Re: FOIA Appeal of FFIEC Tracking Nos. 017-005 through 017-010

By correspondence dated between February 24, 2017, and March 2, 2017, you made six Freedom of Information Act (FOIA)¹ requests to the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council (FFIEC). Those requests sought copies of the agendas and meeting minutes of the six FFIEC interagency task forces for years from 2015 to the dates of your requests. The FFIEC task forces are: Task Force on Consumer Compliance, Task Force on Examiner Education, Task Force on Information Sharing, Task Force on Reports, Task Force on Supervision, and Task Force on Surveillance Systems.

On March 23, 2017, the FFIEC responded to your six FOIA requests, stating: “Your requests for minutes of the FFIEC’s six task force[s] are denied pursuant to Exemption 5 of the FOIA, U.S.C. § 552(b)[5], which allows government agencies to withhold release of documents that are deliberative and pre-decisional.” (Footnote omitted.) The response further explained that: “[T]he work of the Council’s task forces, by their nature, involve deliberations leading to pre-decisional recommendations made to the leadership of federal and state regulatory bodies that the Council serves.”

By correspondence dated April 1, 2017, you submitted an administrative appeal of the FFIEC denial of your six requests. In your appeal, you noted that while you had requested both agendas and meetings minutes of the task forces, no explanation was given for withholding the meeting agendas, and you asked that the agendas be released.

Following a review of your appeal, the FFIEC requested additional time to conduct a thorough document review prior to making a formal determination of your appeal. You agreed to that extension of time.² The FFIEC subsequently collected documents, which were reviewed by the FFIEC and the constituent agencies. This letter is the final FFIEC response to your appeal of the denial of your six FOIA requests.

Based upon our review of your requests, your appeal, the responsive documents, and applicable law, your appeal is granted in part and denied in part. We are releasing to you 184 pages of FFIEC Task Force agendas.³ Portions of those agendas have been redacted pursuant to FOIA Exemptions 2, 5, 6, and 8.⁴

Discussion

Exemption 2

FOIA Exemption 2 authorizes an agency to withhold records that are “related solely to the internal personnel rules and practices of an agency.” Information redacted from the Task Force agendas includes material related to internal personnel practices such as making conference calls and meeting preparations.

Exemption 5

Exemption 5 protects “inter-agency or intra-agency memorandums or letters that would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the agency.” Among the traditional privileges incorporated within Exemption 5 is the deliberative process privilege, which applies to documents that reflect deliberations that are part of an internal agency decision-making process.⁵ The deliberative process privilege protects the free give-and-take that occurs as a decision is being made, such as the expression of opinion and analysis by agency staff serving on FFIEC Task Forces. “Exemption 5 was intended to protect not simply deliberative material, but also the deliberative process of agencies.”⁶ Traditionally, courts have required that in order to invoke the deliberative process privilege, the material in question must be both pre-decisional and deliberative.

Documents may retain their pre-decisional character so long as they are generated as part of a continuous process of agency decision-making. In this case, information redacted from the Task Force agendas includes material such as items on a Task Force agenda that would reveal the subject or status of sensitive matters under discussion and leading toward recommendations to be made by the Task Force. Such information represents the “give-and-take of the consultative ² The time for response to an appeal may be extended as agreed by the requester and the FFIEC. 12 C.F.R. § 1101.4(b)(3)(vii).

³ Included are agendas of the Task Force on Consumer Compliance, Task Force on Examiner Education, Task Force on Information Sharing, Task Force on Supervision, and Task Force on Surveillance Systems. The Task Force on Reports does not use separate meeting agendas.

⁴ 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(2), (b)(5), (b)(6), and (b)(8).

⁵ NLRB v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 421 U.S. 132, 151 (1975).

⁶ Montrose Chemical Corp. of Cal. v. Train, 491 F.2d 63, 71 (D.C. Cir. 1974).

process” and is protected from disclosure because by its very nature, its release likely would “stifle honest and frank communication within the agency.”⁷ As the Supreme Court noted, materials of this nature (i.e. communications and memoranda representing the “give-and-take of the consultative process”) go to the essence of this privilege because “[t]he deliberative process privilege rests on the obvious realization that officials will not communicate candidly among themselves if each remark is a potential item of discovery and front page news.”⁸

Exemption 6

Exemption 6 allows an agency to withhold information about individuals where the disclosure of such information “would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.”⁹ The primary purpose of Exemption 6 is to protect individuals from the injury and embarrassment that can result from the unnecessary disclosure of personal information.¹⁰ In making this determination, the individual’s privacy interests are balanced against the public’s interest in having the information disclosed.¹¹ Material from the Task Force agendas redacted pursuant to Exemption 6 include individual email addresses and telephone numbers of agency staff.

Exemption 8

FOIA Exemption 8 protects from disclosure material “contained in or related to examination, operating, or condition reports prepared by, on behalf of, or for the use of an agency responsible for the regulation or supervision of financial institutions.”

The courts have construed Exemption 8 broadly. For example, the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit stated that Congress provided “absolute protection regardless of the circumstances underlying the regulatory agency’s receipt or preparation of examination, operating or condition reports.”¹²

⁷ Coastal States Gas Corp. v. Dep’t of Energy, 617 F.2d 854, 866 (D.C. Cir. 1980); see Lewis-Bey v. Dep’t of Justice, 595 F. Supp. 2d 120, 133 (D.D.C. 2009) (protecting documents whose release “would have the effect of inhibiting the free flow of recommendations and opinions” (citation omitted)).

⁸ Dep’t of Interior v. Klamath Water Users Protective Ass’n, 532 U.S. 1, 8-9 (2001).

⁹ The threshold requirement of Exemption 6 is that information be contained in a personnel, medical or similar file. This has been construed by the Supreme Court to extend the coverage of the exemption to any agency records containing information about a particular individual that can be identified as applying to that individual. United States Dept. of State v. Washington Post Co., 456 U.S. 595, 599 (1982).

¹⁰ Id.

¹² Gregory v. FDIC, 631 F.2d 896, 898 (D.C. Cir. 1980).

The authority of federal agencies to withhold bank examination, operating, and condition reports and documents related to such reports is clear.¹³ Courts have been reluctant to restrict the broad comprehensive scope of Exemption 8. The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit observed that “if the Congress has intentionally and unambiguously created a particularly broad, all-inclusive definition, it is not [the courts’] function, even in the FOIA context, to subvert that effort.”¹⁴ Many types of records have been held to fall within the broad reach of Exemption 8. In addition to examination reports themselves, matters that are “related to” such reports—that is, documents that “represent the foundation of the examination process, the findings of such an examination, or its follow-up”—have been held exempt from disclosure.¹⁵

Information redacted from the Task Force agendas pursuant to Exemption 8 include agenda items relating to review and assessment of examination procedures, examiner training issues, and examination policy and strategy, and scope and content of examinations of various entities.

¹³ Atkinson v. FDIC, 1980 WL 355660, *1 (D.D.C. Feb. 13, 1980); Consumers Union of United States, Inc. v. Heimann, 589 F.2d 531, 535 (D.C. Cir. 1978) (“Congress has left no room for a narrower interpretation of exemption 8”).

¹⁴ Consumers Union, 589 F.2d at 533.

¹⁵ Atkinson, 1980 WL 355660, at *1; see, e.g., Parsons v. FOIA Officer, Office of Consumer Affairs SEC, No. 96-4128, 1997 WL 461320 at *1 (6th Cir. Aug. 12, 1997); See Judicial Watch, Inc. v. U.S. Dept. of Treasury, 796 F. Supp. 2d 13, 37-38 (D.D.C. 2011) (information obtained through an ongoing supervisory process is “related to” examination reports); McKinley v. FDIC, 744 F. Supp. 2d 128, 143-144 (D.D.C. 2010) (documents created or obtained as part of agency’s continuous supervision of institutions “in the hectic days and hours during which the Board and its staff strove to assess the impact of a possible disorderly failure” protected by Exemption 8).

Conclusion

For the reasons discussed above, your appeal is granted in part, but denied to the extent of the material redacted under FOIA Exemptions 2, 5, 6, and 8. Because your FOIA appeal has been denied in part, you may seek judicial review pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(B).¹⁶

Sincerely,

Jelena McWilliams
Chairman

Good afternoon TFSS members,

Tuesday, September 6th is our next monthly TFSS meeting. September's meeting will be held via conference call. Draft minutes for August's meeting are attached.

Below is a draft agenda for the meeting – please let me know if you have any questions or would like to have an item included on the agenda. The draft UBPR budget for 2017 will be sent to the voting members of the agencies that fund the UBPR later this week. Also please give some thought to whether having an in-person meeting for the Annual Report Photo would be better for October's meeting or November's meeting. We have had this in-person meeting in November the past two years.
