2021-005	Ravnitzky	11/13/2020	I request a copy of any listings or inventories of restricted FOMC documents that can be located within a 2.5 hour time frame. By restricted, I generally mean Class I or Class II Restricted FOMC documents. I understand that a limited search would not necessarily locate any sort of comprehensive lists - I am looking for any lists or inventories that can be located relatively quickly.
2021-004	Ravnitzky	10/14/2020	Records identifying the ten Oldest still-restricted FOMC documents. Explanation: the FOMC tracks which documentation is restricted, I am interested in learning how old the oldest still-restricted documents are.
2021-003	Ravnitzky	10/14/2020	documents describing the classification/taxonomy/description of restricted types of information at FOMC, such as Class I, Class II, etc. These are mentioned in some of the published FOMC memoranda to the Committee.

I exclude from the search the "listing of memos" found on the FOMC public website, as those are already available. I UNDERSTAND THAT ANY SUCH LISTINGS MAY BE INCOMPLETE OR MAY ONLY COVER CERTAIN YEARS.
2021-001	Bell	10/8/2020	1. Records documenting or analyzing applied agency practices, including records documenting technical assistance, for the capture, preservation, and management of records from virtual communication tools, programs, and other meeting platforms utilized by the agency. 2019-019	Giesecke	6/10/2019	According to the Romer and Romer (2004) AER article there exist two "internal memos from the Federal Reserve showing the "expected federal funds rate." One covers the period from January 1971 to December 1984 and the other covers the period from December 1983 to September 1992. These memos are based on the Weekly Report of the Manager of Open Market Operations. In addition to numerical values, the memos contain brief remarks about the timing of moves and where, within a given range, the open market desk was aiming. These remarks make it clear that the series reflects Federal Reserve intentions rather than passive expectations or forecasts." The article by Romer and Romer (2004) states explicitly that those memos are public information. Despite extensive online research I was not able to locate those memos yet. Any help would be highly appreciated.

One showed the relation between member bank borrowing and market interest rates. The other compared the rate of increase in bank credit with the volume of member bank borrowing." 2017-006	Wang	12/2/2016	We need the historical DATA of the Open Market Operations as the website https://www.newyorkfed.org/medialibrary/media/markets/omo/omo96.pdf before 1995. 2017-005	Guo	11/29/2016	Prior to 1994, the market became aware of changes in the federal funds target rate through the size and the type of open-market operations of the New York Fed's trading desk. 2017-003	Guo	11/23/2016	I want to know where I can acquire the date and release time of the FOMC statements. The time is supposed to be accurate enough to meet the purpose of course and research. What's more, on a few occasions between 1990 and 1994, the FOMC issued, prior to the open market operation, a press release announcing a change in the discount rate offered to depository institutions, and market participants correctly inferred from the press release a corresponding change in the federal funds rate as well. Open market operations over this period were conducted at 11:30am every day. There are a few dates on which volatility in the federal funds market prevented the Open Market Desk from successfully communicating the FOMC's intentions for the funds rate the first morning after the FOMC's decision. So I also need the all the date when the Open Market Operations were conducted before 1995.

I would like to know if there has been any discussion between committee members of the Federal Open Market Committee or high-rank individual of the Federal Reserve on information leakage leading to the FOMC announcement. I am currently researching with my co-authors Oliver Boguth (Arizona State University) and Vincent Gregoire (University of Melbourne) why since 2011 there has been no/very limited evidence of information leakage leading to the FOMC announcement. We would like to see if the research paper of David Lucca and Emanuel Moench titled "Pre-FOMC Announcement Drift", who shows high stock returns leading to the FOMC announcement, led to discussion on how the Fed can avoid information leakage and what measures the Fed took to limit information leakages. This would help to strengthen our current research and show that the Federal Reserve has been successful at closing any potential valves of information leakage.

("FOIA"), I request access to and copies of a memo discussed by former Federal Reserve Chairman Ben S. Bernanke on page 4 of the transcript of the October 15, 2010, Federal Open Market Committee meeting (the ``Records"). Specifically, Bernanke says: "First, I was very disappointed, as I know many of you were, to see a few months ago some stories in the press that showed access to considerable inside information, including quotes of what people said at FOMC meetings, staff materials, and the like. I did circulate a memo on this problem, but we never discussed it as a group. I think it might be worthwhile to have some discussion of those kinds of issues collectively." Bernanke's reference to the memo for further discussion is supportive material to the FOMC's deliberations on information security at this meeting and subsequent meetings in 2010. The deliberations of those meetings are fully public as are most supporting materials. I am further requesting that the Records be provided to me on computer files or, if not maintained on computer files, in the same format as they are currently maintained at the Federal Reserve.

2015-012	Zhang	12/19/2014	I am looking for historical FOMC statements and minutes that goes back to as early as possible. Here is what I already have: http://www.federalreserve.gov/monetarypolicy/fomccalendars.htm gives me statements that only go back to 2009, and http://www.federalreserve.gov/newsevents/press/monetary/1996monetary.htm gives me the minutes that go back to 1996. I was wondering if you could provide historical FOMC statements and minutes that goes back to earlier than that (as early as possible)?

2014-028	Zhang	9/24/2014	I am looking for the exact time of FOMC statements released. For example, on this webpage: http://www.federalreserve.gov/monetarypolicy/fomccalendars.htm , for the FOMC meeting held at September, 12-13, 2012, the corresponding minutes shows that the statement was released at "09/13/2012, 12:30pm". This exact time is what I am looking for. As far as I know, FOMC has started to release the statement after each meeting since February 1994. However, on the FOMC website, I can only find such information from 2009. I was wondering if you could provide me a complete list of FOMC statements, and the exact time when they were released.
2014-027	Reisenbichler	8/27/2014	1.) Are there documents/memos/transcripts leading up to the decision to purchase agency debt and mortgage-backed securities (prior to the November 25 announcement)? I assume that decision was not made in a vacuum, so it is very likely that there are memos by the General Counsel, Scott Alvarez, to then Chairman Bernanke, or consultations of the Chairman with the FOMC. 2.) Who or what body made the decision to purchase these securities? The press release reads "The Federal Reserve announced on Tuesday that it will initiate a program to purchase the direct obligations of housing-related government-sponsored enterprises (GSEs)" But who is the Federal Reserve here -- the FOMC, the Chairman, the Board?

FOIA ID	Last Name	Received Date	Request Description
2014-026	Reisenbichler	8/5/2014	On November 25, 2008, the Fed released the following monetary policy statement: "Federal Reserve announces it will initiate a program to purchase the direct obligations of housing-related government-sponsored enterprises and mortgage-backed securities backed by Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, and Ginnie Mae." The statement reads further: "Purchases of up to $100 billion in GSE direct obligations under the program will be conducted with the Federal Reserve's primary dealers through a series of competitive auctions and will begin next week. Purchases of up to $500 billion in MBS will be conducted" This is also known as quantitative easing 1. However, there are no FOMC minutes or transcripts available for this decision. All the minutes/transcripts prior to November 25, 2008, do not mention or debate this decision. Given the historical importance of that decision, I am requesting any historical records that might be available (i.e., transcripts, etc.), which directly pertain to this decision.

As a reference point, the FOMC on Nov. 25, 2008, announced that the FRBNY would purchase $500 billion of the agency securities. I am requesting documents that show how the Fed reached the decision to purchase these securities given that, by the Fed's own admission, it was a new avenue of monetary policy. Thank you for your time. I am requesting expedited treatment as I am a reporter currently covering quantitative easing.

2012-009	LaBarre	3/27/2012	Records obtained or created from January 1, 2003 to the present regarding whether any website developed, procured, maintained or used by the above federal agency or its subdivisions to provide information or services to members of public complies with Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act, 29 U.S.C. §794d and 36 C.F.R. §1194. [Full request continues to include six categories]
2012-008	Rietz	3/26/2012	Apologies for the second form request. On 10/15/2010, I received a file from the FRB, pursuant to an FOIA request, that contains repurchase or “temporary open market operation” (TOMO) transaction data from 4/1/1996 to 7/7/2000. When comparing to the H.4.1 statements pre 10/6/1999 (incidentally, the date the Fed began to allow MBS repos), I found that the data provided to me does not match the H.4.1. For example, the 9/30/1999 H.4.1 shows the following repurchase holding figures for the day ending 9/29/1999: Treasury Repos: 5,220 Agency Repos: 11,183 MBS Repos: Not broken out by H.4.1 Total (calculated): 16,403 From the data file provided via the FOIA request, I calculated the following: Treasury Repos: 16,403 Agency Repos: 0 MBS Repos: 0 Total (calculated): 16,403 As you can see, the totals match, but the Treasury vs. Agency breakouts do not. This is true for many dates pre 10/6/1999. Would you provide insight into why I am running into this discrepancy? Thank you in advance for your help.
2012-007	Rietz	3/23/2012	In November of 2010, the Federal Reserve graciously fulfilled a data request I made for records of daily temporary open market operations (OMO) between 1996 and 2000 and permanent OMO between 1996 and 2005. As part of this request, I was informed that there were no OMO for agency securities during this time period, and hence no records. However, in looking at Historical H.4.1 releases, it does appear that there were temporary OMO in federal agency securities during this time period. For example, in the Oct 7, 1999 H.4.1, it shows that there was a one-week increase in federal agencies held under repurchase agreements in the amount of $820M. (first table at http://www.federalreserve.gov/releases/h41/19991007/). Would it be possible to for me to get this data. During this time period, there also appears to be a selling off of federal agencies bought outright. I suspect this is due to a maturing of such securities, but it is not possible to determine from the H.4.1 statements. Would you please verify that this is the case?
