Show Summary: Horatio is driven to find his brother's killer and protect the niece he never knew existed. The team explores voyeuristic Internet sites in connection with a stockbroker's murder. Eric is in the camera booth asking questions. Eric notes that there is no sound and the camera guy says it takes too much bandwidth. Then Eric notes that there is not really anything happening on any of the 40 cameras.

- Camera guy: "It's like a slot machine. People hope to click on a camera during an unscheduled event. Girls changing clothes, taking a shower."

The camera guy is watching hockey and is more interested in that than Eric's questions or the cameras in the sorority house. Someone misses a goal and the camera guy talks about the prowess of the hockey player.

- Camera guy: "He sucked then, too!"

Eric then asks him how many people are logged on right now.

- Camera guy: "153. Going up now because Tiffany is getting ready to use the tanning bed."
- Eric: "How do they know she's going to do that?"
- Camera guy: "She calls it appointment television."

There is a shot of Tiffany in the tanning bed room. She removes her bikini top and the side of one of her breasts is easily visible. When she unties the strings at the waist of her bikini, part of her bare buttocks are visible also.

- Camera guy: "230 hits and counting."

Tyler, the tech guy, shows Eric and Calleigh a tape that puts Amanda in the sorority house at 10 p.m. He shows them a tape of her in the shower, full nude, but no major glimpses of private parts.

- Eric: "She's fulfilling her contractual shower obligation. Consists of three showers a day, 20 minutes each."
- Calleigh: "What did she do after that?"
- Tyler: "Different camera. Her bed."

The tape shows Amanda going into her room and laying on the bed. She is only wearing a towel. The faces of Eric and the tech guy get a little more interested and intense and Calleigh gets disgusted. Then the camera shows just Amanda's face . She appears to be moaning and writhing in pleasure, masturbating off-camera.

- Eric: "I'm guessing, but I bet we can probably find thousands of witnesses all over the world who could corroborate her alibi."

Calleigh turns it off.

- Calleigh: "Then we do not need two more. Tyler, can you verify that the time hadn't been doctored?"

Tyler says he can and Eric says then Amanda is not guilty.

- Calleigh: "Not of murder."

After that statement there is another shot of Amanda's face and head during the masturbation video.

- Sara, Catherine, and others examine the body of Doodles the Clown; a murder victim whose body was found in a junkyard, crammed into a large tire. Sara makes the generalization that this is "tranny town," a place where transvestites meet up for anonymous sex. She refers to a broken down trailer as the "honeymoon suite". Doodles' body wears makeup and a pair of boxer shorts. Greg and Catherine find semen stains on the boxers and later discover vaginal fluids as well. Analyzing the body, they say that he has no marks on him and discuss possible causes of death, including being strangled during "rough sex play."
- Sara and Catherine go search the clown's apartment.

Catherine: "If he was hooking up in 'tranny town,' you'd expect to find some man on man porn, but all we've got here are varying flavors of jugs."

They listen to his phone messages and a woman's voice says: "I miss you and your big....feet."

Catherine: "You know what they say about big feet..."

- A flashback shows Mrs. Ween having sex with Doodles the clown. Her husband catches them while they are engaged in intercourse and smothers Doodles with a pillow. Catherine points out that the Mrs. Ween kept the clown suit after the murder and she and her husband used it as part of their lovemaking. A flashback shows her grinning and showing the suit to her husband.

Dear Federal Communications Commission,

I am writing in regard to an episode of CSI: Crime Scene Investigation that aired last night, Thursday, September 23, 2004 on CBS. It was called "Viva Las Vegas", Episode #501. It aired from 8pm to 9pm Central Standard Time.

My husband and I watched the show last night and were outraged at the explicit sex scene towards the end of the program. Two characters walked in on a couple engaged in a noisy and utterly blatant sexual act. The woman was moaning and groaning etc. and a man was standing between her legs and moving in a way to simulate sex. I glanced at my watch and saw that it was almost 9 pm. I thought that a lot of children would be up at that time and could be watching the show - and probably were.

We immediately turned the T.V. off. I don't remember every detail of this portion of the program so as to write more specifically. However, I'm sure it is possible for you to corroborate my observations.

We cannot stand to see obscene material like this come into our home. Please communicate strongly with CBS and let them know that obscenities like this are absolutely unacceptable, especially during a primetime program.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Solomon,

On behalf of the Parents Television Council and its million members, I am filing an indecency complaint against the Fox network television program, C.S. I: Las Vegas. The episode that contained the indecent material originally aired between 9-10:00 p.m. Eastern and Pacific and 8-9:00 Central on February 17th. This program was seen in homes across the country on CBS, and in Washington DC, the program aired on WUSA-9 TV.

This episode centers around an investigation of the death of a man named Bruce Eiger, who was found dead, clad only in boxer shorts, on the steps of his mansion.

In the opening moments, viewers see extremely graphic views of his bashed-in head and his blood-covered face. An investigator looks up at the balcony above and a flashback shows the man falling to the steps below. Another investigator says, "I smell crap." She photographs feces on the ground.

The scene shifts to the morgue, where Eiger's body is shown on an autopsy table. A medical examiner says: "From everything I've heard, this guy was a considerable ass. Speaking of which, from the damage to his sphincter, he suffered from repeated insertions."

"Rectal insertions?"

"Sizable. Matching peri-mortem bruises to the hips. The deceased had a peculiar rash around his genitals, slathered in ointments, it doesn't read as an STD I'm familiar with.

As the investigation proceeds, characters named Cy and Tonya are introduced. In one scene, Cy says, "Tonya, get your sweet little ass over to the piano." He eventually tells an investigator that the the reason phone records showed late night calls from the Eiger house to Cy is because "I'm banging his wife."

In a later scene, the wife, Donna, gets a phone call from Cy and she says she isn't surprised that he's dumping her, saying she knew she was nothing more than a "hate lay."

The investigators soon are amassing evidence that Eiger was a practitioner of a perversion referred to as "infantilism." He enjoyed dressing as a baby in diapers, defecating and having his diapers changed by Tonya — hired for the purpose of portraying his "mother-figure" in his perverted scenario — and suckling at her breasts.

The investigation uncovers a hidden room in Eiger's mansion where these perverted activities were carried out. It is decorated like a baby nursery with crib, bassinet, mobiles, a large rocking horse, and other toys. They also find enema bottles, and one investigator says, "Well, this could explain the repeated insertions."

Following up, two investigators visit an "adult baby store." One of them asks a woman employee of the store:

"I was wondering, in your line of work, do you ever wear a uniform or a dress?"

"No, but I could. Are you a drinker or a stinker?"

"Excuse me?"

"Well, a drinker likes to... [she gestures to her breasts] and a stinker... [she points to below her waist]."

The investigators conclude that Eiger was still alive after plunging from the balcony to the steps, where his wife discovered him. She acknowledges this, and admits she did nothing to help him, but simply waited for him to die. A flashback shows Eiger, face covered in blood, coughing blood on Donna's feet and ankles. There is an extreme close up on him as he chokes and coughs blood. The camera zooms in on his bleeding face and down into his throat as he gags on his blood.

Piece by piece, the investigators put together the puzzle. The scenario behind Eiger's death is finally revealed in highly disturbing flashbacks:

In the "nursery," we see Tonya in a pink nursing dress with cutouts at her breasts. Bruce is in his crib wearing a diaper and a baby bonnet, and is cooing and playing with his mobile.

Tonya: "OK, baby Bruce, playtime's over. I smell a smelly!"

Bruce is then shown laying face down on a large changing table sucking his thumb while she changes his diaper. With his head and sucking thumb in the forefront, she can be seen rubbing ointment on him (he is a very obese man and his buttocks are out of clear view). Then she puts LSD in his enema bottle and screws on the cap.

Next she is shown holding him in her lap; he is wearing a new diaper and she sings "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star" to him.

Back in the present, Tonya says: "And then he just started acting crazy."

Brass: "As opposed to soiling himself and gumming your nipples?"

Tonya: "Yes."

The flashback resumes: Bruce is freaking out, running around making strange noises as he hallucinates from the drug. He opens his diaper pail, pulls out a soiled diaper and, to the accompaniment of loud, squishing sounds, smears the feces on the floor.

Then he leaves the nursery and goes into the office. Tonya follows him and, she says, sees Bruce simply jump off the balcony.

But in another flashback we see Tonya running after Bruce through the house, telling him to fly like a birdie and Bruce saying, "I can, Mommy, I can," and then diving off the balcony. We see him hit the hard steps below face down; blood is everywhere.

I look forward to your timely judgment and response.

Sincerely,

Brent Bozell

Sirs,

I am protesting the vulgar and crude episode of CSI: Crime scene investigation, Nov. 18, 2004, 9:00 P.M. Channel 9 CBS WUSA. The depiction (simulated) of transgender individuals, stretched out on a coroner's table, minus a match, was bad enough. But the ultimate in grossness, was reaching into a waste bucket and displaying a (presumably) used latex pad, was enough to bring on the gag reflex. Amputations, head bailing, peeling flesh from cadavers, et cetera, is enough. Now this!

Dear Chairman Powell:

This is the first letter I have written to the FCC, but I felt totally compelled to do so.

On Thursday evening, November 18, on CBS, my husband and I watched CSI: Crime Scene Investigation. The segment was entitled "Ch-Ch-Changes." Heretofore, we have enjoyed this show. However, we were both so disgusted and cannot yet believe what we saw.

The plot revolved around men who were surgically changed to women. While I did not find the plot appealing, I know that gender "mistakes" do happen, and feel sympathy for those persons, male or female, who suffer from this anomaly. Towards the end of the show, the investigators looking into the deaths of such persons, broke into what I recall was a storage locker. They, and we, viewed in semi-darkness a body. The investigators hit the lights and we viewers saw a man, now with a female appearing face, lifeless on a table with his legs raised high in stirrups. To the shock of my husband and myself, the lower part of his body was covered in blood. Prior to this scene, there was mention, quite graphic, of just how a penis was altered to form a vagina. This was, I thought "over the top." But the bloodied body was so horrifying I gasped aloud and truly felt sick to my stomach. My husband, even today, cannot believe what he saw.

Please, Chairman Powell, do something about such horrific, sensationalism on television. It is not enough that we simply change the channel. Programs with such shocking, sexual scenes should, in the name of decency, be banned. I am still disturbed at what I saw. There was a warning at the beginning of the show as to violence, but this was way beyond anything I have ever seen. As inappropriate as it was for adult viewing, I shudder to consider the effect such a show had on those children viewers.

The Janet Jackson wardrobe malfunction pales in contrast to this show, although I was disgusted with that also. I have also stopped watching "Two and a Half Men" because of its total sexual themes.

In my opinion, CBS was so graphic it should be heavily fined.

I would appreciate an FCC response to my letter.

Complaint Summary:

I subscribe to basic cable for reception only. I live in a business district and I get bad reception. I do not pay for extra channels, because I do not like the nudity on tv. This program was not a premium channel and clearly showed woman's breast nipple and all up close atleast twice. If I wanted to see this kind of trash on tv or other wise I would pay for it or buy a dirty magazine. My children are also awake at 8:00.

I agree to the terms and conditions of the FCC's Privacy Policy and the Commission's Privacy Policy.

Complaint Summary:

The curse word "son of a bitch" was spoken. Profane words used to be beeped out when spoken on TV, but not that time.

When did that change? I have an 11 year old grandchild that watches TV sometime with us although she may not watch certain programs, she may overhear the language while in another room.

CBS has great TV shows. And we watch that channel more during the week than any other channel.

Thank you for resuming the "beeping" of profanity in your TV shows.

On the program, one lady called another a "whore." Also on the program, the word "bitch" was used repeatedly. Also, the word "bastard" was used. I find these words to be profane, not to mention the images of a lady being murdered by a nail gun and blood spilling from her body.

Complaint Summary:

Two people trying to have sex in an elevator
Numerous innuendos, but explicit

I am incensed with the producers of this program, because they have a good program and many watchers, so the sexual content was not necessary to gain viewers. Do they not have any conscience as far as our children are concerned. True, it will be said that the show doesn't come on until after 10:00, but what about all the teenagers in their rooms watching TV without supervision. True, the parents should be responsible for that, but it is not happening, so we as the universal community need to assume some responsibility for what will affect our lives on down the road.

Complaint Summary:

FCC,

It is inappropriate for the material this show (CSI) includes, graphic pictures of murdered people excoiling blood profusey, at a time when my children are watching TV. 7PM is way to early for this type of programming. 8PM is better but not a cure all. What happened to family entertainment?! I'm limited to watching the disney channel because you people will not reign in the big three or four broadcasters, allowing them to do pretty much whatever they please. Start enforcing the law and bring back proper viewing for all ages.

Thanks,

Complaint Summary:

This program was EXTREMELY offensive and repulsive. There was an accenting of grotesque views, body parts and repeated images of a dead deteriorated body. This was emphasized in addition to the usual sexual innuendos, bloody graphic dramatizations of violence, and caloused/robotic type discussion of of results and causes.

Besides being repulsed myself, I winced for the younger viewers, and was outraged to think of those whose friends or family may have died in similar ways and been exposed resulting in the damages zoomed to on the body under inspection.

For respect and civility, please have this producer change their mind-set and portrayals for the future, and pull or edit this CSI episode and any other ones released that are also beyond the pale.

Complaint Summary:

Started watching CSI NY with family. It was rated TV-14 LV. In the first minute the program showed a stripper performing her act, wearing an all but nothing bikini. She shook her butt and breasts in a provocative manner that was patently indecent, especially for the safe harbor hour in which the program was shown. The shows rating did not have the "S" sex descriptor in the rating so we thought that it was a safe program to watch. We were mistaken. With lots of children in the local viewing audience, 9:02 PM to air this kind of programming breaks the indecency standard for this broadcast area and served no artistic purpose other than to push the boundaries of decency yet again because you, the FCC chooses to be silent (again). Will it take another Janet Jackson incident before you come down on this constant "fudging" by the big monied networks?

Complaint Summary:

During a break from an NFL game, a commercial for CSI:NY showed a woman taking off her shirt and was then only wear a suggestive bra. I don't think that this content was a key to the storyline to be shown on CSI:NY, they were just using sex as a hook to get people to watch. This sort of commercial is not appropriate for my young children to see as they are in and out of the room as I am watching the NFL.

I was appalled at the sex scene that was televised on the recent show of CSI where the agents went undercover as a married couple (assasins). It was not only suggestive but left nothing to the imagination. We have already sold our Sattelite system, turned off all cable stations and have only 1 (one) channel that we can pick up locally with rabbit ears. People in America do not want the shows we watch to be raunchy! Get the message! Soon only the perverts and criminals will be watching, and learning new ways to be wicked, while any one with good family values will be off doing something healthy! Your sponsors will be sorry and maybe will not sponsor your programs any more, when they finally catch on. Thanks for your attention to this message.

Complaint Summary:

I have Dish Network Satellite service. About 4 minutes til 8 pm, I was flipping through the guide display and saw that Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer was coming on at 8pm on CBS. So, I changed the station to CBS and was excited that my 3 year old will see Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer program. I was shocked to see a commercial for CSI and Criminal Minds just less than a minute before a animated program. That commercial included satanic symbols, a woman in just a bra top, a dead body, etc. In my opinion they were previewing the following shows for the adults. However, the timing was inappropriate just before a kid program. Thanks for your time.

Gentlemen:

The International Staple, Nail and Tool Association is a not-for-profit association that promotes the safe use of power nailers such as those whose use was erroneously depicted in the "Nailed" episode of "CSI: Miami" which aired on November 14, 2005.

ISANTA and its members understand that television dramas often are improbable and may even depict product usage that is impossible (e.g. the "rifling" of a fastener "fired" from a powered nailer: it simply can't happen). We have no complaint with CBS' dramatizing the improbable and, even, the impossible.

However, when CBS crosses the line and erroneously and dangerously promotes the irresponsible, we are deeply concerned. It was completely irresponsible for CBS in the "Nailed" episode to state that the use of safety glasses would not be able to protect against a nail fired from a power nailer.

In fact, ISANTA and its members, as well as state and federal safety agencies, organized labor, safety organizations, contractors, and a host of others regularly promote the use of safety glasses. The use of safety glasses, including in conjunction with power nailers, provides real protection and avoids injuries.

Messrs. Freston and Moonves, Viacom Inc.

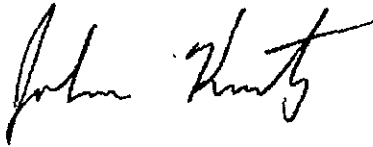

January 6, 2006

The popularity of "CSI: Miami" and the breadth of its audience exacerbates the irresponsibility of erroneously stating that safety glasses don't provide protection against power nailers. The show's forensic setting, style, and use of slow motion photography imply accuracy of content. CBS' program not only undermines the safety message so many knowledgeable parties have been promoting, but the television show's message actually encourages unsafe and dangerous behavior.

In the interest of safety, we urge that "Nailed" not be aired or otherwise be made available for viewing. In the alternative, and at a minimum, it only should be shown with an appended message explaining that eye protection does provide protection when using power nailers, and that eye protection always should be used.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "John Kurtz". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "John" and last name "Kurtz" clearly distinguishable.

"CSI: Miami" Episode Titled "Nailed"

Summary of Scenes Involving Power Nailer, 11-17-05

Page 2

Time: 12:30

Scene: Police firing range.

Details: Close-up of a pneumatic nailer. Investigator (female), wearing wrap-around safety glasses, is firing nails at a target. She is pulling the workpiece contact back with her left hand. Hose hangs from tool. No compressor is seen or heard. Target is about five paces away from investigator. Close-up of target shows round-head nails protruding from target.

Second investigator (male) enters and first investigator lets him fire nails. He dons similar safety glasses, commenting, "Yeah, like these things are going to stop a nail!"

Second investigator points tool and tries to shoot nails at target. Tool does not fire. He points tool toward his face to look at nose of tool. Close-up of tool. Nail point and perhaps 1/2 inch of nail shank are visible at nose of tool, inside circular, serrated nosepiece.

First investigator expresses alarm, cautions second to be careful, and explains that safety must be pulled back for tool to function. Second investigator says that the tool must have been pressed against the victim for tool to drive a nail. She replies that that was not the case since the nails were sticking out of the victim. He reasons that the nails had been airborne. She says that the nails were "8-penny nails, 2-1/2 inches long."

She fires another nail to demonstrate the operation of the "safety." Camera follows flight of nail, from perspective of looking down shank of nail, until just before it hits target. Nail travels through the air as would a missile, or arrow. At end of nail's flight the viewer is looking at nail which has stuck in target, protruding.

Second detective asks if it is possible to determine if this nailer was the murder weapon. First investigator explains that a distinctive mark is left on nail head each time "the piston strikes the nail." She walks to target and (relatively easily) removes the nail using pliers. Next scene is an animated cut-away view of tool showing a piston moving through a tool.

She puts the nail head under a microscope. Camera shows the rectangular impression (referred to as a "tool mark") on the nail head. (Nail heads appear to have been ground.) A side-by-side comparison of the nail head fired on the shooting range with a nail taken from the victim indicates that the tool used on the firing range was not the murder weapon.

Time: 32:50

Scene: Investigator searching construction site, looking for tool used in murder.

Details: He opens a door and is shot with a nailer by someone who was behind the door. He is hit close to the eye. Another investigator arrives at the scene, finds the injured officer and drives him to the hospital. This is the scene used in the opening moments of the program.

Time: 40:20

Scene: Hospital

Details: Doctor extracts nail from investigator's head with forceps.

Time: 41:00

Scene: Construction site. Investigator searching for clues as to shooting of injured investigator.

Details: One investigator states that this tool was not at the scene before. Red tool appears to be a cordless Paslode framing tool. Portion of safety alerting label ("Warning") is visible.

Time: 51:50

Scene: Crime lab. Split screen view of two nail heads. Obvious match! Investigators discussing crime.

Details: Discussion reveals that one nail is from murder victim and other nail was fired from tool found at scene described above (run time 41:00.) One investigator shows the other that the safety was broken, allowing tool to fire without being in contact with an object. Scene includes a close-up of the murder weapon tool firing a nail into the air.

Time: 54:30

Scene: During interrogation of murderer, a flashback to murder.

Details: Cordless tool used to fire four nails into victim from, perhaps, six feet away. Murderer appears to have both hands in handle area of tool.

Time: 56:30

Scene: Construction scene

Details: Flashback to shooting of investigator (back at 32:50.) Cordless tool was fired by person who was startled when investigator opened door to room she was in.

Complaint Summary:

Despite the fact that this show has great writing and is suspenseful, and despite my enjoyment in the past, I've had enough of the indecency for which CSI has exuded - specifically, towards the loss of human life. They purposely introduce graphic depictions of slain human beings. This type of "entertainment" is very offensive. It only serves to minimize the seriousness of the loss of human life. Humans are not animals! I do not share the majority of Hollywood/Es' worldview that demeans human beings like that. Sadly, I believe they even elevate the value of animals even above humans. If those were pictures of slain animals, I think there would be a disclaimer at the end of the show that said that no animals were hurt during the filming of this episode. Would you please do something about this?

Complaint Summary:

I just watched the first few minutes which was a pretty graphic love scene totally inappropriate, especially at 8:00. Titled something like "dorm room deaths" it showed a very hot and heavy removal of most clothes by a man and woman and them then proceeding to have sex. I felt it was indecent at any time slot on TV, but especially at the 8:00 time slot.

Complaint Summary:

Sexual activity during prime time. Also shows such as the Book of Daniel which begins 01/06/2006 on NBC is anti Christian from what I have read. There should be a standard which would hold the networks to create programming which would view Christianity in the same manner in which they look at Jewish, Moslem, Buddist and other religions. I am tired of them slamming Christians.

Complaint Summary:

The show opened with a scene depicting woman (viewed from behind) wearing only tight panties straddling a man and engaged in obvious sexual activity. At one point the woman bent over with her legs spread far enough apart that her panties rode up between the cheeks of her buttocks and were stretched so tightly over her vulva that it left little to the imagination. This was upsetting on several levels:

1. This was more appropriate for a soft-core pornographic video than prime-time over-the-air programming.
2. This was broadcast at 7:01 pm MST. It was the literally the first thing CBS aired this evening as part of its prime-time broadcasting.
3. This was done by the same organization that was fined heavily for Janet Jackson's "wardrobe malfunction" at the 2004 Super Bowl. Perhaps they didn't get the message, perhaps they just don't care, or perhaps they just don't understand what "indecent" means.
4. I had left the room for literally seconds, and when I returned the scene I described above was playing out on the TV while my 7-year-old son was watching.

Complaint Summary:

I turned on this show, which I had never watched before, about 15 minutes in at 9:15pm. Although I was aware that it was a crime show, and might contain some challenging content, I believe what was presented when far beyond the limits that I had a right to expect would be honored during prime time on network television. There were images of a chained woman, who had been horribly tortured, gnawing off her own hand. There was a scene of two mostly naked men who had been sewn to each other. There was a scene of a dominatrix whipping a man who had been chained to the grill of a car. I am an adult who has seen quite a bit and yet I found this material emotionally very disturbing. I can only imagine how disturbing it must have been to adolescents. Although I suppose I could have turned off the show, many of the most disturbing images were not presented until the last few minutes, after I had already been hooked by the story line. I believe that there is a forum for content like this, but I do not believe it is network television at prime time.

Complaint Summary:

Beginning of CSI:NY (episode name per their website is "Stuck On You") tonight showed a fairly intense sex scene. There was a quick flash of exposed breasts that just seemed a it much. A fair portion (before I gave up and stopped watching) of the rest of the show kept recreating that sex scene as it was also the crime scene.

I realize that this is a crime-drama, but they seem to take significant license in seeing how much they can push the envelope by placing these crimes in sordid situations and locations.

I appreciate your willingness to investigate.

Ms. Deborah Taylor-Tate
Commissioner
FCC
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, D.C. 20554

RE: Offensive Television

Dear Ms. Taylor-Tate:

Congratulation on being sworn in January 03, 2006, as a Commissioner for the FCC. Serving in this position will allow you to have a tremendous impact on the moral development of our children and youth. I know you will serve with integrity and an awareness of the awesome responsibility you have in this position. After reviewing your biography, I know you have a special concern for children.

I wish to bring to your attention that on CBS on January 05th, 2006, at 8:00PM, CSI was aired. I had watched Jeopardy and before I could change channels, the first scenes from CSI were on. These scenes were lewd and offensive. I am thankful I did not have my grandson present at that time. The storyline may be good, as I have heard it is, but the explicit scenes of two adults engaged in sexual activity is inappropriate for television. Ms. Taylor-Tate, this type programming is heavily responsible for the decline in respect for one another, for the decaying morals in easily influenced children and youth, and may contribute to the ever increasing rate of sexual crimes. This is not art, it is pornography.

While I do not agree with it, I do not wish to challenge the right of an adult to indulge in the viewing of porn. I do wish to have porn removed from network television and be available ONLY through pay per view. Most of all, I wish to see the type scenes shown on CSI called what they are - PORN. When and why were things allowed to digress to this low point? I will no longer keep quiet and allow further deterioration, if that is possible. I support decent television for family viewing.

RECEIVED

2006 JAN 12 P 3 18

As a consumer I will by copy of this letter contact the advertisers. I am only one, but I will make contact with others in my neighborhood, church, business affiliations and social groups. The time has come to say that I have had enough and seen more than enough. I am taking a stand for decency for the sake of my grandson and all the other children in the world. I will also send a copy of this letter to Mrs. Laura Bush. I am sure she will support my position and may advise me what other steps can be taken to remove obscene materials from television. CSI is not the only television show at fault. Daytime soap operas and many others are just as bad, if not worse. CSI was just the straw. Enough is Enough!

Please let me hear back from you concerning this matter.

Thank you

Complaint Summary:

The program hasn't aired yet but I saw the add for the episode last night. It is to be aired next Wednesday. The episode has a bunch of show girls or dancers that wear skimpy clothes. In the add it showed the girls in a locker room being questioned and one girl takes off her little shirt and is standing there for all the world to see in her red bra which hides nothing from the imagination. Please stop the episode from being aired. I'm so sick of seeing women taking their clothes off on tv!

Complaint Summary:

Every Crime Scene Investigation-and countless other television programs- are far more indecent, obscene, and profane than any program featuring overt sexuality or swearing!!

Every week Americans are subjected not only to the shows themselves, but commercials at all hours of the day- featuring DEAD, MUTILATED, TORTURED, ABUSED, MURDERED bodies- usually those of women. It is a travesty that the FCC thinks it needs to crack down on references to "bad words", or images of breasts or bottoms that actually are alive, healthy, and not the subject of violence.

You are a bunch of hypocrites, uptight about bad words, and anything that even smells of sexuality, while you continue to let our culture be titillated, then desensitized by images of violence. Shame on you!

Complaint Summary:

CSI aired a murder film where a man was tying up women with duct tape with their hands to the bedpost after drugging them. He then raped them. The TV show displayed graphic depiction of the occurrence with the women tied down and dazed, along with detailed photos of their injuries, bruises on legs, etc. Content was vulgar and too detailed as to the actual occurrence.

Complaint Summary:

The word "bastard" was used 3 times during the program and "pissed off" once, plus "bilch" was used twice. As a learner I found it bad enough to have to endure when I had to work with it, but as a Ham Radio Operator and since my retirement, I fail to understand why we are having to listen to these words in our living rooms. I am aware of the 20 meters activity too and I don't approve and I don't use that band. The FCC needs to use a heavier hand and make believers of these people.

KCBS(TV)

Complaint Summary:

CSI Thurs. 9 pm (Pac. time), CBS. They showed a sex scene sped up in fast motion between a man and a prostitute showing them strip naked engaging in sex acts together and spoke of oral sex and finding pubic hairs in his mouth, saying "he died with a smile on his face", and "that's not all". They also spoke of the man having vaginal secretions in his ears and all the orifices of his body. This is the most graphic indecent and obscene thing I have ever seen on TV which suprised me because usually this show doesn't venture into that obscene material. Please protect us from this kind of blatant disregard for decency on TV. I watch the show for the crime solving but turned this one off and I don't want this or any show to think they can get away with venturing into this perversion. It was sadistically profane in addition. Thank you Tom Fenholt

Complaint Summary:

The TV was left on and when I walked into the room and looked at the TV I saw a man taking off a woman's dress. She had no bra on and most of her breast was shown from an angle that showed her bare back and side. For me to see something like this is against my moral values and is an assault on the covenants of marriage that I have entered into! I would have reported the incident sooner, but it took me awhile to find the program details and this site to allow me to report. Thank you for looking into this matter.

Complaint Summary:

A preview of the CSI: Miami show showed graphic footage of a dead bloody body and two individuals bungee jumping in the nude. This is simply not appropriate footage for a family oriented, prime-time show at an hour at which it is likely to be viewed by children.

Complaint Summary:
 Note To FCC: I sent the comment below to the WCBS website.; Dear Sir or Madam.; I object to the continuing occurrence of graphically violent advertising of your prime-time shows on a Sunday afternoon sports broadcast.; Once again, my young children and I were forced to deal with the images of violent death during commercial breaks in the 1pm NY football game, specifically promo ads for CSI , where a corpse with a bloody head wound was shown several times during one commercial alone.; Have you no sensitivity to those of us with families?; Is there not a way to advertise these shows without these graphic images? Or is the level of writing and talent so poor that only gruesome images sell these shows?; I have called representatives of your network in the past regarding this issue.; I will be sending a copy of this comment to the FCC also.; I welcome your response.; Thank you, [REDACTED] Nissequogue , NY.

Complaint Summary:

Obscene as in nudity of death figures, sexual implications from all death scenes, language used to 'describe' such, and repeated acts of visuals of how it all happened in each segment of the death scene. Acts of violence repeatedly shown. Especially CSI is guilty of this repeatedly. Pictures of victims shown repeatedly in each show. I don't like any of it, but my husband views such and it affects my marriage, I can't talk to him during these, and it destroys communication of marriage subjects. He watches such, and has no desire to love me as a result of these shows, or it would appear to be that to me. It is destroying marriages. That is why I object to all of these shows. I can talk to him, but he doesn't have any romantic desires as a result of these shows. But he wouldn't admit it.

Complaint Summary:

The title of the episode is "Suicide Girls". The program begins with a senior in high school and follows her to New York where she joins the suicide girls. Then they show inside a nasty lude club where the SG's are dancing on an elevated stage. One girl is scantily clad dancing around a pole in a very provocative and suggestive way. The camera angle is from below her and close on her rear end shooting up her very short pant legs at her partially exposed cheeks while she behaves provocatively. Couples (of girls) are dancing in suggestive ways together as lesbians dressed in morbid Halloweenish clothing. They dump a bath tub full of a red substance looking like blood all over the girls on stage. Throughout the program, the audience hears (what I call) indecent conversation and sees indecent dress and behavior. The subject matter is indecent. This should be investigated for indecency. I was appalled.

Associated Case:

Complaint Summary:

I was watching the NY Jets game with my 10 year old son when a commercial break was aired.; CBS aired a commercial for their TV show CSI NY. The commercial started with what was obviously a sexual encounter between 2 people . After that, commercial shows; 1. A woman screaming at a dead woman, whose body is bloodstained, and hanging upside wearing only her underwear; 2. A dead man propped up against a tree with what looks like fake "open" eyeballs placed on his eyes; 3. Someone removing a sheet to uncovering a dead person, whose eyes are opened with red eyelids and dirt on her face as if she was buried; 4. A dead woman laying on a white table, with a severe, bloodied wound on her neck. She seems to be holding a silver bar that has pierced her neck. She is also naked from the just a smidgen of her lower private area up. Her private area is covered by what I would say are 3-4 inches of pink garmet.; You can view the actual commercial I am writing about by going to http://www.cbs.com/primetime/csi_ny/; and clicking on "Next on CSI NY" "Watch Now"; I would submit that this commercial is indecent by FCC standards and should not be shown during a broadcast that is rated as acceptable for all audiences, such as a football broadcast.; Do you not agree that the images that I describe should not be viewed by a child? If the viewer knows that a broadcast is TV MA for instance, they have the option of not watching it with a child, but if I am watching a G rated show like this game. I have no warning that commercials may be obscene and am stuck wathing It with my child.; If the FCC has a rating system for TV shows, why does the FCC not have a rating system for commercials? Especially commecials that are for TV MA shows or the like.; I am interested in hearing your opinion.; Thanks; [REDACTED]; A dead person with eyes painted all over their body; Another o

The preview for the show displayed a quick show of a male and a female having sex from the side. The audio also had the sounds of them having sex. I am sure this is considered in appropriate when it is before 9:00 and many families watch shows such as the show I was currently watching "The Amazing Race".

Complaint Summary:

Three times in this program the word "piss" was used.; Agent Gibbs was arguing with an Army Colonel and she commented about "getting into a pissing match" with each other.; And later Agent Denoso was talking to the son of the murder victim and they said "pissed off" twice.; At one point, Agent Denoso was also looking down Agent David's shirt and telling her that he was. She responded asking if he liked what he saw.; This is all sick and deplorable content for television and needs to be stopped.

Complaint Summary:
 This program had a PG (V) rating indicated in the upper left-hand corner of the program, so I let my daughter watch it. It included a very quick segment of a man in bed, on top of a woman (who was, at least, wearing a bra on her upper body). They were clearing acting out a love scene until the man collapses to the side - possibly unable to ejaculate. Totally irresponsible to display such material at such a time and with such a rating. You are the only people who have the power to do anything about this filth...please help.

Complaint Summary:

During the commercial break for CSI: Miami and during the news broadcast afterward, krem 2 explicitly showed the crushing of a pedestrian by a vehicle which ran a red light. This was run by the network with no warning of the graphic nature of the images. I feel that though this type of imagery can be shown by networks in the late evening, video of a person being crushed by a vehicle should be preceded by a warning to the nature of the clip before viewing. The video was very graphic and it appeared as though the pedestrian was killed. Sure, it got the point across, but they did not need to show the unfortunate death of a person to do that. My main concern is children that may still be up before the 11:00 hour. By the end of the 11 o'clock news cast the video of the pedestrian being crushed was run 5 times without a single warning about the nature of the video.

Complaint Summary:

I don't know what your agency deems as indecent. But after all your fining, redefining and crack downs on nudity, vulgarity and gestures. You have succeeded in doing nothing more than allowing these networks to replace sexual indecency with mortal indecency. Not even the news media will, or perhaps can, show a dead body or an autopsy. Yet, night after night there is absolutely nothing said about these networks and their grossly intense portrayal of deaths (i.e. bodies decapitated, dismembered and especially at autopsy, along with the absolutely horrid recreation of wound created, as they happen, with all too realistic effects. Your agency was created by and for the American public, to use your collective best judgements in the best interest of the public. Not to simply rest on your rules and regulations until something controversial comes along only to create more to regulate the situation at hand. Indecency comes in many forms and any and all of it should be regulated in any and all forms of media. Anticipate rather than regulate-after the fact.
