages or less.

b. Signature - The signature of line supervisory and other officials directly concerned are required on OF-8 for authentication of the accuracy, completeness, and currency of position descriptions. Employees affected should be requested to sign item 19 (or a signature sheet in case of multiple number of employees on one description). The employee's signature is not required, but does signify he or she knows the content of the position description.

c. Copies for Employees and Operating Element - Copies of position descriptions reflecting the approved classification action will be provided each operating element in which the position exists. A copy of this description will also be provided each employee for his or her personal file. Supervisors will be responsible for assuring that employees are furnished a current position description.

214.3 Numbering of Positions - Each full and part-time position subject to the provisions of this Section will be designated by a separate and distinct number. Numbers will be prefixed with the letter V to denote Civil Service, including Foreign Service Domestic Specialists. Additional identical positions will be numbered serially by the basic position number.

214.4 Additional Identical Positions - Additional positions may be established by classification action against "base" positions determined to be susceptible to duplication. The procedure for establishing such positions may be used only in cases where the position is identical in duties and responsibilities to a "base" position and is in the same organizational element and under the same kind and degree of supervision.

214.5 Position Titles and Series Codes - Class titles and series listed in Office of Personnel Management standards and supplements will be used in the classification of positions under Office of Personnel Management jurisdiction. Titles for positions not specifically covered by standard should be consistent with the principles for construction of Class Titles outlined in General Introduction to Position-Classification Standards available in the Office of Personnel. Organization titles may be used for purposes other than official classification and personnel actions.

214.6 Canceling of Vacant Positions - Normally positions should be canceled if the position remains vacant for six months. Positions may be reactivated when funding is available.

215 APPEALS

215.1 Policy

a. The Director, Office of Personnel will accept appeals from any employee regarding the classification, title, series, or grade of his or her position. Employees are encouraged to utilize the appeals procedure within Broadcasting. If an eligible (Civil Service) employee is not satisfied with the decision, he or she may appeal to the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) as authorized in Chapter 51, Title 5 U.S.C., Section 5112.

An eligible (Civil Service) employee may appeal directly to the Office of Personnel Management if he or she wishes.

b. When the OPM receives an appeal from an employee or from Broadcasting, it will make whatever inquiries it considers necessary. It may ask the employee and Broadcasting to furnish certain facts. Since it is the policy of Broadcasting to conduct the classification appeal and investigation in a spirit of candor and cooperation, Broadcasting will furnish the employee with copies of all representations sent to or requested by OPM. In addition, OPM will permit both the employee and Broadcasting to inspect the appeal file upon request.

215.2 Who May Appeal - Any employee may appeal the classification of his or her position to the Director, Office of Personnel. Employees in Civil Service positions covered by Section 5102 (GS) and those excluded by Section 5102 (c) (7) (FWS) Chapter 51, Title 5, U.S.C. may also appeal to the Office of Personnel Management.

215.3 Procedure

a. An employee may submit an appeal in writing directly to the Director, Office of Personnel at any time. If an employee is appealing a downgrade action, the appeal must be submitted either to the Director, Office of Personnel or the Office of Personnel Management within fifteen calendar days after the date of the Personnel Action effecting the downgrade, in order to be eligible for retroactive pay provisions if applicable.

b. The employee submitting the appeal or the employee's representative should describe fully why he or she believes the position is erroneously classified.

5. Scope and Effect

Scope and effect can usually be described in one or more sentences. Describe the effect of the work or service performed, for example: whether it facilitates the work of others; provides timely services of a personal nature; affects accuracy, reliability, or acceptability of further work processes; affects the design or operations, programs, equipment; affects the adequacy of research conclusions, or the social, physical, or conomic well-being of persons, etc.

6. Personal Contacts

Describe the kind of people whom the employee deals with in carrying out the work, e.g., coworkers, workers in related support units, recipients of direct services, members of the general public, or representatives of other operating organizations, headquarters, or field offices; managers, executives, or professionals from other agencies; national leaders, etc. (Do not include contacts with the supervisor since supervisory contacts are described under Factor I.)

7. Purpose of Contacts

Describe the purpose of the personal contacts, for example: to give or exchange information; to resolve problems; to provide service; to motivate, influence, interrogate persons; or to justify, defend, negotiate, or settle matters, etc. As appropriate, include other information that might affect the nature of the contacts, e.g., dealing with persons who are skeptical, uncooperative, unreceptive, hostile (such as patients or inmates) and settling controversial issues or arriving at compromise solutions with persons who have different viewpoints, goals or objectives.

8. Physical Demands

Describe the nature of physical activity involved in the work and give some indication of the frequency or intensity of this activity. Include any physical characteristics or special physical ability needed such as specific ability or dexterity requirements.

Exhibit 210B - Guide for Preparing Supervisory Position Descriptions

The General Schedule Supervisory Guide (GSSG) provides evaluation criteria for determining the General Schedule (GS) grade level of supervisory positions in grades GS-05 through GS-15. It also outlines criteria for evaluating managerial responsibilities that may accompany supervisory responsibilities in this range of grades. However, the guide is not appropriate for evaluating managerial positions that do not include the accomplishment of work through the supervision of others or that do not require technical competence related to the work directed.

The guide employs a factor-point evaluation method that assesses:

- Program Scope and Effect, Organizational Setting,
- Supervisory and Managerial Authority Exercised, Personal Contacts,
- Difficulty of Typical Work Directed, and
- Other Conditions -- general classification concepts, principles, and policies, such as those in the introduction to the Position Classification Standards, apply to the classification of supervisory positions.

The GSSG is used to grade GS supervisory work and related managerial responsibilities that:

- require accomplishment of work through combined technical and administrative direction of others; and
- constitute a major duty occupying at least 25 percent of the position's time; and
- meet at least the lowest level of Factor 3 in the guide, based on supervising Federal civilian employees, Federal military or uniformed service employees, volunteers, or other non contractor personnel.

Positions graded by the GSSG continue to be classified in the most appropriate occupational series in accordance with instructions in the Introduction to the Position Classification Standards occupational definitions in the Handbook of Occupational groups and families and amplifying material in published classification standards.

Determine the title of a position covered by the GSSG through reference to the classification standard, classification guide, and/or series guidance used to determine the occupational series of the position. In most instances these guidelines require use of the word "Supervisory" as a prefix to the appropriate occupational title. However, in some occupations, certain titles (e.g., "Budget Officer") denote supervision and the supervisory prefix is not used.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR APPLICATION

The GSSG uses a point-factor evaluation approach with six evaluation factors designed specifically for supervisory positions. Under each factor there are several factor level definitions which are assigned specific point values. The points for all levels are fixed and no interpolation or extrapolation of them is permitted. Work of positions at different organizational levels often will be properly credited at the same level of a factor.

Evaluate supervisory duties by comparing them with each factor. Credit the points designated for the highest factor level which is met according to the instructions specific to each factor and level. If two or more levels of a factor are met, credit the points for the highest level met. However, if one level of a factor is exceeded, but the next higher level is not met, credit the lower level involved.

Add the total points accumulated under all factors. Use the point-to-grade conversion table in the GSSG to convert the point total to a grade.

GRADE EVALUATION FACTORS

FACTOR 1 - PROGRAM SCOPE AND EFFECT

This factor assesses the general complexity, breadth, and impact of the program areas and work directed, including its organizational and geographic coverage. It also assesses the impact of the work both within and outside the immediate organization.

FACTOR 2 - ORGANIZATIONAL SETTING

This factor considers the organizational situation of the supervisory position in relation to higher levels of management.

FACTOR 3 - SUPERVISORY AND MANAGERIAL AUTHORITY EXERCISED

This factor covers the delegated supervisory and managerial authorities which are exercised on a recurring basis. To be credited with a level under this factor, a position must meet the authorities and responsibilities to the extent described for the specific level. Levels under this factor apply equally to the direction of specialized program management organizations, line functions, staff functions, and operating support activities. Where authority is duplicated or not significantly differentiated among several organizational levels, a factor level may apply to positions at more than one organizational level.

FACTOR 4 - PERSONAL CONTACTS

This factor has two parts which assess the nature and the purpose of personal contacts related to supervisory and managerial responsibilities. The nature of the contacts, credited under Subfactor 4A, and the purpose of those contacts, credited under Subfactor 4B, must be based on the same contacts.

SUBFACTOR 4A ---- NATURE OF CONTACTS

This subfactor covers the organizational relationships, authority or influence level, setting, and difficulty of preparation associated with making personal contacts involved in supervisory and managerial work. To be credited, the level of contacts must contribute to the successful performance of the work, be a recurring requirement, have a demonstrable impact on the difficulty and responsibility of the position, and require direct contact.

SUBFACTOR 4B --- PURPOSE OF CONTACTS

This subfactor covers the purpose of the personal contacts credited in subfactor 4A, including the advisory, representational, negotiating, and commitment making responsibilities related to supervision and management.

FACTOR 5 - DIFFICULTY OF TYPICAL WORK DIRECTED

This factor measures the difficulty and complexity of the basic work most typical of the organization directed, as well as other line, staff, or contracted work for which the supervisor has technical or oversight responsibility, either directly or through subordinate supervisors, team leaders, or others.

SECOND (AND HIGHER) LEVEL SUPERVISORS

First, use the method described above for first level supervisors. For many second level supervisors, the base level arrived at by that method will be the correct one.

In some cases, however, a heavy supervisory or managerial workload related to work above that base level may be present. For these positions: Determine the highest grade of nonsupervisory work directed which requires at least 50 percent of the duty time of the supervisory position under evaluation. The resulting grade may be used as the base level for second (and higher) level supervisors over large workloads --if sound alignment with other supervisory positions in the organization results.

In the assessment of the level of any work performed by non-General Schedule employees, the pertinent classification standards should be consulted to derive an appropriate GS equivalent. In assessing supervisory positions which have mostly FWS employees making up their workforce, see the information in the GSSG under Exclusions.

FACTOR 6 - OTHER CONDITIONS

This factor measures the extent to which various conditions contribute to the difficulty and complexity of carrying out supervisory duties, authorities, and responsibilities. Conditions affecting work for which the supervisor is responsible (whether performed by federal employees, assigned military, contractors, volunteers, or others) may be considered if they increase the difficulty of carrying out assigned supervisory or managerial duties and authorities.

SPECIAL SITUATIONS

Supervisory and oversight work may be complicated by special situations and/or conditions. The methodology section at the beginning of this factor explains how to credit the following situations.

1. Variety of Work:

Credit when more than one kind of work, each kind representing a requirement for a distinctly different additional body of knowledge on the part of the supervisor, is present in the work of the unit. A "kind of work" usually will be the equivalent of a classification series. Each "kind of work" requires substantially full qualification in distinctly separate areas, or full knowledge and understanding of rules, regulations, procedures, and subject matter of a distinctly separate area of work. Additionally, to credit "Variety" (1) both technical and administrative responsibility must be exercised over the work, and (2) the grade level of the work cannot be more than one grade below the base level of work used in Factor 5.

2. Shift Operations:

Credit when the position supervises an operation carried out on at least two fully staffed shifts.

3/4 Fluctuating Work Force or Constantly Changing Deadlines:

Credit fluctuating work force when the workforce supervised by the position has large fluctuations in size (e.g., when there are significant seasonal variations in staff) and these fluctuations impose on the supervisor a substantially greater responsibility for training, adjusting assignments, or maintaining a smooth flow of work while absorbing and releasing employees.

Credit constantly changing deadlines when frequent, abrupt, and unexpected changes in work assignments, goals and deadlines require the supervisor to constantly adjust operations under the pressure of continuously changing and unpredictable conditions. Credit this situation when a substantial portion of the workload for which the supervisor is responsible is regularly carried out at one or more locations which are physically removed from the main unit (as in different buildings, or widely dispersed locations in a large warehouse or factory building), under conditions which make day-to-day supervision difficult to administer.

5. Special Staffing Situations:

Credit when: (1) a substantial portion of the work force is regularly involved in special employment programs; or in similar situations which require involvement with employee representatives to resolve difficult or complex personnel management issues and problems; (2) requirements for counseling and motivational activities are regular and recurring; and (3) job assignments, work tasks, working conditions, and/or training must be tailored to fit the special circumstances.

6. Impact of Specialized Programs:

Credit when supervisors are responsible for a significant technical or administrative workload in grades above the level of work credited in Factor 5, provided the grades of this work are not based upon independence of action, freedom from supervision, or personal impact on the job.

7. Changing Technology

Credit when work processes and procedures vary constantly because of the impact of changing technology, creating a requirement for extensive training and guidance of the subordinate staff.

8. Special Hazard and Safety Conditions:

Credit when the supervisory position is regularly made more difficult by the need to make provision for significant unsafe or hazardous conditions occurring during performance of the work of the organization.

Exhibit 210C - Guide for Preparing Position Descriptions for Federal Wage System (FWS) Positions

A small number of positions in Broadcasting may fall under the coverage of the Federal Wage System (FWS) for classification and pay purposes. These positions are exempted from classification as General Schedule (GS) because they involve, as the paramount requirement of their primary duty, knowledge and experience in trades, crafts or manual labor. Such schedules as WG (wage grade), WL (wage leader), WS (wage supervisor), WI/WP (printers), and WB (special schedule) require a distinct position description format because of the application of different criteria in a determining grade and series.

Position descriptions for non-supervisory wage positions (WG, WI, WP, WB) are prepared in a format which reflects the four factors used in the FWS classification standards. Position descriptions for "Leader" (WL) and "Foreman"/"General Foreman"/"Superintendent" (WS) utilize these four factors plus an additional (fifth) factor outlining "lead" or supervisory responsibilities.

FWS Position Description Format

Duties List major duties as concisely as possible. Answer the question, "What does the employee do in this position?" Duties are best described by using active verbs. As a general rule, duty statements should be limited to one paragraph highlighting the major duties.

Factors should be described as follows:

1. Skill and Knowledge

Under this factor, describe the nature and level of skills, knowledge, and mental application required in performing assigned work. Indicate both the quantity, kind, and depth of skills needed, as well as the manner, frequency, and extent to which they are used.

2. Responsibility

This factor consists of three sub-factors and should be completed in the sequence indicated:

Complexity of work. Describe whether the work involves simple repetitive actions, or responsibility for a variety of different operations and machines to complete assignments; whether work sequences are simple or complex; whether work requires a low or a high degree of accuracy and precision; whether assignments involve a low or a high degree of care and skill to prevent damage to tools and materials, and injury to others.

Scope of work. Describe whether assignments involve responsibility for part of an operation or for a complete process; whether assignments include responsibility for planning and laying out work; whether the incumbent is responsible for advising management and engineering personnel on practical trade aspects of the work, such as techniques, fabrication details, and work sequences.

Nature and degree of responsibility for making judgments and decisions. Describe whether the work is performed under close supervision, or considerable independence from supervisory controls; whether the work instructions are complete and specific, or general in nature; whether guides such as technical manuals and work precedents can be applied directly, or must be modified; whether the incumbent has authority to deviate from instructions and work precedents without prior approval; whether assignments involve the need to make decisions and judgments which affect quality and adequacy of work performed.

3. Physical Effort

Describe the physical effort required to perform the work. Cover such areas as (1) physical exertion related to actions such as lifting, pushing, pulling, or carrying objects of varying weights, sizes, and shapes, (2) physical effort related to movements such as walking, running, climbing, crawling, and bending, and (3) strain related to lack of movement such as standing in place, crouching, or stooping for extended period of time.

4. Working Conditions

Describe the hazards, physical hardships, and working conditions to which incumbent is exposed in performing assigned work. Include the nature of the work environment; the extent to which it includes unpleasant, disagreeable, or hazardous conditions; the degree to which such conditions experienced; the frequency and duration of exposure; the adequacy of protective clothing and gear, safety devices, and safe trade practices; and the possible effects on incumbent.

Position descriptions for supervisory positions should include the following factor:

5. Nature of Supervisory Responsibility

Describe to what extent incumbent assigns, directs, and reviews the work of subordinates, and evaluates their work performance; plans, schedules, and coordinates work operations; solves problems related to the work supervised; determines material, equipment and facilities needed; explains and gains the support of subordinates for management policies and goals; and deals effectively with employees and union representatives on employee suggestions, complaints, grievances, and other matters.

SECTION 230

RATES OF PAY

232 COVERAGE

This section provides the basic rules for determining the rates of pay and acceptable level of competence for all Civil Service employees of Broadcasting. (For overseas employees, see MOA V-B 230.)

233 DEFINITIONS

233.1 Basic Salary or Compensation is the salary fixed by law or administrative action that is received by an employee before any deductions, and exclusive of additional pay of any kind.

233.2 Equivalent Increase in Salary is an increase in the basic salary equal to or greater than the amount of the within-grade/class increment of the grade/class in which the employee is serving, and includes a merit increase or a zero merit increase for PMRS employees. The following are not equivalent increases in compensation:

- a. an increase in basic salary under federal statute;

b. higher minimum pay rates established under Section 5303 of Title 5 USC, or an increase in such rates;

c. a quality step or meritorious service increase;

d. the periodic adjustment of a wage scale or the application of a new pay or evaluation plan under the Federal Wage System;

e. a temporary or term promotion when returned to the permanent grade and step; or

f. an increase resulting from placement of an employee in a supervisory or managerial position who does not satisfactorily complete a probationary period and is returned to a position at the same grade and step held by the employee before such placement.

233.3 Existing Rate is the rate received immediately prior to the effective date of a transfer, promotion, demotion or step increase.

233.4 Highest Previous Rate means the highest actual rate of basic pay previously received by an individual while employed in a position in a branch of the Federal Government (executive, legislative, or judicial); a Government corporation, as defined in 5 U.S.C. 103; the United States Postal Service or the Postal Rate Commission; or the government of the District of Columbia (except as provided in 531.203(d)(2)(v) of this part); without regard to whether the position was subject to the General Schedule; or the actual rate of basic pay for the highest grade and step previously held by an individual while employed in a position subject to the General Schedule.

Highest previous rate may be based on a regular tour of duty at any rate of basic pay received by an individual while serving under an appointment not limited to 90 days or less, or for a continuous period of not less than 90 days under one or more appointments without a break in service; exceptions are listed in 5 CFR 531.

Granting highest previous rate is at the discretion of the organization. An individual on an appointment of more than 90 days may receive highest previous rate even if the employee has not completed the 90 days. There is no requirement to serve a minimum period of time at the highest salary level.

For regulations on application of highest previous rate to employees paid special salary rates under 5 U.S.C. 5303, see para. 238.

233.5 Maximum Rate means the top rate for the grade/class of the General Schedule or Foreign Service pay schedules.

234 DETERMINING RATES OF PAY

234.1 Basic Rates of Pay are authorized by Chapter 53 of Title 5 U.S.C. for General Schedule, Foreign Service, Senior Level above GS-15, and Senior Executive Service employees. For Wage Grade employees under the Federal Wage System Schedule, rates are established in accordance with provisions of 5 U.S.C. 5341 and 5343 including those for radio antenna and tower maintenance workers, and for trades, crafts, material handling, and manual labor occupations in specific wage areas.

234.2 When Payable - Basic salary is paid an employee for work actually performed during the regular basic workweek, and for authorized absence during the basic workweek on a holiday, or leave with pay, on compensatory time off, or on excused absence granted pursuant to MOA V-A 690, but not for absence on leave without pay or absence without leave.

234.3 For New Appointees - The basic rate of compensation for new appointees without prior Federal civilian service is normally set at the first step of the General Schedule grade to which appointed. Entrance salaries above the first step of the grade to which appointed may be authorized based on Office of Personnel Management criteria (5 CFR 531). All such appointments above the minimum rate must be approved in advance by the Director of Personnel (B/P) or designee. Requests for appointments above the minimum rate must be submitted in writing by the selecting official with a justification to the Director of Personnel for approval. Depending on the basis for the higher rate, advanced approval from the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) may also be required.

234.4 For Appointment of Former Federal Employees - A former federal employee appointed by Broadcasting may be paid at the minimum salary rate of the grade to which appointed or at any scheduled rate of the grade which does not exceed the highest previous rate of pay as a federal employee. If the highest previous rate falls between two steps of the new grade, the employee may be given the higher rate.

234.5 For Changes to a Higher Grade/Class - Any employee promoted, repromoted or transferred from one grade in the General Schedule to a higher grade in the General Schedule will be compensated at the rate in the new grade that exceeds his or her rate in the previous grade by an amount equal to two within-grade increases of the grade from which promoted, repromoted or transferred. This rule also applies for temporary promotions.

234.6 Changes to the Same or Lower Grade/Class - An employee who is transferred to the same or lower grade/class, reassigned or demoted may be paid at any rate of the grade/class which does not exceed his or her highest previous salary rate. If his or her highest previous rate falls between two rates of pay in the new grade/class, the employee receives the higher rate. See para. 238 regarding employees on special salary rates.

234.7 For Wage Board Appointments - It is Broadcasting's policy to set the pay of individuals hired, transferred, reassigned, into Wage Board (Radio Broadcast Technician) bargaining unit positions in the Technical Operations Division and New York News Bureau based on the grade and salary table established in the negotiated agreement with AFSME Local 1418. This policy also applies to individuals who were at one time covered by Section 3 of Article V, A of the agreement but who subsequently vacated positions covered by this part of the agreement.

Normally pay will be set initially at Step 1 of the applicable grade level. Provisions for advance in-step hiring for new employees or highest previous/existing rate for former or current Government employees entering or reentering the pay system shall be applied only in cases where:

- a. the applicant clearly possesses special qualifications (i.e., an applicant with skills and experience of an exceptional or highly specialized nature), and
- b. the organization has a compelling need for the applicant's special qualifications. Except in extraordinary circumstances, pay will not be set initially above Step 3.

Requests for setting pay above Step 1 must be submitted by the selecting official, in writing, with a justification, to the Director of Personnel for approval.

234.8 Corrections

- a. If an employee is placed in a lower rate of pay than the one for which he or she may be eligible and there is evidence the action was taken in error, the error may be corrected retroactively.
- b. If an employee is placed in a lower rate of pay than the one for which he or she may be eligible because of limited funds, the rate of pay may not be increased later when funds become available.

234.9 Responsibility for Determining Rates of Pay - The Director, Office of Personnel is responsible for making final determinations on rates of pay.

235 WITHIN-GRADE INCREASES

235.1 Within-Grade Increases for General Schedule, Federal Wage System, Including Wage Board, Employees

- a. This section is Broadcasting's within-grade increases component of the PMS performance management plan. The PMS performance appraisal system for employee's covered under this section is contained in MOA V-A 450.
- b. Coverage - This section applies to all employees in the domestic service of Broadcasting under the General Schedule (including non-U.S. citizen [GG] employees) and Federal Wage System (including Wage Board employees). It does not apply to employees who are members of the Senior Executive Service (SES).
- c. Authority - The principal authorities for providing within-grade increases are Chapters 23 and 53 of Title 5 of the United States Code, Section 402 of Executive Order 11721 and Subchapter D of Part 531 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

235.2 Definitions

a. Acceptable Level of Competence - Fully Successful performance by an employee of the duties and responsibilities of his or her assigned position which warrants advancement of the employee's rate of basic pay to the next higher step of his/her grade subject to the requirements of Sections 235.4 and 235.7. The test for a within-grade increase eligibility for Wage Grade and Wage Board employees is that the overall rating in the most recent performance appraisal is "Satisfactory," i.e., "Fully Successful," or better. Therefore, for Wage Grade and Wage Board employees, Fully Successful performance is to be substituted for "Acceptable Level of Competence" throughout these regulations.

b. Critical Requirement - A component of a position consisting of one or more duties and responsibilities which contributes toward accomplishing organizational goals and objectives and which is of such importance that unacceptable (Unsuccessful) performance on the requirement would result in Unsuccessful performance in the position ("Critical requirement" is the term used by Broadcasting for a critical element as defined in 5 CFR 430.203).

c. Permanent Position - A position filled by a General Schedule employee whose appointment is not designated as temporary by law and does not have a definite time limitation of one year or less. "Permanent position" includes a position to which an employee is promoted on a temporary or term basis for at least one year, and may include positions allocated by the Office of Personnel as temporary.

d. Equivalent Increase in Pay - An increase or increases in an employee's rate of basic pay equal to or greater than the difference between the rate of pay for the grade and step occupied by the employee and the rate of pay for the next higher step of that grade. Examples of equivalent increases in pay are:

(1) any increase in basic salary resulting from a promotion;

(2) a regularly scheduled within-grade increase;

(3) a salary adjustment or combination of adjustments made since the last equivalent increase in pay resulting from conversion from one pay system to another, and equal to or greater than the amount of the within-grade increase for the grade to which the employee was appointed; and

(4) an employee moving from PMRS to general schedule who received one-half, one-third, or no portion of a merit increase is considered to have received the equivalent of a full step increase. He/she would start a new waiting period on the effective date of receipt or non-receipt of that merit increase.

235.3 Responsibilities

a. The Office of Personnel is responsible for:

(1) Notifying the appropriate supervisor or manager at least 90 days in advance of the date that each employee covered by this section will complete the waiting period for the next within-grade increase. Form WGI-03 is used for such notification.

(2) Reviewing and deciding reconsideration requests from employees of Services and Offices other than the Office of Personnel when a within-grade increase is denied. Requests from Personnel employees for reconsideration will be reviewed and decided by the Director, or his/her designee.

(3) Providing advice to supervisors and managers.

b. Head of Services and Offices or designees are responsible for:

(1) Ensuring that supervisors notify employees of any factors that raise a question about the level of their performance (see 235.8), and

(2) Approving or disapproving within grade increase determinations, including Notices of Negative Determination (see 235.8).

c. Supervisors are responsible for:

(1) Determining whether the performance of an employee who has completed the required waiting period is of an acceptable level of competence to warrant receiving a within-grade increase. Such determinations will be made using the performance appraisal process.

(2) Notifying employees of any factors that raise a question about the level of their performance (see 235.8).

(3) Obtaining the review and approval of a higher level manager/supervisor (normally the second level supervisor) on a positive determination to grant a WGI (Form WGI-03).

(4) Obtaining approval of Office or Service Head, or designee, on a Notice of Negative Determination and Form WGI-03.

235.4 Eligibility - An employee covered by this plan who has not reached the maximum rate of pay for the grade in which his or her position is placed (and, if in the General Schedule, is occupying a permanent position) shall be advanced in pay successively to the next higher rate within the grade provided that:

a. The employee's performance of the duties and responsibilities of his or her assigned position must be at an acceptable level of competence, as defined in this section by authority of Section 402 of E.O. 11721, as amended. To be determined at an acceptable level of competence, the employee's most recent rating of record as defined in MOA V-A 451.5 k., must be at least "Fully Successful."

(1) When a within-grade increase decision is not consistent with the employee's most recent rating of record a more current rating of record must be prepared.

(2) The summary rating of record used as the basis for an acceptable level of competence determination for a within-grade increase must have been assigned no earlier than the most recently completed appraisal period;

b. The employee must have completed the required waiting period for advancement to the next higher step of the grade of his or her position; and

c. The employee must not have received an equivalent increase during the waiting period.

235.5 Waiting Period

a. Length of a waiting period

(1) For General Schedule employees with prearranged regularly scheduled tours of duty the waiting periods for advancement to the following steps in all General Schedule grades are:

- (a) Steps 2, 3, and 4 - 52 calendar weeks of creditable service;
- (b) Steps 5, 6, and 7 - 104 calendar weeks of creditable service; and
- (c) Steps 8, 9, and 10 - 156 calendar weeks of creditable service.

(2) For General Schedule employees without prearranged regularly scheduled tours of duty (e.g., for employees working on an intermittent basis), a day's credit is given for each day in a pay status. The waiting periods are:

- (a) Steps 2, 3, and 4 - 260 days of creditable service in a pay status over a period of not less than 52 calendar weeks;
- (b) Steps 5, 6, and 7 - 520 days of creditable service in a pay status over a period of not less than 104 calendar weeks; and
- (c) Steps 8, 9, and 10 - 780 days of creditable service in a pay status over a period of not less than 156 calendar weeks.

(3) For non-supervisory or leader Wage Grade employees with prearranged regularly scheduled tours of duty, the waiting periods are:

- (a) Rate 2: 26 weeks of creditable service in rate 1. (Form WGI-03 will suffice to certify an employee's performance at a satisfactory level when a performance appraisal report is not yet required.);
- (b) Rate 3: 78 weeks of creditable service in rate 2; and
- (c) If applicable, to rates 4 and 5: 104 weeks of creditable service in each of rates 3 and 4.

(4) For supervisory Wage Grade employees:

- (a) To rate 2: 26 weeks of creditable service in rate 1;
- (b) To rate 3: 78 weeks of creditable service in rate 2; and
- (c) To rates 4 and 5: 104 weeks of creditable service at the next lower rate.

(5) For Wage Board Radio Broadcast Technicians:

52 weeks of creditable service at the next lower rate.

b. Commencement of a waiting period - A waiting period begins:

(1) On the first appointment as an employee of the Federal Government, regardless of tenure;

(2) On receiving an equivalent increase; or

(3) After a period of nonpay status or a break in service (alone or in combination) in excess of 52 calendar weeks unless the non pay status or break in service is creditable service under Section 235.6.

c. A waiting period is not interrupted by non-workdays intervening between an employee's last scheduled workday in one position and his/her first scheduled workday in the new position.

235.6 Creditable Service Toward a Within-Grade Increase

a. For General Schedule (GS) Employees

(1) Civilian employment in any branch of the Federal Government (executive, legislative, or judicial) or with a government corporation as defined in Section 103 of Title 5, United States Code, is creditable service in the computation of a waiting period. Service credit is given during this employment for periods of annual, sick, and other leave with pay; advanced annual and sick leave; and service under a temporary or term appointment. Depending on the specific provisions of law or regulations, service may be creditable for the completion of one waiting period or for the completion of successive waiting periods.

(2) Service creditable for one within-grade increase

(a) Military service as defined in Section 8331(13) of Title 5, United States Code, is creditable service in the computation of a waiting period when an employee is re-employed with the Federal Government not later than 52 calendar weeks after separation from such service or hospitalization continuing thereafter for a period of not more than one year.

(b) Time in a nonpay status is creditable service in the computation of a waiting period for an employee with a scheduled tour of duty when it does not exceed an aggregate of:

(i) Two workweeks in the waiting period for steps 2, 3, and 4;

(ii) Four workweeks in the waiting period for steps 5, 6, and 7;

(iii) Six workweeks in the waiting period for steps 8, 9, and 10.

Except as provided in paragraph (3) of this section, time in a nonpay status in excess of the allowable amount shall extend a waiting period by the excess amount.

(3) Service creditable for successive within-grade increases

(a) A leave of absence from a position in which an employee is covered by this section, whether the employee is on leave without pay or considered to be on furlough, is creditable service in the computation of waiting periods for successive within-grade increases when:

(i) The employee is absent due to military service as defined in Section 8331(13) of Title 5, United States Code, and returns to pay status through the exercise of a restoration of right provided by law, Executive Order or regulation;

(ii) The employee is receiving injury (worker's) compensation under Subchapter I of Chapter 81 of Title 5, United States Code;

iii) The employee is performing service that is creditable under Section 8332(b) (5) or (7) of Title 5, United States Code (applies to certain service with Peace Corps, VISTA, and ACTION);

(iv) The employee is assigned to a State or local government or institution of higher education under Sections 3371-3376 of Title 5, United States Code.

(a) The period from the date of an employee's separation from Federal Service with a restoration of re-employment right granted by law, Executive Order, or regulation to the date of restoration or re-employment with the Federal Government through the exercise of that right is creditable service in the computation of waiting periods for successive within-grade increases.

(b) The period during which a separated employee is in receipt of injury compensation under Subchapter I of Chapter 81 of Title 5, United States Code, as a result of an injury incurred by the employee in the performance of duty is creditable service in the computation of waiting periods for successive within-grade increases when the employee is re-employed with the Federal Government.

235.7 Determination of Acceptable Level of Competence

a. Employees covered by the appraisal system established in MOA V-A 450 shall be informed of the specific performance requirements that constitute an acceptable level of competence within the time frame and by means of communication of performance standards established under MOA V-A 450.

b. Employees not covered by this appraisal system shall be informed of the specific requirements for performance at an acceptable level of competence within a reasonable period of time after initial appointment or permanent change in position.

c. An acceptable level of competence determination shall be based on a current rating of record made under the provisions of MOA V-A 450.

d. Personnel will notify the appropriate manager or supervisor at least 90 days in advance of the date that a covered employee will complete the waiting period for the next within-grade increase using Form WGI-03.

e. The appropriate immediate supervisor or manager will determine whether the employee's performance is of an "Acceptable Level of Competence," as described in Section 235.7h. The determination must be reviewed and approved by a higher level supervisor, normally the second level supervisor. Form WGI-03 must be signed by the immediate supervisor and reviewed and approved by a higher level supervisor, indicating the decision made, and returned to Personnel.

However, in those cases where it is determined that the employee's work is not of an acceptable level of competence, the head of the Service or Office, or designee, must sign the Form WGI-03 and attach a notice of negative determination as required in Section 235.8.

f. The decision to grant or withhold a within-grade increase must be supported by the employee's most recent rating of record. If the within-grade increase decision is not consistent with the employee's most recent rating of record, a more current rating of record must be prepared. The rating of record used as the basis for an acceptable level of competence determination for a within-grade increase must have been assigned no earlier than the most recently completed appraisal period.

g. If an employee has been reduced in grade because of unacceptable ("Unsuccessful") performance and has served in one position at the lower grade for at least the minimum appraisal period (90 days), a rating of record at the lower grade shall be used as the basis for an acceptable level of competence determination.

h. Each supervisor must determine whether an employee's performance warrants a within-grade increase once the employee has completed the required waiting period. To warrant a within-grade increase, an employee's performance must meet the acceptable level of competence (i.e., at least Fully Successful) based on his or her most recent summary rating of record and must remain at the Fully Successful or higher level at the time of the within-grade increase determination. If the employee's rating of record is less than Fully Successful, but his or her performance subsequently has improved to the Fully Successful level, a new rating of record must be prepared. When these conditions are met, the immediate supervisor must sign the WGI-03 indicating approval and a higher level supervisor (normally the second level supervisor) must also review and approve the determination granting the within-grade increase and return it to Personnel.

i. Special circumstances affecting General Schedule, and Federal Wage System, including Wage Board, employees

(1) An acceptable level of competence determination must be delayed when either of the following applies:

(a) An employee has not had 90 days to demonstrate acceptable performance because he or she has not been informed of the specific requirements for an acceptable level of competence in his or her current position and the employee has not been given a performance rating in any position within 90 days before the end of the waiting period; or

(b) An employee has been reduced in grade because of unacceptable performance to a position in which he or she is eligible for a within-grade increase or will become eligible within the minimum 90 day rating period.

(2) When a within-grade increase determination has been delayed:

(a) The employee shall be informed that his or her determination is postponed and the rating period extended and shall be told of the specific requirements for performance at an acceptable level of competence, and a copy of Form WGI-03 shall be returned to the Office of Personnel explaining the delay.

(b) An acceptable level of competence determination shall then be made upon completion of the minimum 90 day rating period and shall be based on the employee's rating of record completed at the end of the appraisal period.

(c) If, following the delay, the employee's performance is determined to be at an acceptable level of competence, the within-grade increase will be granted retroactively to the beginning of the pay period following completion of the applicable waiting period.

(3) An acceptable level of competence determination shall be waived and a within-grade increase granted when an employee has not served in any position for the minimum 90 day rating period during the final 52 calendar weeks of the waiting period because of one or more of the following reasons:

(a) Absences that are creditable service in the computation of a waiting period or periods under 5 CFR 531.406 (as defined in MOA V-A 235.6);

(b) Paid leave;

(c) The employee received service credit under the back pay provisions of 5 CFR 550, Subpart H;

(d) Details to another agency or employer for which no rating has been prepared; or

(e) Long-term training.

In such a situation, there shall be a presumption that the employee would have performed at an acceptable level of competence had the employee performed the duties of his or her position of record for the minimum 90 day rating period.

235.8 Denying Within-Grade Increases

a. A negative determination will be made when a supervisor determines that an employee's performance is not at an acceptable level of competence. This may occur, for example, when:

(1) The most recent rating of record is at the Minimally Successful level and has not improved;

(2) Performance has deteriorated to a less than Fully Successful level since the most recent rating of record; or

(3) Performance remains at the Unsuccessful level since the most recent rating of record.

The negative determination shall be communicated through a Notice of Negative Determination (see paragraph d below) approved by the Office Head or designee. A copy of this Notice must be attached to the WGI-03 Form and sent to the Office of Personnel.

b. Minimally Successful Performer -- When an employee's most recent rating of record is Minimally Successful, and the supervisor determines that performance has improved to the Fully Successful level by the end of the WGI waiting period, the employee shall be given a new rating of record. If the employee's performance has not improved to the Fully Successful level by the end of the waiting period, the employee shall be given a Notice of Negative Determination.

c. Deteriorated Performance -- When the performance of an employee with a rating of record of Fully Successful has deteriorated to a lower level at the time of the within-grade increase determination, the supervisor must consult with the Office of Personnel and prepare and give the employee a new rating of record to support a negative determination.

See MOA V-A 450 for procedures when an employee is given an Unsuccessful rating of record.

d. Notice of Negative Within-Grade Increase Determination - If the employee's performance is not at an acceptable level of competence at the end of the waiting period, the supervisor, with the advice and assistance of the Office of Personnel and the approval of the Office Director, or Service Head, or designee, shall give the employee a Notice of Negative Within-Grade Increase Determination which shall:

(1) Set forth the reasons for any negative determination and the respects in which the employee must improve his or her performance in order to be granted a within-grade increase in the future; and

(2) Inform the employee (or the employee's representative) of his or her right to request in writing that the Director of Personnel reconsider the determination. The written request must be filed within 15 days after receiving the Notice of Negative Determination and set forth the reasons the Director should reconsider the determination. Employees in the Office of Personnel should send their requests to the Director of Broadcasting .

(NOTE: A Performance Improvement Plan may be combined with the Negative Determination to fulfill the requirement in V-A 450 when an Unsuccessful rating of record is given to an employee.)

An employee in a duty status shall be granted a reasonable amount of official time to review the material relied upon to support the negative determination and to prepare a response to the determination.

The waiting period for a within-grade increase may not be extended nor may the determination be delayed except under circumstances described in 235.7i.

e. A copy of the written notice of denial of the within-grade increase will be placed in the employee's Official Personnel Folder with the SF-50, Notification of Personnel Action. If the denial is later reversed through reconsideration or appeal, these documents will be removed from the Official Personnel Folder.

f. The Director, B/P, or designee, will review and decide reconsideration requests for employees of Services and Offices other than B/P. Requests from B/P employees for reconsideration will be reviewed and decided by the Director of International Broadcasting, or designee. Employee requests for reconsideration of a Notice of Negative Determination (WGI), as described in 235.8d. must be reviewed in accordance with procedures for such reviews at 235.8f. through l. and may not be processed as a grievance under the terms of a collective bargaining agreement. Only a negative determination sustained after completion of the reconsideration process may be raised as a grievance under a collective bargaining agreement. (See also 235.8l.)

g. When an employee files a request for reconsideration, the Office of Personnel shall establish an employee reconsideration file which shall contain all pertinent documents relating to the negative determination and request for reconsideration, including copies of the following:

- (1) The written negative determination and the basis therefore;
- (2) The employee's written request for reconsideration;
- (3) The report of investigation when an investigation is made;
- (4) The written summary or transcript of any personal presentation made; and
- (5) The final decision by the Director, B/P or the Director of Broadcasting on the request for reconsideration.

h. The employee reconsideration file shall not contain any document that has not been made available to the employee or the employee's personal representative with an opportunity to submit a written exception to any summary of the employee's personal presentation.

i. The time limit to request a reconsideration may be extended when the employee shows he/she was not notified of the time limit and was not otherwise aware of it, or that the employee was prevented by circumstances beyond his/her control from requesting reconsideration within the time limit.

j. Broadcasting may disallow as an employee's personal representative an individual whose activities as a representative would cause a conflict of interest of position, an employee whose release from his/her official duties and responsibilities would give rise to unreasonable costs to the Government, or an employee whose priority work assignment precludes his or her release from official duties and responsibilities. Section 7114 of Title 5, United States Code, and the terms of any applicable collective bargaining agreement govern representation for employees in an exclusive bargaining unit.

k. Broadcasting shall provide the employee with a written final decision normally within 30 calendar days from the request for reconsideration. If a final decision can not be issued within the 30 days, the employee will be so notified in writing during the 30 day period.

l. When a negative determination is sustained after reconsideration, the employee shall be informed in writing of the reasons for the decision. General Schedule employees will be informed of their right to appeal the decision to the Merit Systems Protection Board. Non-GS employees not covered by a collective bargaining unit agreement (e.g., wage supervisors) may grieve the decision under the administrative grievance procedures described in MOA V-A 540. For an employee covered by a collective bargaining agreement, a reconsideration decision that sustains a negative determination is only reviewable in accordance with the terms of the agreement.

m. When a within-grade increase has been withheld, a supervisor may, at any time thereafter, prepare a new rating of record for the employee and grant the within-grade increase when he or she determines that the employee demonstrated sustained performance at an acceptable level of competence. However, the supervisor shall determine whether the employee's performance is at an acceptable level of competence after no more than 52 calendar weeks following the original eligibility date for the within-grade increase and, for as long as the within-grade increase continues to be denied, determinations will be made after no longer than each 52 calendar weeks.

n. A new WGI-03 must be signed when such a redetermination is made and the employee so notified. If the employee's performance warrants granting a within-grade increase, the effective date of the within-grade increase shall be the first day of the first pay period following the redetermination.

235.9 Effective Dates of Within-Grade Increases

a. Except as provided below, a within-grade increase is effective on the first day of the first pay period following completion of the required waiting period, provided that the appropriate supervisors or managers have certified that the employee has performed at an "Acceptable Level of Competence."

b. If, through an oversight, a favorable decision is delayed beyond the end of the waiting period, the pay increase will be retroactive to the beginning of the first pay period following the end of the employee's waiting period.

c. If a reconsideration or appeal results in reversing an original denial of within-grade increase, the within-grade increase will be effective on the original eligibility date.

d. When an "Acceptable Level of Competence" is achieved at some time after a negative determination, the effective date is the first day of the first pay period after the new "Acceptable Level of Competence" determination.

e. When the effective date of within-grade increase occurs simultaneously with the effective date of another personnel action, the within-grade increase and the personnel action will be processed in the order that gives the employee the maximum benefit.

f. An improper personnel action later corrected in accordance with mandatory, statutory or regulatory requirements does not extend the waiting period for a within-grade increase. In such a case, the waiting period begins as of the date it would have begun had the improper action not occurred.

g. See MOA V-A 235.2d(4) for effective date for employees moving from PMRS to general schedule.

237 RATES OF PAY FOR STATUTORY AND EXEMPTED POSITIONS

237.1 Executive Positions - Under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 53, Subchapter II, Executive Positions are identified.

237.2 Senior Executive Service (SES) Positions - Under P.L. 95-454, (Civil Service Reform Act of 1978) there are six pay rates (ES-1 through ES-6) which are periodically adjusted by the President. The lowest rate must not be less than 120 percent of the minimum rate of a GS-15 and the highest cannot exceed the rate of Executive Level IV.

237.3 Senior Level (SL) Positions Above GS-15 - PL 101-509, 11/5/90, and 5 USC 5376, authorize the Director to fix the rate of basic pay for positions classified above GS-15, other than Senior Executive Service, at not less than 120% of the minimum rate of basic pay payable for GS-15 of the General Schedule and not greater than the rate of basic pay payable for level IV of the Executive Schedule.

237.4 Exempted Positions

a. Experts and Consultants - The rules for determining rates of pay for experts and consultants are included in MOA V-A-800.

b. Exempted Positions Other Than Wage Board and Statutory Positions

(1) General Classification Plan

(a) Exempted positions, other than Wage Board and positions for which the compensation is set by statute, are those positions that are not subject to Chapter 51 of 5 U.S.C. (formerly known as the Classification Act of 1949, as amended), nor to any other statutory pay fixing authority.

(b) This paragraph applies to persons employed as non-(U.S.) citizens for use in the United States (see MOA V-A-820) and persons employed under appropriation act authority for temporary employment (see MOA V-A-840).

(c) Exempted positions are classified in GG grades that follow substantially the same standards and guides used in classifying GS positions.

(2) Basic Rates of Compensation - The basic rates of compensation for exempted positions are the same as those for comparable grades in the General Schedule.

(3) Determining Rates of Pay

In general, the rules for determining rates of pay for employees in exempted positions are substantially the same as those for employees in GS positions (paragraph 234.)

(4) Within-Grade Increases

Within-grade increases are not provided by law for employees occupying exempted positions, but the exempted schedule provides for successive steps within an exempted schedule grade and within-grade increases may be given, within available appropriations, in the same manner as within-grade increases are given to employees in GS positions (paragraph 235 above).

238 INCREASED MINIMUM RATES FOR GS POSITIONS (SPECIAL SALARY RATES)

238.1 Office of Personnel Management (OPM) Authority - As authorized under Title 5 CFR Part 530, OPM may establish higher minimum rates of basic compensation for one or more grades of GS positions and may make corresponding increases in all step rates of the salary range for each grade provided that:

a. The salary rates in private enterprise for one or more occupations in one or more areas or locations are so substantially above the salary rates of statutory pay schedules as to handicap significantly the Government's recruitment or retention of well-qualified persons.

238.2 Responsibility - The Office of Personnel is responsible for negotiating with the OPM and other agencies in requesting and obtaining approvals of increased minimum rates for Classification Act positions.

238.3 Determining Highest Previous Rate

a. Highest previous rate may be applied to an employee under a special salary rate if 1) the special rate of pay is the employee's current rate of basic pay; and 2) the Director of Personnel, makes the determination that the need for the services of the employee, and his or her contribution to Broadcasting will be greater in the position to which she/he is reassigned. This can include reassignment to a position with promotion potential. However, an employee who is demoted to accept a job with growth potential or promotion potential may not retain the special salary rate because the action does not meet the 5 CFR definition of reassignment.

b. Such a determination must be made on a case-by-case basis. The receiving element must submit a written justification to the Office of Personnel, which will maintain a written record of the decision.

c. The employee must be otherwise eligible for the highest previous rate.

239 QUALITY STEP INCREASES

a. Purpose - Quality step increases (QSIs) are part of the Performance Management System (PMS) and are intended to recognize Outstanding performance by providing faster than normal step increases. QSIs allow Broadcasting to recognize and reward sustained high levels of performance which substantially exceed the levels required to receive a Within Grade Increase (WGI).

b. Authority - QSIs are authorized under Title 5, United States Code, Section 5336 and Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 531, Subpart E. GG (non-U.S. citizen) and negotiated Wage (WB) employees are eligible for QSIs.

c. Definitions - Quality Step Increase (QSI) - An increase in an employee's rate of basic pay from one step of the grade of his/her position to the next higher step of the grade in accordance with this section. (Also referred to as a "step" increase.)

239.1 Basic Requirements and Coverage:

a. A QSI shall not be required but may be granted, subject to budgetary constraints, only to an employee in a General Schedule, (GS), non-citizen (GG), or negotiated wage (WB) position, who receives a rating of record (Annual Performance Appraisal) of (Outstanding) as defined in MOA V-A 450. (Senior Executive Service (SES) and Performance Management and Recognition System (PMRS) employees are not eligible to receive QSIs.)

b. As provided by 5 USC 5336, a QSI may not be granted to a covered employee who has received a QSI within the preceding 52 consecutive calendar weeks; or to an employee who has reached the maximum step of his/her grade level.

239.2 Guidelines - In determining whether to recommend or approve a QSI, supervisors and managers should consider the following guidelines:

a. (1) The employee's performance should exceed the level which justifies recognition by a one-time only cash award. The employee's overall performance must be consistently outstanding in all respects and warrants an increase in the employee's rate of basic pay. Added consideration should be given to an employee who, due to a waiting period of more than one year, cannot receive a within grade increase within the year;

b. The performance must have been maintained at the Outstanding level for a sufficiently substantial period of time, at least one year, to be considered characteristic of the employee;

c. The performance must not have been recognized adequately by other means such as a promotion; or be susceptible to recognition by career promotion.

d. The performance should be expected to continue at the Outstanding level; and the employee should be expected to remain in the same position or similar position and at the same grade level for at least sixty (60) days;

e. QSI's can not be based upon performance during a detail or a temporary promotion.

239.3 Nominations and Approval of QSI's

a. A determination to grant a QSI should be made as soon as practicable after the Outstanding performance appraisal is approved.

b. Nominations may be initiated only by the employee's supervisor or any higher-level supervisor.

c. Authority to grant QSI's will be delegated to the lowest practicable level of management. Directors, Directors of independent Offices or Services, or their designees, will approve the granting of the QSI (with appropriate clearance for consistency with applicable guidelines by the Office of Personnel. Approving officials must be at a higher level than the recommending official.

d. QSI nominations should be processed expeditiously, so as to allow the designated approving official to take final action within thirty days from its initiation.

e. Approved QSI nominations are to be forwarded to the Office of Personnel for immediate processing. (A sample QSI nomination format is provided at Exhibit 230B.)

239.4 Effective Date - The QSI should be made effective as soon as possible after it is approved. QSI's shall be effective at the beginning of the first pay period following receipt by the Office of Personnel.

239.5 Relationship to Within-Grade Increases - A QSI is in addition to a within-grade increase and is not an equivalent increase in pay for within-grade increase purposes. A QSI does not affect an employee's anniversary date nor the waiting period for the next WGI, unless the QSI places the employee in a longer waiting period. For example, a GS employee at step 3 who receives a QSI would begin immediately to be paid at the rate of step 4, but would have to wait two years from the last equivalent increase for a WGI to step 5. Time already served at step 3 would be counted toward the total waiting period.

239.6 Informing Employees About QSIs - Personnel will publish annually a statistical compilation of the number of QSI's granted during the year by grade level.

239.7 Orientation and Training

a. New employees upon their entering on duty are provided information regarding the PMS, including the quality step increase program.

b. See provisions of MOA V-A 450 regarding training of supervisors, managers, and employees.

239.8 Annual Program Review

Program evaluation will be conducted annually by the Office of Personnel in accordance with MOA V-A 450.

Exhibit 230A

Criteria for a Quality Step Increase

- a. The performance should exceed the level which justifies recognition by a one-time only cash award. The employee's overall performance is consistently outstanding in all respects and warrants an increase in the employee's rate of basic pay. (Added consideration should be given to an employee who, due to a waiting period of more than year, cannot receive a within grade increase within the year);
- b. The performance must have been maintained at the Outstanding level for a sufficiently substantial period of time, at least one year, to be considered characteristic of the employee;
- c. The nominated employee must not have been recognized adequately by other means such as a promotion.
- d. The performance is expected to continue at the Outstanding level;
- e. QSIs can not be based on performance during a detail or temporary promotion.

SENIOR LEVEL PAY

The Federal Employees Pay Comparability Act of 1990 (FEPCA) established a new pay system for GS-16, 17, and 18 employees outside of the General Schedule. In accordance with FEPCA, employees holding these personal grades were converted to the Senior Level Pay System effective May 4, 1991 at a rate of pay equal to the rate payable immediately before the conversion.

In accordance with 5 USC 5376, the Director is authorized to fix the rate of basic pay for senior level positions. Pay rates under this system must be not less than 120 percent of the minimum rate of basic pay payable for GS-15 of the General Schedule, and not greater than the rate of basic pay payable for level IV of the Executive Schedule. Pay of an individual may not be adjusted more than once by the Director in any 12-month period. If a senior level employee's salary is adjusted under 5 CFR 534.504 and it does not exceed the average General Schedule adjustment, it will not be considered to start a new 12-month period.

Any annual pay adjustment under 5 CFR 534.504, and the amount, will be determined by the Director once a year.

Pay setting under 5 CFR 534.503 is discretionary and will be determined by the Director.

Performance appraisal and performance awards are discussed in appropriate sections of MOA V-A.

PREMIUM COMPENSATION

241 INTRODUCTION

241.1 Purpose and Coverage - The following material informs managers, supervisors, administrative personnel, and employees of eligibility rules for premium compensation and how to compute premium pay. These rules generally apply to all Broadcasting employees working in the United States other than members of the Senior Foreign Service and Senior Executive Service, Experts and Consultants, wage system employees, and non-U.S. citizens employed under personal services contracts. Rules in MOA V-A 246 apply to wage system employees. Premium pay rules for personal service contract employees are included in their contracts.

241.2 Basic Statute and Regulations - Chapter 55 of 5 U.S. Code prescribes premium compensation rules for GS, GG, GM, and FP personnel and wage system employees. 5 U.S.C. 5343 prescribes night shift differential rules for wage system employees.

241.3 Related MOA Material

a. MOA V-A 251 states that the maximum rate of GS-15 is the ceiling for premium compensation for GS, GG, GM, and FP personnel. The ceiling applies to night differential, overtime pay or compensatory time off, Sunday pay, and holiday premium pay for holiday work, authorized under 5 U.S.C.

b. MOA V-A 600 contains regulations and instructions on work scheduling, including conditions under which employees will be paid for holidays not worked and the granting of compensatory time to GS, GG, GM, and FP personnel.

c. MOA V-A 800 contains compensation regulations for Experts and Consultants.

d. MOA VII 500 contains instructions on reporting work and absences for pay-roll purposes.

242 OVERTIME COMPENSATION AND COMPENSATORY TIME OFF - All employees as stated in MOA V-A 241.1 are covered by these overtime compensation provisions if they are exempt from the Fair Labor Standards Act under the definitions for executive, administrative, or professional employees. The FLSA exemption criteria are narrowly defined and Broadcasting is responsible for proving that an employee is exempt.

242.1 Definitions

a. Irregular or Occasional Overtime is hours of duty in excess of 40 hours in an administrative workweek or in excess of 8 in a workday that is officially ordered in advance by management but cannot be scheduled in advance of the administrative workweek as part of the employee's regularly scheduled workweek. See paragraph 242.6 for regulations regarding premium pay and compensatory time for irregular or occasional overtime.

b. Regularly Scheduled Overtime is hours of duty in excess of 40 hours in an employee's administrative workweek or in excess of 8 hours in an employee's workday that is officially ordered and scheduled (or should have been scheduled) by management prior to the beginning of the administrative workweek, designated by calendar days and number of hours per day as part of the administrative work-week. Federal statute prohibits the earning of compensatory time in lieu of payment for regularly scheduled overtime, but the maximum limitation in MOA V-A 251 applies for overtime compensated under 5 U.S.C.

Failure to schedule overtime before the administrative workweek begins when the supervisor has knowledge that overtime will be required, knows the day(s) and hour(s) the work is performed, and has the opportunity to determine which employee(s) is to be scheduled or re-scheduled, will probably result in a determination that the employee(s) is entitled to regularly scheduled overtime, and night pay differential for overtime work performed between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

c. Administrative workweek, basic workweek, irregular workweek, basic workday, flextime, regularly scheduled administrative workweek, and "suffer or permit" overtime, are defined in MOA V-A 601.2.

d. If an employee is officially ordered by management to work more than 40 hours during an administrative work-week or more than 8 hours during one or more days of the same administrative workweek, his or her overtime hours are determined on the basis that results in the larger number of overtime hours.

242.2 Units of Overtime Work - The minimum amount of overtime work that is credited and compensated is one-quarter of an hour. Additional amounts of over-time for each workday are reported and compensated for in quarter-hour multiples. Smaller fractions are dropped and may not be saved from day to day for compensation at the end of the week or pay period. This rule applies to both overtime pay and compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay. For example, an employee who works one hour and fifty minutes of approved overtime on one day and one hour and twenty-five minutes on another during a pay period is compensated for one and three-quarter hours of overtime on the first day and one and one-quarter on the second. The remaining periods that are less than one-quarter of an hour are dropped.

242.3 Call-Back Overtime

a. Employees who are required to perform unscheduled overtime work on a day when no work was regularly scheduled for them or who are required to return to their place of employment to perform unscheduled overtime work are entitled to overtime compensation for at least two hours, even though they work less than two hours.

b. Employees are entitled to the callback minimum of two hours if they are directed in advance to return to work more than one hour after they complete their regular workday or after they complete an overtime assignment.

c. Employees are not entitled to the call-back minimum of two hours if:

(1) They are directed in advance to return to their place of employment no more than one hour after the completion of their scheduled workday or after completion of an overtime assignment.

(2) They elect to go home or leave the work premises to eat a meal between the end of their regular workday and a period of overtime work or between periods of overtime work.

(3) They are required to report early for duty that merges with and continues into a scheduled daily tour. (Compensation will be only for the time actually worked -- CG Decision B154332 8-2-65).

242.4 Effect of Absences

a. Leave or Absences with Pay - Authorized absence from duty in a pay status (for example -- annual or sick leave, excused absence on a holiday, or excused absence for voting) during an employee's basic workday or workweek does not, of itself, preclude overtime compensation for overtime actually worked during the administrative workday or workweek in which the absence occurred.

b. Time in Non-pay Status - Periods in non-pay status (LWOP, suspension, or AWOL) are not creditable in determining whether an employee is entitled to overtime (42 CG 429).

c. Effect of Travel - Hours of travel are treated as hours of work for determining entitlement to overtime compensation only if:

(1) The hours of travel fall within the days and hours of the employee's regularly scheduled administrative workweek, including regularly scheduled overtime hours.

(2) The travel (a) involves performance of authorized or approved work (b) immediately precedes or follows travel that involves the performance of work while traveling (c) is carried out under such arduous or unusual conditions that the travel is inseparable from work, or (d) results from an event which could not be scheduled or controlled administratively.

242.5 Rate of Overtime Pay

a. Overtime pay for an employee whose salary does not exceed the first step of GS-10 is one and one-half times his or her regular pay, exclusive of any other premium pay (night-pay, holiday pay, or Sunday pay).

b. Overtime pay for an employee whose salary exceeds the first step of GS-10 is one and one-half times the first step of GS-10.

c. An employee whose overtime pay rate is less than his or her straight-time pay rate is paid straight-time rates for any regularly scheduled over-time within his or her daily tour of duty, but his or her pay rate for over-time in addition to his or her 40-hour basic workweek is determined under (b) immediately above.

242.6 Compensatory Time Off

a. Definition - Compensatory time off is authorized absence from duty in lieu of pay for irregular or occasional overtime work (see MOA V-A 602.6e).

b. Compensatory Time Not Authorized for Regularly Scheduled Overtime - Federal statute provides that an employee who performs regularly scheduled overtime work must receive pay for such overtime and may not be granted compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay.

c. Effect of Maximum Aggregate Compensation Limitation on Compensatory Time Off - Compensatory time off may not be granted for overtime work for which overtime pay is precluded by the maximum aggregate salary limitation (maximum rate of GS-15).

d. Employee Whose Salary Is Above Top GS-10 Rate - It is the policy of Broadcasting to grant compensatory time off for officially ordered or approved irregular or occasional overtime, in lieu of overtime pay, to all GS, GG, GM, and FP employees whose salary exceeds the maximum GS-10 rate. Exceptions to this policy may be made only as follows: An employee whose salary is above the top GS-10 rate, but whose salary is below the minimum GS-14 rate may be paid for irregular or occasional overtime, provided:

(1) The overtime worked has first been recorded as compensatory time,

(2) Every effort has been made to grant the compensatory time off, and

(3) Following the end of the eighth full pay period after the pay period in which the compensatory time off was earned, payment is scheduled for any remaining hours. The Director, Office or Service head, or his or her designee, must certify to Finance on the Time and Attendance Report, for the pay period in which payment is to be made that such remaining compensatory time off could not be granted within the allowed period.

An employee whose salary is at the minimum GS-14 rate and above may not be paid for irregular or occasional overtime, and forfeits the compensatory time off if it is not taken within eight pay periods.

e. Employees at the maximum rate of GS-15 (or Foreign Service equivalent) and above are prohibited from receiving overtime pay and compensatory time off.

f. Employees at or Below Top GS-10 Rate - A GS, GG, GM, or FP employee whose salary does not exceed the maximum rate for GS-10 has a legal right to choose to receive pay for irregular or occasional overtime. However, in line with Broadcasting's cost reduction policy, such employees should be encouraged to exercise their option to take compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay.

243 NIGHT-WORK AND NIGHT PAY DIFFERENTIAL

243.1 Definition - Night-work is regularly scheduled work that is performed between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. based upon the time observed (standard or daylight saving), and scheduled (or should have been scheduled) in advance of the administrative workweek for an employee for a specific day(s) and hour(s).

Night pay differential is a premium of 10 percent of the employee's basic pay added to the basic pay and is payable for night-work occurring during an employee's daily tour of duty and/or during a period of regularly scheduled overtime, but not during a period of irregular or occasional overtime.

243.2 Applicability - Except for Experts and Consultants, wage system employees, members of the Senior Foreign Service and Senior Executive Service, and non-U.S. citizens employed under personal services contracts, all full-time employees and part-time employees with a scheduled duty tour working in the United States are eligible for night pay differential. See paragraph 246 for night pay differential for wage system employees. Intermittent employees with no prearranged duty tour are not eligible for night pay differential. Employees who elect to work beyond 6:00 p.m. under the Flextime program are not eligible for night pay differential.

243.3 Units of Night-work - The minimum of night-work that is credited and compensated is one-quarter of an hour. Additional amounts of night pay differential for each workday are reported and compensated in quarter-hour multiples. Smaller fractions are dropped and may not be saved from day to day for compensation at the end of the week or pay period.

243.4 Temporary Assignment to Night-work - When an employee is temporarily assigned after the start of the administrative workweek to a daily tour of duty (non-overtime hours) which includes hours between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., night pay differential is authorized. When overtime work is also required between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. in addition to the daily tour of duty, and the overtime is scheduled after the start of the administrative workweek, the overtime performed is considered irregular or occasional and night pay differential is not authorized.

243.5 Effect of Absences

a. Excused Absences - Night pay differential is paid during periods when an employee is excused on a holiday or a day observed in lieu of the holiday, is on compensatory time off, court leave or military leave, or otherwise excused with pay and without charge to annual or sick leave.

b. Travel Status - Night pay differential is paid for all night hours of the employee's regularly scheduled daily duty tour while on official travel, even though he or she performs no work.

c. Effect on Pay, Annual, or Sick Leave - Night pay differential does not affect deductions for Civil Service or Foreign Service Retirement nor the amount of insurance under FEGLI, nor is it used in computing overtime, Sunday, or holiday premium pay authorized under 5 U.S.C.

Night pay differential is paid during periods when an employee is on annual or sick leave only if his or her total paid annual and sick leave during the pay period, including both day and night hours, does not exceed seven hours.

244 SUNDAY PAY

244.1 Definition - Sunday pay is premium pay for non-overtime work performed during an employee's regularly scheduled daily tour of duty, any part of which occurs between midnight Saturday and midnight Sunday. Sunday is defined as the calendar day, not as a day "in lieu of Sunday" as described in holiday pay regulations.

244.2 Amount - Sunday pay is 25 percent of the employee's basic compensation not to exceed eight hours of the employee's workday. Basic compensation is the salary rate for the employee's grade or class and step level.

244.3 Eligible Employees

a. Full-time employees with a prearranged duty tour are eligible for Sunday pay if they perform scheduled work on Sunday.

b. Part-time employees are not eligible for Sunday pay.

c. Intermittent employees are not eligible for Sunday pay.

244.4 Two Sunday Tours - An employee who has two separate regularly scheduled duty tours on Sunday (such as beginning on Saturday and ending on Sunday and another beginning on Sunday) is entitled to Sunday pay for not to exceed eight hours for each of the two duty tours.

244.5 Relationship to Overtime and Holiday Work

a. Sunday pay is not authorized for overtime work.

b. An employee who performs scheduled work that is not overtime on a Sunday that is also a holiday is entitled to both Sunday and holiday premium pay, subject to the rules applicable to each.

244.6 Effect of Absences

a. Sunday pay is a premium for work performed. An employee who takes annual or sick leave or is absent for any other reason, is not eligible for Sunday pay for the period of absence.

b. An employee who is absent during the entire part of his or her daily duty tour that occurs on calendar Sunday is not eligible for Sunday pay for any part of that duty tour. For example, an employee who is scheduled to work from 10:00 p.m. Sunday to 6:45 a.m. Monday is absent from 10:00 p.m. to midnight, and then works the balance of this shift. He or she is not eligible for Sunday pay because he or she did not work on Sunday. If the employee works the first six hours of the same shift, and is absent the last two hours, he or she is entitled to Sunday pay for six hours.

c. An employee is entitled to Sunday pay while excused on military, court or funeral leave if the employee's hours of duty permit payment of Sunday pay on a regular basis (CG B-160622, January 13, 1967).

244.7 Effect of Travel - Travel during a scheduled duty tour that entitles an employee to Sunday premium pay is treated as work. If an employee takes leave while in travel status, paragraph 244.6 applies.

245 HOLIDAY PREMIUM PAY

245.1 Identifying and Observing Federal Holidays - MOA V-A 605 identifies Federal legal holidays and states general rules for observing them. It states the rules for pay for holidays not worked.

245.2 Applicability - The following material on holiday premium pay applies to all Broadcasting employees in the U.S. eligible for premium pay except wage system employees and non-U.S. citizens employed under personal services contracts.

245.3 Definition - Holiday premium pay is extra pay for working on a holiday or a day designated as a non-workday in lieu of a holiday.

245.4 Eligibility

a. Full-Time Employees - A full-time employee who has a regularly scheduled duty tour of 40 hours or more in his or her administrative workweek is eligible to receive holiday premium pay for non-overtime work performed on a holiday that falls within, or is observed within, his or her established basic workweek. (See MOA V-A 605.2c for rules on a workday that begins on one calendar day and ends on the following.)

b. Part-Time Employees - A part-time employee is not entitled to holiday premium pay for working on a day observed in lieu of the holiday. A part-time employee is eligible for holiday premium pay for work performed on the holiday that falls on one of his or her scheduled workdays. (Note, however, the limitation in 245.5b (2) that applies to a part-time employee who is scheduled to work less than eight hours a day.)

For example: A part-time employee scheduled to work Tuesday through Saturday of each week is not entitled to holiday premium pay for working on the Saturday preceding Labor Day (Monday). A full-time employee working the same daily schedule is entitled to holiday pay for working on the Saturday preceding Labor Day.

c. Intermittent Employees - Employees with no prearranged work schedule are not eligible for holiday premium pay. If they work on a holiday they are paid the same rates as for any other day.

d. Employees in Travel Status - An employee who is in travel status on a holiday or day observed as a holiday is entitled to holiday premium pay only to the extent that he or she works. If he or she performs no work, he or she is not entitled to holiday premium pay.

245.5 Amount of Holiday Premium Pay

a. Minimum Credit - An employee who is required to work on a holiday or day observed as a holiday is entitled to at least two hours of holiday premium pay. An employee excused from duty after performing work during his or her scheduled daily tour on a holiday and then called back to perform additional work within that tour, is entitled to be paid a minimum of two hours of holiday premium pay for each such callback, subject to the limitation in b below.

b. Maximum Holiday Premium Pay

(1) Full-Time Employees -

(a) Holiday premium pay may not exceed eight hours for a holiday. An employee required to work more than eight hours on a holiday is entitled to over-time pay or compensatory time off for the hours worked in excess of eight. The maximum amount of holiday premium pay to which an employee scheduled to work other than an 8-hour day is entitled to is (i) the hours within his or her basic 40-hour workweek scheduled on the holiday or day observed in lieu of the holiday, or (ii) eight hours, whichever is less.

(b) An employee who works on both the calendar holiday and the day observed in lieu of the holiday, both days being a part of his or her scheduled workweek, is paid holiday premium pay only for the calendar holiday.

For example: An employee whose work schedule is Sunday through Thursday works on both Sunday and Monday, Sunday being the holiday. He or she earns holiday premium pay for Sunday's work and is paid at regular rates for Monday.

(2) Part-Time Employees - Holiday premium pay for a part-time employee is limited to eight hours or the employee's work schedule on the calendar holiday, whichever is less. Work on a holiday in excess of eight hours or in excess of the hours scheduled on that day (if fewer than eight hours) will be treated as though the day were not a holiday.

(3) Holiday premium pay is subject to the earnings limitation stated in MOA V-A 251.

c. Rates - Holiday premium pay for a GS, GM or FP, or for a person appointed under Section 801 (5) of PL 402, to a GG position, is at his or her regular salary rate, exclusive of night pay.

245.6 Other Determinations Concerning Holiday Pay

a. Work performed on a holiday that is not a scheduled workday for an employee is treated as overtime.

b. Compensatory time off may not be granted in lieu of holiday pay.

246 PREMIUM COMPENSATION FOR WAGE SYSTEM EMPLOYEES

246.1 Definitions

a. Scheduled rate of pay means the rate of pay fixed by law or administrative action, including a retained rate of pay and rate on temporary promotion for the job held by an employee before any deductions and exclusive of additional pay of any kind.

b. Rate of basic pay means scheduled rate of pay plus any night shift or environmental differential.

c. Administrative workweek, "regularly scheduled administrative workweek," and "basic workweek" are defined in MOA V-A 601.2.

d. Sunday work is work performed during a regularly scheduled tour of duty within a basic workweek when any part of that work which is not overtime work is performed on Sunday.

e. Overtime work means officially authorized and approved hours of work performed in excess of eight hours in a day or in excess of 40 hours in an administrative workweek, whichever is the greatest number of overtime hours, and includes irregular or occasional over-time work and regular overtime work.

f. Regular overtime work means overtime which is scheduled as a part of the regularly scheduled administrative workweek.

g. Irregular or occasional overtime work means overtime work which is not scheduled as a part of the regularly scheduled administrative workweek.

h. Tour of duty means the hours of a day (a daily tour of duty) and the days of an administrative workweek (a weekly tour of duty) that are scheduled in advance and during which an employee is required to perform on a regularly recurring basis.

i. Night shift differential means the differential paid for work performed on the second or third shift, or both.

j. Non-workday means any calendar day outside of those calendar days within an employee's basic workweek exclusive of holidays and non-workdays established by Federal statute, Executive Order, or other administrative order.

k. Environmental differential means additional pay that has been authorized for exposure to various degrees of hazards, physical hardships and working conditions of an unusual nature.

l. Retained rate of pay means the rate of pay to which an employee is entitled when changed to a lower grade, reassigned or otherwise changed to a Federal Wage System grade or pay level having a maximum scheduled rate of pay which is less than the employee's existing rate of pay.

m. For wage system employees participating in Maxiflex (see V-A 603), credit hours are those hours in excess of 8 per day or 40 per week which the employee elects to work so as to vary the length of a workday or a workweek; and compensatory time off is time off which the employee may elect to take in lieu of overtime pay for overtime work.

246.2 Night Shift Differential

a. Shifts For Which Night Shift Differentials Are Payable

(1) An authorized night shift differential of seven and one-half percent will be paid for the entire shift when a majority of the employee's regularly scheduled non-overtime hours of work fall between the hours of 3 p.m. and midnight.

(2) An authorized night differential of ten percent will be paid for the entire shift when a majority of the employee's regularly scheduled non-overtime hours of work fall between the hours of 11 p.m. and 8 a.m.

b. Relation of Night Shift Differential to Overtime, Holiday, and Sunday Premium Pay - Night shift differentials are included in the rates of basic pay for wage system employees which are used as a basis for computing overtime pay, Sunday pay, holiday pay, and amounts of deductions for retirement and group life insurance.

c. Computation of Night Pay

(1) Absence on Holidays or in Travel Status - A wage system employee regularly assigned to a night shift for which the night shift differential is payable is entitled to the night shift differential for periods of excused absence on a holiday, while in official travel status during the hours of his or her regular night shift, or on court leave.

(2) Temporary Assignment to a Different Tour of Duty

(a) A wage system employee regularly assigned to a night shift who is temporarily assigned to another night shift with a higher differential will receive the higher differential when the majority of the employee's regularly scheduled non-overtime hours of work fall within the shift having the higher differential.

(b) A wage system employee regularly assigned to a day shift is entitled to a night shift differential for any pay period during which he or she is temporarily assigned to work a regular shift for which a night shift differential is otherwise payable.

(c) A wage system employee regularly assigned to a night shift will continue to receive his or her regular night shift differential during a temporary assignment to the day shift or to another night shift with a lower differential.

(3) Absence on Leave - The night shift differential payable during periods of leave with pay depends upon the shift to which the employee is assigned at the time of going on leave and the duration of assignment:

(a) An employee regularly assigned to a night shift on a full-time basis will receive the night shift differential.

(b) An employee assigned to a regular rotating schedule involving work on both day and night shifts will receive pay as follows: (i) pay at rates payable on the day shift will be paid for that portion of the absence occurring during periods when the employee is scheduled to work the day shift and (ii) night shift differentials will be payable for the portion of the absence occurring during periods when the employee is scheduled to work night shifts.

246.3 Overtime Pay or Compensatory Time Off

a. Authority - In accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 5544 and 5550, a wage system employee (including a part-time or an intermittent wage employee) is entitled to overtime pay for work in excess of eight hours in a day or in excess of 40 hours in an administrative workweek, whichever is the greater number of overtime hours, that is: Officially ordered or approved and performed by the employee.

b. Standby and On Call Duty - A wage system employee who is regularly required to remain at or within the confines of his or her post of duty in excess of eight hours a day in a standby or an on-call status is entitled to overtime pay only for hours of duty, exclusive of eating and sleeping time, in excess of 40 a week.

c. Work Exceeding Eight Hours in a Day - When a wage system employee who is not participating in the Maxiflex Work Schedule works more than eight hours in one day, including Sunday or a holiday, time in excess of the eight hours is paid at the overtime rate even though it is a part of a scheduled 40-hour week. Example: Four 10-hour days, or four 9-hour days and one 4-hour day. Wage system employees assigned to units participating in Maxiflex may elect to work up to 10 hours per day in order to earn credit hours in order to vary workdays or workweeks. Employees shall not be paid overtime, Sunday or holiday pay for credit hours. (See MOA V-A-603).

d. Overtime Rate - Except as otherwise specifically authorized, an agency shall pay a wage system employee for overtime work performed at the rate of one and one-half times his or her rate of basic pay.

e. Overtime Rate for Sunday or Holiday Work - A wage system employee is paid for overtime work on a Sunday or a holiday at the same rate as for overtime work performed on another day.

f. Computing Overtime Pay for Night Work

(1) Overtime pay for an employee regularly working a shift for which the night shift differential is paid is computed on the shift rate, even though the hours of overtime worked extended into, or fall entirely within a day shift. When the overtime work is performed on a non-workday, overtime pay is computed on the rate of the employee's last previous regularly scheduled shift.

(2) Overtime pay for an employee having a regularly rotating tour of duty which includes two or three shifts is computed on the rate of the employee's regularly scheduled shift in effect for the calendar day on which the overtime work is performed. When the overtime work is performed on a non-work-day, overtime pay is computed on the average rate of basic pay for all regularly scheduled shifts worked by the employee during the basic workweek.

g. Computation of Overtime Worked - The computation of the amount of over-time work of an employee is subject to the following conditions:

(1) Units of Overtime Work - The minimum amount of overtime work that is credited and compensated is one-quarter of an hour. Additional amounts of over-time for each workday are reported and compensated in quarter-hour multiples. Smaller fractions of an hour are dropped and may not be saved from day to day for compensation at the end of the week or pay period. For example, an employee who works one hour and fifty minutes of approved overtime on one day and one hour and twenty-five minutes on another during a pay period is compensated for one and three-quarters hours of overtime on the first day and one and one-quarter hours on the second. The remaining periods that are less than one-quarter of an hour are dropped.

(2) Leave With Pay - An employee's absence from duty on paid leave during the time when he or she would otherwise have been required to be on duty during a daily or weekly tour of duty (including authorized absence on a legal holiday or on a non-work-day established by Executive or administrative order) is considered employment and does not reduce the amount of overtime pay to which the employee is entitled for work performed in excess of eight hours in a day or work in excess of 40 hours in an administrative workweek. Payment of the overtime rate is authorized only if the employee performs work which has been officially ordered in advance during the hours in excess of the 8-hour day, or the 40-hour basic workweek. Leave of absence with pay under 5 U.S.C. 6302 (annual leave or sick leave) is charged only for an absence that occurs during a basic workweek.

(3) Leave Without Pay - For a period of leave without pay in an employee's basic workweek, an equal period of service performed outside the basic workweek, but in the same administrative workweek, will be substituted and paid for at the rate applicable to his or her basic workweek before any remaining period of service may be paid for at the overtime rate on the basis of exceeding 40 hours in a workweek. For a period of leave without pay in an employee's daily tour of duty, an equal period of service performed outside the daily tour of duty, but in the same workday, will be substituted and paid for at the rate applicable to the daily tour of duty before any remaining hours may be paid for at the overtime rate on the basis of exceeding 8 hours in a workday.

(4) Night, Holiday or Sunday Work - Hours of night, holiday, or Sunday work are included in determining for overtime pay purposes the total number of hours in employment in the same administrative workweek.

(5) Callback Overtime Work - Irregular or occasional overtime work performed by an employee on a day when work was not scheduled for him or her, or for which the employee is required to return to his or her place of employment, is considered at least two hours in duration for the purpose of overtime pay, whether or not work is performed.

h. Effect of Overtime Pay on Deductions For Federal Retirement and Group Life Insurance - Pay for overtime work is not included in the amount of pay upon which retirement and group life insurance deductions are computed. Retirement and group life insurance deductions for an employee whose scheduled 40-hour workweek includes a daily tour of duty of more than eight hours are computed on the basis of 40 hours at the regular non-overtime hourly rate.

i. Compensatory Time - There is no authority to give wage system employees compensatory time off in lieu of over-time payments. A wage system employee must be paid at the prescribed rate for overtime work performed. However, a wage system employee participating in Maxiflex (see MOA V-A 603) may elect to earn compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay.

246.4 Sunday Pay

a. Authorizing Pay for Sunday Work

Under 5 U.S.C. 5544 and 5 U.S.C. 5550, a wage system employee whose regular work schedule includes an 8-hour period of service a part of which is on Sunday is entitled to additional pay at the rate of 25 percent of his or her hourly rate of basic pay for each hour performed during that 8-hour period of service. An employee who works more than eight hours on a Sunday does not receive the Sunday premium for hours in excess of eight. For example, an employee whose regular work schedule includes a 10-hour period of service on Sunday is entitled to eight hours Sunday premium pay and two hours of overtime pay at the same rate as for overtime work performed on another day.

b. Relation of Premium Pay for Sunday Work to Overtime, Night, and Holiday Pay - Premium pay for Sunday work is in addition to premium pay for holiday work, overtime pay, and night shift differentials and is not included in the rate of basic pay used to compute the pay for holiday, overtime, and night work, nor in determining retirement or FEGLI deductions, nor the amount of FEGLI coverage.

c. Entitlement - A part-time employee is not entitled to premium pay for Sunday work. However, a full-time employee whose regularly scheduled tour of duty includes a period of service of less than eight hours any part of which falls between midnight Saturday and mid-night Sunday is entitled to premium pay for the number of hours worked not in excess of the number of hours regularly scheduled for the period (46 CG 337).

d. Two Separate Tours of Duty - When an employee has two separate tours of duty on Sunday (such as a tour of duty that begins on Saturday and ends on Sunday, and another tour of duty that begins on Sunday and concludes on Monday) he or she is entitled to premium pay for Sunday work for not to exceed eight hours for each tour of duty.

246.5 Holiday Premium Pay

a. Pay for Work Performed on a Holiday

(1) A wage system employee who is entitled to holiday premium pay and who performs work on a holiday is entitled to his or her rate of basic pay plus premium pay at a rate equal to his or her rate of basic pay for that holiday work which is not (a) in excess of eight hours or (b) overtime work.

(2) A wage system employee is entitled to pay for overtime work performed on a holiday at the same rate for overtime on other workdays.

(3) A wage system employee who is entitled to holiday premium pay and who is required to report for work on a holiday is entitled to at least two hours of holiday pay whether or not work is performed.

b. Relation of Holiday Premium Pay to Overtime, Night, and Sunday Pay

(1) Premium pay for holiday work is in addition to overtime pay, night shift differential, or premium pay for Sunday work payable under this section and is not included in the rate of pay used to compute the overtime pay, night shift differential, or premium pay for Sunday work.

(2) Even though an employee receives premium pay for holiday work, the number of hours of his or her regularly scheduled basic workweek occurring on a holiday are included in determining for overtime pay purposes the total number of hours of work performed in the administrative workweek in which the holiday occurs.

(3) The hours within his or her basic workweek for which an employee is excused from duty because of a holiday are counted as hours of work in computing overtime pay.

246.6 Environmental Differential - An environmental differential is paid to a wage system employee who is exposed to a hazard, physical hardship, or working condition of an unusually severe nature.

When an employee is entitled to an environmental differential which is paid on an actual exposure basis, he or she will be paid a minimum of one hour's differential pay for the exposure. When exposure is beyond one hour, the employee will be paid in increments of one-quarter hour for each 15 minutes and portions thereof in excess of 15 minutes.

When an employee is exposed at intermittent times during a day, each exposure is considered separately and the amount of time exposed is not added together before payment is made for exposure beyond one hour's duration, except that pay for the environmental differential may not exceed the number of hours of active duty by the employee on the day of exposure.

247 RETENTION ALLOWANCES

247.1 Purpose

a. As authorized by 5 USC 5754 and 5 CFR Part 575, an agency may pay a current employee a retention allowance of up to 25 percent of the employee's basic pay if the unusually high or unique qualifications of the employee or the special need of the agency for the employee's services makes it essential to retain the employee and the agency determines that the employee would be likely to leave the Federal service in the absence of a retention allowance.

b. Under certain circumstances, an agency may also pay a group or category of employees a retention allowance of up to 10 percent of basic pay (or up to 25 percent with the approval of the Office of Personnel Management).

c. Retention allowances are continuing (i.e., biweekly) payments. Before authorizing such allowances, the agency must determine that the allowance is necessary in order to retain the specific employee or group or category of employees. The agency must also review each retention allowance authorization annually to determine whether payment is still warranted.

247.2 Definitions

a. Head of agency - The head of an agency or an official who has been delegated the authority to act for the head of the agency in the matter concerned. For purposes of this section, the Director, International Broadcasting Bureau, is the head of agency.

b. Rate of basic pay - The rate of pay fixed by law or administrative action for the position held by an employee, including special rates of pay. In the case of an employee entitled to grade or pay retention, basic pay means the employee's retained rate of pay. Any deductions or additional pay of any kind (such as locality pay) are not included in determining an employee's rate of basic pay.

c. Aggregate compensation - Includes the total of basic pay, locality-based comparability payments, Continuation of Pay and certain premium pay, awards, bonuses, allowances, differentials and other similar payments, as defined in 5 CFR 530.202. Retention allowances count toward the Executive Level I aggregate limitation on pay under 5 USC 5307.

d. Estimated aggregate compensation - The Agency's projection of the aggregate compensation an employee actually will receive during a calendar year based on known factors--i.e. the total amount of basic pay the employee will be paid, plus any lump-sum payment of excess amounts from a previous calendar year; the total amount of nondiscretionary payments to which the employee is or is projected to be entitled; and the total amount of discretionary payments the employee is authorized to receive.

247.3 Conditions for Payment of Retention Allowance

a. An agency may pay a retention allowance to an employee if the employee is likely to leave the Federal service for any reason, including retirement.

b. An agency may not pay a retention allowance to an employee who is likely to leave his or her position for employment in the Executive, Legislative or Judicial branch of the Federal Government, whether in the same or different agency.

c. An agency may not begin payment of a retention allowance during a period of employment established under any service agreement required for payment of a recruitment bonus or relocation bonus. After retention allowance payments have commenced, a relocation bonus may be paid without affecting the payment of a retention allowance.

d. An agency may not offer a retention allowance to an individual (or authorize payment of such an allowance) prior to the individual's employment with the agency.

e. A retention allowance shall be calculated as a percentage of the employee's rate of basic pay (not to exceed 25 percent) and paid in the same manner and at the same time as basic pay--i.e. the allowance shall be paid at an hourly rate for each hour during which the employee receives basic pay.

f. The Agency may not authorize a retention allowance for an employee if or to the extent that such an allowance, when added to the employee's estimated aggregate compensation (as defined in 247.2), would cause the aggregate compensation actually received by the employee during the calendar year to exceed the rate payable for level I of the Executive Schedule at the end of the calendar year. An agency must also reduce or terminate an existing retention allowance to the extent necessary to ensure that the employee's estimated aggregate compensation does not exceed level I of the Executive Schedule. Agencies may not defer payment of excess retention allowance payments to the following calendar year. An agency must reduce or terminate a retention allowance before deferring any other type of payment under the deferral provision in the aggregate pay limitation regulations (5 CFR, part 530, subpart B).

g. Except as provided in section 247.3f, an agency may continue payment of a retention allowance as long as the conditions giving rise to the original determination to pay the allowance still exist. However, each determination to pay a retention allowance must be reviewed at least annually, to determine whether the payment is still warranted. The appropriate approving official, in accordance with the provisions of section 247.7, shall certify this determination in writing

h. A retention allowance is not part of an employee's rate of basic pay for any purpose, including severance pay or retirement, and is not pay for the purpose of lump-sum annual leave payments.

247.4 Authorizing Retention Allowances and Amounts for Individual Employees

a. Coverage

(1) This section covers any of the following individuals who are currently employed by the International Broadcasting Bureau (IBB):

- (a) General Schedule employees;
- (b) Employees in Senior Level (SL/ST) positions;
- (c) Members of the Senior Executive Service;
- (d) Employees in positions under the Executive Schedule or whose rate of pay is fixed by law at a rate equal to a rate for the Executive Schedule;
- (e) Employees in positions that are designated as law enforcement officers;
- (f) Employees in prevailing rate positions, as defined in 5 USC 5342 (a) (3);
- g) Presidential appointees.

(2) A retention allowance may not be paid to the head of an agency, including an agency headed by a collegial body composed of two or more members.

(3) The Agency may request that the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) authorize the payment of a retention allowance to one or more categories of agency employees who are not mentioned above or not otherwise covered by the retention allowance law or regulations.

b. Each retention allowance paid shall be based on a written determination that:

(1) The unusually high or unique qualifications of the employee or a special need of the agency for the employee's services makes it essential to retain the employee; and

(2) The employee would be likely to leave the Federal service (for any purpose) in the absence of the payment of the retention allowance.

c. This determination shall be based on a written description of the extent to which the employee's departure would affect the agency's ability to carry out an activity or perform a function that is deemed essential to the Agency's mission.

d. In determining whether a retention allowance should be paid and in determining the amount of any such payment, the Agency shall consider the following factors, as applicable to the case in hand:

(1) The success of recent efforts to recruit candidates and retain employees with qualifications similar to those possessed by the employee for positions similar to the position held by the employee; and

(2) The availability in the labor market of candidates for employment who, with minimal training or disruption of service to the public, could perform the full range of duties and responsibilities assigned to the position held by the employee.

e. When considering a retention allowance for an individual employee, Agency officials may approve an allowance of up to 25% of that employee's basic pay.

f. The recommending official will initiate a retention allowance request (attachment 1) and submit it to the appropriate approving officials with a Request for Personnel Action, SF-52.

g. Each determination to pay a retention allowance, including the amount of the allowance, must be approved by an agency official who is at a higher level in the agency than the official making the initial decision, unless there is no official at a higher level.

(1) In the International Broadcasting Bureau, the authority to review and make the initial decision to approve payment of a retention allowance is delegated to Division Chiefs. Specialists within the Office of Personnel will assist Division Chiefs in making their determinations.

(2) The authority to review and give final approval for a retention allowance is delegated to Heads of Offices within the International Broadcasting Bureau, with the concurrence of the Office of Personnel.

247.5 Authorizing Retention Allowances and Amounts for Groups or Categories of Employees

a. The Agency may authorize a retention allowance for a group or category of employees in General Schedule or law enforcement positions. The Agency may request that the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) authorize the payment of a retention allowance to one or more categories of agency employees who are not mentioned above or not otherwise covered by the retention allowance law or regulations.

b. Retention allowances shall be based on a written determination that:

(1) The targeted category of employees has unusually high or unique qualifications or that the Agency has a special need for the employees' services that makes it essential to retain the employees in that category; and

(2) It is reasonable to presume that there is a high risk that a significant number of employees in the targeted category are likely to leave Federal service in the absence of the allowance.

c. The determination that there is a high risk that a significant number of employees in the targeted category are likely to leave may be based on evidence of extreme labor market conditions, high demand in the private sector for the knowledge and skills possessed by the employees, significant disparities between Federal and private sector salaries, or other similar conditions. These factors should also be considered in determining the amount of the retention allowances.

d. The targeted category should be narrowly defined using factors that relate to the conditions described in section 247.5b. Factors that may be appropriate include the following: occupational series, grade level, distinctive job duties, unique qualifications, assignment to a special project, minimum agency service requirements, organization or team designation, geographic location, and performance level. (While performance level may be factor used in defining the targeted category, performance level by itself is not sufficient to justify a retention allowance. Performance level may function as a supporting factor in authorizing an allowance or setting the allowance rate only to the extent it directly relates to the conditions described in section 247.5b.)

e. When considering retention allowances for groups or categories of employees, Agency officials may approve an allowance of up to 10 percent of an employee's rate of basic pay. Retention allowance above 10 percent must be made in accordance with section 247.5h.

f. The recommending official will initiate a retention allowance request (attachment 2) and submit it to the appropriate approving officials.

g. Each determination to pay a retention allowance, including the amount of the allowance, must be approved by an agency official who is at a higher level in the agency than the official making the initial decision, unless there is no official at a higher level.

(1) In the International Broadcasting Bureau, the authority to review and make the initial decision to approve payment of a retention allowance to groups or categories of employees is delegated to Heads of Offices, with the concurrence of the Office of Personnel.

(2) The Director, International Broadcasting Bureau, shall review and give final approval for payment of retention allowances to groups or categories of employees within IBB.

h. Upon the request of the Director, International Broadcasting Bureau, OPM may approve a retention allowance in excess of 10 percent, but not more than 25 percent, of an employee's rate of basic pay for a group or category of employees which meets the conditions specified in section 247.5b. OPM may require that such requests be coordinated with other agencies having similarly situated employees in the same category. Group retention allowance requests must include:

(1) A description of the group or category and number of employees to be covered by the proposed retention allowance;

(2) A written determination that the group or category of employees meets the conditions specified in 247.5b;

(3) The proposed percentage retention allowance payment and a justification for that percentage;

(4) The expected duration of retention allowance payments; and

(5) Any other information pertinent to the case at hand.

i. In order to pay a group-based retention allowance to any individual in the targeted group, all other conditions and requirement for payment of a retention allowance must be met, including the conditions in section 247.3

247.6 Reduction or Termination of Retention Allowance

a. The Agency must reduce or terminate the authorized amount of a retention allowance to the extent necessary to ensure that the employee's estimated aggregate compensation (as defined in section 247.2) does not exceed the rate for level I of the Executive Schedule at the end of the calendar year.

b. The Agency may reduce or terminate payment of a retention allowance when it determines that--

(1) A lesser amount (or none at all) would be sufficient to retain the employee (or group or category of employees);

(2) Labor-market factors make it more likely (or reasonably likely) to recruit a candidate with qualifications similar to those possessed by the employee (or group or category of employees);

(3) The Agency's need for the services of the employee (or group or category of employees) has been reduced to a level that makes it unnecessary to continue payment at the level originally approved (or at all); or

(4) Budgetary considerations make it difficult to continue payment at the level originally approved (or at all).

c. The reduction or termination of a retention allowance may not be appealed.

247.7 Internal Monitoring and Annual Review

a. The Director of Personnel is responsible for setting policy and overall technical guidance and for monitoring the use of this authority.

b. The Agency may review the appropriateness of a retention allowance payment whenever the conditions that originally prompted the payment of the allowance change significantly. However, at least annually, the agency must review every retention allowance payment, to determine whether the payment is still warranted. The approving official shall certify the determination in writing.

c. Approximately 90 days in advance of the anniversary date of the original retention allowance determination, the Office of Personnel will notify the appropriate IBB officials of the need for a new determination and will provide these officials with a retention allowance request form (attachment 1 or 2, as appropriate).

d. The approving official will review the criteria for paying retention allowances and determine whether the need for a retention allowance still exists and whether to continue the retention allowance at its current percentage of pay. This determination must be reviewed and approved by the higher level officials designated in sections 247.4g and 247.5g. The completed request form should then be submitted to the Office of Personnel.

247.8 Records and Reports

a. Each determination regarding a retention allowance shall be documented in writing. A copy of this determination will be kept in an appropriate subject file in the Office of Personnel. These records will be made available for review upon the request of OPM.

b. A copy of the approval of a retention allowance for an employee will be filed in the left-hand side of the affected employee's Official Personnel File.

c. A SF-50, Notification of Personnel Action, will be issued for each affected employee, using Nature of Action Codes required by OPM.

d. The Office of Personnel will submit a report of each retention allowance determination as part of its regular submission to OPM's Central Personnel Data File.

Section 250

GENERAL COMPENSATION PROVISIONS AND RESTRICTIONS

251 LIMITATION ON AGGREGATE COMPENSATION - Premium compensation for night, overtime, Sunday, or holiday work is limited by law. Under 5 U.S.C. 5547, an employee may be paid premium compensation or earn compensatory time off only to the extent that the payment does not cause his or her aggregate rate to exceed the maximum rate of GS-15 in any given pay period. This limitation on additional compensation applies to all general schedule employees except wage system employees.

252 VOLUNTARY AND GRATUITOUS SERVICE

252.1 Voluntary Service is service furnished to the Government on the initiative of the person rendering the service without the formal request or agreement of the Government. Under Section 3679, Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665), the acceptance of voluntary service is prohibited except for:

a. Service performed in cases of emergency - The emergency must be sudden and unforeseen and must constitute an imminent threat to the safety of human life or the protection of property. Claims for compensation for such service in an emergency should be submitted to the Budget Office for transmission to the General Accounting Office (GAO) for adjudication.

b. Service performed by a student - Service by students is performed with the permission of the institution at which the student is enrolled, as part of a Broadcasting program established for the purpose of providing educational experience for the student. The student may not be compensated and his or her services may not be used to displace a Broadcasting employee. The student is not considered a Federal employee, but he or she is entitled to injury compensation (see paragraph 254 below) and the provisions of Sections 2671 through 2680 of title 28 U.S. Code (relating to tort claims.)

252.2 Gratuitous Service is service rendered to the Government in any official capacity under regular appointment to an office for which the compensation is not fixed by law or the performance of additional service by an employee without additional compensation. A service offered and accepted clearly and distinctly as gratuitous with a proper record of the fact does not violate the statute (31 U.S.C. 665) prohibiting the acceptance of voluntary services. In cases where an appointment is made "without compensation" (WOC), there must be established that there is no law such as the Classification Act of 1949, as amended, which requires that salary be attached to the position. In the absence of statutory authorization, there are no circumstances under which an original appointee to a position in the Federal service may legally waive his or her ordinary right to the compensation fixed by or pursuant to law for the position and thereafter be stopped from claiming and receiving the compensation previously waived.

253 DUAL COMPENSATION

253.1 General - 5 U.S.C. 5531-5537 prescribes (1) prohibitions on Federal employees receiving basic pay from more than one position, and (2) restrictions on the retired or retainer pay of members of the uniformed services (defined in paragraph 253.3a below) during periods when they are employed as civilians by Federal agencies.

253.2 Pay From More Than One Position

a. Except as provided for in b. below, an employee is not entitled to receive basic pay from more than one position for more than an aggregate of 40 hours in one calendar week (Sunday through Saturday). The restriction applies to "receiving compensation", not to employment per se. Therefore, an employee who is in a non-pay status (such as leave without pay) during an entire week is not precluded from other Federal employment during that week.

b. Statutory and regulatory exceptions are provided for:

-- Compensation on a when-actually-employed (WAE) basis received from more than one consultant or expert position if such compensation is not received for the same hours of the same day.

-- Compensation consisting of fees paid on other than a time basis.

-- Compensation received for employment under emergency conditions relating to health, safety, protection of life or property, or national emergency.

Examples of such conditions are fire, earthquake, flood or other disaster, civil disorder, or threat to the national security.

-- Compensation for part-time or intermittent employment in any position which requires the knowledge and use of one or more foreign languages.

c. Requests for Exceptions -A Broadcasting element's request for an exception to the limitation in a. above, in addition to the general exceptions in b. above, must establish to the satisfaction of the Director, Office of Personnel that personal services otherwise cannot be readily obtained for the position in question. The request must describe the special circumstances which prevent the element from obtaining the required services except by utilizing current Federal employees. Requests should be directed from the Director or Office head to the Director, Office of Personnel.

253.3 Reduction To Military Retired or Retainer Pay

a. Coverage - The restrictions in b. below are applicable to employees who are members or former members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the Public Health Service.

b. Effect of Restrictions

(1) In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 5532(b), such employees are entitled to the full pay of their positions but will receive only the first $2,000 of their retired or retainer pay plus one-half of any amount in excess of $2,000. The amount of $2,000 may be adjusted from time to time, by appropriate percentages, in direct proportion to cost-of-living increases in the retired or retainer pay.

(2) 5 U.S.C. 5532(c) stipulates that an employee's retired or retainer pay when added to salaries received from their civilian positions may not exceed the pay from Executive level V. The retired or retainer pay is to be reduced when the combined pay exceeds this limit. This restriction does not apply to (1) those who are employed by the U.S. Government as of January 11, 1979, and who are entitled to military retired or retainer pay, but will not receive such pay until they meet any applicable age requirement; and (2) those who were appointed in the Federal Government prior to January 11, 1979.

c. Exceptions

(1) The retired or retainer pay will not be reduced if the pay is computed, in whole or in part, based on disability;

(a) resulting from injury or disease received in line of duty as a direct result of armed conflict; or

(b) caused by an instrumentality of war and incurred in line of duty during a period of war as defined by Sections 101 and 301 of Title 38 U.S. Code.

(2) The retired or retainer pay will not be reduced during the first 30 days of temporary or intermittent civilian employment. This exception may cover no more than 30 days of employment in any one fiscal year.

254 INJURY COMPENSATION - The Federal Employees' Compensation Act (5 U.S.C. 8101, et seq.) provides compensation benefits to civilian employees of the U.S. Government for disability due to personal injury sustained on the job or to employment related disease. In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 8116, an employee receiving injury compensation may not draw salary from his or her Federal position for the same period of time. However, the employee may receive salary for services performed for which he or she has not been paid. If a lump-sum settlement is paid to the employee for injuries in the line of duty, no other compensation for Federal employment may be received until the expiration of time specified by the Office of Workers' Compensation Programs.

255 SEVERANCE PAY

255.1 Coverage

a. 5 U.S.C. 5595 provides for the payment of severance pay to Federal employees serving on appointments without time limitation who, after a continuous period of employment of at least 12 months, are involuntarily separated, not by removal for cause on charges of misconduct, delinquency, or inefficiency. Except as provided for in b below, Senior Executive Service (SES) career appointees and the following employees are eligible for severance pay: General Schedule (GS) and prevailing rate (WB, WG, WS, WL, WI) employee.

b. The following employees are not entitled to severance pay:

(1) Employees who are paid at one of the levels of the Executive Schedule or in excess of the maximum rate of GS-18;

(2) Employees serving under appointment to a position filled by a non-career executive assignment or under an appointment to a Schedule C position; and

(3) Any employee who, at the time of separation:

-- is entitled to an immediate annuity under any retirement law or retirement system applicable to Federal employees;

-- is receiving compensation from the Bureau of Employees' Compensation for work-related injury, except one receiving this compensation concurrently with pay or on account of the death of another person; or

-- is entitled to receive other severance pay from the Government.

255.2 Computation and Method of Payment - Severance pay consists of the sum of (1) a basic severance allowance, computed on the basis of one week's basic pay at the rate the employee received immediately before separation for each year of creditable service up to and including 10 years, and two weeks' basic pay for each year of service thereafter; and (2) an age adjustment allowance, computed on the basis of 10 percent of the total basic severance allowance for each year the employee's age exceeds 40 years. The total amount payable is subject to a life-time limitation of one year's pay (52 weeks) at the rate received prior to the (or any subsequent) separation. Payment of severance pay is at the same basic rate and biweekly interval as the employee received immediately before separation until either the severance pay fund is exhausted or payments are terminated due to nature of re-employment.

256 BACK PAY - 5 U.S.C. 5596, as amended by Section 702 of the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978, provides for back pay to employees who have been unjustly subject to separation, removal, demotion or any other unwarranted personnel action (including decisions relating to unfair labor practices or grievances) which has resulted in the withdrawal or reduction in all or part of the employee's pay, allowances, or differential. The back pay law does not apply to any reclassification action resulting from a wrongful classification claim nor does it authorize the setting aside of an otherwise proper promotion by a selecting official from a group of properly ranked and certified candidates. Back pay may be effected if (1) the employee has answered to the charges or reasons proffered for the adverse action by filing a claim or submitting an appeal or grievance to the proper authority; and (2) the administrative authority having jurisdiction over the employee's claim, appeal or grievance has accepted the employee's response as timely filed, and has determined the adverse action to be unjustified or unwarranted on the basis of either substantive or procedural defects. The amount of back pay due will be based on the rate of compensation payable to the employee for the period of the adverse action, but will be reduced by any amounts earned by the employee through other employment for the same period. The employee may also be reimbursed for the payment of reasonable attorney fees related to the adverse action when such payment is warranted in the interest of justice.

257 PAY ADJUSTMENT FOR CERTAIN SUPERVISORS

257.1 General - Under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 5333(b), Broadcasting is authorized to make an upward adjustment in pay for a supervisor in a General Schedule position who regularly has responsibility for supervision over prevailing rate employees whose pay is higher than that of the supervisor.

257.2 Responsibilities

a. Executive and Administrative Officers are responsible for identifying those employees in their organizational units who are entitled to the pay adjustment described in this subsection, and for submitting a Request for Personnel Action (SF-52) to the Office of Personnel.

b. The Office of Personnel is responsible for determining a supervisory GS employee's entitlement to this pay adjustment by considering (1) the relative rate ranges of the supervisor and the prevailing rate employees supervised as well as the specific rates received, and (2) the equities among supervisors in the same organizational unit, as well as the equities between the supervisor and the prevailing rate employee(s) supervised. Personnel must also ensure that the basis for determining entitlement is recorded on the SF-52 and documented in the supervisory employee's Official Personnel Folder.

257.3 Requirements for Entitlement

a. Responsibility for Supervision - The supervisor must have responsibility for supervising the technical aspects of the work of one or more prevailing rate employees. The supervisory responsibility must be a continuing responsibility and reflected in the supervisor's official position description. The supervisor must have relatively frequent personal contact with prevailing rate employees in the unit in connection with assigned work, and must perform (either personally or through intermediate prevailing rate supervisors) such duties as the following:

-- Determine and assign duties to individual prevailing rate employees;

-- Make reviews of work products of individual prevailing rate employees that require substantial subject matter or technical knowledge;

-- Plan and organize the work with primary emphasis on work distribution, workload of individual prevailing rate employees, work priorities, and timely completion of work items or projects;

The Office of Personnel will exclude from the prevailing rate employee's rate (1) any irregular prevailing rate, such as a retained rate not related to the employee's current position, and (2) night and environmental differentials. When an irregular prevailing rate is excluded, the highest rate of the regular prevailing rate for the employee's position will be used as the basis for comparison.

257.4 Adjustment of Rate

a. (1) Supervisors who occupy positions not covered by the Merit Pay System:

The supervisor's rate of pay will be adjusted to the nearest rate (but not above the maximum rate) of his or her grade which exceeds the highest rate of basic compensation paid to any prevailing rate employee supervised.

(2) Supervisors who occupy positions covered by the Merit Pay System:

The supervisor's rate of pay will be adjusted to any dollar amount of the appropriate grade which exceeds the highest rate of basic compensation paid to any prevailing rate employee supervised. However, the adjusted rate will not exceed the prevailing rate employee's basic compensation by more than 3 percent and will not exceed the maximum rate of the basic pay of the supervisor's grade.

(3) When a supervisor is in an area in which he or she receives a cost-of-living allowance or post differential based on hardship, and the prevailing rate employee supervised does not receive such allowances, Personnel will add to the supervisor's rate of basic pay his or the cost-of-living allowance or post differential and use the total to adjust the supervisor's rate of pay under paragraph a(1) above.

b. Documentation reflecting the basis for determining entitlement will be filed in the supervisor's Official Personnel Folder.

c. The effective date of the adjustment will be the first day of the first pay period following the date on which the Office of Personnel determines entitlement.

d. An adjustment in the supervisor's pay under a(1) above is an equivalent increase for within-grade increase purposes.

SECTION 260

PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

PERFORMANCE AWARDS

261 GENERAL

This section is the performance awards component of the performance management plan. The performance appraisal system, another component of the plan, is contained in MOA V-A-450. Other parts of the plan governing pay are located in MOA V-A-230, Rates of Pay.

261.1 Authority and Coverage

a. Under the authority of Title 5, United States Code, Chapters 43 and 45 and Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 430 Subpart E performance awards may be provided to employees covered by the General Schedule (GS-1 through GS-18) and Wage Schedule (including Federal Wage System and Wage Board Employees) and non-U.S. citizen (GG) employees. This Section does not apply to Foreign Service personnel.

b. The objectives of this program are to:

(1) recognize and reward quality performance in support of Broadcasting's mission by granting annual performance awards;

(2) provide an opportunity to recognize significant differences in individual performance by varied cash amounts;

(3) provide an opportunity to recognize significant differences in organizational performance;

(4) improve and promote the use of meaningful appraisals as a performance management tool by assigning authority and accountability for awards to managers and supervisors who have first-hand knowledge of individual performance requirements and achievements as well as perspective on relative levels of performance by all employees in the awards pool;

(5) ensure objectivity, fairness and consistency in establishing awards pools and distributing awards; and

(6) grant awards to employees in a timely and efficient manner.

c. Performance award programs for employees in the Performance Management and Recognition System (PMRS GM-13 through 15) or the Senior Executive Service (SES) are discussed in MOA V-A-1130.

261.2 Definitions

a. Performance Award - A performance-based cash payment to an employee based on the employee's annual rating of record. A performance award does not increase base pay.

b. Performance Award Budget - The amount of money allocated to pools for distribution as performance awards to covered employees. (Refer to paragraph 262.2 below.)

c. Rating of Record - The summary rating required at the time specified in MOA V-A-450 or at such other time as that Section specifies for special circumstances. (When an employee's position under any Federal pay system is converted to a pay system covered by MOA V-A-450 and when there is no change of duties and responsibilities, the employee's rating of record will be considered to have been derived under MOA V-A-450 and from the position which the employee now occupies).

262 PERFORMANCE AWARDS

262.1 Establishment of Awards Pools

a. Award pools shall be established within each independent Office, or Service, where there are a sufficient number of covered employees, i.e., normally at least 10. A combined pool shall be formed of other elements with fewer than 10 covered employees.

b. The Directors of BBG, E, M, VOA, TV, and OCB shall:

(1) determine the number and organizational composition of any subordinate pools to be established in their elements, each of these subordinate pools normally shall have a minimum of 10 covered employees;

(2) assign responsibility and accountability for subordinate pools to a decision-making official, who is not a member of the pool; and

(3) ensure that the Performance Awards Program is implemented in accordance with these regulations.

c. The Director of Broadcasting or designee shall:

(1) determine the awards pool for the combined award pool(s) for smaller independent offices and elements;

(2) designate one official, not a member of the pool, to serve as the Performance Awards Manager for the combined pool or appoint Performance Awards Management Committee(s) with members who meet these same requirements from the offices that are part of the pool;

(3) review performance award determinations for the combined awards pools; and

(4) ensure that the Performance Awards Program is implemented in accordance with these regulations.

262.2 Overall Performance Award Funding Levels and Size of Performance Awards

a. At the beginning of each fiscal year, the Office of Personnel in coordination with the Office of Budget and administrative offices within each Service and Office shall, within budget constraints, determine the amount of money available for performance awards for that fiscal year. It is Broadcasting's policy to fund, absent budget constraints, the performance awards program at a maximum level of 1.5 percent of the estimated aggregate amount of covered employees' basic pay for any fiscal year. Early in the fiscal year, normally within the first three months, Broadcasting shall announce to all employees the anticipated funding level of the performance awards program.

b. In determining the estimated aggregate amount of covered employees' basic pay for the fiscal year, consideration will be given to factors such as the following:

- (1) the number of employees covered during the previous fiscal year;
- (2) the aggregate rates of basic pay for those employees;
- (3) significant changes in the number of covered employees expected in the current fiscal year, such as by attrition, reorganization, expansion, or reduction in force;
- (4) the amount of general (comparability) increases, within-grade increases, and quality step increases that will be paid to covered employees in the current fiscal year.

c. Funds for Superior Accomplishment awards under MOA V-A-570 shall not be included in the performance awards fund, in as much as incentive awards are separate from performance awards.

262.3 Separate Award Funds

Separate performance award funds shall be established for employees covered by the two different rating periods.

a. Employees in GS-1 through 6 positions and Wage Employees covered by the January 1 through December 31 annual rating period.

b. Employees in GS-7 through 18 and GG positions covered by the May 1 through April 30 rating period.

262.4 Funding of Individual Awards Pools

a. The Office of Personnel with the assistance of the Office of Budget and administrative offices within each Service, and Office shall determine the allocation of award funds available to each award pool within the guidelines stated in paragraphs 262.2 and 262.3 above based on the total salaries of the covered employees within each element or other organizational pool as of the last day of the appropriate annual performance appraisal period for which awards are to be paid.

b. Office Directors may allocate award funds to subordinate pools with a minimum of ten employees each, whenever possible. If subordinate pools are used, each element/Office are to provide written notification to their respective employees of the anticipated structure of the subordinate pools early in the appraisal period, normally within the first three months.

(1) Such allocations may be based on the subordinate pools' portion of the total salaries of covered employees as of the last day of the annual performance appraisal period. For example, if the total covered salaries of an organization was 10 percent of the elements total covered salaries, the organization would be allocated 10 percent of the award funds.

(2) As an alternative, such allocations may be based on a combination of (a) proportionate allocation of at least eighty (80) percent of the pool's total award funds and (b) a reserve of the remainder to be allocated by the Director or Office Director at the end of the rating year to one or more organizational units within the element, based on the overall performance of these units. In making unit allocations, the Director or Office Director shall consider such factors as achievement of organizational objectives, relative organizational performance and the number of individual outstanding performances.

(3) Directors may also reserve a portion of the funds not allocated on a proportionate basis for increasing individual performance awards.

(4) Aggregate performance awards cannot exceed the total funds available in individual award pools.

(5) Awards shall be determined and paid to employees by the organization which provided the rating of record, in accordance with the procedures set forth in this Section.

262.5 Determining Individual Performance Awards

a. An employee is eligible to receive a performance award if he/she is in a position covered by this section on the last day of the current performance appraisal period for which performance awards determinations are being made.

b. Performance awards must be based on an employee's rating of record for the current appraisal period for which performance awards are being made.

c. Subject to budgetary constraints, an employee with a rating of (Outstanding) must receive a performance award. Such a performance award should be at least 2 percent of base pay, but not more than 10 percent in any given year. Based on the Director's determination that an employee has performed at an unusually outstanding level, Broadcasting may grant a performance award not to exceed 20 percent of base pay.

Awards exceeding 10% and up to 20% will be recommended only in cases of the unusually outstanding performance where there has been important, readily identifiable contribution(s) to the organization's goals.

(1) Subject to the availability of funds, an employee with a rating of (Highly Successful) may receive a performance award, not to exceed 10 percent of base pay in any given year. Within each organizational element having responsibility for managing a performance awards pool, any award granted to employees in the same grade rated at (Highly Successful) must be less than any award received by employees rated at (Outstanding).

(2) Subject to the availability of funds, an employee with a rating of (Fully Successful) may receive a performance award, not to exceed 10 percent of base pay in any given year. Within each organizational element having responsibility for managing a performance awards pool, any award granted to employees in the same grade rated at (Fully Successful) must be less than any award received by employees rated at (Highly Successful).

d. The rate of basic pay on the last day of the performance appraisal period for which awards are being paid must be used to calculate the amount of the awards. In the case of employees temporarily promoted from another pay system, part-time, or intermittent employees, this basis shall be proportionately adjusted to reflect their work schedule or days worked respectively.

e. Such individual performance award determinations shall be based on the following criteria:

(1) a comparison of the employee's performance requirements and actual performance with that of other employees with the same rating, at the same grade level and under the same pay plan;

(2) length of time that the employee performed under the performance requirements and standards on which the summary rating was based;

(3) an evaluation of the employee's contributions to the accomplishment of the goals and objectives of that employee's immediate organization relative to those of other employees with the same rating, at the same grade level, and in the same pay plan, and in the same organization.

f. In granting performance awards as provided in paragraph 262.5c of this section, if an employee has been promoted during the rating year that the performance award is based upon, the official with responsibility for determining individual performance awards may take this into account in determining the amount of the employee's performance award that otherwise would have been specified in this section.

Performance awards that have been adjusted because of promotions are not subject to the requirements of paragraph 262.5(c)(1) and (2).

g. Appropriate credit for performance awards received shall be considered in the personnel process of rating and ranking employees for competitive promotions through the review of the application package and/or the OPF/EPF.

262.6 Special Provisions for Granting Performance Awards

a. Except as provided in paragraphs 262.6b. and 262.6d of this section, when Broadcasting cannot prepare a rating of record for an employee when scheduled in MOA V-A-450, the employee's rating period must be extended so that the minimum (90 day) appraisal period is provided, after which a rating of record shall be prepared and used as the basis for granting a performance award in accordance with this plan.

b. An employee may be granted a performance award when the element cannot prepare a rating of record for an employee when specified in MOA V-A-450 because the employee has not served during the appraisal period for the minimum (90 day) appraisal period; and

(1) is on long-term training; or

(2) is on an approved absence that would be creditable service under MOA V-A-235.

c. If an award is granted to an employee subject to the provisions of paragraph b. above, the following procedures will be used to determine the award amount:

(1) the employee's rating of record is extended and the appropriate award is granted, if that rating was given no earlier than the previous rating period; or (2) if there is no rating of record that can be extended, the employee may receive a performance award equivalent to that granted for a (Fully Successful) rating, as specified in MOA V-A-450.

d. An employee who is newly appointed to the Government within 90 days of the end of the appraisal period will not receive a performance award. For purposes of this paragraph:

(1) a reinstated employee is considered to be a newly appointed employee;

(2) an employee re-employed from a Re-employment Priority List (see MOA V-A-760), is not considered to be a newly appointed employee; and

(3) an employee receiving a new appointment without a break in service of one or more workdays is not considered to be a newly appointed employee.

e. Temporary employees in the competitive service, as well as competitive service employees on a temporary promotion, are eligible for performance awards under this section.

f. A covered employee detailed to another position within or outside of the covered pay systems is eligible for a performance award. However a non-covered employee (e.g., PMRS employee) detailed to a GS, or Wage position is not eligible for a performance award under this section.

g. Any performance appraisal provided previously to employees moving from coverage under one annual appraisal period to another should be considered in determining whether to provide the employee with a performance award and the size of any such award.

h. An employee who is on leave without pay (LWOP) for a period of time such that the employee is not in a pay status during the appraisal period for at least the minimum (90 day) appraisal period is not eligible for a performance award.

262.7 Review of Awards Decisions

a. Each awards determination will be reviewed and approved by an official of Broadcasting who is at a higher-level than the official who made the initial decision, unless there is no official at a higher-level in the element and also by the official with responsibility for managing the performance awards pool(s) of each Service or Office.

b. Higher-level review and approval of performance awards determinations as required in paragraph 262.7a above must be made by the officials also responsible for making the performance appraisal decisions.

c. The officials responsible for performance awards pools and higher-level review and approval of performance appraisal decisions (includes, Directors, independent Services or Office Directors, or their designees, committee(s) and the official(s) designated by the Director to manage a combined awards pool for smaller offices and elements):

(1) shall review, revise and approve all award recommendations up to and including 10 percent of basic pay;

(2) may increase individual awards using any reserved portion of the pools' awards funds;

(3) shall recommend the Director's approval of any awards exceeding 10 percent of basic pay.

d. The Director must approve all awards above 10 percent.

e. Awards recommendations shall not be discussed with employees (or anyone else not in the decision process) until they have been reviewed and approved.

f. The Office of Personnel will submit all recommendations for performance awards in excess of $10,000 up to $25,000 to OPM for review and approval.

262.8 Implementation of Awards Payments -

a. The final proposed awards distribution must be certified to the Office of Personnel by the Service Head, Director, Officials and/or Office Directors responsible for pools. This certification will indicate that the recommendations conform to these regulations and any other applicable guidelines. When the final review and list of certifications are completed, the Office of Personnel shall process payroll actions. It is Broadcasting policy to pay performance awards as soon as possible after certification.

b. Awards paid under this plan do not increase base pay and are subject to withholding of income taxes.

263 APPEALS OF AWARDS OR NON-AWARDS

Performance awards (non-selection/the amount) are not grievable nor appealable.

264 DOCUMENTATION AND RECORD KEEPING

a. Recruiting candidates and administering the Merit Promotion Program for selection and placement of employees while ensuring that placements and selections are made in accordance with Office of Personnel Management (OPM) rules and regulations and internal Broadcasting policy and that each position is filled by the best qualified person available.

b. Advising and assisting supervisors and managers in all aspects of personnel management as noted in paragraph 414.1a through c above.

c. Taking timely personnel actions, promptly processing the necessary paperwork, and efficiently establishing and maintaining required personnel records.

d. Ensuring that personnel management goals, policies and practices are communicated to and understood by managers, supervisors, employees, unions, and other employee groups, and that, to the extent possible, the support necessary to make them effective is achieved.

415 TYPES OF PERSONNEL ACTIONS

415.1 Initial Appointment - See MOA V-A 310.

415.2 Reassignment - Means a change of an employee, while serving continuously within the same agency, from one position to another without promotion or demotion.

a. All assignments to a different position or to duties and responsibilities substantially different from those described in the employee's official position description (except by temporary detail, see paragraph 415.5 below) must be approved by the Office of Personnel . All reassignments must be documented by an SF-50, Notification of Personnel Action.

b. Reassignment to a different line of work or geographic area may not be made during the first 90 days after an employee's initial competitive appointment unless prior approval is obtained from OPM.

c. Reassignments to positions that have greater promotion potential than the position currently occupied must be made by competitive procedures through the Merit Promotion Program (see MOA-VA-460), unless the reassignment is to a position which is exempt from these procedures, e.g., an excepted service position under Schedule A, B, or C.

d. Requests by employees for voluntary lateral reassignment will be considered by management.

e. Where personnel changes are made due to reorganization, no detail or reassignment will be made until the reorganization has been approved by the Director.

f. Whenever practicable, employees will be given advance notice before lateral reassignment.

415.3 Demotion - Means change of an employee, while serving continuously within the same agency, to a lower grade when both the old and the new positions are under the General Schedule or under the same type graded or ungraded wage schedule, or are in different pay method categories.

415.4 Grade and Pay Retention

a. Employees Excluded from Grade and Pay Retention Provisions

- o All Foreign Service employees.

- o Members of the Senior Executive Service.

- o Employees whose employment is on a temporary or term basis. (This is defined as employment under an appointment having a definite time limitation or designated as temporary or term by law.)

- o Any employees who are reduced in grade for personal cause or at their own request. A demotion for personal cause is a reduction in grade based on the conduct, character, or unacceptable performance of an employee. A demotion at an employee's request is a reduction in grade which is initiated by the employee for his/her benefit, convenience or personal advantage, including consent to a demotion in lieu of one for personal cause, and which is not caused or influenced by a management action.

- o Employees removed from a supervisory or managerial position for unsatisfactory performance or for cause during the probationary period for such positions.

b. Grade Retention - Employees who are paid under the General Schedule, any prevailing rate system, or the performance management and recognition system and are placed in a lower graded position as a result of either a job reclassification action or a reduction in force are entitled to retain the grade of the former position for two years from the date they are placed in the lower graded position, when:

- (1) for reduction in force, the employee has served for 52 consecutive weeks in any pay schedule at a grade or grades higher than that of the position in which placed. The 52-week requirement may be satisfied by period of service in one or more positions, at one or more grade levels, even in one or more agencies. The requirement is that the employee must have worked 52 consecutive weeks at a grade level higher than that of the position to which he or she is being reduced. The length of time an employee has served at his/her current grade level (which is the grade which will be retained) is not a deciding factor. Any 52 consecutive week period may be used to satisfy this requirement; or

(2) for reclassification, the position from which the employee is demoted has been classified at a higher grade for a continuous period of at least one year (not 52 weeks as in reduction in force actions) immediately before reclassification. The position may have been classified at more than one higher grade during that one-year period and in any pay schedule. The length of time the employee has occupied the position is irrelevant.

(3) Benefits - The two-year period of grade retention begins on the effective date of placement in the lower position, either by assignment to the reclassified position, or through reduction-in-force procedures. During the two-year period of grade retention, employees will receive within-grade increases when eligible and comparability increases (if any), and are entitled to use the retained grade for pay administration, retirement, life insurance, and eligibility for training and promotion. The retained grade may not be applied to any reduction-in-force procedures in determining whether an employee is covered by the performance management and recognition system or for determining an employee's "exempt/nonexempt" status under the Fair Labor Standards Act. For these purposes, the grade of the position occupied, rather than the retained grade, is to be used. Grade retention will be extended to employees who are on grade retention at the time they transfer from other agencies.

(4) Further Reduction in Grade - If, during a two-year period of grade retention, an employee is further reduced in grade under circumstances also entitling the employee to grade retention, the employee shall continue to retain the previous retained grade for the remainder of the previous two-year period. (NOTE: The retained grade may not be applied towards further reductions resulting from a reduction in force; that is, the employee shall compete in the competitive level of the lower-graded position to which assigned, not by his/her retained grade.)

At the end of the initial two-year period, the employee shall be entitled to retain the grade of the position from which the second reduction in grade was made, until two years have passed from the date of the second reduction in grade.

Example: An employee who is reduced in grade from a GS-9 to GS-7 on 2-11-99 is entitled to a two-year period of grade retention ending on 2-10-01. If the employee is further reduced in grade to a GS-6 on 4-8-99, he/she would be entitled to continue to retain the GS-9 through 2-10-01, the original expiration date of the grade retention period. The employee's entitlement to a two-year period of grade retention for the second reduction in grade began on 4-8-99 and ran concurrently with the previous demotion through 2-10-01. For the remainder of that second two-year period (i.e., from 2-11-01 through 4-7-01), the employee is entitled to retain the GS-7.

(5) Movement Between Covered Pay Systems - When an employee is moved with or without position, from one pay schedule to another through either reclassification or reduction in force, it must be determined if the movement resulted in a reduction in grade, and accordingly, whether grade retention is warranted. To make this determination, the representative rate of the employee's position before and after the movement must be set. The "representative rate" of a position is:

- o the fourth rate of the grade in the case of a position under the General Schedule including the fourth rate of the corresponding grade of the General Schedule in the case of a position under the performance management and recognition system; the highest grade of the covered pay schedule in which placed, if there is no grade in the covered pay schedule with a representation rate equal to or higher than the representative rate held immediately prior to that placement.

- o the second rate of the grade of a position under a regular or special prevailing rate schedule, or in the case of a position with a single rate, the single rate of that position.

If the representative rate of the employee's position after movement is lower than the representative rate of the employee's position before the movement, then the movement has been to a lower grade, and the employee is entitled to grade retention.

Example: A WG-10 employee who is placed in a GS-4 position (which based on a comparison of representative rates, is a lower grade) as a result of a reclassification action is entitled to retain the WG-10 for two years. The employee will continue to receive the scheduled rate of WG-10, the within-grade increases in WG-10, and the prevailing rate increases applicable to WG-10. Except for premium pay entitlements which will be determined based on the work and schedule being performed in the GS-4 position, the employee will be treated as a WG-10 for any other purpose for which the retained grade is applicable.

c. Pay Retention - 5 U.S.C. 5363 provides for indefinite pay retention upon the expiration date of the two-year period of grade retention for any employee entitled to grade retention under paragraph 415.4b(1) above. Under special authority granted to the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) pay retention provisions have been extended to any employee whose rate of basic pay would otherwise be reduced as a result of:

- o a reclassification or a reduction in force when the employee does not meet the eligibility requirements for grade retention;

- o placement of the employee in a formal employee development program;

- o a reduction or elimination of special rates;

- o placement in a position in a lower wage or in a position in a different pay schedule; or

o placement from a special rate position to a non-special rate position or to a lower special rate position.

Pay retention is extended to employees who are on pay retention at the time they transfer from other agencies. Pay retention is not extended to any employee who is reduced in grade or pay: as a result of the termination of a temporary promotion; for personal cause; at the employee's request; or when removed from a supervisory or managerial position for unsatisfactory performance or for cause during the probationary period for such positions.

(1) Benefits - When an employee becomes eligible for pay retention or moves to another position while receiving pay retention, Personnel will compare the employee's rate of basic pay immediately prior to eligibility or movement with the range of rates of basic pay for the position to be occupied by the employee upon this eligibility or movement.

(a) The employee is entitled to the lowest rate of basic pay in the position to be occupied upon the eligibility or movement which equals or exceeds his/her rate of basic pay immediately prior to the eligibility or movement. If the rate of basic pay can be accommodated in the rate range of the latter position, pay retention does not apply.

(b) If the employee's rate of basic pay immediately prior to the pay retention exceeds the maximum rate of the position to be occupied when he/she becomes entitled to pay retention, the employee is entitled to the lower of:

(i) the rate of basic pay payable to the employee immediately before the reduction in pay; or

(ii) 150 percent of the maximum rate of basic pay payable for the new grade.

(c) When an increase in the scheduled rates of the grade of the employee's position occurs while the employee is under pay retention, the employee is entitled to 50 percent of the amount of the increase in the maximum rate of basic pay payable for the grade of the employee's current position.

(d) When, as a result of an increase in the schedule rate(s) of the grade of the employee's position, an employee's retained rate of basic pay becomes equal to or lower than the maximum rate of that grade, the employee is entitled to the maximum rate of that grade and pay retention ceases.

(e) An employee who is serving on a temporary promotion at the time he/she becomes eligible for pay retention is entitled to retain the rate of basic pay which he/she would have been receiving at that time had the temporary promotion not occurred.

d. Notification to Employee of Grade and/or Pay Retention Benefits

(1) When an employee is entitled to grade and/or pay retention, Personnel shall give the employee a copy of the Notification of Personnel Action (SF-50) documenting the employee's entitlement to grade or pay retention, and a letter describing the circumstances warranting grade and/or pay retention and the nature of the entitlement. The employee acquires immediate coverage under the Special Placement Program (see 415.4g).

(2) If, upon the expiration of the two-year grade retention period, the employee has not moved to another position of equal grade to his/her retained grade under the provisions of the Special Placement Program, the employee will again be notified by issuance of an SF-50 and a letter explaining employee's entitlement to pay retention benefits.

e. Termination of Grade and Pay Retention

(1) Grade retention - terminates after two years or at an earlier time in accordance with Title 5 CFR Part 536. For example, when an employee:

- o has a break in service of one workday or more;
- o is demoted either for personal cause or at the employee's request;
- o is placed in, or declines a reasonable offer of, a position the grade of which is equal to or higher than the retained grade; or
- o elects in writing to have the benefits terminate. (Grade retention will terminate on the last day of the pay period in which the employee's written election is received in the Office of Personnel.

(2) Pay retention terminates when an employee:

- o has a break in service of one workday or more;
- o acquires the rate of pay, or declines a reasonable offer of a position with a rate of pay, which is equal to or higher than the retained rate; or
- o is demoted either for personal cause or at the employee's request.

f. Declination of a Reasonable Offer of Position - Grade retention ceases to apply when an employee with retained grade declines a reasonable offer of a position the grade of which is equal to or higher than the employee's retained grade. Pay retention ceases to apply when an employee with retained pay declines a reasonable offer of a position the rate of basic pay for which is equal to or higher than the employee's retained pay. For purposes of applying these provisions a "reasonable offer of position" shall meet the following conditions:

(1) The offer shall be in writing, and shall include an official position description of the offered position.

(2) The offer shall inform the employee that an entitlement to grade or pay retention will be terminated if the offer is declined and that the employee may appeal the reasonableness of the offer as provided in 415.4g below.

(3) The offered position shall be a permanent one for which the employee meets the established qualification requirements.

(4) The offered position shall be full-time, unless the employee's position immediately before the change creating entitlement to grade or pay retention was less than full-time, in which case the offered position must have a work schedule of no less time than that of the position held before the change.

(5) The offered position shall be a Broadcasting position in the same commuting area as the employee's position immediately before the offer.

(6) The offered position shall be the same work shift as the employee's position. (If the employee rejects an offer on the basis of shift, Broadcasting can still assign and re-promote the employee to the position and terminate grade and pay retention. Any such assignment must be consistent with law, regulation, and collective bargaining agreement.)

The employee is responsible for giving written notice to the Office of Personnel of his/her decision to accept or decline the offered position within five working days after receiving the written offer. Failure to respond to the offer within this time shall be considered as declination of the offer. If the employee declines the offered position, the termination of grade or pay retention will be effective on the last day of the pay period in which the declination is received in Personnel.

g. Appeal of Benefits Because of Declination of Reasonable Offer

An employee whose grade or pay retention benefits are terminated on the grounds that the employee declined a reasonable offer of a position may appeal such termination through the negotiated union grievance procedure if the employee is included in a union bargaining unit, or to the OPM if the employee is not included in a bargaining unit. Time limits for filing grievances are included in the appropriate union contract. An appeal to OPM must be filed no later than 20 calendar days after the grade or pay retention benefits have been terminated and must state the reasons why the employee believes the offer of a position was not a reasonable offer.

415.5 Details - A detail is the temporary assignment of an employee to a different position for a specified period, with the employee returning to his/her regular duties at the end of the detail. A position is not filled by a detail as the employee continues to be the incumbent of the position from which detailed.

a. Details Outside Broadcasting - To the extent permitted by law, Executive Order or Office of Personnel Management regulations, Broadcasting may authorize details to, from and between Broadcasting and other government agencies, public institutions, private organizations, state or local governments, institutions of higher education, and international organization. A non-reimbursable detail is permitted when the detail involves a matter related to Broadcasting's appropriations and will aid it in accomplishing the purpose for which appropriations are provided, or will have a negligible impact on the appropriations (CG B-211373 3/20/85).

b. Details Within Broadcasting

(1) Purpose - Details are intended only for meeting temporary needs of Broadcasting when necessary services cannot be obtained by other desirable or practicable means.

(2) Duration and Extension

(a) General - Unless restricted to lesser periods under the provisions of paragraphs (b) through (e) below, details may be made initially for a period not-to-exceed 120 days and may be extended in 120-day increments up to a total of one year. Extensions beyond one year normally require prior OPM approval; however, the detail of a career or career-conditional employee to a position which is either an identical additional position or a position of the same grade, series, and basic duties as the position to which regularly assigned, may be extended beyond the one-year limit by the Office of Personnel.

(b) Details Within 90 Days of Competitive Appointment - Details to different kinds of positions or geographic locations may not be made during the first 90 days of an employee's competitive appointment except for an emergency detail of 30 days or less unless prior approval is obtained from OPM.

(c) Details to Higher-Grade Positions - Except for brief periods, an employee should not be detailed to perform work of a higher grade level unless there are compelling reasons for doing so. Normally, if eligible, an employee should be given a temporary promotion for details of longer than 30 days. Except for positions in Schedules A, B, and C, competitive promotion procedures must be used (even though no promotion is effected) for details to higher-grade positions of more than 60 days (bargaining unit employees) or for more than 120 days (non-bargaining unit employees). (See MOA V-A 460 and 465 for regulations governing temporary promotions.)

(d) Details to Positions with Known Promotion Potential - Except for positions in Schedules A, B, and C, competitive promotion procedures must be used (even though no promotion is effected) for details to positions with known promotion potential of more than 60 days (bargaining unit employees) or for more than 120 days (non-bargaining unit employees).

(e) Details to Unclassified Duties - No bargaining unit employee may be detailed in excess of 30 days to duties which are not classified under Civil Service classification standards.

(3) Approval and Documentation

(a) Details to positions at a higher grade, with known promotion potential, or with substantially different duties in excess of 30 days and all other details of 120 days or more will be documented on an SF-52, Request for Personnel Action, which will be maintained as a permanent record in the employee's Official Personnel Folder. A copy of the SF-52 will be provided to the employee.

All other details may be made by the issuance of instructions by the supervisor to the employee. Such instructions may be issued orally but must be confirmed by written memorandum to the employee. An information copy of the memorandum will be sent to the Office of Personnel. The memorandum will include the beginning and ending dates of the detail. If the detail is to be extended beyond 30 days (positions at higher grade, with promotion potential, or with substantially different duties) or 120 days (all other details), an SF-52, Request for Personnel Action, will be processed through Personnel.

(b) The SF-52 or memorandum will be initiated by the gaining organization and concurrence obtained from the lending organization. Any disagreement between organizations will be resolved at the lowest common management level.

(c) Details of more than 120 days to higher graded positions or to substantially different duties must be approved in advance by the Office of Personnel.

(4) Details to Senior Executive Service Positions - See MOA V-A 1110.

(5) Applicability of Qualification Standards - Employees may be detailed without regard to Civil Service qualification standards.

(6) Details of Temporary Employees - Temporary employees may be detailed to a position which meets the criteria for temporary employment .

(7) Details in Connection with Reorganizations - When personnel changes are made due to a reorganization, no detail will be made until the reorganization has been approved by the Director.

415.6 Promotion (See MOA V-A-460).

415.7 Conversions

a. From Career-Conditional to Career - In order to become a career employee under the General Schedule, an employee must have served a three year period of substantially continuous creditable service (career conditional) in the Federal Government. Substantially continuous service means service without a break of more than 30 calendar days. Career-conditional employees automatically become career employees upon completion of the service requirement. Conversion to career employment is documented by the Office of Personnel by the issuance of an SF-50, Notification of Personnel Action.

b. From Overseas Specialist (FP) to Civil Service

(1) In order to convert from Overseas Specialist to the Civil Service the employee must be in Washington or due back to Washington for a domestic assignment. An overseas tour of duty will not be broken, nor will an employee be brought back to Washington before the overseas tour is completed.

(2) The employee must be eligible for conversion to career or career-conditional status in the competitive service. Service for one year immediately before separation from an unlimited Foreign Service appointment usually fulfills this requirement.

(3) The employee must apply and be selected under the provisions of MOA V-A 460 for bargaining unit positions or MOA V-A 465 for non-bargaining unit positions. In either case, positions must be properly allocated and classified, and the employee must meet all qualification requirements. The grade to which the employee is converted will be determined in accordance with regulations applicable to Civil Service employees.

(4) Salary determination will be made in accordance with 5 CFR Part 531.

(5) An Overseas Specialist must resign his/her appointment in writing to the Director, Office of Personnel, before an SF-50, Notification of Personnel Action, can be processed.

c. From Civil Service to Foreign Service Overseas Specialist - An employee interested in becoming an Overseas Specialist Candidate must apply through the Office of Personnel for an oral exam which covers specialty expertise and other knowledge. If successful at BEX, the employee's name will be placed on a register from which candidates are drawn as unfilled overseas vacancies occur. Medical and background investigation must also be successfully completed before appointment as an Overseas Specialist Candidate. (See MOA V-B 360 for further details.)

416 SPECIAL PLACEMENT PROGRAM

416.1 Purpose

In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 5364, this program has been established to provide employees entitled to grade and pay retention with priority placement opportunities in positions which are equal to their retained grade or pay.

416.2 Policy

a. General

(1) Broadcasting shall utilize all appropriate means to avoid the demotion of an employee who, under circumstances for which the employee is not responsible, is placed in a situation where a reduction in grade or pay may have to be effected.

(2) Whenever possible, vacancies in permanent positions under the civil service and prevailing rate systems will be filled, except as provided in paragraph 416.2b below, by the selection of an employee entitled to special placement under the provisions of this program.

(3) To the maximum extent possible, each organizational element of Broadcasting shall absorb its own employees who are covered under the Special Placement Program.

(4) Notification of the selecting official's decision must be received by the Office of Personnel within five working days after the name(s) of referred qualified candidate(s) has been received by the official.

(5) In those rare instances when a selecting official does not accept an employee who is certified as qualified under the Special Placement Program, the non-selection must be justified in writing by the selecting official through the Office Head to the Director of Personnel for approval.

b. Exception

The following personnel actions are not covered by the policy stated in paragraph 416.2a above:

(1) career promotions as defined in MOA V-A 461.4a; or promotions which are excluded from competitive promotion procedures as described in MOA V-A 461.3; and

(2) actions required to comply with a regulatory or statutory provision (e.g., the exercise of re-employment rights).

416.3 Responsibilities

a. Office Heads, managers and supervisors are responsible for instilling a spirit of cooperation within their organizations and for ensuring the timely submission of personnel action requests on vacancies (SF-52) in order that those covered by this program may be appropriately assigned.

b. The Director of Personnel is responsible for establishing policies and guidelines, for giving general oversight to the operation of the Special Placement Program, and for making final determinations on validity of elements' justification for non-selection of qualified employees certified under this program.

c. The Office of Personnel is responsible for ensuring that all positions are appropriately described and properly classified in accordance with provisions of established regulatory requirements and sound classification principles. This will include positions found to be over-graded through position classification surveys, as well as due to the issuance and application of occupational (classification) standards.

d. The Office of Personnel is responsible for assisting Directors, Office Heads, managers and supervisors in operating the Special Placement Program and for ensuring that the provisions of this program are followed when a vacancy is to be filled.

e. The Personnel Operations Division is responsible for issuing a monthly Broadcast-wide Placement List,

f. Personnel is responsible for ensuring prompt referral of qualified employees for vacant positions equal to their retained grade level (or former grade level, if employee is on pay retention only).

g. Employees placed on the Special Placement Program are responsible for completing and submitting to the personnel office current SF-171's so that they can be properly considered for appropriate vacancies.

h. Personnel will send a copy of each Special Placement Certificate to the Director, Office of Civil Rights at the time it is issued to the selecting official. The Director of OCR will review the certificate to ensure that, to the maximum extent possible, Broadcasting's affirmative action goals are not adversely affected.

416.4 Basic Requirements

a. Eligibility

(1) Any employee who is entitled to grade or pay retention benefits under the provisions of V-A 415.4 is eligible for the Special Placement Program. Employees serving on a full-time basis are eligible for placement in full-time positions. Those serving on a part-time basis are eligible only for other part-time assignments.

(2) Employees are covered under the Special Placement Program on the effective date of the Notification of Personnel Action (SF-50) which authorizes their entitlement to grade or pay retention. The monthly special placement list of eligible employees will be maintained in the Personnel Operations Division .

b. Areas of Eligibility

(1) Eligible employees are entitled to these Special Placement provisions with respect to a vacancy in the geographic location in which the employee is working.

(2) Employees who are willing to move to a position outside their current geographic location must request such placement if they wish to be considered in any other location.

(3) The relocation expenses for employees selected for a position in another geographic location under this placement program will be paid by Broadcasting, unless it is determined that the employee could have been placed in his/her current location and the move to a different geographic location is for the employee's convenience.

c. Extent of Eligibility for Positions with Known Promotion Potential

(1) When a position with known promotion potential becomes vacant it will be filled at the grade which represents the full performance level grade if there is an employee who is qualified under the Special Placement Program for the position at that grade (unless paragraph 416.2b applies).

(2) If there is no employee under the program qualified at the full performance level grade, the position may be filled at that grade or any intervening grade through the Merit Promotion Program. The Special Placement Program does not override the requirements in MOA V-A 460 regarding competition in filling positions having known promotion potential.

(3) Employees under the Special Placement Program must compete with other candidates for the vacancy. However, if an employee covered by this program is shown as one of the top ranking candidates (see MOA V-A 462.2e) for consideration, non-selection of this candidate must be justified in writing by the selecting official through the Director or Office Head to the Director of Personnel for approval.

d. Period of Eligibility

(1) Beginning of Eligibility - An employee may be reassigned in accordance with the provisions of the Special Placement Program at any time after the effective date of the notification of Personnel Action (SF-50) which documents the employee's entitlement to grade or pay retention.

(2) Termination of Eligibility - Eligibility will cease when the employee is removed from the program. Removal from the program will coincide with the termination of employee's entitlement to grade and/or pay retention, that is, when the employee:

(a) moves to another continuing position at the same or higher grade;

(b) voluntarily accepts another position at a lower grade;

(c) declines a reasonable offer to a continuing position (see V-A 415.4f for definition of "a reasonable offer of position"); or

(d) is separated for any reason.

416.5 Referral and Certification of Qualified Employees

a. Unless a vacancy is to be filled under one of the exceptions provided for in paragraph 416.2b above, the Personnel Operations Division will refer to the selecting official the names of qualified employees entitled to Special Placement under this program, prior to advertisement of the vacancy. Selecting officials must reach a decision and notify Personnel within five working days after receipt of the names of qualified candidates. Non-selection of the referred candidate(s) must be justified in writing by the selecting official and approved by the Director of Personnel before the vacancy may be announced.

(1) Employees under the Special Placement Program who qualify for vacant positions with known promotion potential are subject to the provisions of paragraph 416.4c above.

b. For many positions the qualification requirements as specified in the OPM Handbook X-118 are appropriate without modification, and employees who meet those requirements will be considered qualified for a position under the provisions of this plan. For some positions, however, the duties and responsibilities are such that incumbents must possess certain job-related qualifications in addition to, or more specific than, those defined in Handbook X-118. The OPM designates these special requirements "selective factors" and describes the circumstances under which the use of such factors might be justified. If selective factors have been approved by the Office of Personnel as essential for use in filling a position, an employee under the Special Placement Program will have to meet those factors to be considered qualified for the position. Any such factors which are used will be recorded in writing showing why the use of them is justified, and approval of them will be indicated in the record.

417 PROBATIONARY PERIOD FOR NEWLY-APPOINTED SUPERVISORS AND MANAGEMENT OFFICIALS

417.1 Purpose - Section 303 of the Civil Service Reform Act (PL 95-454) requires a probationary period for newly-appointed supervisors and managers. This section outlines the procedures for Broadcasting.

417.2 Objective - The success or failure of Broadcast programs is dependent to a large extent on the caliber of its supervisors and managers. Unique skills and abilities which cannot easily be taught or developed in other kinds of positions are needed by supervisors and management officials. The probationary period is intended to bridge the gap between perceived potential and actual performance. It provides Broadcasting with an opportunity to assess the new appointee's development on the job and return an employee to a non-supervisory or non-managerial position without undue formality should circumstances warrant.

417.3 Policy

a. Upon initial appointment to a supervisory position, an employee is required to complete a one-year probationary period. Upon initial appointment to a managerial position, if an employee has not served previously as a supervisor, he/she is required to complete a one-year probationary period. An employee whose initial appointment is to a position which is both supervisory and managerial is required to complete a single probationary period of one year.

b. All positions, whether occupied by General Schedule or Wage System employees, require a one-year probationary period upon initial appointment to a supervisory and/or management position.

c. The Office of Personnel will make position designations and the designation will be noted on the official position description (OF-8) in block 11. Designations and the probation requirement will be noted on all vacancy announcements.

d. If an employee is required to serve a probationary period both in a supervisory or managerial position and under an initial employment appointment, reinstatement, transfer or position change, then a concurrent one-year probationary period will meet both requirements.

e. The employee will be required to attend and complete training courses in supervisory or managerial techniques during the one-year probationary period.

f. Successful completion of the probationary period will be documented in the employee's Official Personnel Folder with a copy of the supervisor's certification. The supervisor's certification must be accompanied by documentation showing successful completion of a management training course. The probationary period is not complete without attendance at one such course, and the supervisor may not certify satisfactory completion of the probationary period until the course is completed and certification received and attached to the certificate.

g. An employee who is not satisfactorily performing his/her supervisory or managerial duties may be removed from the position. The employee is entitled to be returned to a non-supervisory and non-managerial position at the grade level of his/her position prior to reassignment to the supervisory or managerial position or to a position at the same grade and pay as the position in which he/she was serving probation if the employee was demoted into the supervisory or managerial position. Failure to pass the probationary period does not preclude the employee from applying for another supervisory or managerial position in the future.

417.4 Definitions - In determining which positions are categorized as supervisory or managerial, the OPM Supervisory Grade Evaluation Guide (SGEG) will be used, or if under the Wage System, the Job Grading Standard for Supervisors. The following definitions are included herein for clarity of this MOA issuance, but employees should refer to the complete SGEG when questioning designation of a position as supervisory or managerial. The SGEG may be reviewed in the Office of Personnel.

a. Supervisory positions are those in which incumbents perform supervisory duties and responsibilities with respect to three or more employees (exclusive of "support employees") such as assigning, directing and reviewing the work of subordinate employees; planning and carrying out the training and development of employees; evaluating employees' work performance; recommending selections, promotions, status changes, awards, disciplinary actions and separations; solving problems related to the work supervised; determining material, equipment and facilities needed; explaining and gaining the support of employees for management policies and goals; working to achieve the objectives of government-wide personnel programs and policies; dealing effectively with employees and union representatives on employee suggestions, complaints, grievances, and other matters involved in the day-to-day administration of labor management agreements. Some supervisory positions also include responsibility for advice to management on and participation in the establishment of program and production goals, priorities, and major schedules; development of cost and budget analysis or forecast; and determination of long range manpower requirements.

b. Managerial positions are those in which the incumbents direct the work of an organization, are held accountable for the success of specific line or staff programs, monitor the progress of the organization toward goals and periodically evaluate and make appropriate adjustments, and typically perform the full range of the following duties and responsibilities:

- (1) determine program goals and develop plans for the organization independently of or jointly with higher management;
- (2) determine resource needs and allocation of resources and account for their effective use;
- (3) determine the need and develop plans for organizational changes which have considerable impact, such as those involving basic structure, operating costs, or key positions;
- (4) consider a broad spectrum of factors when making decisions (or recommendations to higher level management) including public relations, congressional relations, labor management relations, public policy stances, effect on other organizations and other parts of the organization, economic impact, and the like;
- (5) coordinate program efforts with other internal activities or with the activities of other agencies;
- (6) assess the impact on organization programs of substantive developments in programs and policies on elements in other parts of Broadcasting, in other Government entities, and in the private sector;
- (7) set policy for the organization managed in such areas as determining program emphasis and operating guidelines; understand and communicate policies and priorities throughout the organization managed;
- (8) deal with general personnel management policy matters affecting the organization manager, with personnel actions affecting key employees, and other actions with possible serious repercussions; and
- (9) delegate authority to subordinate supervisors and hold them responsible for the performance of their organizational units.

c. Applicability of the probationary period. Employees who are serving or have served in supervisory or managerial positions in the federal government as of August 11, 1979, are exempt from the probationary period requirement. Satisfactory completion of a probationary period, or service prior to August 11, 1979, as a supervisor or manager in the federal government, fulfills the probationary requirement for assignment to future supervisory or managerial positions regardless of the agency, occupation or position in which he/she may serve.

417.5 Responsibilities

a. Office of Personnel is responsible for identifying supervisory and managerial positions within Broadcasting and ensuring that newly-appointed employees who have not previously served as supervisors or managers or who have not previously served a probationary period are placed under a one-year probationary period. Personnel will ensure that notification of such a probationary period is included in all vacancy announcements for supervisory and managerial positions and that employees selected for such positions are informed of their rights and responsibilities during the probationary period. Personnel is responsible for advising the supervisor of the employee of the expiration of that probation at least 90 days in advance, and for coordinating the return of the probationary supervisor or manager to his/her former position or similar position and grade (except as noted in 417.3g) in the element from which originally assigned, if the individual does not succeed in the supervisory or managerial position. Personnel will consult with superiors of probationary supervisors and managers during the probationary period regarding the progress of the employee and to ensure that the employee is enrolled in a management training course.

b. Supervisors of newly-appointed supervisors and managers are responsible for ensuring that new supervisors and managers receive training appropriate to the position being filled, for providing adequate opportunity for employees to prove themselves in the position, for communicating the supervisory and managerial performance standards of the position, for evaluating the performance of the employee as a supervisor or manager, documenting unsatisfactory performance so that the employee may know why he/she is being returned to his/her former position and grade, for getting the concurrence and approval of the Director or Office or Service Head and for coordination with Personnel when an employee is to be removed from the position for unsatisfactory performance of supervisory/managerial duties, and for certifying the satisfactory performance of a supervisor/manager so that the Official Personnel Folder contains documentation that the probationary period has been completed.

c. Directors and Office and Service Heads are responsible for reviewing, approving and disapproving the immediate supervisor's recommendation for removal of employees from supervisory or managerial positions for unsatisfactory performance; and, if approved, for working with Personnel in returning such employees to their former position, or similar positions, and grades.

417.6 Crediting Service Toward Completion of the One-Year Supervisory/Managerial Probationary Period

a. An employee who is transferred, reassigned or promoted to another successive supervisory or managerial position would be credited with service in the former position towards completion of the probationary period for the new position.

b. Absence in a non-pay status while under the supervisory or managerial probation period is creditable up to a total of 22 workdays. Any non-pay time in excess of 22 work days extends the probationary period by the amount of the excess.

c. Absence due to compensable injury or military duty from which the employee is entitled to restoration rights or priority consideration is creditable in full during the probationary period.

d. When an employee is separated for cause or returned to a non-supervisory/non-managerial position during the probationary period, that individual's service under the probationary supervisory/managerial position does not count toward completion of a probationary period required under a subsequent appointment.

417.7 Determining Completion of the Probationary Period

a. Ninety days prior to the end of the probationary period, the Office of Personnel will generate a probationary period report form for completion and certification by the supervisor.

b. If the employee has performed satisfactorily as a supervisor or manager, the form will be completed and returned to Personnel for inclusion in the employee's Official Personnel Folder as a permanent record of satisfactory completion of the probationary period. A certificate or other documentation that the employee has successfully completed a management training course must be attached to the form in order for the probationary period to be terminated.

c. If the employee has not performed his or her supervisory/ managerial duties satisfactorily, the immediate supervisor will document the deficiencies, and the employee will be removed from the position in the manner noted in par. 417.8 below.,

417.8 Removal for Failure to Perform Satisfactorily as a Supervisor and/or Management Official

a. Satisfactory completion of the probationary period is a prerequisite to continuation in the supervisory or managerial position. If after a full and fair trial period, an employee's performance reveals deficiencies which make him/her unsuited for continued employment in the supervisory or managerial position, the employee will be returned to a non-supervisory or non-managerial position. Such determination can be made at any time during the probationary period, but the determination must be made prior to the termination of the probationary period.

b. An employee may be returned to his/her former position and grade only because of failure to perform satisfactorily as a supervisor and/or manager. A direct relationship must be shown between the unsatisfactory performance and the supervisory or managerial duties. Removal or demotions for other reasons are adverse actions and should be processed under procedures outlined in MOA V-A 560.

c. The decision to remove an employee from a supervisory/managerial position is made by the immediate supervisor of the position, with concurrence of the next higher official in the organizational structure and of the Director or Office or Service Head, and after notification of the Director, Office of Personnel.

d. Sufficient factual information will be given to the employee, in writing, by the employee's immediate supervisor to make clear the basis for the removal. The notification of supervisory or managerial deficiencies must be consonant with Performance Appraisal Reports that might have been written during the probationary period, and should be the result of prior oral and written communication with the employee on unsatisfactory aspects of the employee's supervisory or managerial performance.

e. An employee is entitled to be returned to a position of no lower grade and pay than the one he or she left to accept the supervisory or managerial position or to a position at the same grade and pay as the position in which he/she was serving probation if the employee was demoted into the supervisory or managerial position.

f. An employee returned to his/her former or similar position and grade due to unsatisfactory performance as a supervisor or manager during the probationary period is not entitled to grade and pay retention. This employee however, will be entitled to receive the highest previous salary rate in the grade to which he/she is being returned.

g. The removal of the employee and reassignment is documented by an SF-50, Personnel Action. The notification of the employee deficiencies which resulted in the removal will not be included in the employee's Official Personnel Folder. The Personnel Action (SF-50) reassigning the employee will carry the remark "Result of failure to satisfactorily complete probationary period for supervisory (or managerial) position."

417.9 Appeals and Grievances

a. An employee who wishes to contest the determination of his or her position as supervisory or managerial may do so under grievance procedures (V-A 567). There is no right of appeal of supervisory/managerial determination to the Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB).

b. The return of an employee to his/her former or similar position for reasons related to supervisory or managerial performance is not considered an adverse action and is not appealable to the Merit Systems Protection Board.

c. An allegation of discrimination due to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, physical handicap or age (provided the complainant is at least 40 years of age) in connection with an action returning an employee to a non-supervisory or non-managerial position is to be processed as a discrimination complaint under 29 CFR 1613.201. Final action on such complaints is appealable to Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). An allegation of discrimination due to marital status or partisan political affiliation is appealable to the Merit Systems Protection Board.

d. An employee may challenge the procedural aspects of the removal through the grievance procedures (V-A 567).

d. Giving careful and constructive evaluation of training received.

e. Preparing, if she/he so desires, an Individual Development Plan.

424 PROCEDURES

424.1 Form Used - SF 182, Training Request, (Exhibit 420B) should be submitted in duplicate, to apply for formal training, either within the organization or outside. The purpose of this form is to record the personal data, educational and job experiences, and justification for the requested training, upon which the Training and Development Division will base its decision to register an employee in a training course. The form must be signed by the employee's immediate supervisor, Division Director and the Training Liaison Officer, and submitted to the Training and Development Division. The justification must show the job-relatedness of the proposed training or the career development relevance to organizational needs.

424.2 Training Requests - Although the employee will often initiate a request for training, supervisors are expected to be instrumental in bringing training opportunities to the attention of employees. The employee's immediate supervisor signs off on the training request and sends it to the Division Director and/or Training Liaison Officer for his or her signature. The request, together with sufficient justification, such as an Individual Development Plan, is sent to the Registrar at the Training and Development Division. The Training and Development Division approves or denies the request based on appropriate criteria, including job relatedness and the availability of funds which are authorized by the Training and Development Division. The Registrar notifies the Liaison Officer, supervisor and the employee, in writing whether the training has been approved or reasons for denial.

424.3 Individual Development Plan - Every employee who desires an Individual Development Plan (IDP) may have one. IDP's will be developed by the employee and his/her supervisor, working with the TLO if they so desire. Career development interests related to Broadcasting needs will be the primary criterion governing the preparation of an IDP. IDP's should first be developed for a period of at least one year and, later project activities and goals for up to a five-year period. IDP's will be reviewed by employees and supervisors at least once a year in order to evaluate progress made toward achievement of their objectives and determine need for changes in the plans. Administrative Offices may obtain a supply of Individual Development Plan Forms (Exhibit 420B), from the Training and Development Division.

424.4 Selection Criteria - Selections for training opportunities will be made in accordance with the principles of equal employment opportunity and will not be influenced by favoritism or because of race, color, religion, sex, age, marital status, national origin, politics, physical handicap, or membership or nonmembership in an employee organization. Ideally, all of the training and development opportunities required to develop employees to their highest potential and to fulfill organizational needs should be available. However, because of limitations on resources, it is necessary to establish priorities in the granting and scheduling of employee training and development activities. It is the policy of Broadcasting that the following priorities be followed in making training and career development decisions:

- a. To improve individual performance in current job activities.
- b. To prepare individuals for immediate Broadcasting needs.
- c. To prepare individuals for long-range Broadcasting needs.

Within the context of these priorities, training decisions are made on the basis of:

- a. Relative degree of need for performance in current position.
- b. Relative potential for advancement.
- c. Likelihood that the applicant's knowledge, skill, performance, or attitude will be improved by training.
- d. Ability of the employee to pass on to others what has been learned through the training.
- e. Length of time the organization expects to benefit from the employee's new learning.
- f. Previous opportunities to take advantage of training.
- g. Employee's interest and efforts in improving self through training.

424.5 Release From Work

a. The employee should be excused by the Division Director, insofar as work schedules permit, to participate in approved training programs. The Division Director's signature on the Training Request form is evidence of approval for the employee to be dismissed from work for the purpose of receiving training.

b. A change in the administrative work week may be permitted to enable employees to take courses in nearby educational institutions, either during or outside normal duty hours, if such training will equip employees for more effective work.

c. As a general rule, employees may receive neither overtime pay or compensatory time off for time spent in training. There are exceptions to this rule, especially where employees are subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act. Contact the Office of Personnel or the Training and Development Division for more information.

424.6 Types of Training

a. During non-duty hours - Broadcasting will pay tuition, fees, and costs of required course materials for courses that are job related and have received prior approval by the Training and Development Division and as funding permits. If the employee does not satisfactorily complete the course (except for reason of extended illness certified by a doctor) the employee must reimburse the organization for the amount spent. A grade of C or better is considered satisfactory to meet this requirement and receive funds for the course.

Attendance at non-Government courses or conferences will only be approved when:

(1) Adequate equivalent training may not be reasonably obtained through Government sources.

(2) The training is definitely job-related and is not given for the sole purpose of obtaining a degree or for qualifying an employee for promotion or appointment to a particular position.

(3) Broadcasting will receive either immediate or long range benefits at least equal to the cost of the training.

b. Correspondence Courses - Broadcasting will reimburse the employee, upon satisfactory completion, for all correspondence courses that received prior approval by the Training and Development Division.

c. Attendance at Meeting and Conferences - Broadcasting recognizes that attendance at relevant meetings and conferences is a valid form of training and can be an effective means of aiding the professional growth of Agency employees. Insofar as the work schedule permits, employees should be excused to attend work-related meetings and conferences.

However the registration and/or travel costs must be funded by the employee's Unit and not the Training and Development Division.

d. Interagency Training Courses - Personnel will enroll employees in and pay the fees for courses such as those provided by the Office of Personnel Management, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Foreign Service Institute (FSI) when courses are offered that suit Broadcasting training needs and such courses can be provided more economically through other agencies.

e. Non-Government Training

Where interagency sources do not offer equivalent training, Broadcasting may make use of non-Government training facilities to provide training, either for individuals or for groups. An employee requesting long term non-Government training (i.e., the duration of training is greater than 120 days or more than 960 hours) must agree in writing to remain in service with Broadcasting for a period equal to at least three times the length of the training period or reimburse the organization for all expenses related to the training (P.L. 85-507 section 11) (5 U.S.C. 4108(a)(1) "Continued Service Agreements". An exception is made to the reimbursement law if the employee is involuntarily separated from service or if the employee attended at the request of the Broadcasting.

f. Intern Programs - From time to time internship programs will be set up and employees selected under these programs (in management, personnel, administration and broadcasting) for on-the-job and formal training. Such opportunities will be announced under the Merit Promotion Program.

g. Advanced Training - Employees with special training or education requirements may be considered for advanced or long term training such as university studies, Congressional Fellowships, War College or National Defense Institute Training. Decisions on these or any other long term training opportunities will be based on potential benefit to Broadcasting and the Government as well as the individual. Contact the Training and Development Division for details.

Application procedures for any advanced training opportunities will be included in the announcements. Selection recommendations will be made by the Long Term Training Review Committee which is chaired by the Chief of Staff and includes representatives of the Personnel Office and the Office of Civil Rights as well as other appropriate officials. The final decisions on advanced training will be made by the Director in consultation with the Long Term Training Review Committee.

Selection criteria may include:

- (1) Six or more years Broadcasting experience;
- (2) No Broadcast sponsored long-term training within the past four years;
- (3) The academic credentials required for study at a university or equivalent institution (where appropriate);

(4) Agreement to remain in the employ of Broadcasting for three times the duration of the training

h. Executive Development - Advanced management training in executive skills needed for effective management in positions in the United States and overseas is available for mid-level (GS 13, 14, and 15 and FAS equivalent) employees. Candidates are proposed by Broadcast management in conjunction with the appropriate supervisory official and selected by a committee set up by the Training and Development Division. Officers should inform their supervisors of their interest in such training programs.

i. Career Development Opportunities - The Training and Development Division sponsors career development opportunities such as the mentoring program, participation in the Women's Executive Leadership (WEL) Program and the New Leader Program. Application and selection procedures are included in the announcement for each program. For more information contact the Training and Development Division.

j. Required Training - Certain types of training are required by Broadcasting or the government for some or all employees. Such mandatory training includes management/supervisory training and ethics training. Employees will be informed of required training by the Training and Development Division or by their Training Liaison Officer and will then be responsible for attending.

424.7 Payment of Fees - If training has been approved by the Training and Development Division, Broadcasting will pay the fees. Before the employee begins training, the Registrar will send a letter of certification to the training institution, stating that the employee has been authorized to take the training indicated. Upon the completion of training, the Registrar will certify that the employee has satisfactorily completed training. Bills are sent by the institution to the Administrative Officer, B/P, for payment out of the training budget.

SEE INTRANET FOR SAMPLE TRAINING FORMS, COPIES OF FORMS CAN BE OBTAINED IN FORM FLOW.

ORGANIZATION AND STAFFING

441 ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

441.1 Requirements and Approvals

a. Each proposed change of organization structure, at the branch level or above, or those containing major policy significance, must be submitted to the Office of Personnel, for review and approval by the Director for Management or, in certain cases, by the Office of the Director for International Broadcasting.

b. Proposals for change in organizational titles or functional assignments at all levels of operation should be submitted to Personnel to assure that there is no overlapping or duplication of functions, and to see that changes are reflected in official organization charts and functional statements.

441.2 Preparing and Submitting Proposed Changes

a. Prior to submitting requests for changes in an element's position or organization structure, the initiating office must consider:

(1) The effect of the proposed change on functions and organization structure of other organizational units within the element or other elements.

(2) The advantages and disadvantages of the proposal from the standpoint of program objectives and overall priorities.

(3) The effect on the number and grades of staff required by the proposed change.

(4) The availability of funds or administrative and other services required to effect the change.

b. Under most circumstances, elements will select the position or organization structure that will accomplish the assigned responsibilities at the lowest cost consistent with the following objectives:

(1) The number of management and supervisory positions should be maintained at the minimum level. A minimum level is considered to be that required to plan work and give guidance on unusual assignments to a fully trained, competent staff.

(2) A reasonable distribution of staff among senior, intermediate, trainee, and secretarial and clerical levels.

(3) A clear delineation of work assignments and job-to-job relationships that avoids overlaps and conflicts.

(4) Adequate opportunity for employee development and progression.

(5) Sufficient job interest to attract, retain, and motivate employees.

c. Proposed changes in organization or functions are submitted by the element head to Personnel. The proposal must contain a full description and justification for the change, draft organization charts, and functional statements.

441.3 Responsibilities

a. The Office Of Personnel consulting other offices as necessary, provides assistance to heads of elements in the development of proposals for changes in organization or functions including changes to be presented as part of the budget process. It reviews proposals for changes that require the approval of the Office of the Director; submits the proposals with recommendations to the appropriate office; and informs interested offices of the decision on the request. It also publishes and issues approved functional statements and organization charts.

b. - The Operations Division of the Office of Personnel provides assistance to heads of elements and supervisory personnel in analyzing the personnel and classification aspects of position structures and suggests alternative structures to achieve improvements in position management, and coordinates such assistance with other staff elements as required. The Training and Development Division advises and assists in the development of appropriate training courses to improve supervisory and technical competence.

After approval of the reorganization proposal, the Operations Division must classify the proposed positions. Implementation of a reorganization may proceed only after proper notification of affected personnel, in consultation with the exclusive representative of the employees in the bargaining unit.

442 STAFFING PATTERNS

442.1 Definition - A staffing pattern is a list of the positions within a major organizational unit, and identified by functional title, position number, grade, and name of incumbent. (If the incumbent is a Foreign Service employee, also indicate his/her Foreign Service grade.) The Office of Personnel maintains the file of current staffing patterns.

(1) Full-Time Permanent Position - This type of position is one which is authorized for an indefinite duration to carry on the continuing work of Broadcasting and is justified in the permanent position category of budget estimates.

(2) Full-Time Temporary Position -This type of position is authorized and approved for temporary purposes such as summer employment, emergency work periods, or the replacement of employees on extended absence. Temporary positions may be authorized for a total period not to exceed one year, however, overseas temporary positions will be authorized initially for only 90 days.

(3) Part-Time Position - A part-time position is authorized for an employee whose prearranged work schedule is from 16 to 32 hours a week. (MOA V-A 620.7a).

(4) WAE Position - A WAE (when actually employed) position is authorized for an employee who works irregularly or occasionally with no prearranged work schedule (see MOA V-A 602.8).

b. FTE Ceilings - The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) prescribes the FTE (Full time Equivalency) in salary dollars for the BBG. This FTE ceiling is established during the annual OMB budget review and is communicated to the BBG by OMB in the customary allowance letter which outlines the fund levels approved for the BBG in the President's Budget. The FTE ceiling covers all personnel, except those employed in full-time temporary or part-time positions under the Government's program for disadvantaged youths, welfare to work program, and employees of other agencies filling positions on a reimbursable basis.

c. Monitoring Overseas Direct Employment (MODE) - The position and employment ceilings allocated to overseas establishments for American and FSN employees are subject to controls under the "Monitoring of Overseas Direct Employment System" (MODE). This system is directed by the Under Secretaries Committee and is designed to maintain the number of U. S. Government employees abroad at a minimum level consistent with overall U. 444 POSITION MANAGEMENT 444.1 Introduction - These regulations assign responsibilities and describe the requirements for a position management system for the BBG (Broadcasting) as required by Office of Management. Position management consists of the evaluation of the need for positions; the definition of the skills and knowledge required of an incumbent in a position; the organization, grouping, and assignment of duties and responsibilities to positions; and the grouping of positions into an organizational structure.

444.2 Objectives - This paragraph is designed to assist managers, supervisors, and administrative personnel in planning, organizing, and evaluating position and organization structures that best serve the needs of Broadcasting.

The position management system will enable Broadcasting:

a. To identify, prevent, or eliminate such common faults as unnecessary organizational fragmentation, excessive layering, excessive use of deputies, assistants to, and special assistants, improper design of jobs, outmoded work methods, and improper distribution of work-force resources.

b. To contribute to continuing increase in employee productivity and to reflect this increase in a reduced use of manpower and fiscal resources.

c. To eliminate positions that become vacant if their duties can be redistributed, or modified in such a way as to permit substituting a lower grade position, or eliminated without seriously affecting essential functions.

d. To improve position and grade structure and reduce average salary levels without arbitrary downgrading, reductions-in-force, or other measures that would adversely affect employee morale.

444.3 Responsibilities and Procedures

a. Work-force Control and Utilization Officer - The Director for Management is assigned responsibility for this program, and:

(1) Provides guidance in the effective conduct of position management.

(2) Evaluates position management within Broadcasting, recognizing effective action and directing corrective action as warranted.

b. Directors and Office Heads

(1) Assure establishment and maintenance of an effective position management program.

(2) Assure that all employees are informed of the objectives and requirements of these regulations.

(3) Conduct an annual review of the need for all positions.

(4) Review each position as vacated and determine whether the duties of the position may be reassigned or redistributed, or whether the position can be redesigned so as to conform to a lower classification, or whether the position can be abolished without seriously affecting the execution of essential functions.

(5) Direct appropriate action when the need for improvement in position structure is indicated.

(6) Consider the review of vacant positions as an affirmative action opportunity to create bridge positions which will give employees a chance through upward mobility to move from the clerical to the professional level of work.

c. Line Managers and Supervisors

(1) Assure that each position conforms to the objectives of effective position management, or deviates from them only for reasons that have been carefully determined to be valid.

(2) Review position structure at least annually to evaluate the need for each position.

(3) Encourage employees to suggest ways to improve productivity, reduce costs, and conserve manpower resources.

(4) Personally initiate position management studies when there is reasonable evidence that improvement is needed and possible, utilizing available staff assistance, including management, budget, and personnel representatives.

d. Office of Personnel

(1) Assures that the requirements of the position management program have been met before effecting personnel or position actions. Personnel actions affecting organizational or functional responsibilities must be approved by the Director for Management.

(2) Classifies positions in accordance with the governing standards of the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) and established policies.

(3) Supplies classification advice on reorganization plans. No additional positions at GS-13 or above created in any reorganization will be filled until the reorganization has been approved by the Director for Management.

(4) Conducts annual position review to ensure that positions are properly described and classified.

e. Office of the Director for Management - Reviews and approves all reorganizations. In addition, any reorganization that will create additional positions at GS-13 or above must have the approval of the Director for Management before the reorganization is implemented. All such reorganization plans submitted to the Director for Management for approval will be routed through the Office of Personnel for classification advice.

PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL FOR CIVIL SERVICE (PMS) EMPLOYEES

This Section is the performance appraisal component of the performance management plan for General Schedule and Wage System employees under the Performance Management System (PMS), except for Civil Service employees in grades GS/GM 13 through GS/GM 15 who have been designated as supervisors or management officials. The PMS compensation plan for General Schedule and Wage System employees is contained in MOA V-A 235, 239, and 260. Other regulations relating to covered PMS employees are located as follows: Awards Program, MOA V-A 570; Reduction in Force, MOA V-A 760; Personnel Records, Files and Reports, MOA V-A 900.

See MOA V-A 1100 for performance appraisal of the Senior Executive Service. Effective with the performance appraisal cycle that began on July 1, 2001, MOA V-A 490 is the performance appraisal component for Civil Service employees in grades GS/GM 13 through GS/GM 15 who have been designated as supervisors or management officials.

451.1 Applicability

a. The following regulations and procedures apply to all Civil Service employees (General Schedule including Schedule "C," Senior Level, and Wage System), except for Civil Service employees in grades GS/GM 13 through GS/GM 15 who have been designated as supervisors or management officials.

b. Employees occupying positions in the excepted service for which employment is not expected to exceed 120 calendar days in a consecutive 12-month period, or positions filled by appointment by the President are excluded from coverage:

c. Temporary employees of less than one year may be appraised under this section. If work requirements and standards will not be established, a written agreement to serve without an appraisal, provided by the Office of Personnel, must be signed by the employee. Temporary employees whose appointments are extended beyond one year must be appraised under this section, except for those employees covered under MOA V-A 490.

451.2 Authority - These regulations are established pursuant to Subchapter I of Chapter 43 of Title 5, United States Code and 5 Code of Federal Regulations, Parts 430 and 432.

451.3 Objectives

The number one objective of all performance management and appraisal plans is to improve performance. Other objectives include:

a. Communicate and evaluate accomplishment of organizational goals and objectives at both the individual and organizational levels.

b. Provide for accurate evaluation of employee performance on the basis of specific performance requirements and standards.

c. Require higher-level review and approval of performance requirements, standards, and ratings to ensure requirements are consistent and effective and that ratings are appropriate.

d. Help employees understand and require their participation in the formulation of critical and non-critical performance requirements and standards at the beginning of each appraisal period.

e. Provide for periodic reviews of employee performance based on the performance requirements and standards and establish a constructive dialogue between rating officials and employees throughout each appraisal period which helps both employees and supervisors recognize the strengths and weaknesses of employees and take steps to correct any weaknesses.

f. Ensure fair treatment of all employees in the performance appraisal process.

g. Prohibit forced distribution of levels of rating.

451.4 Definitions

a. Acceptable Performance - Work done that meets an employee's performance standards at least at the Minimally Successful level (but not for within-grade increase purposes).

b. Appraisal - The process of reviewing and evaluating over time, the performance of an employee against described performance standards. A written appraisal, produced at least annually, is the result of this process.

c. Appraisal Period - The period of time established by the appraisal system during which an employee's performance will be reviewed; i.e., May 1 through April 30 for all GS-7 through GS-12, GS-13 through GS-15 (non-supervisory), and Senior Level and January 1 through December 31 for GS-1 through GS-6 and all Wage System employees.

d. Critical Requirement (Element) - A component of the position consisting of one or more duties and responsibilities which contribute toward the accomplishment of organizational goals and objectives and which is of such importance that unacceptable (Unsuccessful) performance on the requirement (element) would result in Unsuccessful performance in the position. At least two critical requirements (elements) must be established for all employees covered by this plan. (Critical requirement is the term used for a critical element as defined in 5 CFR 430.203.)

e. Interim Summary Rating - The written summary rating level assigned for a period of less than a year but at least 90 days when there has been a change in Rating Officer, a significant change in duties, or a change in position (including detail or temporary promotion). An interim rating is considered in determining the annual summary rating.

f. Minimum Appraisal Period - One rating of record each year. Such a rating must cover a minimum of 90 days under applicable performance requirements and standards. For intermittent employees, the minimum appraisal period will be 90 working days.

g. Non-critical Requirement (Element) - A component of the position that does not meet the definition of a critical requirement (element), but is of sufficient importance to warrant written appraisal.

h. Performance - An employee's accomplishment of assigned work including that work described in critical and non-critical requirements (elements) of the employee's position.

i. Performance Improvement Plan - A written plan for improving performance given to each employee whenever performance in one or more critical requirements is determined to be unacceptable.

j. Performance Plan - The aggregation of all of an employee's written critical and non-critical performance requirements and performance standards.

k. Performance Standard - A statement of the expectations established by management for a critical or non-critical requirement (element) at a particular rating level. A performance standard may include, but is not limited to, factors such as quality, quantity, timeliness, and manner of performance (see Section 453.1c).

l. Progress (Periodic) Review - A periodic review of the employee's progress toward achieving the performance standards and is not in itself a rating.

m. Rating of Record - The summary rating required annually at the time specified in this plan, or at such other times as the plan specifies for special circumstances. Rating levels are Outstanding, Highly Successful, Fully Successful, Minimally Successful, and Unsuccessful ( this means "unacceptable" as described in 5 CFR 403.204(h)) If an employee's position under any Federal pay system is converted to a position covered by this section, with no change of duties and responsibilities, the employee's rating of record will be considered to have been derived from the PMS position.

n. Summary Rating - The written record of the appraisal of each critical and non-critical performance requirement (element) and the assignment of a rating of overall performance for the appraisal period. May be an interim rating or a rating of record.

451.5 Administrative Responsibilities

a. Office of Personnel - is responsible for:

(1) administering the performance appraisal system, including:

(a) informing, training, and counseling managers, supervisors, and employees on the objectives, policies, and requirements of PMS;

(b) monitoring the submission of performance plans and ratings; and

(c) providing technical advice on proposed Outstanding and Unsuccessful ratings.

(2) periodically evaluating the effectiveness of the performance appraisal system and making appropriate modifications.

b. Directors and Office Directors are responsible for:

(1) ensuring that critical and, if appropriate, no-critical performance requirements and standards are: (a) established by Rating Officers at the Fully Successful level, at a minimum, at the beginning of the appraisal period; (b) reviewed and approved by the Reviewing Officer, or if required, at a higher level; (c) discussed with the Rated Employee, normally within 30 days of the beginning of the appraisal period; and (d) discussed and modified during the appraisal period, as needed.

(5) ensuring timely compliance with appraisal schedules including submission of annual and interim performance ratings normally within 30 days after the end of the period covered by the ratings and completion of required higher level review of these ratings.

(6) ensuring appraisals are completed in a deliberate, fair, and objective manner and are consistent with the guidelines established in this section.

(7) ensuring that Rated Employees who do not meet the Fully Successful standard on one or more critical requirements are provided assistance in improving their performance.

(8) ensuring that performance of employees detailed or assigned to other agencies or international organizations is properly appraised.

(9) ensuring the privacy and confidentiality of draft and completed ratings, including restrictions on number of copies, access to paper and electronic copies, and routine destruction of outdated file copies (see Section 455).

451.6 Training of Supervisors and Employees - The Office of Personnel shall provide periodically, and whenever appropriate, training and information for managers, supervisors and employees on the performance appraisal process, including:

a. the objectives and principles of performance appraisal and the relationship of performance appraisal to effective personnel management, pay, and performance awards;

b. information concerning the preparation of the performance appraisal report forms, and development of performance requirements and standards and reminding supervisors that performance requirements and standards must be done immediately upon an employee's entry-on-duty date;

c. appropriate use of performance related pay and awards to encourage and reinforce superior performance and accomplishments;

d. for supervisors, training shall also focus on the development of performance requirements and standards and techniques in appraising employee performance;

452 RATING AND REVIEWING OFFICERS AND RATED EMPLOYEES

452.1 Designation of Rating and Reviewing Officers

a. Rating and Reviewing Officers are normally designated at the beginning of the performance appraisal period as evidenced by their signatures in Section I-A of the performance appraisal plan .

b. The Rating Officer normally is the Rated Employee's immediate supervisor. To be adequately acquainted with the Rated Employee's performance, a Rating Officer must have supervised the employee for a minimum amount of time (normally 90 days) under a specific set of requirements and standards. Otherwise, the rating will be completed by the next higher level official. Such instances must be fully explained in the Rating Officer's statement of the employee's performance appraisal rating.

c. The Reviewing Officer normally will be the Rating Officer's supervisor. To be adequately acquainted with the performance of Rated Employees, the Reviewing Officer must have served in that capacity for a minimum amount of time (normally 90 days). Otherwise, the review will be completed by the next higher level official. If there is no higher level official who can serve as Reviewing Officer for the performance appraisal, that fact (and the reason) must be indicated in the performance appraisal section reserved for the Reviewing Officer's comments. d. If a question arises concerning who shall serve as a Rating or Reviewing Officer, the employing Director (or his or her designee), or Office Director or the Director of Personnel shall make the designation.

452.2 Responsibilities of Rating Officers - Rating Officers are responsible for:

a. ensuring that Rated Employees are provided with clear and comprehensive descriptions of their duties and performance requirements and standards;

b. inviting the Rated Employee's participation in identifying performance requirements, critical and non-critical requirements, and performance standards;

c. submitting such performance requirements and standards for higher level review and approval;

d. providing to the employee normally within 30 days of the beginning of each appraisal period a copy of his or her performance plan, and the current position description (if duties and responsibilities have changed) if requested, and ensuring that receipt of the plan is appropriately acknowledged;

e. frequently observing and evaluating an employee's performance in order to ensure that discussions and performance appraisal reports are based on a comprehensive view of performance rather than just a few significant events;

f. discussing performance with the Rated Employee on a periodic basis (at least one mid-year progress review is required) throughout the appraisal period, focusing on the employee's performance in relationship to performance standards, including strengths and weaknesses, suggesting ways to improve performance, and discussing performance related extenuating circumstances;

g. recognizing and rewarding superior performance;

h. taking appropriate action when an employee's performance deteriorates or falls below the Fully Successful standard including providing a Performance Improvement Plan when performance in one or more critical requirements is determined to be unsuccessful ("unacceptable")

i. preparing appropriate interim ratings;

j. considering interim ratings in the determination of the annual rating of record;

k. preparing annual written appraisals evaluating each employee's performance, and discussing fully and frankly the completed appraisal with the Rated Employee;

l. submitting the rating of record to a higher level, for review and approval before communicating the rating to the Rated Employee; and

m. submitting the completed annual rating of record with all appropriate signatures to the Personnel Office by the due date.

452.3 Responsibilities of Reviewing Officers - Reviewing Officers are responsible for:

a. reviewing and approving employee performance plans at the beginning and during the appraisal period to ensure that each Rated Employee's performance plan considers appropriate goals and objectives of the employee's immediate organization and is fair and reasonable in relation to: the employee's assigned work; the standards set for other employees with similar responsibilities; and the performance expectations of higher level managers and supervisors.

b. ensuring that Rating Officers are familiar with the performance appraisal program;

c. becoming familiar enough with the work of Rated Employees to make independent judgments;

d. reviewing and approving annual ratings of record to ensure that they are accurate, fair and consistent with the Rated Employee's Performance Plan and the guidelines established in this section; and

e. ensuring that these procedures are adhered to by the Rating Officer and Rated Employee, as appropriate.

452.4 Responsibilities of Rated Employees - Rated Employees are responsible for:

a. participating with the Rating Officer in determining performance requirements and standards for his or her assigned position; requesting clarification of any requirement or performance standard not clearly understood; and acknowledging receipt of requirements and standards;

b. advising the Rating Officer of any factors or circumstances which he or she believes should be considered in appraising performance;

c. contributing to a list of accomplishments and including in the performance appraisal his or her view of the job and performance; and

d. signing the performance appraisal report to acknowledge receipt of a copy of the completed appraisal report.

453 THE APPRAISAL PROCESS

453.1 Identifying Performance Requirements and Establishing Performance Standards

a. General Guidelines - Normally within 30 days of the beginning of each rating period, the Rating Officer must establish a written performance plan which will designate critical (and any appropriate non-critical) performance requirements and establish performance standards. Performance plans must be consistent with (1) assigned work and the duties covered in the Rated Employee's position description, and (2) performance plans of other employees with similar duties and responsibilities.

(1) If the employee's duties and responsibilities are clearly inconsistent with the position description, the Rating Officer must revise the position description.

(2) To ensure a common understanding of the expected performance, joint participation by Rated Employees and the Rating Officers in the establishment of performance plans is encouraged. Employees may participate on an individual basis or as a group if employees occupy similar positions, by providing draft performance plans, commenting on draft plans, meeting with the Rating Officer to discuss and develop performance plans, or any other appropriate means.

(3) Performance plans must be documented in writing on the rating form and must be reviewed and approved by an officer at a higher level than the Rating Officer, usually the Reviewing Officer. If the Rated Employee disagrees with or refuses to participate in the formulation of the plan, the Rating Officer's views, with the concurrence of the Reviewing Officer, will prevail.

(4) Both the Rating Officer and the Rated Employee should complete the first part of the report form indicating that the performance requirements and standards have been developed at the beginning of the appraisal period. Each should keep a copy of the plan and the certification for reference during the appraisal period.

b. Performance Requirements

(1) The Rating Officer must determine which requirements of the performance plan are critical (or non-critical). The Rated Employee should participate in the process. A minimum of two critical requirements must be established for each position. Non-critical requirements should be included only if the responsibilities involved are sufficiently important to warrant inclusion.

(2) If an individual has significant supervisory responsibilities, they must be included in his or her performance requirements. At least one critical requirement must be related to his or her supervisory responsibilities which can include but are not limited to the following:

(a) planning and assigning work, delegating responsibility, providing guidance, motivating employees, and developing their potential;

(b) providing timely, fair, complete and useful performance appraisals and taking appropriate steps to reward or improve employee performance;

(c) furthering achievement of equal employment opportunity goals; and

(d) as appropriate, factors such as: cost consciousness and cost efficiency, including requirements under the Prompt Payment Act and effective control and accountability for funds, property and other assets; maintaining and monitoring systems of internal control in their area; and taking corrective action against officials for violation of internal controls, failure to correct internal control weaknesses, or failure to resolve and/or implement audit recommendations.

c. Performance Standards

(1) Performance standards must be developed at the Fully Successful level for each critical and any non-critical requirement. The absence of a written performance standard at a level other than Fully Successful does not preclude the assignment of a rating at that level. Rating Officers may establish standards at other rating levels of performance if appropriate. The standards established at the Fully Successful level should require a fully effective level of performance consistent with goals and objectives of the employee's immediate organization, the performance expectations of higher-level supervisors and managers, and the standards established for other employees, particularly those with similar duties and responsibilities. They also should be realistic and reasonable. Such standards should permit the accurate evaluation of job performance in relation to the requirements of the position. Correspondingly, any standard established at a higher level should be significantly more demanding.

(2) The purposes of a performance standard are to give Rated Employees specific written guidance on what they are expected to do; provide a benchmark against which the Rating Officer can make objective assessments of performance; and increase understanding between the Rating Officer and Rated Employee of the basis on which the appraisal will be made.

(3) In situations where a new Rating Officer arrives during the appraisal period, requirements and standards will be established between the Rated Employee and Rating Officer with proper signatures even if the requirements and standards do not change.

453.2 Periodic Progress Review

a. Rating Officers and Rated Employees are encouraged to review and discuss the Rated Employee's performance throughout the appraisal period. Rating Officers and Rated Employees are required to hold at least one discussion during the appraisal period, preferably at the mid-point. The signatures of the Rated Employee and Rating Officer and the dates of their discussion(s) must be indicated on the report form at the time of the discussion(s). During discussion(s), modifications of critical and non-critical performance requirements and/or standards may be made. When this occurs, see Section 459 for procedures on union notification of such meetings. Any modifications of performance requirements and standards must be documented in writing on the appraisal form, discussed with the Rated Employee and approved by the Reviewing Officer, and incorporated into the final performance appraisal report form.

b. The primary intent of discussion(s) is to ensure that the Rated Employee is apprised of how well, in the Rating Officer's opinion, he or she is meeting the performance standards. Discussions between the Rating Officer and Rated Employee should address specific areas of accomplishment and those areas in which the Rated Employee should work to improve. Discussions should be held with the Rated Employee regarding performance of modified requirements and standards after there has been sufficient time to demonstrate performance. Information about an employee's performance which is available to the Rating Officer should be shared with the employee at the time of a progress review meeting.

c. If at any time, an employee's performance on one or more critical requirements (or two or more non-critical requirements) is identified as Minimally Successful, the Rating Officer must assist the employee in improving performance, after consulting with the Office of Personnel. The Rating Officer must:

(1) counsel the employee that his/her performance is Minimally Successful;

(2) explain the deficiencies in performance, citing examples;

(3) explain the steps the Rating Officer will take to assist the employee to resolve the deficiencies such as formal and/or on-the-job training, counseling, and/or closer supervision; and

(4) provide the performance standards at the Fully Successful level.

d. If at any time, an employee's performance on one or more critical requirements is identified as Unsuccessful (Unacceptable), the supervisor must provide the employee with a written Performance Improvement Plan in accordance with the paragraph below, and start an opportunity period of at least 30 calendar days to provide a sufficient period of time for the employee to demonstrate acceptable performance (at least Minimally Successful).

e. Performance Improvement Plan (PIP)

(1) If an employee's performance on one or more critical requirements is identified as Unsuccessful, the supervisor must consult with the Office of Personnel and establish a Performance Improvement Plan (PIP) for the employee which states the following information:

(a) which critical requirements were Unsuccessful (unacceptable);

(b) the employee's deficiencies in performance citing specific examples;

(c) the performance standards at the Minimally Successful level for those critical requirements where performance has been determined to be unacceptable;

(d) the steps the Rating Officer proposes to take to assist the employee to resolve the deficiencies (formal or on-the-job training, counseling, and/or closer supervision);

(e) the employee may be reduced in grade or removed if performance does not improve to, and is sustained at, an acceptable level (at least Minimally Successful);

(f) a within-grade increase may only be given when performance is Fully Successful or better; and

(g) the beginning and ending date of the opportunity period (a minimum of 30 days is required).

(2) If the employee's performance on one or more critical requirements continues to be Unsuccessful (unacceptable) at the end of this period, or if the employee does not sustain performance at the Minimally Successful (or higher) level for one year from date of PIP, the employee may be removed, demoted, or reassigned, without being given an additional PIP, upon written notification by the Office of Personnel.

(3) Extension of the initial opportunity period may be granted if circumstances warrant.

(4) There is no statutory or regulatory requirement that Schedule C and probationary employees be given a Performance Improvement Plan.

453.3 Completing a Written Performance Appraisal

a. The Communication is required at the mid-year review; can be used at other times throughout the year; and is a useful tool when preparing the official performance appraisal at the end of the appraisal period. The rating officer and the rated employee, working jointly, will complete the form. All information provided on the worksheet should relate to the established performance requirements and standards. Extra pages may be added if there isn't sufficient space on the form. Space is provided for comments from both the rating officer and the rated employee. It is expected that the comments will recognize good performance and be used to measure improvement in problematic areas. Rated employees are encouraged to discuss any impediments which they believe could limit their ability to reach their full potential.

The rating officer and rated employee are the only individuals to make use of this document or retain copies. A copy will not be placed in the Employee's Performance Folder. It cannot be used as formal documentation of poor performance or used in future adverse personnel actions. When a rated employee leaves an office, all copies of completed Communication Worksheets for the departed employee must be destroyed.

b. The Rating Officer must assign a rating level of achievement for each critical and any non-critical requirement, unless the employee has had no opportunity to demonstrate performance on the requirements, which must be noted on the appraisal form. Narrative comments are optional.

c. There are five levels of achievement for each requirement from which the Rating Official may choose:

(1) Outstanding - Performance of rare high quality which clearly and consistently far exceeds the Fully Successful standard to an outstanding degree in terms of such factors as quality, quantity, timeliness, and the extent of supervision required, or exceeds the Highly Successful standard if one is provided. The Rated Employee should have served in the position at least six months.

(2) Highly Successful - Performance of unusually good quality which clearly and consistently exceeds the Fully Successful standard to a significant degree in terms of such factors as quality, quantity, timeliness, and extent of supervision required, or meets the Highly Successful standard if one is provided.

(3) Fully Successful - Performance which clearly and consistently meets the Fully Successful standard in terms of such factors as quality, quantity, timeliness, and extent of supervision required.

(4) Minimally Successful - Performance of poor quality which falls noticeably below the Fully Successful standard for such factors as quality, quantity, timeliness, and/or extent of supervision required, or meets the Minimally Successful standard if one is provided.

(5) Unsuccessful - Performance of very poor quality which is unacceptable and falls well below the Fully Successful standard in terms of such factors as quality, quantity, timeliness, and/or extent of supervision required, or falls short of the Minimally Successful standard if one is provided.

d. The Rating Officer must also assign a summary rating of the Rated Employee's overall performance. The summary rating of record may not be communicated to the Rated Employee before approval by a person at a higher level in the organization than the Rating Officer (normally the Reviewing Officer), in accordance with 5 USC 430.206c. Summary ratings are limited to the five shown below. The ratings and accompanying decision rules for deriving them may not be modified. Narrative comments are mandatory regardless of the rating level.

(1) Outstanding - For a summary rating of Outstanding, an employee's performance must have been rated as Outstanding on all critical requirements and no more than two non-critical requirements may be rated as low as Highly Successful.

(2) Highly Successful - Except as noted, for a summary rating of Highly Successful, the employee's performance on all critical requirements must have been rated as at least Highly Successful and performance on non-critical requirements as at least Fully Successful. A summary rating of Highly Successful still may be appropriate if performance on one but not more than one critical requirement is rated Fully Successful provided performance on other critical requirements is rated at least Highly Successful and the Rating Officer states that (1) the requirement was relatively less important than other critical requirements and (2) required only a small portion of the time of the employee and (3) that performance on that requirement was offset by performance on two or more other critical requirements.

(3) Fully Successful - For a summary rating of Fully Successful, the employee's performance on all critical requirements must have been rated as at least Fully Successful and performance on not more than one non-critical requirement rated as low as Minimally Successful. In exceptional cases, a summary rating of Fully Successful still may be appropriate if performance on one but not more than one critical requirement is rated Minimally Successful provided the Rating Officer states that (1) the requirement was significantly less important than other critical requirements and (2) required only a small portion (less than 10 - 15%) of the time of the employee and (3) that performance on the requirement was offset by at least Fully Successful ratings on two other more critical requirements or by at least a Highly Successful rating if there was only one other critical requirement.

(4) Minimally Successful - Except as noted above under Fully Successful, a summary rating of Minimally Successful is appropriate if the employee's performance has been rated as Minimally Successful on one or more critical or two or more non-critical requirements. Upon receipt by the Rated Employee of a Minimally Successful rating of record, the Rating Officer must assist the employee in improving performance to the Fully Successful level in accordance with Section 453.2.

(5) Unsuccessful - A summary rating of Unsuccessful is required if the employee's performance on one or more critical requirements has been rated as Unsuccessful (which is the unacceptable rating required by 5 CFR 430.204(h)). Upon receipt by the Rated Employee of a rating of record of Unsuccessful, the Rating Officer must place the employee on a Performance Improvement Plan (if the requirement for a PIP has not been fulfilled) and provide a reasonable opportunity to improve performance to at least Minimally Successful in accordance with Section 453.2.

e. An employee's summary rating cannot be reduced more than one level below the summary rating derived from critical requirements because of performance on non-critical requirements.

f. An employee's annual rating of record cannot be reduced more than one level below the summary rating for performance in his or her official position because of ratings received on a detail, nor can a rating on a detail be the only basis for an annual rating of record of Unsuccessful.

g. The performance appraisal and resulting rating of a disabled veteran may not be lowered because the veteran has been absent from work to seek medical treatment as provided in Executive Order 5396.

h. Ratings should reflect an employee's performance throughout the appraisal period. If performance on one or more critical elements drops below the Fully Successful level in the last 90 days of the appraisal period, the Rating Officer may still assign a summary rating of Fully Successful based on the employee's overall performance; or, depending on the circumstances, a rating of less than Fully Successful may be assigned.

i. Reviewing Officer's Statement

(1) The Reviewing Officer must indicate concurrence or non-concurrence of the overall summary rating assigned by the Rating Officer. If the Reviewing Officer does not concur, he/she may assign a different summary rating and must support this decision in the Reviewing Officer's statement. In providing the necessary justification, the Reviewing Officer must indicate specifically those sections of the performance appraisal report with which he or she disagrees and discuss the specific reasons why. This justification is particularly important because the overall summary rating assigned by the Reviewing Officer will prevail. Narrative comments are optional if the Reviewing Officer concurs with the Rating Officer's summary.

(2) Any proposed revisions to the original summary rating determination shall be reviewed and approved as appropriate at a higher level than the Reviewing Officer, before being communicated to the Rated Employee.

453.4 Preparation, Review, and Approval Procedures

a. The Rating Officer initiates the appraisal process by soliciting the employee's comments on his/her performance (including specific accomplishments) during the appraisal period. The Rating Officer and Rated Employee should discuss the employee's accomplishments and deficiencies with respect to each performance requirement and its standards.

b. The Rating Officer prepares the appraisal and submits it for higher level review and approval to the Reviewing Officer.

c. The Reviewing Officer will indicate concurrence in the Rating Officer's Summary Rating in Section IV, Part A; prepare the narrative review in Section IV, Part B, Reviewing Officer's Comments; and sign and date the form. If there is no higher level official who can serve as Reviewing Officer for the performance appraisal, that fact (and the reason) must be indicated on the performance appraisal in Section IV.

d. In accordance with 5 CFR 430, the rating of record must be reviewed and approved by a person at a higher level in the organization than the Rating Officer before communication to the Rated Employee. If there is no Reviewing Officer, a higher level approval is required in Section V.

e. Following all approvals discussed above, the performance appraisal is returned to the Rating Officer for discussion with the Rated Employee. Employees should have a reasonable amount of time, normally three working days, to review completed appraisal reports, and add comments if desired in Section VI of the appraisal form. Supervisors should read and consider such comments. The completed appraisal must be signed by the Rated Employee to acknowledge receipt of a copy. No further changes or additions may be made after this signature without informing the employee in writing. The completed appraisal should be signed. The Rated Employee's signature does not indicate agreement with the rating, preclude his/her rebuttal, or prevent the employee from filing a grievance. Refusal to sign a performance appraisal report doesn't preclude completion of the annual appraisal process and placement of the report in the Rated Employee's performance file.

f. The performance appraisal must be reviewed and approved again in accordance with all procedures in this section if it is changed for any reason.

g. The Rating Officer will forward the performance appraisal to the Office of Personnel through the appropriate Administrative Officer. For Civil Service employees in grades GS-7 through GS-12, GS-13 through GS-15 (non-supervisory), and senior level who are not under SES, for the period May 1 through April 30, ratings must be approved and submitted to the Office of Personnel no later than June 15 following the end of the appraisal period. For Civil Service employees in grades GS-1 through GS-6 and all Wage System employees, for the period January 1 through December 31, ratings must be approved and submitted to the Office of Personnel no later than February 15 following the end of the appraisal period.

453.5 Approval of Outstanding and Unsuccessful Ratings

a. Since the Outstanding and Unsuccessful overall summary ratings are given considerable weight in the Merit Promotion process, career ladder promotions, awards, and establishing Reduction in Force registers, they must be approved by the appropriate Office/Service Director, or designee (or by the Broadcasting Director for ratings prepared by Office Directors). The narrative justification for the overall summary rating required in Section III must demonstrate to the approving officials that the proposed overall rating is warranted.

b. The approval of Outstanding and Unsuccessful ratings is a decision to be made only by management officials referred to in paragraph a.

c. Should the approving official disapprove an "Outstanding" or "Unsuccessful" rating, he/she must assign one of the five summary ratings and indicate it in Part V. This revised rating must be provided to the Rated Employee, the Rating and Reviewing Officers.

453.6 Inadmissible Comments - A number of factors must not be included in the report by any of the participants in the rating process (Rating Officer, Reviewing Officer or Rated Employee). The following subjects are inadmissible in any part of a performance appraisal report:

a. reference to race, color, religion, sex (except for titles of address, first names or personal pronouns), national origin, age, political affiliation, marital status, or references to spouse or family;

b. mention of the specific nature of a disability or medical problem, such as physical handicap, alcoholism or drug abuse. Alcoholism and drug abuse, including efforts at rehabilitation, are considered medical problems to be diagnosed only by medical personnel and should not be specifically discussed in any performance appraisal report. Reference may be made to the confirmed knowledge of a disability or medical problem only to the extent that it affects job performance.

c. mention of initiation of, involvement in, or participation in grievance or EEO procedures except when an appropriate authority has determined that an employee has committed a discriminatory action;

d. comments on an employee's participation or non-participation in employee organizations or activities, such as Unions, Credit Union Committees, Foreign Affairs Recreation Association, etc.;

e. recommendations on reclassification of the Rated Employee's position to a higher grade; and

f. reference to previous performance ratings or events or performance outside the rating period.

NOTE: This list does not include all inadmissible comments. The final decision on whether a comment is inadmissible will be made by the Office of Personnel.

454 RATING PERIODS, INTERIM RATINGS, AND EXTENSIONS

a. For Civil Service employees in grades GS-7 through GS-12, GS-13 through GS-15 (non-supervisory), and Senior Level who are not under SES, the rating period is May 1 through April 30. Ratings of Record must be approved and submitted to the Office of Personnel no later than June 15 following the end of the appraisal period.

b. For Civil Service employees in grades GS-1 through GS-6 and all Wage System employees, the rating period is January 1 through December 31. Ratings of Record must be approved and submitted to the appropriate Office of Personnel no later than February 15 following the end of the rating period.

454.1 Employees on Details or Temporary Promotions

a. At a minimum, ratings on critical requirements must be prepared when an employee is detailed or temporarily promoted for 90 days within or 90 days outside Broadcasting and has served for the minimum of a 90-day appraisal period under a performance plan. If the employee served for at least the minimum appraisal period, the employee must receive a rating of record from Broadcasting.

b. At a minimum, employees must be given written critical performance requirements and standards no later than 30 calendar days after the beginning of a detail or temporary promotion within Broadcasting when the detail or temporary promotion is expected to last 90 calendar days or longer.

c. Ratings on these performance requirements and standards must be prepared and must be considered by the appropriate Rating and Reviewing Officers in deriving a Rated Employee's next rating of record.

d. If an employee is detailed or temporarily promoted outside of Broadcasting for 90 days or longer, Personnel will request that the borrowing agency establish appropriate requirements and standards and provide at least ratings on critical requirements covering the period of detail or temporary promotion. If the employee has not served in Broadcasting for the minimum 90 day appraisal period, but has served outside Broadcasting for a 90 day period, at the end of the appraisal period the Broadcasting Rating Officer will make a reasonable effort to prepare the next rating of record based on appraisal information obtained from the borrowing agency. These ratings must be considered in deriving the Rated Employee's next rating of record.

454.4 Within-Grade Increase Determination - A new rating of record must be prepared when a within-grade increase determination is not consistent with an employee's most recent rating of record. It is not an interim rating.

455 SUBMISSION AND DISPOSITION OF REPORTS

a. Confidentiality and Disclosure of Reports - Performance appraisal reports must be handled in a way to protect their confidentiality, consistent with the Privacy Act of 1974 which restricts the dissemination of certain information concerning individual employees.

Access to appraisal reports is restricted to persons who have a legitimate need to see them, as provided in MOA V-A 910.

b. No more than three copies of the Performance Appraisal Report may be prepared. Only the original copy of the report should be submitted to the Office of Personnel. The Rated Employee must receive a copy of the approved report after all copies are signed by all parties. The Rating Officer also retains a copy until the next performance appraisal is prepared or until either the Rating Officer or Rated Employee is transferred to another position, whichever is earlier.

c. The original copy of completed interim reports and the Rating of Record must be submitted by the Rating Officer to the Office of Personnel for filing. The performance rating, including the performance plan on which the rating is based, will be filed in the Employee's Performance Folder (EPF) and retained for four years.

d. If an employee moves to another Federal agency at any time during the appraisal period, the performance ratings of record of the past four years and the most current performance plan must be transferred in the Official Personnel Folder. If an employee has served a minimal appraisal period, a summary rating must be prepared which must be taken into consideration by the gaining agency when determining the next rating of record.

e. If there are one or more interim ratings to be taken into consideration by the current Rating Officer for the annual rating of record, the EPF copies should be attached to the required memorandum.

456 USE OF PERFORMANCE APPRAISALS

456.1 Communication of Organizational Objectives - Goals and objectives of the employee's immediate organization should be established and communicated through the appraisal process. Such goals and objectives can be established by Office Directors when determining the performance requirements and standards for subordinate managers. These managers can use these goals and objectives as a basis for developing performance requirements and standards for subordinate employees.

456.2 Review of Duties and Performance Requirements - The appraisal process provides an opportunity for the supervisor to discuss with the subordinate the duties and performance requirements of the position, as well as the employee's performance. It also provides an opportunity for supervisors and employees to identify the employee's strengths and areas in which his or her performance could be improved or supervisory assistance is required.

456.3 Basis for Pay Increases and Performance Awards - The employee's rating of record shall provide the basis for within-grade increases, wage step increases, performance awards, and quality step increases. (See MOA V-A 230 and 260.)

456.4 Basis for Promotion

a. In considering an employee for promotion under the merit promotion procedures, due weight must be given to performance ratings. (See MOA V-A 460.)

b. In considering an employee for a noncompetitive career promotion, performance appraisal in the employee's current position is an indispensable tool in determining whether an employee is ready for, or worthy of advancement. An employee may possess the requisite amounts of experience, education and training required for advancement; however, if the employee's current rating of record is at a level less than Fully Successful, the employee will not be promoted. In addition, no employee may receive a career ladder promotion who has a rating below Fully Successful on a critical requirement that is also critical to performance at the next higher grade of the career ladder. (See MOA V-A 460.)

456.5 Reassignment - Performance appraisals provide a basis for determining the advisability of reassigning employees to provide broader work experiences, on-the-job training or a better employee match, and to adjust for unsuccessful performance in the current job or for other purposes.

456.6 Retention - New employees must be carefully observed and appraised during the probationary period to determine whether they have the qualifications needed to become fully successful career employees. Proper use of a performance appraisal to determine progress during the probationary period can help ensure that employees have fully demonstrated their qualifications and fitness. However, a Performance Improvement Plan is not required before taking appropriate action during the probationary period for less than Fully Successful performance on one or more critical requirements.

456.7 Career Development and Training - Appraisals of performance often highlight a need for further development, either through classroom or on-the-job training, to improve employee effectiveness. Supervisors and employees should follow normal procedures (see MOA V-A 420) to request training.

456.8 Reduction in Force (RIF)

a. An employee's performance is one of the factors considered in determining the employee's retention standing in a reduction in force, consistent with OPM regulations. For RIF purposes, a rating of record of Outstanding, Highly Successful, Fully Successful, Minimally Successful, or Unsuccessful is the rating given at the end of the annual appraisal cycle.

b. No rating of record may be assigned for the sole purpose of affecting an employee's RIF retention standing.

c. Additional service credit as described in MOA V-A 760 will be based on the employee's last three annual performance ratings of record received during the four-year period prior to the date of issuance of specific reduction-in-force notices.

d. See MOA V-A 760, Reduction-in-Force, for details on credit for performance under a reduction-in-force situation.

456.9 Reduction in Grade or Removal Based on Unsuccessful ("Unacceptable") Performance - A removal or reduction in grade based on Unsuccessful ("Unacceptable") performance must be supported by a written notice giving the specific instances of such employee's Unsuccessful performance on one or more critical requirements. This information should be gathered during the performance appraisal process. Action to reassign, demote or remove an employee may be taken at any time during the appraisal period, but only after the employee has been given a Performance Improvement Plan and an opportunity to demonstrate acceptable performance. (See Section 453.2e).

457 REBUTTALS AND GRIEVANCES

457.1 Discussions with Rating and Reviewing Officers - An employee who disagrees with his or her performance appraisal should first discuss it with the Rating and/or Reviewing Officers when the report is being prepared. If these officers agree, a revision should be made in the appraisal.

457.2 Rebuttal - If the discussion with the Rating and/or Reviewing Officer or higher level manager or supervisor does not resolve the employee's objections, the employee may include a rebuttal in the Rated Employee's section of the performance appraisal form.

457.3 Grievances

a. A grievance may be filed under the appropriate procedures (see paragraph 457.3b) concerning a completed appraisal report on the grounds that the report is technically deficient in that it was not prepared in accordance with these regulations, or contains appraisal statements which are inaccurate or falsely prejudicial. Performance standards and critical elements are not grievable nor appealable. However, where an employee becomes the subject of a reduction-in-grade or removal action as a result of an Unsuccessful performance appraisal in accordance with 5 USC 4303(a), he or she may challenge through the appeal process the critical requirements (elements) and performance standards for his or her position at that time.

b. Employees who are members of union bargaining units may file a grievance under the appropriate negotiated agreement. All other employees may file under the Procedure outlined in (MOA V-A 540).

458 PERIODIC EVALUATION OF THE PMS PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL PROGRAM

458.1 Policy - The performance appraisal program is important to all managers and employees, since performance appraisals are used in making a wide variety of personnel management decisions. Consequently, the Office of Personnel ) will conduct periodic evaluations of the performance appraisal program and provide recommendations when appropriate for its improvement.

458.2 Procedures

a. The Office of Personnel is responsible for a periodic evaluation of the effectiveness and efficiency of the performance appraisal system and recommending improvements to the Director of Broadcasting.

b. The evaluation will consider:

(1) Comments of supervisors and employees solicited each year by the Director , Office of Personnel;

(2) A representative sample of performance requirements, standards and ratings given to covered employees during the previous appraisal period;

(3) Past, current and projected rating distributions of the appropriate elements to determine any trends or problems (but not to establish any forced distribution or ratings); and

(4) Any other appropriate factors.

459 UNION AND BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEE RIGHTS

459.1 Union Rights

a. In accordance with Federal statute, an exclusive labor organization (Union) must be given the opportunity to be present at "formal" discussions between supervisors and Civil Service employees. Formal discussions include meetings between supervisors and bargaining unit employees where critical and non-critical performance requirements and standards are established and/or modified.

b. Broadcasting recognizes its statutory obligation to provide the Union advance notice and opportunity to attend these discussions. The specific notification procedures which have been agreed to by the parties are contained in the appropriate negotiated agreement. For details on the procedures to be followed in assuring the Unions' right to notification of these discussions, supervisors of employees who are in the AFGE bargaining unit should refer to Article 18, Section 5,* of the Negotiated Agreement and supervisors of employees in the AFSME bargaining unit should refer to Section 4, Article V, of the Negotiated Agreement.

459.2 Employee's Rights

a. In accordance with Federal statute, employees who are part of a bargaining unit that is represented by an exclusive labor organization (Union) have entitlement to representation, if they so desire, in certain situations. With regard specifically to performance appraisal for Civil Service employees, the following rights apply:

(1) Performance Requirements and Standards - An employee in a bargaining unit may request the presence of a Union representative at any meeting during the rating year with his or her supervisor at which the employee's performance requirements and standards are established and/or modified. (See MOA V-A 453.1, Identifying Performance Requirements and Establishing Performance Standards, and MOA V-A 453.2, Periodic Progress Review.)

(2) Unacceptable Performance - If, after a reasonable opportunity to improve, performance in one or more critical requirements is still unsuccessful, the supervisor may discuss with the employee the continuing unsuccessful performance, and in that context will solicit the employee's explanation of any extenuating circumstances. Employees are entitled to representation in such discussions. (See MOA V-A 453.2, Periodic Progress Review and MOA V-A 453.3, Completing a Written Performance Appraisal.)

(3) Grievances - Employees who are members of a bargaining unit may file a grievance under the appropriate Union contract procedure. The bargaining unit employee has the right to request Union representation at all stages of a grievance. (See appropriate negotiated agreement and MOA V-A 457, Rebuttals and Grievances.)

Section 460

PROMOTION

461 GENERAL

461.1 Authority and Applicability

a. The Merit Promotion Program applies to promotion of all Civil Service employees except as noted below.

461.2 Policy - It is Broadcasting policy to provide for the promotion of employees under these procedures on the basis of competitive merit selection in accordance with federal merit promotion principles. It is also policy to promote from within whenever possible. In filling vacancies above the entry or apprentice level, first consideration will be given to Broadcasting employees. However, if the selecting official determines that there are no suitable internal candidates, he or she will submit a request to the Director, Office of Personnel for authority to consider outside applicants. In those instances where it is felt that the vacant position probably cannot be filled from within a request for consideration of outside applicants may be made concurrently with the internal vacancy announcement, with the approval of the Director of Personnel.

461.3 Exclusions from Coverage

- a. Promotion of an employee appointed under Schedule A, B, and C.
- b. Promotion to a higher grade or class for 120 calendar days or less.

c. Assignment of an employee under the exercise of re-employment rights in the competitive service in a grade or class equivalent of that of the position the employee currently occupies.

d. Promotion of an incumbent to a position that is raised in grade or class because of:

(1) Changes in classification standards; or

(2) Error in the allocation of the original position.

e. Promotion of an employee who has previously failed to receive proper consideration due to a procedural error in the promotion process.

f. Promotion of an employee to a grade/class or position equal to or less than the grade/class or position from which the employee was demoted without personal cause. The term "without personal cause" means without misconduct or inefficiency on the part of the employee and not at the employee's request. Acceptance of a lower grade or class position in lieu of reduction-in-force or in lieu of relocation in the transfer of function is not considered as being at the employee's request.

g. Selection of a qualified employee serving under retained grade and/or retained pay for a position equal to his or her former retained grade level.

h. Assignment of an employee laterally to a position with no greater promotion potential than the position currently occupied.

i. Foreign Service Overseas Specialists who are worldwide available and are considered for promotion by the annual overseas specialist selection boards.

j. Members of the Senior Executive Service selection for assignments under the Executive Assignments System.

461.4 Types of Promotions

a. Career Promotions

(1) Promotions made under training agreement and Executive Development agreements approved by the Office of Personnel Management where competition has been met previously.

(2) Promotion of an employee whose position is reclassified at a higher grade or class because of an increase in duties and responsibilities through a normal process of accretion of duties (this would not include reorganization).

(3) Promotion of an understudy who was competitively selected for the understudy position under Merit Promotion Program procedures.

(4) Promotion of an employee detailed to a higher grade or class vacancy for the purpose of training or evaluating a possible successor, where selection for the detail was made under Promotion Program Procedures.

(5) Promotion of an employee upon exercise of re-employment rights after military service when the employee's record shows selection for promotion in absentia (under the Merit Promotion Program after January 1, 1959) or where the employee's former position was reclassified during the period of the absence.

(6) Promotion of an employee through successive career promotions until the employee reaches the full performance level in formally established career ladder. The employee must be assigned and perform duties at a degree of difficulty and responsibility to warrant the higher grade, the immediate supervisor must certify that the employee is performing at the higher grade, and the recommendation must stand the scrutiny of a classification review if a desk audit is conducted.

b. Competitive Promotion occurs when qualified candidates compete for promotion consideration for a vacant position (see par. 462).

c. Temporary Promotions

(1) A temporary promotion generally is the most appropriate means of meeting a situation requiring the temporary service of an employee in a position classified at a higher class or grade. It may be used, for example, when an employee has to perform the duties of a position during the extended absence of the incumbent, to fill a position which has become vacant until a permanent appointment is made, to assume responsibility for increased workload for a limited period or to participate in a special project that will last for a limited period.

(2) A temporary promotion is not appropriate however, primarily for training or evaluating an employee in a higher grade or class position. It may not be used, for example, to give an employee a trial period before permanent promotion to decide among candidates for permanent promotion, or to train an employee in positions of higher classification.

(3) An employee will be given a temporary promotion if the assignment to higher level work is for more than 30 consecutive calendar days and the employee is eligible for promotion. Requests for temporary promotions are to be submitted by the element of assignment to the Personnel Office in advance of the proposed effective date. When it is known at the beginning of a detail that the detail will last for more than 30 days, the employee should be temporarily promoted from the first day of the detail if the employee is eligible for promotion. Should, through inadvertence or oversight, the Request for Personnel Action, SF-52, not be submitted before an employee has completed 30 days in an assignment at a higher level of work, the promotion will be made retroactive to the 31st day in the higher graded assignment if the employee is otherwise eligible for promotion.

(4) Competitive promotion procedures must be used when a temporary promotion will exceed 120 calendar days.

(5) A temporary promotion may be made permanent without further competition provided the temporary promotion was originally made under competitive procedures and the fact that it might lead to a permanent promotion was made known on the vacancy announcement.

(6) Temporary promotions are to be made for a definite period up to one year, but may be extended for an additional period of up to one year. Temporary promotions beyond two years require the approval of the Office of Personnel Management (OPM)

461.5 Details and Lateral Reassignment

a. Details

(1) A detail of more than 60 calendar days to a position with a higher classification or to a position with known promotion potential is made under competitive promotion procedures. This requirement is not to be circumvented by a series of temporary assignments. Therefore, competitive promotion procedures must be used if the employee has spent more than 60 calendar days (prior service under both previous details and temporary promotions included) in positions with higher classification or in positions with known promotion potential during the preceding year.

(2) Except for a brief period, an employee should not be detailed to perform work of a higher level unless there are compelling reasons for doing so. As stated in par 461.5c(3), an employee will be given a temporary promotion instead of being detailed if the assignment to higher level work is for more than 30 consecutive calendar days and the employee is eligible for promotion.

(3) The detail of an employee for a period in excess of 30 calendar days to a different position or to duties and responsibilities substantially different than those in the employee's official position description requires a request for prior approval, submitted by the operating official on SF-52, to the Personnel Office.

b. Lateral Reassignment

(1) A lateral reassignment is the movement of an employee from one position to another without promotion or demotion. Lateral reassignments to positions with no greater promotion potential than the occupied position need not be advertised through Merit Promotion procedures.

(2) Applicants for lateral reassignment to positions below the applicant's personal grade or class will only be accepted under Merit Promotion Procedures when accompanied by a memorandum stating the employee's willingness to accept the lower grade of the position with commensurate reduction in salary.

461.6 Responsibilities

a. Office of Personnel is responsible for:

(1) Administering the Merit Promotion Program and publicizing its operations.

(2) Advising and assisting employees interested in developing their skills for positions of greater responsibility.

(3) Preparing biweekly listings of all current vacancies and the results of previously announced vacancies and distributing these to all employees electronically.

(4) Preparing detailed Vacancy Announcements for posting on bulletin boards and electronically.

(5) Informing employees by a Broadcast Announcement at least annually of the importance of keeping the experience, education, and training portions of their personnel records up-to-date so that current information is available for rating them fairly.

If made as an exception, the Personnel Action (SF-50) will be documented to show the reasons for the exception.

(11) Arranging release dates for those employees selected for promotion in other organizational units.

(12) Notifying in writing all unsuccessful candidates who applied, except those whose names appeared on promotion certificates, before a promotion certificate is forwarded to the selecting official.

(14) Developing and publishing career ladders for occupations used in Broadcasting.

b. Supervisors at all levels are responsible for:

(1) Making objective, complete, and fair annual Performance Evaluation Reports and special reports on employees on a timely basis as required.

Special reports may be required by specific personnel programs, such as the Management Intern Program, the New Careers Program, Upward Mobility Program, etc.

(2) Providing on-the-job training, recommending other training, and advising and assisting employees in improving their qualifications and usefulness to Broadcasting, and in completing the Individual Development Plan ( if appropriate) for newly selected managers and for GS-13 to 15 and equivalent employees with high potential for managerial positions.

(3) Assigning to each employee in a career ladder position, developmental work or projects of sufficient complexity and responsibility to allow the employee to demonstrate whether the employee is capable of performing satisfactorily at the next higher level in the career ladder.

(4) Making available members of their staffs to serve on promotion panels when required.

(5) Interviewing all available candidates, whose names appear on promotion certificates and making selections on a fair and objective basis.

(6) Thoroughly reviewing the SF-171s (Personnel Qualifications Statement), or resume submitted with the promotion certificate, reviewing the Official Personnel Folders if needed for additional information. Files may be reviewed in the personnel office upon request, and if reviewed, such review must be recorded in the file on the Access Disclosure Sheet.

(7) Notifying all candidates whose names appear on promotion certificate and lateral application memorandums within seven calendar days of the final decision in each merit promotion action.

(8) Releasing employees who have been selected for promotion normally within two weeks but not more than three weeks after notification of selection.

c. Employees are responsible for:

(1) Keeping informed of the provisions of the Merit Promotion Program and suggesting improvements.

(2) Improving their qualifications and usefulness to Broadcasting by applying their skills in positions to which they are assigned, engaging in appropriate self-development efforts whenever feasible, participating in available training programs, and cooperating with the Personnel Office and supervisors in the development of their qualifications, skills, and abilities.

(3) Applying for specific vacancies by submitting Personnel Qualifications Statement, to the Office of Personnel.

(4) Serving on promotion panels when requested and making unbiased evaluations of candidates.

(5) Supplying accurate and current written information, including information on any training courses taken and examinations passed, on their qualifications and experience by submitting documentation to the Personnel Office, for inclusion in their Official Personnel Folder.

461.7 Equal Employment Opportunity - Promotions will be made in accordance with the principles of Equal Employment Opportunity and selections for promotions will not be influenced by favoritism or because of race, sex, religion, color, national origin, politics, marital status, physical handicap, age or membership or non-membership in an employee organization.

461.8 Priority Consideration

a. Priority consideration may be given to an employee when a procedural violation of merit promotion procedures has occurred. A procedural violation occurs when a promotion action does not conform to the requirements of the Merit Promotion Plan, i.e., failure to consider an employee entitled to consideration. Priority consideration will be given to an employee for one position only.

b. The name of the employee who did not receive proper consideration because of the violation will be referred to the selecting official for the next appropriate vacancy at the same grade or with the same promotion potential as the position for which he or she lost promotion consideration before the vacancy is advertised. The employee may be selected for promotion to this vacancy as an exception to competitive promotion procedures. An employee is entitled to only one consideration under this provision.

461.9 Alleged Violations and Employee Complaints

a. Employees have the right to file a complaint relating to a promotion action. Such complaints will be resolved under appropriate grievance procedures. While the procedures used by Broadcasting to identify and rank qualified candidates are properly subjects for formal complaints or grievances, non-selection from among a group of properly ranked and certified candidates is not an appropriate basis for a formal complaint or grievance. There is no right of appeal to the Office of Personnel Management (OPM), but OPM may conduct investigations of substantial violations of OPM requirements.

b. Submitting Complaints

(1) An employee who believes he or she has failed to receive proper consideration for promotion, or wishes to raise questions concerning any phase of the Merit Promotion Program, should consult the Personnel Officer servicing his or her area.

(2) Employees may, if they choose, file complaints arising out of the Merit Promotion Program, under established grievance systems. All employees serving on Civil Service and Wage System appointments may grieve under the grievance system (MOA V-A-567), or under the appropriate negotiated union grievance procedure if such matters are covered. Civil Service supervisors, managers and other employees excluded from union bargaining units must use procedures outlined in MOA V-A-567. Foreign Service employees may grieve under the procedures contained in 3 FAM 660.

c. Investigating Alleged Violations - Where it is alleged that a violation of the Merit Promotion Program has occurred, the president, or designee, of the employee organization (union) holding exclusive recognition for the unit where the alleged violation has occurred may request in writing an examination of the promotion action within 30 calendar days of the effective date of the action. Such a request need not specify the individual or individuals directly involved but must specify the announcement number and type of records being requested. The designated union official, in the presence of the appropriate Personnel Officer, will be given access to the working papers of the particular promotion action. These working papers include the promotion certificate, the rating sheets prepared by the individual panel members, the Request to Fill Vacancy and the application submitted by applicants. In addition, after securing written permission, review of the official personnel folder by the designated union official must be made in the presence of a Personnel Officer. Any information obtained from the employee's record will be safeguarded and treated in a confidential manner.

d. Allegations of Prohibited Personnel Practices or Discrimination in Promotion Procedures - An allegation of prohibited personnel practices is appealable to the Merit System Protection Board (MSPB). An allegation of discrimination due to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, physical handicap, or age (provided the complainant is at least 40 years of age) may be processed as a discrimination complaint under 29 CFR 1613.201 for which final action is appealable to the EEOC.

462 MERIT PROMOTION PLANS

462.1 Coverage - The Merit Promotion Program includes two different plans:

a. Plan I - all general schedule positions in the United States other than wage system positions.

b. Plan II - all Wage Grade and Wage Board positions.

462.2 Common Elements of the Two Plans are:

a. A Biweekly Listing of all current vacancies will be distributed to all employees. This Listing will include the Vacancy Announcement Number and closing date, the title, series, grade, and number (if more than one) of the positions to be filled, the telephone number of the responsible Personnel Officer and information on how to apply. Special rating factors and their weights, screen-out elements , amount of travel when required, and qualifications requirements including selective factors, will be detailed on the individual Vacancy Announcements posted on bulletin boards and electronically through Broadcast Announcements. Copies of all Vacancy Announcements will be sent to the employee organization (union) holding exclusive recognition in the unit having the vacancy.

b. Employee Applications - Only those employees who apply for consideration or are recommended by management (supervisor, Personnel Officer, etc.) in response to an announcement of a vacancy will be considered for any vacant position.

c. "Area of Consideration" refers to the areas in which Broadcasting searches for eligible candidates in specific promotion actions.

(1) For positions GS-12 and above, and equivalent wage system positions the minimum area of consideration will be Broadcast-wide and the expanded area will be Government-wide.

(2) For promotion to positions through GS-11 and equivalent wage system positions, the minimum area of consideration will be to the locality in which the vacancy exists, e.g., Washington, D.C., New York City, Greenville, N.C., et al., and the expanded area will be Broadcast-wide or Government-wide.

(3) In instances where elements are undergoing reorganization, or programming changes that require higher level work, the area of consideration may be limited to that Office.

d. Promotion Panels

(1) When a promotion panel is convened all panel members must be at a grade level equal to or above that of the vacancy.

(2) Personnel will maintain listings of employees from whose ranks promotion panels will be constituted. The employee organization (union) holding exclusive recognition for employees under the plan will submit nominees for inclusion on panel listings. The completed listings will be provided to the appropriate employee organization (union) and will be updated at least annually and more frequently if the listings become inadequate due to separations or assignments abroad.

(3) Employees included on the panel listings will receive appropriate training and a copy of this Section (V-A-460) of the MOA. Employees selected to serve on promotion panels should be knowledgeable in the occupational field of the vacancy or skilled in evaluating experience, education, and training at the level of the vacancy.

(4) Office of Personnel will select two panel members, representing different organizational units of Broadcasting from the approved listings. A Personnel staff member will chair the panel.

(5) Neither the supervisor of the organizational unit which the vacancy is located nor the selecting official may serve on the promotion panel.

e. Promotion Certificate

(1) A promotion certificate is a list of promotable employees who have been rated as being qualified for consideration in filling a particular vacancy.

(2) Personnel will prepare and issue the certificate. Employees will be listed alphabetically. Unless unusual circumstances prevail, no more than five of the top ranking employees eligible for promotion will be certified for a vacancy. A separate memo listing applicants for lateral reassignment will be provided. When a candidate who has received an award is included in the group certified to the selecting official, the official must be informed about the award. Promotion certificates will remain valid for no more than 60 days. Vacancies that occur in the element after the closing date of the vacancy for position(s) identical (same grade, series and title) to the original vacancy may be filled from the certificate of eligibles during the validity of the certificate, provided the vacancy announcement notes that more than one position may be filled from the announcement.

(3) In using a promotion certificate the selecting official may interview all available employees certified for consideration for promotion into the vacant position and employees applying for lateral reassignment. Constructively used, the interview provides an additional means of evaluating employees. It helps to develop employees understanding of and confidence in the promotion process by demonstrating that employees who have been certified have been considered and have been given an opportunity to discuss the position and their qualifications with the selecting official.

f. Evaluation Factor - Length of service or length of experience may be used as an evaluation factor only when there is a clear and positive relationship with quality of experience. As a ranking factor, it will be used only to break ties.

g. A Selection List - will be prepared at the beginning of each month showing the names of those individuals selected during the previous month. The Selection List will be posted on the same bulletin boards as the vacancy announcements.

462.3 Plan I - Civil Service Positions

a. Common Elements - All common elements listed in paragraph 462.2 are incorporated into this Plan without further specific reference.

b. Procedures

(1) The Administrative Officer for the area in which the vacancy exists will review the duties of the position with the appropriate supervisor for the purpose of determining the most important skills, knowledge, and abilities (not to exceed five hereinafter call "special rating factors") required to perform the job, and assign weights, not to exceed a total of 30 points, to each special rating factor. These factors will be submitted with the SF-52 and will appear in the Vacancy Announcement.

(2) Personnel will prepare a listing of eligible employees from those who have applied or have been recommended by management who meet the minimum qualification requirements. If there are not more than five eligibles available for consideration for promotion for a specific vacancy, a promotion panel need not be convened. When this list includes more than ten names, a promotion panel will be convened.

(3) All eligible employees will have equal opportunity to be considered for promotion and will be evaluated fairly and uniformly in accordance with predetermined requirements.

c. Eligibility for Promotion - For Civil Service employees eligibility for promotion is as described in Part 300, Subpart F, Civil Service Rules for time in grade, and Civil Service Handbook X-118 for length and quality of experience.

In addition to meeting X-118 qualification requirements, employees serving on Foreign Service appointments must have served:

(1) not less than one year at the next lower class, and

(2) not less than one year in a position classified at the next lower General Schedule grade than the position for which applied.

(3) Promotions to levels above GS-15 are subject to approval by the Office of Personnel Management or to requirements of the Senior Executive Service.

e. Evaluation Methods Used by Panel Members

(1) The basic documents to be used in the evaluation process are the SF-171, or resume and performance appraisal reports. In addition the panel evaluates records of employee experience, training, awards "quality" step increases, and other evidence of qualifications for the purposes of ranking competing employees into promotion categories or rank order for promotion consideration.

(2) The evaluation method used under Plan I involves an analysis and appraisals of the candidate's previous experience as related to the "special rating factors" current performance ratings, and other records contained in the candidate's Official Personnel Folder. Numerical values are assigned (on a point scale beginning at one) to a cumulative possible composite score of 25. The possible composite score is apportioned between the five special factors in accordance with their relative degree of importance to success of this position (e.g., 1 to 3, 1 to 7, etc.). Additional points are added to or subtracted from the total factor score as follows:

(a) Add up to five points for a current approved (official) outstanding performance report, or for any awards, quality increases, or commendations received since the last rating period.

(b) Add up to eight points on the basis of current Performance Evaluation Report Factors and narrative comments made by the rating or reviewing official in the current Performance Evaluation Report.

(c) Add up to five points for training and/or education qualifications requirements, undertaken in the same or related field as the position to be filled.

(d) Add up to five points for previous outstanding performance ratings, awards, quality increases, commendations, or evidence of high quality work performance not covered in current year. (Point values should decrease as previous outstanding ratings, awards, etc., are superseded).

(e) Subtract up to five points for recent security violations, letters of reprimand and other such disciplinary actions (depending upon the nature of the infractions and the overall record of the employee, and the applicability of the infraction to the position being filled.)

(3) For positions entailing the supervision of other employees, a special rating factor entitled "Supervisory Potential or Demonstrated Supervisory Ability" will be established. To be eligible for supervisory positions a candidate must be rated by the panel as possessing adequate supervisory potential and sensitivity for equal employment opportunity. For the purpose of establishing a rank order among eligibles each candidate will be rated on this factor by the panel on a point scale of 0 to 5.

462.4 Plan II - All Wage Grade and Wage Board Positions

a. Common Elements - All common elements listed in paragraph 462.2 are incorporated into this Plan without further specific reference.

b. Procedures and Evaluation Methods

(1) The Personnel Office, after consultation with the supervisory officials and the employee organization (union) holding exclusive recognition for employees under the plan, will develop job element requirements and a crediting plan for the position to be filled. The term "job element" refers to abilities, skills, knowledge and personal characteristics needed to perform the duties of the position. Each job element determined to be pertinent to the position must be defined, and levels of ability for each element must be established. Of the elements selected, every job has one critical, overall element, which is called the screen-out element. This element designates a basic ability necessary to do the job. Applicants who clearly fail to meet the lowest acceptable requirements described in the screen-out element are rated ineligible. The screen-out element will be included on the individual Vacancy Announcement posted on bulletin boards.

(2) Questionnaires will be developed jointly by the responsible Personnel Officer and the supervisory official concerned after consultation with the employee organization (union) holding exclusive recognition for employees under the plan to obtain from candidates and their supervisors and coworkers information needed to evaluate their ability to perform the duties of the job to be filled. The information provided in this questionnaire will be considered along with the SF-171 and Performance Evaluation Reports in evaluating candidates.

(3) The promotion panel will evaluate the information provided in the questionnaire and the candidate's application, considering all experience, including volunteer and unpaid services, training, education, awards, supervisory appraisals, etc., as they relate to the elements being rated and will assign numerical scores.

c. Promotion Certificate - If fewer than three highly qualified employees are available, the Personnel Officer concerned may examine other recruitment sources to determine the availability of additional highly qualified applicants for consideration.

463 STATUTORY AND REGULATORY RESTRICTIONS ON PROMOTIONS

463.1 Promotions to Positions at GS-12 and Above - An employee is eligible for promotion to a position at GS-12 or above after having served one year at the next lower grade.

463.2 Promotion to Positions at GS-6 through GS-11 - An employee is eligible for promotion to a position at GS-6 through GS-11 after he or she has served:

a. One year in a position two grades lower when the position to which he or she advances is in a line of work properly classified at two-grade intervals; or

b. One year at the next lower grade when the position to which he or she is advanced is in a line of work properly classified at one-grade intervals.

463.3 Promotion to Positions at GS-5 or Below - An employee is eligible for promotion to a position GS-5 or below that is not more than two grades above the lowest grade held within the preceding year under non-temporary appointment provided the employee satisfies the qualifications requirements for that position. However, an employee is eligible for promotion to any grade at GS-5 or below which was previously held.

463.4 Normal Line of Promotion - A Civil Service employee who has one year of service in grades lower than the position being filled may be promoted without regard to the restrictions of paragraph 463.2 above if there is no position in the normal line of promotion at the next lower grade within the organizational entity in which the vacancy exists.

465 MERIT PROMOTION AND STAFFING PLAN FOR CIVIL SERVICE NON-UNION BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEES

465.1 Policy

a. It is the policy of Broadcasting to promote on the basis of merit and without regard to non job-related factors. All qualified candidates will be evaluated on the degree to which they possess the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful performance on the job to be filled and, as appropriate, on their potential to progress. All candidates for a particular vacancy will be evaluated against the same standards and job-related criteria and, as nearly as possible, by the same methods. A person may not be promoted if he or she fails to meet the minimum qualification standards or time-in-grade requirements prescribed by the Office of Personnel Management unless an exception is approved by the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) for an unusual situation.

b. A vacancy may be filled either from within or outside Broadcasting and management reserves the right to select or not select from among a group of qualified candidates who apply through this plan. In filling positions, management may also select from other appropriate sources, such as Re-employment Priority Lists, reinstatement eligibles, transfer candidates, the handicapped, Veterans Readjustment eligibles, those within reach on OPM certificates, etc. In deciding which source or sources to use, Personnel will consider which is most likely to produce qualified eligibles to best meet mission objectives, contribute fresh ideas and new viewpoints, and meet affirmative action goals.

c. All staffing actions in accordance with this plan shall be made without regard to political, religious, or labor organization affiliation or non-affiliation, marital status, race, color, sex, national origin, non-disqualifying physical handicap, or age, and shall be based solely on job-related criteria.

465.3 Scope - This plan applies to all Civil Service GS, and Wage System positions which are not part of a union bargaining unit; including part-time, filled by career conditional or career appointment, regardless of duty location. Positions in the bargaining units will be filled in accordance with the procedures negotiated with the exclusive representative for the Unit in which the position is located.

Non-bargaining unit positions are those defined in Title VII of the Civil Service Reform Act as:

a. Supervisors.

b. Management Officials.

c. Confidential employees.

d. An employee engaged in personnel work in other than a purely clerical capacity.

e. An employee engaged in administering the provisions of the Labor-management Relations program under Title VII.

f. Any employee engaged in intelligence, counter-intelligence, investigative, or security work which directly affects national security.

g. Any employee primarily engaged in investigative or audit functions relating to the work of individuals employed by Broadcasting whose duties directly affect the internal security of the organization but only if the functions are undertaken to ensure that the duties are discharged honestly and with integrity.

465.4 Exclusions for Competitive Promotion Procedures

a. Promotion of an employee appointed under Schedules A, B, and C.

b. Promotion or detail to a higher grade or class for 120 calendar days or less.

c. Selection of an employee from a re-employment priority list.

d. Promotion of an incumbent to a position that is raised in grade or class because of:

(1) Changes in classification standards; or

(2) Error in the classification of the original position.

e. Promotion of an employee under priority consideration procedures who has previously failed to receive proper consideration due to a procedural error in the promotion process.

f. Promotion of an employee to a grade or position equal to or less than the grade or position from which the employee was demoted without personal cause. The term "without personal cause" means without misconduct or inefficiency on the part of the employee and not at the employee's request. Acceptance of a lower grade or position in lieu of reduction-in-force or in lieu of relocation in the transfer of function is not considered as being at the employee's request.

g. Selection under priority placement procedures of a qualified employee serving under retained grade and/or retained pay for a position equal to his or her former retained grade level.

h. Assignment (through transfer or reassignment) of any federal employee laterally to a position at the same grade or to a position with no greater promotion potential than a position currently or previously occupied by the applicant.

i. Assignment of an Overseas Specialist employees to GS or wage system positions as part of a domestic tour of duty.

j. Reinstatement to a permanent or temporary position at the same or lower grade level than the last grade held under a non-temporary appointment in the competitive service.

k. Selection of a candidate from an appropriate OPM register or under OPM direct-hire authority.

l. Assignment of members of the Senior Executive Service.

m. Career promotions:

(1) Promotions made under training agreements and Executive Development agreements approved by the Office of Personnel Management where competition has been met previously.

(2) Promotion of an understudy who was competitively selected for the understudy position under merit promotion procedures.

(3) Promotion of an employee detailed to a higher graded position for the purpose of training or evaluating a possible successor, where selection for the detail was made under merit promotion procedures.

(4) Promotion of an employee through successive career promotions until the employee reaches the full performance level in a formally established career ladder. The employee must be assigned and perform duties at a degree of difficulty and responsibility to warrant the higher grade; the immediate supervisor must certify that the employee is performing at the higher grade; and the recommendation must stand the scrutiny of a classification review.

n. Promotion of an employee whose position is reclassified at a higher grade because of an accretion of duties and responsibilities which are directly related to the employee's major duties of record.

o. Promotion of an employee upon exercise of re-employment rights after military service when the employee's record shows selection for promotion in absentia (under merit promotion after January 1, 1959) or where the employee's former position was reclassified during the period of the absence.

p. Selection of a permanent government employee from an OPM register for a higher graded position or a position with known promotion potential.

465.5 Temporary Promotions

a. A temporary promotion generally is the most appropriate means of meeting a situation requiring the temporary service of an employee in a position classified at a higher grade. It may be used, for example, when an employee has to perform the duties of a position during the extended absence of the incumbent, to fill a position which has become vacant until a permanent appointment is made, to assume responsibility for increased workload for a limited period, or to participate in a special project that will last for a limited period.

b. A temporary promotion is not appropriate, however, primarily for training or evaluating an employee in a higher graded position. It may not be used, for example, to give an employee a trial period to decide among candidates for permanent promotion or to train an employee in position of higher grade.

c. An employee may be given a temporary promotion if the assignment to higher level work is for more than 30 calendar days and the employee is eligible for promotion. Requests for temporary promotions are to be submitted by the element of assignment to the Office of Personnel in advance of the proposed effective date.

d. Competitive promotion procedures must be used when a temporary promotion will exceed 120 calendar days.

e. A temporary promotion may be made permanent without further competition provided the temporary promotion was originally made under competitive procedures and the fact that it might lead to a permanent promotion was made known on the vacancy announcement.

f. Temporary promotions may be made for a period of one year or less and may be extended an additional year. Temporary promotions beyond two years require the approval of the Office of Personnel Management (OPM).

465.6 Details

a. A detail is the temporary assignment of an employee to a different position for a specified period of time. The employee returns to his/her regular duties (position) at the end of the detail.

b. The detail of an employee for a period in excess of 30 calendar days to a different position or to duties and responsibilities substantially different from those in the employee's official position description must be documented by submission of an SF-52 by the appropriate manager to Personnel. Generally, a detail to a position at the same grade level may not exceed one year.

c. A detail of more than 120 calendar days to a position with a higher classification or to a position with known promotion potential must be made under competitive promotion procedures. This requirement may not be circumvented by a series of temporary assignments. Therefore, competitive promotion procedures must be used if the employee has spent more than 120 calendar days during the preceding year (prior service under both previous details and temporary promotions included) in positions with higher classification or in positions with known promotion potential. Details to higher graded positions may not exceed 240 days.

d. Except for a brief period, an employee should not be detailed to perform work of a higher level unless there are compelling reasons for doing so. As stated in paragraph 461.4(c), an employee may be temporarily promoted non-competitively instead of being detailed if the assignment to higher level work is for more than 30 days but less than 120 days and the employee is eligible for promotion.

e. Details to unclassified positions may not exceed 120 days.

465.7 Responsibilities

a. Office of Personnel, is responsible for:

(1) Administering the Merit Promotion and Staffing Plan for non-union bargaining unit positions and publicizing its operation.

(2) Advising and assisting employees interested in developing their skills for positions of greater responsibility.

(4) Informing employees at least annually of the importance of keeping the experience, education, and training portions of their personnel records up-to-date so that current information is available for rating them fairly.

(5) Providing appropriate training programs in merit promotion procedures for all first line supervisors.

(6) Setting up panels when warranted to prepare promotion certificates for consideration by selecting officials in accordance with this plan.

(7) Approving and recording officially all promotion actions.

(8) Maintaining records of all promotion actions with sufficient information to allow reconstruction of the promotion action including determination whether the promotion was made under competitive promotion procedures. If made as an exception, the Personnel Action (SF-50) will be documented to show the reasons for the exception.

(9) Arranging release dates for those employees selected for promotion or reassignment in other organizational units.

(10) Notifying in writing all unsuccessful candidates who applied, except those whose names appeared on promotion certificates, before a selection from the certificate is made.

(11) Reviewing and evaluating this plan at least yearly.

(12) Developing and publishing career ladders for occupations used in Broadcasting.

b. Supervisors at all levels are responsible for:

(1) Making objective, complete, and fair annual performance evaluation reports on employees on a timely basis, as required. Performance appraisals may be required by specific personnel programs, such as the Management Intern Program, the New Careers Program, Upward Mobility Program, etc.

(2) Providing on-the-job training, recommending other training, and advising and assisting employees in improving their qualifications and usefulness to Broadcasting.

(3) Assigning developmental work or projects of sufficient complexity and responsibility to allow each employee in a career ladder position to demonstrate whether the employee is capable of performing satisfactorily at the next higher level in the career ladder.

(4) Making available members of their staffs to serve on promotion panels when required.

(5) Making selections on a fair and objective basis.

(6) Thoroughly reviewing the SF-171's (Personal Qualifications Statement) submitted with the promotion certificate and reviewing the Official Personnel Folders, if needed for additional information. Files may be reviewed in Personnel upon request, and if reviewed, such review must be recorded in the file on the Access Disclosure Sheet.

(7) Notifying all candidates whose names appear on the promotion certificate of the final decision in each merit promotion action within seven calendar days after Personnel has cleared the certificate and promotion action.

(8) Releasing employees who have been selected for promotion or reassignment normally within two weeks after notification of selection.

(9) Ensuring that newly selected first-line supervisors in each element receive supervisory training.

c. Employees are responsible for:

(1) Keeping informed of the provisions of the Merit Promotion and Staffing Plan for non-union bargaining unit positions and suggesting improvements.

(2) Improving their qualifications and usefulness to Broadcasting by applying their skills in positions to which they are assigned, engaging in appropriate self-development efforts whenever feasible, and participating in available training programs.

(3) Applying for specific vacancies by submitting an up-to-date SF-171 (Personal Qualifications Statement) including training/education and performance awards and their most recent performance appraisal. Applications must be received in Personnel by the closing date of the announcement.

(4) Serving on promotion panels when requested and making unbiased evaluations of candidates.

465.8 Priority Consideration

a. Priority consideration may be given to an employee when a procedural violation of merit promotion procedures has occurred. A procedural violation occurs when a promotion action does not conform to the requirements of this plan. Priority consideration will be given to an employee for one position only.

b. The name of the employee who did not receive proper consideration because of a merit promotion violation will be referred to the selecting official for the next appropriate vacancy with the same title, series, grade, and same promotion potential as the position for which he or she lost promotion consideration. The employee may be selected for promotion to the vacancy as an exception to competitive promotion procedures.

465.9 Alleged Violations and Employee Complaints

a. An employee who believes he or she has failed to receive proper consideration for vacancies, or wishes to raise questions concerning any phase of this plan, should consult Personnel.

b. Employees have the right to file a grievance relating to a promotion action if they believe they have failed to receive proper consideration under these procedures. Such grievances will be resolved under the administrative grievance procedure contained in MOA VA-560. While alleged violations of the procedures used by Broadcasting to identify and rank qualified candidates are properly subjects for formal grievances, non-selection from among a group of properly ranked and certified candidates is not a basis for a formal grievance. Foreign Service employees may file grievances under the Foreign Service Grievance procedures contained in 3 FAM 660.

c. Allegations of Prohibited Personnel Practices or Discrimination in Promotion Procedures - An allegation of a prohibited personnel practice is appealable to the Special Counsel for the Merit System Protection Board (MSPB). An allegation of discrimination due to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, physical handicap, or age (provided the complainant is at least 40 years of age) may be processed as a discrimination complaint under 29 CFR 1613.201 for which final action is appealable to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

466 VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENTS

466.1 Content and Duration

a. Vacancies to be filled under this plan will be announced for a minimum of seven calendar days. Each vacancy announcement will include the announcement number, the closing date, title, series, grade, and number (if more than one) of the position(s) to be filled, the telephone number of the responsible Personnel Staffing Specialist, information on how to apply, special rating factors and their weights, amount of travel, when required, and qualification requirements. Vacancy announcements will be posted on bulletin boards throughout Broadcasting.

b. Open announcements will be used whenever there is a continuing need to fill certain positions having the same qualification requirements and job-related criteria. Employees may apply anytime during the announcement period. Applications will be rated and the names of those candidates rated as qualified will be placed on a register for further consideration and referral as specific vacancies occur. Their names will be kept on the register until they are selected or until the termination of the register.

466.2 Applications for Vacancies - Each vacancy announcement issued under this plan will state whether the position is open to Broadcasting employees only or to outside candidates as well. Only those employees who apply for consideration or are recommended by management in response to a specific vacancy announcement will be considered.

466.3 Area of Consideration - Refers to the area in which Personnel searches for eligible candidates in specific promotion actions.

a. For positions GS-12 and above, the minimum area of consideration will be Broadcast-wide.

b. For positions through GS-11, the minimum area of consideration will be the locality in which the vacancy exists, e.g., Washington, D.C., New York City, Greenville, North Carolina, etc.

c. In instances where elements are undergoing reorganization, or programming changes that require higher level work, the Director of Personnel may limit the area of consideration to the offices affected.

467 EVALUATION OF CANDIDATES

467.1. To be eligible for promotion, Civil Service employees must meet the requirements of Part 300, Subpart F, Civil Service Rules for time-in-grade, and Civil Service Handbook X-118 for length and quality of experience, plus any selective factors established.

467.2 In addition to meeting X-118 qualification requirements, employees serving on Foreign Service appointments must have served:

a. not less than one year at the next lower class, and

b. not less than one year in a position classified at the next lower General Schedule grade than the position for which applied.

c. Personnel will review the duties of the vacant position with the appropriate supervisor to determine the ranking factors, to assign weights to each rating factor, and, if the supervisor and the personnel office agree that it is desirable, to develop a crediting plan which will be used to rate the eligible applicants. Ranking factors will be submitted with the SF-52 and will appear in the vacancy announcement.

d. Personnel will prepare a listing of all eligible candidates from those who have applied or have been recommended by management who meet the minimum qualification requirements. If there are more than ten eligible applicants for a specific vacancy, the applicants will be rated using the established rating factors and, as appropriate, crediting plan in order to identify the best qualified. Normally no more than the top five candidates will be identified as best qualified and will be certified to the selecting official in alphabetical order. When there are ten or fewer eligible candidates, all may be certified, in alphabetical order, or Personnel may evaluate and identify those who are highly qualified (not more than five) if requested to do so by the selecting official.

e. Candidates eligible for non-competitive selection may be referred on a separate list for the selecting official's consideration at any time. That is, they may be referred before rating and ranking of promotional candidates or at any other point in the process. Management may request that such candidates be considered with promotion candidates in the competitive process.

f. Evaluation Method

(1) The basic documents to be used in the evaluation process are the SF-171, Personal Qualifications Statement, performance appraisal reports, and any other requested information.

(2) When more than ten eligible applicants are identified, all eligible applicants will be rated to identify the best qualified.

(3) Applicants will be listed alphabetically on promotion certificates. All applicants must meet the OPM qualification standards and time-in-grade and time-after-competitive appointment restrictions within 30 calendar days of the closing date of the vacancy announcement in order to be considered for the position. Promotion certificates will remain valid for no more than 60 days unless extended by the Director of Personnel. Vacancies that occur in the element after the closing date of the announcement for position(s) identical (same grade, series, and title) to the original vacancy may be filled from the certificate of eligibles during the life of the certificate.

g. Promotion panels may be convened by Personnel to rate and rank eligible candidates. When a promotion panel is convened, all panel members must be at a grade level equal to or above that of the vacancy. Panel members will receive appropriate instruction and a copy of the crediting plan, the vacancy announcement, the position description, and any other relevant material. Individuals selected to serve on promotion panels should be knowledgeable in the occupational field of the vacancy or skilled in evaluating experience, education, and training at the level of the vacancy. Panels will consist of three members, selected by Personnel. The selecting official cannot serve on the promotion panel.

468 SELECTION

468.1 The selecting official shall be entitled to select any candidate certified or to non-select all candidates. The candidate selected will be the individual who will best fill management's needs in terms of productivity and the total objectives of the organization. Interviews by the selecting official are optional. However, if the selecting official interviews one candidate on a certificate, he or she must interview all other candidates on that certificate.

468.2b. The selecting official may decide to interview and select at only one level for positions advertised at two or more grade levels.

468.3c. Before making a final decision, the selecting official should make appropriate reference checks.

468.4 Before the selecting official can notify the candidates of his or her decision, the certificate must be cleared by B/P.

469 NEPOTISM

Supervisors and other public officials are prohibited from participating in the rating, ranking, or selection process if a relative is under consideration. Neither may supervisors advocate the selection of a relative. This does not preclude a supervisor, when necessary, from responding to a request for an appraisal on a relative, provided the supervisor refrains from advocating selection and he or she notes the relationship. Relatives are defined in 5 USC 3110 as father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, first cousin, nephew, niece, husband, wife, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepfather, stepmother, stepson, stepdaughter, stepbrother, stepsister, half-brother or half-sister.

a. Advocating would also include the referral of an application of a relative for consideration for employment, promotion, and the like.

b. If a panel is used, all members of the panel are considered to be officials, even though they may not occupy supervisory positions.

(2) In preparing the performance plan, the Rating Officer and the Rated Employee will take into account the mission of the major organization unit in which the employee's position is located and the mission of the employee's specific organization. The performance plan will include specific activities and tasks that will further these missions.

(3) The performance plan must be documented in writing on the IBB Performance Appraisal Report form (IBB-0005) and must be reviewed by the Reviewing Officer (if any).

(4) The plan development phase usually is completed within the first 30 days of the rating period.

b. Critical Elements

(1) During the "Plan Development" phase described above, the Rating Officer and the employee should meet and identify two to five critical elements for the employee's position. These critical elements may address individual results or objectives that are to be achieved or individual results that an employee is expected to achieve as part of a team. The objective of each critical element must be established, as well as the major activities that the employee is expected to carry out to further that objective.

(2) Performance plans for all supervisors and managers must include the Critical Performance Element for Supervision/Management that is included as Element Number 1 on the IBB Performance Appraisal Report Form. In addition, supervisors and managers should incorporate into their performance plans the concept of balanced measures.

c. Performance Standards

(1) There are two performance levels in the IBB performance appraisal program: "Meets Expectations" and "Does Not Meet Expectations." IBB has developed generic performance standards for the two levels. These IBB Generic Performance Standards apply to each critical element. The Generic Performance Standards are described on the Performance Appraisal Report Form. During the "Plan Development" period, the Rating Officer will identify any supplemental performance standards describing quality, timeliness, teamwork, customer service (or other relevant balanced measures) that apply to the critical elements. The employee's input or comments should be considered before finalizing and issuing the performance plan.

(2) The Rating Officer may supplement the generic performance standards at any time during a rating period. Such changes should be documented at that time or during the progress review. It is important to give the employee a copy of any changes and to retain the original document showing the changes and the date of the change.

d. If the Rating Officer and employee disagree over the content of the performance plan, they should attempt to resolve the disagreement. In the case of an unresolved dispute, the Reviewing Officer shall make the final decision regarding contents of the plan. Advice and assistance is available through the Office of Personnel.

e. The Rating Officer, Reviewing Officer and Rated Employee will sign and date the performance plan. The employee's signature indicates that the performance plan has been discussed with the employee and that the employee has received a copy. It does not signify that the employee agrees with the plan. The Rating Officer will retain the original copy of the plan and will provide a copy of the signed performance plan and the Generic Performance Standards to the employee. If the employee refuses to sign the performance plan, the Rating Officer should note this on the form, give the employee a copy of the plan (without the employee's signature), retain the original annotated form and continue the normal appraisal process.

f. In situations where a new Rating Officer arrives after the start of the annual appraisal cycle, the Rating Officer and the Rated Employee must establish a new performance plan and document it on the Performance Appraisal Report form with the proper signatures, even if the employee's elements and standards will not change during the remainder of the cycle.

494.2 Progress Reviews

a. Rating Officers and Rated Employees are encouraged to review and discuss the Rated Employees' performance throughout the appraisal period and to use the Communication Worksheet (IBB-0005A) as a framework for discussion. At a minimum, Rating Officers must conduct one formal progress review with employees, preferably at the midpoint of the appraisal period. During each progress review, the Rating Officer and Rated Employee will discuss the employee's progress toward achieving the critical elements, any necessary changes in the critical elements, and any performance improvement or developmental needs. Information about an employee's performance that is available to the Rating Officer should be shared with the employee at the time of a progress review meeting.

b. The Communication Worksheet may be used at the mid-year formal progress review. All information provided on the Worksheet should relate to the established performance elements and standards. It is expected that the comments will recognize good performance and be used to measure improvement in problematic areas. The Rating Officer and Rated Employee are the only individuals to make use of this document or retain copies. A copy will not be placed in the employees performance folder and cannot be used as formal documentation of poor performance or in future adverse personnel actions. When a Rated Employee leaves an office, all copies of completed Communication Worksheets for the departed employee must be destroyed.

c. For employees who are meeting their critical elements, the progress review and any changes to the plan should be documented on the official IBB Performance Appraisal Report form. The signatures of the Rated Employee and the Rating Officer and the date(s) of their discussion(s) should be entered on the Report form in Section I-B.

d. For employees whose performance is at the "Does Not Meet Expectations" level, the Rating Officer should document the specific problem areas by citing examples of performance that did not meet the performance standard. The Rating Officer should consult with the Office of Personnel, Labor and Employee Relations Division, regarding these performance deficiencies. It is important to note that Rating Officers can and should consult Personnel and deal with employees who are not meeting standards at any time during the appraisal cycle. It is not necessary to wait until the final Rating of Record has been given before appropriate action may be initiated.

e. During discussion(s) modifications of performance elements and/or standards may be made.

494.3 Completing A Written Performance Appraisal

a. At the end of the rating period, the Rating Officer initiates the written appraisal process by soliciting the Rated Employee's comments on his/her performance (including specific accomplishments) during the appraisal period.

b. In preparing the performance appraisal, the Rating Officer will consider the employee's performance during the rating period, including any feedback received, and assign a rating of "Meets Expectations" or "Does Not Meet Expectations" for each critical element. In the event that the employee is not assigned work in a critical element, no rating should be assigned, and the words "Not Rated" should be written on the form for that element. The Rating Officer will prepare the appraisal and submit it for higher level review and approval to the Reviewing Officer.

c. The Rating Officer must assign a summary rating in Section IV of the Performance Appraisal Report form and provide narrative comments to support the assigned rating.

d. An employee must have received a rating of "Meets Expectations" in all critical elements in order to be assigned a summary rating of "Meets Expectations." An employee who receives a rating of "Does Not Meet Expectations" in one or more individual critical elements must be assigned a summary rating of "Does Not Meet Expectations."

e. When a Rating Officer assigns a rating of "Does Not Meet Expectations," (i.e. unacceptable performance) the Rating Officer must provide a written explanation describing the specific areas in which the employee's performance "Does Not Meet Expectations" for the critical element or elements. The Rating Officer should consult with the Office of Personnel, Labor and Employee Relations Division, regarding further required actions on these performance deficiencies. For further information regarding unacceptable performance, see 5 CFR Part 432.

f. A summary rating of "Does Not meet Expectations" assigned by the Rating Officer, must be approved by the Reviewing Officer. If the Rating and Reviewing Officers do not concur, the Reviewing Officer will make the final determination.

494.4 Discussion of Performance

a. Once the final rating has been determined and signed by the Rating and Reviewing Officers, the Rating Officer will discuss the rating and any developmental needs with the Rated Employee.

b. Following the discussion, the Rating Officer will ask the Rated Employee to sign the rating to indicate that the rating has been discussed. If the employee declines to sign the rating, the Rating Officer will so note on the form and submit the original in the normal fashion after giving a copy to the employee.

c. Rated Employees should have a reasonable period of time (normally three work days but generally no more than ten calendar days) to review the completed appraisal reports and add comments if desired on the final page of the Performance Appraisal Report. These comments are optional and, if submitted, will become part of the Rating of Record. If the employee indicates that he/she plans to submit narrative comments, the Rating Officer should postpone final submission of the original copy until the employee submits the narrative comments or ten calendar days have passed, whichever comes first.

d. If a Rated Employee receives a rating of "Does Not Meet Expectations" he/she may submit comments to the Reviewing Officer within ten calendar days of receipt of the rating. These comments will become part of the Rating of Record. The Reviewing Officer must respond, in writing, to the employee's comments within ten calendar days of receipt. These comments will also become part of the Rating of Record.

494.5 Reconsideration - A Rated Employee may request reconsideration of a rating of "Does Not Meet Expectations" by an official in a position higher than the Reviewing Officer may. Such consideration must be processed under the applicable grievance procedure.

494.6 Ratings of Record

a. If the performance appraisal prepared for an employee at the end of the rating period covers the entire rating cycle, that performance appraisal constitutes the employee's Rating of Record.

b. If the Rated Employee received one or more interim ratings during the annual rating period, the Rating Officer must consider these ratings (including ratings from other Federal agencies) in determining the employee's annual Rating of Record. The determination must be submitted on Form IBB-0005B, Determination of Annual Rating of Record, with applicable interim ratings attached.

c. When a covered employee transfers into IBB from another Federal Agency that does not use a two-level performance appraisal system, summary ratings at or above level 3 (Satisfactory) will be treated as input only, and will be considered at the end of the annual performance cycle. Previous Ratings of Record will be treated in accordance with 5 CFR Part 430.

494.7 Inadmissible Comments

A number of factors must not be included in the report by any of the participants in the rating process (Rating Officer, Reviewing Officer or Rated Employee). The following subjects are inadmissible in any part of a performance appraisal report:

a. References to race, color, religion, sex (except for titles of address, first names or personal pronouns), national origin, age, political affiliation, marital status, or references to spouse or family;

b. Mention of the specific nature of a disability or medical problem, such as physical handicap, alcoholism or drug abuse. Alcoholism and drug abuse, including efforts at rehabilitation, are considered medical problems to be diagnosed only by medical personnel and should not be specifically discussed in any performance appraisal report. Reference may be made to the confirmed knowledge of a disability or medical problem only to the extent that it affects job performance;

c. Mention of initiation of, involvement in, or participation in grievance or EEO procedures except when an appropriate authority has determined that an employee has committed a discriminatory action;

d. Comments on an employee's participation or non-participation in employee organizations or activities, such as Unions, Credit Union Committees, Foreign Affairs Recreation Association, etc.;

e. Recommendations on reclassification of the Rated Employee's position to a higher grade; and

f. Reference to previous performance ratings or events or performance outside the rating period.

NOTE: This list does not include all potential inadmissible comments. The Office of Personnel should be consulted in questionable situations.

495 USE OF PERFORMANCE APPRAISALS

495.1 Establishment and Communication of Organizational Objectives - The appraisal process provides an opportunity to focus on the mission of the major organization unit in which the employee's position is located and the mission of the employee's specific organization. These play an important part in determining the individual results or objectives that are to be achieved or individual results that an employee is expected to achieve as part of a team.

495.2 Within-in Grade Increase (WIGI)

a. In order to receive a within-grade increase, a Civil Service employee must demonstrate performance at an "acceptable level of competence." Employees with current Ratings of Record of "Meets Expectations" will be deemed to have met this level and will be eligible for within-grade increases.

b. An employee who has a current Rating of Record of "Does Not Meet Expectations" is ineligible for a WIGI until receiving a Rating of Record of "Meets Expectations." A new Rating of Record will be required for a within-grade increase determination, which is inconsistent with the current Rating of Record. For additional information regarding WIGI's and WIGI denials, see 5 CFR Part 531, Subpart D.

495.3 Quality Step Increase (QSI) - A QSI is an exceptional performance pay increase which provides faster than normal step increases and should be given only to the highest achieving employees who perform continuously at this level and who do not receive promotions for increasing levels of responsibility. All covered employees must have received a Rating of Record of "Meets Expectations" in order to be considered for a Quality Step Increase.

495.4 Promotion - In order to receive a career ladder promotion, an employee must have a current Rating of Record of "Meets Expectations" and cannot be currently performing in a critical element at the "Does Not Meet Expectations" level.

495.5 Training and Development - The performance plan, progress review and summary rating provide an opportunity to determine whether an employee's performance could be improved/enhanced by training or other developmental activities. The Rating Officer should document specific deficiencies that may be corrected by training and suggest training to help the employee correct these deficiencies.

495.6 Reduction-in-Force (RIF)

a. For RIF purposes, the Ratings of Record are:

- (1) The rating given at the end of the rating period;
- (2) The rating given at the end of an extended rating period (extended only because the employee did not serve the minimum 90 calendar days in his/her current position at the end of the IBB annual rating cycle); and
- (3) The improved rating following an opportunity to demonstrate acceptable performance as provided in 5 U.S.C. 4302.

b. An employee must not be assigned a new Rating of Record for the sole purpose of affecting his/her RIF retention standing.

c. In a RIF, employees will receive service credit based on an average of the employee's three most recent Ratings of Record received during the 4 year period prior to the date of issuance of a specific RIF notice or an earlier cutoff date established by IBB.

d. Each covered employee will receive service credit of 18 years for a "Meets Expectations" Rating of Record and 0 years of service credit for a "Does Not Meet Expectations" Rating of Record. Employees who transfer into IBB from other agencies will receive credit according to the criteria in 5 CFR Part 351. For additional information on RIF procedures, see 5 CFR Part 351.

495.7 Actions Based on Unacceptable Performance

a. If at any time during the rating period an employee's performance is determined to be unacceptable e.g., "Does Not Meet Expectations," in one or more critical elements, the employee will be given an opportunity to demonstrate acceptable performance (i.e., at the "Meets Expectations" level) in that critical element. The Rating Officer must consult with the Office of Personnel, Labor and Employee Relations Division, regarding required actions.

b. If the employee's performance does not improve to the "Meets Expectations" level during the opportunity to improve period, action will be initiated to reduce in grade, remove or reassign the employee. (NOTE: If the unacceptable determination does not coincide with the end of the rating period, there is no need to complete the Performance Plan, Progress Review and Appraisal Record.)

496 FORMS and RECORD KEEPING

496.1 Forms - The IBB Performance Appraisal Report form (IBB-0005) will be used to develop the performance plan, performance appraisal progress review and the summary rating.

496.2 Record Keeping

a. The Rating Officer or other designated management official must maintain the original copies of all current year performance records for covered employees. These records are protected under the Privacy Act and must be kept in a locked file in a secure and confidential area. The information can be revealed only to those with a need to know in order to perform their professional duties, or to others with the written permission of the employee. At the end of each performance appraisal cycle, the completed original performance plans (as documented on the Performance Appraisal Report form) must be forwarded to the Office of Personnel.

b. No more than three copies of the Performance Appraisal Report may be prepared. Only the original copy of the completed Report should be submitted to the Office of Personnel. The Rated Employee must receive a copy after all parties sign all copies. The Rating Officer also retains a copy until the next performance appraisal is prepared or until either the Rating Officer or the Rated Employee leaves their position, whichever is earlier.

c. The Rating Officer or other designated official must supply to the Office of Personnel any requested certifications regarding the appraisal process.

d. When an employee moves from one organization within the Bureau to another, the Rating Officer must forward the employee's completed interim rating to the gaining supervisor.

e. When an employee transfers to another Federal agency or separates from the Federal Government, the Rating Officer must forward to the Office of Personnel all performance records. The Office of Personnel will forward the appropriate performance files to the gaining agency or otherwise properly direct them.

496.3 Disposition of Records by the Office of Personnel

a. Ratings of Record will be maintained in accordance with 5 CFR Part 293, Subpart D. Summary ratings will be retained for 4 years.

b. When an employee transfers to another agency, disposition requirements in 5 CFR Part 293 Subpart D require Ratings of Record 4 years old or less to be transferred to the gaining agency. This includes the performance plan on which the most recent rating was based, and the summary rating prepared when the employee changes positions.

b. When the supervisor receives the notice of injury or illness, the supervisor must complete any supervisory statements on the form, obtain statements from any witnesses, and give the form to the administrative officer for forwarding to the personnel office. If it appears that the injury will result in a medical expense or time lost from work, the personnel office will forward the form to OWCP. If there is no time lost and no medical expense involved, the claim will be retained as a permanent part of the Employee Medical Folder.

Employees having these illnesses will receive the same careful consideration and offer of assistance that is extended to employees having any other health problem. Broadcasting is concerned with an employee's use of alcohol and/or drugs as it affects job performance or the efficiency of the service. Employees who believe that they have a problem with either should seek the confidential counseling and information which ARCS can provide. Job opportunities or promotions will not be affected because an employee has sought counseling.

c. Records - Medical and non-medical records are confidential. The records may not be disclosed unless the employee authorizes it in writing, noting the extent, circumstances and purposes under which disclosure can be made. Otherwise, disclosure can only be made to medical personnel in the case of a bona fide medical emergency; to qualified personnel for the purpose of research, audit or program evaluation (but without identification of employees); or if authorized by an appropriate order of a court of competent jurisdiction. Disclosure regarding participation or non-participation in an ARCS program is also prohibited.

g. Disciplinary Action or Unsatisfactory Performance - ARCS can assist employees in dealing with problems that might result in unacceptable conduct or poor performance. Before initiating a disciplinary or adverse action, supervisors should encourage employees to seek assistance from ARCS, and supervisors should consult with the ARCS staff on methods of dealing with the employee problem. However, only conduct or poor performance may be the basis of any disciplinary action, not non-participation in the ARCS program.

508 UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION FOR FEDERAL EMPLOYEES PROGRAM -UCFE

508.1 Authority and Background

a. Title 5 USC, Chapter 85, 8501-8509 and title XV the Social Security Act contains the authority and regulations for unemployment insurance benefits to civilian employees who become unemployed or in a non-pay status.

b. The "Social Security Handbook", 2300-2308, contains detailed instructions, procedures and regulations concerning unemployment insurance. The handbook is available at any Social Security Office.

c. The pamphlet, "Unemployment Insurance for Federal Workers", and Standard Form 8, "Notice to Federal Employees About Unemployment Insurance" provides helpful information on eligibility, benefits, how to file a claim, and is available in the personnel office.

d. Additional information may be obtained from any local public Employment Service Office of the State Employment Security Agency where one resides or works.

508.2 Eligibility

All employees, except those excluded by law or regulation in section 8501 of Title 5 USC.

508.3 Responsibilities

a. The Department of Labor is responsible for the general administration of the UCFE law in accordance with title XV of the Social Security Act and prescribes rules, regulations and instructions to State and Federal agencies.

b. The program is administered by each State through its local Employment Security Agency which determines entitlement to weekly benefits.

c. The Office of Personnel (B/P) will:

(1) advise employees of their potential eligibility for benefits when an employee separates, retires, or is in a non-pay status (leave without pay) of 30 or more consecutive days. (Time and Attendance Clerks are responsible for issuing the Standard Form 8 to employees in their office who are on leave without pay for periods of 7-29 days.)

(2) furnish Standard Form 50, "Notification of Personnel Action" and Standard Form 8 to same employees confirming separation/retirement. These forms are used by employees in applying for unemployment insurance benefits.

For expeditious processing, employees should apply directly to the claims office where they work because the duty station, rather than the employee's residence, governs jurisdiction.

e. Payroll will answer inquiries received from unemployment compensation offices regarding service, wages, and reasons for separation (information taken from the Standard Form 50). Inquiries must be answered within 4 working days of receipt, or the State agency must be promptly notified when it can expect to receive a reply.

TITLE 5-A

PERSONNEL (DOMESTIC)

SECTION 500- EMPLOYEE BENEFITS, CONDUCT AND RESPONSIBILITIES

(Last Updated: 6/2011)

SECTIONS

- 520 OUTSIDE EMPLOYMENT AND RELATED ACTIVITIES
- 521 PURPOSE AND SCOPE
- 521 PURPOSE AND SCOPE
- 522 POLICY
- 523 GUIDELINES
- 524 ROUTING CLEARANCES

520 OUTSIDE EMPLOYMENT AND RELATED ACTIVITIES

Outside employment and related activities generally are permitted, and in many cases encouraged. Employees have an obligation to avoid actual and apparent conflicts of interest, particularly those which might adversely affect the Agency's ability to fulfill its statutory mission or call into question its reliability as an unbiased source of objective news. Employees who fail to meet this obligation risk undermining Agency operations.

521 PURPOSE AND SCOPE

This section provides guidance to employees, including employees of other organizations or agencies on detail to the Agency, who are currently engaged in or are considering engaging in employment or related activities outside their regular official duties and responsibilities. This guidance is intended to assist employees in avoiding activities that conflict with law or regulation or are inconsistent with U. S. Government or Agency policy. It provides an overview of applicable policies and regulations and guidance on how to obtain clearance and/or advice regarding outside activities.

522 POLICY

- a. Employees are expected to conduct themselves in accordance with the highest standards of integrity and to avoid illegality, questionable conduct, impairments of performance, and conflicts or apparent conflicts of interest. Conflict of interest questions arise whenever the pursuit of a private interest, such as outside employment, may impair the full and effective exercise of an employee's official U. S. Government duties and responsibilities.

- b. Employees generally are permitted to engage in outside employment and activities such as teaching, lecturing, and writing. In many cases such activities are encouraged, particularly when they involve community service, increase public knowledge or understanding of the Agency and its mission, provide an opportunity for the employee to gain recognition and advancement in his or her professional field, provide experience and exposure that enhances the employee's performance, fulfill an economic need, or enable an employee to pursue an avocation or explore an alternate career field.
- c. Employees also may take a normal and active role in the activities of private organizations such as professional groups and societies. The extent of an employee's participation in the affairs of such organizations, however, may be limited when the organization is concerned primarily with international affairs or foreign policy, and participation would limit the effectiveness of the employee to perform official duties or impair the Agency's ability to carry out any of its various programs, particularly its ability to function as a credible and unbiased source of objective news and information.
- d. Employees are encouraged to submit material for supervisory clearance before engaging in outside employment or a related activity in accordance with section 524 below.

523 GUIDELINES

- a. Outside Employment and Activities Generally. The following outside employment and activities are restricted by existing laws or regulations.
  - (1) An employee shall not engage in outside employment or activities, including seeking or negotiating for employment, that conflict with official Government duties and responsibilities (5 CFR §§2635.601-606).
  - (2) An employee shall not use public office for private gain (5 CFR §2635.702).
  - (3) An employee may not engage in outside employment, whether paid or unpaid, or accept a fee, compensation, gift, payment of expense, or any other thing of monetary value under circumstances which create the appearance of a conflict of interest (5 CFR §2635.501).
  - (4) An employee may not engage in outside employment which tends to impair his or her mental or physical capacity to perform official Broadcasting duties in an acceptable manner or which in any way interferes with his or her effective performance of such duties (5 CFR §2635.802).
  - (5) An employee may not receive any salary, fee, honorarium, or anything of monetary value from a private source as compensation for his or her services to the U.S. Government (18 USC §209).

(6) An employee may not render any services, except when acting on behalf of the United States, whether or not compensated, to any foreign government or to any state, province, semi-governmental agency, or municipality of a foreign government unless a specific exception is granted by the Office of the General Counsel (US Constitution, Art 1, Sec 9).

(7) An employee may not provide any services, except when acting on behalf of the United States, whether or not compensated, to any international organization of states (e.g., the United Nations or the Organization of American States) unless approval is obtained from the Office of the General Counsel (Agency policy, US Constitution, Art 1, Sec 9).

(8) An employee generally may not engage in additional U. S. Government employment which would result in his or her receiving basic pay from more than one position for more than forty hours of work per week. In addition to any other approvals required, an exception to this restriction must be approved by the Director of Personnel. Exceptions may include work which: is compensated on other than a time basis, e.g., a non-personal-service contract (see contract restrictions in paragraph 9, below); requires knowledge and use of one or more non-English languages (e.g., an instructor); or is in a shortage occupation having a special minimum pay rate, e.g., certain professional engineers (5 USC § 5533).

The forty hour per week basic pay restriction does not preclude an employee's performance of brief periods of overtime work on a regular or intermittent basis for a Broadcasting element other than the one to which officially assigned. Before assigning such overtime work, supervisors who are responsible for approving overtime should consult with their administrative officers.

(9) Generally, the Agency will not award a contract, including a purchase order, to: (1) an employee or other Government employee, or a business concern owned or controlled by such an employee; (2) a member of an employee's family or a business concern owned or controlled by such a family member; or (3) an ex-employee within two years following separation from employment, or a business concern owned or controlled by such an ex-employee or his or her family member (Federal Acquisition Regulations, Agency policy).

Exceptions may be considered in specific cases. Depending on the exception sought, approval from the Executive Director or the Agency Procurement Executive is required. In all cases, (a) an exception must be based on critical need (such as for scarce non-English language talent needed to meet broadcasting requirements), (b) in the opinion of General Counsel, any apparent conflict of interest (such as providing the same or similar service under contract which was previously provided as an employee) must be outweighed by the need for the services, and (c) reasonable alternatives must be unavailable. (MOA IX, section 130)

(10) No employee who is appointed to a full-time non-career position in the executive branch shall receive any earned income for any outside employment or activity performed during the appointment period that exceeds the amount permitted by 5 CFR §§ 2636.301-307.

(11) Generally, a non-U.S. citizen employee in the United States with a J-1 or other non-immigrant visa may not engage in any compensated (except for actual expenses) outside activity unless the activity is directly tied to the purpose for which the visa is issued (Dept of State policy).

(12) Because of the high risk of the public perception of a loss of impartiality or objectivity, no agency journalist should act as a translator or interpreter for the Secretary of State or any other U.S. government official engaged in official government business (Agency policy).

b. Teaching, Speaking, Writing, and News Media Work

Special requirements apply to employees who wish to teach, speak, write, lecture, or participate in conferences, or engage in work as a writer, correspondent, or broadcaster for any news medium, outside the scope of official duties, whether or not the employee is compensated (5 CFR § 2325.807).

(1) Teaching, Speaking, and Writing

Employees may not receive compensation for outside teaching, speaking, or writing on matters that relate to their official duties. Matters relate to official duties if they are:

- (A) Undertaken as part of the employees official duties;
- (B) Offered or undertaken primarily because of the employee's official status rather than their subject matter expertise;
- (C) Offered by a person whose interests can be affected by the performance or nonperformance of the employee's duties;
- (D) Drawn substantially on non-public Agency ideas or official data; or
- (E) Dealing in significant part with:
  - a. Any matter to which the employee is assigned or was assigned in the previous year;
  - b. Any ongoing or announced policy, program, or operation of the agency; and
  - c. For non-career employees, the general subject matter, area, industry, or economic sector primarily affected by the programs and operations of the Agency.

An employee who has a question as to whether his or her speech, written material, or teaching engagement is of official concern should consult the Office of Public Affairs for clearance. Clearance will not be granted if the speech, written product, or course contains classified material, or material of official concern which is inaccurate, incompatible with current U.S. foreign policy, or can reasonably be expected to affect U.S. foreign policy adversely.

Employees engaging in outside teaching, speaking, and writing are responsible for the content of their statements and their personal conduct away from the workplace. Failing to adhere to the regulatory standards described in previous sections may result in disciplinary action, up to and including removal from Federal service.

Employees may not refer to their official positions during the course of teaching, speaking, or writing except as permitted by 5 CFR §2635.807. Employees are encouraged to include a disclaimer that their views and opinions are their own and are do not necessarily represent those of the Agency.

(2) News Media Work

In addition to any clearance with respect to material of official concern, employees are encouraged to seek clearance with External Affairs before engaging in work as a writer, correspondent, or broadcaster for any newspaper, wire service, press syndicate or association, or any other news medium.

c. Activities of Private Organizations

Private organizations under this section are any associations or groups of persons except: Organizations established by the U.S. government; organizations in which the Agency, the Department of State, or the Agency for International Development officially participate; or organizations or associations of Federal employees.

(1) In participating in the programs and activities of a private organization, an employee must make it clear to the organization, and its members and constituents when appropriate, that the Agency has no official connection with the organization and does not necessarily sponsor or sanction its programs or views.

(2) An employee may not be a member of an organization which advocates the overthrow of the United States' constitutional form of government if the employee knows that the organization so advocates. If an employee has any doubt as to the goals or objectives of an organization, he or she may consult the Office of the General Counsel.

(3) When a private organization is concerned primarily with foreign policy, international relations, or any other matter of official concern to the Agency, employees should limit the nature of their participation with the organization until they have sought clearance from External Affairs. Specifically, an employee should not serve for such an organization as an advisor, officer, director, teacher, sponsor, committee chairperson, or in any other official capacity, or permit the use of his or her name on a letterhead in a publication, announcement, or news story, or at a public meeting regardless of whether the employee's official title or connection with the Agency is mentioned.

This restriction is not intended to prohibit or impair employees' full and active participation in professional or academic organizations such as the American Political Science Association, American Foreign Service Association, or African or Middle-East Studies Association. Employees are expected, however, to exercise discretion in such activities and ensure their official connection with the Agency is not misused.

Exceptions to this restriction may be granted by the Director of Personnel, if it can be demonstrated that the public interest, including the effective functioning of the Agency, will not be adversely affected by an employee's service with such an organization.

(4) When the purpose and program of a private organization do not fall primarily within the fields of foreign policy, international relations, or any other matter of official concern to the Agency, employees generally may freely participate in the organization's activities. However, employees may not use their official title or connection with the Agency on an organization's letterhead, in a publication, or in any way that would employ the prestige of the U.S. Government to enhance that of the organization or imply official Agency sponsorship or endorsement.

(5) When an employee is functioning as a representative of an organization or association of Federal employees, the employee's official title and connection with the Agency may be freely used so long as there is no implication of official sponsorship beyond that which has been officially approved. However, employees must not use their official authority or government resources in conjunction with organizations or associations of Federal employees without express written permission from Agency management.

524 ROUTING CLEARANCES

- a. Outside Employment Generally. An employee considering engaging in any kind of outside employment is encouraged to obtain advance supervisory approval if the employment poses any question, conflict, or appearance of conflict with respect to the guidelines in section 523 of this section or would involve work for a foreign country or international organization. Examples of such outside employment include work that is closely related to an employee's official duties, relies on information gained in an official capacity, or which may require the employee's attention during official duty time. (If the employment involves speaking, writing, teaching, or participation in the activities of private organizations, see sections 524 b and c, below.) In order to avoid outside employment that conflicts with law or regulations, employees are encouraged to consult with their supervisor, the Office of External Affairs, the Office of Personnel or the Ethics Officer, Office of the General Counsel.

To seek advice, an employee should address a memorandum to his or her supervisor that provides as complete an outline as possible of the proposed employment. As applicable, the outline should include such details as the name and type of business of the proposed employer, work schedule, expected compensation, and a description of the work to be performed. In addition, if the proposed employment poses any issues of conflict or compliance with the guidelines in section 523 of this section, the memorandum should address such issues.

A non-U.S. citizen employee with a J-1 or other non-immigrant visa must attach to the memorandum a specific authorization from the Exchange Visitor Staff, Department of State, if the employment sought is to be compensated (except for actual expenses). J-1 visa holders are encouraged to consult the Office of Personnel for guidance on outside activities.

The supervisor, after reviewing the memorandum, assuring the information provided by the employee is complete, and, if necessary, discussing the request with the employee, should:

- (1) Clear the request if no other input is required and the employment poses no conflict of interest or other concerns, then forward a copy of the request and clearance to the employee and to the Office of External Affairs; OR
- (2) Forward the request to the Office of Public Affairs if there is any question as to the propriety of the proposed employment. When forwarding a request, the supervisor should attach a statement of his or her opinion of any potential for impairment of the employee's capacity to perform official duties in the manner expected and any other pertinent comments.

The Office of Public Affairs, after receiving an unclear request, will:

- (1) Clear the request in consultation with the supervisor if the employment poses no conflict of interest or other concern and forward a copy of the request and clearance to the employee through the supervisor; OR
- (2) Forward the request to the Office of the General Counsel if there is any remaining question as to the propriety of the proposed employment with any pertinent comments or questions. If the request concerns matters requiring the attention of the Director of the Office of Human Resources, e.g., pay for more than forty hours from more than one Government position, it should be forwarded through appropriate channels to the Director of the Office of Human Resources.

The Office of the General Counsel (and the Director of the Office of Human Resources, if appropriate), will issue an opinion on the propriety of the proposed employment and return the request and opinion to Public Affairs for a final determination. External affairs will provide its advice and the GC opinion to the employee through the supervisor, who will then provide final advice the employee regarding the proposed activity.

- b. Speaking, Writing, Teaching, and News Media Work. Before accepting engagements to speak, write, or teach on subjects of official concern or agreeing to work as a writer, correspondent, or broadcaster for any news medium, an employee are encouraged to submit material for clearance from the Office of Public Affairs. Managers and supervisors whose employees have questions about covered activity or clearance requirements are encouraged to consult Public Affairs. The Public Affairs staff is always willing to discuss these matters and to respond to inquiries from employees.

To seek advice or clearance, an employee should follow the procedures outlined below for the appropriate activity. In many cases, a response can be obtained within one or two days of submission. In cases where questions arise about the appropriateness of an activity, however, Public Affairs may require thirty calendar days to respond. In any case, Public Affairs will notify the requestor in writing of the delay, the reasons for the delay, and the expected date of completion. In the event the final review results in non-clearance, the requester shall have the opportunity to review this determination with the Director and other reviewing officers, where appropriate, within five calendar days of notification.

(1) Official Writing for External Publication

All writing which was originally done as part of official duties is presumed to be of official concern. If no clearance by the Office of Public Affairs has previously been obtained and the employee wishes to publish such material outside the Agency, the employee must submit the manuscript for clearance to his or her office head or designee and, concurrently, to Public Affairs. The office head or designee may recommend clearance or non-clearance of the material in whole or part and forward the material and recommendations to Public Affairs, along with a written statement of reasons for any non-clearance. Public Affairs will ensure that the material is cleared with the proper element in Broadcasting before granting clearance.

(2) Unofficial Writing and Speaking

When such writing or speaking is on a subject of official concern (i.e., may reasonably be interpreted as relating to current Broadcasting responsibilities, programs, or operations or current U.S. foreign policy or as adversely affecting U.S. foreign relations, as described in section 523-b-1, the employee is encouraged to submit the manuscript or speech text for clearance as described in paragraph (1), above.

(3) Teaching

All outside teaching engagements involving matters of official concern should be cleared in advance by the Office of External Affairs as described in paragraph (1), above. Clearance should be renewed each school year. The request for clearance should include a detailed outline of each course to be taught, consisting of the names of required texts and brief descriptions of other course material, the name of the institution for which the class is to be taught, the frequency of classes and the number of hours per class, and the duration of the teaching assignment.

(4) News Media Work

Before engaging in work as a writer, correspondent, or broadcaster for any news medium, an employee should obtain clearance in advance from the Office of Public Affairs. The request for clearance should include a complete description of the proposed activity including the name of the news organization, a description of the types of news materials to be produced, and the expected frequency of assignments.

The Office of Public Affairs may grant clearance generically so that an employee may engage in outside news media work without submitting individual scripts, tapes, etc. If generic clearance is granted, it normally will specify the types of news materials to which it extends, based on the employee's request, e.g., straight news pieces covering U.S. domestic affairs. An employee who has clearance to engage in outside news media work and who has any question as to whether a particular news assignment is covered by the approval should consult the Office of Public Affairs.

(5) Compensation

In addition to the clearance and approval requirements of this subsection, several statutes may restrict or prohibit the acceptance by an employee of any compensation for writing, lecturing, or teaching. Therefore, employees should seek advance advice from an Ethics Official, Office of the General Counsel, before agreeing to accept compensation for teaching, speaking, or writing on matters of official concern or any news media work. Such advice may be sought in the manner described in section 524-a for obtaining clearance of outside employment.

c. Activities of Private Organizations

An employee who wishes to determine if an activity is prohibited or restricted or, when applicable, wishes to request an exception from a prohibition or restriction, should address a memorandum to the Office of Human Resources requesting a decision. The memorandum should include all details pertinent to the activity in question including the name and description of the major functions and goals of the private organization. The Office of Human Resources will respond directly to the employee. The response will include recommendations for any additional clearances or approvals the Office of Human Resources feels are warranted. Approvals of exceptions will be made only by the Director.

(6) Disciplinary Action

A violation of the Federal regulations governing outside employment or other covered activities by an employee may be cause for appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including separation from the Agency, in addition to any penalty prescribed by law.
