Re: Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Request No. 2008USMS11940

The United States Marshals Service is responding to your request for a copy of videotape No. 403, INTERPOL; a copy of the Marshals Service Video Library listing; and a copy of the accessioning and deaccessioning policy for the Marshals Service Video Library.

Pursuant to your request, the Marshals Service conducted a search of its files in the Marshals Service Training Academy and located one videotape as well as 19 pages of documents responsive to your request. These 19 documents are being released to you. However, the names and information identifiable to third-party individuals have been deleted pursuant to exemptions 6 and 7(C) of the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. Section 552(b).

Exemption 6 allows an agency to withhold matter contained in personnel, medical, and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Exemption 7(C) allows an agency to withhold records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes, to the extent that the disclosure of such records or information could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Videotape No. 403, INTERPOL, originated with or contains information which originated with the United States National Central Bureau (INTERPOL). Pursuant to 28 C.F.R. 16.4 and/or 16.42, this videotape and a copy of your request letter has been referred to INTERPOL for disclosure determination and direct response to you.

The Marshals Service Training Academy does not have a policy regarding the accession or deaccession of the videotapes it uses for training purposes. Additionally, there are no records indicating why videotape 403, INTERPOL, was removed from the Marshals Service

Many of the videotapes on the enclosed listing of the Marshals Service Video Library originated with other government agencies, or commercial firms. If requested, videotapes originating with other government agencies would have to be referred to the originating agency for disclosure determination. Due to copyright laws, videotapes originating with commercial firms should be requested directly from the originating firm.

Upon review of this listing of videotapes, we believe that disclosure of some of the videotapes, if requested, would most likely be protected in part or in their entirety pursuant to exemptions 2 and 7(E) of the FOIA. Exemption 2 allows an agency to withhold matter related solely to internal rules and practice. The material protected by this provision meets the test of "predominant internality" set forth in Crooker v. BATE, 670 F.2d 1051 (DC Cir. 1981), as disclosure would compromise the effectiveness of the specific law enforcement guidelines, techniques, and procedures depicted in this training material for law enforcement officers. Exemption 7(E) allows an agency to withhold law enforcement information which would disclose guidelines or techniques and law enforcement procedures if such disclosure could reasonably be expected to risk circumvention of the law. Also, certain limited information would likely be protected pursuant to exemption 7(C) which allows an agency to withhold law enforcement information the disclosure of which could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Additionally, requested tapes would have to be reviewed for copyright law protections, as well as privileged, commercial information, the disclosure of which would cause substantial commercial harm resulting from the loss of their market value.

If requested, the final determination of what portions, if any, of these videotapes will be disclosed will be made upon receipt of a specific request and our actual viewing of the responsive videotapes. Additionally, costs for review and reproduction of any requested videotapes would have to be determined after a specific request is received.

If you are dissatisfied with my action on this request, you may appeal by writing to the Director, Office of Information and Privacy, United States Department of Justice, 1425 New York Avenue, NW, Suite 11050, Washington, DC 20530-0001, within 60 days of the date of this letter. Both the letter and the envelope should be clearly marked "Freedom of Information/Privacy Act Appeal." In the event you are dissatisfied with the results of any such appeal, judicial review will thereafter be available to you in the United States District Court for the judicial district in which you reside or have your principal place of business, or in the District of Columbia.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM E. BORDLEY
Associate General Counsel/FOIPA Officer
Office of General Counsel
